HAVE LAID THIS GHOST

Fashionable Woman's remarkable Freak to Frighten Women and Children

South Norwalk, Conn., March 27.—The "Woman in Black," has been unveiled, the sombre vision has laid for that weeks has haunted the fashionable Maple and Franklin streets.

Remarkable to say, the mysterious woman is none other than Mrs. Thomas B. Dolan, wife of a prominent man and conspicuous in good society.

Physicians say she must have found some gratification in exciting fear and arousing curiosity, else she would not have "walked" for five nights.

A trap was set to catch the evasive phantom last night. A policeman was posted at every avenue of escape from the neighborhood which she has terrified.

Although trembling so that she could scarcely move, the instant the face disappeared Miss Bixbie raised the window and shouted for help.

The light of burley tobacco district covers fifty-five counties in Kentucky, several in Ohio and two or three in West Virginia.

STARR TROPHY IS MISSING

There are stories going the rounds today that the Starr Trophy has disappeared. Ever since it came here it has been on exhibition in a store window, but today it was not to be seen there.

MORE MEN LEAVE WITHOUT NOTICE

The Times Press staff went out on strike this morning. They gave no notice. It was not discovered until nearly noon that they would not report for duty.

It may be stated once for all that the owner of this paper will continue to control it, even if it is necessary to suspend publication for a time until a reliable staff can be secured.

The Times has no quarrel with the printers or anyone else. It pays wages promptly, and has paid the union scale to union men, having three years ago let the girl operators go to give place to them.

Once more this journal must crave the forbearance of the public while it stands for the principle of fair play and a square deal for employer as well as employed.

DEBTS SAVE FROM TAXES

Schwab was Assessed on $429,000 Last Year, but Nothing this Year

New York, March 26.—Charles M. Schwab, former head of the United States Steel Company, paid on a $429,000 assessment last year as a non-resident.

As a non-resident, Mr. Schwab was assessed on personal property in the city under the Saxe law. When he called at the Tax Department this year, he found that he had been assessed tentatively the same amount as last year when he was a non-resident.

THE PASTOR ARRESTED

Charged with Libelous Remarks at Funeral of Man's Wife

Reading, Pa., March 27.—Charging libelous remarks at the funeral of his wife, Jeremiah Werner this afternoon had the Rev. M. H. Stettler arrested.

At the funeral of Mrs. Werner, wife of the pastor, held last Sunday at Methodist St. John's Lutheran Church, Mr. Stettler preached the sermon.

Then pointing to the husband it is alleged that Stettler remarked that the husband sat unmoved, with no feeling in the presence of the corpse of his help-mate.

Mr. Werner, the prosecutor, denies the charges. He says that he did not knock his wife down a week before her illness but that he had a trained nurse for her and the best of medical attendance.

Mr. Werner announces that he will next have the preacher arrested for slander. Stettler's remarks created a great commotion at the funeral.

RELATIONS ARE STRAINED NOW

Between the Montreal License Commissioners and Chief of Police--Sunday Liquor Selling the Cause.

Montreal, March 27, (Special).—Strange feelings have developed between the License Commissioners and Chief of Police Campeau, owing to the non-enforcement of the liquor laws.

The commissioners, assembling today to attend their meeting and explain to the chief and his men had at the least violated their oath of office. It was reported that at one Sunday saloon no less than sixty men were found in the bar with four bartenders serving them.

London, March 27.—The growth of cigarette smoking in the British army is beginning to disquiet the higher officers, whose reports indicate that the health of the men is being seriously impaired by indulgence in this practice.

Lieutenant-General Grenfell, commander-in-Chief of the forces in Ireland, is the first to take action. He has just issued an order to the troops of his command calling attention to the evils which must inevitably follow from excess and appealing for "sobriety and early action to combat what is gradually, but greatly affecting the efficiency of the men."

INCREASED COST OF FOODSTUFFS

Several Lines have Advanced in Price During Present Month

It is generally admitted that the cost of living has increased very materially during the past year and it is therefore of interest to note just how much more prices for food stuffs have advanced from time to time.

Wheat has been fluctuating around one for May delivery and there is no immediate prospect of any marked change either up or down.

It is scarce and higher and owing to the increased demand it is not expected any lower prices will be quoted for the rest of the year.

All grades of refined sugar advanced 10 cents again Wednesday. This makes a total advance since the first of the month of 70c per hundred pounds on Austrian granulated in bags, and 40c per hundred on standard granulated and all grades of yellow.

The Kaiser's Letter is made the Subject of Enquiry and of Comment in the German Reichstag--a pacific statement is made.

Berlin, March 26.—The Imperial chancellor, Von Bulow, said in the Reichstag today that he regretted he was unable to give the contents of Emperor William's letter to Lord Tweedmouth, first lord of the British Admiralty, which had created such a stir in England.

"The purely defensive character of our naval programme, in the face of the attempts to impute to us aggressive intentions and plans toward Great Britain, cannot be repeated too often or too sharply," the chancellor declared.

PRISON FOR DUMA MEMBERS

St. Petersburg, March 26.—The Russian Senate, the highest tribunal in the empire, today overruled the appeal made by the 167 members of the first Duma, who on December 31 were convicted by the Court of Appeals and sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

The charges against these deputies were treasonable practices, the specifications being that after the dissolution of the first Duma, in July, 1905 its members assembled at Viborg and issued the famous Viborg manifesto, urging the people to stand up for the rights of popular representation and advising them to give neither money nor soldiers to the government.

Kansas City, Mo., March 27.—Thirty-five thousand members of the United Mine Workers of America employed in districts numbers 11, 21 and 25, comprising Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, may strike on April 1 first.

THE LONELY GUARD, BY NORMAN INNES. Author of "The Surge of War" (London Magazine, Eveleigh Nash, 1906); "Parson Crest" (Eveleigh Nash, 1907).

(Continued) Good luck, how my pieces fell that night, a bishop, a pair of knights and then the queen, and ere I had collected my wits, ere the wild tale of my heart had died, the game was lost and the priest was showing me my errors of play.

"Then I have your countenance, Inez, your influence in support of my cause," he repeated. "My countenance, yes," replied the lady tentatively as she paused in the doorway. "But my influence"—she laughed merrily. "What cares Elsa for me, thinkst thou? Nay, a man must plead his own part with a woman, say I."

"I shrink against the wall, planning my faith to the curtain's shadow. I scarce dared breathe as those two lingered in the gallery. And then, to my dismay, clear from the garden rose the voice of the younger sister calling."

"Inez, Otto, why linger ye amid the misty books this summer night? In a moment von Wagon had turned, in another he was beside me, leaning forth from the window, while his companion stood waiting him in the middle of the gallery."

"Narrowly she watched him—I marked her—as though weighing in the worth of the man. Her cheeks flushed, her lips trembled and then her brows knit and her face grew very hard, and as the Count joined with her that went beneath, fear of discovery gave place to loathing for this man, whose perfidious fingers were itching to grip it. It would have been the merest child's play to have seized him and flung him over the side of the donkey-boat at her feet. Heaven be thanked, some good angel held my hand in that hour, of the deed would have been done, and my folly must have been visited on my own head."

GOVERNMENT COMMISSION CONDEMNS THE DEPARTMENTS

Incompetence, Disorganization and Dishonesty Intimated in Connection with Marine and Fisheries—Commission Claims that Appointments Should not Depend Upon Political Pull.

Ottawa, March 26—The report of the Civil Service Commission was laid on the table of the commons today. It is a voluminous document and covers a wide range of subjects—the salaries, hours, cost of living and efficiency of the civil servants are treated. The report also goes into the cost of living in Canada at present and what it is likely to be in the future, the work of the public accountants and the discipline of the departments.

There are recommendations for reform, not only of the departmental methods but those of parliament itself. Some of the departments come in for severe criticism notably the departments of militia and of marine. To attract good men to the service and to retain them there is a recommendation for an increase in the salaries of from twelve and a half to twenty per cent, both for employees at Ottawa and for those which are in the outside service.

They advise that the civil service act be repealed and fresh provision made to govern examinations and entrance to the service. Salaries Too Low. With reference to salaries the commissioners consider that the lowest ranks of the service are paid less than they would receive in outside occupations and less than modern conditions demand. No efficient deputy head should be paid less than $5,000 a year.

Chief clerks and first class clerks should have an annual increase of $100 until a maximum is reached. With regard to the lower grades they say it is difficult to obtain proper assistance at a minimum salary of $500, unless the service is altogether recruited from Ottawa. They recommend instead of a minimum salary an entrance salary of $700. They recommend that temporary employees be classed, as in England, as writers and as vacancies occur they shall be promoted.

In the matter of pay and promotion every officer in the service should be treated on his merits. The service should be entirely free from political favoritism or patronage. Appointments should only be made by merit after competitive examinations. A permanent commission of three should be created to deal with the question of the service to supervise the examinations.

The commissioners are of the opinion that salaries should be dealt with immediately. They cannot recommend general increases, but they would suggest taking votes on granting increases to deserving officials and that for eastern Canada, both in the inside and outside service, such increase might be at the rate of 15 per cent for officials, whose salaries are under $1,500, and 12 1/2 per cent for salaries about that rate, and for the western provinces, where the salaries are under $1,000, the increase should be 25 and 20 per cent to the same proportions of incomes and all provisional allowances should cease. When a young man of great efficiency appears it is to the advantage of the country that it should get the full benefit of his capacity as soon as possible. To secure this, he should have swift promotion.

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause in congestion, pain in blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and it is proved by his created a little pink tablet, called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—these blood-brewing away from pain centers, its effects are charming, pleasingly delightful, gentle, though its effect is to equalize the blood circulation.

They welcomed the debaters. WOLFVILLE, March 26—When Acadia's victorious debating team arrived home from Halifax Saturday evening, they received the grandest welcome ever accorded a returning team by the students of that college.

The win over Dalhousie on Friday night was the 21th of an unbroken series of victories, which gives to Acadia the championship of the five-year maritime intercollegiate debating league. At the station, the debaters, Messrs. McCutcheon, Warren and Kierstead, together with E. Belmont, who in the four preceding years led the team to victory, were hustled into a bar-restaurant, trimmed with Acadia banners and bunting. Headed by a band and a bodyguard of students, the debaters were paraded about the streets, followed by a crowd, variously at from six to eight hundred.

Dickie, of Charlo, John McGovern of Jacques River and David McCurdy of Point Lenjui to be commissioners of the board of liquor license commissioners in place of Thomas Craig, Mathurin Frenette and W. C. Blair, respectively, whose term of office has expired. Gloucester—T. Blanchard to be inspector of liquor licenses in place of Hugh Cowan, removed from office.

Premier Hazen, after the government meeting today stated that an act would be introduced to take the place of the present highway act, and that there would also be an audit act to change the method of auditing the provincial accounts. Hon. Mr. Hazen did not care to discuss at the present time the provisions of the acts referred to, in fact he stated that it was not definitely decided as yet what the acts would provide for. What is done will be for the public good. The premier also stated that the matter of the financial position of the province was considered this morning, the government taking up the various ways and means by which it might be made known to the people. Nothing definite as to the mode of procedure has as yet been announced.

TROUBLE LOOKED FOR OVER HOCKEY MIX-UP

The disqualification of the Fredericton Capitals, winners of the N. B. H. L. series and Star trophy by the trustees of that trophy, presumably on the recommendation of President Lithgow, of the M. P. A. A., is likely now to precipitate a big row in New Brunswick sporting circles as it is understood that the Fredericton club will not hand over the emblem of Maritime Championship without a big fight.

It is said for the Capital people that the case of the Star trophy officials and the M. P. A. A. have been open only to the Moncton side of the question and that Fredericton have not been given an opportunity to make a statement before being disqualified. It is altogether likely that Fredericton will request a meeting of the league in connection with the matter, and it is further ascertained that the Capital side of the matter will be supported by the Marshalls of this city in their demand for a hearing.

Whatever way the case goes the Capitals promise some rather interesting revelations regarding the Moncton team and management.

D. B. Donald of the Marshalls, when seen by a Telegraph man yesterday regarding the mix up, said that the whole question outside of that of matters and professional was simply a matter of fairness,

LONDON STYLE OF FIGHTING

Prize fighting under the London ring rules in this country practically was killed in the early part of 1878. The James-MacCormack, the Mace and Ned O' Baldwin fiascos, and the manner in which Billy Edwards was robbed of his fight with Arthur Chambers removed some of the props which supported the game, and the remainder of them were pulled from under it in the first two fights of the year 1878.

The first of these battles was fought near Scranton, Pa., on March 1, the contestants being Billy Costello, of Birmingham, N. Y., and Jack Conway, of Scranton. The stakes were $250 a side, and as it was an important affair for the sports in that part of the country, fully 1,000 of them gathered at the ring-side to see it pulled off.

Conway gained first blood in the opening round and was awarded the fight in the sixth on a claim of foul. The decision of the referee was received with the wildest demonstration of disapprobation and was the cause of a general row, during which the referee was assaulted and brutally beaten by partisans of Costello.

On March 4 George Seddons, the chief conspirator in the Edwards-Chambers robbery, played an important part in helping Harry Hickson, a well-known victor over Bryan Campbell.

Hickson and Campbell met at Collier's Station, N. Y., to settle for $1,000 a side. Hickson was seconded by Ned O' Baldwin and Abe Smith, and Campbell by Owen O'Sullivan and "Bert" Black. Seddons stood as referee.

Considerable interest was manifested in the match because it was looked upon as bona fide and because in it science was pitted against endurance, which was exceedingly skillful, and the impression given by Campbell's protracted aggression with Lewis was that he possessed great powers of endurance, which many thought would counterbalance Hickson's superior science.

Hickson demonstrated his superiority in all branches of the game, but it was not on the books for him to win. Campbell, though strong and willing, did not have a look-in, and was beaten in every round. The men fought for an hour and a half, the last two of which were very recounting.

In the twenty-third round Bryan came up slowly, showing signs of weakness, while his face was much swollen, and a couple of cuts showing here and there, and the red current blood on his battered organ smelt.

On the contrary, Hickson showed not the first symptom of distress, his step being firm, head erect, face perfectly free from injury, and, barring the few scratches on his body, he did not appear in the least hurt.

After a minute or two spent in sparring and feinting, Campbell made another rush. Hickson's left foot was as he ducked, and after an exchange at half-arm distance, which did no damage, Hickson fell and Campbell tumbled over him.

The seconds of Campbell put in a claim of foul, and the referee was hustled about by both parties, one claiming and the other denying the foul. Seddons refused to allow the claim, merely cautioned Hickson not to repeat the same, and was advantageous to Bryan, who was at the scratch for the next round about as soon as was Harry.

In the twenty-fourth round the betting, which before the commencement had ruled at odds of $100 to $80 on Hickson, was still slightly in his favor—that is, offers to bet were frequently made but without takers. Harry who was much fresher looking than his adversary, stepped over the line to meet the later, and quickly offered with the left, which was stopped ere it reached its destination. A second attempt proved successful the left eye being smartly visited.

As usual, Bryan plunged in as Hickson jumped back, and effected a lodgment for a good right hander on the ribs, receiving a plunging hit on the forehead and another on the side of the head from Harry, in which Harry did the most execution, and in the close both went down, side by side, locked in a close embrace near Hickson's corner.

Just as O' Baldwin had carried his charge to his corner and was stooping over him, George Heghan and Riley, Campbell's seconds struck him, while Johnny Murphy, a warm partisan of Bryan, ran across the ring and struck Ned a blow on the breast the butt end of a revolver, knocking him down. He was kicked in the head several times while he lay prostrate, half a dozen scalp wounds being inflicted.

The ring was broken in, and a general row seemed imminent, those who did not wish to take part in it stamped. Hickson was forced out of the ring, but immediately got back, aware of the penalty enforced by voluntary absence.

He was recovered from his injuries.

CUPPER BASEBALL TEAM WANTS PLACE

The Clippers are already in form to make themselves known in the 1908 baseball field. The following will explain itself: "I, manager of the Clipper Base Ball team, now take the pleasure of announcing that the Clippers are reorganized and are stronger than ever, and if there is a city league we are looking for a chance. I would like to tell the public that we are not out for graft, but are out for sport."

BEAVERS BEAT IRIGOIEN

The Beavers won another game in Black's league series last evening when they defeated the Irigoien by 74 runs to 6. Black, captain of the Irigoien, made the highest score, but with the exception of J. McCarty his followers did not support him and the champions won out easily.

Tonight the Electric and Mimams will play their postponed game.

FIRST ENGLISHMAN "TRIMMED" TO LIKING

John D. Crimmmins Tells St. Patrick's Day Story, but Doubts If It is a New One.

NEW YORK, March 25.—"Here's a rather good St. Patrick's Day story said J. D. Crimmmins to a group of Wall Street men."

A beggar with an unmistakable English face and also with a regular stand on the strand at Southampton Street, London, patiently waiting with his tin cup for the charity of passers-by, I faced on my one leg, one arm, and one eye.

A well dressed, unmistakable Irish man, noticing him across the street, surveyed him carefully for five minutes, approached, and with "take this" my good man," dropped a gold piece into his tin.

"Thank you sir," said the beggar bowing about twenty-five times in twenty-five seconds. "I've been on this corner well nigh thirty years and this is the first time any one ever has dropped a bit of gold into my cup, sir, and begging your pardon, sir, but strike me lucky! think sir, you're Irish."

"Faith, you're telling, the truth sir," the Irishman said, "give you this gold for you're the first Englishman I ever saw who was trimmed exactly to my liking."

In these days when folks come a stragglin' in 'th' ether at all hours it's purty hard 't' git your money's worth unless you play in the orchestra.

GEN. BOTHA IS A FREE TRADER

VOLKSRUST, March 26.—Addressing 300 farmers here a few days ago, General Botha reiterated the statement made in his recent speech at Pretoria that protection was absolutely impossible.

"The principle of free trade, he said, was supported unanimously by the Het Volk representatives in parliament. He himself was the strongest supporter of protection, but it must be applied at the coast.

Continuing, General Botha declared he was convinced that the loan bill was desirable, and he announced that when the loan had been carried through the government would devote £400,000 to irrigation and land settlement, thus enabling the poor to make a living.

Replying to a question, the premier said that Mr. Kruger had left £14,000 in sovereigns and £48,000 in bluejeans. He (General Botha) had accounted to Lord Milner for the money, and had offered it to him, but the then high commissioner refused to accept it, and the money was still in the bank.

NEW PLAN TO SETTLE THE CANADIAN WEST

Interesting Experiments in Colonization Being Made on C. P. R. Lands.

A series of the most interesting experiments in colonization that have ever been tried in any country are being made on the C. P. R. irrigation lands between Calgary and Medicine Hat.

It is announced that at different points on these lands, which embrace 3,000,000 acres, colonies representing half a dozen nationalities have been established. They consist of communities of Japanese, Poles, Dutch Germans, Scottish and Irish people, who have acquired areas ranging from 5,000 to 100,000 acres, which are copiously watered by the irrigation channels and canals from the Bow River. These irrigated lands, from which in the old days the settlers used to be frightened away by the ranchers who wanted the country to themselves are declared by the most competent authorities to be unequalled in the fertility required to the production of best sugar.

These half a dozen colonies are to be engaged in something like an international test as to which can produce the best results on the irrigation areas. The lands have been purchased on pretty much the same principle in all cases. A central authority acquires a fairly large area and subdivides it into sections, twenty, forty or sixty acres—in individual cultivators who apply to them the methods which are known as intensive agriculture. The temperature in this region is always mild, being tempered by the chinook winds and rarely subject to extremes of heat and cold, and thus with the waters that come from the mountains to moisten what used to be known as the "dry lands," the little farms are expected to show very remarkable results.

The Japanese colony has secured a tract of 50,000 acres and it is understood that 100 families a year will establish themselves upon the tract. The production of sugar beet and rice, the latter being such as is produced in the higher altitudes in Japan.

The Dutch and Polish colonies are of the communal type in the sense that the land is held by a central organization at the head of which is a pastor whose functions are somewhat patriarchal in character; but there is no community of property such as prevails among the Doukaboors. Both the Dutch and Polish have the reputation of being remarkably successful growers of beet sugar, which yields the producer on these lands nearly $100 per acre. So far as the Scottish and Irish settlements are concerned, they differ from the others in this respect that the land has been acquired by individual owners and is being sublet to Scotch men and Irishmen. As might be expected, there are many Americans settling there, in fact they constitute the majority but each one is a capitalist and he takes up an irrigation farm.

Mr. Henry Telfer, of the C. P. R. Irrigation Lands, expresses regret that the French Canadians have not yet begun to appreciate the advantages that these new lands offer.

THE PRESS AND PRESBYTERIANS

Editor of Toronto Globe Addresses Presbyterian Union in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 26.—The address of Rev. J. A. Macdonald, of the Toronto Globe, before the Presbyterian Union was a clarion call to the men in the churches. "Shoulder together, men," cried the speaker in his peroration, "like the battle-cry of the Highlanders—'Sons of the Gael, shoulders together.' Never shot in the back, never turning aside, but facing the foe. So the Master tells us to stand like men. These are no enemy too strong, no fortress too impregnable—we can conquer in His name."

In a humorous opening Mr. Macdonald referred to the combination of "The Press and the Presbyterians." He said that as a plain newspaper man he was supposed to tell the truth as he saw it. "And, by the way, I have had thirty-one libel suits in six years" he continued. "There is always something that needs doing. I wish some preachers would get so in earnest that somebody would serve them with a writ for libel." (Laughter.)

Referring to the immigration problem, Mr. Macdonald declared that today it was not a question as to how it was going to affect labor capital, but how it was going to affect citizenship.

DR. MACPHAIL

Dr. Andrew Macphail, who delivered the address before the Canadian Club yesterday is a close friend of Rudyard Kipling. It will be remembered that it was announced recently that the poet would spend part of the summer with Dr. Macphail at his summer home in E. E. Island.

When asked yesterday with regard to Mr. Kipling's visit, Dr. Macphail said he could not say anything definite with regard to the matter. Mr. Kipling was at present in South Africa and his future movements were uncertain. He had seen the announcement in the newspapers but it had not originated with him.

Speaking of Mr. Kipling, Dr. Macphail who had been very closely in touch with him during his last visit to Canada, said the popular idea of his character was by no means correct. As a matter of fact he was shy and retiring and did not at all regard himself as worth bothering about. Mr. Kipling regarded himself as two distinct personalities and in expressing surprise at the fuss that was made over him frequently remarked that Kipling the author was a different person from Kipling the private individual, and he wondered people did not realize the fact.

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate: British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion. No graft! No deals! "The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwine, The Maple Leaf forever."

DR. MacPHAIL. Dr. MacPhail touched so many aspects of the duty of a Canadian in his brilliant address before the Canadian Club last evening that he could, in an hour's talk, do little more than deal with general principles and indicate in a general way, his views on the whole subject. It was, however, an address quite clear in its expression of his conception of civic duty, and of his views concerning the relations of Canada and the empire at large.

THE HAZEN GOVERNMENT. Speaking of Premier Hazen and the change of government in this province, the Montreal Gazette says editorially: "Effect has been given to the decision of the people of New Brunswick in the recent election. Mr. Hazen and his colleagues have been sworn in and have taken over the administration of the province's affairs. It can readily be believed that the result of the change will be satisfactory to those who ordained it. The government which Mr. Robinson led in its dying days had outlived its usefulness as well as its vigor. Mr. Hazen's record, however, would warrant the expectation of good things from him, no matter who he was called on to succeed. Though still in the prime of life, having been born in 1880, he has been in public life for some twenty years. He held a seat in Parliament from 1891 to 1896, and has been a member of the Legislature since 1899. There is ample opportunity also for energies of a capable and active man in connection with the administration of the affairs of New Brunswick, as of all of the Maritime Provinces. The people of that section of the country seem to have fallen too generally into the way of regarding politics as an end instead of a means to an end. They put party before country and make office holding, or contract getting, or subsidy seeking, a too prominent purpose of their political activities. Their progress in population if not in wealth has been slow, and in some places where progress has been notable it has been due to the energy of outsiders, not of the residents. This should not be the situation. The provinces are favorably situated in many ways. They are nearer than any other part of Canada to the great consuming markets. They have mineral and timber and agricultural resources. Of the latter, especially, much more might be made than seems to be the case. Governments, of course, may not do much in the way of realizing on such resources. That is the work and the opportunity of the people. But governments can do something by calling attention to opportunities and by showing the way, where no other organization will move, and they all seem to have been doing little or nothing. If Mr. Hazen can do better in this matter than his predecessors he will be doing what will be best both for the province and himself and will justify the faith of those who, both in his home and elsewhere, have thought well of him and trusted him." Premier Hazen has taken the first step toward getting at the facts concerning the present price and what would be a fair price for school books. One member of his committee was much quoted by the late government, whether correctly or not as apparently unable to discover how the work could be done any cheaper. As the members of the new government are now in a position to learn exactly what the amount of the rate-of is under the present arrangement, they will no doubt be able to show a substantial reduction in the price of the books.

GOOD APPOINTMENTS. (St. John Sun.) The new government is to be congratulated upon the quality of the men it has selected as its first appointments to official position, particularly those from St. John, a better man than Col. J. R. Armstrong for judge of probates could have been found nowhere, for their personal integrity, legal experience and judicial temperament he is excellently fitted to fulfill his responsible duties. Mr. B. Emerson will bring to the chairmanship of the School Board business prudence and enterprise in equal measure and will unquestionably give general satisfaction. The minor appointments are also commendable, not only for their personal merit, but for their recognition of the claims and capacity of the younger members of the party. Mr. Harrison, the new Supreme Court Reporter, or Mr. McInerney, the Registrar of Probates, and Mr. Forbes, the Equity Court Reporter, are all young men of ability and promise, who will, we believe, give the province good service.

LATE HOWARD TRUEMAN. (Moncton Times.) A very valuable contributor to our columns, and a notable member of the community, Mr. Howard Trueman, of Point de Bute, having gone to his rest, calls for more than a passing comment. Mr. Trueman belonged to the parent stock of the Trueman family that came from Yorkshire to the English settlement of the country and made a home near Fort Cumberland. To Mr. Trueman descended the ancestral acres and from the old ivy-covered homestead occupied by him have gone out to the world many generations of Trueman. Mr. Trueman was an intellectual man. He possessed the habits of a student and the aptitudes of a scholar. He thought out for himself the current problems of the day; the greater and vaster concerns of life and death and eternity became to him matters of absorbing interest. With the years his mind gained in elevation and perspective, and he was able to attain that philosophic temperament that gives serenity and calmness to the possessor. He met death with a welcoming smile, as he who wraps the drapery of his couch and lies down to pleasant dreams in the locality where he lived. Mr. Trueman was a father; his hand was ever raised for peace; no one appreciated or cultivated more the practice of good will. Outside his addresses and various writings, Mr. Trueman left two works of permanent value—one a history of the fisheries of Chignecto, the other a history of farming in the Maritime Provinces, the latter issued from the press a few months ago.

HOW THE KING IS KEPT FROM ALL HARM

King Edward VII. in spite of his popularity amongst his own subjects is rarely, except when in bed, out of sight of those "rifles" who are charged with watching over the safety of his person. If it were otherwise, a calamity like the deplorable assassination of the King of Portugal and his son might befall Britain.

The King, it is well known, is always under the surveillance of some of the most dangerous characters in Europe, watching for favorable opportunities to strike; but these men know that from morning to night, and from night to morning the lynx eyes of some of the sharpest detectives in the world are on them. They follow their every movement; let them stir for an instant beyond the bounds which they know they must keep, and they find themselves at once started out on a journey to their native land, and are never permitted to return to England again.

There are twelve detectives always on what is called "Royal duty" under the charge of a special detective officer. Three of them keep constant watch over the sovereign, according to the requirements of the moment.

The work of the first three detectives is termed "personal service," and they receive their instructions every night as to the manner in which they are to attend on the King the following day. These instructions vary considerably and almost every day their watch is conducted in a different manner.

For example, during a review of the troops by the King, at Aldershot, His Majesty was closely accompanied by an officer wearing the uniform of the 17th Lancers. As a matter of fact, this officer was a detective, and the guise of the uniform was adopted simply because on such an occasion it naturally attracted little or no public attention to the fact that His Majesty was being so carefully guarded.

Often the individual sitting beside the coachman on the King's carriage is not as the public think one of the Royal footmen, but a detective on "personal service," and on many an occasion a detective has been mistaken for an equerry when clad in the uniform of such an official. Anyone who has followed the King's movements at all closely in London may have noticed that frequently a certain face in his carriage has been seen containing two men, and suddenly appearing from somewhere, and rapidly followed in the wake of the Royal carriage. Whenever the Royal carriage may go that cab with the two men follows.

It looks an ordinary cab, and the driver looks an ordinary driver, and wears a number in the ordinary way. But he is really a detective, and so are his two fares, and the cab is the property of the King.

Elaborate are the precautions taken for guarding the King at the big shoots at Windsor and Sandhurst. Two detectives, then, always follow His Majesty at close quarters; they are arrayed in shooting attire, but they are out for a very different object. They are charged with the duty of preventing any stranger approaching near His Majesty.

Before being put on this duty a detective has to become familiar with the appearance, not only of the King's guests, but also with the gamekeepers and servants, who, during the shoot, may, in the course of their work, have to come in close proximity to the King, otherwise, very awkward mistakes might arise.

In addition to the two detectives on "personal service" on such occasions, there are also some half-dozen others who keep more distant watch on His Majesty; these form a sort of cordon round the King which it would be impossible for a stranger to pass. Elaborate as is the system at work for guarding the King, it works so smoothly and so thoroughly well-organized that it really does not appear to exist. It is the most unobtrusive detective system in the world, and yet at the same time the most effective.

For example, when the King visits the theatre there are always a number of detectives about the entrance to it whilst His Majesty is entering and leaving the house; but they are never seen nor do they apparently say anything to prevent the crowd that always gathers there on such occasions coming near to His Majesty's wishes that any such precautions should be taken, and there is no necessity for them. No dangerous character could possibly get into the crowd without being "spotted" by the detective, and from that moment he would be a marked man, as happens as if he were handcuffed, until the King had driven away.

BORN IN CANADA. The power of memorization, so frequently disclosed by musicians, is culled to Sophie Bohrer, first cousin, once removed, of Mr. Max Bohrer, who has recently, owing to the death of his father, been appointed bursar of the Dominion College of Music, is almost legendary.

Sophie Bohrer was the daughter of Antoine Bohrer, a noted violinist, who was born in Munich in 1783. She was an "infant prodigy," and at the age of thirteen had delighted the most influential audiences in Europe with her piano playing.

At that age she had a private programme of seventy-five pieces. Berlioz heard her, and in his memoirs he refers to her as the most singular musical phenomenon. Indeed, he states that her precocity was almost terrifying. She attracted universal attention at the time and Liszt, dedicated to her his arrangement of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Mr. Max Bohrer possesses the original copy of this and prizes it highly.

Leachetick, in his allusions to musical Bohrer, says of Sophie Bohrer, that "she had twenty-four of Bach's fugues by heart." Musical talent has been in the Bohrer family for several generations without break, and both the paternal and maternal side. Gaspar Bohrer, who was born in 1744, was a celebrated double bass player. He was born in Mannheim. He was the grandfather of Mr. Max Bohrer. The grandfather of the latter was Max Bohrer, a violoncello virtuoso, while his grand-uncle, as stated, was Antoine Bohrer, a noted violinist.

All three were known in their day, and performed in the capitals of Europe. The late William Bohrer, father of Mr. Max Bohrer, the present bursar of the Dominion College of Music, was identified with the musical life of Montreal since 1886. In the latter sixties he gave concerts in the old Mechanics' Hall with the late Jehin Prume. Mr. Max Bohrer is a Canadian born, and is the last descendant on this side of the Atlantic, of a musical family, dating back to 1744. Samuel Kirk is canvassing in Stanley ward as an opponent of A.L. McGoldrick.

THE IDEAL WIFE

Shapes the Destiny of Men—The Influence of a Healthy Woman Cannot be Overestimated. Seven-eighths of the men in this world marry a woman because she is beautiful in their eyes—because she has the qualities which inspire admiration, respect and love.

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

There is a healthy woman in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature. The influence of women is glorious in the possession of perfect physical health from men and upon the civilization of the world could never be measured. Because of them men have been even thrown have been established and destroyed. What a disappointment that, to see the fair young wife's beauty fading away before a year passes over her head! A sickly, half-head-and-alive woman, especially when she is the mother of a family, is a damper to all joyousness in the home, and a king upon her husband's health. The cost of a wife's constant illness is a serious drain upon the funds of a household, and too often brings down no good. If a woman finds her energies lagging and that everything tires her, dark shadows appear under her eyes, her sleep is disturbed by horrible dreams; if she has backache, headaches, ringing-down pains, nervousness, or dependency, she should take means to build her system up at once by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This great remedy for women has been more in the way of restoring health to the women of America than all other medicines put together. It is the safeguard of woman's health. Following we publish, by request, a letter from a young wife. Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, of 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham—'Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, ringing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so that I could not enjoy my meals, and half my life was spent in bed. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION

Warmth and Glow Prevent Burial of Child in North Carolina. Richmond, March 26.—A remarkable case of suspended animation is reported at Mayock, N. C., where Bessie, the ten-year-old daughter of a farmer named Perry, lies seemingly dead, but with a body still warm, and a face with all the natural coloring of life. The child fell suddenly to the ground last Friday.

Two physicians were hastily summoned both of whom pronounced the girl dead. The face of the child retaining its natural color and her body its warmth, however, the parents of the child refused to permit a burial. The child presents every appearance of being asleep except that her limbs are still and there is no breath. The physicians now say that it is a case of suspended animation.

HARD TIMES AFFECT LONDON BROKERS

London, March 26.—Doleful tales of hard times are being told in London just now, and while they are palpable exaggerations in some respects, there is no denying the fact that in respect to one set of London's business men they are fairly truthful. There is no doubt that the Stock Exchange is suffering grievously from the stagnation prevalent for some time past.

It has been stated that as many as 600 members of the Stock Exchange had not renewed their subscriptions. Whether this statement be true or not, it is verified before the end of March. The dearth of subscribers is a sign, however, is shown by the cutting down of office staffs. There are some 5,800 members of the exchange, and at least a dozen dealers where there is not enough business for one.

POLICE DOG ARRESTS BURGLAR

Had John Thompson, forty-five years old, who gave his address as No. 2 York street, read the newspaper accounts of the dog's capture in the house in the last three months he would not have carried a heavy iron safe through the streets yesterday morning. While elated at the success of Dona, one of the dogs, who captured Thompson, after two policemen had failed to overtake him, Captain Kelly is angry that the dog's record for March has been broken.

It is the first prisoner who has been brought in here on that charge since the last week in February. "Before the dog came here housebreaking was common. There were a number of men who were burglars' paradises." It was a burglary in the morning when Policeman McGovern caught a man who had a bag over his shoulder walking rapidly up York street, near avenue B. At the same time the man noticed the policeman and ran.

GOVERNOR GUILD GAINS A LITTLE

Boston, Mass., March 26.—The news from Governor Guild's bedside tonight was favorable. Dr. Frederick B. Winslow stated that the governor's condition had improved slightly since yesterday, notwithstanding a rather restless night. The last bulletin tonight reads: "The governor holds his gain of the past twenty-four hours." Winslow is reading a steamer at Sand Point yesterday afternoon William Duncan fell off the staging into a scow and was removed to the general public hospital in the ambulance. It was found his arm was broken, besides which he suffered bruises on his head, and internal injuries. He is resting comfortably late last evening.

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE. There is no one, we imagine, sets about deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other. When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unbalanced, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart. Mrs. John C. Yeason, Little Rocker, N.B. writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the work of good they did me for I believe they saved my life." Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS GIVEN BY DR. MacPHAIL

Canadian Club Last Evening Heard Editor of University Magazine Speak on The Whole Duty of a Canadian.

The address of Dr. Andrew Macphail, of Montreal, editor of the University Magazine, at the Canadian Club luncheon last evening in Keith's Assembly Rooms on The Whole Duty of a Canadian, was very interesting and practical, and was listened to attentively by the large number present. Dr. Macphail is a freer and eloquent speaker and he dealt plainly with many important problems affecting Canadian life: Imperialism, imperial defence, home politics, loyalty to the mother land were all spoken of. Dr. Macphail also said that Canada was an expensive country to live in and that taxes were by far too high.

Dr. T. D. Walker was in the chair. Among the guests was Judge Russell. Halifax. Dr. Walker referred to the death of W. E. Howard, sr., who had taken such an interest in the club. He also announced that Prof. Leacock, Archbishop Howley, of Newfoundland, and H. B. Xmas, M. P. of Montreal would address the club at future luncheons. The catering last evening was done by the King's Daughters' Guild, and the club's cutlery, suitably stamped, was used for the first time.

Dr. Macphail was heartily received. After introducing remarks of some length, he began his subject by saying that each individual owed a duty to himself as an individual and also as a citizen. It was with the civic duty he proposed to deal. All public achievement arose out of the excellence of individual effort. All social evils were the result of the breaking down of family life. Every branch of industrial development tended towards the destruction of family life. For the women of the poor there was nothing left but the office, the factory or the street. For the rich it was worse, there was nothing but idleness. The care of offspring was committed to hirelings and the spring of natural affection had given place to a money sentimentality, but able for the mother and the child.

The family life in these days, however, was not enough. The ideal government, of the opinion of each individual. The theory of democracy was that each citizen should assist in the government. A belief commonly expressed was that "politics was a good thing" and that nothing alone. Professionals said that nothing

WILL MAKE GEODETIC SURVEY IN THE VICINITY OF ST. JOHN

Ottawa Official here to make Necessary Preparations—How the Operations will be Carried on. Charles A. Bigger, on the staff of the Dominion astronomical observatory, Ottawa, who is in charge of the geodetic survey which is being made over all the settled parts of Canada, is in the city taking preliminary observations for a survey along the Bay of Fundy, which will be carried out during the coming summer.

Speaking to a Times reporter yesterday on the nature of the work, Mr. Bigger said the object of the survey was to establish the latitude and longitude of certain fixed points, generally some fifty or sixty miles apart, which would form the basis for the preparation of maps. The geodetic work, or in other words the measurement of the earth's surface by triangulation, would also eventually be used to determine the figure of the earth.

The present Canadian survey was really an extension of what is known as the oblique arc recently completed by the United States coast and geodetic survey. The north western and north eastern corners of the last quadrilateral determined by the United States survey, Mr. Bigger explained, were situated on Chamcook Mountain and on Grand Manan, in Charlotte county. The last station, which was about four miles from St. Andrews. It was about 650 feet high and well situated to form the south western corner of the chain of quadrilaterals which

ARRIVES HOME AFTER A WRECK EXPERIENCE

Thomas Woods, Formerly Cabin Steward on Bark Strathern Tells of his Adventures. A thrilling story of shipwreck and disaster is told by Thomas Woods, who returned to St. John yesterday after a long battle with winds and waves. Some weeks ago he held the position of cabin steward on board the bark Strathern, near the West Indies. In a terrific squall the bark was stripped of canvas twice and at length was driven ashore on some rocks off the island of St. Vincent. In the excitement, while Woods was cutting among the wreckage an iron bar fell on his foot, crushing it quite badly. Crippled in this way, he took part in the fight to save the bark, and the crew at length succeeded in kedging her off the rocks. The Strathern was condemned by a board of trade inspectors, and Woods was obliged to look for another berth. He found one on board a Newfoundland schooner and on the voyage to St. John met with other thrilling adventures. In one storm one man was washed overboard and lost, while he himself had a narrow escape. After two weeks spent in St. John's he took passage to Halifax on the steamer Uluda, and yesterday morning arrived in St. John on the steamer Senlac. He will start work this morning in the Royal Hotel as porter.

The board of health reports that there are now ten or twelve cases of typhoid in the city. The disease is steadily on the decrease.

RUSSIAN EMPEROR IS THE GREATEST SALOON PROPRIETOR IN THE WORLD

All the Liquor Shops in the Czar's Vast Domain Now Are Under His Control, the Sale of Vodka Being an Imperial Monopoly--Yielded $390,525,000 to the Treasury Last Year and is the Only Source of Revenue Which is Growing by Leaps and Bounds--The More a Man Drinks the More the Government Makes Out of Him--Terrible Increase of Inebriety, Poverty and Wretchedness Due to the Protection of the Traffic by the Imperial Authorities.

(Copyright in the United States and Great Britain by Curtis Brown, All rights strictly reserved.)
 St. Petersburg, Feb. 20--As the autocrat of Russia the Czar is the proprietor of all the saloons in his vast domain. There is no other man in that line, in the Old World or the New, who comes anywhere near doing such a gigantic business. It is the biggest trust on earth, with all competition absolutely barred. In his wildest dreams of avarice John D. Rockefeller never conceived anything like it.

In Russia the drink traffic is an imperial monopoly. Every year it becomes vastly more profitable. Every year the Russian peasant and Russian workman becomes drunker, dirtier, more miserable and more brutal. The more a man drinks in Russia the more the Government makes out of him, wherefore, in practice if not in theory, it encourages him to get drunk as a patriotic duty. The grog shops being under the protection of "The Great White Czar," who is as a god to the ignorant, dirt-wallowing descendants of the serfs, enlightened people have no power whatever to restrict their number. All efforts to procure the right of local option are sternly repressed.

The Government encourages drink to such an extent that the income derived from the sale of vodka last year exceeded 788,000,000 roubles--more than $390,000,000. "Drink kills Russia!" declared M. Tchelyeff, a member of the third Duma, to whom Russia owes the publication of these appalling figures. This bold man, who has the dangerous habit of speaking his mind, told the Czar's ministers that the Budget was built up of poison given to the people, and that what Russia really wants to cure all her ills is not revolution nor constitution, but temperance. He would have all the vodka shops in the empire closed. He hurled columns of figures at M. Stolypin at a recent Duma sitting, showing that the increase of income to the Treasury by the sale of vodka averaged from two hundred to three hundred millions of roubles a year and that at the same time the poverty and wretchedness of peasant and workman have increased to an awful extent. He quoted figures to prove that for the nine years preceding the institution of state grog shops the quantity of alcohol consumed in Russia remained stationary despite a continuous increase in the population. M. Tchelyeff maintains that this drink question is the most vital one that confronts Russia. And even those whom temperance "leaves alone" admit that he has brought to light a terrible condition of affairs which, if not remedied, must involve Russia in a dire calamity.

M. APUCHITOFF.
 Head of the Excise Department, Through Whose Hands Pass the Millions Obtained by the Imperial Monopoly of the Saloon Business.

pipe is appalling," he said. "Everybody who keeps a kabak (grog shop) adulterates the vodka and by making it cheap induces the peasant to drink too much of it. The only way to put a stop to it is for your Imperial Highness to take the monopoly of the sale into your own hands. The Treasury will have enormous profits and the public pure vodka."

The "Hero-Czar" was enchanted with the proposal. Witte dilated on the horrors of drunkenness to all who cared to listen and cried that the kabaks must be closed. The kabak was a Russian institution which the future generation can scarcely expect to see. It was always in the largest cottage of the village and the keeper of the grog shop usually was a money lender as well. He rented his kabak from the Lord of the Manor and got his vodka from the manorial distillery. He wore a long dirty coat, white stockings, low shoes and a flowing beard. He was a

Let us look at this new kind of grogshop. There is nothing tempting about its appearance. It is as far removed as possible from the brilliantly lighted "saloons" of the western world. A small dirty shop, with a counter at one end and rows and rows of bottles of various size all around the walls from floor to ceiling. No music, no chains and tables, no brightness. A miserable looking man in a ragged, vermin-infested sheepskin comes in, walks up to the man behind the counter--a government servant--puts down a copper piece of money and gets in return a diminutive bottle of vodka. He is not allowed to drink it on the premises, because this demoralizes him, so he goes to the doorstep, breaks off the neck of the bottle with a swiftness born of long practice and, swallowing its contents, flings it into the street. The bottle contained a small wine glassful of the government poison and cost five cents. The man by working a whole day in the fields will get from ten to fifteen cents.

But one such bottle is not enough for him. The burning liquid is the one pleasure to his life. At home the cow, the horse, women and children are huddled together in one filthy hut. There is no pleasure to be found there, so he and others like him return to the "Monopol," as the vodka store is now called, buy more small bottles and drown their sorrows as best they may. The result is that hundreds of villages have been ruined by this dear vodka. The poorer the man gets the more they drink, and the more they drink the less they will work. The great landlords are complaining bitterly of this. In White Russia, where the soil is usually rich, the peasants are unusually poor and the proprietors have to let whole estates go unworked because they cannot get laborers. A man will work half the day--go to the grogshop with his earnings and not be heard of all the next morning. He has not been to got drunk on he will not work again until he awakes to sobriety and empty pockets. He is too ignorant to see that he is paying the Czar to his own ruin. He grumbles that he has grown poorer because the "kabaks" no longer pay his community for their licenses, but he drinks more and more of the Czar's vodka every year, pays dearer for it and works less.

The secret of much of the banditism which is now raging in Russia is this craving for vodka. Most of the booty is spent on it. Beggars infest the streets of the towns and hang on to the cabs and sledges worrying and threatening the passengers till they get a few coppers, which are promptly spent in the vodka shops. These "poison depots," as some Socialists call them, can always be told from a distance by reason of the groups of beggars and thieves who throng round the entrance, drinking and fighting to such an extent that all respectable citizens prefer to make a long detour rather than venture near them.

But the temperance houses instituted by Count Witte to replace the "kabaks" are deserted, though they cost over 10,000,000 rubles yearly to keep up. They are dull places, providing nothing but bad tea and newspapers the habitues are too ignorant to read. There is some talk of abolishing these expensive, useless places, which cannot possibly pay their way. But no village commune can abolish the local grogshop, though many communes have condemned them as demoralizing in the extreme. They cannot close them without the consent of the state, which is naturally almost impossible to obtain, as one commune after another would follow suit and the result would be a great loss to the treasury. Every village, therefore, has the "bottled poison" thrust upon it, and in the large towns the number of the depots is abnormally high. Their demoralizing influence has spread to many of the small stations on the state railways, where licenses for selling vodka have been given. These places are now turned into resorts of all the riff-raff of the neighborhood, who get drunk and molest the passengers. The inhabitants of so-called "summer lodgings" in the neighborhood of such places suffer so much that they prefer to leave their villages empty and go to a quieter place. In many cases petitions have been sent to the Czar to have the licenses of these railway stations taken away, but without effect.

M. Tchelyeff would have all the stores closed; but, seeing that it is out of the question at present, he proposes that those provinces which are receiving famine relief should be forbidden to sell vodka at all. This is because whole villages spend the famine relief money in buying grain to sow their fields with or potatoes to eat, but on vodka, thus still further adding to their poverty. Others interested in this question are agitating for the abolition of the small bottle of vodka, which costs a lot for its size and tempts the peasant and workman because it is the only thing that is within their reach. Others, again, want to give the communities power to shut the vodka shops at discretion, while a few are clamoring for some organizable crusade against the terrible state of drunkenness which has increased by leaps and bounds since the Czar became his subjects' publican. Several socialistic parties began a crusade by raiding all the vodka shops in the towns, setting fire to the spirit and taking the gains from the till. But more vodka was always forthcoming and strong-guards stood of which the imperial treasury could be provided with other sources of revenue as profitable as that derived from the sale of vodka. But in tsaristid Russia that is impossible. On the one hand, M. Tchelyeff and his friends maintain--and prove it up to the hilt--that the vodka monopoly is ruining the country. On the other hand the mouthpieces of the imperial monopolist assert that without the money it brings into the treasury Russia would be bankrupt, and prove it by figures too. And thus Russia is placed between the devil and the deep sea.

THE TRAGEDY AT PARRSBORO

Parrsboro, N. S., March 26--A terrible tragedy occurred here at noon today in the store occupied by Councilors Rufus W. Smith & Son, as a grocer and butcher shop. Two young men, Claude Trahey and James Rector, entered the grocery department, then in charge of Lewis Smith, the junior member of the firm. Trahey said "What's the matter, Lewis, you look pale." Smith drew a revolver, pointed it at Trahey and said "Grit up, or I'll make you pale." Rector then asked the price of an article and Smith gave it. Then Trahey, who was going out of the store, heard a shot fired behind him and Rector came out, holding his hand to his breast.

Councilor Smith, who was in the butcher shop opened the door between the stores in time to see his son put the barrel of the revolver in his mouth and fire. Rector walked about 100 yards and fell on the sidewalk, unconscious. He was carried to Dr. McDougall's office, where he died shortly after without regaining consciousness.

An inquest was held this afternoon before Coroner Rand. After hearing the evidence of several witnesses the inquest was adjourned until this evening.

Smith was taken to his father's residence in charge of a constable. The bullet is lodged in his neck and it is thought he will recover. He has borne a good character and the general belief is that his terrible act was the result of temporary insanity. He had an attack of a gripe a few weeks ago and it appears to have left him in a weakened condition, both physically and mentally.

Rector was an inoffensive young fellow of good character and particularly noted for his kindness to his mother, with whom he has lived when not at sea, since she separated from her husband about two years ago. He was about nineteen years old.

At the adjourned inquest held tonight Reuben Keddy corroborated the evidence given by Claude Trahey and swore that he saw Lewis Smith fire the shot that killed Rector. He also swore that he was sent by Smith to buy the revolver and identified the revolver produced at the inquest as the one he purchased. He swore positively that there was no quarrel or provocation so far as he saw or heard.

The jury's verdict was in effect that the deceased came to his death from a shot from a revolver discharged by Lewis Smith and that in their opinion the said Lewis Smith was suffering at the time from an attack of temporary insanity.

Rev. Z. L. Fash, who has been assisting Rev. Mr. Camp in special services in Leinster street church, will finish tonight when his subject will be Looking Unto Jesus. The services have been very successful.
