A PRECIOUS INHERITANCE.

CHAPTER IX.
Rose Warner.

Nestled among the tall, old trees which skirt the borders of Laminster village, was the bird's-nest of a cottage, which Rose Warner called her home, and which, with its wealth of roses, its trailing vines and flowering shrubs, seemed fitted for the abode of one like her. Slight as a child twelve summers old, and fair as the white pond lily, when first to the morning sun it unfolds its delicate petals, she seemed too frail for earth, and both her aunt and to whom she called brother watched carefully lest the cold north wind should blow too rudely on the golden curls, which shaded her childish brow. Very, very beautiful was little Rose, and yet few ever looked upon her without a feeling of sadness; for in the deep blue of her eyes there was a mournful dreamy look, as if the shadow of some great sorrow were resting thus early upon her.

And Rose Warner had a sorrow, too, a grief which none save one had ever suspected. To him it had come with the reports, "I cannot be your wife, for I love another; one who will never know how dear he is to me."

The words were involuntarily spoken and George Douglas, looking down upon her guessed rightly that he "who would never know how much he was beloved," was Henry Warner. To her the knowledge that Henry was something dearer than a brother had come slowly, filling her heart with pain, for she well knew that whether he clasped her to his bosom, as he often did, or pressed his lips upon her brow, he thought of her only as a brother thing of a beautiful and idolized sister. It had heretofore been some consolation to know that his affections were untrammelled with thoughts of

MRS. STEVENS RECOVERS

After Years of Suffering, Tells How Her Health Was Regained,

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to you for special advice. In a short time I had regained my health and am now strong and well."
—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R.F.D., No. 2, Comanche, Okla.

Another Woman Recovers.
Newton, N.H.—"For five years I suffered from female weakness and dragging down pains. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and the pains are gone."
—Mrs. F. A. PEASLEE, R.F.D., Box 88.
Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.
If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

another; that she alone was the object of his love, and hope had sometimes faintly whispered of what perchance, might be; but from that dream she was waking now, and her face grew whiter still, as there came to her from time to time, letters fraught with praise of Margaret Miller; and if in Rose Warner's nature there had been a particle of bitterness it would have been called forth towards one whom, she foresaw, would be her rival. But Rose knew no malice, and she felt that she would sooner die than do aught to mar the happiness of Maggie Miller.

For nearly two weeks she had not heard from Henry, and she was beginning to feel very anxious, when one morning, two or three days succeeding the memorable Hillsdale celebration, as she sat in a small arbor so thickly overgrown with the Michigan rose as to render her invisible at a little distance, she was startled by hearing him call her name, as he came in quest of her down the garden walk. The next moment he held her in his arms, kissing her forehead, her lips, her cheek; then holding her off, he looked to see if there had been any change in her since they last met.

"You are paler than you were, Rose, darling," he said, "and your eyes look as if they had of late been used to tears. What is it, dearest? What troubles you?"

Rose could not answer immediately, for his sudden coming had taken away her breath, and he saw a faint blush stealing over her face, he continued: "Can it be my little sister has been falling in love during my absence?"

Never before had he spoken to her thus but a change had come over him, his heart was full of a beautiful image, and fancying Rose might have followed his example, he asked her the question he did, without, however, expecting or receiving a definite answer.

"I am so lonely, Henry, when you are gone and do not write to me," she said; and in the tones of her voice there was a slight reproach, which Henry felt so keenly.

He had been so engrossed with Maggie Miller, and the free, joyous life he led in the Hillsdale woods, that for a time he had neglected Rose, who, in his absence, depended so much on his letters for comfort.

"I have been very selfish, I know," he said; "but I was so happy that for the time I forgot everything save Maggie Miller."

An involuntary shudder ran through Rose's slender form; but conquering her emotion, she answered calmly. "What of this Maggie Miller? Tell me of her, will you?"

Winding his arm around her waist, and drawing her closely to his side, Henry Warner rested his head upon his bosom, where it had often lain, and smoothing her golden curls, told her of Maggie Miller, of her queenly beauty, of her dashing, independent spirit; her frank, ingenuous manner; her kindness of heart, and, last of all, bending very low, lest the vine leaves and the fair blossoms of the rose should bear, he told her of his love, and Rose, the fairest flower of all which bloomed around that bower, clasped her hand upon his heart, lest he should know its wild throbbings, and forcing back the tears which moistened her long eyelashes, listened to the knell of all her hopes. Hereafter her love for him must be an idle mockery, and the time would come when to love him as she loved him then would be a sin, a wrong to herself, a wrong to him, and a wrong to Maggie Miller.

"You are surely not asleep," he said at last, as she made him no reply, and, bending forward, he saw the teardrops resting on her cheek. "Not asleep, but weeping!" he exclaimed. "What is it, darling? What troubles you? And lifting up her head, Rose Warren answered, 'I was thinking how this new love of yours would take you from me and I should be alone.'

"No, not alone," he said, wiping her tears away. "Maggie and I have arranged that matter. You are to live with us, and instead of losing me, you are to gain another—a sister, Rose. You have often wished you had one, and you could surely find none worthier than Maggie Miller."

"Will she watch over you, Harry? Will she be to you what your wife should be?" asked Rose; and Henry answered, "She is not at all like you, my little sister. She relies implicitly upon my judgment; so you see I shall need your blessed influence all the same, to make me what your brother and Maggie's husband ought to be."

"Did she send me no message?" asked Rose; and taking out the tiny note, Henry passed it to her, just as his aunt called to him from the house, whither he went, leaving her alone.

There were blinding tears in Rose's eyes as she read the few lines, and involuntarily she pressed her lips to the paper, which she knew and been touched by Maggie Miller's hands.

"My sister—sister Maggie," she repeated and at the sound of that name her fast-beating heart grew still, for they seemed, very sweet to her, those words "my sister," thrilling her with a new and strange emotion, and awakening within her a germ of the deep, undying love she was yet to feel for her who had traced those words, and asked her to be his sister. "I will do right," she thought, "I will conquer this foolish heart of mine or break it in the struggle, and Henry Warner shall never know how sorely it was wrong."

The resolution gave her strength, and rising up, she, too, sought the house, where, retiring to her room, she penned a hasty note to Maggie, growing calmer with each word she wrote.

"I grant your request," she said, "and take you for a sister well beloved. I had a half-sister once, they say, but she died when a little babe. I never looked upon her face, and connected with her birth there was too much sorrow and humiliation for me to think much of her, save as of one who, under other circumstances might have been dear to me. And yet, as I grow older, I often find myself wishing she had lived, for my father's blood was in her veins. But I do not even know where her grave was made, for we only heard one winter morning, years ago, that she was dead, with the mother who bore her. Forgive me, Maggie, dear, for saying so much about that little child. Thoughts of you, who are to be my sister, make me think of her, who had she lived, would have been a young lady now, nearly our own age. So in the place of her, whom, knowing, I sweet Maggie Miller, my sister and my friend, may Heaven's choicest blessings rest on you forever, and no shadow come between you and the one you have chosen for your husband. To my partial eyes, he is worthy of you, Maggie, royal in bearing and quietly in form though you be, and that you may be happy with him will be the daily prayer of

"ROSE."

The letter was finished, and Rose gave it to her brother, who, after its perusal, kissed her, saying: "It is right, my darling. I will send it tomorrow with mine; and now for a ride. I will see what a little exercise can do for you. I do not like the color of your face."

But neither the fragrant summer air, nor yet the presence of Henry Warner, who tarried several days could rouse the drooping Rose; and when at last she was left alone, she sought her bed, where for many weeks she hovered between life and death, while her brother and her aunt hung over her pillow, and Maggie, from her woodland home, sent many an anxious inquiry and message of love to the sick girl. In the close atmosphere of his counting-room, G. Douglas, too, again battled manfully with his old love, listening each day to hear that she was dead. But not thus early was Rose to die, and with the waning summer days she came slowly back to life. More beautiful than ever, because more ethereal and fair, she walked the earth like one who, having struggled with a mighty sorrow, had won the victory at last; and Henry Warner, when he looked on her sweet, bleached face, and listened to her voice as she made plans for the future, when "Maggie would be his wife," dreamed not of the grave hidden in the deep recesses of her heart, where grew no flower of hope or semblance of earthly joy.

Thus little know mankind of each other!

Away Goes All Stomach Misery

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia five minutes later.

If you had some Diapiesin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach. Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Distress or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides there will be an undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with noxious odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly cure almost any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

Did anyone ever, I wonder, wait at a meeting place for a tardy friend, without passing through three distinct states of mind?

The first state of mind is one of irritation. "She is always late," you think as you consult your watch; "I will never promise to meet her again. I suppose she'll have some story of the cars being slow for she always does. There's no sense in it. She ought to allow for that when she starts."

How long this state of mind lasts all depends upon your previous experience with your friend's capability for tardiness. In ordinary cases it would endure from five to ten minutes. At the end of that time, irritation gives place to an entirely new feeling.

This new state of mind, as of course you know if you have ever waited for anyone, is a growing wonder if you or she could have made any mistake in the time or place appointed for meeting. "Could she have said R's instead of S?" you question yourself. "We used to meet at R's. No, I'm sure she said S's. For I remember thinking that they had a nice waiting room in here." "Could it have been half past three instead of half-past two?" is the next question. "No," you assure yourself "because she never could have expected us to get all we planned done and get out to Corn's at five. Still that would be just like her. But a good mind to telephone. But if I go away from here she'll be sure to come and think I've given her up. Oh, dear, why must she always be late?"

The third state of mind sets in earlier or later according to the temperament of the waiter. But half an hour of waiting almost always brings to the average person the apprehension that something has happened to the missing one. "Could she have been run over? These automobile accidents are so common nowadays. Can she be sick? Can it be that her mother is worse? She looked real miserable the last time I was there and she's liable to these sudden attacks. Dear me, wouldn't it be terrible for Lucy if anything should happen to her mother. She depends on her mother so much."—so runs the current of your thought, and so probable does this entirely groundless hypothesis of yours seem to you, that you have almost come to regard it as a fact, and are proportionately relieved when you see Lucy's familiar figure hurrying towards you.

"Your car broke down?" you respond to her breathless explanations. "Lucy, you do have the worst luck. I was getting real worried about you. Nonsense! Well, I guess you wouldn't say so if you were me. I felt that something must be the matter. I never waited quite so long before. How's your mother?" so you greet your recalcitrant friend, much more warmly on the whole than you would have had she come in that ten or fifteen minutes.

Is the moral to be half an hour late if you must be late at all? No, if there's any moral, it's just this—you haven't made a mistake in the time or the meeting place; she hasn't been run over or taken suddenly ill; no member of her family has died; she's just late, as she has been before, and will be again. So next time don't fret and worry. Just sit still and read a book or paper, and remember this little talk, and possess your soul in patience.

Will I do the same? I'll try to, my friend. That's the best I can promise.

Ruth Cameron

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the bedfagged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains on aches—are too great a drain upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

"I suffered grievously for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes Mrs. E. F. Dock, 707 N. 17th St., Lima, Ohio. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered in some torment. I am the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, and he sent me a box of his 'Golden Medical Discovery'. He enclosed a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery', and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Smart-Weed', and have never suffered much since. I can't tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 50 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

Fads and Fashions.

Linen is used in a new and distinctive way by being combined with other materials, as batiste, taffeta satin and washable tulle.

Embroidered linens are trimmed with ruffles of plain linen and plain linen frocks are often trimmed with ruffles of embroidered linen.

Sashes, which are a usual feature upon the present "dressy" frock, are fashioned of gossamer fabrics instead of the heavier silk or satin.

Heavy laces on the order of Russian point de venise, filet, milan and macramé are used on evening cloaks of soft satin taffeta and brocade.

Very pretty are chiffon overdresses gracefully draped from the slightly high-waisted corsage and held in at the knees by foliage and flowers.

The new cotton ottomans are extremely pretty; especially good are those striped alternately in blue and white, violet and white and tan and white.

The long sprays of osprey, which form the only ornament of the pearl and gold caps for evening coiffures are worn directly in front instead of at the side.

Jouy fleur de sole is a marvelously soft silk with gayly colored small roses scattered thickly over the white background, which is checked in a hairline.

The old-time curled ostrich plume has again come to its own. Broad-brimmed hats are trimmed with a single plume poised erect in the front or at the side.

Very new are the round-length skirts of plain taffeta with tunics of printed flowered chiffon, and skirts of striped taffeta with tunic of cloth in a contrasting color.

Dull purple diagonal cloth with coat collar and cuffs edged with gray and white striped ottoman silk are the materials used in fashioning one of the newest suit models.

Trains are of all descriptions, some long and square, others cut up in three points, and still others very long and narrow, finished at the end with tassels of gold, silver or silk.

There are many variations of the white tulle bow. Some are outlined with plaitings of fine black tulle and embellished with tiny shaped insets of white silk, hand embroidered in white.

Fascinating neck ruffles are fashioned from the shaded ribbons. Clusters of tiny flowers of silk and chiffon are introduced in the petal-like plaitings with which these ruffles are trimmed.

A very stylish belt of green leather is made in three sections. Two of the sections are joined in the center of the back and at the sides with dull gold-colored nail heads and very fine twisted gold cord.

Whipcords, two toned and whipcord diagonals are most popular for the coat and skirt suit for early spring wear. One of the smartest of

HEALTH RESTORED TO THIS FAMILY

Wife's experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food led to husband's cure.

"Since childhood I was afflicted with biliousness and sick headache," writes Mr. A. K. Van Wyck, Park Hill, Ont., "and as all the doctors' medicines and prescriptions failed to do me any permanent good, I had lost faith in all medicines. It was by accident that I came to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it had been recommended for Mrs. Van Wyck and did her so much good that she wished me to try it.

"I did so, and was surprised at the results. It is now three years since I discontinued the medicine and I have not had an attack of the old trouble. I hope that others may benefit by my experience."

The cure effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are lasting because it builds up the system and removes the cause of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Decoration of Walls.

You have all seen rooms, haven't you, where the walls "swore" at the carpet, and the carpet clasped hopelessly at the window hangings? It didn't seem physically possible for anybody to be happy or contented in such a room, did it?

The color of the walls, of course, gives the dominant tone to the room. If these are wrong, the whole effect of the room is ruined.

The keynote of modern home decoration is simplicity and harmony. Many people find that the tinted walls are most sanitary and most economical.

If your curtains, draperies and rugs are figured, take refuge in a plain wall. Your room will then gain repose and will appear larger.

In choosing a color in which to tint your walls, the question of lighting is of great importance. The color of the walls has a pronounced effect on the amount of light in a room.

A dull, shaded room, shut out from the sun, should be decorated in light shades or in a cheerful yellow. Pure white, of course, is too dazzling.

Cheery south rooms are highly satisfactory in pale greens or violets or blues. Green walls are considered to be the most restful to the eyes, but they have the disadvantage of a tendency to fade. Brown walls are always soothing.

Perhaps the safest and most serviceable wall decoration is a very light brown, tan, or ecru. These shades will harmonize with almost every bright color that may be chosen for draperies, furniture, or rugs, and they form the best possible background for pictures or ornaments.

If warmer colors are desired, rich dark greens, deep mustard color, or the wood browns are very satisfactory, especially for sitting-rooms or libraries and other rooms that are used a great deal in the winter time. In all these colors plain walls are highly desirable.

If one does not care for the severity of a plain wall surface, a stenciled border will break the monotony without disturbing the color scheme. Awkward or ill-proportioned rooms can be helped by clever decorating. A very high room can be made to appear lower by allowing the ceiling color to extend down on the wall for eighteen inches or even two feet, if the walls are very high, and using a deep stenciled border.

In decorating a ceiling, a good rule is to use a plain surface as nearly white as the side wall cover will permit. When the ceiling slants, run your side wall decoration up the slant, and decorate the latter in the same-color as you have used for the ceiling. This makes the slant less noticeable.

It is best to have the wall decoration meet the ceiling without interruption. The wooden picture moulding is not a beautifier of the room, and is no longer considered a help in hanging pictures.

The whole secret of successful decorating is this: Never chose a wall covering simply because it strikes you as beautiful or novel. Secure samples and see how they look both by natural and artificial light. Study them in relation to the color of your rugs and the style of your furniture, and also in relation to the location and use of the room to which the wall decoration forms a background.—Woman's World for March.

NEW YORK, This Morning. The Cunard liner Carpathia, having on board 858 survivors of the ill-fated Titanic, was less than 600 miles from New York at noon yesterday, and was eagerly awaited to shed a further light on Sunday night's catastrophe, which cost 1512 lives. Sable Island was in brief communication with the rescue ship for a short while yesterday morning, but no additional names to the list of survivors published were received. The Cunard Line's office officially announced yesterday afternoon that the Carpathia would likely dock at midnight Thursday.

The Titanic Horror

1312 PEOPLE DIE.

Carpathia Due to Arrive at Midnight—Ship Deficient in Life-Saving Appliances.

Special to Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, This Morning. The Cunard liner Carpathia, having on board 588 survivors of the ill-fated Titanic, was less than 600 miles from New York at noon yesterday, and word is eagerly awaited to shed further light on Sunday night's catastrophe, which cost 1312 lives. Sabie Island was in brief communication with the rescue ship for a short while yesterday morning, but no additional news to the list of survivors published was received. The Cunard Line's office officially announced yesterday afternoon that the Carpathia would likely dock at midnight Thursday.

Franklin White, of the Star Line, says the company places every faith in the message of Captain Rostron, that he has 500 survivors from the Titanic on board the Carpathia. He further said the Company had communicated with every wireless station on the coast in this vicinity, asking them to forward at once any message that might be sent by the Carpathia, but he did not know what time the Company could get into direct communication with the steamer. The Allan Line's Tunisian, which arrived yesterday, reports that on Saturday midnight, when 877 miles east of St. John's, she sent a wireless message of "good luck" to the Titanic. Later she entered a huge ice-field through which she steamed 24 hours and then stopped all night, eventually turning sixty miles south.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, This Morning. The Titanic naval architects are already busy themselves with a problem of designing a deck which can be slipped from a sinking liner, said John H. Biles, Vice-President of the Institution of Naval Architects, during the course of an interview today. He continued that "from experience, such would only be used once in fifty years. An unsinkable ship is fiction of trans-atlantic ticket-sellers, refection Mr. Biles, but all things considered, even in the case of a collision with an iceberg, a vessel of the size of the Titanic ought to be more safe than the smaller liner. A head-on collision would leave more compartments undamaged, while a side swipe could be better resisted; and it is possible to carry sufficient boats to save every soul or board of such a liner. I cannot account for the failure of the wireless apparatus on the Titanic, at almost two hours prior to her sinking, as a supplementary dynamo was carried 1500 feet above the water-line." Figures from high official source; supplied yesterday by one of the most prominent naval designers, show that 300 souls were the greatest number that could possibly be saved with the apparatus carried on the Titanic. That the vessel's facilities were just within what the Board of Trade regulations would specify for a vessel over 10,000 tons—i.e., that she be equipped with wooden and metal boats sufficient to carry 550 passengers, and with rafts and other life-saving apparatus carried on davit sufficient to carry three-fourths as many more, making the total, according to the Board of Trade regulations 922. Plans show that the Titanic carried 18 lifeboats, to accommodate 5 passengers each; but there is no evidence on the plans that she carried any collapsible boats or rafts, he life boats putting her barely within the Board of Trade Regulations.

Special to Evening Telegram.

NEW YORK, This Morning. The published list of the Titanic's saved passengers seems practically complete. Every attending circumstance in transmission of news from the Carpathia goes to show that only 328 of 610 cabin passengers are safe and that 282 passengers whose names have not yet appeared in the published lists, can be considered among the 1312 lives missing. Thousands of hopeful hearts have been turned to despair when the U. S. scout cruiser wired that she had been in communication with the Carpathia, and that the latter reported the full list of saved had been sent ashore. The remainder of the 430 persons saved were steerage passengers and members of the crew. One new name came through yesterday from the Carpathia, and through this hopes were entertained that others would follow.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, This Morning. Director Wirth, of the Davit Engineering Co., issued a statement last night that the Titanic carried 14 lifeboats and 2 cutters, with an aggregate capacity of 9,702 cubic feet, but was equipped with davits capable of handling double or three times the number of boats carried. The owners adopted this plan, he said, because if official regulations were carried out she would have to carry more boats, and it was concluded that if the law were enforced it would only take a day to install the number of boats to carry every soul on board.

LONDON, This Morning. While another day has passed without further news of the Titanic disaster, there is every evidence that sympathy has been aroused throughout the world. Several foreign governments despatched messages to the Government and King yesterday. President Taft has sent a donation of $2,625 to the Mansion House Fund; Queen Mary has donated $1,310; and the Queen Mother, $1,000. Oscar Hammerstein has offered, and the Lord Mayor has accepted, the use of his opera house for an entertainment in aid of the fund. The Shipping Federation has given $10,500 to the Mayor of Southampton's fund, and public institutions are offering to take care of orphaned children of the crew. The large shipping and other firms are contributing liberally to various relief funds; while the Convent Garden and other leading theatres are preparing special performances to help he cause along.

Will Make Hair Grow

Every up-to-date woman should have radiant hair. There are thousands of women with harsh, faded, characterless hair, who do not try to improve it. In England and Paris women take pride in having beautiful hair. Every Canadian woman can have lustrous and luxuriant hair by using SALVIA, the Great American Sage Hair Tonic. McMurdo & Co. sell a large bottle for 50 cents, and guarantees it to banish Dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in ten days, or money back.

The Police Court.

A 29 year old laborer of Bond St., drunk, was released on depositing $1. A 48 year old fireman of Scotland, who took shelter at the Police Station last night, was released this morning. A 35 year old fireman, charged with desertion, is held under arrest.

Bruce at Sydney.

The S. S. Bruce, Capt. Spracklin, arrived at 8.25 p.m. yesterday. She made the run up in 30 hours, having left here at 2 p.m. Tuesday, and had considerable fog to contend with. The ship will leave Sydney to-night and will possibly call at Port aux Basques.

CURE RHEUMATISM.

No one but those afflicted knows what torturing one has to suffer from Rheumatic Pains, and you who do, remember HILL'S PILLS are guaranteed to cure you. All Stomach Trouble, Indigestion and Kidney Trouble will disappear if you take HILL'S PILLS. Sold at 25c. a box by T. McMurdo & Co.

Wrestling Match

A large number of persons attended the C. L. B. Armoury last night to witness the wrestling match between Hammond (C.L.B.) and Avery (C.C.C.), which resulted in the former getting two straight falls. The match from start to finish was evenly contested and very exciting. The winner was congratulated by his fellow members. The main bout of the evening (Roberts vs. Carey) did not come off owing to the latter falling to put in an appearance. Mr. G. C. Fearn, accompanied by his wife and daughter returned by the Carthaginian.

Prescription 'A.'

CURES: INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA in all its forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headaches. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing." "I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a feeling of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems not worth living."

Why suffer from all these symptoms? When STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION 'A' will cure you.

Try a bottle.

Price: small size, 25 cents; postage 5 cents extra. Large size, 50 cents; postage 10 cents extra.

Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON apr. 2. Theatre Hill.

S. S. Convention.

THIRD SESSION FOR 1912.

At 10.30 a.m. the Primary Session, one of the most important branches of the S. S. life, was opened by Mrs. J. Angel, and proved of value to all present, the chairlady graciously imparting a gentle charm to the session.

The paper by Mrs. Crane, "Graded Lessons vs. International," being one of unusual ability and interest.

The Primary Session, conducted by Mrs. Watson, was, "Little ones taught great truths in the right way." The paper by Miss Goodie, "What equipment should Primary Workers possess?" showed thought, reason and careful preparation.

At 3 p.m. the chair was taken by Rev. J. Maddock, of Carbonear, and those present were privileged to hear an address on the "S. S. as an Educational Force" by Mr. S. J. Whittaway. The keen and penetrating of all matters pertaining to education, which the learned speaker undoubtedly has, proved itself more and more in the literary treat given on this occasion.

After Hymn No. 28 had been sung, Mr. A. Mews gave an address on the "S. S. as a Spiritual Force," it seemed as if two of the brightest literary gems of the Convention had been reserved for this afternoon session.

The crowning session of all was the evening one, enthralling the ideas and minds of all present, in fact, so much so, Mr. J. S. Scott, of Twillingate, requested that another Convention be held before 1915.

The Praise and Prayer Service was conducted by Rev. T. B. Darby, B.A., with harmony and beauty. The chair was then taken by Hon. H. J. E. Woods. Rev. Dr. Rogers led in prayer after which the choir sang Hymn No. 33. The committee on resolutions presented their reports through Rev. Sutherland.

1st Resolution:—"Time not ripe to appoint a Field Secretary for Newfoundland, but in the course of the summer a visit may be expected from Rev. Mr. Lucas."

2nd Resolution:—"Next Convention be held in St. John's, 1915."

All the Resolutions were carried. Rev. T. B. Darby stated that at the International Convention last year the General Secretary, Mr. Marlon Lawrence, had pledged the Newfoundland Convention for £50 whereupon in the space of 5 minutes $300 (Three hundred dollars) were given by members present, the excitement running high as who should be first. The following is the list of contributions covering a space of 3 years, $100 each year.

- Mr. A. Soper for Gower Street, $5;
- Judge Penney, for Carbonear, $10;
- Mr. A. W. Martin, for Wesley, $5;
- Mr. C. R. Steer, for George St., $5; Mr. A. Robertson, self, $5; Old Periton, $2;
- Bay Roberts, $2; Bell Island, $2;
- Shoal Harbor, $2; Topsail, $1.50;
- Fortune Bay, $5; Lady Friend, $4;
- Mr. Scott, Twillingate, $5; Mr. H. E. Cowan, Congregation, $5; Hon. H. J. B. Woods, Cochrane St., $5; Mr. Pike Grand Falls, $5; Mr. Moore, St. Anthony, $5; Mr. Parsons, Harbor Grace $5; Mr. Vatcher, Salem, $3; Presty Harbor Grace, $5; Britannia Cove, $1;
- Flat Island, $2; Cupids, $1; Brigus, $5; Freshwater, $1; Victoria, $2.50; Catalina, $2.

The following names, from which the selection for delegates to World's Convention, Zwuck, Switzerland, 1913 were then given by the Committee appointed, the Rev. C. Hackett, the incoming Executive deciding.

Hon. H. J. B. Woods, Judge Penny, Rev. J. Thackeray, Rev. T. B. Darby, Miss Horwood, Miss Bradbury, Mr. P. H. Hudson, Mr. P. A. Buffers, Mr. J. Currie, Mr. A. Robertson, Mr. E. V. Wylie.

Governor's address and reply was which see elsewhere in this issue. The reply being "God Save the King."

The Report and Nominating Committee was presented by Mr. A. Soper. The new officers are as follows: The report being received and adopted.

President, H. E. Cowan, Esq.; Vice-Presidents, R. L. Horwood, Esq., N. Pike, Esq., and E. Vatcher, Esq., J.P.; Secretary, Mr. George Grimes; Treasurer, Mr. Edwin Murray; Executive Committee, Rev. J. S. Sutherland, J. Thackeray, Messrs. A. W. Martin, C. R. Steer, A. Soper, A. C. Peters, A. Robertson, P. H. Cowan.

At this point Miss Strang rendered a solo, "O Divine Redeemer," which thrilled and delighted all present.

Rev. J. S. Sutherland addressed the large audience on Sewing and Reaping in simple but rich language. He held the attention of his hearers to try and describe the able manner in which he dwelt with the subject is beyond power of pen or writer, it will suffice to say the gems of truth and power will long remain as the result of his learned address.

After a Hymn Rev. Dr. Rogers gave an oration on "Character Building" with choice and eloquent words the Rev. Dr. thought suffering from a severe cold, inspired and captivated his hearers by the beautiful word picture.

Mr. H. E. Cowan, the new President, was then introduced, and the selection of the committee fully justified, as with eloquence and tact he gave his first speech.

After a vote of thanks had been passed to the choir conductors, Mrs. R. L. Horwood and Mr. A. Mews, and also the ladies, it was asked that all delegates and S. S. workers remain to receive the ladies beautiful supply of good cheer.

A special vote of thanks was tendered the press for their kind reports and ample space placed at the Convention's use.

Mr. F. Burnham, buyer for Knowling's firm, arrived by the S. S. Carthaginian from England where he had been visiting the English markets. It will be remembered Mr. Burnham met with an accident on his way to England during the winter and had his collar bone broken.

Hon. John Anderson, Messrs. A. Macpherson, F. Burnham and M. J. Dyer arrived by the Carthaginian.

Miss Adela Verne, pianist, arrived by the S. S. Carthaginian.

BROUGHT NO NEWS.—Quite a large crowd of people assembled on Shea's wharf last night awaiting the arrival of the Carthaginian as it was generally anticipated that she might have picked up some of the Titanic's wireless signals for aid, and hopes were expressed that she would bring more news of the disaster. Many newspaper men boarded the ship as she docked, but there was "nothing doing," as the captain and officers had not any additional information.

LOOKING FOR WORK.

By WALT MASON.

The poor downtrodden toiler came and asked me for a job; the marks of want were on his frame, he heaved a mournful sob. "My children and my sad-eyed wives are hungry as a Turk; it is to save their precious lives that I am seeking work." "Poor man!" I cried, "the work you ask I'll surely put your way! Saw up some wood—get at your task, and earn a bone a day!" "Your words," he said, with manner grand, "make my blood fairly boil! You do not seem to understand the dignity of toil! If for that price my hands I laid on axes and on saws, I would eternally degrade great Labor's sacred cause! Two bones a day, to do that chore—that is my humble tune; to start at 8 and quit at 4 and rest three hours at noon! Far better that my wives should crouch, my kids throw up their hands, than see me live to make a joke of Labor's just demands!" I pushed him gently with my feet and drove him from my door; and now he stands upon the street and talks for evermore. He cries: "The toiler's name is Paner! On earth he has no place! He has no help, no hope, no chance! The Tyrant grinds his face!"

Address

To His Excellency Sir Ralph Chomley Williams, K. C. M. G., Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Island of Newfoundland and its Dependencies.

Your Excellency: The Convention of Sunday Schools in Newfoundland, now in session in this City, desire to convey to Your Excellency our expression of loyalty to the Throne of His Gracious Majesty King George V., and our prayer for the continued blessing of Almighty God upon the Royal Family.

We further desire to assure your Excellency of our appreciation of your deep interest in the welfare of the young people of this Colony. Your visitation of schools and the demonstration in the grounds of Government House last year emphasize this fact.

Your close alliance with Church Life, and your knowledge of the Sacred Volume leads us to feel we have your sympathy in such work as the Christian Church the world over is endeavoring to accomplish through the Sunday School.

This Convention is a part of the world-wide machinery of the world's Sunday School Association representing a membership of twenty-six million Sunday School scholars in all branches of Protestant Christendom.

We beg to assure Your Excellency of our heartfelt co-operation in any and every effort for the development and enrichment of the people of this Colony.

We pray that Your Excellency and Lady Williams may experience God's gracious audience, and blessing during the period of your residence among us.

Signed on behalf of the Convention: H. J. B. WOODS

GOVERNMENT HOUSE
St. John's, Nfld.
17 April, 1912.

Dear Mr. Thackeray: It gave me great pleasure to receive to-day a deputation from the Sunday School Convention, now meeting in St. John's.

I regret that the season of the year does not admit of my inviting all the delegates to come and see me, but the summer is the only time when such gatherings may be made pleasant.

Your Convention has my entire sympathy and I am very sensible of the value to the community of those who give their time and labour to teach the children the reason for the faith which is in them.

I shall be glad if you will convey my good wishes to the members of the Convention before they separate this evening and my high appreciation of their work.

With all good wishes, I am, Yours very faithfully,
RALPH WILLIAMS.
The Rev. Joseph Thackeray.

The Carthaginian Arrives.

The R. M. S. Carthaginian, Captain McDonald, the first Allan boat for the season, arrived in port at 8 o'clock last night, 12 days from Liverpool. She left there Saturday, the 6th inst., and experienced favourable weather at the outset with strong head winds later, she met much ice and had to make a southern course. On Tuesday the ship was 35 miles S. E. of Cape Race with a dense fog prevailing so that she was unable to make any progress until yesterday afternoon when it lifted and she bore up for port slowly. She brought a fairly large freight, 25 packages of mail matter and as passengers—Hon. John Anderson, F. Burnham, Lieut. E. Carter, Mrs. (Lieut.) Shanklin, infant and nurse, J. Watson, M. J. Dyer, G. C. and Mrs. Fern, Miss Grace Fern, S. Fraser, A. and Mrs. Graham, A. Macpherson, H. L. Pike, W. T. Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. E. La Haie (Miss Auela Verne), S. and Mrs. Bowcock, J. Cook, F. Edwards, Mr. Loughhead, F. W. and Mrs. Orum, C. W. Sturn, and thirteen in steerage.

The Marconi operator on the Carthaginian was in communication with the Titanic on Saturday last before "she met" with disaster. The ill-fated ship was then 600 miles S. E. of Cape Race and reported to be on her way from Southampton to New York on Monday afternoon, when about 120 miles off Cape Race, the Carthaginian's operator was listening to the s.s. Olympic transmitting a message to Cape Race with reference to the Titanic.

PIT INTO AQUAFORTE.—Word was received yesterday afternoon that the brig, Olinda had put into Aquaforte. She is 20 days out from Barbadoes.

The lady was sitting in the first seat of the car, entering from the head of the train. She was on the outside seats; that is, she was on the side towards the bay. I was sitting in exactly the same seat on the opposite side of the car, hence my window would be open to the platform. On the platform there was assembled quite a large number of city folk, all in holiday garb and mid-summer attire. It so happened that among the crowd there was right near my window a young man, who in age would be about closing his teens. He impressed me as being a bank clerk.

BY L. MOSTLY ABOUT KELLIIGREWS

CHAPTER IV.
The route to Bell Island by way of Kelligrews is a new one, and affords the traveller a chance of seeing Cupception Bay from a vantage ground very different from that of the "way of the Cove." It was for this reason that we took the newer way so that the most would be gotten out of our tour.

We need not delay to write of Kelligrews itself, as most of our readers are well acquainted with the place from what came under our notice during the past summer, we feel confident that there was a very great increase in the number of visitors, and that the entire locality will yet become a very popular holiday and summer resort. To develop this will require a hotel, as at present the accommodation is extremely limited. Such a splendid stretch of sea shore and beach as presents itself from the tall to Kelligrews, will certainly no longer lay neglected or unappreciated. No! it cannot be. The possibilities of health and recreation were intended to be utilized, as though we have not done so, those of the near future will.

A few incidents that occurred on Kelligrews we will relate one, believing that it will convey a lesson that may not be exactly lost. At railroad stations when trains stop it is customary for passengers to look out through the windows and converse with some one standing on the platform. This is especially the case in summer time, and more so on a fine day. Just at the particular day which we write there were several very attractive young ladies on the train; and if one may judge from their hilarity and good-will, they were all having a jolly time. Among those fair ladies there was one face that greatly attracted our attention.

It was a face that gave us a whole course of study, and we being just the half-century line by almost half a decade felt that we would not create any vain thoughts in the bosom of the said lady by looking at her. In her face there was certainly beauty, and in addition to this most desirable trait of character, there were strong lines, and deep expressions of sympathy. Now, of all things that I admire in men or women, sympathy is one of the foremost.

There are so many disappointed lives around us and so many broken hearts that the person who exercises sympathy is ever an angel of comfort in my estimation at least.

The young lady in question also possessed a most figure and a majestically graceful deportment. But she was not perfect—none of us are. There were two conspicuous defects. She talked too loudly, and lacked discretion. Perhaps I was the only one who noticed these defects, because for an hour I had silently studied her physique and physiognomy. Of course she was not the only passenger who talked loudly, most of us do it more or less, though sometimes unconsciously.

The lady was sitting in the first seat of the car, entering from the head of the train. She was on the outside seats; that is, she was on the side towards the bay. ## Cascarets Cleanse Liver and Bowels.

No BILIOUSNESS, HEADACHE, SICK, SORE STOMACH, INDIGESTION, COATED TONGUE OR CONSTIPATION.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gasses, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

BOUGHT THE PROPERTY.—Dr. Peckard recently purchased the home of the March family at Old Perlickan, and it is said paid a good round figure for it.

What Happened S.S. Arizona.

Thirty-three years ago a case opposite to that of the Titanic happened to the then great grain liner Arizona when on Sunday morning early staggered into the harbor of St. John's with her bows bestruck in and her fore-compartments filled with water. She was then the largest and finest steamship afloat, and was such a wonderful sight that when she tied up at Shea & Co.'s pier the whole population of the city assembled along the waterfront and crowded every point of vantage that might afford a glimpse of her. The ship showed very graceful lines and never before had a boat of her size entered the Narrows. Her length was such that her stern was moored at Stabb's while the bow was close up to the wharf of W. & G. Rendell.

While bound from New York to Glasgow she struck a berg about 250 miles off St. John's at night and beat her bows in. Mr. Walter Grieve was on board and helped pilot the ship to port. Mr. D. Condon, the pioneer shipwright, put a false bow in her, and so securely was the work done that on arrival home it had to be blasted out of her with dynamite. He received for his work a present of £1,000 stg. and a handsome diving suit.

Miles Standish.

BY H. L. RANN.

Miles Standish is one of the Pilgrim Fathers who has rattled down through history in company with some amorous blank verse by H. Long fellow. Miles came over in the Mayflower and had all of the diseases which the Pilgrim Fathers brought with them, but he had a very low rating as a Puritan, having a temper which nobody cared to toy with and a vocabulary of rich and unadorned expletives. On account of his squatty style of architecture and a mild blue eye Miles was picked on a good deal at first by strangers, several of whom died while in the act of discovering their mistake. The Pilgrim Fathers and the Indians were not on speaking terms at this time, as the Indians used to come around and kill off a few of the neighbours and steal onions and other canned goods. As this was before the codfish trade was invented, an epidemic of the triple-plated, scurvy broke out, and the colonists were kept so busy scratching each other's backs that people couldn't tell a town meeting from a corn husking bee. Miles refused to have anything to do with the scurvy, but his friend, John Alden, got enough for two, as it is touchingly portrayed by Mr. Longfellow. Miles had been made a widower some time before, and not liking it as well as he thought he should be decided to marry Priscilla Mullins, a young lady who came as near being a coquette as any of the Pilgrim Mothers ever got without being parboiled over a slow fire for witchcraft. On the day that he intended to propose to Priscilla, Miles was called out to suffocate a few Indians, so he sent Mr. Alden with a power of attorney and a quit claim deed to his shot gun. John Alden is one of the basest characters in American history. Clad in a blue nankeen suit and the fetid atmosphere of the quinine pill, he sidled up to Priscilla and suggested that she ought to marry somebody before old age gilded her with crowsfeet, and other blemishes. Priscilla had not thought of being married that week, but after remarking "this is so sudden," or words to that effect, she laid her head on John's shoulder and spilled a number of large salt tears on his shirt front. When Standish heard the news at prayer meeting, his first impulse was to erect a modest headstone over John's remnants, but after seeing a little of John's home life and the brand of sole leather cooking he had to put up with it, he ceased to repine.

JACKMAN'S SALE CONTINUING. 25 Per Cent. Off Everything. DRESS TWEEDS.—Nothing looks as well in a Spring Costume as a nice dressy Tweed. We have them in the latest colorings and designs; all exceptional value further reduced to 37 1/2c., 45c., 59c. and 68c. per yard.

Tea Meeting at Topsail.

A very successful tea meeting, combined with a small sale of work, was held in the Lodge of the L. O. A. here on Easter Monday last under the auspices of the C. E. W. A. Its object was to help to raise funds towards the repairing or rebuilding of the Parsonage. After having stood probably some 60 years, it naturally needs extensive repairs. All the arrangements were made with excellent taste. The tables were spread invitingly with all manner of good things and the ladies of the Association were kept busy waiting on the numerous guests, who filled every vacant seat.

This was followed next evening (Easter Tuesday) at the same place by an entertainment, consisting of songs, dialogues and a magic lantern exhibition, skilfully manipulated by Mr. Gray, while the explanation of the various pictures was graphically given by Mr. H. Hayward. Several amusing dialogues were acted in splendid style, some members of the C. E. W. A. taking part. The programme throughout was well received, and continued outburst of applause, proved that the audience thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

At the conclusion the Incumbent of the Mission, Rev. T. G. Netten, highly congratulated the sisters of the Association, who were the promoters of the tea meeting and entertainment, on the grand success which they had achieved.

The C. E. W. A. is now becoming a strong and influential organization in the Mission of Topsail. They already comprise 30 members and their number are rapidly increasing. The amount of good done by the C.E.W.A. all over the Diocese is incalculable. The Incumbent thanked very heartily the master and members of the L. O. A. for kindly granting the use of the Lodge, free of charge, Mr. Gray and Mr. Hayward for their kind share and the C. wardens and others who assisted and acted as ushers, friends, too numerous to mention, several in St. John's, and several in Topsail of the other congregations, who had combined with the C. of E. people in assisting in various ways, and last, but not least, the large audience which so generously patronized the Tea-Meeting and entertainment.

The ladies of the C. E. W. A. may well, indeed, feel gratified in having thus realized $137.00, of which, after deducting the cost of expenses, and an amount for the purchase of material for work, the sum of $105.00 will be handed over to the parsonage rebuilding fund. Their numerous friends warmly congratulate them, and wish them a continued and uninterrupted career of prosperity and success in their noble work.

JACKMAN'S SALE CONTINUING. 25 Per Cent. Off Everything.

OBITUARY.

There passed peacefully away at her residence, Bannerman Street, this morning, after a protracted illness, Mrs. Bridget Fennessey, wife of Mr. John Fennessey, cooper. The deceased was well known and highly respected, especially in the West End of the city where she and her family resided for many years. She leaves three sons, one of whom is Mr. Patrick Fennessey, Supt. of Baine Johnstone's premises, and two daughters, Mrs. Patrick Brown, of Hamilton Ave., and Mrs. Jas. J. Barron, of Bannerman Street. To the sorrowing family the Telegram extends its sympathy.

There passed peacefully away last evening after a lengthy illness Miss Honora Morrissey, daughter of Mr. Martin Morrissey, of the Water Department of the Municipal Council. The deceased was in her 30th year. To her sorrowing father and relatives the Telegram extends its condolence.

Coming Home.

Yesterday Mr. Rd. White had a wire from his son, Mr. Chas. White, from Battle Harbor, saying that he was coming home and was awaiting the Home at Red Bay. Mr. White, his brother Richard, and Stanley Storey have been down in that section of the country surveying all the winter and part of last fall. They lived in tents and their experience could not have been a pleasant one, but they are insured to the rigour of northern winters and are in good health.

DOCKED FOR REPAIRS.—The Bonaventure has been docked and will receive the usual overhaul and repairs before going South to take up the fruit trade.

In a Cottage Hospital

by George Trevelyan is the book that the reading public in Great Britain is most enthusiastic about now, although just published a second edition is exhausted, with a third large edition in press. It is an epoch-making novel. It is hoped that this book will do for the sick poor of Britain what "The Jungle" did for the Chicago "hined" meat packers. This is not a novel for little people nor for fools. Extra special edition in cloth only 60c. sent post paid on receipt of price only.

REID NEWFOUNDLAND COMPANY.

Is your house really lighted from top to bottom or do you still have to take a candle or lamp when you go to the attic or cellar at night? A great many people who have electricity in the rest of the house have no light in the cellar or attic because it is seldom needed; but, when you do need it, you need it badly.
 One Incandescent Lamp set in a Holophone Reflector will give sufficient light for the darkest cellar or attic. Holophone Reflectors are especially adapted to lighting places of this sort as they control the light rays so that every ray is utilized. Wouldn't it be a convenience if you could turn a switch and light your cellar or attic before entering? That means an end to dangerous matches and flames—it means that you no longer need stumble against misplaced boxes and bark your shins in the dark.
 We would like to tell you more about electric lighting and more about the wonderful light-saving Holophone Reflectors. May we send a representative to see you?
