MRS. T. B. TAYLOR left for Saskatoon and other points West on Tuesday last.

MISS ADAMS went to Newmarket last week to attend the funeral of her aunt.

POLITENESS yields large dividends, but it is an investment frequently overlooked.

MONDAY was one of the most sultry days of the season, the humidity being very oppressive.

CHAS. M. FITZGERALD of Point Edward wireless telegraph station is home here this week.

ALEX. CAMERON has had a handsome verandah placed in front of his cottage on Erie street.

THE threatening weather had a tendency to thin the church attendance on Sunday evening.

SIX American papers and seventeen pamphlets and other publications have been barred from the Canadian mails.

THE Misses Grace and Annie Auld spent their vacation in Armada Mich., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Carter.

LADIES' suits open every Friday.—SWIFTS.

SELECT the very finest of your crop this year and exhibit it at the Watford fair. The satisfaction if you win will mean more than a money prize.

THE German U Boat sank the Arabic in self-defence. No doubt, too, the baby-killing Zeppelins saw some youngsters shake a wooden sword at them.

BASIL RICHARDSON, the barber, is at his home in Warwick, confined to the house by an attack of illness. His brother is in charge of the shop at present.

AN intelligent boy, about 14 or 15 years old, wanted at this office to learn the art of printing. A good opportunity for a smart boy with a fair education. Apply at once.

BOY'S odd school pants 75 to $1.00.—SWIFTS.

MR. GEO. ECCLES, proprietor of the Watford evaporator, is now buying apples. Any quantity of good peelers will be bought and the highest price paid on delivery at the evaporator.

SUBSCRIBERS to the Guide-Advocate living west of Watford will not now receive their papers as early as heretofore as no mail for the west leaves here on Thursday after the paper is printed.

AFTER Friday, Sept. 17th, the sheds at the Watford Methodist Church will be open for the services each Sunday. During the other days of the week they will be closed, except to members of the congregation.

THE moving picture show will be here Thursday, Sept. 23rd, and every Thursday following, instead of Monday. Best entertainments, starting 7.35 and 9 p.m. Come early and get best seats.—J. D. MITCHELL, union operator.

BOY'S Norfolk and Oliver Twist suits opened out this week. See these blues and fancy woreds at the old prices.—A. BROWN & CO.

THERE are several cases of typhoid fever in this vicinity. Owing to the continued wet weather many surface wells are full of water that is not pure enough for drinking purposes and consequently detrimental to health.

STOVEPIPES should be thoroughly cleaned of soot before being used in the autumn, not as a precaution against fire, but because the soot acts as an insulation and keeps the pipe cool. Instead of the heat radiating from a warm pipe, it is carried up the chimney and wasted.

WINDSOR business men are moving to have the election in that city next January dispensed with and the cost given to the Patriotic Fund. A good move that might be followed by many other municipalities, especially townships where the cost is great.

DR. REID, Wyoming, called on his mother and sisters here on Tuesday.

THE home paper is the mirror in which those at a distance see us.

THE only coolness that should come between two fond hearts is ice cream.

MANY an otherwise truthful man lies about the good time he had while camping out.

WE wouldn't be surprised if the Germans, in their search for a substitute for cotton, got worsted.

UP to the end of January, 852 newspapers in Germany ceased publication. To this are added about 60 suspended in the colonies.

REV. C. M. FARNEY, of Parkhill, preached very acceptably in Trinity church last Sunday evening. His discourse was of a patriotic nature and he urged young men to do their duty to King and country by joining the colors.

REV. M. KELLY, of Brantford, a former pastor of the Congregational church of Watford and Zion, preached to good-sized congregations in these churches last Sunday. Many old friends were pleased to have the opportunity of again meeting Mr. Kelly.

IT is said that a recent small fire originated from a dustless mop. The mop after being used was stored in a clothes closet, and it is supposed that a heated spell produced a condition favorable to spontaneous combustion. This may have been the cause of the fire and if you are not, but, however, it is a reminder that the dustless mop should be cleaned after use and stored in a safe place.

PICTURES of the Royal Family have been left at the Public Library, Watford, for the following schools:—Nos. 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16, 19 and 20, Warwick, and Nos. 1, 5, 9, 10, 11, 13, 16 and 17, Brooke. If the teachers or secretary-treasurers of the above sections would call at the Library they can get them. The pictures are being supplied by the Education Department to all rural schools through the Inspectors.

NOW is the time to get ready exhibits for the East Lambton Fair to be held in Watford on Oct. 5 and 6. The prize lists are ready. If you want one a line to F. Kenward, Watford, secretary of the fair, will bring you one by next mail, also a list to enter articles for exhibition. If you are not a member, a dollar paid to the secretary any time up to the first day of the Fair will make you one. The prize list is a liberal one.

SPECIAL blue suits in young men's natty styles.—SWIFTS.

THE Canadian Grocer says: It looks from all present indications, as if the public will have to pay more for potatoes in about six weeks or two months. The rains and the intermittent rainy and sunny weather have been effective in causing a blight or rot and while the effect is not yet felt, in about six weeks or two months' time we may see higher prices for potatoes. We understand that quite a percentage of the Ontario crop has been thus affected.

A METHODIST preacher, formerly of Leamington, in writing to Major Johnson, says: "I am sending you my 25c just to give the boys a smoke. Of course you know I don't advocate the 'weed,' but I know those dear fellows are fighting for my life and liberty, and I can't begrudge them in their position a little comfort. God bless them. Just call it from an old Leamington boy." Drop in the postoffice and leave the price of a few smokes for the boys at the front.

BOIL the drinking water and you will probably escape an attack of typhoid.

THE Maxwell 1916 car is now on exhibition at D. A. MAXWELL'S show rooms.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED NASH are spending a few days in London, with their sons.

J. F. ELLIOT left for the West on Tuesday. He expects to be home about the end of the month.

MR. AND MRS. FRED REBORSTORCK motored to Sarnia Sunday and spent the day with their daughter, Mrs. Cares.

MISS EDVTHE LIVINGSTONE returned on Tuesday from a five months' visit with her sister, Mrs. W. A. House, Pt. Dalhousie.

TWO rinks of Wyoming bowlers were here on Tuesday to try conclusions with local players. The games were disastrous for the visitors, the score being 30-7 by one rink and 19-12 by the other in favor of the home team.

MURRAY WILLIAMSON 4th line, phoned into town on Wednesday morning to notify the police that someone had entered his house during the night and stolen a suit of clothes and $81 in cash. No clue to the perpetrator of the crime.

THE number of townspeople who attended the London fair this year was not as large as usual, but there was a good turnout from the surrounding townships. Many people went by auto this year who previously patronized the special trains on the G.T.R.

TUESDAY last was the hottest day this summer. The highest temperature reached was at 2 o'clock, when the mercury crawled up to 89.5 degrees above zero. However, all morning the heat was very great. At 8 o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered 80 degrees in the shade and each hour found it higher. The previous record was 89 degrees.

ANOTHER change has been made in the mails going west from Watford. The mail car has been transferred from the 6.39 p.m. train to the 12.13 train and mails for the west are now closed at 8.10 a.m. and 11.40 a.m. A closed mail will arrive as heretofore on the 6.39, but no mail will be sent out on that train. This is certainly not an improvement on the old schedule, as replies to letters received from the west at 11 a.m. cannot be sent out until 8 o'clock the next morning.

THE painting of the exterior of the lately remodelled Methodist Church has been completed. Three coats of red paint were given the white bricks and black pointing gives the effect of red brick laid with black mortar. Iron castings have been placed on the tower and on the porticoes of the side entrances, which add much to the general appearance of the building. New front doors have also been added. The building now presents a striking and substantial appearance and our Methodist friends are to be congratulated on having such a handsome place of worship.

DISCUSSING fall fairs, the Farmers' Advocate remarks that if rural dwellers remain away from the annual exhibition the reason is not that they begrudge the payment of the admission fee, but "too often they consider the loss of the day on the farm is not compensated by the enjoyment and ideas received at the fair, and too often farmers do not attend in a receptive mood. Criticisms are often heard from spectators that they have better live stock, fruit, farm produce and other articles at home. If such be true they should exhibit or keep their opinions to themselves, for they have not done their duty in making the exhibition a success."

SINCE the imposition of the war tax on letters and postcards the volume of mail matter posted in Canada has decreased by about 30 percent. The war tax was expected to add a little more than 50 percent to the postoffice revenue, but in consequence of the economy practiced by the public in the matter of saving on letters and postcards under the higher rate, the increase has been considerably less than anticipated. For the first four months of the operation of the war tax the department's revenue has increased by $1,100,000 or about 30 percent, as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The large part of this increase, however, is due to the sale of stamps for cheques, money orders, etc.

RAY MORNINGSTAR'S new garage, near the Merchants' Bank, is now completed and is a big improvement to the block where it is situated. The building is 60 x 30 feet, built of red pressed brick with floor of cement. The front part is used as a show room and has a fine plate glass front 11 x 18 feet. It is handsomely finished in fibre-board panelled with southern pine. In one corner is a compact business office and a convenient gasoline pump and two latest-style oil pumps are to be found within the building. Tires and a full stock of auto repairs are kept on hand. A handsome electric sign will shortly be placed in front of the building. Mr. Morningstar is to be congratulated for adding such a handsome structure to the business places of the town.

SPECIAL Saturday night display of men's hats.—SWIFTS.

THE monthly meeting of the Watford Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. Dodds on Wednesday evening Sept. 8th, President presiding, 19 members and 6 visitors present. Meeting opened by singing the "Maple Leaf."

AFTER dispensing with the business for the evening Miss Lottie Cameron and Mrs. Bennett sang solos very sweetly, and Master George Willoughby an instrumental on the piano; Miss M. Waugh gave a paper on "Women in the House" her subject being appropriate and instructive to all. Miss Alice Miller also gave a reading after which a vote of thanks was given to all those who took part. Meeting closed with the National Anthem.—Sec.

THE Comfort Shower which took place at the armories, Wednesday afternoon Sept. 8, was worthy of the season; it turned out to be a regular downpour. The ladies in charge were kept busy receiving gifts from big and little, old and young. A tea room separated from the main floor by bunting was decorated with flags and flowers, and coffee, tea, sandwiches and cake were served at small tables. The list of gifts is as follows:—tobacco $7.50, gum $2.25, soap $1.50, tea $1.00, candy $3.00, milk chocolate $3.25, a box of fruit cake, maple sugar 20 lbs., honey 40 lbs., maple syrup 16 qts., jam and marmalade 30 qts., jelly 14 qts., canned fruit 57 qts., sweet pickles 2 qts., tooth brushes 14. Although not asked for 2 linen handkerchiefs and 3 pairs men's socks were given and these acceptable gifts will also be forwarded. Silver collection $15.05. Selections on the piano were given during the afternoon and added to the enjoyment of all. The I. O. E. desire to thank all who helped so willingly to make the shower a success. The fruit etc., will be sent to the Red Cross Society, and will from there be forwarded to hospitals for Canadian soldiers. Anyone who was unable to contribute to the shower and wishing to do so may leave any of the articles asked for at the home of Mrs. T. G. Mitchell or at the armories. Several contributions arrived too late and it is expected that another barrel will be sent later in the season.

CHOP STUFF.

C. B. Day is the new proprietor of the Roche House, Forest.

A farmer near Blenheim was repeatedly annoyed by some miscreant cutting his wire fences and a watch was set with the result that the culprit was caught in the act a few nights ago.

MRS. ANDERSON, Quality Hill, Strathroy, had two barns on her farm in Adelaide, destroyed by fire Sunday night. There were three large barns on the place, and all the crops for the season were in them. By the help of neighbors one barn was saved, but the other two were burned to the ground. The buildings were partly covered by insurance, but no insurance was on the crop.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Duncan McIntyre took place from the family residence, 6th line Plympton, to Wyoming cemetery on Wednesday, Sept. 8. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and three children—Mrs. Thomas Young, Miss Ella and Joseph, all of Plympton—and also five brothers and two sisters—Duncan, of Saginaw, Mich., and Malcolm of Sarnia Township, and Mrs. Lamont of Caradoc, and Mrs. Angus Lamont, of Plympton. Rev. Williams conducted the service.

What might have been a serious accident happened to Archibald Mac Millan, of the 8th line, Plympton, on Saturday last. While engaged in leveling grain in Robert Sparling's barn a chain holding a pulley at the end of the barn gave away and the falling load dragged him across the mow the wire cable burning his arm and otherwise injuring him. The only thing that prevented him being hurled to the barn floor was the fact that it was a double mow.

Many old-time friends throughout Lambton County will learn with feelings of sincere regret of the death of Mrs. Margaret Mahony, relict of the late John Mahony, a former highly respected and well-known merchant of Sarnia. Mrs. Mahony had not been in robust health for some time past, but her death was entirely unexpected, and comes with a severe shock to the family and friends. Deceased resided with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. L. Phillips, and Tuesday morning while sitting in a chair fell to the floor and expired. Mrs. Phillips had gone to get her mother a drink of water, and when she returned found her lying on the floor in an unconscious state from which she never recovered.

The adage that "trouble never comes single" has been fully verified in the case of the family of Mr. Forrester, of Wainstead. His eldest son, Harry, who formerly taught school in the townline and afterwards removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where he studied law and afterwards became established in an office of his own in that city, drove out to visit a client in his auto on Aug. 4th when a tire burst upsetting the auto in a ditch, where Mr. Forrester was found a few hours later under the upturned machine, insensible as a result of the accident he died the following day Aug. 5th. His sister nurse McMahon attended the funeral two days later and on her return to Wainstead left her invalid and aged mother a few minutes when the old lady in attempting to walk from her chair to the lounge fell to the floor, fracturing her hip, as a result of which her recovery is considered doubtful.

A strange occurrence took place in the lake and river at Sarnia Sunday afternoon, commencing about five o'clock. The river in the lake suddenly lowered to the extent of four or five feet, and the same occurred in the river St. Clair. The drop was so great that the current in Black river was turned into a regular torrent, and the water from this stream rushed out into the St. Clair at a speed current of about six miles an hour. The current interfered to a considerable extent with the landing of the ferry boats. Then a short time afterwards the water in the lake raised again till it was above normal, and came down into the river with a rush. The boom in the bay that encloses the logs of the Cleveland-Sarnia Sawmills Company was broken by the rushing water, allowing the logs to go floating pell-mell down the river. Tugs of the Reid Wrecking Company were pressed into service to secure and round up the floating logs. The raising and lowering of the water is said by marine men to be caused by heavy wind storms in the lake.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont. - "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion." - Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont. - "I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble. My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated. I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial." - Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Canadians are to have a part in the Dardanelles operations. Their record for daring and bravery has earned for them a position with the hardy troops of Australia and New Zealand in what is conceded the most ambitious military undertaking the world has ever known.

The biggest and best crop that ever came to the Canadian West is now all down. A song of joyfulness must roll across the prairie. When it is sold the westerners ought to have nearly three hundred millions of dollars in hand or in sight - a thousand-dollar bill in the pocket of each one of three hundred thousand people. It's the first real good thing that's come to our west for some time and after some hard experiences. It's a solace for the west and it means business for us here in the east. Good luck to the men and the country that grew it.

Says the Calgary Albertan: Ontario papers are trying to explain why the percentage of recruits of the total population in Western Canada is more than double and nearly treble that of Ontario, where all the lip loyalty and flag waving comes from. The only explanation is that Ontario and the other Eastern provinces are not doing their share. It will do very much more before the war is over unless the war ends very soon.

One of the war stories that obtained wide currency was about an army of angels that was said to have appeared in the sky above the British soldiers on the retreat from Mons, and to have saved the British from the German attack. The story passed from mouth to mouth in expeditionary forces spread to England and found its way to this continent. The story is now admitted to have been pure fiction. The authority for this statement is none other than the author of the story, Arthur Machew, who tells all about it in the London Mail. He says the story was invented by him and published by him as a work of pure imagination. His explanation is as follows: "The editor of the Occult Review was I think, the first to ask whether the tale had any foundation or fact. He was followed by the editor of Light. I assured both these gentlemen that I had 'made it all up out of my head,' that it was not based on any rumor or hint or whisper of any kind or sort, in fact that it was sheer invention. And this is the truth and nothing but the truth of the matter."

New Zealand's Aid

None of the British dominions has done better than New Zealand in support of the allied cause. With a white population of slightly more than a million, the little dominion has already sent away close to 20,000 men and recently despatched its fourth contingent, 2000 strong. The fifth and sixth reinforcements, numbering 4,000 men, are now in training, and recruiting for new levies is proceeding. The record for New Zealand is highly creditable to the patriotism of this far distant outpost of the empire. Mention, too, deserves to be made of the remarkable loyalty displayed by the Maoris, the original New Zealanders - far and away the finest of the native races encountered by the pioneer colonists from the motherland. They, too, are represented in Gallipoli and are doing their duty right worthily and well.

In a despatch to Lord Liverpool, the governor of the dominion, Sir Ian Hamilton, commanding the Dardanelles forces, wrote of the New Zealand troops: "May I, speaking out of my full heart, be permitted to say how gloriously the Australian and New Zealand contingents upheld the finest traditions of our race during this struggle which is still in progress, as first with audacity and dash and then with sleepless valor and untiring resource. They have already crossed for their country an imperishable record of military virtue." From no part of the empire will come a more hearty, generous appreciation of Gen. Hamilton's tribute than from Canada whose soldiers in France and Flanders have also brought to their country an imperishable crown.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Be Warned, Young Men

Peterboro' Examiner: There are many phases of this question of enlistment: and the man who being fit in other respects, shirks the plain call of duty to enlist has to encounter many criticisms of his attitude. He may not think it, but even the young girls, whose fancy may sometimes be easily caught by superficial quality, are doing a little thinking, and are forming opinions respecting young men who refuse to enlist, that are not at all complimentary and comfortable to any self-respecting young man.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women. - The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Celluloid Watch Crystals. At the outbreak of the war American watchmakers were much concerned regarding the watch crystal situation, the German source of supply being shut off and previous attempts to make them in this country having failed. Watch crystals of glass are now being made here successfully, and an American inventor has helped the matter along by devising a celluloid watch crystal, which has the beveled edge and general appearance of a glass crystal and possesses the additional advantage of being unbreakable. -Every Week.

Oldest Mason Passes. By the death of Peter Bristol, of Napanee, Ont., one of the oldest pioneer residents of the Province of Ontario and the "oldest Mason" in Canada has passed away. He had reached the ripe age of 94 years. He recently had an attack of la grippe from which he did not completely recover and this was followed by a hardening of the arteries which brought on death. Deceased was born in South Fredrickburg, December 27, 1820, and he spent his whole life on a farm up to 20 years ago, when he moved to Napanee, where he had resided ever since. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Julia Caton, of Switzerville, Ont., by whom he had two children. August 22, 1871, he married Matilda S. Cull, of Newburg, who survives him.

General Botha's Discoveries. General Botha was accorded magnificent ovations at Capetown and Johannesburg on his return from his victorious campaign in German Southwest Africa. In his speech at Capetown on the occasion of a banquet accorded him by the citizens, the general made the announcement that the most interesting discovery in that quarter was a map made by an educated German on the basis of a supposed peace to be concluded in 1916 at Rome. It showed the whole of Africa south of the equator as a German possession except a very small portion marked "Boer Reservation." Other maps found were equally significant in disclosing the German designs on the integrity of the union territory. Plenty of information is in existence regarding German intrigue before the outbreak of war. Gen. Botha stated that he now knew that Colonel Maritz, who engineered the Boer rising, had communicated with the German governor of Southwest Africa as early as 1913 and had received an encouraging reply. The governor, the general further intimated, had been in correspondence with the Kaiser, who returned the answer: "I shall not only recognize the independence of South Africa, but even guarantee it, provided the rebellion is started immediately." Speaking later at Johannesburg, Gen. Botha declared that he had not undertaken the expedition with the object of land-grabbing, but the Kaiser's telegram had altered his attitude. The safety of the union undoubtedly depends on the elimination of Germany, whose intrigues caused serious trouble and whose native policy was a constant source of danger.

Inoculation Triumphs. We hear very little of the horrors which, a year ago, were suffered by our soldiers at Valcartier during the process of vaccination. The critics of that time have shut up; in fact, have been buried alive by the evidences which have accrued in Flanders since the war began. The momentary inconvenience, the passing pain and the physical depression of vaccination in the 30,000 troops which passed through the training camp at Valcartier, was all a part of the process of inoculation from the dread scourge of typhoid. It is not too much to say that without the precautionary typhoid serum, the area of fighting ground would today be untenable. It is not too much to say that the entire Canadian, French and Belgian armies would have suffered more "casualties" by typhoid fever than by German bullets or shells. Yet, is it not remarkable that we hear of no deaths from typhoid? There have, indeed, been several deaths reported, but, in each and every case, it has been proven that the victims were "free Britishers" who took advantage of their discretionary powers in regard to whether or no they should be inoculated. It would seem from the absolutely established facts of the case, that the Governments of the world should in future insist upon universal vaccination. The individual who claims that vaccination is futile knows not whereof he speaks. He should be protected from his ignorance. Statistics in the past and during the present terrible war have established a case for vaccination, which will never be upset, not even by the occasional accident, which, as the proverb says, will happen in the best of us.

FOR TOWN PLANNERS.

New Nova Scotia Act Arouses Wide-spread Interest.

From a fire prevention standpoint, the new town planning act passed in Nova Scotia is arousing great interest among the municipal experts of the Dominion. It will revolutionize the methods of developing real estate and of controlling building operations in that province. Under the act a local town planning board must be appointed in every urban and rural municipality, and a town planning controller has to be appointed for the whole province. No street can hereafter be laid out, or any subdivision made unless the plans are approved by this board. Within three years every board must either prepare a town planning scheme or a set of town planning bylaws with the following minimum requirements:

1. The distance between buildings to be not less than 60 feet and up to 100 feet on opposite sides of existing streets, both in respect of new buildings and reconstructed buildings, and to be not less than 80 feet on new main thoroughfares, whatever the width of the street.
2. Land to be reserved for new main thoroughfares not less than 60 feet in width, and provisions made for allowing narrow streets of from 24 to 40 feet, where not require for through traffic.
3. The number of dwellings to be limited on each acre, all windows of dwellings to have adequate light and air, separate areas to be prescribed for dwellings, factories, stores, etc.

Property is not to be deemed to be injuriously affected for purposes of compensation by reason of the following restrictions on its use, if the Commissioner of Public Works is satisfied that they are reasonable for the purpose of securing amenity:

1. Prescribing space about buildings.
2. Limiting the number of buildings to the acre.
3. Limiting the height of buildings.
4. Prescribing the use or character of buildings, i.e., whether the land shall be used for dwellings, factories, etc.

It is an essential part of the act that there shall be co-operation between municipalities and owners and between adjacent municipalities. Ample safeguards are provided to prevent any person erecting buildings or subdividing land so as to contravene a proposed scheme or by-law while either is being prepared. The local board has power to buy land up to 200 feet in depth on the frontages of new roads or reconstructed roads. The price of any land to be expropriated must be the market value and no extra allowance is to be made for compulsory purchase. The act has been drawn up in consultation with the Commission of Conservation and immediate steps will be taken to put it into force in the province.—Bulletin.

B. C.'S TIMBER WEALTH.

Various Conditions Check the Development of the Industry.

The annual report of the Forest Branch of the Department of Lands, B.C., H. R. Macmillan, Chief Forester, takes up what is a very vital consideration to British Columbia, that of its timber resources. In future there can be no doubt that the timber of British Columbia must look for its full development to the inauguration of a firm and business-like export policy. At present it would seem that little can be done in that direction, as ocean rates on such commodities as timber are very high, and insurance is almost prohibitive, in certain quarters. The report in question indicates what an immense natural resource the province possesses in its timber. Almost at the outset the chief forester says:

"The market problem confronting the lumber industry and the Government's efforts to assist in solving it, are dealt with in the following report. The first hint of war temporarily paralysed building operations in the market supplied from the Pacific Coast. The lumber industry, which was in a weak condition following the inflation of a year ago, was brought to a dead halt. The effects are now felt in every community throughout the province by every class of the population, for this industry furnished our greatest export product, met the adverse balance of trade in every community, and provided settlers with a market for both their labor and their produce. In the majority of the villages and towns in the province prosperity will return quickest through revival in the lumber business. There is no lack of lumber to cut; there is no lack of mills to cut it. It is the market that must be sought, both in Canada east of the Rockies and in the United States from the Mississippi Valley eastward, in Australia and the Orient, and to a certain extent in Europe. An aggressive campaign for the capture of these markets is now under way in the Northwestern States, lumber manufacturers and the Federal Government pushing it together. I cannot too strongly urge that the most important duty of the Forest Branch at the present time is to assist in extending the markets for British Columbia's forest products. If the present opportunity is lost the lumber industry of this province will have a long uphill fight in establishing its position."

The report continues:—"From the earliest day the pioneer industry of British Columbia has been the manufacture of forest products. Of all the resources with which the province is endowed, the forest, because of its quantity, high quality, varied usefulness, and accessibility to many waterways and transportation routes, has been the resource from which the population of most districts first sought their livelihood. The fact that agricultural development in many sections of the province has waited upon the market for labor and for produce provided by the lumber industry has done much to make our forest industries prominent."

"A province so noted for its forests has naturally attracted workers and investors who have received their training in other forest regions, and who are eager to take part in the development of the last important stand of commercial timber in Canada. It is not surprising, with these considerations in mind, to find that British Columbia led all the provinces in Canada in lumber production in 1913, and that the manufacture of forest products was the province's most important source of wealth."

Ontario Model Schools.

The Department of Education of Ontario are conducting at present summer model schools at Bracebridge, Gore Bay, Ottawa, Port Arthur, Sharbot Lake and Sturgeon Falls. The schools at Ottawa and Sturgeon Falls prepare students for teaching in the English-French Public and Separate schools, while the purpose of the others is to prepare teachers for teaching in the districts and the poor parts of the counties, which, on account of their remoteness are unable to secure the services of teachers holding first or second class certificates. The schools furnish three courses, a first and second professional course and an academic course.

In 1914 the number in attendance at these schools was 366, of which 58 obtained limited third class certificates valid for five years, 160 obtained district certificates, and 93 obtained extended districts certificates.

In order to encourage the students to attend these schools, the Department of Education pays $3 a week of the cost of board and lodging, and one single fare and one-third of the traveling expenses.

Chalk as Fuel.

In Canada a coal peat fuel has been utilized somewhat extensively, the peat being mixed with coal-breeze and then pressed into briquettes. Such fuel has been found of ancient and economical.

But it is not generally known that chalk, of which there are large deposits in Canada, can be converted into a profitable fuel. If the chalk is pulverized and then combined with 30 per cent of breeze and 10 per cent of solidified tar, the mixture being compressed into small briquettes or pebbles about the size of a chicken's egg, the chalk briquettes will burn with perfect satisfaction either in an open grate or under a boiler. The fuel has the advantage of being smokeless, has a high calorific value and burns freely.

The cost of producing such fuel may be decreased by utilizing the refuse and garbage collected from the household dustbin as one of the constituents of the briquette. The residue of such fuel possesses an economic value, inasmuch as lime forms the larger portion of the ash.

MONTREAL IN WAR TIME.

Strange Conditions Prevail in Canadian Metropolis This Year.

Unique conditions prevail in the port of Montreal this season. Ships are few and unknown; they come heralded by the owners and shipping companies, but they slip away to sea without a word in the papers and with no announcement of their sailings. The Marine Signal Service, although it knows their whereabouts at all times, does not list outgoing liners on its reports. The harbor is under a strict military and police control and only those who have good reasons for entering within the limits of the port are permitted to visit the docks.

There is a great increase in the numbers of Norwegian vessels coming to Montreal in the freight trade. These are neutral in the war and, to emphasize their neutrality, and to afford some more protection from the pirate craft of the Germans, they have their names painted in huge white letters on the sides of the vessels, and also the flag of Norway painted on the hull of the ships in two or three places on each side. But even then the Norwegians know that their is a big element of danger in their career, but freight rates are high and loads are sure in the port.

Most of the ships which have docked here this season have been strangers to the St. Lawrence. They have come from the ends of the universe almost. The Statesman, for instance, had just finished carrying big shells to the Dardanelles for the Queen Elizabeth; the Norwegian ship Drot saw a Danish cruiser threaten to open fire on a German ship a month ago because the German was threatening to sink a Norwegian merchantman in the territorial waters of the Norse. The Donaldson liner Cassandra carried back to Liverpool from Newport News the Britishers who were prisoners of war on board the German raider Kron Prinz Wilhelm. A big freighter came into port with her name completely obliterated and only "E-8012" as her identity. One morning the Cameronia—a big New York Cunarder—slipped into the port; the same night she slipped out again with the 24th Battalion on board. The soldiers are in England now.

The Marine Signal Service is having the troubles of its life. Ships that it never saw before suddenly appear in the river inbound. Their names are unknown; their company colors are painted out; they are a dull, dirty grey from water line to mast-head. In many instances the best operators can do is to report a "two-masted steamer" off shore, or possibly hazard a guess as to the identity of the stranger. Passenger ships are few this season. The needs of the Admiralty are paramount, and any ship that arrives here may be taken with little ado and sent to sea again on some voyage in connection with the war.

An innovation this season is the loading of several lake ships direct for the British Isles. The Glenfoyle is an instance. She loaded 122,000 bushels of oats on board at Kingston. Then when she had passed the canal she took on more grain for the ocean trip. Other vessels are expected to follow her example. Then over twenty of the biggest freight carriers of the lakes have been chartered to enter the coasting trade of the Atlantic. Some of these ships are carrying coal to Montreal from Sydney; others are running along the Atlantic coast from Labrador to the Bermudas.

Shells Made In Canada.

The works manager of one of the largest machine shops in Canada said the other day that Lord Curzon's statement regarding the manufacture of shells in Canada were literally correct, but that they carried a certain misapprehension.

"It depends upon just what is meant by a complete shell," he said. "If Lord Curzon meant that the projectile itself was not manufactured complete in this country, he is mistaken. The only part of a complete shell that is not made or cannot be made in Canada to-day, is the copper band, and that will soon be manufactured here."

"Regarding the deliveries, last August there was not a shell of any description being manufactured in Canada, except a few at the arsenal at Quebec. We received the orders and we had to work and learn to make the shells. This meant that we could not deliver out of stock, and hence Lord Curzon's statement is literally true that the deliveries have been made or flow."

Plympton and Wyoming

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James are visiting friends in Warwick this week.
Nurse Rose McIntosh has returned to Port Huron after spending a few days with her parents here.

Rev. Mr. Orton, of Toronto, is visiting at Mrs. John Hunter's, to reside, prior to leaving for Harvard university, where he purposes taking his degree. Mr. Orton will take the service in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

It was with very deep regret the very sad news was received in this town and vicinity of the unusually sad and sudden death of Mrs. Wm. McKay, of the 10th line of Moore. Mrs. McKay was formerly a Wyoming girl, being the daughter of the late Adam Osborn, formerly of the second line, Plympton.

Another of Plympton's pioneers was laid away in Wyoming Cemetery Monday. Mrs. Martin Forrester, who for the past 40 years was a resident of Wanstead. A fall in her home while in a weakened condition fractured her thigh, terminating in her death. Her aged husband, who is a British army veteran, survives. Mr. Forrester served in India and won several medals, later being sent to Canada in '66 with the regiment. He was married later by his bride, and joined in Quebec. During their long residence in Wanstead, many warm friends have been won. One daughter, Mrs. Mary McMahon, and two sons survive. The eldest son, a lawyer in Buffalo, was killed in an automobile accident on August 5.

Sarnia Tp. Woman Killed by Live Wire

Sarnia, Sept. 11.—A fatality occurred this afternoon about 3.30, when Mrs. John McKay, a farmer's wife, was electrocuted by a fallen wire.
Today the unfortunate woman brought in her eggs and butter, and, driving to the home of a customer, Mrs. Robert Tait, she left the horse standing in front of the house, and, taking out some butter, she entered the house.

In the meantime Mrs. Tait's oldest son, Charlie, was cutting down a tree in front of the house. The boys had cut away the top limbs, and had let them down with a rope so as not to touch the electric wires. However, when the last limb was being lowered to the ground, it caught on the wire and snapped it in two.

The live wire fell on the horse and the animal was thrown to the ground. The horse gained its feet again, only to be thrown a second time. However, it again arose to its feet, and, running madly, caught the buggy between a tree and a telegraph pole only a few yards from where the wire broke. The horse came to a standstill but the wire still dangled about the buggy.

When the horse started to run away from the house Mrs. McKay ran after it, and when the horse and buggy came to a standstill she at once rushed forward and grabbed the live wire, trying to free it from the buggy. Charlie Tait, the lad cutting the tree, and another boy and also some women had shouted to the poor woman not to touch the wire, but it was too late; and as Mrs. McKay is a little hard of hearing, it is likely she did not hear the warning cries.

Screaming to the onlookers, she cried her last words: "Oh, I can't let go; I am killed."

When the others on the scene approached her she was smoking like a bonfire, and almost burnt to charcoal. The horse had to be cut away from the buggy, and when the power was shut off the body was released from the wire. The remains were at once taken to Philip's morgue, after the coroner had presided over the inquest.

Mrs. McKay leaves three little children and her husband, who was at the time of her death threshing his grain at home. The unfortunate lady was about 32.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Receipts at the Union stockyards to-day were 879 cattle, 104 calves, 850 hogs and 822 sheep and lambs.

Trade was dull, but with the higher run prices held about steady at yesterday's decline below a week ago. Choice good 50c below a week ago. In quality butcher cattle were scarce and in very small lots, the bulk of the offerings being of inferior quality. Heavy steers do not appear to be in demand except at very sharp declines from last week's prices, but as very few are on the market they are no great factor.

Stockers and feeders remain quiet but steady demand for good quality at comparatively easy prices. Poor demand for the rough light eastern stockers. Good butcher fat cows and canners steady to firm.

Lambs—Light, choice quality firm, but heavy lambs dull and weaker.

Hogs steady to firm at the last advance.

Mrs. David Anderson, Forest, broke her wrist Monday evening, in a fall from the back door of her residence. During the day the steps were taken away to be replaced with new ones, and after dark without thinking, Mrs. Anderson stepped out. Her shoulder was also badly sprained.

The machine gun campaign put on by the people of Forest resulted most successfully. The 24 ladies who canvassed the town on Wednesday, the 1st inst., for contributions, secured nearly the full amount required in a few hours.

Live cattle intended for slaughter at the port of landing will be admitted to the town on Wednesday, the 1st inst., England beginning September 21, thus abrogating the prohibitory order issued by the board of trade more than five years ago. A reduction in the cost of beef, estimated in some quarters at 25 per cent, is expected in consequence of the new departure. Importers of frozen meat will have formidable competition, although full developments of the trade in live cattle may be delayed by the present high freight rates and the shortage of suitable shipping facilities.

STRIKING FACTS IN GOVT. REPORT

Building of Grand Trunk Pacific Line Reveals Many Fertile Valleys in B.C.

"The 'Back to the Land' movement is taking place steadily but surely throughout the province of British Columbia and if this movement is directed along right lines we shall soon be supplying our own markets and eventually exporting."

Such is the declaration made by Mr. W. E. Scott, Deputy Minister of Agriculture in the British Columbia Government. This official, with Mr. W. T. McDonald, Live Stock Commissioner, has just returned from an extended tour through the central portion of the province for the purpose of examining and reporting upon the new country along the Grand Trunk Pacific's Transcontinental Line, now open for through passenger service.

In his report, the Deputy Minister says:—

"There have been many opinions expressed about the lands in Central British Columbia contiguous to the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Our observations led us conclusively to the opinion that this part of the province is a country, the future of which is assured as a stock raising and mixed farming country."

"After leaving Prince Rupert, on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, there is practically no land suitable for agricultural purposes until Terrace is reached, 100 miles from Prince Rupert. Here the Kitsuun, Kalem and Lakelse Valleys extend on each side of the Skeena River. There is probably an area of 250,000 acres of land in these two valleys suitable for agriculture. Considerable development has been effected lately in the Kitsuun Valley. The clearing here, in comparison with our coast districts, is comparatively light. The soil is very productive and is well suited for general mixed farming purposes. Dairy, poultry raising and small fruit and vegetable growing may be prosecuted successfully. The district is particularly well suited for growing strawberries and other small fruits, the quality of the berries being very high and realizing good prices on the Prince Rupert market."

• The Bulkley Valley.

"Our next stop was at Smithers, in the centre of the famous Bulkley Valley. A very large amount of development work has been undertaken during the past year in this magnificent valley. The quality of a large proportion of the land is all that could be desired, and very good crops are raised thereon. Crops of oats promising to run 100 bushels to the acre were seen, and all prospects were most encouraging. Farmers are realizing that the time has arrived when they should develop their lands, and land-clearing operations are in evidence on all sides.

"It is difficult to estimate the amount of land suitable for agriculture in this wonderful valley, but it runs into many hundreds of thousands of acres."

Nechaco Valley.

"Proceeding along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Fraser Lake is reached. A considerable number of settlers have gone into this district lately and are proceeding to clear land and develop their holdings. The next stop was at Vanderhoof, in the centre of the famous Nechaco Valley. We were immensely impressed with the enormous extent of good land in the Nechaco Valley, most of which can be cleared at a very low cost indeed. A large number of settlers have gone in there, and on all sides one sees signs of activity. Settlers' log houses are springing up in every direction, and considerable energy is being shown by most of them in clearing their lands and getting them into crops. Fields 100 acres in extent in grain were noticed.

"There are many tracts of good agricultural land adjacent to Prince George, whilst at the same time there is a considerable area of jack pine land, where the soil is light and therefore is not the best land for agricultural purposes."

"The wonderful country visited between Hazelton and Prince George has a great future ahead of it, now that transportation has been effected. It is a big country with a big future, and, as soon as times improve and conditions right themselves, a big forward movement must take place. The country traversed grows magnificent crops of timothy, oats and barley. Wheat may also be grown successfully if care is exercised in getting the seed sown as early as possible so as to avoid damage from frosts. Potatoes and other vegetables and small fruits do very well, but my observations lead me to the conclusion that this part of the province is not adapted for growing tree fruits commercially. Certain of the hardier varieties may be grown all right for home use, but every effort should be made to prevent this country being advertised by any interested parties as suitable for commercial tree fruit growing. It is, par excellence, a stock and mixed farming country."

A FLOWER AMONG WEEDS

Story of the Eighteenth Century.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

During the reign of Louis XV. France reached a culmination of profligacy which had been growing for years. While the king was in his minority the regent, his uncle, Duke of Orleans, set the example of debauchery to the court and through the court to the kingdom. Louis himself, on assuming the scepter, by continuing in his uncle's footsteps completed the work of laying the foundation for the French revolution which broke out during the reign of his successor.

During the regency of the Duke of Orleans the wealthiest nobles owned estates in different parts of France. Only the more moral of these lived in their country chateaus, for the profligate could not endure to live elsewhere than in Paris, where the intriguing and debauchery were going on. Among those who preferred the virtue of rural life was the young Marquis Gaston de Roquette, who, though a soldier of acknowledged bravery, had a mind capable of foreseeing the ruin the regent, the princes of the blood and the nobility were bringing upon France.

However, the marquis was obliged occasionally to go to Paris either at the call of the regent or on account of some duty connected with his station as a peer of the realm. One day on the street on which stands what was then the palace of the Louvre he passed a young lady riding in her "chair," the very sight of whom deeply impressed him. She was not only beautiful, but a natural purity showed itself in every line of her countenance. This was the more noticeable, for at that time the women of the court were as bad as the men, and the lives they led were discernible in their features. The marquis followed the young lady with his eyes, and when he saw her carried into the palace he heaved a sigh, for he did not believe that any woman could enter that royal abode and be good. Her entrance there, however, proved that she was a lady of rank.

The marquis' duty to the sovereign later called him to the court, and he saw there the lady whom he had met in her "chair." Hanging over her was a famous but notorious duke, the most pronounced and successful beau of that period. He was a very wealthy man, and he was also the most accomplished villain of his day. Three times he had been in the Bastille, the third time for having attempted to betray France.

Another sigh marked the marquis' discovery that the girl who had made such an impression on him was probably falling into the hands of this notorious villain. Leaving the palace without even inquiring the name or rank of the young lady, M. Roquette returned to his estate and, shutting himself up in his chateau, endeavored to banish her image, which had haunted him since the first moment he had seen her.

This was not possible. To the young man's impressions are very strong. What it was in that pure face that had taken hold of him he did not know. What he did know was that she was a member of a profligate court, that he had seen its most notorious rake hanging over her, and he did not doubt that sooner or later she would go down under the influences which surrounded her.

Gaston de Roquette remained on his estate for a month without returning to Paris. Often was he tempted to go there for another glimpse of the face that had enthralled him, but he believed that in yielding to the temptation he would only bring upon himself greater pain. So he devoted himself to the care of his estate and to his tenants. He endeavored to occupy himself with his books, but this was impossible, for whatever he did, his mind was upon that pure being, growing like a flower in the midst of poisonous weeds.

Whether it was that the young marquis was a poor sleeper or that Cupid was keeping him awake, he went to bed late and at times when unable to sleep would arise, dress himself and walk about outside. Not far from the chateau was the church where he and his household and his tenants worshipped and about which their forefathers slept. Within the structure were the bones of the De Roquettes incased in sepulchers or under the flags, the sepulchers supporting marble figures of the departed, while here and there were the arms the men had borne in war.

Gaston de Roquette often strolled to do so. My first duty is to protect this lady, and I see no one here with whom I may safely leave her."

One of the attendant men sprang forward and seized the duke by the arm. He was followed by the other man, then by the women. All pleaded with him to desist.

"This will make a scandal," they argued, "that will put you again in the Bastille and send the rest of us to our country estates, where we will have nothing to do but pine for Paris. We were foolish to bet you in this wild scheme. And the Countess Emilie! Do you suppose the powerful family to which she belongs will not avenge this insult if it becomes known? Give up your mad scheme. It is doubtless fortunate that it has been interrupted, and if it can be kept secret none of us may suffer on account of our part in it."

The duke stood burning to proceed, but all declared that it was of them that he should think and not of himself, though an exile to the country would be less irksome than the Bastille. Finally he sheathed his sword and, after one more appeal to the countess to confer with the marquis, he turned to the church by his friends, leaving the marquis and the girl he had saved from a mock marriage alone together.

Here stops the chronicle of one of the vilest episodes of the time of the regency of Philippe of France, but one which in that day was known only to a few. Later Gaston Marquis de Roquette and Emilie Countess de Vandiere were married in the very church where the mock marriage had been interrupted. And it is a matter of record that neither of them ever again appeared at court. Surrounded by their children, adored by their tenants, they lived a life of simplicity and purity.

But when at the end of the eighteenth century the people of France rose to throw off the yoke of a profligate nobility the innocent were made to suffer with the guilty. The marquis and marquis's grandchildren paid a penalty that they did not deserve.

Do not allow worms to sap the vitality of your children. If not attended to, worms may work irreparable harm to the system. There are many signs by which mothers are made aware that a dose of Miller's Worm Powder is necessary. These worms act quickly and will expel worms from the system without any inconvenience to the child.

CHANCE FOR INVENTORS.

Some Simple Devices For Which There Seems to Be a Demand.
Here are a few simple things so badly needed that the Scientific American calls upon inventors to get busy and invent them:

A ticket holder for holding the price and lot tickets to a coat or other garment, which ticket can be easily applied and removed and another inserted, all without mutilation or other injury to the garment.

The lower berth in a sleeping car is stuffy with the windows closed, and if you open the window the cold air is directly on you. It is thought that the riding public would appreciate some deflector or diffusing construction which could be applied to the open window over the usual short hinged screen and permit the entry of fresh air, at the same time preventing it from blowing directly on the passenger in the berth.

Some means for effectively preventing the mirror effect in show windows, the effect we all notice in passing such a window in which our image is reflected and the contents of the window are shut out of view. Naturally, the shopkeeper who works for a display in his window resents it not being seen.

President Wilson, who is an ardent golfer and also dependent on his eyeglasses, is reported as saying that he cannot play the game in the rain because of the accumulation of moisture on his glasses, which leads to the suggestion that specially devised glasses or some treatment of the ordinary lens may solve the problem.

Mexican Military Coin.
Every Mexican commandant drives dull care away by manufacturing his own currency, thus enabling his army to live honestly and to pay as it goes. To be sure, arguments sometimes have to be used to circulate a new brand of paper and ink, but an argument in a language is indeed unanswerable. A recent happy thought in high financial circles is to issue so called money about the size of a subway ticket, but which has a time limit. This has the effect of keeping the peons bustling to get rid of it before its value disappears, which is a day or two before the time at which it would naturally wear out.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

THE FIRST TROUSERS.

They Were Worn Skin Tight and Led Men to Pad Their Legs.

The advent of the silk hat led to the introduction of trousers. Knee breeches and silk stockings did not correspond with stovepipe hats. Try them now and see if you think they do. So reformers set themselves to work to devise some better garments congruous with the new headpiece.

The result was trousers. There had, it is true, been some precursors of those inimitable garments. The Turk had worn voluminous twin bags on his legs, gathered and tied, bag fashion, at the ankles. The Cossacks, too, had found such things more convenient for horseback riding than any other garb, and "pantaloons" were used in armies, especially by the French. But none of these nor any other garment that was worn prior to 1815 could be described as genuine trousers.

The first trousers worn in London were of plain, light colored cloth, and fitted very tightly; almost as tight, we may believe, as those in this country a generation ago. In the second season striped and other figured clothes were used by some, but such trousers were regarded as quite plebeian and fit for wearing only in bad weather when the streets were muddy, or as a sort of rough outing garb at the seaside. A favorite material for trousers worn by men of fashion was an elastic stockinet, which fitted literally "skin tight." Beneath such garments, to supply the deficiencies of nature, men were not averse to wearing false calves and other padding on their legs. Straps passing beneath the foot were used to keep the trouser legs held down in place.—Exchange.

DOPPLER'S LAW OF LIGHT.

It Proves That Our Solar System Is Whirling Northward.

The fact that our solar system is traveling northward at a rate of twenty miles per second has been determined by means of one of the most remarkable laws in the entire history of science, Doppler's law of light. Stated by a railway track and listen to a whistle approaching. As it approaches the bell or whistle will increase the pitch of its sound and instantly lower the pitch of tone after it passes and recedes. When coming more waves enter the ear and less when it is departing.

Light consists of the action of waves on the retina of the eye. Our earth and all bodies in the solar system, moving to a point in the celestial vault not far from the star Vega, and the constellation Lyra, and, of course, receding from the opposite point of the sky. Waves entering the slit of the spectroscope from the northern stars are compressed—namely, more enter per second and are dispersed toward the violet end of the spectrum, less enter from the southern stars and are dispersed toward the red.

Now, exacted mathematics, based on the laws of light, determine the extent of dispersion of waves toward the red or violet for each decrease or increase of motion of light emitting bodies, and the amount actually found by experiment confirmed the mathematical formulas—a proof that modern mind is expressing at a very exalted rate.—The Star Lucien Larkin, in New York American.

Scaring the Conscience.

Of all her curious customs London cannot boast of a more strictly adhered to than that formerly so rigidly adhered to at Holland House, one of the most historic old mansions in the British capital. The last of the Lords Holland, shot himself during a fit of despondency. Everything pointed to a case of self murder, yet the Holland family could never be dissuaded from the notion that the old man had been murdered by some unknown assassin. Accordingly every night for years it was the custom for one of the family to go to the rear of the house punctually at 11 o'clock and fire a gun for the purpose, it is said, of "scaring the conscience" of the murderer. This curious practice is a relic of medieval days in continental Europe, and the case in point is probably the only instance where it has been noticed since the days of the crusades.

When Men Powdered Their Faces.

The use of powders for the hair and face, which began in the sixteenth century, infected the men. Henry III. had the habit of parading the streets of Paris, his face covered with white and red paste, like a faded coquette, and his hair filled with violet powder and scented with musk. Powders were made of all colors, and the infatuation was such that servant girls were afraid to be seen in public with their hair of the natural color and, not being able to buy that used by their employers, employed sawdust as a substitute.—London Mirror.

The Vampire In Romance She Is Beautiful, In Real Life Unattractive to All Except Her Victims. By EILEEN BRENNAN without a word passing between them she became irksome. Was it not a want of compliment to his fellow passenger that he should refrain from addressing her? Surely it would be immodest in her to speak to him without a word from him.

from delirium, but who now every day feels his strength returning to him. The vampire meanwhile found another victim. Nevertheless she made every effort to find Grant, rather than the deviltry there was in her and a repugnance to having him spirited away from her than any desire to continue in possession of him.

There have been many versions of the woman who has a passion for entrancing men, from the ordinary flirt to the vampire. The ordinary flirt is supposed to have a conscience. The vampire lures men to their ruin and if they have families are as ready to wreck wife and children as the man himself.

When Edward Grant returned from his journey he was a changed man. He could not return the embrace of his wife and son as when he had left them. That something was on his mind was plain to Mrs. Grant, but she could not tell what it was.

Canada's Popularity. Any vestige of a hint of deprecation clinging to the word "colonial," which survived the South African war has certainly died a swift death early in the present campaign, says Mona Cleaver in the Canadian Courier.

It was not long before Mrs. Grant learned that her husband had fallen into the hands of a vampire. Spring was coming on, and rooms were engaged for the Grant family for July and August at the hotel where they usually spent the summer.

Edward Grant was prominent in college not only as an all round available man, but as a scholar. He was president of his class and graduated with honors. He became attached to Marjorie Fleetwood, the daughter of one of the professors of the university.

I searched out the secretary of an important organization working among Belgian refugees in London, and almost the first thing he said to me, with all the cordiality of fellow-countrymen meeting at the antipodes, was: "Oh, are you a Canadian? So am I."

W. E. FITZGERALD—Best 5 lb. crock of Butter, crock and butter to be his, $4.00. GUIDE-ADVOCATE—Best Hand Bocket, to be theirs, one year's subscription.

The couple had been married fourteen years when Edward Grant was called from his home in the east to San Francisco on a matter of business. It was his first separation from his family except for a few days at a time, and he no more wished to go than his wife wished to have him go.

When the end of the season came Mrs. Grant and Harry returned to the city together, while his father bowled along the turnpike in an automobile with the vampire. Every one sympathized with the wife, but no one was in a position to do anything for her.

On this gentleman's advice I went to the headquarters for Belgian refugees, in Aldwych, and the uniformed attendant who showed me about at once spotted me for a Canadian. "You come from Canada, don't you?" he said. "So do I."

W. M. McLEAY—Best barrel of Spy Apples, to be his, $3.00. JOHN MATHEWS—Best 20 lbs. Roll Butter, to be his, $2.00 and market price.

The trouble in the Grant family went on till Harry Grant had passed fifteen years of age. He had understood the family trouble from the first and the cause of it. He was now nearly full grown, and the skeleton in the family closet and his love for his parents had made a man of him.

There are four military decorations to be won in the war. The greatest of these is the Victoria Cross, and three Canadians have been awarded that most coveted distinction, though but one has lived to receive it.

But now those eyes, in which there was a lure, came between him and the vision of his wife and son. The faint odor that hung about the woman was wafted toward him whenever any one passed through the car. No word was spoken by either, but every time again their eyes met, and every time Grant felt more strongly the lure that was in those of the woman.
