EARLY MESSAGES

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT OPENED AT NOON.

King George, accompanied by the Queen and Prince of Wales, who is on leave from the Italian front, performed the ceremony of opening Parliament at noon, with the absence of some of the customary spectacular features. It was decided that in view of the war, the King and Queen will not wear their gorgeous titular robes and coronets, while naval and military members of both Houses will wear service dress, instead of flashy gold laced full dress uniforms.

KING'S SPEECH TO PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, Feb. 12. In his speech at the opening of Parliament to-day, King George said the struggle had reached a critical stage which demanded more than ever the full use of the country's energies and resources until recognition is offered of the only principles upon which an honorable peace can be concluded. The King declared it is the duty of the British to prosecute the war with all the vigor they possess. Complaints that Ministers have interfered with the military chiefs have been resuscitated recently and voiced outspokenly in a section of the press. This subject will be brought to a debate in association with the demand for an explanation of the employment of the powers of the Supreme War Council at the recent meeting at Versailles. Before concluding the debate which may continue for two or three days, the Radical and Labor members will again urge their views regarding the war aims and peace by negotiation, and may also move an amendment criticizing the policy of the Versailles Council, whose official statement referred to rigorous prosecution of the war as the only immediate task of the Allies, and regretting that the door was thus closed to the peace congress. A continuation of a joint Allied statement of war aims may also be demanded.

RUSSIA CONCLUDES PEACE.

LONDON, Feb. 12. Confirmation of a German report that Russia has withdrawn from the war is contained in an official Russian statement received here to-day. The statement says that Russia declares war with Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria to have ended. Russian troops simultaneously received an order for complete demobilization on all fronts. For the detaching of the frontier some detachments of younger soldiers will be left.

THE PREMIER'S SPEECH.

LONDON, Feb. 12. Addressing the Commons to-day Premier Lloyd George said he had read with profound disappointment the replies given to President Wilson and the declarations of the British Government by Count Von Hertling, German Chancellor and Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister. The Premier added it was perfectly true that as regarded the tone there was a great difference between the speeches and he wished he could believe there was a difference in substance. Lloyd-George said the government stood by the considered declaration made at meetings with the Trades Union representatives, early this year, and the Government, the Premier added didn't recede in the least from its war aims as they had been stated. It was no use, he said, crying peace when there was no peace. Regarding the Supreme War Council he said it was impossible to make a statement as to the decisions it had reached without giving information to the enemy. Lloyd George said he would like any member to point out anything in the speeches of Count

Czernin or Von Hertling which could possibly be regarded as a proof that the Central Powers were prepared to make peace on terms which could be regarded as just and reasonable. Germany's action regarding Russia, the Premier pointed out, proved that her declaration regarding no annexations had no real meaning. No answer had been given regarding Belgium that could be regarded as satisfactory, he declared. No answer had been given regarding Poland, or France with her legitimate claim for the restoration of her lost provinces. Not a word had been said about the men of the Italian race and tongue now under the Austrian yoke. Until there was some better proof than had been provided in any speeches to Washington and until the Central Powers were prepared to consider the aims and ideals for which the Allies were fighting, he said, it would be the nation's regrettable duty to go and make preparation necessary, in order to establish international right. It was true, he stated, in November, that it wasn't intended that the Supreme War Council should have executive functions, but since then Russia had gone one of the war and a number of German divisions had been brought to the western front from the east. The situation had become more menacing and the Allies had met at Versailles to consider the best methods of meeting that menace. The Premier said that if the House of Commons was not satisfied with the conduct of the war the only way was to change the Government. Field Marshal Haig and General Robertson, he added, were present at the session of the Supreme War Council and approved its decision. The Premier requested the House not to press the Government regarding arrangements made for countering the coming blow of the Germans. He declared that Germany's violation of her agreement not to remove troops from the eastern front had to be borne in mind when there was any discussion of the terms of peace, because it had a real bearing upon the guarantees. The situation had been changed completely by those reinforcements, he asserted. Upon the decisions of the Supreme War Council, the Premier reminded the House, depended millions of gallant lives and the safety of the country and the war aims upon which the future of the world was dependent. If information in this particular were to be given to the enemy he would prefer the responsibility to be laid upon other shoulders. The change in the military situation brought about by the sending of German troops from the East to the West was a great factor which must be considered, the Premier said, and it was essential that the whole strength of the Allied army of France, Britain, America and Italy should be made available for the point where the blow would come. Arrangements should be made under which the Allies would treat their armies as one to meet the danger and menace wherever it should come. A scene occurred during the Premier's remarks, in which he declined to divulge the decisions of the Supreme War Council, information of which the enemy would pay any money to get. Amid the cheering, former Premier Asquith rose to protest in the strongest terms against the insinuation that he had asked for such information. He only desired to know in what respect the functions of the Council had been permanently enlarged. Lloyd George said that he rejected in repudiating any personal imputation, and that he desired to withdraw anything which seemed to support such a suggestion.

REFUSES RECOGNITION.

LONDON, Feb. 12. The Associated Press is informed that the British Government declines to recognize the treaty of peace signed by the Central Powers and delegates acting on behalf of the Ukraine.

A DRASTIC ACT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. The Federal Food Board here took its most drastic action thus far when it recommended to the National Food Administration to-day that the food license of Balf & Son, Inc., wholesale poultry and egg dealers, be revoked for the duration of the war.

PEACE INTIMATION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. The first official information to the United States of the separate peace between the Ukraine and the Central Allies came to-day from the American Minister at Jassy, the Roumanian capital.

GERMAN REPORT OF AIR RAIDS.

BERLIN, Feb. 12. Entente Allied airplanes made 31 air raids on German territories in the month of January, says an official statement issued to-day by the German War Office. As a result of these attacks, the statement adds, five persons were killed and nine wounded and insignificant material damage was done.

WILSON CONGRATULATED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. A telegram felicitating President Wilson because of his address before Congress yesterday touching upon Prussian autocracy was sent to the President to-day by the all-Russian Convention which is in session here. The message asserted that no self-appointed government in Russia had any right to declare peace or to disband armies during the war against the Central Powers on behalf of world-wide democracy.

ALLAN LINE SERVICE DISCONTINUED.

BOSTON, Feb. 12. The Allan Line which for more than 25 years had operated steamers between this port and Glasgow, is to discontinue its Boston service on May 1. Notices were sent to employees here to-day, stating their services wouldn't be required after that date. The Canadian Pacific Railway obtained control of the Allan Line about two years ago and many of its ships have been requisitioned by the British Admiralty for war purposes.

ROOSEVELT DOING WELL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. Theodore Roosevelt continues to make progress at the Roosevelt Hospital, and it was believed to-night that he had made up the ground lost in the set-back on Sunday. A bulletin issued at the hospital said this has been Colonel Roosevelt's most comfortable day, and that his progress is likely to be uninterrupted from now on.

All Children Love "Syrup of Figs" for Liver and Bowels

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach. Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

St. Margaret's Guild.

The concert given at Canon Wood Hall under the auspices of St. Margaret's Guild last night attracted an audience which filled the room. The first part of the programme consisted of a well rendered selection by the C. L. B. Band, and a trench scene by returned soldiers in which Sergt. Hennebury, Sergt. Edwards, L. Corp. Chafe, Ptes. White, Hussey, Volsey and Bonner took part. The everyday happenings of trench life were put on in a realistic manner and was of great interest to all. The remainder of the programme comprised selections by Misses Dunfield and Mr. F. Emerson, a recitation by Miss Hayward, duet by Miss Dunfield and Mr. Emerson and a dutch song and dance by Misses L. Reid, Gosling, Hayward, Emerson and Mary Ryan. The solo which accompanied the dance was nicely taken by Miss Ryan. Mrs. Bradshaw acted as accompanist during the evening. The singing of the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

A Duet.

The Herald last week interested itself greatly in the question of the authorship of an editorial article which appeared in this paper. We are now able to return the compliment. Will our contemporary inform us what gentleman is supplying the Herald and Advocate at the same time with the same leaders? If the reading public would like a little diversion in these strenuous times, it will find it in a comparison of the articles last night in these papers on the subject of the "Maid of Harlech." It will be found an amusing game for two. The first player reads the first sentence from the Herald, beginning, "Some weeks ago the Admiralty advised the Colonial authorities..." The second player then reads the first sentence from the Advocate, beginning, "Some time ago the Admiralty advised the Colonial authorities..." And so on to the end, the order needing to be varied only occasionally. A splendid pastime for a winter evening, and costs only two cents! Or, again, the articles might be issued in song form: "Maid of Harlech," a Duet (not to be confounded with "Men of Harlech," the well known chorus).

Of course, it is obvious what has happened. As long as it is a matter of the exchange of personal pleasures, every man can look after himself; but here the News touched on something more important, and there was a pretty stir in the Government dovecot. A conference must be called and a version of the story agreed upon to be given to the public. The duet is the result, but wouldn't it have been wise to make the two narratives a little more different? There is another amusing giveaway also. Evidently the matter of the Herbert Warren was recalled at the discussion and debated with so much concern that the Advocate was still thinking of the following from the Spaniard's Bay correspondence of the Daily News: "Major Sullivan, Sergeant Moore and Corporal Pitman paid us a visit last week in the interest of the Forestry Battalion and held a camp in the Park Hotel. They showed some splendid views of the Battalion logging in Scotland; delivered stirring addresses, and made a strong appeal for recruits. Yet without success."

Notes and Comments. Hindenburg boasts that he will be in Paris by next April. We can remember that the All-Highest made a somewhat similar boast in 1914. "We have great faith in the German Navy, which has so often exhibited its will to victory and its capacity to fulfill its duty." (Loud laughs). If Newfoundland is not represented on the International Fisheries Commission now sitting at St. John, N.B., we would like to ask—why?

One proverb in the Down East States hath this interpretation: He cackinates best who cackinates least. The ultimate cackination. "Don't you wish you knew as much as your children think you do?" "No, I wish I knew as much as my children think they do."

Slackers in High Places.

We direct the attention of our readers to an article appearing in another column of to-day's issue, which proves to the hilt our contention all along that in Regimental matters it is the Government that must be charged with the short-comings. No better evidence of this can be offered than the statement laid down by our correspondent that the accusation comes, not from any private individual, but from an officer of the Regiment itself who has placed himself on perpetual record by his utterance. The gravamen of the charge is that it is announced from the platform at a public meeting and this would not have been the case had not the officer known of what he was speaking. For a long time we have been waiting for some such pronouncement, made from a thorough knowledge of conditions, and at last the truth has come. Repeatedly reference has been made in this column to the utter futility of recruiting under the prevailing regime, yet parties are being repeatedly sent out who never fail to produce negligible results. These are being undertaken because of a mistaken idea which exists in certain quarters that "one volunteer is worth ten pressed men." We are now at the end of our recruiting tether and other means must be employed. The Government must act and either by the passage of a Registration Bill or a Conscription Act, men must be obtained. The Government have flirted with this too long. Our correspondent advances the point that the Government promised the Patriotic Association that if other means failed they would introduce Conscription. Efforts have failed but our legislators still hide behind subterfuge. Let them come out. Their duty is plain. Unless something is done and right speedily to keep up the regimental strength it will have, necessarily, to be disbanded. In that event the bones of our gallant lads, which are strewn over the hills of Gallipoli and on the wind swept plains of the West, will rise up in condemnation of those who failed their living comrades in the hour of stress, and the voices of our slain brothers' blood will arise even from the ground in protest. To prove the truth of our assertion that recruiting is dead, we take the liberty of quoting the following from the Spaniard's Bay correspondence of the Daily News: "Major Sullivan, Sergeant Moore and Corporal Pitman paid us a visit last week in the interest of the Forestry Battalion and held a camp in the Park Hotel. They showed some splendid views of the Battalion logging in Scotland; delivered stirring addresses, and made a strong appeal for recruits. Yet without success."

Pleasant Evening With Men's Guild.

The addresses given to the Men's Guild of St. Andrew's by Lieut. Val. Warren of 'Ours' and Pte. Crockett, R.M.L.I. on their experiences at the front was much enjoyed last night. Lieut. Warren was among the first to enlist, left here as a Sergeant, but won promotion to Lieutenant. His story of the exploits of 'Ours' and of individual members at Egypt, Gallipoli and France, proved of absorbing interest, and all were sorry when he concluded. The doings of the naval brigade at Antwerp in the early days of the struggle were related in a most interesting manner. Pte. Crockett had the pleasure of assisting with defence of that city. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to both speakers by Mr. B. L. Mitchell who was chairman. During the evening songs and recitations were given, Mr. F. F. Chesman acting as accompanist. Tea was served by the members of the Ladies' Guild which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Thoughts Upon the Times. (By PATRIOT.) The attempt made by the editor of the Herald in yesterday's issue to defend the members of the Tonnage Committee in regard to the loss of the Government fish carrier "Maid of Harlech" will not satisfy the public, who are entitled to know all the facts in connection with the loss, and attach the blame, if any exists, to the party deserving it.

ready and able to take up the greatest questions of statecraft and settle them satisfactorily in a very short time, as in the case of the Business Profits Tax. In view of the circumstances there is, after all, not much to be wondered at. We are willing to admit that we need experts for other Government duties which require special qualifications, but we seem very slow to learn that law-making is the most difficult science of all. For instance, according to the views expressed by some of our local legislators a man may be a failure at everything else and yet become a very Solon in the matter of law-making, or a Prime Minister. In view of the attempts which certain demagogues have recently made to promote distrust and discord between the merchants and fishermen of this country, it is noteworthy that the leaders of labor organizations both in England and America are doing their utmost to put down class-hatred and distrust between capital and labor. In fact one of the results of the war will be the bringing about of a better and more cordial relationship between employer and employee.

After the war is over demagogues and agitators will not find it so easy to thrive as they did before. The idea is growing that this country will presently have to confront the most serious peril it has ever faced. It has been charged that the Government, which was organized and named a "National Government," with a special function, viz: win-the-war, has thrown overboard the purpose for which it was formed, and now merely represents special interests—two great corporations—rather than the interests of the general public. In consequence it has lost the esteem and confidence of the public. What seems most glaring in the case of the present Government is that they made no attempt to fulfill their promise, but immediately set to work to repudiate the purpose for which they were organized. I refer now to their public actions towards the Royal Nfld. Regiment and the Royal Naval Reserve. It has been stated by high authority that many men depart from honorable and accepted standards early in their careers as a result of actual ignorance of the ethical requirements of the situation. But the fact remains we will very soon be called upon to face the most serious financial, economical and social difficulties that ever confronted this country of ours. If we continue to ignore them we shall be guilty of the most willful violation of our trust as citizens. We shall need our best and most tried legislators and men of great business talents to grapple with our approaching problems. There will be no room for the man with the grouch against everyone else. Above all, we shall need the co-operation of every patriotic citizen in the Dominion.

Mail Couriers Demand More Pay.

We understand that there has been a general demand by mail couriers up north for an increase in their pay, which for years has not been at all satisfactory. Of late years parcel post mail has increased to such an extent that mail couriers have on several occasions been unable to take all the packages despatched from St. John's. In most cases, we are told, the couriers demand were reasonable and in order to save delay the Postal Department lost no time in granting their just request.

REMOVING WRINKLES.

Four things cause wrinkles, age, worry, climatic conditions and an anti-matodespression. Much use of the muscles, even the laughing muscles, in the woman of animated nature, tends toward making wrinkles.

Wrinkles should be taken in hand early, before they become visible at all. Thirty years is none too young to begin a treatment to ward off wrinkles.

Wrinkles and all facial blemishes show up much more plainly if the skin is not perfectly clean and fair. So a dainty, yellowish face should be guarded against assiduously.

Cold cream should be well rubbed in every night before retiring, and the face bathed afterward in hot and then cold water.

Charges Government With Slackness.

Major Sullivan, lately returned from England, is on a recruiting tour through Conception Bay.

He addressed a Harbour Grace audience on Monday night in which he charged the Newfoundland Government with being slackers.

We think that this is a charge well grounded. Recruiting has admittedly failed to supply men necessary to keep the Nfld. Regiment at its efficient strength.

The Patriotic Society brought this to the notice of the Government last fall and the Government promised at that time that if a further effort should fail, Conscription would be introduced.

The duty of the Government is now plain. Newfoundland is the only one of the British Dominions which has not made an effort towards conscription.

It is well known that the most urgent need of the military situation at present is the need for ships. Wheat is lying in Australia, only waiting for shipping.

Every nation is straining its possibilities to produce ships. Let us see what our Government is doing.

There is a law on the Statute Book granting a bounty of $10 and $20 a ton to all ships built in Newfoundland. This was an excellent move.

Also encouraged by this statutory provision a foreign company has started work in Harbour Grace.

Is not this an opportunity to show our loyalty to the Empire by giving this firm all the encouragement and facilities for their work we possibly can.

Our loyalty to the Empire and the elegant need of the war demand this of us. During a visit paid by the Government to the shipyard at Harbour Grace last fall, the members present spoke warmly in favour of the project, and promised every possible assistance.

It is strange, in view of all this, that the company has been charged by landholders in Harbour Grace prices away beyond the real value of the property and also that the company has been forced to lessen their purchase of Newfoundland timber because of the exorbitant prices charged.

Why is the Government attempting to change the bounty law and deprive this enterprising company of the financial aid which they certainly were promised?

Other enterprises in this country are receiving large favours. We believe that the Government should be generous to this company, as well for the interest of Newfoundland itself, as for the Empire at large.

We have a country of great possibilities which only needs skill and capital to develop. Any financial outlay made at present, even at a sacrifice, will bring a hundred-fold reward.

Besides in helping this company we are helping the shipbuilding industry and the best friends the Allies have at present.

We hope that at the next sitting of the Legislature the Government will do its utmost to encourage and support for the sake of the Empire this most necessary and important enterprise.

Ships are absolutely necessary for transportation of men, munitions and food, without which victory for our cause is impossible.

In helping this shipbuilding concern, we can best show our loyalty to the Empire and efficiently help the Motherland in her great crucial struggle.

How Much Does it Take?

thought otherwise.

But I was like all women convinced against their will.

I think the woman who has a large house, several children and only one servant and who keeps that house neat and attractive and attends to her children's mental and spiritual wants as well as their physical, has good reason to claim that she has about all she can handle.

I call such a woman a genius.

As for the woman without any maid and with several children who keeps things anyway decent, really tries to bring up her children, she is what I call a genius. I know few men who have any job as exacting as hers.

But it does not seem to me that the management of a household with two or more servants to do the bulk of the work, should absorb all a woman's time. True, I realize that the planning and managing and buying is a responsibility. Also I know that there are innumerable things that a wife and mother has to attend to that cannot be included in a servant's routine.

Of course there are many things The House Mother Must Do.

For instance, putting away the fall clothes, cleaning out closets, taking the children to the dentist, etc., etc. But it does seem to me that if this were all properly systematized and routed it need not take all a healthy woman's time or energy.

If it does, how can the women who have one maid or none at all, contrive to do all they do?

The woman who convinced me against my will claimed that a certain woman who runs a household in which several servants are employed, is running a business and works as hard as her husband, a manufacturer. Running a House is Not Like Running a Business.

That argument (I have heard it before) always exasperates me. Take a business man running a manufacturing business; he has to manufacture an article that will meet competition, at as low a cost as possible, and then he has to sell it. Grant that running a large household is equivalent to running a factory, does the woman have to meet competition, does she have to sell her article—home comfort? No, her market is guaranteed, and the law safeguards her against any competition. Also she seldom has to manufacture her product with the least expenditure possible.

I wish women would write me what they think about this matter—especially those who do run a home on this basis. I wish they would tell me how much time it takes them and what they think about it. Think what an interesting symposium we might have if they would give us some peeps into their lives.

why so many good people never pay their contribution to the pastor's salary until the third Sunday after the close of the conference year. It would seem that we should trust our ministers more and ask other people to trust them less.

The ministry used to be supported almost wholly by relying upon divine providence and the semi-annual donation party, but so many ministers fainted during the last lap of the morning sermon from lack of nourishment that this practice was abandoned. It has been succeeded by the free-will offering in a pink envelope, and the result is that the minister now rides in an automobile whenever the envelopes come in fast enough to buy gasoline. The envelope system has raised the ministry from penury to affluence and enabled many a minister's wife to dress like a human being.

The ministry does not look for its reward in this life, but is sometimes surprised by the size of the marriage fee. We should have better ministers if they were paid with more regularity and enthusiasm, and the sermons would taste better also.

Your Boys and Girls.

The formation of good health has to begin in childhood if they are to remain good through life. The best of care should be given the mouth of a child. He must not be allowed to suck his thumb, as that has a tendency to throw the upper jaw out of line with the lower one. If he has adenoids so he has to breathe through his mouth, they must be removed or his mouth will become misshapen and teeth will not grind against each other as they should. If they do not grind properly they will be very apt to break.

Children should be taught to wash the teeth often and to scrub them with an up and down motion of the brush. A side motion will fall to remove the food particles which lodge between the teeth. If tartar has collected it is better to take the child to a dentist for no brush will remove it and as long as it remains on the teeth the gums cannot be in a healthy condition. They will be more or less congested, and bleed readily until the tartar has been removed.

A very useful and safe tooth powder may be made at home by taking a fine quality of precipitated chalk, finely pulverized, with a small amount of powdered castile soap, about six parts of chalk to one of the soap. This may be flavored with a few drops of wintergreen oil, sassafras or cinnamon.

Ringworm on Child's Head

Caused Great Distress and Spread to Neck and Ears. Cure Was Speedily Effectuated When Right Treatment Was Recommended.

Grand Bend, Ont., February 13th.—There is no disease of the skin more obstinate than ringworm, and the mother who writes this letter does so fully realizing what it will mean to other anxious mothers to know about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This remarkable cure was brought out on her head which looked like ringworms. They were spreading fast, and I tried home treatment, but nothing helped her. I took her to the doctor, and he opened some of the sores, which were as big as the yoke of an egg. The salve he gave me to put on was very severe, and the poor child would cry for an hour or more after an application. For six weeks it continued to spread all over her head, and came down to her neck and ears. She suffered terribly. At last some kind ladies told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I got a box, and the first time I put it on she was relieved of pain, and the second time the swelling was all gone. Before we had finished the first box the sores were nearly gone. I have told all the people around here about your Ointment, and I cannot praise it too much. It is now two years since my little girl was troubled in this way, and it never came back, so you can see she is completely cured. You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others who may be suffering in a similar manner."

REGULATIONS FOR ARCHDIOCESE To the Clergy, Religious Communities and Laity of the Archdiocese of St. John's.

Dear Beloved Brethren.—We are again on the threshold of the holy Lenten season when the time is opportune for the delivery of a Pastoral Message of instruction and exhortation to the faithful of the Archdiocese. This holy season comes to us year after year with its message of the supernatural and the spiritual to aid us in the midst of the material things of life. It serves year after year to awaken us to a sense of our higher and holier duties to the Creator, duties which we are too often disposed to forget in the midst of the engrossing, absorbing occupations of our daily lives in the world. This year, in the midst of the shadows, sorrows and miseries of war Lent has a special significance for us inasmuch as the spirit of this holy season—the prayerful, penitential, mournful spirit which is characteristic of Lent—harmonizes with the spirit of the world at large. The world as well as the church is symbolically robed in the purple of mourning, sorrow, desolation and distress. The conditions brought about by the great world war would seem to have fulfilled literally the prophetic words of our Lord and Saviour, spoken figuratively of the end of the world: "And these shall be upon the earth distress of nations by reason of the confusion of the roaring of the sea and of the waves. Men withering away for fear and expectation of what shall come upon the world."—(St. Luke xxi, 25-26). "For there shall be then great tribulation such as hath not been from the beginning of the world until now, neither shall be, and unless these days had been shortened no flesh should be saved, but for the sake of the elect those days shall be shortened."—(St. Matthew xxiv, 21-22). Truly there is distress, sorrow, unrest, disturbance throughout the world. Truly there is need for us to turn to God in the prayerful and penitential spirit which this holy season enjoins.

REGULATIONS FOR ARCHDIOCESE

To the Clergy, Religious Communities and Laity of the Archdiocese of St. John's.

Dear Beloved Brethren.—We are again on the threshold of the holy Lenten season when the time is opportune for the delivery of a Pastoral Message of instruction and exhortation to the faithful of the Archdiocese. This holy season comes to us year after year with its message of the supernatural and the spiritual to aid us in the midst of the material things of life. It serves year after year to awaken us to a sense of our higher and holier duties to the Creator, duties which we are too often disposed to forget in the midst of the engrossing, absorbing occupations of our daily lives in the world. This year, in the midst of the shadows, sorrows and miseries of war Lent has a special significance for us inasmuch as the spirit of this holy season—the prayerful, penitential, mournful spirit which is characteristic of Lent—harmonizes with the spirit of the world at large. The world as well as the church is symbolically robed in the purple of mourning, sorrow, desolation and distress. The conditions brought about by the great war would seem to have fulfilled literally the prophetic words of our Lord and Saviour, spoken figuratively of the end of the world: "And there shall be upon the earth distress of nations by reason of the confusion of the roaring of the sea and of the waves. Men withering away for fear and expectation of what shall come upon the world."—(St. Luke xxi, 25-28). "For there shall be great tribulation such as hath not been from the beginning of the world until now, neither shall be, and unless these days had been shortened no flesh should be saved, but for the sake of the elect those days shall be shortened."—(St. Matthew xxiv, 21-22). Truly there is distress, sorrow, unrest, disturbance throughout the world. Truly there is need for us to turn to God in the prayerful and penitential spirit which this holy season enjoins.

Forgetfulness of God.
Whatever may have been the secondary historical causes that led to the outbreak of the war, the moralist viewing it from the standpoint of religion cannot otherwise regard this world calamity than as the result of forgetfulness of God. The world had been growing in wickedness and crime. Never in the past history of the human race, even in its most degenerate days, was there anything approaching the corruption and moral degeneracy of modern times. Unbelief in all its various forms was widespread throughout the world. Peoples and Nations openly rejected belief in God, the hereafter and the supernatural. The old doctrines of Christianity were set aside, and the Creator was left out of consideration altogether in human affairs.

And as forgetfulness of God was the cause of this great world catastrophe so also in the return to Him and in the acceptance of His teaching as embodied in the great Christian code of morality lies the only hope for the future, the only hope of bringing about the peace which we all desire, the only hope of solving satisfactorily the problems which will arise after the war. These problems, as the result of the great unrest and disturbance in the social and moral order produced by the war, will be many and complex, and any solution which may be found must rest on the application to the new conditions of the principles of the Gospel of Christ, of those great fundamental moral principles of right and wrong which are the basis of all justice and morality. At the present time there is social, moral and industrial chaos in the world. There is general disturbance, dislocation, turmoil, disorder. New theories are being advanced every day, new problems are springing up, new ideas are spreading, bearing upon all the manifold relations of life.

The New Democracy.
One of the outstanding features of the war has been the spread of what is called democracy, or the rule of the people. The war has come to be regarded as a democratic war, as a struggle for the supremacy of democratic ideals, and there can be little doubt that the conclusion of the war will usher in the era of what may be called the new democracy. The war creed of one great group of belligerents is summarized in a phrase which is destined to live, namely, "to make the world safe for democracy." This is no doubt a high and a noble ideal that appeals with special force to those who like ourselves have enjoyed the liberty of free and unfettered institutions of government; but whilst this is so it must not be forgotten that in the spread and growth of this democratic spirit lies one of the greatest dangers of the future. An eminent divine commenting on the war situation, its present problems and its future dangers, recently used a phrase which deserves with the one above mentioned to become historic when he said that the great problem of the future would be "to make democracy safe for the world." This is only another way for saying that the peril of the future lies in the excesses and tyranny of democracy. The danger can only be averted by the application of the principles of Christ embodied in the great Christian code of morality and enunciated by the church. This is the great danger which only the moral forces of Christianity can meet by the application to the problems of the future these teachings of Christ. To apply these complete relations of life, social and industrial as well as moral and religious, has ever been the object of the church. The church has always been the friend of true liberty and true democracy, but she has always endeavored by the application of the spirit of Christ to restrain the excesses of democracy and to prevent liberty from degenerating into license. The church whose constitution is founded upon democratic principles has always been in close touch with the people, in sympathy with their ideals and solutions for their welfare. Her history affords abundant proof of this.

The Church and Labor Organizations.
One of the results of the spread of democratic principles in modern times has been the organization of labour by means of labour unions which have become prominent and permanent factors in our industrial and social life. The church may be said to have been the mother of those organizations which have their prototype in the guilds of the Middle Ages which were created and maintained under the fostering care and guidance of the church. When modern conditions again brought about the organization of labour, the church gave her sanction and approbation whilst, at the same time, laying down the laws and the rules which, if observed, would prevent them from going to excess. The church approves the principle of association and its application to the various departments of social life. The right to associate with his fellowmen for the betterment of his condition is the inalienable right of every free man. Labourers, workmen generally of whatever class have a perfect right to combine to protect their common interests, and so labour organizations are lawful, expedient and commendable. The church willingly recognizes that labour organization has been one of the strongest levers in the social and economic uplift of the labouring classes, in making for the independence and dignity of labour, in promoting its greater security and protection in every sense. The church's position has ever been to emphasize the duties, the mutual and reciprocal duties, alike of employer and employed. Employers are reminded of their duty to recognize fully and freely the right of coalition, or organization on the part of employees and to deal with these organizations in a spirit of frankness, fairness and consideration. The open, honest recognition of labour organization is not merely a duty but a demand of justice. On the other hand, labour unions are constantly warned that if they are to enjoy the permanent approval of the church they must be organized and conducted in a spirit of justice, moderation, fairness and equity. The Church cannot identify herself with any movement that employs unfair, unjust, unlawful methods, or that seeks to interfere with the liberty of its members in the full and free discharge of their civic and religious obligations. The purposes of labour unions must not be revolutionary or destructive of social order, but must be directed to the welfare and well-being of the community at large if they would enjoy the sanction and approbation of the church.

An eminent ecclesiastical and thoughtful student of social and economic questions addresses the following words of wise instruction to labour organizations, warning them of their duties and the dangers into which they are liable to fall:
"A religious leaven, a Christian tone is indispensable to labour organizations if they are not to degenerate. Religion inspires self-restraint, moderation and tolerance. Virtue, without which no organization can exist. Without this element trade unions cannot overcome the contagion of socialism. It acts like the salt which preserves from disintegration. Socialism is the enemy of unionism. The leaven of socialism injects a disturbing ingredient into the union; it does not make for peace and moderation. It leads to unjust and excessive demands, thus precipitating a clash of classes. By allowing the irreligious spirit to spread within its ranks, the unions undermine their own foundations, for religion is the best safeguard against excesses."
"The fuller sanction of the church can be given only to a movement which is neither anti-social nor violent in its deeper inspirations and its hidden undercurrents. The Christian law demands subordination of the individual interests to those of the larger society. Above all the interests of individuals and classes throes the common good to which everything else must be duly subordinated. Labour organizations must not forget that their class is not commensurate with society, that their interests are not the only ones. In fact that there are interests higher, more important, broader than their own. Self-interest as a potent and legitimate motive as long as it is not exclusive or antagonistic to the higher interests of the whole social organism. Beyond the limits of the individual sphere of interests lies the embracing horizon of the weal of all. Now the individual interests have a fatal tendency to assert themselves disproportionately. Hence the appeal to them must be guarded and careful. The larger good must again and again be emphasized lest the selfish instincts triumph over the altruistic and social feelings. Here lies the danger of every class movement, that in the end it becomes the expression of collective egotism and subversive and oblivious of the welfare of the broader community. The unions, therefore, if they are not to become a danger and a menace to the public good must cultivate the higher social virtues. They must not be built purely and solely of class interest, they must not be inspired by class hatred. They must not accommodate the lines of cleavage that naturally run through society and strain them to the breaking point, but rather point out that there is a larger end in which all classes co-operate and that, therefore, there is much which we all have in common."
"We all have a material interest in the preservation of the social structure; all classes have something in common, and all work in their own way. True they also have separate interests, but these are not radically antagonistic and may be adjusted. No class should exploit the other; neither should the labor class attempt to exploit the others. Labor organizations are not means of class warfare; not engines of war, not covetous machines, but useful wheels in the great social organism. This embracing social spirit members should endeavor to infuse into the labor organizations. They should endeavor to give them that larger outlook, that broader perspective, that deeper moral energy which invites and unites, which creates a loyalty never wavering. The weapon of class hatred is a two-edged sword, it turns itself against the union, against the organization and enters into it as a powerful wedge. To preach class hatred is a bad policy for a movement which itself is based on altruistic dispositions. If the cause of labor, therefore, would become a worthy cause and a great cause, it must be the cause of universal justice and right. It must expunge from its vocabulary all those ugly phrases that drip with the poison of class hatred."

The Teaching of Christ—Hope of the Future.
In conclusion, Dear Beloved Brethren, in endeavoring to meet the new and changed conditions in human life and endeavor, let us remember that the only hope for the future of society lies in the acceptance of the teachings of Christ and in hearkening to the voice of His church. In Christ Our Lord, we have the true Leader on the onward and upward march of humanity. In His doctrine and in His teachings as made known to us by the church we have the standards and the ideals of true human progress. The path of true advancement for the individual and for society is along the lines of His religion. He is the standard of our actions, the ideal of our endeavors, the hope of our race, "the Way, the Truth and the Life." The world has no need for a new morality or a new religion. The ideal morality and the true religion exist, they need only to be more actual in the lives of men. They are founded on the immutable dictates of the moral law, written by the finger of God on the heart of man, and on the unchangeable doctrines of Our Lord, Jesus Christ. In the religion of Christ we have the secret of the perpetual rejuvenation and perfection of society. Christianity is the conservative force in society to-day, and the constructive force of the Christian religion is directed to the reformation of Christian individuals. The great need of society in all ages is virtue in the individual, and the danger of society is vice in the individual. Democracy will not save men, intellectual progress will not save society; only the effect to fulfill and uphold the moral law will save society, and without religion there can be no moral law. If we would seek, therefore, the solution of future problems, if we would seek to promote the welfare of society and our own salvation our watchwords must be the words of Christ Our Leader: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His Justice, and all these things will be added unto you."—(Matthew vi, 33).
"You, therefore, Brethren, knowing these things before, take heed lest being led aside by the error of the unwise you fall from your own steadfastness, but grow in grace and in the knowledge of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, to Him be glory both now and unto the day of eternity. Amen."—(2 Epistle St. Peter, III, 17-18).

Play is a most important factor in the mental as well as the physical development of a child. Educators are continually spending time and thought on the varieties of play that furnish healthy amusement and accurate training of the mind at the same time.
The request for adult help in his play is the expression of the child's longing to develop himself. Putting a toy into his hands or telling him to amuse himself is like denying bread to a hungry child. There are a large number of simple games, all of which are adapted to home use, that will enable a mother to develop in her child dexterity, quickness of thought, accurate observation, and a retentive memory.
A child is never too young to be taught that he must not be selfish and must ask no more than his rights. The habit of lording it over his companions may increase as he grows older, unless a wise mother can reason it out of him. In his efforts to assert his rights he is very likely to become insistent and dictatorial and a young child will often be quick to take advantage of the fact that he is younger than his playmates, and so under their protection and that they must always give way to him.
Eton and pony jackets are already decided on for spring.

Parcels for Newfoundland Forces Overseas!

(1) Parcels must not exceed 11 lbs in weight.
(2) Parcels addressed to members of the Newfoundland Forces Overseas should bear the name and address of a second addressee to whom the parcels may be delivered or forwarded if it should prove impossible to deliver the first. The original address should be written on the FRONT of the parcel where the postage stamps and Customs declaration are affixed, and the second or alternative address should be written on the BACK of the parcel. If not deliverable to first addressee, send to (2nd addressee).
(3) If a second address is not furnished at the time of posting and delivery cannot be effected, the contents of the parcel, unless of exceptional value or of a personal nature, will be turned over to the Military Authorities for distribution.
(4) Parcels containing articles of personal nature or of special value will be returned if a request for their return in case of non-delivery is made by the sender, such request to be written on the parcel at the time of posting.
(5) This plan is being adopted at the suggestion of the British Post Office, which states that the present procedure of holding undelivered parcels at the Dead Letter Office until instructions are received as to their disposal is resulting in the waste of a large quantity of perishable food-stuffs, which form the contents of 80 per cent. of parcels addressed to soldiers.

Good Men are Getting Scarce around here now. We are out to protect those who are left.

Some of you have been running round lately in your Shirts which you used to wear in the good old summer time, as you thought we were having a mild winter.

WE WERE—BUT NOT NOW!

This is just a few words to say that we have lots of

Warm Cold Weather Shirts for Men, in Striped Flannels, Winceys, etc., at reasonable prices. And now, as you will find, you will really want some good warm Underwear, we say made of soft, warm, unshrinkable wool.

Are the Finest Kind of Underwear for Cold Weather.

They will keep you as warm as toast, despite the most chilling breezes, and they will withstand the hardest handling of the most inconsiderate washerwoman, and still remain as soft as wool should be.

"THE BEST FACE CREAM I EVER USED"

is what our lady customers tell us about

O'MARA'S Face Cream.

Knowing what it is made of, we were certain it would be hard to improve on. We had certainly expected that a big thirty-five cent package like "Ours" would win favor over other high priced lines, but it has. Believing it the best article and best value we have, we like to show it to you—and tell you about it.

Price 35c. a jar.
