HOW CAN WE COUNTER-ACT

THE INCREASED COST OF LIVING?

A second's reasoning will supply the answer. Beef and pork are dear and getting dearer all the time, and the cost is out of proportion with their food-value.

EAT MORE BREAD.

There is more nourishment in a shilling's worth of bread than a shilling's worth of beef or pork. But the problem is not done with yet. The shilling's worth of bread is not always the same value. Breadmade from contains more nourishment than any other, because it contains the greatest amount of gluten, the health-giving nutriment of wheat.

Which Was The Heir?

CHAPTER XXIX.

HE was a sweet young lady, and no wonder that he fell in love with her. I told him the earl would never consent. I told her, too; but love must have its way, and Master Reginald was headstrong, like all the Bassingtons. And one day they stole away. But I followed them, and I was in time—I was in time! I know what no one else knows. But I'm silent—silent as the grave. I've hid it from the earl—hid it from everybody. Master Regie bade me—he made me swear. And an oath it's a solemn thing. And when they went away she took me in her arms and kissed me—yes, kissed me, Master Regie standing by!—and whispered in my ear, in her sweet voice: 'You'll keep our secret, nurse? No matter what the world says, you know.' And, yes, I know. But I'll keep their secret—Master Regie's and hers—till I die. The earl shall never know, though he comes to me himself with that awful voice of his, and his eyes like a hawk; and he'll never find out, no, though he should try and tear it from me with his own hands. 'You'll keep our secret, nurse, for love of Master Regie,' she says in her sweet voice. Then they went, and I came back to the castle, and trouble came o' my daughter, and Rachel was born, and I fell ill, and they said I was blind—and mad. Blind I may be, but not mad—not mad always! No, no! I remember! I've seen what I've seen!

Her voice died away, and she fell to muttering inaudibly, still plucking absently at the edge of her skirt.

Cottie could make nothing of the disjointed sentences, and after awhile rose and laid her hand on Mrs. Farren's shoulder.

'I am sorry you are so lonely,' she said, gently. 'I will come and see you as often as I can. But I sha'n't be here long. I'm going to Australia soon.'

The blind woman raised her head.

'To Australia?' she said, apathetically.

'That's where both Master Edmund and Master Regie went—so they told me. And now, they say that they're both dead. And left no child behind them, and the castle will pass to strangers! No; that's not

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (for there are almost numberless), the symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being, sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in such cases is depressed vitality.

VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY

To show off these mental feelings, and experience proves that as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-reviving tonic.

and a new condition is placed in place of what had to later become a hopeless case. This wonderful medicine is perfectly safe and innocuous, is agreeable to the taste, and is suitable for all constitutions and conditions, in other words, and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or derangement, whose main features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this life-reviving tonic. It is a medicine which has been tried in every case of debility, and has succeeded in restoring to health and vigor the most exhausted and prostrated of human beings.

is not a trifling disease. With the cough spasms, straining of the chest and stomach, there is always a loss of strength and flesh that ordinary food cannot restore.

true! for there was Master Reginald—I remember him playing about the castle yard! But he's gone, too—all gone, all gone! And behold I leave unto you your house desolate!—Rachel, is that you, come in? You have no right to talk to a Bassington. They're above and beyond you, my girl! Beshink yourself, and remember your proper place! You take after your mother, my girl, your poor mother—

Cottie, seeing that the woman's mind was wandering, stole away, full of pity. Mrs. Farren's rambling reminiscences conveying no meaning to her, and she attached little or no importance to them. But it struck her as strange that the woman should mistake her, for the second time, for the Master Edmund whom Mrs. Farren had nursed.

She sped, almost at a run, for the town, delivered her batch of gloves, and bought a London paper at the tobacconist and news agent. She crammed it in the pocket of her neat serge suit, and in the privacy of her own room searched its columns for the information she wanted, and learnt that a vessel would sail for Melbourne on the 25th. So that she had nearly a week to wait before she could start for Australia—and Geoff.

She fell asleep that night with a happy smile on her lips, and the thought of Geoffrey singing, sweeter than a thrush, at her heart. She dreamt that she crept towards the hut as she had crept that night she and Ronnie had wandered towards it, and stole in and found Geoffrey sleeping before the fire, and that she had laid her hand on his shoulders and whispered, 'It's me, Geoff! I've come back from England; I've come back to you, never to leave you any more!'

CHAPTER XXX.

COFFEY bade fair to beat the record of the gentleman who had been thrown from his dog-cart and remained unconscious for six weeks—for five had passed, and he still remained in that shadowy land which lies between the realms of life and death.

And during the whole of that trying time of suspense, Eva, in turn with Martha, nursed him. And as day slipped past day, her interest in him grew. It was hard for one to realize that he was a stranger; for, by constant study of his face—so wan and yet so handsome—she seemed to know him almost as well as she knew that her brother Edward.

The time came when the placidity, the death-like stupor gave place to a delirium often so wild that both she and Martha were frightened; but the words that left the sick man's lips were torrent-like and, incoherent, and she gleaned no knowledge of his past from it. It was mostly of gold—or gold in a "pocket"; of claims which were equivalent to a fortune; of a search for someone, name never mentioned, whom he had lost, and whose loss was bitter to him.

The doctor came and stood beside the raving man, felt his pulse, and ordered fresh bandages, and went leaving no comfort or encouragement behind him save, 'Patience patience!'

It was hard for Eva to be patient, watching as she did, the agony of mind which the sick man revealed in his wanderings; but her devotion to him never faltered. Martha chided her seriously, Sir Edward chafed her, half-seriously, but she stuck to her post, and one day she was rewarded.

It was growing towards evening, she had applied fresh-iced bandages to his head, and was sitting beside him holding his hot, dry hand in hers—in a clasp of womanly sympathy which should have brought a dead man to life—when she heard him mutmur:

'The gold, the gold! Good boy! Clever boy! It's all yours, mind! Every penny of it! It will start you in the world. Oh, me! Oh, I'm out of it! I'm a mere nobody, without name or place. But you—it's different with you! You're young and free. You'll make your way, be famous; you know. Yes; you must go! But I'll miss you, I'll miss you! Oh, my God, how I shall miss you! He was silent for a moment or two, then he wandered on. 'Four against one, and they're gipsies and scoundrels! Too bad! But I cut in here. Keep close to the hedge, sir! Oh, dah it, they've got behind us! There you are; I told you so! Oh my head, my stupid, wooden old head! Never mind, never mind; as good that way as another! But I told, I told you! I keep to the hedge; I said!'

The voice died away; but suddenly, with an intelligence in its tones that startled Eva, it said:

'Water, please! Oh, how thirsty I am!'

She rose, trembling slightly, and put a glass to his lips; then after he had drunk, he looked at her looked at her with a look which she knew betokened consciousness. Her heart leapt—watch beside an unconscious man for six weeks, my gentle reader, and you will understand why she trembled and was all of a glow—and bending whispered:

'You are better?'

'Quite well, thank you. How are you?' he replied in a hollow voice, which he no doubt thought bright and cheery. 'Where am I, and who are you?'

And, without waiting for an answer, he fell into a sleep, a natural, sensible sleep, during which she sat beside him uttering still those voiceless thanksgivings. He woke some hours after—but, she was glad to know, before Martha came to relieve her—and gazed up at her wistfully and curiously. Even at that moment, when his faculties were only slowly returning, he was conscious of the loveliness, the angelic sweetness of her face.

'I—beg your pardon!' he said in a hollow voice. 'Where am I? And—and—I beg your pardon again—who are you?'

Eva trembled. The voice, though hollow, was very musical, and she had followed to hear it for so many, many weeks!

'You are Rashleigh Hall,' she said. 'With friends—with my brother Edward. Do you remember saving him from the gipsies? But, oh, I think you must not talk!'

'Not talk? Why not?' he said, with a frown. 'Ah, yes; I remember. The gipsies! How well we fought! But he ought not to have left the hedge! Mistake, that!'

'So you have said,' she murmured. 'But that is all past now. My brother was not hurt; and you—I hope you are better now.'

'I'm all right,' he said, thinking he had been asleep only a few hours. 'I'll get up now.'

'No, no!' she said, laying her hand softly on his arm. 'You are not well enough yet. You were hurt—have been very ill—'

'I'll! said Geoffrey, rather indignantly. 'I was never ill in my life! And from a pack of gipsies! Nonsense; I want to get up!'

'But it is not nonsense,' she pleaded, in a voice which thrilled him and made him blink at her. 'You have been very ill indeed; and are far too weak to get up. You must wait. My brother—the man you saved, you know—would be very angry and hurt if you attempted to get up.'

'Your brother?' he said, after trying to raise himself on his elbow. 'What is your name?'

'Eva—Eva Rashleigh,' she said, blushing slightly—for his eyes were fixed on her keenly, and with the stare of the invalid to whom returning consciousness is a strange thing, and rather bewildering.

He put his hand to his head and tried to remember. He knew the name of Rashleigh, of course; but when he was a boy he had been at the castle Eva and Edward had been abroad with their father.

The red stained his pale face, for he was thankful that she did not know him. And now she would ask his name—and he was nameless; nameless, here in the land of his forefathers!

And—and—have you been nursing me? Surely not, Miss Rashleigh!' he said, almost horror-stricken by the idea.

'Our old servant, Martha, has been nursing you,' said Eva, in her soft voice; 'but she has allowed me to help her sometimes.'

It is to be hoped that this suppression of the truth does not stand to Miss Eva Rashleigh's debit in the book of the recording angel!

Geoffrey looked somewhat relieved and dropped back with a sigh.

'I was afraid you—you had,' he said, almost to himself. 'I seem to remember your voice; as if it had come to me through my dreams. I must have been an awful nuisance. How many days have I been lying here?'

'A great many,' said Eva, with gentle evasion; 'but I hope you will soon be able to get up and go out. Here it is my brother. Oh, Edward! see, he has recovered consciousness!' she said in a lower voice, and one full of tender joy.

Gas Distended His Stomach

'My last wish will be,' writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveller of Hartford, 'that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it is too late, that Nerville is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start, and find my heart jumping like a thrashing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerville I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents hiccups or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerville. Do you wonder why I recommend it?'

For general household use Nerville has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerville, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Tesimonial No. 4890.

Longed families are very convenient at times, especially at election times. You can come out on top no matter which side wins. For instance, supposing you are on one side and you have a few last year's party will lose, you can then start out for your uncle's on a good dark night when no one is looking and make a deal with him to fight on the other side, according to the latest philosophy one of you have to win, because there are only two parties in the field. Mouse around in a sheepish manner and keep your eyes socked for every fiddle-faddle, run and tell the boss what you heard last night; if he looks disinterested and likely to doubt your yarn, fire some hot words into the conversation, don't be particular as to truth—do anything to make the boss believe you have a pull. If you're handy on sandy men's work, make a walking stick for one of the principal gags of the crowd. You can depend upon him telling the boss that you're all right, all right, and that all the boys are ready to fall in line with your way of thinking.

All this time be sure and keep your uncle up to his work. Got him to denounce you good and hard if necessary, but both of you should work so hard for either side that you will be able to influence the leader who wins into getting a job for you both, or if he have jobs, into holding them to matter which side wins.

There are many more wrinkles which will give you nothing later on, but these ought to help the ordinary every-day man to hold a job against all obstacles.

Nerves Were Exhausted

Wants others to know of her remarkable cure by use of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Mrs. Martin's condition as described in her letter below gives some idea of the extraordinary reconstructive power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Such cases as this have placed Dr. Chase's Nerve Food where it stands today as the most popular and most effective nerve restorative that money will buy.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ager's Cliff, Que., writes:—'Before I began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor in a faint. I could not even sweep the floor without fainting and my nervous system seemed to be entirely exhausted.'

'The use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has built up my system wonderfully so that I can do my housework and washing without any trouble, and I want others to know about it.' To assist on getting the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cts. a box, 3 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Gas Distended His Stomach

'My last wish will be,' writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveller of Hartford, 'that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it is too late, that Nerville is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would waken with a start, and find my heart jumping like a thrashing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerville I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents hiccups or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerville. Do you wonder why I recommend it?'

For general household use Nerville has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerville, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Tesimonial No. 4890.

Longed families are very convenient at times, especially at election times. You can come out on top no matter which side wins. For instance, supposing you are on one side and you have a few last year's party will lose, you can then start out for your uncle's on a good dark night when no one is looking and make a deal with him to fight on the other side, according to the latest philosophy one of you have to win, because there are only two parties in the field. Mouse around in a sheepish manner and keep your eyes socked for every fiddle-faddle, run and tell the boss what you heard last night; if he looks disinterested and likely to doubt your yarn, fire some hot words into the conversation, don't be particular as to truth—do anything to make the boss believe you have a pull. If you're handy on sandy men's work, make a walking stick for one of the principal gags of the crowd. You can depend upon him telling the boss that you're all right, all right, and that all the boys are ready to fall in line with your way of thinking.

All this time be sure and keep your uncle up to his work. Got him to denounce you good and hard if necessary, but both of you should work so hard for either side that you will be able to influence the leader who wins into getting a job for you both, or if he have jobs, into holding them to matter which side wins.

There are many more wrinkles which will give you nothing later on, but these ought to help the ordinary every-day man to hold a job against all obstacles.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

They were really very nice looking girls. Their gloves were neat, their shoes nicely polished, their voices well modulated, and they sat rather than slouched, and put their feet flat on the floor instead of crossing them the way so many of the girls of to-day do—and yet what do you think they were doing? Eating peanuts and throwing the shells on the floor of the car.

It wasn't the public peanut eating I minded—it was out in the country and they were plainly enjoying a Saturday afternoon—but it was the careless way they threw those shells on the floor.

It seems to me that the untidiness of the average American in such matters is really something to be ashamed of.

Public spirited women in many of the large cities in the United States are interesting themselves in the matter of maintaining more efficient cleaning departments.

It is an excellent field for their efforts. Women are instinctively house-cleaners and why shouldn't they have something to do with the housecleaning of the city?

But there is another thing along this line for them to do nearer home, and that is to try to teach their children to be tidy out of doors as well as within the house.

Train them not to think of throwing a paper bag or a handful of peanut shells or an orange skin or the wrappings from their candy, or any similar refuse or litter in the middle of the street, any more than they would think of throwing them in the middle of the parlor floor.

In the home children are taught to use waste baskets for such things as a matter of course.

Why not train them outdoors to use waste barrels in the same way? Often I have seen little people who, from their appearance I felt sure were at least decently tidy in their homes, throw down paper and banana peels, etc., within a few feet of these waste barrels.

And not only little people by any means, but big people, too.

A friend of mine who has recently returned from a trip abroad told me of an amusing but thought-provoking little experience that he had in Paris.

One day when he had been on the other side but a short time he was walking along the street opening his mail, which he had just received.

He tore open something he thought a letter, found it only a cleverly concealed "ad." and, in disgust, threw it into the gutter.

A moment later he was approached by a gendarme, who said something to him in French.

My friend, who does not understand French, said so, and tried to pass on, but the gendarme refused to let him.

Instead he began pointing at something.

The American looked and saw the policeman was pointing at the piece of paper he had dropped and making signs for him to pick it up.

And he had to pick it up and drop it into a receptacle provided for the purpose before the gendarme would cease his unwelcome attentions.

Too much red tape, too much government, you say.

Perhaps so, but very clean and attractive streets are the corollary.

If any group of women wants to do a little civic betterment work I do not think they can do anything more to the point than to stir up the authorities in their community to provide plenty of receptacles for the deposit of litter and refuse, and then pledge themselves to unflinchingly make use of these receptacles, and influence all whom they can to do likewise.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, it cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It stimulates the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so gives health and strength to the whole body.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients priced on wrapper.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

A light diet, largely composed of fruit and vegetables, is best for spring.

If knives are spotted, rub them with a cut potato dipped in wood ashes.

If a tea stain resists the usual boiling water, whiskey is sure to take it out.

Clam or oyster shells dumped into the fire act like magic in freeing the grate from cinders.

If a new broom is soaked for half an hour in strong brine it will remain crisp much longer.

Scalloped oysters are much better if cooked in individual dishes rather than a pudding dish.

A weak solution of oxalic acid will freshen old straw matting. It should be applied with a woolen cloth.

Teacups that have turned brown and silver that is discolored by egg can be brightened by rubbing with wet salt.

It is a wise precaution against getting holes in delicate hosiery to powder the shoes before putting them on. Salmon and cream cheese make a delicious sandwich. Spread the fish on the cheese to make the slices stick together.

When wardrobe and bureau drawers have a tendency to stick, a thorough application of soap will usually prove effective.

Cauliflower should be turned downward when cooking so that the steam may not by any means settle on the white part.

Little caps made of heavy cloth and fitted over the ends of rockers will save much damage to furniture and baseboards.

Stains on mirrors and window glass may be removed by an application of spirits of camphor, which leaves a brilliant polish.

When not in use, expensive knives should be kept wrapped in tissue paper and locked in a box belonging to them.

To keep deep fat from splashing when croquettes are dropped into it, sift just a little flour into the fat when it is hot.

For the benefit of women with recipes which call for eggs by weight instead of numbers, ten eggs of medium size weigh a pound.

Burns should always be treated quickly to save pain and avoid scars. Baking soda, olive oil, scraped raw potato, molasses and even milk are efficacious.

Plaster of Paris figures which have become dingy and brown may be brushed with a soft brush and then washed with warm soap-suds without injuring them.

A German balloon struck by lightning fell near butterfield in Prussian Saxony, and the crew of four were killed.

A Tonic

Tired? Just as tired in the morning as at night? Things look dark? Lack nerve power? Just remember this: Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a strong tonic, entirely free from alcohol. It puts red corpuscles into the blood; gives steady, even power to the nerves; strengthens the digestion.

A Bowel Medicine

Prevents Constipation, Appendicitis, Keeps Complexion Clear, Assures Sound Health.

Two remarkable Cases described by Mr. Hugh Cameron of Folger Station, Ont., Proving the Merit of

"I am now quite an old man," writes Mr. Cameron, "it being sixty-six years since I left my native town in Scotland. In that time I have witnessed much sickness and suffering. One case I recall occurred with a neighbor who I heard was about ready to die with appendicitis. I went to see him and found he had been ordered to the hospital weeks ago for an operation. But he put it off and I found him in bed suffering agony—four days had elapsed since his bowels moved. Having used Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly for 25 years I knew they would help him and I gave him three pills. In two days he was around, and I know that ever since, this man has enjoyed excellent health and simply because he used Dr. Hamilton's Pills three times a week. No case of constipation can possibly go uncured if treated with Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

CURED 5 YEARS

"In my own family we use practically no other medicine but Dr. Hamilton's Pills. To keep the digestion good, to regulate the bowels and maintain healthy action of the liver and kidneys no remedy I ever heard of is so dependable and so certain to do good as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For the father who lives as I do, far from a doctor and drug store, the knowledge of the power and wide usefulness of Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all family ills is very valuable. I have administered them for nearly every complaint for which they are recommended and in each case this honest medicine cured."

Signed, Hugh Cameron,
Folger Station, P.O., Ont.

Tucker and Shannahan Visit the Board of Trade.

Myself and Tucker strolling down Water Street to-day took a look into the New Board of Trade Rooms. Tucker was amazed and I stood still as we gazed on the splendid apartments the Board occupies.

Do you remember the old Commercial Rooms, said Tucker, that we used to have before the Fire. They stood upon Duckworth Street, opposite the Commercial Bank building, and they would remind you of some ancient and musty place of which Dickens wrote. I can see them now. I can picture before my eyes the old gas lamp that glistened out over the door, and the old religious looking janitor comes up vividly in my mind. Solemn and mysterious, these rooms sent a feeling of dread all over you, and you wouldn't be a bit surprised if you got six months in jail for having the audacity to enter in. Green-baize on a door always had a bad effect on my nerves, and in the old Commercial Rooms green-baize and copper nails met you as you entered, and said out bold and strong—be careful. Snug men, with very aristocratic whiskers, sauntered up around there about one o'clock, an hour when the commonality went to their hash. No common man would dare go within a mile of them; and here the prices for fish and seals and grub were fixed. Shares in the Commercial Bank were also sold here and only tony people were expected to be presumptuous enough to make a bid. That they paid for being tony we well know, and it is only another demonstration of not knowing as the time that we were in luck. Times are changed and now you can stroll into the Board of Trade Rooms without walking on the tip-toe. People are changing a bit, too; slowly perhaps, but nevertheless we are all beginning to realize that 'tis easier to get along, and we make better strides in the race of life when rich and poor, workingman and merchant, pull together, for the barrier of distrust is removed, and we move along on the road to prosperity without stopping to kick up a row, or find fault with one another.

TIM SHANNAHAN.

Children must have good blood, otherwise they will be puny, sickly and delicate. If your children are pale, easily exhausted, give them Kervolin, the invigorating tonic, which is composed of fresh meat, extract of iron and pure old Spanish Sherry Wine. Nothing could be more beneficial in such cases. $1 a bottle.

Train Notes.

By the Bruce express at 6 p.m. yesterday there went Rev. Mr. Ross, C. W. Beasley, D. Ferguson, J. Fitzgerald, F. Maher, J. Gosse, Miss L. Noonan and about 50 second class, including some pugle fishermen.

The local arrival at 9.15 last night bringing Moses Dwyer, Miss Dwyer, H. Duder, N. Puhis, Conductor Foley and 15 others.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA. Your system is in a run down condition. You catch cold. You think it will soon pass off. It doesn't. You neglect taking any special care of yourself. Bronchitis develops and then comes pneumonia and a fight for life. A fight which is too often unsuccessful. Why not take every cold seriously and cure it promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linaeed and Turpentine.

SHOULD BE REPAIRED.—The retaining wall in the lane leading from the rear of the Star Hall to Theatre Hill is almost falling down and repairs should be given it. Boys play about it daily and run the risk of being badly hurt.

Look out for Your Blood

You can't expect the blood to be pure and rich when you are bilious and your stomach is upset.

Of course, it is "spring fever." But why feel badly at all? Why not keep the blood pure, the liver active, the bowels regular, the whole system well and strong, by taking a morning glass of Abbey's Salt?

His Latest.

We congratulate Premier Morris on his assiduity in keeping himself before the public, both at home and abroad.

Last year he boomed himself by talking through his hat about his ability to man twenty Dreadnoughts, and afterwards failed to do anything. Last year he made himself ridiculous in another way.

What need there was to tell the Newfoundlanders who assembled at Hoffman House to honour the Premier of Newfoundland that there was no sentiment in Newfoundland in favour of annexation to the United States, and that the people of Newfoundland were loyal to the Crown, we do not know. Surely they knew both facts as well as Sir Edward Morris does.

If the announcement was meant for Americans generally, then it appears to us as derogatory to the high office Sir Edward Morris holds, and to the people he represents.

Surely, it was an absurd proceeding for a Premier of a British State to make a serious speech in a foreign country, with the effect of announcing to foreigners that there was no sentiment of rebellion against the Crown and that there was no movement on foot with the object of joining them.

Fancy Premier Asquith delivering a speech in France and solemnly informing Frenchmen that the British people were absolutely loyal to the British Crown, and that the annexation of England to France was a visionary project. What would the British people think of such conduct? What would Frenchmen think?

As Americans are accustomed to Rooseveltism, they would size us as smartly Morrisism, and what they scanned of it in the newspapers this morning they have probably forgotten now.

Such a course may be good personal advertising, but it is neither dignified nor worthy of the country he represents nor the Crown whom he serves.

Sir Edward, however, struck a truer note when he spoke of the decided friendliness which exists between Newfoundlanders and the American people.

We note with satisfaction that Sir Edward stated that there was less prospect than ever of Confederation with Canada, and that "Canada has nothing to offer Newfoundland, which could induce her to sacrifice her independence to become a province of the Dominion." In the words of Sir Robert Bond, "Newfoundland prefers to paddle her own canoe."

She will go into commission on June 1st and will carry freight and passengers to Bell Island.

When the pilot boat Pilot was off Blackhead at 5 o'clock this morning something went wrong with her motor and she could not proceed. She was sailed into a point by the Southern Head where she anchored, after which a crew went ashore in the ship's boat and brought out one of the old pilot boats to be used should vessels arrive. In the meantime repairs were effected to the motor.

The veteran fishkiller, Capt. John Kennedy, is now here from Carbonara getting ready for the summer's fishery, which he prosecutes at Sloop Cove, Labrador. Two Fire Alarms.

At 8.30 this morning Miss Grace Lewis ran to the Eastern Fire Station with a verbal alarm just as a similar message was turned in from box 16. The blaze was at the residence of Miss C. Harvey, Musgrave Terrace. The Eastern and Central firemen responded and found that the woodwork of the attic window in the rear was in flames. The fire, which was caused by a spark from the chimney lighting on the shingles, ate its through and the chemical engine was employed in quenching it. The men had to chop away considerable of the woodwork to get at the seat of the blaze and about $100 worth of damage was done.

At 9.35 a.m. an alarm was sent in from box 221 for a fire at the residence of Mrs. John Cleary, Junction of Rennie's Mill and Monkstown Roads. The roof was on fire from a cause similar to that which ignited Harvey's residence, and the fire was quenched by the Central men from a house used by the Central men to house the blaze. A small hole was burned in the roof.

Trouble of a Mariner.

Dear Sir,—Allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper to state a few remarks about the pilots and tugboats of the port of St. John's and incidentally to express my opinion on the subject.

I am not the first who has complained, and with good reason, of their not being able to procure the service of a pilot or tug when only a short distance off the Narrows, and thereby compelled to lengthen an already sufficiently long voyage by days and sometimes weeks.

For instance, only a short time ago one of our foreign going vessels, after a good run across the Atlantic, arrived close off the Narrows, so close that the lights of the city of St. John's were in full view and the crew were congratulating themselves on having the night on shore. The captain ordered the ship put under easy sail. The gaff topsail was clewed up, the topgallant sail and flying jib were taken in and a reef put in the mainsail. Then a flare was fired continually for over an hour, and every minute the pilot boat or tug was expected alongside. But this expectation proved vain. The ship had to be put to sea again, and that night experienced the worst weather for the whole voyage. About daylight next morning, after being away for 24 hours, the ship was put to sea again until high noon, when they were again and put back for the land. After making Cape Spear and signalling (which was done each time land was made before they were about to reach to sea again, when at last the smoke of a tug was seen approaching and the ship was taken in tow two miles off the coast at this time of the year, it must be remembered, and once in it is not easy to get clear again.

What is needed in a port like St. John's is a couple of good sea-going tugs and pilot boats—boats capable of going 20 or 30 miles to sea and staying there. Why not have them in St. John's? They are to be found all over the world in ports far less important than this one.

Now, Mr. Editor, it is my opinion, an opinion which I think will be backed by every foreign going seaman who sails out of this country, that if the money now expended by the Government in erecting public buildings in places where there is no earthly need of them was spent in the purchase of good sea-going tugs and pilot boats, it would be far better than the way it is now squandered.

I fear that I have already trespassed too far on your space, but before closing I would wish to say that seamen, the men who make possible the business of our country are deserving of better treatment than they at present receive.

Yours truly,
MARTINGALE.

Famous Wrestlers.

Champion of Japan on the Way to England.

A group of men whose class has no parallel in Europe and whose chief representatives had never before left their native island are about to land in England.

They consist of a score of Japanese wrestlers, including the champion of Japan, and with their company are some ten henchmen. For these wrestlers will never separate from their body-servants, of whom, perhaps, the most important is the cook, but the trainer and masseur and barber and clothier, with their assistants, are hardly less essential.

The physique of the wrestlers is astonishing, and is the result of a more intense form of feeding than any gourmand ever aimed at. Weight is the chief requisite, and by means of "passive exercise"—that is to say, massage—incalculable quantities of food can be absorbed by these giants in girth.

The wrestlers are a complete caste or class, graded and numbered and registered according to their capacity. As they originally formed to provide incumbents of poor parishes with a source of income, they have a semi-religious as well as an athletic cachet.

They will perform regularly during the exhibition at Shepherd's Bush in the Japanese Fair, and their methods should prove interesting to wrestling students. In spite of their ponderous build they are very active and start with catch-as-catch-can tactics before trying the fall, which is accomplished by some curious lifts and trips. These wrestlers will be one of the most novel features of the exhibition. Their art is entirely different from that of the jiu-jitsu wrestlers and is practised with the becoming seriousness of a great profession.

A Word from LaScie.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Mr. Editor.—Kindly allow me space in your widespread paper to say a word or two. The past winter has been the most pleasant one for the last twenty years. We have had a lovely winter all the way through, the sea-coast has been clear of ice the greater part of February and March, and up to the present time there is no ice to be seen. Everything seems to be pointing forward to an early fishery, and as to land, there is less snow and frost in it than for many years. We are charmed with the Rev. A. Pittman's sermon at the table. After tea the Rev. A. Pittman was chairman. A large number from the Church attended. Well done, Pitt Cove, which is never behind on a Saturday night. The preparations for the fishery are opening up with a swing and everyone is looking forward to that industry, which is the pride of our country.

I am, sir,
ONE INTERESTED.

Mary's Comicalities.

Tells of How Men are Made Horses of and Other Items.

Dear Sir.—Business is rushing here just now, it seems to me that the vacation lately has purified people's blood and made them different beings. Work on the Bear's Cove public wharf is going on, and Tom wanted to look for a job there this morning. But, my sakes, I would sooner pick dandelion and musrooms than allow the poor old fellow to go to work there after what I saw on Saturday.
I got up early Saturday morning and got through all my housework by 10 o'clock, and I then got ready to go to Mosquito to select a suitable place to erect a seat near John Guy's sawmill, where Tom and I are going to act the part of Mr. and Mrs. John Guy. In August next, we are going to dress in the old Bristol costume, and will make all our friends welcome. Tom thinks we might get permission to sell a "wee drop" like they used to do before now; but, my laws, we'd never get it good enough now-a-days to act that.

Having looked the door and placed the key in a hollow in the dogberry tree only known to Tom and myself, I was soon on the way to Bristol's Hill. I saw three poor men dragging a stick, a big stick, chopped all ready to be placed in position. The poor fellows were hardly able to speak, so fatiguing was the work. I heard since it was a "briar" for the Bear's Cove public wharf. On top of the hill I saw several or eight more men leisurely chopping other sticks, and occasionally looking wistfully out to the eastward, as if they were looking for the comet. Before I let my Tom go with a rope over his shoulder hauling sticks over Mosquito Hill, or even go up on the top and strain his poor old eyes looking for the comet, I tell you what I'd do. I'd eat my dog, like Mat Henson said they did when Bob Bartlett left them and they made the final dash for the Pole. He said they had a feast and called it on the menu, whatever that is, muck-ox; but I would call it de la pique. I went to Mosquito and I really think it time to change the name. Tom says the name is all right as the people are as friendly as the little fly by the place takes the name after. However, I think it would be nice to change the name this summer and call it something appropriate to the occasion—say Bristol's Hope.

Another crowd are working on Glover Road, but Tom had a sweet heart over there years ago, so I think it would remind him too much of his youth to allow him to go in there, and you know, Mr. Editor, when we come to look back on our youth our old age and infirmity always makes us sad. I was delighted with Tim Shannahan's remarks about that narrow-souled shopkeeper. If I only knew him I would tell him to come over to my house. Harbor race would be the right place for him. I enjoy reading Tim's letters very much and so does Tom. As for myself I go to Carboneau's sometimes shopping, and in my next, which will, I hope, be on Saturday, I will tell you a little about a late visit I had there and how well I was treated.
Yours etc.,

Have They a Lease of Life?

If men's whole time is absorbed in their occupation that they cannot give a moment to better things in life—of charity, to education, to civic duty—it is not because they cannot find time for it, or they don't approve of it; it is simply because they are the habit of saying, "there is plenty of time or we'll do it to-morrow. We say live right to-day, there may be no to-morrow; we have no means in life, or do not delay, but go to-day to E. FRIEDMAN and get your Clothing Dry Goods and Furniture for Cash or Credit. E. FRIEDMAN, 291 Water St., Water Side. Phone 548. P. O. Box 5.

Entertainment at Logy Bay

The R. C. parishioners of the nearby settlement of Logy Bay are preparing for a concert to be given at this place on Wednesday, May 4th. Many prominent performers from the city are giving their assistance including Mr. J. J. Grady and other popular players who will produce that beautiful Irish playlet entitled "An Exile's Honour." P. F. Moore, Esq., M. H. A., will also contribute songs, dances etc. The proceeds of this entertainment are to be devoted to the worthy object of improving the Chapel and school house. This affair promises to be a treat and no doubt will be pre-eminently successful.

Attacked the Police.

As Const. O'Flaherty was doing his beat on Water Street West last night, a man who is well known to the police approached, and after insulting him grossly attempted to attack the officer. He woke up the wrong man, for O'Flaherty grappled with him and before the other could realize it he had the bracelets upon him, he was then driven to the station.

Cannot be Found.

Last night Const. Quinlan and Constables N. Pugh and P. J. O'Connell were in connection with the prosecution of the man who held up the passenger train at Briggs Junction last week. We learn that the ringleader in the matter who is a native of Harbor Main District cannot be found. It is thought he quietly left for foreign parts by the express which left here Sunday.

Eight Flour Concerns Consolidate.

An interesting feature in connection with the consolidation of eight of the larger oatmeal and flour concerns of Ontario, into the Canadian Cereal and Milling Company, is that unlike a number of other consolidations, it has been put through to a very large extent by the practical interests who have been at the heads of the different companies for a number of years past, and have recognized that a great deal of money could be saved each year by having the various concerns adjusted to modern business principles, resulting as it would in one central management and distribution from the mills nearest to the points from which the orders would be received.

In this connection it is also interesting to note that a very large number of the men who have been identified with the old concerns will, besides retaining a very substantial financial interest in the new company, be actively identified with it.

The headquarters of the new company will be situated in Toronto, arrangements already having been made by which the company will occupy the entire centre floor of the new Lumsden Building at the corner of Yonge and Adelaide Streets. Mr. J. D. Flavelle, the President of the Flavelle Milling Company, of Lindsay, will be the President of the new company, and Mr. Geo. Goldie, of the Goldie Milling Company, Vice-President and Managing Director, with its headquarters in Toronto.

To-Night, Hambourg Piano Recital.

Again, graced by the presence of their Excellencies Sir Ralph and Lady Williams, Mark Hambourg will give his farewell recital at the Methodist College Hall to-night. Even a greater treat than that of Monday evening is in store for those who attend. Mr. Hambourg will present a programme that embraces a collection of the really greatest compositions written for the pianoforte. Among the selections will be Chopin's celebrated Funeral March, that which no composition over written in music so marvellously depicts human emotions. It is to be hoped that the music lovers of St. John's will not miss the opportunity to hear the great master.

Band Instruments Presented at the S. A. Citadel.

Seven new band instruments were presented formally at the S. A. Citadel last night by Hon. D. Morison. Amongst those present were Hon. S. D. Blandford, Mr. H. Piccott, Mr. R. Squires and Col. Rees. Mr. Morison was invited to the chair and delivered an address on the good work being done by the Army in connection with the work of the Citadel and as for Confederation with Canada there is less prospect of that than ever, Canada has nothing to offer Newfoundland which could induce her to sacrifice her independence to become a province of the Dominion.

PEACE AT CHANGSHA.

OTTAWA, April 26.—The Government bill to bring the Atlantic Cable Companies under the control of the Railway Commission in respect to rates and facilities was by special reference before the Senate Railway committee to-day. Hon. Mr. Lemieux announced that amendments had been agreed to. Section 4 is dropped. It read: "Any provision in any special act inconsistent with this act is repealed." The Postmaster General said that from this Parliament the Commercial Cable Company had special statutory powers and it was not desired to alienate these. If other cables reduced their rates it would do so in its own interest. The act would come into force only upon similar legislation being enacted by the United Kingdom. He said he had the undertaking of Hon. Mr. Buxton that such legislation would be brought down as soon as parliamentary matters became calmer in Great Britain.

NO ANNEXATION.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.
NEW YORK, April 26.—Annexation of Newfoundland either to the United States or Canada is a visionary project, according to Sir Edward Morris, Premier of the island, who expressed this view at a farewell dinner given in his honor by his countrymen at the Hoffman House to-night, previous to his departure to attend the Fisheries Conference at the Hague. While a very decided friendliness exists between Newfoundland and the American people, said the Premier, and while thousands of Newfoundlanders have found a home in this country the people are absolutely loyal to the British Crown. There is no annexation sentiment among the islanders, and as for Confederation with Canada there is less prospect of that than ever, Canada has nothing to offer Newfoundland which could induce her to sacrifice her independence to become a province of the Dominion.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor,—Mark Hamburg's Piano Recital last night was not only a great treat to this community in that an evening of rare entertainment was afforded, but was also an object lesson in piano playing that should not be lost to the observance of some of our local players and critics. Here we had a piano player who calmly sat at his instrument discoursing the most exquisite compositions with rarest skill, but without any bodily contortions or acrobatic feats; a player who played for his music with no effort to draw attention to himself. There was no breaking of piano strings, no hammering of keys, no physical pose or distracting movements, but a most delightful flood of melodies and harmonies, silvery ripples and feathering touches, without noise or gush.

Now, Mark Hamburg is a world-renowned artist, and the lesson to us is that in music virility is not noise, neither does excellence consist in physical display. The music must be the great consideration always, not the player, and music can be best interpreted when personal display and noise is avoided. In fact it might almost be said of music as of angling, "Keep out of sight."

Perhaps the local players are not so much to blame for some of our musical prostitutions as the audiences, who, led by the "wise" in music, demand by their applause such exhibitions of noise and show as must make composers turn in their graves. Perhaps the recitals of this eminent artist will help us to set a higher standard in this community, and as we see the bad taste of some of the knowing ones, we will realize that a true appreciation of musical excellence may be the possession of all and not confined to the few.

Yours truly, X.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DAN-DRUFF.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—"Delegate's" letter, published in your issue of Saturday past, is an eye-opener to Union printers. The writer of that letter, whoever he may be, deserves the thanks of all employers and employees in Printerdom. He certainly throws out some solid chunks of wisdom, and I hasten to take off my hat to him. The Typographical Union should move in the matter, with the view of protecting its members and those giving employment. It is certainly an injustice to those employing printers that such a state of affairs should continue without an effort being made to stop it. To my mind, Mr. Editor, those parties who patronize those "little" job-shops simply because they get their tickets, programmes, etc., printed a few cents cheaper than at the daily newspaper offices, are not aware of the injustice they are doing. When they are on the eve of giving an entertainment of any kind they are wise enough to know that its success depends largely on the dailies, whose columns invariably contain free notices, "boosting" it and calling on the general public to patronize it. It will be readily admitted that, without such newspaper aid, in nine cases out of ten, the entertainment would be a rank financial failure. Then, Mr. Editor, how are the proprietors of those dailies treated in return for such kindness? In this way: Owing to their having to pay Union wages, and bound down to the 3-hour system, they are compelled, in order to pay their staff, to charge a few cents more for a job than the owners of the "little" offices. The latter would make a profit where the former would lose—simply because, as "Delegate" pointed out, they employ boys at a low rate of wages and are working night-time, at certain seasons of the year. Is this fair play? I think not. Perhaps, Mr. Editor, those entertainment promoters who patronize the "little" job-shops are under the impression that newspaper proprietors are millionaires and lead a life of ease and luxury—no round of joy. "An Editor's Home," as sketched by Eugene Field, may have given them that impression. Field says:—"Here is a Castle. It is the Home of an Editor. It has stained Glass windows and Mahogany stairways. In front of the Castle is a Park. Is it not sweet? The lady in the Park is the Editor's Wife. She wears a costly robe of Velvet trimmed with Gold Lace, and there are Pearls and Rubies in her Hair. The Editor sits on the Front Step, smoking an Havana Cigar. His little children are playing with Diamond marbles on the Tesselated Floor. The Editor can afford to Live in Style. His wages are high, because the proprietor employing him gets the posters to print from entertainment promoters—the "little" job-offices being unable to print them. The black type, Mr. Editor, is mine. Would it not be just, Mr. Editor, when one of these gentlemen enters a daily newspaper office seeking free "puffs up," to be asked the question:—"Who printed your tickets, programmes, etc., for your entertainment?"

"Mr. Blank."
"Well, then, why don't you ask Mr. Blank for a free 'boost.' I'm not in the business for love of it. I'm in it to make a living. If I offer my hands thanks only, instead of cash, at the week-end, they will naturally refuse to accept it. Oh, you want me to print the poster? Mr. Blank, not having the facilities to fill that order, you are compelled to come to me! Thanks, awfully! You are very kind!"

I think, Mr. Editor, when these gentlemen take a square view of the matter, they will see the injustice of continuing a practice which is an injury to printers in general and is anything but

OBJECTS OF CONSOLIDATION.

The Canadian Cereal & Milling Co. was formed to acquire as going concerns the milling properties of the following companies:
The Tillson Company, Tillsonburg.
The Flavelle Milling Company, Ltd., Lindsay.
P. McIntosh & Son, Toronto.
Walter Thomson & Son, Ltd., London.
Jas. Wilson & Son, Fergus.
D. R. Ross & Son, Embro.
Woodstock Cereal Company, Ltd., Woodstock.
Goldie Milling Company, Ltd., AYR.

All the properties are in good physical condition, and the Company at its inception will have the following output per twenty-four hour day:
2,250 bbls. oatmeal and rolled oats.
2,200 bbls. flour.
150 " roller wheat.
150 " split peas.
155 " pot barley.
340 tons of feed.
and a total elevator capacity of 700,000 bushels.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS.
Leading officials who have made an examination of the output of the different concerns estimate that the new company on its first year of complete operation, based on the increased output and the savings to be effected through consolidation, should show net earnings of approximately $200,000. After providing for the payment of 6 per cent. interest on the bonds, this would be equal to about 13 per cent. on the preferred stock, and after the payment of the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred dividend would leave a surplus of about 6 per cent. on the common stock. The economies of consolidation will result from the concentration of management, the standardizing of brands, the elimination of a large amount of freight charges.

COMPANY'S STRONG FINANCIAL POSITION.

The large amount of additional capital being placed in the treasury of the new company, besides permitting of the erection of a new mill and a line of elevators, will provide it with ample working capital of over $500,000.
