

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEPT. 3, 1915.

Children's Ambulance Fund of Nova Scotia.

The children of Nova Scotia who desire to help our soldiers at the front are asked to save their pennies for an Ambulance Fund. Children in other parts of the Empire have undertaken to provide ambulances, and the offerings from the children of Nova Scotia will also be used to advantage in alleviating the suffering of our brave soldiers who are risking their lives for us on the battle line.

His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, the Governor General; the Honourable J. D. McGeer, Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia; and the Honourable G. H. Murray, Premier, endorse the proposal. Dr. A. H. McKay, Superintendent of Education, has given his official sanction to the school children's participation in this fund.

It is intimated by the authorities at the War Office that the gift of an ambulance from the children of Nova Scotia would be most acceptable. The War Office states that an ambulance of regulation pattern would cost about $450 or $2,500. After delivery, the British Government will arrange for its maintenance.

If each child in Nova Scotia were to give an average of 10 cents, which is equivalent of the amount asked from the children in Great Britain, the money so collected would be sufficient to purchase more than one ambulance. No specific sum is set for any child, and any amount from one cent up may be contributed and forwarded through the principal or teacher of the school. It is important, in view of the urgent need, that the money be collected as early in the month of September as possible, and sent in by Sept. 27th. Supervisors, Principals and Teachers of the schools are, therefore, requested to call the attention of the children to this object, to invite their contributions, and to forward these to Mrs. J. S. McLennan, Treasurer Children's Ambulance Fund, Petersfield, Sydney, Nova Scotia, by whom all donations will be duly acknowledged. Address all communications to Mrs. J. S. McLennan.

Booming Nova Scotia Apples.

The contest of the six tree tips to the Maritime Provinces, which has created such great interest throughout the six New England states, has closed, and the winners have been announced as follows:

For the three tree tips via the Yarmouth line the following ladies lead the list: Mrs. M. Lawrence Barn, 9 Morrell Place, Lynn; Miss Adela Ober, 88 1/2 Chatham street, Lynn; Mrs. W. S. Haslow, 21 Franklin Avenue, 5 Spanscott.

The winners via the International line are: Mr. A. J. Hayes, Pemberton Square, Boston; Mr. Fred W. Davenport, 14 Holyoke street, Malden; Mr. G. W. McGray, 62 Albion street, Medford. The largest list contains over 5000 names.

The contest has been declared a pronounced success, over 71 persons sent in lists, and a mailing list of over 50,000 names of persons formerly from the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland being obtained.

The purpose of the mailing list is for shippers to circularize such persons in New England to buy Nova Scotia and New Brunswick apples, and the slogan "Buy a barrel of Nova Scotia apples" has been adopted.

It is expected that the result of this original method of advertising will be to boom the sale of Nova Scotia apples throughout New England this season.

The following committee decided on the winners after carefully comparing lists: F. A. Tupper, President Canadian Club of Boston; Richard E. Johnston, Vice President Inter-colonial Club; Theo. P. Anderson, Secretary of the New England Shoe and Leather Association.

Health Is Wealth.

(Issued by the Department of the Public Health.)

An eminent English statistician, Dr. Farr, from a study of the experience of the mutual insurance organizations in London, estimated that for every death recorded there is an amount of sickness which might be stated as sufficient to confine a person to bed for two years. An application of this estimate to Nova Scotia indicates that during the last statistical year the amount of sickness in the province would account for nearly 5,500,000 days of confinement to bed. The enormous cost of sickness can be at once appreciated.

Considerably more than half the deaths occurred during the productive years of life, so that to the cost for medical attendance, nursing and medicines, we must add the loss of income entailed through approximately 3,000,000 days of illness.

It is generally conceded that there is no other factor so potent in the production of poverty, degeneracy and crime, as ill health. It is well recognized that nothing is so essential to efficiency, success and the thorough enjoyment of life as good health. As the struggle for place and even for existence becomes more intense, in the face of competition which is constantly growing keener, the need for sound health becomes steadily greater. No community need hope to make substantial advance unless it attends well to the measures necessary to maintain its people in a healthy, virile state. Any insanitary condition may be a menace to the

The Nova Scotia Lads.

Grace McLcod Rogers, of Amherst, the well known Nova Scotian writer, in a recent number of the Canadian Courier, tells a simple, true story of ten Nova Scotia lads who, not many years ago, were members of a football team, out of whom seven are now serving at the front or are enroute. The story was suggested by a group picture of the lads 'clustered in semicircle about the centre youth' who proudly holds the football of the team. On the football is printed in letters plain to read, 'Rangers, 1906.' The story is such excellent evidence of what Nova Scotia is really contributing of Canadian born, that it is given as follows:

'1906! They were lads of twelve and thirteen, the boys of the neighborhood—sons of the judge, the bankers, the barristers and the merchantmen of the town, and this was their first essay at team work. How eagerly they planned the personnel, how importantly they framed their rules and saved their pocket money for the coveted pig-skin, arranging matches with down town opponents, and at the close of the season triumphant over all their foes, they gathered for this picture group. Ten sturdy little forms in the clustering chairs. Teeny, eager, winsome faces looking straight into your eyes. O, the world was all before them and the way seemed bright and fair!

'1915! Nine years. Where are the boys of that clustered group? From High School they separated for College to Acadia, Mt. Allison, Dalhousie and Kings they went. Presidents of their classes, captains of football and hockey, leaders of debate, winners of prizes—fitting themselves for their share in the world's work—some moved to the west, others to neighboring cities, varied interests called them various ways and they seldom met.

To-day the two of the group who are my own, are crossing overseas, to serve their King and Country, and as I sat in the late afternoon, thinking wistfully of them, suddenly this picture of the 'Rangers' met my gaze. The smiling sun threw a beam of gold upon it, and every little eager, boyish face shone clear and plain, as though the lads themselves sat before me. I counted them over, thinking of one, and another, and another, who beside my own had joined the colors, and I saw to my wonder that nine of the ten had enlisted for their country's service!

The little group was transfigured! It was the Hero's Ship of old!

What had so stirred their young souls. What had moved them to offer up the supreme gift, their lives, with all their promise, for their Country and the Cause?

It was not in the first flush of the war that they had answered, when and where the sirey of England's safety and victory seemed certain, but in later weeks, after 'Ypres' and 'Langemarck' when they knew the cost. What should call these merry youths from college halls to battle-field afar!

Only two who are mine were mine to deal with personally. 'It is our bounden duty to go,' said they, when they came from college to claim our consent. 'We are unlettered, healthy, and not actually needed at home, and for us to remain for selfish motives would controvert every result of our upbringing, every fibre in our character, and every obligation to the land which gave us birth.'

'The hot tears blinded and I could not see. And the pain of it stabbed the heart of me.'

And I said, 'But we have been waiting so proudly for you to be out in your chosen calling, taking your place in Canada.'

Quick they answered: 'We would not feel like taking our place in Canada if we failed her in this time of need, and what we consider to be our duty and our service, that we should render, no matter at what cost to feelings or ambition you have always taught us that.'

'But are you willing to give up your lives? You must face that squarely,' I said, seeking still to prove them—and myself as well for they looked so fine and strong and young.

'If we tried to save our lives in this way we should lose them in another,' was the simple answer.

And I was humbled at their strength, and awed, and filled with pride at such an uplift of spirit. Who was I that I should meddle with a man's soul! And I said them yea and so fared they forth.

And so fared they forth, all of them, from the mothers of them—the college gowns folded away, the books and the sporting toys thrust aside. They are men, they—and the King's pose—and all that wonderful host of youth—the opening flower of Britian's manhood, too soon made men, out on a nation's errand!

O little band of 'Rangers' of the long ago.

I lift my heart to you, and love you! O noble band of 'Rangers' of to day, I salute you!

The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make His face shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee; the Lord lift up His countenance upon us all, and give us Peace.

Death's Harvest.

The death occurred on Monday morning last, at her home on Summer street, of Mrs. Margaret A. Davison, widow of the late J. B. Davison, Mrs. Davison last resided in Wolfville since 1899 and at the time of her death was in her 77th year. While in declining health for some time no unusual illness accompanied her passing. On Saturday she enjoyed a drive, and she retired on Sunday evening apparently as well as usual. She died in a tranquil slumber, as she had lived, gently and quietly. She leaves surviving her five children, Mrs. G. W. Cox, War. Mass.; Miss Florence E. Davison, with whom she resided; Miss Isabel H. Davison, of the teaching staff of Beverly Academy, Beverly, Mass.; Mr. R. G. Davison, of this journal; Rev. Dr. Harold S. Davison, of Lisbon, New Hampshire; and A. L. Davison, M.P., of Middleton. Mrs. J. D. Martin, of Jasper, is a sister, and Mr. Henry Davison, of Lockhartville, is a brother of the deceased. The funeral took place on Thursday, the Rev. G. W. Miller officiating.

MR. CARROLL C. MCKEE
and an able corps of assistants, including

Miss Madeline Bryont, L. R. A. M., Violin
Miss Minnie Caudie Newey, Voice
Miss Zaida Gaines and Miss Maydell Camblin, Oratory; will reopen Wednesday, Sept. 8, 1915, at 9 o'clock.

In connection with the work of the Normal Course of the Piano-forte Department the following announcement is of interest. Pupils, boys and girls, who have had none or little instruction in Piano-forte, may have the advantage of good teaching under the personal supervision of Mr. McKee. In the Fall Term 20 lessons and in the Winter Term 24 lessons will be given at the average cost of 20 cents per one-half hour lesson. In order to secure this rate at least six pupils must be enrolled. This is a fine opportunity for grounding pupils in Piano-forte study in accordance with the best methods. For further particulars see the Director, Mr. C. C. McKee.

At a recruiting meeting held at Berwick last week our townsmen, Col. N. H. Parsons, as reported in the Berwick Register, stated that he expected to be in the trenches in a few weeks. 'He,' says the report, 'would not go alone. His two sons were offering themselves and would be with him.' Every citizen of Wolfville will be gratified to learn of the patriotic course to be taken by Col. Parsons and his two sons. Wolfville's contribution to the 49th Battalion has not been as large as we might wish but this additional piece our town is a much prouder position.

Boy Scouts.

The Boys have been working hard for their trip to Halifax, which was to have taken place during Exhibition. A Field Day for all the Scouts in Nova Scotia was to have been held and our boys were anxious to carry off the honors.

However a satisfactory arrangement could not be made by the Exhibition Com. and the Railway people. The Provincial Council has called the Tournament off for the present. To make up for this disappointment a competition will be held among the Wolfville Boys on Saturday, Sept. 4th, and Monday, Sept. 6th, in those events which were to be held in Halifax. The two leaders in this competition will be given free trip to the Halifax Exhibition.

Called to Church in East.

REV. N. A. HARKNESS, OF GRANDVIEW, GOING TO WOLFVILLE. Another Vancouver clergyman is to return to Eastern Canada, this time in the person of Rev. N. A. Harkness, who has accepted a call to Wolfville, N. S. After four years of successful work in Vancouver, Mr. Harkness has resigned the pastorate of Grandview Baptist church. His going will be deeply regretted both by his own people and the community where his influence has been very wide.

Miss Parker, of Belle Isle, who was a member of our public school teaching staff last year, and who made many friends, does not return this term, having accepted a position in Belle Isle. The public school opened last Monday with a good enrollment. Miss Beckwith, of Sheffield's Mills, and Miss Hicks, of Westport, are the teachers.

Nine new automobiles have been purchased by residents here this season, the latest being a Ford, delivered to Mr. James by Mr. F. J. Porter; and an Overland, delivered to Mr. Allison H. Caldwell by Mr. Black.

Mr. Guy Blackney, of Wolfville, who so acceptably conducted the Baptist church services recently will occupy our pulpit next Sunday, morning and evening. Miss Mabel Westcott, of Melancon, is the teacher at Lakesville this term.

Mrs. Russell Kennis, left last Friday for Marlboro, Mass., where she will visit friends for a few weeks. She was accompanied by Mrs. Gordon Martin, of Boston, who has spent the summer with relatives in this Province.

Mrs. Sheridan and her daughter, Miss Louis, of Boston, and Mrs. Dumas and her son Walter, of Texas, who have been visiting friends here, started on their return trip last Tuesday.

Messrs. Fred Irvine and Johnson Miner, are spending the autumn in the West, having gone on the harvesters' excursion.

The judges appointed for the 1915 Field Crops contest in the various counties of the province, spent last week at the College of Agriculture Farm for special instruction in the work, under the direction of Mr. S. J. Moore, Dominion Seed Inspector. The judges for this year are all graduates of the College, and during their course gave particular attention to the study of field crops. Their work under Mr. Moore was to aid them in acquiring a common standard of judging. They have now gone to the various counties to judge the fields of wheat, oats, potatoes and turnips.

Mr. Eddie Hennigar, of the firm of Hennigar Bros., this town, will spend the autumn in western Canada, having left with the harvesters' excursion last month. He was accompanied by Mr. Sam Trenholm, of Grand Pre. Other young men who went from Grand Pre are Messrs. Harry Ege and Fred Harvey.

From recent Portland newspapers: Mrs. H. B. Starr, of Wolfville, N. S., who has been the guest of Mrs. C. G. Newcomb, Yeager street, went to North Conway today where she will visit Miss Edith Sheehy and her sister, Mrs. Gibson, at their summer home there.

Mrs. H. E. Starr, of Wolfville, N. S., who this week is the house guest of Miss Edith Sheehy, Danforth street, has frequently visited in the city and is being pleasantly greeted. Last evening Miss Sheehy entertained a small party of friends informally in her honor when a most delightful evening was passed.

Personal Mention. (Contributions to this department will be gladly received.)
Mrs. R. DeW. Archibald is spending a few days at Bedford.
Rev. R. F. Dixon is spending his vacation at New Britain, Conn.

SHARP ATTACK REPULSED

Dangerous Condition Relieved Just in Time By "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. F. J. CAVEEN 632 Gerrard St. East, Toronto, For two years, I was a victim of Acute Indigestion and Gas in The Stomach. It afterwards attacked my Heart, and I had pains all over the body, so I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of medicines but none of them did me any good. At last, acting on the advice of a friend, I decided to try Fruit-a-tives. I bought the first box last June, and now I am well, after using only three boxes. I recommend Fruit-a-tives to anyone suffering from Indigestion, no matter how acute.

Alcohol. There stalketh a fiend o'er the glad, green earth, By the side of the reaper Death; He dazzles alike with the glare of mirth, Or stifleth the light of the household hearth With his foul and withering breath. He stalketh abroad with his hydra head, And there gathereth in his train—The falling fool and the strong man's tread, The restless living, the ghostly dead, And misery, want and pain. He nerves the arm of relentless hate, With the goblet's beaded foam; He lurks in the halls of the rich and great, In the beggar's moon at the palace gate, And curses the poor man's home He grudgeth the poor their daily bread, And filleth the drunkard's bowl With want and woe, remorse and dread, With a servless hand and a failing DOCTORS DID NOT HELP HER But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Bradley's Health—Her Own Statement. Winnipeg, Canada.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth. The doctors said it was a tumor and could not be removed as it would cause instant death. They found that my organs were affected, and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. "After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper, and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 254 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba, Can.

BRENT INHERITANCE Case Made Lawyer Famous and Happy.

By HAROLD CARTER. "Yes, the Brent case made me famous, I suppose," said the old lawyer thoughtfully. "At any rate, I am sure that it was the foundation of my fortune. Also, it gave me more real happiness than any case I have ever tried. You see, young Mrs. Brent deserved the inheritance if ever any woman deserved one. She actually redeemed her husband, had made a man of him—let me tell the story in my own way.

Brent Inheritance. (Continued) "Theodore Brent was one of those pompous, self-sufficient, heartless, and withal scrupulously honest men whom Massachusetts used to turn out in the middle of the last century—a sort of transplanted survival of the John Bull type. I believe it is still flourishing in the old country. Ralph inherited his father's business instincts and was slated for succession to the company after the father's death. Jack was spendthrift, a wild young fellow, who was dismissed from Harvard, drank, gambled, and broke his father's heart—what there was of it. Withal, he had done nothing worthy of being disinherited. However, his father sent him west for five years to make a man of himself, falling success in his operation the money went to go entirely to the elder brother.

Brent Inheritance. (Continued) "When Jack Brent wrote home, a couple of years later, that he was married to an actress, the father, with the old prejudice against the stage, wrote back informing his younger son that he had cut him out of his will for good and all. He politely invited him to go to the devil and told him never to show his face in the east again. "Ralph was not quite so quiet as his father imagined. In fact, when Jack was open-hearted and open-handed, Ralph was close-fisted and secretive, and that was mainly the difference between them. Jack had never had a chance. When old age softened the old man's acerbity somewhat Ralph began to initiate him into the pleasures of life. Among other things, he inspired him with a passion for motor

He is a graduate of the Royal Military College and a former inspector of the North-west Mounted Police. Brent Inheritance. (Continued) "That was where I came into the story. For the will was so drawn that if the father died first all the property—valued at about six millions—went to the son and his heirs. As there were no heirs this meant that the distant relatives would inherit. But if the elder son died first the will became null and void, and the property went to Jack, who was then ranching in California. His wife had made him a successful man in a small way—but I wanted her to get the money with all my heart. And I did not want it to go to the flock of vultures who came out of the uttermost parts of Massachusetts, greedily demanding their moiety. You see, I had sought out and found Mrs. Jack, and her soft voice and gentle ways went right into my heart, and stayed there. And the thing that most astonished me was that she did not seem to care whether she got the money or not. "Well, the case came up for trial. Ferdinand Quip, the famous legal light, appeared for the claimants, and the decision seemed inevitable. Williams, after witness called by Brent had survived his father by several minutes. I went home feeling pretty blue the evening after the other side had rested its case; and yet, the harder I thought, and the more hopeless our chances seemed, the more I determined that Mrs. Jack Brent should get what ought to have been coming to her.

Brent Inheritance. (Continued) "We had offered to compromise for a quarter share, and our offer had been most impudently laughed at. The claimants seemed sure of their case, as did Quip, who bullied Mrs. Jack unmercifully, dragged out her part into the light, and called her a designing actress and a worthless schemer. "It may be more interesting to most other people's business, but it is more profitable to mind your own. The man who thinks he can learn, thinks a great truth. You will never push yourself forward by passing upon the back. Let's be of good cheer, remembering the misfortunes hardest to bear are those that never happen. Some men are ground down on the grindstone of life while others get polished up. It depends on their kind of stuff. Falls that never do any more than they get paid for, except to pad for lawyers like you.

CANADIAN OFFICER OF FIGHTING FAMILY

Colonel Victor Williams the Son and Grandson of Men Who Fought For Flag

Leut.-Col. Victor Arthur Seymour Williams, whose name has become well known to Canadians since the outbreak of the war, was born in 1886 at Penryn Park, Port Hope, Ont., and spent his boyhood and youth in that neighborhood.

The Williams family was founded in Canada, says W. A. Craik, writing in the Toronto Star Weekly, by John Tucker Williams, an officer of the Royal Navy, who was sent out during the war of 1812-15 to take command of a gunboat on Lake Ontario. After the war was over he decided to remain in Canada and accordingly settled at Port Hope. He was again active in a military way in 1837 when he took command of the Durham Regiment, which had been raised to assist in quelling the rebellion of that year.

His eldest son, and the father of Leut.-Col. Victor Williams, was Arthur T. H. Williams, who was born in 1837. Colonel Arthur Williams is known to fame as the hero of Batoche, and a fine monument to his memory stands in the market square at Port Hope. A lawyer by profession, he served his town in many capacities. At Confederation he was the B. I. C. member elected by East Durham to the Provincial Legislature, and in 1897 he was returned to the House of Commons as member for the riding of Port Hope. He was also the commanding officer of the 46th Regiment, seeing service during the Fenian invasion and again during the North-west rebellion.

He saw active service in South Africa, was twice mentioned in despatches and gained the Queen's Medal with five clasps. A thorough soldier, he has behind him the training and tradition of two generations of sturdy, self-reliant Canadian forebears.

HOSPITAL HEROISM Wounded Soldier Smoked During a Painful Surgical Operation. We have been kept on the move day and night for five days straight off. But are we downhearted? No! We are actually just beginning to like it! We said a letter from Corporal C. Meyer, of the Royal Army Medical Corps, to a friend at Woodbridge. The wounded soldiers we treat in never finish or make a murmur. We had a very touching case yesterday. A chap got hit by shrapnel in his back, and was severely wounded. We took him to the operating theatre, and, as they had just run out of chloroform, the surgeon told him he must bear it if he could.

They cut the flesh away, and the poor chap stuck it all without a groan, and smoked his pipe all the while. He is now getting on well. I am very happy to relate.
