plank, and almost instantly sink. If the people in the boats had remained and worked, all might have been saved.

It is unnecessary to publish any more of the testimony, as we believe the foregoing contains all the facts elicited in the enquiry. The only person who appears to have seen the ladies after the final breaking up of the vessel was Mr. Cameron. He says:

"We were nearly all sitting together, except two or three who were aft. As she went over, the ladies went down, as I suppose. I and another man kept up, and got on her bottom, as it turned upwards. The others were all washed off, I took hold of the paddle box and wheel, as it was going over, but was washed off in a few minutes. I was in the water some minutes, when I took hold of a piece of wood , it was so small it was of no use and I threw it away. I then got hold of what I thought was a part of the hurricane deck, and got upon it. I looked round and saw three ladies, two of them clinging together, the third was much exhausted; the two who were together were trying to reach some pieces of the wreck. A man whom I suppose to be Thomas Hammil who was near me on a small piece said, he wanted to get on with me; I tried to reach it but a sea came and parted us and I saw neither him nor the ladies again. I then saw Mr. Wilkins and others on a piece of the wreck for a little time, it might be ten minutes when we parted and I saw no more of them.

I still saw the water was gaining; they were all working very manfully atthat time. Dr. McKensie and Mr Lydiard were, very bary seeming to take charge of the gangs and working too. They continued on till the water got three feet in the hold, and she was listing very heavy, and we concluded to lower down the hoat off the lower side; we lowered her down with a good rope to her, sufficient to hold her. Mr Turner jumped into hex, and dropped her satern, to keep her clear of the rope fast, and gan her a good blay so she would ride. Came. In between decks, and walked for and aft to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and went back again to see how things were, and the first Leaw of him he was going over the rail. He jumped flow on Mr Turner's bead, and, knocked him flown in the bottom of the boat. Almost the same moment another wendover, they said it was James Webster, I then het the painter go flee fear more would, gat in. About an hour afterwards, some one spoke to me about putting the ladies in the boat, that the ladies should have the preference; and I said "by all means." I went into the door of the ladies, cabin; there were two or three of them there. One of them said "captain, what are we going to do," I replied "well, ma'am, you will have to take the boats wery shortly, and you had better propare yourselves for it." Went out again to look at the boat, and found an increase of persons there. By this time the vessel was getting very low, and they had left off bailing forward. I am not certain whether it was fire I saw three ladies with shawls over their heads apparently ready to go; I thought two of them were the Misses Dewolfe. One of them said "surfue to the ladies, we lowered the post in mediately to lower the boat, and to drop her round the aim and hall her up on the other side, to the spin pointed out to some of them yet." At this time I crice out to the passengers in the steamer to go on the hurricane deck, thinking it would float, and that we could pick them up. At that time I expected at every plunge to see the steamer go down. The mate then proposed to slip and run, to save our own lives was the first law of nature. I begged him for God's sake to hold on, saying "we will save the Isdies yet; if they go on the hurricane deck, they will float.," He said "now we have plenty in this boat, there shall sot another man come into her; we had better save our own lives, boys," speaking to the others, who answered "yes." He immediately said, "there she's gone, out cars." He had about a foot of the rope through the ring, holding it in his hand. We fell foul of the other bout; as soon as we got clear, I ordered them to pull up for the steamer, thinking that we might have accidentally got loose. The mate gave the order to pull backwards, keeping her head to the wind; that order was obeyed, and not mine. After some time, they did begin to row up, but the engineers were no oarsmen, and they said" it is no use, we'll give it up." I think if they had had the will, they would have found the way to have got there. They then stopped and let her drift awhile and kept paddling the oars to keep her head up. The mate had complete charge. They turned towards shore, rowing pretty well before the wind till they opened Pictou Light. I said, "for God's sake boys, don't go down an that rocky lee shore, you'll be dashed to pieces." They turned her in then, and made for the light. I then took hold of an oar, double banked the after oar, and helped to row her in. As we were rowing along quietly to the shore, the mate said to me, "you may be devillen gad you got on board at all, for we were just going to leave you, anyway." We landed on the heach about one o'clock, and got to a bouse. The mate said agais, "you may thank us for your life, may'at he same." We were replied.

"yes we would soon have been off," I was so sick and futgued with excitement and cold, that I could go to further. I told them to proceed as quickly as possible, and get the Plute to go out and try to find done portion of the wreck. At daylight, before I delt, I saw her coming in."

On Thursday evening, after having learned the statements of the prisoners in defence, the Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Saturday morning. On Friday, the hon. W. Lord and Mr A. Mitchell, of Charlottotown, who had been appointed by the Gort. of P. E. Island, to investigate and report upon the circumstances attending this painful occurrence, proceeded to the scene of the disaster, for the purpose of secing the remains of the wreck, and ascertaining, if possible, the causes that led to the destruction of the boat. We of course are not aware of the nature of the report they have to make, but we are informed that they found the hull perfectly sound, being strong and firmly built and fastened, and that they have expressed their belief that the principle defect of the boat was her extense length and marrowness, which renderd her liable to be injured by a side wind and sea.

On Saturday morning, the Court again met, renderd her liable to be injured by a side wind and goa.

On Saturday morning, the Court again met, the justices in the mean time had the matter under their most careful consideration, and all the necessary legal preliminaries having been complied with the decision of the Court was announced, which was to the effect, that, William Raymond Bulyea, J. D. Terner, Patrick Treaner, John Christie, James Webster, William Mills, William McKenna, and John Donnolly, be committed to prison (in the mean time without bail) to await their trail for not having used all the means within their power for saving the ship, and for having feloniously taken away the boats belonging to the vessel, thereby impeding the escape of those who were on the wreck, and causing their death. We believe that the offence with which these men are charged comes within the jurisdiction of the Court of Vice Admiralty; but by an Imperial Statute the Criminal business of that Court is transferred to the Supreme Court for the County next adjoining where any offences may be committed. It is certain, however, that they cannot be tried at the term of the Supreme Court, which commences its sittings here to-day for the want of a legally impannelled Jury. Tis well that it is so; for in the present excited state of feeling in this community, and throughout the country, the prisoners could not have a fair trial, and the promptings alike of justice and mercy might be disregarded.

Several articles of property belonging to the parties deceased have been washed ashore, on different parts of the coast, but nothing that we have yet heard of belonging to any of the passongers saved, has been found. The trunks of Dr Berkenzie and the Masses Devotte nave been found; an inventory of their contents has been taken, and the articles placed in as fe keeping until they can be claimed by or forwarded to the friends of the deceased.

The Sheriff's appointed meeting of the First Electoral District of King's County turned out a failure, whether owing to the weather or some " qualms of conscience" owing to the weather or some "qualms of conscience" of the leaders or requisitionests, I know not; and it matters little; but your friends, butts, or neighbours, Hon. Edward Whelan, and Mr. Andrew Mitchel, were both there, at the time and place appointed—for what purpose, you may guess; but, had the meeting been really constituted, and any of these two worthies offered to address it, they, or any one of them, would have met with the observation, that the meeting by the Sheriff's proclamation, was only to consist of the Electors of this District; and that, consequently, none else had any right to speak there. Had one or both persisted to address the meeting after being told that they had no right to do so they would have been assailed by such a string of questions as would have puzzled them to answer; and consequently, none cise has any right to speak there. Had one or both persisted to address the meeting after being told that they had no right to do so they would have been assailed by each a string of questions as would have puzzled them to answer; and thus flaily told, that a "set" of men who could deprive such men as John Goff of the office of Small Debti Commissioner, for merely doing his duty fear-lessly and well as High Sheriff, at an Election for Georgetown, and who could also turn out John Frest, of Grand River, from a like office—for taking a straight forward manly, open course, in favor of the Candidate whom he thought the most fit and proper person to be a M. I repeat, that had Whelan opened his mouth at the meeting that he appeared so anxious to get up, he would have been told all this, and perhaps a little more. I am not sure whether any of our two members elect—God bless them—intended to form part of the meeting; but, I trust that, notwithstanding the many and pressing solicitations with which they are daily, any, almost hourly, pestared, from pretended friends, to join their rasks, that they will retain their independence of the side of the whole body of the people is full of Nov. for the ordination of Mr. John Mr Leod, at Richmond Bay.—Com. coloniations with which they are daily, may, which hourly, petered, from pretended friends, to join their ranks, that they will retain their independence of thought and action; and that they will tell the crepting things which now tease and forment them so much, to keep their distance, and leave them to attend to their own business.

TO THE EDITOR OF HASZARD'S GAZETTE

In to-day's paper, in your account of the proceedings at the Public meeting held on Wednesday lastwith reference to Denote Concry's altesion to the warning I had received in Halifax, in which he asks "Is it littely be concealed his knowledge from the Governor," I think it but proper to state, that from the very great distance intervening between the learned Dostor and myself, I heard very little of his speech, and certainly not the remarks in question otherwise I would instantly have stated, that as I was quite satisfied with the explanation of the Honorable member of the Executive, with whom I conferred, I did not mention the subject to His Excellency, either then or at any subsequent period. Surely there are but few among us who will not agree with the Honorable member for Charlottetown (Hon. E. Palmer,) that had Sir Alexander Bannerman, ever been made aware of the complaints against the Boat, either made aware of the complaints against the Boat, either through Mr. Lord or any other channel, we would not now have to deplore this ead disaster.

1 am, Sir, Your obedient Servant J. HAMILTON GRAY.

Sir,—At the public meeting which was held at Charlottetown on Wednesday last, I observe that you are reported to have said—at charlotteews on weeneasy is as, I observe that you are reported to have said—

"The gallant gentleman who has so powerfully and feelingly appealed to your manhood—he who, having already in his services to his country in the four quarters of the world carned for himself fame and distinction, of which, the Island he loves so much may well be pround, and whose emotion was visible to all, has stated that he feared to trust his family in the boat: he was warned in Halifax of her inefficiency, and requested not to trust her in the autumn. Is it littly he concealed, his knowledge from the Governor? Can it be that the Governor ac confines himself to the advice and society of his Council, that no reporte could reach his ears except such as they choose he should know? Or if knowing, or hearing them, he still regards them as but the cover of party, and makes so further enquiry, then it is but too evident with what impariality he holds the scale. He now, must open his eyes and ears—he must hear and bear his just share of the indignation of an outraged public—he cannot lay his head on his pillow without feeling the thoru of remorne, if by his apathy, or reliance on others to acreen him, this great calcanity he so cocured."

The gallant individual to whom you allude, if by his apathy, or reliance on others to screen him, this great calamity has occured."

The gallant individual to whom you allude, I see, was Lt. Col. Grivy, and you ask, "Is it likely he concealed his knowledge from the Governor?" This question you might have usked Col. Gray, but as you did not. I will answer it. Col. Gray communicated no such knowledge to me.

You again ask, "Can it be that the Governor so confines himself to the advice and society of his Council, that no reports could reach his ear except such as they chose he should know!" I answer, that the highest and the lowest Individuals in this Colony, have always access to me, when they chose to ask for it.

In regard to the sad catastrophe which has led to the animadversions and remarks, which you have been pleased to make on my conduct. One Individual only, my respected friend Major Beete, ever spoke to me about the Fairy Queen, he saying that she seldom exceeded five knots, and wanted power; that he had observed her boilers leaking a little, and consoled himself with a feeling that they would not burst from an over pressure of steam. But so little idea had I of the unfortunate vessel not being sea worthy, that if I had had occasion to cross to Pictou on the 7th October, I would, without the smallest hesitation, have accompanied the much lamented Ladies, Dr. M'Kensie and those who perished on that melancholy occasion.

I remain, Sir

To the Rotton of the Royal Gazette.

Sir;

By a Resolution published in Hazzet's Gazette, with several others, passed at a public meeting held in the Court House, to take into consideration "the loss of the Fairy Queen," and the metancholy casualties attending the fatal accident, I perceive a consure is levelled against the Executive Government, for having come gentlemen of the community have thought proper to impute to the Executive still more unworthy and selfish motives, namely, to deprive Mr. Peake of the contract. This demands a refutation, which a statement of a few facts unworthy and selfish motives, namely, to deprive Mr. Peake of the contract. This demands a refutation, which a statement of a few facts will. I feel confident, fully carry out. When the present Government came into office, they found that no contract had been entered into with Mr. Peake for running the Rose or carrying the mails; accordingly advertisements were published, calling for tenders for conveying the mails by a steamboat, of equal power to his vessel. To this advertisement no application had been responded. A letter from Mr. Peake to the Government, offering to carry the mails, but refusing to enter into any contract, was received and accepted, without any contract, thus leaving Mr. Peake quite unshackled.

The reciprocity entered hut by the two governments this year (1851), gave such a stimulus to trade, that it became obvious that more competent means for transporting our produce to the siste Colonies and States should be supplied, and suggested the propriety and necessity of placing a competent steam power at the disposal of our farmers and trades, and led to the introduction of the Albatrost, which vessel, however, subsequently proved too large and expensive.

In the fall of 1852 I induced the Government to advertise for tenders for running a competent steam-boat of not less than 100 ibree power between introduction of the Albaiross, which vessel, however, subsequently proved too large and expensive.

In the fall of 1852 I induced the Government to advertise for tenders for running a competent steamboat of not less than 100 librse power between Charlottetown, Bedeque and Shediac. Independent of my own conviction of the necessity of placing a possel of great steam power and carrying capacity than the Rose upon the station, I was arged by parties in Pictou and other places to carry out this measure, the utility of which became every day more apparent. It must, therefore, be evident to every person of ordinary intellect, that hostility to Mr. Peake was altogether out of the question. As well might Mr. Pope, who had a vessel employed between Bedeque and Shediac; turn round and say, this is a conspiracy against me, and you should not play off such a trick upon a member of your government. Thus a liberal and necessary measure of the government, producing benefits upon the community, has been construct into a desire to gratify a private gradge.

The advertisement for tenders continued in the papers during the winter, without inducing an offer from a contract had expired, Mr. Whitney arrived from St. John, and offered the Fairy Queen. I told him that the time for entering into a contract had expired, Mr. Whitney arrived from St. John, and offered the Fairy Queen. I told him that the time for entering into a contract had passed by undependent of which Mr. Peake had put the Rose into proper order, and it would be an act of injustice to that gentleman to interfere with him, after expending so much "money upon her boilers, &c. However, as there would be a meeting of the Council in adays of two, he was at liberty to make a proposal. A filt and the market square, Mr. Owen, agent for the Rose, came up, and stated that he was requested by Mr. Peake to say, that having learned that Mr. Whitney's offer would be accepted, and in order that un inconvenience should accrue, he would continue to july the Rose until replaced by the F maggues, as destitute of fine feeling as they are of principle, who presume to ascribe the calamity to the government, I despise, as all the world must, and teave show to crawl into that retirement best suited to conceal their deformity, until some future occasion (not steeped, I hope, in human affliction) may present to them an opportunity of sporting the gall and rancour which pervades their constitution against the government and its supporters.

I remain, Sir,
Your most ob't, Sersant,
GEORGE COLES

THE B

To THE EDITOR OF HASEARD'S GAZETTE.

To The Editor of Haseard's Gazette of the 24th inst., a letter signed Gazete of the 24th inst., a letter signed is stated by one of his colleagues. Every body knows that he cannot say a dezen words without his interminable "as hows," and I have heard it stated by one of his own Crew, that he is unable to answer an invitation to Government House without first consulting the Ex-counciller. However I will pass over these things just now.

The letter says, that a censure is levelled against the Government for having engaged the Fairy Queen to carry the Mails; Mr. Coles has attempted to evade that censure, but certainly has not in the least cast off the blame, either from himself or his colleagues, for having employed an unseaworthy vessel. When the present party came into office they thought only of the emolument and petty power which they had gained, they never thought of the weighty responsibility that rested upon them, and which is always inseparable to men in authority.

The first Advertisement for tenders in 1851 wat a cut at Mr. Peake; it ran for a vessel of 50 horse power, Mr. Peake declined entering into any contract, I think I have heard him say, because the remuneration was not sufficient to induce him to put on another boat at once, if anything happened to the Rose.

"In the fall of 1852," says Mr. Coles, "I in-Rose.

"In the fall of 1852," savs Mr. Coles, "I in "In the fall of 1852," savs Mr. Coles, "Induced the Government to advertise for a vessel of 100 horse power." On looking over a file of the Royal Gezette, I find it was the 10th of January, 1853, that such tenders were advertised for—I see Mr. Coles is not particular as to dates or facts at any tikis—this, I presume, was soon after the accounts of the profit and loss of the government sailing packet had been made up—the loss had been found greater than the profite, and the apposition grew stronger, instead of abating. He acknowledges the Hon. Mr. Pope the owner of the sailing packet—no wonder he get the station extra flatienings where she hinged in the middle! No Report was given, and flatocame has been offered why such a document was not drawn up! But we may guees the reason.

No person could be found on whom the public could rely, who would give a favourable Relegant them in a more impressive manner of the grown of the country. He was the being appointed to the duty, would create suspiction a person of his standing being required to act in the capacity of fiscan-boat suspecton a person of his standing being required to act in the capacity of fiscan-boat suspecton a person of his standing being required to act in the capacity of fiscan-boat suspecton approach to the Report we are to get from the commissioners, without the addition of this name of the agent, government inspector of the boat and member of government inspector of the boat and member of government is proposed to the North and which, had they any provide the country of the government? None in existence? I suppose he did not like to give one in writing! The greatest commendation I have ever heard him give was that the ongines were better than he expected! Eldely they were; he could expiced much, when the Pairy Queen was the third vised they were in, and were only in the proposed much, when the Pairy Queen was the third vised they were in, and were only in the grown of the government. The market of the government is not an existence?

The contract has been entered into for three years, to that Mr. Whittney can put another boat on the route, and may yet cause more trouble to the people of the Island; and yet it has been and the contract has been held too late, but for our waters; the originators of that meeting, who knows but that another of Mr. Wiffiney's attailing the work of the work for as well as the mails, and that the government that did not make every provision for their security was not worthy of support or countenance.

Mr. Coles says, she never left a mail due, this is incorrect, although she had a remarkably fine summer, she was often behind her time, after the first few trips, she seldom exceeded 5 knots and was often detained to repair the leaks in her boiler, Mr. Coles could not have been ignorant of this, and Mr. Lord acknowledged, he knew her state after Dr. Evans came over, yet in neither of his capacities as agent, government inspector, or councillor did he take any pains to remedy the evils complained of.

Isle of my love; my happiest hours;
Rich in thy treasures, as thy daughters fair
'Tis not amid thy banks of flowers,
Young Love and Hope give wings to care;

Bright are thy flowers, but brighter far-Refelgent as thy beam of day— Earth's choicest gems; mans guiding star— Eyes, beaming through our life's dull way, ought to have been some consideration for the interests of Mr Peake. It was notorious, that the "Rose" had been purchased at no small cost by that gentleman, it was pretty clearly evident to those who chose to make the calculation, that above the charge for interest of purchase money, insurance, wear and tear, of vessel and materials, independent of the costs of salling her, not a very great deal of profit could by any possibility be realized, in fact, she was in a pecuniary point of view a losing concern to her owner. Under these circumstances, and knowing that a steam vessel of her description could not easily be sold either in the Colonies or elsewhere, except at a great disadvantage, one would have supposed that it might have occurred to the government to make a proposition to Mr. Peake, and offer him the privilege of sailing a boat upon the line in lieu of the Rose and at such an allowance as would make a fair remuneration for his outlay, doing, by this mode of acting, justice to a spirited individual, and obtaining for the Island such a steam vessel as would be certain of meeting the exigencies of the Public and competent to perform the duty required. This would have been just, still weadamit the government were under obligation to act in the way prescribed. They had a right to put the conveyance of the mails up to public competition, and to have them carried at the lowest possible rate consistent with safety and despatch. Nor will we quarrel with this attempt, it might be

"Preferring the right to purening the expedient."

" Preferring the right to pursuing the expe

"Preferring the right to pursuing the expedient."

They had the right and they chose to exercise it. They advertized for a boat one hundred or double the horse power of the Rose, now, what was the result! no tender! The advertisement had been continued the whole winter and without effect. Mr. Peake had been, as was natural, disgusted and offended and had made up his mind to sell the Rose at the first opportunity that might occur, though at a considerable sacrifice. The sum offered by the government was not sufficient to induce an upright honest man who would have performed his contract when once entered into "loss or no loss." At this critical time, Mr. Whitney of St. John N. B. is written to and advised to try his boat, not the boat advertized for! not the boat of one hundred horse-power, no! a very diffe-N. B. is written to and advised to try his boat, not the boat advertized for! not the boat of one hundred horse-power, no! a very different boat of less dimensions and less power. Mr. Whitney comes and so does Mr. Whitney's boat. The Fairy Queen, what a misnomer! No sooner had he arrived at the wharf, than she was at once proclaimed by gold and young, learned, and unlearned, skilful and the reverse to be utterly unit for navigating the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The administration were laughed at by their own friends, and every sort of humorous as well at ridiculous epithet was heaped upon her. Nor were they ignorant of all that had been said of her by their political opponents. Read what fell from the pen of the Hon. Mr. Whelan, then a member of the administration, one of those who were to accept or reject Mr. Whitney's offer, we quote from the Editorial of the Royal Gazette May 30th 1853.

to deck: she has undergone a supervision that will satisfy the most timid, that there is nought to fear, and yet, when the Government was asked for the report of those who had premounced so definitively upon the competency of the vassel which would have shifted the onus of responsibility from their own shoulders, to that of the Commissioners, they are compelled to reply "that no such report in regard to the Fairy Queen is in existence." Here is indeed a humiliating disclosure, here is a confession of incompetency, for we may fairly assume that men who could not in an open, manly, official manner contract for the services of a mail-boat, without exhibiting a shameful want of knowledge or a still more shameful dereliction of duty were not the men in any degree competent to carry on the Government of the Island even in the least difficult times. They were well aware, too, that they had been wanting in duty, and they tried to—we will not say entrap—Capt. Bayfield, into an approbation of the vessel, but substitute—clicit from him some expression, doubtful it might be, but, with a little ingenuity, capable of being turned into a kind of approbation of the vessel. It might be too, that they thought he would forbear any expression of dissent, and this they would have held forth as constituting a kind of negative approbation. If we may use the term. Be this as it may, they reckoned, as the saying is, without their host. Capt Bayfield who has earned for himself a reputation among nautical men which will last as long as the coast of America or the lakes of Canada are navigated by seamen and ships, was not the man likely to pronounce a hasty or imperfect judgment. Not only a sailor by profession, and an experience one, but a highly educated and scientific man, capable of giving a reason for the opinion that should fall from his lips or his pen—what did he say? "I disapprove of the principle upon which the engine is constructed; and as to the vessel, well the vessel, would have silenced the most pertinacious caviller in the

Mr. Coles says in his letter in the Gazette Mr. Coles says in his letter in the Gazette of Monday last —which came under our notice while writing this article—"Many a year may roll on, ere the recollection of it (the loss of the Fairy Queen) be even partially obliterated." There can be no doubt of this, and as often as it is either mentioned or recollected, so often will he and his associates be charged as having been accessary to the untimely destruction of those who have by their means met an early and a fearful end.

those who have by their means met an early and a fearful end.

The meeting of Monday whatever Mr. Whelan may say to the contrary, was conducted under the circumstances, with singular temper and quietness, nor would there have been a single out-break had not Mr. Theophilus Stewart without the slightest necessity in the world chosen to anticipate that a political discussion was intended, and thus raised the feelings of Lieut. Col. Gray, and Mr. Whelan's own folly and infatuation that brought upon him the well deserved rebuke of the Rev. Dr. Evans. We shall answer Mr. Whelan's observations in our next.

Sr. Eleanon's Episcopal Sunday School.—The anniversary of St. Eleanor's Sabbath School was celebrated on Monday the 12th inst. when the children were examined in the Holy Scriptures and the church catechism with Scripture pre-18—many of the scholars displayed great readiness in answering the questions, and the whole was exceedingly creditable to the institution. When the examinations were ended, the children were addressed by their Clergyman the Rev. Mr. Read, after which they retired with their leaders to the Court House, which was tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers for the occasion. Tables were most plentifully supplied with tea and cakes in great variety, which bespoke the pains that had been taken by the friends of the School to do honor to the occasion, whilst the happy countenances of the children expressed the joy which they felt in meeting together to commemorate the anniversary of their Sabbath School. We heartily wish prosperity to the cause, and we think that the efforts which are made, to train the youthful mind, in the purelprinciples of the Gospel, may be abundantly blessed, by God, for the sake of His dear Son our Saviour, whose sympathy for the Lambs of his flock, was most tonderly expressed, when He said "Suffer little. Children to come unto me, and forbid them not-for of such is the Kingdom of God."—Com.

COMMODORE SHUBRICK AND THE FISHERIES—A semi-official report of the Commodore's Fishery Excursion appears in the Washington Union, from which we extract—
A single case of detention came to the knowledge of the commander of the squadron, and that was promptly inquired into at Christitetown, where the shining schooner was sent and tried. It was found that the vessel was taken in flagrant violation of the first article of the treaty of 1816; and was liberated after having been libelled, on the written acknowledgement of the master that he was so taken, and on his agreement to pay some small expense incurred in the suit. This is the plain, envarsished story of the "Starlight, Captain McDonald, of Gloccaster," which has been so grossly exaggerated in the newspapers. And it is the only case of detention that has occurred this year.

—There have been no saizares and condemnations as the public have been led to believe by persons evidently interested in getting up a cry of excitement.

The position of the combatants in China is unaltered. Vague reports have reached us of the progress of the insurgents, both in the directions of Pekin and of Canton, but nothing authentic can be reported. Fighting is going on at various inland towns, and at Amoy a payal engagement has taken at Amoy a naval engagement has taken place between the Tartar and insurgent fleets. The Imperialists retired, and the insurgents appear to have had the best of it. At Shanghai trade is in a frightful state. The exchange has risen to 6s. 8d. per dollar, and the merchants have made an ineffectual and except the import duties on and the merchants have made an ineffectual endeavour to get the import duties on goods remitted; but the Chinese were not likely, in their present distress for money, to accede to such a proposal even if Sir G. Bunham had encouraged the application. Two American ships were lying below the city of Foochow, waiting for teas from the interior, but, owing to the prevailing troubles, none came down. The insurrections which are now agitating the whole country have produced a serious disturbance of the which are now agitating the whole country have produced a serious disturbance of the ordinary course of trade. The China Mail states, that they heard that an army, in three divisions, had actually been marching from Nanking for Peking; but on its becoming known that the Imperialists were collecting a large force at the former city the insurgent forces were recalled. The Mandarins at Canton have been busy forwarding reinforcements of men and munitions of ing reinforcements of men and munitions of war by sea, and we are informed that about 600,000 piculs of gunpowder, and 2000 trained soldiers, 30 of whom can cast cantrained soldiers, 30 of whom can cast can-non, have already been sent. 62 men were executed at Canton, under a strong guard on the morning of the 4th; but we know not whether they were insurgents taken in the field, or part of a band of vagabonds who recently laid a plan to fire the Provincial Treasurer's va-man, or official residence. An accomplice discovered official residence. An accomplice discovered the plot, and six men were seized on the premises with arms and gunpowder.

A messenger had arrived at Canton with a letter from the Rebel Chief at Nankin a letter from the Rebel Chief at Nankin to a missionary. The messenger gave the following information.—The long haired brethrea, he says are between four and five thousand; the fighting men from thirty to forty thousand, while the entire host, men, women and children, in Nanking and its vicinity, is estimated at a hundred thousand. The plunder they have taken has been immense, and as there is no want of money amongst them numbers are expecbeen immense, and as there is no want of money amongst them, numbers are expec-ted to flock to their camp; their purpose, he says, being to remain at Nanking until they can muster 90,000 fighting men of whom 60,000 will be left to defend and retain that position, and 30,000 be marched on Pekin.

SUFFERINGS OF EMIGRANTS ON THE PLAINS.—The Siekiyos (California) Mountain Herald, of Saturday, August 27, contains the following information:—"We learn from Mr. Heard, who went out to meet the emigrants, and returned last evening, that there are eighteen families on their way to this place. Mr. Heard reports a great scarcity of provisions, and, in fact, by this time, actual want in the company. The soldiers will be unable to supply them with anything, as they are also short. Mr. Heard comes in advance of the train, for the purpose of getting provisions from our citizens, and a small party to meet the sufferers. He is an old resident, and well st ferers. He is an old resident, and well ferers. He is an old resident, and well known to many of our people, and we hope our friends will prepare a supply of provisions immediately. The train can be met at or about Klamath Lake. There are about fifty women, young ladies and old, in the train. It is highly necessary that they should be met before they come to the road, in order to give them warning not to take the Rogue river route. Mr. Heard passed another train of several wagons, and two families, on the Shasta river. They will be in town to-day or to-morrow." be in town to-day or to-morrow.'

How DEACON SHITH COURTED. Decon's waggon stopped one morning be-fore the widow Jones' door, and gave the usual country sign that he wanted some-body in the house, by dropping the reins and sitting double with his elbows on his knees. Out tripped the old widow, as live-vely as a cricket, with a tremendous black ribbon on her snowy white cap. "Good morning," was said on both sides, and the widow waited for what was further to be said ba 4 Well Ma'am Jones, perhaps you don't want to sell one of your cow now for nothing, any way, do you?" "Well, there, Mr Smith, you couldn't have spoken my mind better. A poor lone woman like me does not know what to do with so many creatures, and I should be glad to trade, if we fix it." So they adjourned to the meadow. Deacon Smith looked at Roan-then at the widow-at Brin dle—then at the widow—at the Downing cow—then at the widow again—and so through the whole forty. The same call was made every day for a week, but the deacon could not decide which cow he wanted. At length, ou Saturday, when the widow was in a hurry to get through her baking for Sunday, and had "ever so much to do in the house," as all farmers wives and widows have on Saturday, she was a little impatient. Deacon Smith was as irresolute as ever. "That' ere Downing cow is a pretty fair cretur," said he, "but "—he stopped to glance at the widow's face, and then walked round her—not the widow—but the cow. "That'ere short horn Durham is not a bad looking beast, but I don't know.'-another look at the widow. "The Downing cow I knew before the late Mr Jones bought her." Here he sighed at the allusion to the late Mr. Jones: she sighed, and both looked at each other. It was a highly interesting "Old Roan is a faithful old milch, and so is the Brindle-but I have known better." A long stare succeeded his speach—the pause was getting rather awkward-and at last Mrs. Jones broke out-" La! Mr. Smith, if I'm the cow you want, do say so!" The intentions of the Deucon and Widow Jones were published next day.

ANECDOTE OF FIRM.-Finn was once witness for the prosecution in a case before the Common Pleas of Boston, and his testimony was so direct and conclusive that a counsel for the defendant thought it necessary to discredit him.

fr. Finn, you live in-street, do

Have you lived there a great while?'
'Several years.'
Does not a female live there under your protection?'
'There does.'
'Does she bear your name?'

She is known in the neighbourhoo by the name of Mrs. Finn."

Is she your wife? 'We were never legally married.'

'That will do, I have nothing more to

But I have something more to answer Sir,'-replied Finn, with spirit. 'The Mrs. Finn of whom you have been pleased to speak with such levity is my motherand I have known but one man base enough to breathe against her. You, sir, can guess who he is. True, she is under my protection. She protected me through my infancy and childhood, and it is paying but small part of the debt I owe her, to do as much for her in her old age. The baffled counsel had not another word to say.

" NAKED TRUTH."-The late eccentric John Holmes used frequently, in his addresses to different juries to explain the meaning of the phrase, " naked truth." by relating the following fable:
Truth and Falsehood travelling one warm day, met at a river, and both went to bathe at the same place. Falsehood coming first out of the water, took his companion's clothes and left his own vile raiment and then went on his way. Truth coming out of the water, sought in vain for his own proper dress disdaining to wear the garb of Falsehood. Truth started, all naked, in pursuit of the thief, but not being so swift of foot, has never over taken the fugitive Ever since he has been known as "naked Truth."

'Speaking of bores, 'says a victim to one of the species, 'I can scarcely imagine one capable of inflicting more misery than an intolerable shuttler. I can stand a file, when all the nation is armed and equipped on training days, and a drum with its 'flang g'flan serves to drown its screams; but to listed to a poor air, badly murdered by a poorer, puckerer. I prefer death in some casing, it not quicker way. I always think of the French stage-coach driver, who beging very much annoyed by such a hore turned upon him with:

A VERS PILLS,

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the Acure of all Billious diseases — Costiveness, Indigection, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Pevers, Gout, Humors, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back, and Limbs, Feinsile complicities, &c., &c., Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmies but effectual Cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseasos, which might have been avoided by the timely, and judicious use of a good purgative. This is allke true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep stanted and formidiable distempers which load the linearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this Fill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtue by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing anything hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Among the emiment gentlemen to whom we are allowed to refer for these facts, are Phop. Vallenting Mort, the distinguished Surgoon of New York City.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred such names, from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the certificates of these entinent public men is shown in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, he result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and mate outplete which, the prosent state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedier, extracted by chemical process, in a state of parity and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in the Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any prucess. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious duthities; by this, each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and cobnazions qualities of each substance supplyed any elect bills a waver, more powerful amidicote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that my medicine known to the world.

supplied the accurate Formula by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Fredrices. If however there should be any one who has not received; them, they will be promptly forwarded by anality bia saldress.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how for would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries.

The composition of my proparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject, freely soknowicelye their convictions of their intrinsic mexits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before the ieffectivence known. Many cusinent Physicians, have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their articipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial.

They operate by their, powerful influence on the internal viscence to purify the blood and stimulate it into intellights whether a receiver the obstructions of the deparate, house, liver, and other organized from their mar are the first origin of thesees.

Being sugar wrapped they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.
