ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP THE GREAT LONDON BRIDGE. Terrific Explosion - The Structure Escapes Injury—The Case Shrouded in Mystery—Theories as to the Cause, London, Dec. 13.-A terrible concussion startled the city at 5.40 o'clock this evening. It proved to be the result of an attempt to blow up London bridge. The effort resulted in a failure, and the structure was uninjured. Had the outrage been carefully planned the result must have been appalling. London bridge is known to be the most thronged thoroughfare in the with difficulty kept moving by policemen stationed within a few yards of each other. and the sidewalks are proportionately crowded for eighteen hours out of the twenty four.

The police scoured the river for five miles above and as far below the bridge without finding any clue to the perpetrator of the attempt, and all hope has practic. ally been abandoned of any immediate discovery of the dynamiters. Experts from Scotland Yard estimate that while the damage .done was slight, at least fifty pounds of dynamite must have been used to cause an explosion so great as to mash windows on both sides of the river and put out gas for a space of at least a quarsimultaneously from each side of the bridge, showing the fuse had been nicely bridge, showing the fuse had been interly timed to cause the explosion when half way beneath the bridge. A bootblack relates his experience of the explosion as follows: I was cleaning a gentleman's boots when suddenly I felt the earth shake about me. Immediately afterward there was a terrific explosion, and I was stunned.

When I recovered consciousness the gentleman had disappeared.

London, Dec. 14.—A careful inspection of London bridge was made to-day, and it was found that no structural injury whatis paralyzing the action of the police, who are even unable to tell the nature of the explosives used. The explosion occurred nearer the Surrey end of the bridge than at first supposed, and yet most of the houses damaged were on the Middlesex stitution and bylaws were adopted and the the air or on striking the water.

The police this afternoon learned that a piece of charred sacking about a foot and a half square had been found on one of the buttresses, and are now of the opinion exbuttresses, and are now of the opinion explosive was placed there. They attribute the smallness of the damage to the extraordinary air currents beneath the span. No arrests have been made.

It is noteworthy that Saturday was the anniversary of the Clerkenwell explosion. Several horses drawing heavy loads were thrown to the ground. Engine drivers sitting in a shed in Cannon street were blown from their seats. A number of deblown from their seats. A number of de-tectives recently withdrawn from special duty have been ordered to return to Lon-

The Observer says: The explosion was not attended by loss of life, yet it is obvious the perpetrators must have anticipated the possibility of a number of innocent human beings being subjected to a sudden and cruel death. The crime therefore partakes of the character of murder. It is difficult to conceive what possible end or purpose the authors of such an outrage hope to attain. The utter absence of co-relation between the cause and effect mainly confirms the theory that these crimes are of Hibernian origin.

A BONAPARTIST BANQUET.

A League Formed in France to Pro PARIS, Dec. 14.-A Bonapartist banquet was held to day attended by 1200 people. Maurice Richard presided. Richard declared that France was in the same state of anarchy at present as it was in before the accession of Napoleon. JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—A bloody tragedy occurred last night at th insane hospital in the state penitentiary. John Mardn, a convict who had been considered harmlessly insane, arose, and so-curing a heavy iron poker went into an adjoining room where four fellow patients were sleeping. He dealt one Charles Sig-nor three terrible blows over the head, breaking the skull. He then struck Lo breaking the skull. He then struck Louis Hoelsehen five times, fracturing the skull. Passing quickly to an adjoining ward he attacked Audrew Allison (colored), another sleeper, cutting his head and face and severing an artery in the head. At this juncture a patient grappled with the maniac. The guard's attention was attracted and Mason was overpowered and disarmed. Signor and Hoelschen cannot recover.

THE ANTI-EXEMPTIONISTS

PUBLIC MEETING AT ST. LAN RENGE HALL.

ivie Dignitaries Talk-The Exemption The two noticeable features of the public eeting called for the purpose of discuss ing the abolition of exemptions, which was held in St. Lawrence hall Saturday night, were the scanty audience and the crowded platform. On the latter were to be seen platform. On the latter were to be seen Mayor Boswell, who took the chair, Ald. Millichamp and Moore, ex-Ald. Hallam, Ryan, Withrow and Morris, A. F. others.

Ex Ald. Hallam put matters in motion in his usual bustling, energetic way by a long speech, in which he touched on what had been done in the way of abolition both in England and Canada. He favored the exemption of churches.

Ex-Ald. Ryan then advanced to where the footlights would have been, and with as his firm opinion that churches should be taxed like everything else. He had no deubt the taxing would be compensated by increased grants. He characterized exempting as absolutely absurd and ridiculous. We taxed the widow and not the parson, Churches should be taxed on their market value. He was in favor of a permissive bill. He thought charitable institutions should be exempted.

Rev. Dr. Wild spoke as easily on the platform as he does in the pulpit, only with less gesticulation. He did not think total abolition could be accomplished all at once. He expected a compromise first. Going further than the previous speaker, the doctor thought even benevolent institutions should be taxed, certainly churches.

Going further than the previous speaker, the doctor thought even benevolent institutions should be taxed, certainly churches.

Ald Moore ought to have been a parson. His advocacy of the claims of religion in general and of the right of churches to be exempted would have been in excellent taste if St. Lawrence hall had been a Bethel chapel or an Ebenezer meeting room. He thought all incomes should be taxed, but churches or charities, Oh! dear no. To tax them would be to take your money out of one breeches pocket and put it is that the attent. no. To tax them would be to take your money out of one breeches pocket and put it into the other. The city is enhanced in value by its churches. Our Sundays are the best kept in the world because of churches. And so on.

His namesake, T. Moor, argued that just because churches are a blessing they should not be treated like paupers. If there were any exemptions it was the workingman who should be exempted.

David Blain showed the speakers and their audience that the anti-exemption association had framed their constitution on purpose to avoid the possibility of differpurpose to avoid the possibility of differences of opinion on little items.

A. W. Wright thought he was a poor christian who could not pay his share of taxes. Did not their founder render unto Cosar the things that were Cosar's?

It was then moved by Mr. Hallam and seconded by Mr. Ryan that this meeting was in favor of the total abolition of examplings from taxalion, and that the 6th emptions from taxation, and that the 6th clause of the assessment act should be amended to bring this about. Carried

The Anti-Exemption Meeting.

W. F. MACLEAN.

The indigestible morsel in the bill of fare hall on Saturday evening was the exempt ing of church property. Total abolition they could not all swallow whole. Some of them picked out the abolition of the exemption of benevolent institutions, and declined to have that forced down their throats. Others picked out church buildings. And so it went on. It was a pity that the first thoroughly public meeting in which so many wellknown civic officials spoke should have been so much taken up with the discussion of minor details. That the audience was altogether in favor of total abolition their that effect showed. It was to be hope that the new alliance, whenever it deplored, therefore, that so many speak- might come, would provide for the abaners aired their pet little differences to the putting into abeyance of the main ques- Our very able contemporary failed on that tion. For our own part we advocate total abolition, and we think that arguments in rebuttal of those favoring church exemptions are easily found.

For instance, it is said that a handsome church is an ornament to the city, and | the farmers now that, as the long evenings freehold property, personal property, and numbers. Because they den't act together incomes-infact everything, for just as there as the women of Washington territory are unsightly buildings, hideous dresses, did. Every candidate they endorsed was and ugly men, so there are charches that, elected. Let us take a lesson. Last year far from being an ornament, are an eyesore.

Again it is said that abundance of the sore.

Again it is said that churches conduce to the eternal welfare of the community. This is a matter of opinion. A part of the taxes of the Roman catholic go to supthe taxes of the Roman catholic go to sup-port the presbyterian church, an institu-this dominion? Is this state of things to tion which the former certainly does not continue, or are we to unite in self-think conduces to eternal welfare, and defence? The Mail said that one of the

This is only a side issue of the eternal welfare argument. But even if it were granted to the full, there are innumerable other influences for good that are not exempted. There are the philanthropic men and women who go about doing good; men and women who go about doing good; the power the religious books, pamphlets, tracts, journals; there are the private residences in which cottage meetings, mite residences in which cottage meetings, mite meetings, temperance meetings, needlework meetings, are held. It is impossible and needless to enumerate all the various influences that tend to suppress vice and raise the standard of morality and yet are not put in the same exempted category with their pretentious brethren the

We have touched at length upon this subject because it formed so conspicuous a part of the proceedings on Saturday night. But still we think it is a pity to waste time on these minor points till the main ques than at present.

Transcontinental Trade in Prospect. The Globe in its wisdom sees fit to sneer at the prospect of a large transpontinental trade going from ocean to ocean over Canadian territory, which was one of the subjects touched upon by Mr. Carling in his speech at London recently. More attention to the facts of the case might cause our contemporary to see things in a difference of the contemporary to see things in the contemporary to see things in the contemporary to see things in a difference of the contemporary to see things in a difference of the contemporary to see things in the contemporary to see the contemporary to see the contemporary to see the contemporary to see the c light so far, fer various reasons, a principal quakers seven, and the Jews ten. civil war began, now nearly a quarter of a century ago, the Ameri- ized to meet this demand. cans have been at a heavy disadvantage as regards foreign trade; and it may be some time yet ere they succeed in adapting themselves to the changed conditions of the time. And there is this further consideration Whatever the varying phases of the present trouble between France and China may be, the upshot is sure to be a more extensive opening up of China to foreign trade than ever known before. Japan is pretty well pened up, without any war, and will seek trade with the civilized world without urging. Let France get what foothold in China she may, England certainly will not give up a cent's worth of what she has already. And the time may come-who knows?-when the Canadian route may play an important part in enabling Engand to hold her own in the east. If we look for Canada ever to become a commercial nation at all, we may surely consider our own transcontinental route as a likely neans towards that end.

Sound on the Whole. Recently we drew attention to the fact that Mr. Forster and other distinguished men who took part in the recent discussions in London on colonial relations appeared to be agreed that any attempt at mperial control of colonial tariffs was out of the question. The London Times gave very strong and decided expression to the same idea; and it is particularly to be noted that Sir John more than once let it. be understood that the word which Ganada had for federationists first of all was hands off." as far as her tariff is concerned. The key-note of all that he said on the subject was alliance with the mother country, but not subjection, except to the crown in the parliamentary way, such as we are already accustomed to. The London Spectator was almost the ous verdict on the resoultion to only English journal of note to express a donment of protection by the colonies occasion to display its usual sagacity, and

PROVERBIAL EGYPTIAN DARKNESS

The Canadian Voyageurs in Igorance of What is Going on.

Montreal Star Correspondence.

Everyone is kept wonderfully in the dark concerning the movements of the different sections of the expedition, and more so still of what transpires at Khartoum and the up country generally. All we know of Egyptian news reaches us by the English papers, fifteen or twenty days after Major Rundle and Captain Laterriere had started from Korosko by the desert route for Abu-Hamed. They returned the other day via Semneh. As to the result of their mission no living person amongst us knows mission no living person amongst us knows or appears to know.

Another instance of our being kept in the dark about military matters was the very unexpected arrival at Gemal, Nov. 11, of the advance guard of the muchtalked of Kroomen, consisting of seventy-six men, under the command of Major Smith, and that of four Canadian steamboat men, who left Ottawa Oct. 9. None of us had received the faintest hint of the latter having been engaged for service here, hence the very great surprise and pleasure experienced on seeing them. They were personally known to many of us besides being fellow countrymen. They told us that three more men from Winnipeg were following and would arrive here next week. The names of the new comers are Thomas Cummings and J. A. Williams, both from Grenville; James McKeener of Prescott, and W. M. Jones of Ottawa. They reached here in perfect health and are well satisfied with what they have seen so far and their future they have seen so far and their future prospects. They are still here, but expect orders to proceed up country there to take charge of a number of small steamers and launches to be empleyed as tugs, and constructed with that particular object in

The paper was neither signed nor witnessed, and therefore legally valueless. His sons have taken the paper and asked that it be recorded as a will. They regarded it as such, and will be bound by it.

Chinese Difficulties in Telegraphing. The Chinese language is a serious obstruction to the introduction of the telegraph into China. A few lines are, however, in operation in that country. At first the despatches sent over them were translated into English, then telegraphed, and then translated back into Chinese. But later a Chinese code was invented. It consists of numerals from 1 to 10,000, each figure representing a Chinese word. The operators are usually boys from 15 to 20 years of age, who have learned to read and write English, but are unable to speak it.

The beds are made first of a lot of loose straw, surmounted by a thick feather mattress. This is covered with a sheet, while above it is another mattress of fine feathers made light another with a sheet, while above it is another mattress of fine feathers made light enough to serve as covers. Just imagine the feelings of an American who has to make and unmake his toilet after getting into bed! A Return to Doublet and Hose. From the New York Tribune. For some time past the gilded youth of France and England have mingled their laments with those of the tailors that their lot has been cast in an age given over to so complete a prosiness of costume. They sigh for the fashions of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries; they yearn after slashed doublets and bran stuffed hose, or for the more graceful array of the Stuarts, or for the variegated dresses of the Georges, with its gold and silver embroi-dered coats and waistcoats, its hip pockets of huge dimensions, its wigs, its knee-breeches and silk stockings, and, later, its Hessian boots. It is said that in France ome of these aspiring youths have actually evolutionized the male evening costum this very winter by discarding the "cu tomary suit of solemn black," and induit themselves with gay and particolored raiment, all of the olden time. The use of velvets, satins and silks for men's coats is to be revived, and thus the wealthy are to gain opportunities for indicating the plethoric condition of their purses by the expense and gorgeousness of their external decorations.

"The industry is not important in a commercial point of view. I have been eugaged at it for four years. I have figured that there are 25,000 camels in the Kuldscha and Erivan districts, the Kalmucks have about 20,000, and the Khirgese not far from 180,000. Camels are bred for their labor principally, but also for their hair and milk. A camel will shear from eighteen to twenty-two pounds of hair. This is worth in the open market about $2.50 a pood.

You also raised goats? "Yes, I had about 800 on my ranch when I left. There are over a million and a half of goats in European Russia. The industry is the most important in mountainous portions of the Caucasus. The Angora and Cashmere breeds are bred in some of the governments for their milk, meat and hair. In Little Russia and Lithuania, the great linden forests render bee-keeping very profitable. The finest honey I ever saw is produced in Kovno. The largest quantities come from the governments of Yekaterinoslay and Poklova. There are over 450,000 hives in those two districts. Honest Bankruptcy.

A remarkable case of honest bankruptey has occurred in England. In 1874, Mr. Samuel Osburn, a steel manufacturer of Sheffield, was compelled to file his petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities amounting to £70,866, and assets estimated at £50,969. He bought back the business from the creditors by a composition of 12 shillings in the pound, payable in three instalments, the last of which was paid three months beast of which was paid three months before it was due. Mr. Osburn determined to pay the balance of 8 shillings in the of his attituding of nonchalance. His pound, and set himself ten years in which to accomplish the task. A sum of £28,000 was required, and the other evening the creditors received the intievening the creditors received the intimation that Mr. Osburn was now prepared to pay the whole of their claims in full.—New York Sun.

DUSTING FOR A LIVING.

A New Industry for Women. "I'm a duster," said a young woman whom reporter met in a private house up town—"a professional duster. I'm not the only one. It's a regular profession, dusting is, nowadays. The parlors of the rich have grown to be so many museums of delicate and costly ornaments. To dust and arrange these collections would too severely tax the strength of the wealthy ladies. To set the servants at the work was found to be bad management, not because they were bungling and liable to smash the delicate fabrics, but because the servants have no time to spare from their other duties. Therefore the mistresses employ competent women to keep their parlors in order. The dusting business is an established industry, but it is confined to the metropolis, and almost entirely to the region of brown-stone fronts. All the dusters I know of are women who have seen better days, but, ef course, it isn't every educated and refined woman who can make a good

Delegates of Secularism in Town—Thre Meetings in Albert Hall. The free-thinkers have adopted the con ention as a mode of holding counsel to gether, and for the purpose of devising lans for the dissemination of their tenets. On Saturday the initial meeting was held, at which some routine business was trans cted in the way of receiving delegates and striking committees. In the evening the members of the convention assembled in the rooms of the Toronto secular society and became better acquainted with each other. Yesterday in the morning John E. Remsburg of Kangas sectured on the Sabbath question; in the afternoon S. P. Putnam, secretary of the U. S. national liberal league, took the ambiect "the new work of nam, secretary of the U. S. national liberal league, took the subject "the new work of secularism;" and at night Chas. Watts spoke for an hour and ten minutes and achievements." Crowded audiences were present at each of these meatings, and scores were unable to obtain admission to hear Mr. Watts, Quite a number of ladies were in attendance. At the close of Watts' lecture the chairman, J. E. r. invited any champion of orthodor wans, to the platform and y to come statements of the lecture of the could, or if he could,

There is a remarkable family living in the Sixteenth ward. It has been natural as far back as the wife's family can recollect for her parents, grand-parents and great-grand-parents and their children to be blessed with six toes on either or both feet and six fingers on either or both hands. Of the present family, the mother has twelve toes, as has her father and learly all others of her family. She has three children, two of whom have each twelve toes, and the youngest child has six fingers, but one on each hand has been successfully smouthed. What is most successfully amputated. What is most remarkable in the family is that the extra fingers and toes are regularly formed and perfect. Bedford Pim's Cattle Trail. ford Pim is in Denver on his way Montana, and his mission is said to be the tablishment of a cattle trail through the United States and British territory to Hudson Bay and the shipment of cattle to Europe by that route. The route that he considers the most feasible is from Monana, through Manitoba, to Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay. From Fort Churchill to Liverpool the distance by water is 1873 miles. Seven hundred miles of that distance, he says, is through lanes in the ice, where the water is smooth as glass and unruffled by storms, leaving the open ocean voyage only about 1000 miles. He says his experience as an Arctic seaman has led him to think that the route will be open and experience as an Arctic seaman has led him to think that the route will be open and practicable for three months of the year, and that cattle can be shipped in better condition that way than by any other line yet used or suggested. The starting point for the trail or railway in Manitoba would be at Indian Head, on the Canadian Pacific road. The distance from there to Fort Churchill is about 700 miles. Capt. Pim says it is over a country abounding in splendid grass and good water. He thinks that a trail over which cattle could be driven would be practicable. In case driving is not practicable then a railroad could be built. A charter for a road has already been obtained, and Capt. Pim says, will be constructed if needed.
