On the Night before Wash Day

Do this, and you will have a pleasant, easy, work-free wash-day—with wonderfully clean sweet clothes;

For each tub of clothes take half a package of Rinso, dissolve in just enough cool water to make it as thick as cream. Then stir in two quarts of boiling water, and stir well. When the bubbles disappear you will have a clear, amber-colored liquid that is the magical Rinso washing solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, and put in the clothes and soak. For extra hard water or extra dirty clothes add more Rinso solution.

In the morning rinse thoroughly and hang out to dry—the washing is done! That's why Rinso is different from all other Soaps and Washing Powders.

RAILWAY OBBY WAS DEFEATED

Said to be the Most Skillful and Adroit Ever Seen at Ottawa.

(By Ross Munro, Staff Correspondent of The Toronto Globe.)

Ottawa, June 28.—Sunday on Parliament Hill was crammed with political developments. Everything revolved around the question of lower freight rates. The net result, as had been forecast, was that a powerful railway lobby, said to be the most skillful and adroit ever seen in Ottawa, went down to defeat. Nothing was heard in the Commons except the formal tabling of the report of the Special House Committee on Transportation Control which reported that the railway lobby had been defeated.

(1) The Special Committee, by a majority of sixteen to one, reported in favor of the Crow's Nest rates on grain and grain products for the west.

(2) The Conservative members of the committee left the sessions as a protest before the vote was taken.

(3) Premier King's government was revealed standing for the sanctity of bargains and against special privilege.

(4) The spotlight was turned on the cleavage between the general public and the interests, and their representatives in parliament lined up.

On Friday it had been taken for granted that a great change had come over the tangled freight rate situation. Some days ago the railways had offered approximately a twenty per cent. reduction on basic commodities freight rates, and Hon. T. A. Cresser, the Progressive leader, had submitted a motion asking for Crow's Nest rates on grain and grain products, with the rest of the Progressive party, including rates on thirteen commodities, suspended for a year. In opposition to this was a motion which would have suspended the agreement for a year with the privilege of a renewal for a year and the acceptance of all the reductions proposed by the railways.

Sudden Shift of Wind. Then, on Friday, it was generally understood that Mr. Cresser's contention for Crow's Nest rates on grain would be complied with. Some rumors were to the effect that the railways had conceded the point; other rumors were that the government had stepped in with a few plain words to the railways. In fact, however, the railways had not conceded the point; other rumors were that the government had stepped in with a few plain words to the railways. In fact, however, the railways had not conceded the point; other rumors were that the government had stepped in with a few plain words to the railways.

Then, yesterday, after the change in the situation, the committee got together again and a new report was drafted. Behind closed doors the battle lasted all day. Members came and went, and word was passed around that the railways were putting up a last-ditch fight. Early in the evening it was learned that the Conservatives had left the committee meeting in a body. Those who retired were Sir Henry Drayton, W. A. Boyd, Hon. Dr. McLean, C. H. Dickie and G. B. Jones. It was said Mr. Dickie stated to the committee that he disagreed with the policy of quitting, but that he had to follow his party leaders. Then William Duff, Liberal from Lunenburg, moved the report, practically accepting the contention of the Progressives.

This was carried by sixteen to one. The members voting for the report were: Duff, Baler, Malcolm, McMurray, Stork, Vien, Michaud, Maclean of Prince, Hon. Cresser, Hon. Shaw, Fancher, Fred Johnston, Halberd and Forke. The solitary vote against it was that of W. M. German of Welland. Progressives on the committee who were not present when the vote was taken were: E. M. Macdonald, Hon. Walter Mitchell and Archambault. On the majority side eight are Liberals, seven Progressives, and Mr. Hudson, an Independent Liberal.

The Resolutions. "Your committee, therefore, recommends a suspension of the Crow's Nest agreement, except in respect of grain and flour, for one year from July 6, 1922, with power to the governor-in-council to suspend for a further period of one year, if in its judgment the then existing conditions justify the same, and your committee recommends that suitable legislation be enacted to make effective this recommendation.

The recommendation of the committee for the further suspension of the Crow's Nest agreement in accordance with the foregoing paragraph is made in view of the great necessity of a general reduction in freight rates on basis commodities as a whole, and in what is considered to be the general public interest. It is intended that the period for which a further suspension of the Crow's Nest agreement is recommended shall not necessarily preclude the adoption of the Crow's Nest rates on grain and flour, but that the general public interest in what is considered to be the general public interest. It is intended that the period for which a further suspension of the Crow's Nest agreement is recommended shall not necessarily preclude the adoption of the Crow's Nest rates on grain and flour, but that the general public interest in what is considered to be the general public interest.

"The evidence given to your committee and the various representations made to it, in one form or another, inevitably lead to the conclusion that a general reduction in railway rates is essential to the economic life of the country. To this end should be directed the best efforts of the managers of our railways and the attention of the Board of Railway Commissioners. It is impossible to predicate the precise effect of rate reduction upon commodities in stimulating business or railway traffic. Doubtless, however, high freight rates are a discouragement to trade, and even the fact that rate reductions are in anticipation tends to retard business and railway traffic. Further, your committee is of the opinion, and wishes to declare in the most emphatic manner, that railway operating costs should be decreased, and toward the achievement of that end we recommend the closest co-operation between the management of the different Canadian railways, and between the management of the railways and their employees.

Glaxo Saves Baby Lives

Every year when the hot weather comes along thousands of babies die because impure and tainted milk has laid them open to the attacks of that most deadly complaint—summer diarrhoea.

Experience in England has proved the life-saving power of Glaxo; for example, in 1911 there was a terrible epidemic of "summer diarrhoea" and babies died on all sides, but nearly all the Glaxo babies escaped. The Medical Officer of Health for Rotherham, England, in his Annual Report, says—

"During the month of September 240 babies under one year were fed on Glaxo and only one died. This gives an infant mortality rate of 4 per 1,000 births. Amongst the remainder not fed on Glaxo (about 100), 37 died, which yields an infant mortality rate of 232 per 1,000 births."

Guard your baby against summer dangers by giving him the milk that is safe, Glaxo, the Super-Milk, the milk that has saved thousands of baby lives.

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Hon. Dr. Roberts plans to introduce full time medical inspection next year for all schools in the province. This is most desirable, as the existing system does not meet the needs. If the province were divided into districts with medical men giving their whole time to the work much better results would be obtained.

THE KINDERGARTENS.

Not the least interesting of educational events in St. John on Tuesday were the meetings of the Kindergarten Association and the exercises at the closing of the school for kindergarten teachers. The free kindergartens are doing a most valuable work, and it is an asset of no small value to the city that there is also a school for the training of teachers.

THE CHILDREN AT PLAY.

Now that the schools are closed the value of the playgrounds will be demonstrated. There has been a wonderful development of these grounds in the last five years. Not only will the small children have the benefit of the supervised grounds as usual but the older boys and girls will have opportunity on the grounds of the Improvement League.

Renting Vacant Rooms Is a Public Duty

Adequate shelter is one of the first necessities for man, woman, girl and boy.

The shortage of houses makes the question of shelter a matter of urgent public consideration.

Many well-to-do people are renting rooms to young men and women because they realize that by doing so they render an important service to the community.

Renting vacant rooms is highly profitable, but it is a duty as well.

ST. JOHN MAN SPEAKER

(Moncton Transcript.)

The speaker before the Rotary Club at noon today in the Brunswick palace rooms was Leslie Desmond, a St. John Rotarian, who gave a most interesting account of his recent travels in England and on the continent. In the course of his address, Mr. Desmond referred to the numerous reports that the Germans were in straitened circumstances financially. He stated that he wished to correct these errors, stating that at every place which he had visited in Germany the people seemed prosperous and there was a plentiful supply of work and all seemed very industrious. Referring to the status of German money, Mr. Desmond stated that a Canadian or an American could have a pleasant time for two or three days on a $20 note.

The speaker was born in Paris, is of Irish parentage and served overseas in the great war. His address was most interesting, his jocular remarks about the continent being much enjoyed by his numerous auditors. James H. Norton, president, presided. Among the guests were Arthur Lyman, Montreal; Janet Stenhouse, Montreal; R. H. Bannan of the T. Eaton Co., Ltd., Moncton; W. C. Cross, St. John; Fred Knight, superintendent of the C. N. R. shops at St. Malo, and Mr. Gardner, St. John. Outside Rotarians who were present and made heartily welcome were Messrs. Clinton Brown, St. John; Edward H. Cairns, St. John; Alfred Martin, Halifax; H. S. Morton, St. John; Leslie Desmond, optician, St. John; and General Sir Alexander Berran, Montreal.

The dwelling, barn and other out-buildings on a farm owned and occupied by Joseph Lawless in the Piquocket road, about a mile from the Lower Norton road, in Kings county, were totally destroyed by fire late on Tuesday night.

CLOSING DAY OF A GREAT CONVENTION

Described as Most Epoch-Making in History of Protestant Sunday Schools.

Kansas City, Mo., June 27---The last day of the sixteenth International Sunday School Convention, proclaimed by those present as the greatest ever held, opened with the singing of the convention hymn, "Gird Thyself for Each Day's Need" and a season of prayer, the conventionists settled down to get the fullest possible out of the remaining hours. The theme for the morning was "The Larger Programme of Religious Education," Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Boston, was the first speaker. He pointed out the opportunities awaiting the new International Sunday School Council of Religious Education in making effective the national campaign of religious education and urged co-operation by every agency, "so that prejudice, denominationalism or anything else may not stand in the way of making North America Christian to the very core." Dr. Henry H. Meyer, New York, editor of Sunday School publications of the Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke on "Building Together." He analyzed the elements entering into such co-operation and illustrated how the Sunday school forces of the several denominations are really the shock troops in bringing Protestantism into a united, practical Christian force. In discussing "Home and Religious Education," Bishop William M. Bell of Harrisburg, stated that "Fathers and mothers have a responsibility for the religious training of their children in the home that is inescapable. The work of the home cannot be turned over to any other under the sun. The church and school teach the race after the home has had the first chance, so that good and great as they are, they can never entirely recover a human life from the hurt of a bad or inefficient home." "The home is the oldest institution in the history of the race," he continued. "And not only does it come first historically, but it stands first by nature, logic and efficiency. Its utility has never been seriously or successfully questioned. Christian character being the supreme desideratum, the family is the first and most imperative agency for its formation." "Week-day Schools of Religious Education" was the subject of Dr. Harold McAfee Robinson, Philadelphia, secretary of the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work. "Parental training and a Christian atmosphere in the home are the greatest needs of the present hour," according to Dr. Rufus W. Miller, Philadelphia, secretary of the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work. He emphasized the challenge to invest in better equipment for Sunday schools and in the new organization, to make the home count more for

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or gray. That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur Compound, its appearance a hundredfold improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair. Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a hair or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

MOB STORMS THE COURT AT MOSCOW TRIALS

Men and Women, With the Judge's Assent, Demand Death for Social Revolutionaries. Moscow, June 27---(Canadian Press)---A court scene probably without precedent developed at the Social Revolutionaries' trial when representatives of thousands of workmen who had participated in demonstrations earlier in the day were permitted to enter the courtroom. The leaders demanded the highest penalty for the defendants whom they accused of being responsible for the attempts on the life of Premier Lenin, the assassination of Volodarsky and the attempted assassination of Oursky. They also blamed the Revolutionaries for the Russian civil war. Among the workmen's representatives was Ivanoff, who is reputed to have captured Dora Kaplan after she made an attempt on the life of Lenin in 1918. In a high-pitched voice he demanded that the Social Revolutionaries be made to pay the penalty. He appeared in jumpers. As the night session was about to adjourn, Chairman Platoff, of the tribunal, said he had received statements from the Moscow demonstrators and delegations of Petrograd workmen requesting permission to address the Court. Prosecutor Krylenko said he knew that this procedure, according to bourgeois law, probably was unprecedented and that Soviet Russia would be attacked for permitting it. Nevertheless, he was many times when the Soviets had gone against old precedents. The workmen should be permitted to talk, Krylenko held, "as we are only carrying out their wishes." Mouravieff, chief counsel for the defense, objected that this was unprecedented pressure on the Court and interference by non-participants in the trial. Platoff, however, ruled that, as it was a revolutionary trial by workers and peasants, the workers' representatives should be allowed to address the tribunal. Some of the defendants turned as amid the cheers of the spectators, about fifty workmen and women mounted the platform. Eight spokesmen ad-

Mr. Beach attacked the idea of political censorship. He told of one picture he wrote which the producer said lacked romance. Add This Beauty Pearly teeth—combat the film tonight

There is a way to prettier teeth, and millions of people have found it. It consists in removing the dingy film. You see the results everywhere—on teeth you envy, maybe. And those glistening teeth are often one's premier attraction. This offers you a ten-day test, to show how whiter, cleaner, safer teeth may also come to you and yours.

It is the film-coats that discolor, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Now you may combat it. Dental science has long been seeking a daily film combater. Now two effective methods have been found. Able authorities have proved them by many careful tests. Leading dentists, nearly all the world over, now advise their daily use. A new-day tooth paste has been perfected, to comply with five modern requirements. These two film-combating methods are embodied in it. This is the dentifrice called Pepsodent which you are urged to test. Multiplies two forces. Pepsodent brings two other effects which authorities now desire. The saliva contains two great tooth-protecting forces. One is a starch digestant, to digest starch deposits on teeth. The other is alkali, to neutralize mouth acids, which attack the teeth. These forces usually need frequent stimulation. Certain foods will stimulate them, but most people fail to eat these regularly. Pepsodent, with every use, multiplies those tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. It largely increases the starch digestant and the alkalis. Thus night and morning it gives these natural forces a multiplied effect. That alone marks tremendous progress toward better tooth protection.

Watch the changes. Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube, then watch the delightful results. You will see at once that Pepsodent does what has not before been done. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. The mouth, left in alkaline condition, also feels refreshing. You will want these effects continued when you know how much they mean. Go get the free tube and see. Cut out the coupon now.

RISKS LIFE FOR COSTLY JEWELS

Hotel Diamond Thief Crawls Along Narrow Ledge and Robs Sleeping Victims.

A dexterous hotel thief paid a flying visit to Toronto on Friday night and left in the early hours of Saturday morning with set and unset gems and uncut stones of various kinds, valued at many thousands of dollars, belonging to C. L. Shirrell, a jewelry traveler, staying at the King Edward Hotel.

Shirrell occupied Room 708, which is on the seventh floor of the building; Lawrence was the tenant of 710, its immediate neighbor, and Lyons was in Room 712. Shirrell retired to rest about 1:30 on Saturday morning, and before getting into bed, placed the wallet containing the jewels and money in his overcoat pocket.

The hotel records show the activities of the man Lawrence, his registration at the hotel on Friday evening, and his early departure on Saturday morning.

Suspicion was directed toward Lawrence by one of the maids, who, on cleaning the room after the visitor's departure, came upon some papers scattered about the room, and others in the toilet. She carried the papers to the hotel officials, and when they were shown to Shirrell he recognized them as belonging to him.

How the thief accomplished his seemingly impossible task is a matter of conjecture, but since examination shows that the keys had not been disturbed in the locks, that he stepped from the window of his own room, crept cautiously along the narrow ledge which is at a height of 126 feet from the pavement, entered Shirrell's room, took the wallet, crept back into his own room, and after examining his loot and throwing aside what he considered worthless matter, performed a similar climbing operation into Lyons' room.

Among the jewelry stolen was one parcel containing cut and uncut diamonds, consisting of twelve diamonds of all classes from seven karats down to three-quarter karat. Another parcel contained a large quantity of blue sapphires running from one-eighth to one and one-quarter karats each, besides several others flower blue, cashmere blue and burma blue.

Other articles of jewelry stolen were one gold tie pin set with pearls, one gold tie pin containing sapphire and blue diamond, one gold diamond of blue oriental pearl set with three blue sapphires, one gold antique ring and a rare oriental pearl and gold ball necklaces, made up of twenty-four gold balls connected by three strings of seed pearls.

Headquarters men, Detective-Sergeants Dawn and Greenlee, and Detective Wabersone, of Court street station, investigated the robbery.

Asked why he took the risk of carrying the gems around with him, Shirrell said that he was a globe-trotter, and never trusted hotel vaults and safes.

WESTERN PAPER PRAISES C. N. R.

Regina Leader Says There Has Been Great Improvement in Service.

The current issue of The Canadian National Railways Magazine contains a short editorial note on "Service" which deserves wider publicity than the railways' own publication perhaps affords it.

The correspondent from Quebec states that the freight department in the city secured a shipment of a car-load of goods from a prominent manufacturing plant, for movement to Vancouver, to connect there with a ship for Australia.

A transportation company is known by the effectiveness of its service. Such instances as these speak eloquently of the efficiency of Canadian National Railways as a common carrier.

The Canadian National Railways are still suffering from the character of the service which some of its component units gave the traveling and shipping public before they came under government control.

All this should be borne in mind by those who are inclined to still narrow the cry that "the C. N. R. is never on time."

The people own the Canadian National Railways but they have not paid for them yet. The easiest way for them to pay for their railway is to patronize them.

LOOKS FOR BEGINNING OF NEW ERA IN TEACHING PROFESSION

New Ideas Advanced by Dr. W. C. Bagley in Addressing Educational Institute

Problems of Provincial School System Discussed by the Chief Superintendent, Dr. W. S. Carter at Afternoon Session—Junior Red Cross Work Explained—Nearly 700 Delegates Here From All Parts of the Province.

Expressing the belief that a new era might be about to begin when men and women with the capacity for teaching would make their life work and when teaching would be looked upon as the most honorable of all callings, Dr. W. C. Bagley, professor of education in the teachers' college at Columbia University, in an invigorating and interesting address before the New Brunswick Teachers' Association last night, spoke of teaching as a fine art and looked forward to the day when a single schedule for salaries would be adopted and three or four year courses organized for training elementary teachers and the rural school teacher whose work, he declared, was the hardest.

The meeting of the institute opened yesterday afternoon in the High school assembly hall with Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of education, presiding and by the evening between 600 and 700 members had registered. Dr. Carter gave his annual address in the afternoon, touching upon all the present school problems and reviewing the progress of the last year. In the afternoon also the Junior Red Cross supervisors, Mrs. Harold Lawrence and Miss Jessie Lawson, outlined the programme for the Junior Red Cross, which is to be an optional part of the school curriculum next term.

A public meeting was held in St. Vincent's auditorium in the evening when Dr. Bagley delivered his address and Mayor McLellan cordially welcomed the association members to the city. Music was provided by Mrs. Blake Ferris, who sang several numbers, and by the St. John High School orchestra. The vote of thanks extended to the speakers and to those who contributed to the musical programme was moved by Dr. H. S. Bridges and seconded by Dr. C. C. Jones.

Evening Session.

On the platform at the evening meeting were the chairman, Dr. W. S. Carter, Mayor McLellan, Dr. H. V. B. Bridges, Dr. C. C. Jones and Dr. Bagley.

Before opening the proceedings, Dr. Carter said the institute was favored to meet in such a building as St. Vincent's school and he recommended the visiting teachers to inspect the building during their stay in the city.

Mayor McLellan, in his address of welcome, declared it a privilege and pleasure to meet such a distinguished body as the teachers association. He referred to Dr. Carter's report as most instructive to the lay mind and said the report should be effective in securing for teachers the respect and support from the public which they were entitled to but did not always receive. He congratulated the association on what it had achieved, mentioning particularly increased salaries and predicting that the time would come when the mind of the country and community would be directed towards the necessity for securing the best for educational requirements. As "Makers of Civilization" he welcomed the teachers and hoped their visit would be profitable and pleasant. Metaphorically, he presented the keys to this city and he regretted that attendance at another meeting would prevent his remaining longer. The meeting he was going to was one he hoped would be of great benefit to the city and to the province, a meeting of hydro experts. Applause greeted this remark.

Dr. Carter, in thanking Mayor McLellan for his sympathetic and appreciative address, spoke of the invariable courtesy of the citizens of St. John to the teachers association and said it was gratifying that, while there were only 2500 teachers in the province, there were between 600 and 700 in attendance, in spite of the difficulties of travel in the province at present.

Dr. Bagley.

Dr. Bagley, who is well known to practically every teacher through his educational publications, referred to Mayor McLellan's address as indicating that the teachers had the confidence of the people of the province and he said that everywhere in enlightened countries teachers were gaining more and more of the confidence of the people. Both in the United States and in Canada the salaries of teachers had been practically doubled since before the war and it was significant that, while salaries in all other employments were coming down the scale, there was no effort to reduce the salaries of teachers. It was an appreciation of the fact that teachers previously had not received an adequate reward. There had also come a realization of the fact that the education of all the children of all the people was a necessary safeguard of a democratic institution. He looked forward to the time when teaching should be the greatest and most honored profession in the calling and it behooved teachers to plan for that time to justify the confidence shown in them and look at the basis behind their work and profession.

Teaching as an Art.

Teaching had been described as the "noblesse of the professions" or the sorriest of the trades" and this description referred to the teacher who found a fascination in his work and esteemed it a unique public service, as contrasted with the teaching who worked for pay only. While teaching was in some things akin to a trade and in some things akin to a profession, it could never be reduced to an exact science and he preferred to think of it as an art. As an artist incorporated in something of himself into his teaching, the teacher working with the raw materials of children's minds were to utilize the rich harvest of the experience of the race and to transmit it to the mind of the child at the same time giving something of personal endeavor that would make a result unique to itself.

He admitted there were difficulties to be met with in applying this conception. The artist could not keep up repetition and it was hard to keep up enthusiasm. The artist could throw out for a walk. The teacher would not be likely to do that. The teacher would be likely to throw a sheet over it and let it lie.

Appreciation of the humor of the situation described called forth some merriment and laughter at this description by Dr. Bagley. He went on to carry out his analogy by saying that as growth and progress were limitless in art, so they were in teaching and he was delighted that an increasingly large number of teachers realized that they always must be learners. In the United States one out of every four teachers went to school last summer.

Promotion Backwards.

Promotion backwards was his way of expressing the present form of promotion for teachers. The one-room unsupervised school, which he had started his career as a teacher, he knew had been the hardest form of school to him, although he now had one of the "plums" of the profession. It had been hard because he had not been trained for it. It was great work and hard work teaching in the class room and with the children and it was essential that the truth should be looked upon as the most honorable career. It was necessary to have a great homogeneous group of men and women to do the actual work of teaching.

Single-Salary Schedule.

He believed there might be dawning a new era when men and women with the capacity for teaching would make their life work and when teaching would be looked upon as the most honorable of all callings. He pointed out that in every democratic country which was largely agricultural the rural school was a big problem, one of the biggest.

One of the greatest fundamental authorities had said that learning from the standpoint of the child should be a great adventure and that the fundamental connection was the culmination of the art of teaching. It was the business of teachers to stimulate and guide the child with this thought amplified and given most striking illustration, Dr. Bagley closed an able address which had been listened to with the closest attention.

Mrs. Blake Ferris' solos, accompanied by Miss Muriel McVey, were a rare musical treat and the High School orchestra played its selections most acceptably.

At the afternoon session Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of education, presided and with him on the platform were Dr. B. C. Foster, Dr. George A. Inch, A. S. MacFarlane and Inspectors M. G. Fox, L. A. Moore, S. A. Worrell and F. A. Dixon; Dr. H. S. Bridges, superintendent of schools, St. John; Dr. H. V. B. Bridges, superintendent of normal school; Dr. W. C. Bagley, of Columbia University; and Dr. C. C. Jones, chancellor of the U. N. B.

After devotions, the first matter of business it was decided that the registration fee should be $1.

The treasurer's statement showed total receipts of $298.41 and expenditures of $377.54, giving a deficit of $14.07. The assets were $550 in Victory bonds.

Dr. George A. Inch was re-elected secretary and Miss Bessie Fraser, of Grand Falls, was elected assistant secretary.

The following were appointed a nominating committee: W. J. S. Myles, St. John; A. S. MacFarlane, Fredericton; Miss Stella T. Payson, St. John; W. H. Irving, Moncton; L. R. Hetherington, Hillsboro; R. G. Mowatt, St. Stephen; Miss Nesale Ferguson, Richibucto; Miss Emma Vesey, St. Stephen; Miss Anita Gallagher, Tracey Station.

The resolutions committee was appointed as follows: Dr. H. S. Bridges, St. John; Inspector F. A. Dixon, Sackville, and Miss Anita Gallagher, Tracey Station.

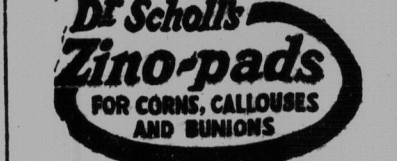

Dr. W. C. Bagley, professor of education at the teachers' college, Columbia University, gave a short address, extending to the institute the greetings of the United States teachers.

The two Junior Red Cross supervisors were then introduced, Dr. Carter having explained that the last hour each Friday of the school week might in future be devoted to the Junior Red Cross programme.

Mrs. Harold Lawrence explained that she and Miss Jessie Lawson were co-workers in that appointment and that while one had responsibility for the organization of the work the other was engaged in planning the details. She then explained why the supervisors sought the aid of the teachers. It was not to add to the burdens of their work, or to encumber the curriculum with a subject of no value, nor was it because where Junior Red Cross had been tried outside the schools it had not been successful, nor even because it had been said that any character must first be taken into the schools. The one great reason why the teachers should have been sought was because of the teacher's influence over her pupils. She could speak as a mother and as a grandmother and she believed there was no home where the teacher's influence was not one of the greatest.

It was realized that the teacher was always overworked to some degree and in the last few years this condition had been aggravated as the burdens of all classes of people had been increased.

In conclusion, Mrs. Lawrence pointed out how imperative it was that national health should be raised to a higher standard, instancing the conditions which war had revealed. She also mentioned the need of Canadianizing the immigrant and said that in these two particulars the

Put one on-- the pain is gone!

Junior Red Cross would help the teachers in their endeavor to bring up the young manhood and womanhood to the standard it was necessary they should attain if Canada were to take its place among the nations of the world.

Programme and Organization.

Miss Jessie Lawson dealt more particularly with the details of the Junior Red Cross programme. She outlined the objects of the society to seek a higher physical standard, to discourage habits which might spread disease, to enlist sympathy of the scholars on behalf of suffering children, to promote good citizenship, to teach each child to be a normal healthy child, not only for its own sake but for the sake of the community.

Membership, Miss Lawson said, might include all young people of school age. The teacher was to be the supervisor and nobody had authority to organize a Junior Red Cross branch except a teacher, unless the teacher had been given every opportunity and had failed to do so when a senior Red Cross member might be permitted to do so. The formation of a branch must be promptly reported to the supervisor and the unit of organization must be the class-room, although the formation of Junior Red Cross councils with representatives from each branch in a school was recommended.

The children were to elect their own officers, and these officers were to assume the duties of office. Where the children were small, Miss Lawson felt that the teacher as supervisor should aid the treasurer. At this point, one of the teachers asked how it could be made to conform with the school law to have any collection of fees, and in reply Dr. Carter said that the collection could be made outside of school hours.

Regarding fees, Miss Lawson said the regular fee was twenty-five cents and this was to be forwarded to provincial headquarters. It must be earned by the children, either as individuals or by means of an entertainment. Three-fifths of the fees would be retained for a fund to be available for the care of other children who might require it, and the remainder would provide the literature sent out. The Junior Red Cross year would be the same as the school year, and any monies raised exclusive of the fees might be used for the welfare of children, if the cause were approved by the supervisors.

Coming to outline the programme, Miss Lawson said that as all the work was just beginning a simple qualifying programme for all grades had been decided. When the organization was more perfect it was proposed to have four divisions and the first division would include the first three years in school. At the end of each year a card would be given the pupil who had carried through the programme successfully and at the end of the three years the pupil would qualify for a certificate signed by the minister of health and the president of the Red Cross.

To carry through the first three months of Junior Red Cross activity successfully, the child must have so conducted him or herself as to enable the teacher to sign a card which said that in seven particulars the child had shown progress. The seven particulars were as follows:

1. To learn the rules of the health game about taking baths, sleeping with windows open, drinking one pint of milk a day and four glasses of water and not drinking tea or coffee, eating vegetables or fruit each day, and being out of doors as much as possible.
2. To be careful of personal appearance and cleanliness.
3. To show improvement in general condition of health.
4. To be trying to take correct posture.
5. To know the Junior Red Cross motto: don't eat until you have washed your hands; never put pencils or similar things or anything that has been in anybody else's mouth, in your mouth; don't cough or sneeze without covering your mouth with a handkerchief.
6. To know "school housekeeping," tidiness about the desk and in the classroom.
7. To have good manners.

Five Hundred in Attendance.

At the conclusion of Miss Lawson's address the registration of teachers was continued and about 500 were found to be in attendance.

At the close of the afternoon session a pleasing incident was the presentation of a bouquet of twenty-five beautiful red roses to Dr. H. S. Bridges, superintendent of schools, on behalf of St. Vincent's Alumnae as a remembrance of the occasion twenty-five years previously when Dr. Bridges had first presented certificates to St. Vincent's graduating class.

AN EXAMPLE OF UNWISE RAISING OF PRICES

Hoggishness doesn't pay. Many business men don't seem to have learned this. Take the rug and carpet industry. A prolonged strike brought about a scarcity of goods, practically of the better grades. The employers finally succeeded wisely or unwisely—in smashing the workers' union. When the workers were taken back their wages were reduced. Employers discovered that output per worker rose quite remarkably; one authority informs me that the increase averaged almost 25 per cent. But what did the producers of rugs and carpets do? Did they give the public the benefit of the tremendous reduction in costs brought about by the cut in wages and the greater output per worker? No. Not only did they not lower prices, but

TURNOVER OF BIG LAND AREA
Lots in Simonds Estate in the North End Being Sold to Lessees—Large Tracts in Lorne and Stanley Wards Affected by Terms of Will.
Under the terms of the will of Miss Irene M. Simonds, late of this city, a large area of land in the north end of the city is gradually being turned from leasehold property into freehold. The land is located in Lorne and Stanley wards. In Lorne there are about 175 lots, most of which have been leased and built upon, while in the Stanley area there are several scattered dwellings, all on leased property. Until the death of the owner, the lessees had been able to purchase but one of the clauses in her will was that the land should be sold and in case where lots were leased, those occupying them were to have first preference for purchase. Accordingly more than seventy-five per cent. of the lessees have taken advantage of the opportunity to buy.
The Lorne ward properties are located in Victoria, Newman and Bryden streets, and in the blocks formed by the crossing of these streets by Durham, Edin, Albert and Charles streets. The area in Stanley ward is situated in the vicinity of Millidge avenue, Belle View avenue, Spar Cove road and Kokok road. After the leasehold portion of this section has been disposed of, and if opportunity presents itself, the trustees, The Royal Trust Co., propose to open up the land for building purposes.
Also included in the holdings of the estate is property located on both sides of Long Wharf, which is not on the market at the present time.

RETAINING WALLS A KEEN QUESTION
Matter Up at Council Meeting Today—The Law Regarding Encroachments—The City Solicitor.
That the matter of the restoration of retaining walls by the city was growing into a more serious problem every year was the opinion expressed by Commissioner Frink at a committee meeting of the common council this morning. He explained that when the grading of streets was carried out some years ago, where the level was raised above normal, a wall of dry stone was erected. These are now falling away and property owners in the street supported by these walls are looking to the city for restoration.
He reported that a retaining wall at the corner of Garden and Charles streets, adjoining property of Mrs. Short, was falling. He said it would take $600 to restore it. The road engineer recommended that the wall be restored.
On Commissioner Frink's motion it was decided to carry out the proposed restoration, to be paid for out of unexpended balance of a bond issue for the Moore street retaining wall.
The mayor agreed that the matter was a serious one. Dr. Frink said there was space on the west side complained of yesterday.
Regarding the case of L. W. Brown, whose building was said to be encroaching on the street line in Newman street, the common clerk read the law covering the matter. It was decided that the committee would inspect the site at the same time that the commissioners inspected the Open House.
The matter of sick pay for ferry employees was laid over until Monday.
Solicitor Question.
The mayor reported that he had occasion to obtain legal advice on behalf of the city and had on account of the absence of the city solicitor, Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, had consulted another lawyer. Commissioner Thornton was of the opinion that the city was placed at a disadvantage on account of the fact that its recorder was absent from the city a great deal of his time. He thought that the council should take this matter into consideration.
Mayor McLellan said that Dr. Baxter had authorized the city chamberlain to consult other solicitors while he was away. On motion of Commissioner Wigmore, the mayor's action was approved.

THE PROVIDENCE FAST ON ROCKS
Strikes on Ledge on Trip to Fall River and is in a Bad Way.
Newport, R. I., June 29—The steamer Providence, New York for Fall River, struck a ledge of rocks off Fort Wetherell at 8 a. m. Her passengers were landed here at eight o'clock. No one was injured. The Providence struck in a dense fog about two miles within the entrance to Narragansett Bay, where the shore is very rocky. She drove 100 feet on the ledge. The tide was out.
Passengers were taken off without difficulty and brought here, where arrangements were made to send them to Fall River by train. The Providence appeared to be badly damaged.

Franklin Was Right
It was quite a few years ago that Benjamin Franklin made that pertinent remark to the effect that a penny saved was a penny earned. But it is still true today. Perhaps even more so now than then.
One way to save a penny—or a dollar—is to put it in a good investment—and when you put it in good furniture you are putting it in a good investment.
Everett's furniture is good furniture, because we look upon every article we put on our floors as an investment we are selling to our customer, not merely a quick way of getting his money. It will give you more years of service, and look better, than many other kinds—and what's more, it won't cost you one cent more than is asked for many pieces of inferior quality. A look through our stock will interest you.

Receiving Circuits. By the use of conventional symbols, representing various pieces of radio equipment, drawings may be developed in which the pieces of apparatus are assembled and joined by connecting lines, representing wires, with the result that the proper relation of each piece to the others is clearly shown.

Resistance and Impedance. When an alternating current flows in a coil of wire, it encounters an opposing force due to self-induction. This retarding factor due to inductance is known as inductance reactance and when combined with the ohmic resistance of the circuit the resultant effect is known as impedance.

The Single Slide Tuner. A single coil of wire with an adjustable contact used in conjunction with an aerial detector and receiving telephones is one of the simplest radio receiving circuits.

The Detector. The detector in the circuit of a radio receiver performs the important function of converting the energy of the radio frequency oscillations, intercepted by the antenna, into unidirectional pulsating currents which may be rendered audible by the receiving telephones.

Tuning. Tuning is the process of obtaining electrical resonance. An electromagnetic wave, radiated from a transmitter aerial, will induce radio-frequency oscillations of maximum amplitude in a receiving circuit provided that the receiving aerial is electrically tuned to the frequency of the radiated wave.

POPULATION

IS 8,788,483

Final Figures of 1921 Census Announced

Increase of 1,581,840 in Ten Years—Most People in the Rural Districts—New Brunswick Made Greatest Gain in Maritimes.

(Canadian Press) Ottawa, June 29.—Canada's total population, as of June 1, is 8,788,483. This is the final figure, issued today, of the sixth census and it cannot be officially changed until 1931 rolls around.

The percentage of increase is 25.98 and curiously enough the labor of months involving a house to house canvass of the whole Dominion, together with numerous police journeys through the Yukon and the northern territories is finally recorded in four rows of figures across one very small piece of paper.

Most in County. Claims by agriculturists that farming is the basic industry in Canada are sustained by the census figures which show 4,639,005 of the total population residing in rural districts as compared with 4,149,478 living in urban centers.

Ontario total population is 2,639,862 of whom 1,228,292 live in rural districts. Quebec is second with a total population of 2,261,199 of whom 1,038,125 reside in the country.

Alberta leads the way as far as provincial increase in population is concerned. Final figures for Alberta credit that province with a population of 888,454, an increase of 214,159 or a percentage of 47.22.

The number living in the country is 385,550. Saskatchewan made the next largest gain with a percentage increase of 33.80. The total population of Saskatchewan is 737,510, representing a gain of 295,078.

Of the Saskatchewan population 339,532 live in the country. Yukon is credited with the largest percentage of decrease, with 51,136. The population of Yukon is now 41,577 as compared with 85,112 in 1911.

Other 3,182 are said to be in the rural districts and 973 in the towns. On the other hand a gain has been registered in the northwest territories, where the census places the final population of the entire area at 6,557 in 1911, the percentage of gain being 27.76.

The population of British Columbia is placed at 624,882 in the census of 1911, or a percentage gain of 33.66. The population of British Columbia is 840,480 in 1921, 216,600 people live in rural districts. In Manitoba the total is 610,118, a gain of 148,724, a percentage of 32.23. More than one-half, or 348,661, of the population live in the country.

Maritime Provinces. Nova Scotia with 623,687 has the largest population of the Maritime provinces. Nova Scotia has gained 91,499 since 1911, or a percentage of 6.40. The Atlantic province has 298,487 people in rural districts. While Nova Scotia has the largest population, New Brunswick has made the greatest gain.

Final figures give the latter province a population of 359,576, but the gain is 35,957, or 10.25 per cent. The rural population is given at 255,648. Prince Edward Island has lost population to the extent of 5,846 per cent. The population of the island province is 88,615 as compared with 93,728 in 1911 a decrease of 5,113. Of the present population 69,529 live in the country.

There is one new classification and that is the Royal Canadian Navy, which is credited with a total of 485.

BAD BREAK IN LOCH LOMOND WATER MAIN

A crew of men of the water and sewerage department was rushed to the Loch Lomond road this morning to deal with a bad leak which developed from the blowing out of a piece of the concrete main from Loch Lomond just beyond Phinney's Hill.

Wigmore went to the scene this afternoon. Mr. Wigmore said this morning that the break occurred in the pipe on which he had been working during the week-ends recently. The piece which failed is about five feet long and while the amount of water escaping is considerable, the commissioner did not think that it would affect the city pressure materially.

He is of opinion that it will not be necessary to shut off the supply through the Loch Lomond main entirely to effect repairs, but the head will be lowered to allow the work to proceed. If found necessary, however, the water line in the Littleton area will be turned in through the Littleton line. He expects to have repairs completed before the morning.

RED REBELLION IS THREATENED

Nova Scotia Miners Out to Overthrow Capitalism - Maclachlan to Moscow.

(Halifax Chronicle.) Secretary Maclachlan, of the local Miners' Union, would appear to have had his perfect day at the Truro Convention. It is just as well to have it over and done with. The public now know where he and his foolish dupes stand, and what they desire. They have spoken plainly both individually and collectively, so that there is no possibility of misunderstanding. They are heart and Domination government. It is now evident that Maclachlan seriously regards himself as the agent of Lenin and Trotsky in Canada. The Bolshevik followers of Secretary Maclachlan are not even well informed with regard to their own cult, or else they are deliberately trying to deceive. They asserted loudly at the convention that their motion towards linking up with Russian Bolshevism was not political but industrial. They asserted that the "Red Union" was non-political, and had no connection with the Third International, which is nothing if not political. Quite possibly most of those who heard them were not aware that there is no permitted or possible public union in Russia apart from the Third International, and that the Third International definitely cast aside all Socialistic disguise last autumn, and avowed itself Red, all Red, and nothing but Red. That is, it declared for Communism as practiced by Lenin and Trotsky, and against Socialism as heretofore professed by the Internationals. In so doing it broke with Internationalism and arrayed itself alone, in the Reddest of Red splendor, before the eyes of the world.

For Your Protection PURITY ICE CREAM is Heathized. Made in a created atmosphere many times purer than the air about us. Purity Ice Cream is as pure as human skill and science can make it. With the delicate, refined flavor of ripe, luscious fruits, with abundant butter-fat to nourish, Purity Ice Cream cools, refreshes and builds. Next time, treat to Purity Ice Cream Bricklets, at the Purity Dealers. Look for the Purity Sign.

To assert that there is any other labor, political or labor-political organization in Russia than the Third International, which could be joined by Canadian Bolsheviks, was to assert what was not true, and was probably intended to deceive. The majority of the Truro Convention which was induced to vote for a motion to send a delegate to Alberta to try to induce District No. 18 to join District No. 26 of the United Mine Workers of America in sending a representative to "the next convention of Red International of Trades Unions held in Moscow," were voting to unite not with any European system of trades unionism, but with the rank and file of Russian political Communism. In speaking of Bolshevism we do not use the word in any offensive sense otherwise than as it has been made offensive by Lenin and Trotsky. Bolshevism is simply the Russian word for radical or extremist. If there is anything more extreme than Communism as declared for at Truro in voting to send a representative to the Third International at Moscow, it has yet to be revealed. To prove that they knew fairly well what was being proposed, a majority of the Truro delegates joined to their Moscow proposal a resolution in favor of the One Big Union in theory and practice. This is simply Bolshevism in practical operation in Canada. It is the impudent attempt of a handful of ambitious schemers to use an organized class group to subvert the constitution and laws of the country for their own selfish and criminal purposes. It is something which no sane or decent Canadian will tolerate or endure for a moment. The Truro Convention demonstrated, in so far as it represented the miners of Nova Scotia, that neither gratitude nor appreciation of favors to be expected from certain of them. We have no doubt, however, that the convention was packed by the extremists, and was by no means truly representative. Everything that both dominion and local govern-

One conciliation board after another has been appointed in accordance with their demands, but all in vain. The findings of all have been rejected, those of the last of them, the Scott Board, were repudiated and rejected at Truro with contempt and scorn, in language insolently offensive. The governments were denounced and defied by resolution. The concluding paragraph of the formal resolution adopted is an open revolutionary declaration. It is as follows: "No. 5. That we proclaim openly to all the world that we are out for the complete overthrow of the capitalist system and the capitalist state, peaceably if we may, forcibly if we must, and we call on all workers, soldiers and minor officers in Canada to join us in liberating labor."

There can be no possible misunderstanding of this. It is an announcement of intention to attempt the subversion of democratic institutions and institute despotic class government. It makes a brazenly seditious appeal to all public servants to be false to their allegiance and their sworn duties of office. Surely it is time to invoke the law of the land in the preaching of such open and brazen sedition is tolerated indefinitely, it cannot but have serious ultimate consequences, however ignorant and silly the preachers may be. New York, June 29—Blinded from the effects of liquor which he said he obtained in a saloon in The Bronx, David Sullivan, 46 years old, 403 East 178th street, was picked up by Patrolman Patrick Trainor on the sidewalk in Tremont avenue, between Webster avenue and Park avenue. He was rushed to Fordham Hospital by Dr. Levine, who answered the ambulance call. The physicians at the hospital said that Sullivan apparently had been blinded by drinking wood alcohol. T. Ryan sent twenty detectives to search The Bronx for the place where Sullivan might have procured the liquor. Lieutenant Scammell with Detectives Roeder, Voebel, Burns and Austin went to the saloon of John Dotti at 401 East Tremont avenue, arrested the owner and bartender, Albert Kresch of 792 East 178th street, and seized $7,000 worth of liquors. Dotti and Kresch were held in $2,500 bail each for examination on June 28 when arraigned before Magistrate John E. McGehean in Morrisania Court on a charge of suspicion of felonious assault. They were also held in an additional $600 bail each on a charge of violating the Mullan-Gage law. The detectives said they found in Dotti's place six pints of whiskey, five gallons of grain alcohol, twenty gallons of wine, one gallon jug of whiskey, 34 quarts, 20 pints and 169 half pints of the same kind of liquid; two one-gallon jugs of brandy, one gallon of rum, two quarts of port wine, three gallons of applejack, three cases of Vermouth, five half-gallon bottles of gin, one quart of Jamaica ginger, 18 barrels of beer, 144 bottles of beer

MICHAEL COLLINS AND DE VALERA

Contrast Between the Rival Irish Leaders—They are Very Unlike.

(D. C. in Montreal Gazette.) Collins has shown himself a shrewder controversialist than De Valera, and the results of the recent elections in Ireland go to prove that most people are, by a sweeping majority, strongly of this opinion.

What shadows we are and what shadows we pursue, might well be written by some of the revolutionary extremists in Irish Republican circles. "Mick" Collins, the strong arm of the Free State party in Ireland, is an Irishman who knows all the weaknesses as well as the strong characteristics of his fellow-countrymen.

back seat henceforth in the councils of Old Erin. The Cardinals and Bishops have given their blessing to the Free State scheme. All that is now requested is for Collins and Griffith to be allowed to carry good government into practice, and if De Valera is wise he will retire once again to the oblivion from which he should never have emerged.

GIRL AT CONEY GOES BLIND; SEES AGAIN

Two Young Women Parade in Scanty Attire and Flee from Policeman.

Sunday was a lively day at Coney Island, what with Captain John J. Hughes acting as a delegate for the painters' union, bathing beauties from under the elevated on Allen street being arrested for promiscuous in society, and the adventures of a pair of chauffeurs with an ancient automobile. There were about 800,000 persons there, despite the rain, and they voted the day a success.

There was one curious happening which might have been tragic and which is still puzzling Coney Island physicians. Lillian Mulrean, 21 years old, a bookkeeper for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, of 2237 East Second street, went to the beach with her brother, Robert. She was sitting on the sand near the Municipal Baths when she was suddenly stricken blind. Dr. Korn of the Coney Island Hospital said the girl was absolutely blind, and could not give a cause. After being in a darkened room for a time her sight returned, and except for pains in her eyes, she was all right. Her recovery was a puzzling as her blindness to physicians who examined her.

The girls with the socks were Gertrude Hymowitz, 19 years old, and Sarah Lang, also 19, of 124 Allen street, Manhattan. They were parading West Thirty-sixth street near Hellroad avenue in bathing suits that were somewhat scanty, and their stockings were rolled low. Patrolman Andrew Cole saw them, and when he went to intercept them the girls ran into a house at 2,893 West Thirty-sixth street, leaving Cole outside, undecided what to do. A crowd gathered and jostled him a bit, until Cole decided that dignity required action. So he served them with summonses charging them with disorderly conduct.

Two chauffeurs, Benjamin Fox of 333 South Fifth street, Brooklyn, and Alfred Rosenthal of 22 Grand street, Brooklyn, saw an automobile of the vintage of 1914 in a lot at West Twenty-eighth street and Mermald avenue.

They laughed and wondered if it would be run. They cranked it and it did. They got in and drove off. They were arrested and charged with stealing the car by Carmine Caffero of 2,923 West Twenty-eighth street, who owned the car and did not see the humor of the situation.

GIRL AND TRACHER HELD.

Yonkers Stenographer and Music Instructor Taken From Train.

New York, June 29.—Miss Rose Beszedes, 17, a stenographer, of Yonkers, and Professor Albert Tondra, a music instructor, aged 42, of Yonkers, were taken from a New York Central train in Albany, upon orders of the Yonkers police. Detective Lieutenant George A. Ford, acting head of the Yonkers Detective Bureau, announced that he ordered a charge of abduction made against Professor Tondra. The girl is held as an ungovernable child.

John Beszedes, father of the girl, reported that she had been away all night. They were unable to account for the girl's absence until the police received a request from Tondra's wife to search for him. He, too, failed to return home. The police got word that the two missing persons boarded the same train bound Niagara Falls. Lieutenant Ford telephoned an alarm to the Albany police, who took the pair off the train and will send them back to Yonkers.

A STRONG SWIMMER.

Boston, June 29.—Towing a rowboat occupied by five persons, Charles Toth, who will attempt to swim the English Channel this summer, swam five miles from the L. street bathhouse to Castle Island, and returned. The first half of the swim was against wind and tide. His time was two hours and two minutes. The total deadweight of the tow was 1,400 pounds. Toth showed no signs of fatigue after the test.

as big as a lion, in that he is difficult to persuade to come into the glare of the limelight—but once he is persuaded, he plays his part as a man. He is quick and steady, but equally deadly in debate. He has none of the classic prose of the Redmonds, none of the niceties and subtleties of diction of Butt or O'Connell or Burke; but he has made many effective hits in his impromptu speeches, the result of natural wit, which he possesses in plenty.

Wears a Scowl. "Mick" Collins is tall and young and thick-set. He wears a scowl at times, which augurs none too well for those opposed to him. He has a full face with a "jaw", and it is difficult to imagine him at rest, except when he is asleep. He is a typical Irishman, slow to give offence, but quick to resent gratuitous insult.

Like his fellow-countrymen, he will neither forget nor forgive any studied insolence hurled at his head by nincompoops whose jealousy prompts bad nature towards him. He has all in him to make a public leader and a politician, and with that pugnacious instinct of his race and the wisdom of a statesman, he should go far in Irish politics, provided that his intellect does not allow his zeal to outrun his discretion. "Mick" Collins is an Irish "hope" of which his fellow-islanders need not be ashamed.

Eamonn De Valera. De Valera has been forced to speak and write with an eye to the Irish extrémists, whom, he has kept in line by the use of phrases dear to the Irish rebel's heart. De Valera is a shrewd controversialist, but has been overshadowed even in that regard by men who were born and reared in Ireland. Eamonn De Valera is no longer the popular hero. He has lost the laurels. He was taken and trust had wide vogue for a time, only to find in the long run that his former admirers have proved fickle and directed their admiration elsewhere.

De Valera was born in 1882, in New York. His father was a Spaniard, although his mother was Irish as "you make em." Many Irishmen of all shades of political thought in all lands have deprecated the De Valera policy for Ireland all the way through on being informed of his political life. The self-assumed power proved unreal and unsafe.

Responsible For Outrages. There are those who know and love Ireland very dearly who considered that De Valera is responsible for most of the outrages that have blackened the fair name of the Isle of Saints, and are confident that he has been an evil genius rather than a saviour to Erin. De Valera's name of the Isle of Saints, and are confident that he has been an evil genius rather than a saviour to Erin. De Valera's name of the Isle of Saints, and are confident that he has been an evil genius rather than a saviour to Erin.

And thus it is that Irish political affairs look like settling down by the popular vote accorded antagonistic to the De Valera dream. The Irish Free State will shortly function, and any attempt by De Valera to oppose its functioning will be resented by Irishmen all over the world. De Valera attempted many political tricks and failed to make them good. He essayed a Cromwellian or a Napoleonic attitude at times, which he converted to ridicule and which discredited him in the eyes of his friends. In his hour of defeat he has acted like a hysterical schoolgirl and talked like the bed-bald schoolboy who could not have everything his own way. The Irish Republic was still-born. Its evil genius and conceiver must take a

SIR HENRY WILSON AND THE CABINET

Lady Wilson Did Not Want Letter to Attend Funeral—An Explanation.

Referring to the relations between the late Field Marshal Wilson and the Lloyd George government at cable to the Montreal Gazette and New York Times says: Lady Wilson in her bereavement sent a message to the cabinet saying it would be distasteful to her if the ministers attended her husband's funeral. Apparently she held that as the Field Marshal had been a strong opponent of the government's Irish policy that policy was in some way responsible for the tragedy.

The effect of Lady Wilson's communication on the cabinet was extremely painful. The ministers were dumb-founded, for each and every one had the utmost personal regard for the late Field Marshal. Lloyd George was in fact a very close friend, while Sir Henry was actually the godfather to one of Austen Chamberlain's children.

Through an intermediary from the War Office representations were made delicately to Lady Wilson. It was pointed out that the absence of ministers from a public military funeral of a distinguished soldier and public servant would be unthinkable, and under kindly counsel the bereaved widow withdrew her objection. Lloyd George sent a personal message to all members of the cabinet asking them to attend.

The political correspondent of The Sunday Times, who is in close touch with Lloyd George contributes what may be regarded as a response to the communication which The Morning Post printed from an anonymous correspondent. The Sunday Times' article says:

Horlick's Malted Milk
Safe Milk For Infants & Invalids

A Nutritious Diet for All Ages. Keep Horlick's Always on Hand Quick Lunch; Home or Office.

"To no one outside of his immediate relatives was the news of Field Marshal Wilson's murder a more staggering blow than to the Prime Minister. He was so stunned by it that he felt that if he attempted to speak in the House he would break down and nothing could be more cruel than the attempt in certain quarters to represent his silence as indifference. He had always liked and admired the dead man, and during the years of their close association, in the last years of the war and the subsequent peace negotiations, that liking and admiration deepened into a warm affection which did not cease on his part when Wilson broke their intimacy on the Irish question. He hoped indeed that in the fullness of time, when the policy of reconciliation should be justified by its success, they would come together again.

"At the beginning of last month I wrote of Sir Henry Wilson's changed attitude toward the Prime Minister. 'So sudden and apparently inexplicable has been the volte face that a good many people are asking if it has not had its origin in some private quarrel that has deeply wounded the Field Marshal's amour propre. Nothing of the kind, I have good authority for saying, has occurred, and the one and only reason for the break is that the Prime Minister entered into negotiations with the Sinn Feiners. 'You have shaken hands with murderers,' was the Field Marshal's view, 'and I end all relations with you." He even went so far, I understand, as to make it clear that this extended to social relations as well.

"Speaking at Carlton Hall in the following week, Sir Henry Wilson affirmed the perfect correctness of this statement so that there can be no doubts that the difference was purely political, and, strongly as the dead man felt and expressed himself on the matter, I do not believe that his hostility went very deeply down in his essentially kindly nature. Not long before he died a mutual friend was calling on him, and as they were parting H. W. made some allusion to the Premier and added: 'You can give my love to the little man, and when the friend said, 'How can you do that after all you've said about him?'

he replied: 'I don't see why.' Anyone can understand it, for his heart was far bigger than his prejudices.

"Lady Wilson shared to the full his views on the Irish question. It is a touching writ that publicity was given in a morning paper yesterday to her desire that members of the government should be excluded from the funeral of her husband. Downing street was anxious that if possible nothing should be said about the difficulty, which was found susceptible of arrangement, but the temptation to make political capital out of the unfortunate incident was too much for the hard press."

In some political quarters suggestions have been made that Lloyd George showed heartlessness in not at once rising and expressing his horror at the crime when the news of the assassination reached the House of Commons. The Evening Standard says: "That is just the kind of unfair procedure that is increasing at Westminster, the kind without the outrage of assertion. In the first place, it was the business of Austen Chamberlain as leader of the House to rise and speak in the name of the Commons. In the second place, everybody in the House of Commons on Thursday afternoon knew that Lloyd George was most deeply affected. He had been closely associated with the Field Marshal, and, although there had been differences, the Prime Minister held him in affectionate esteem. At the proper time the Prime Minister will tell publicly what he thinks of the murder."

CONSERVATIVES OF NOVA SCOTIA STICK TO OLD PARTY NAME

Truro, June 28.—The Nova Scotia Liberal-Conservative convention, called for organization purposes, opened here this evening with 300 delegates in attendance, representing every county in the province. One hundred more delegates were expected to arrive from nearby counties are expected here tomorrow by automobile.

John C. Plimsey, of Halifax, was elected chairman of the convention, and J. Douglas Vair, of Halifax, secretary. Committees were appointed on resolutions, leadership, platform and nomination. These will report in the morning.

The feeling of the meeting was that the old name "Liberal-Conservative" was superior to any more recent appellation, and when Col. Plimsey stated in his opening address that the party was to organize as the "Liberal-Conservative" party, his remark was greeted by applause which was renewed a little later when H. W. Sangster, K.C., of Windsor proposed a resolution that the party be organized as the Liberal-Conservative party of Nova Scotia.

UNITED FARMERS LOSING NUMBERS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Truro, June 28.—That the United Farmers' movement in this province has lost headway during the past year and that something would have to be done immediately, if it were not to die out, was the consensus of opinion among the delegates to the provincial United Farmer convention which closed here tonight.

Harry L. Taggart, M.L.A., for Colchester, was re-elected president. He has held this office ever since the organization was formed three years ago. The nomination was made by ballot and the only other name submitted was that of C. D. Shipley, former mayor of Amherst. Mr. Shipley positively declined to be a candidate. Mr. Taggart said he thought the president should be some one other than a member of the legislature, but the meeting passed a resolution instructing the secretary to cast a ballot for Mr. Taggart which was done and he accepted the office for another year.

URGES SPECIAL CLASSES FOR THE DEFECTIVES

Practical means of dealing with several pressing problems in health matters were outlined at the concluding session of the quarterly meeting of the provincial bureau of health held yesterday in the government rooms, in Prince William street, with Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts presiding.

One of the chief matters taken up and discussed at some length was the importance of urging action by the local board for special classes for backward and mentally defective children. The regulation of the department of health dealing with this matter was read and a committee was appointed to take up the matter with the committee recently appointed by the board of school trustees in the city of St. John to consider the question.

PREMIER TO BE FETED IN NORTH YORK JULY 5

(Toronto Globe.)

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King will spend Dominion Day in North York, the constituency which the premier represents in the dominion house. He will arrive in Newmarket about nine o'clock, where a reception will be tendered, and will spend a few hours meeting his friends. He will also visit Aurora and will leave about four o'clock for King City, where there will be a great field day at the beautiful country home of Sir Henry and Lady Pellatt.

The premier will deliver a short patriotic message in the evening. There will be an exhibition of circus riding by the Royal Canadian Dragoons, and other features will be a soccer game between Toronto Falcons and King City, and baseball between Cookstown and Ivy. The Ivy Band will be in attendance.

Lake Marie lends itself to a gathering of this kind. The terrace surrounds Lake Marie, and the deer park, where there are hundreds of deer.

HOME FROM SEMINARY.

Ward, Alphonse Harris, Joseph Butler, William Crowley, Joseph Floyd, Arthur Kinsella, Melville Nichol, W. J. Osborne. The majority of these young men are graduates from the local high school. Two Fredericton boys, Joseph Henneberry and Michael Johnson, also returned to their homes. This year at the seminary was a record year with a large number of Quebec boys in attendance. Rev. Father Tresselt, C. J. M., is head of the seminary.

New York, June 26.—Taking care to conceal her identity a well-dressed young woman tried to end her life by taking a drug near the Central Drive, Central Park, opposite Sixty-third street. Police-

Canadian Tariff

New York, June 26.—(By Canadian Press)—Leopold Graham, New York correspondent of "The Financial Journal," the London England, Eng. financial journal, has called his paper an estimate of the possible effect of the proposed Canadian tariff changes.

Dealing with the reduction of the British preference and the maintenance of the present rate of duty on goods from the United States, as announced by the finance minister, Mr. Graham says:

This very straightforward and by no means unfriendly declaration of policy may succeed in securing a revision of prevailing proposals to raise Canadian tariffs in her application to Canada; but in view of the fact that the United States has already lost two as much of trade with Canada as Canada has lost with the United States since the coming into force of the Emergency Tariff Act.

HIDES INJURIES FROM MOTHER; YOUNG LAD DIES

Hurt at Ball Game and Again at Beach, Afraid the News Would Worry Parents.

Robert J. Alexander, Jr., a student at Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, died late Saturday afternoon at the Peck Memorial Hospital from injuries he received first while playing ball on Memorial Day and again on Friday, June 2, from diving in a swimming pool at Coney Island. Free from the time he received both injuries until he died he kept secret what had happened to him for fears that the news could worry his parents and cause a severe shock especially to his mother to whom he was devoted.

He was struck on the left jaw by a pitched ball and was forced to quit the game. In his dive at Coney Island he struck bottom on his head and left shoulder, which aggravated his previous injury.

It was not until last Monday his father noticed that the boy's face was swollen and his eyes inflamed. Dr. Dunham C. Jones, of 219 Avenue U, the family physician was called in and prescribed. The boy became delirious Wednesday and the following day Dr. Jones called in a specialist. An X-ray was taken and it was discovered that abscesses had formed at the base of the brain under the jaw.

The boy was removed to the hospital Friday and an operation was performed, but he died the following day. Alexander's silence cost him his life, as the doctors believe they could have saved him if he had received medical treatment in time.

Patrolman Kills Animal Which Attacks Him Before Crowd.

New York, June 26.—Patrolman Henry Beckmann of the West 100th street station, had his left hand bitten by the snout of a cat which attracted a crowd in front of a butcher shop at 369 Columbus avenue.

The policeman for a time amused the crowd by his efforts to catch the cat, until the animal leaped at him. The policeman warded it off, but not until it had bitten the middle finger of his right hand. Beckmann finally killed the cat with his revolver.

Trains the Clerks For Two Departments.

Strawbridge & Clothier, in Philadelphia, are handling the rush season problem by training their salespeople to serve in more than one department if necessary.

The store takes the stand that a clerk can assimilate all the selling ideas connected with a single department and still be able to learn something about another one. Certain departments in the store have seasonal rushes, and in the past it has been necessary to hire extra clerks for these occasions. Temporary salespeople can never be depended upon to give very efficient service, and thus stores where this system is practiced have suffered.

During the Easter rush this year the women's wearing apparel department was extremely busy and the store transferred from the household goods and furniture some of the salesgirls who had been trained to sell women's clothes. This system of making two departments salespeople has enabled the educational department of the store to get a better idea on the capabilities of its selling staff.

The salesgirls are now working on a new quota system and are being urged to turn in more sales because of the decline in commodity prices. Round-table conferences are used by the educational department in teaching salesmanship. Virtually the entire selling force in the shoe department has registered in the Shoeman's Institute courses.

Drifting Across the Arctic Sea.

(Ottawa Journal.)

It is only a few short years since the news flashed around the world from New Zealand that Roald Amundsen had reached the South Pole on December 14, 1911, and yet it seems as though a lifetime had passed. Some eight months or so later a search party found all that was mortal of Scott, Wilson, and Bowers, who with Titus Oates and Evans had adventured all round the world. A year later a month later the Norwegian party, and died within eleven hours of safety.

The record of the Scott expedition is one of which every Britisher can be proud. At times these expeditions seem little things, but scientific results of great value were secured, and to many men there is a keen sense of satisfaction in feeling that "there is no part of the world that cannot be reached by man."

Scott's attitude toward the adventurous life may be seen from the quotation from Sir Humphrey Gilbert which he wrote on the fly-leaf of his MS book. "It is not worthy to live at all, who for fear and danger of death smothereth his country's service or his own honor, since death is inevitable and the fame of virtue immortal."

Although Scott learned in February 1911, that Amundsen had succeeded in landing his sledges and dog teams at the Bay of Whales and was bent on attaining the goal first, Scott continued his work as planned. Many men would have risked all for a dash but Scott wrote, "after all, it is the work that counts, not the applause that follows." The simple entries from day to day in his journal, his tributes to his companions, and his unfailing cheerfulness under conditions that were the reverse of promising, show the rare spirit of the man. On January 16, 1912, they found indications of another party, and Scott wrote "the worst has happened, and nearly the worst, . . . the Norwegian have forestalled us, they are first at the Pole. It is a terrible disappointment and I am very sorry for my loyal companions." On the evening of 16, he reached the Pole, found Amundsen's records, also a note to Scott asking him to forward a letter to King Haakon.

The race back, heretofore a Scott's pathetic notes of "most of the day-dreams" made under conditions of incredible hardship. Evans died and Titus Oates, feeling that his companions might have a chance if they had not to carry him, his feet being useless, went out into a blizzard with the words: "I am just going outside and may be some time."

On May 19 they were within eleven miles of safety but a blizzard raged for ten days. On the twenty-ninth the last entry in the journal was made. Truly Scott's was "A great life and a good death. . . .
"Trust him, he would not fall."
Now, Amundsen is setting forth to battle with the Arctic as he did so successfully with the south. His ship is perfectly equipped and built for the work he is to perform, that is, drift across the North Pole, which he expects will take about five years. Other ships have tried the same experiment, though none with the same chances for success. The best known was probably the Jeanette, commanded by Lieut. De Long, of the U. S. navy, which was outfitted and paid for by J. G. Bennett, of New York. Caught in an ice-pack she was crushed and sank and half her crew perished in the Lena delta, others scaping over the ice. The Karlik met the same fate only a few years ago. Let us hope the Maud will have a more successful career in the far north and that her commander will in five short years or so be able to send a successful message once more.

Influx of 1,000,000 as Result of War, Compared With Loss of 250,000.

Through the rush of refugees from the east and the homeward return of a host of Germans from the lost colonies and unoccupied sections of the former German Empire, the population of the territory of the present German Republic was increased about 1,000,000 during the World War and the two years immediately following it, according to a memorandum issued by the German minister of the interior. As the emigration from Germany to recent estimates, has amounted to some 250,000, the net gain in population totals about 750,000.

DOES COLOR HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH RECORDS AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS?

This is a question that has been raised by Clarence Snyder, who owns the Snyder musical store in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and who has found the use of color effects in demonstrating records and musical instruments so profitable that he has made it a regular feature of his establishment.

The first experiment in this line of salesmanship showed such good returns that Snyder has had a salon installed in his store where all musical instruments are demonstrated and where concerts of the new records released by the producing companies are given. No admission

GIRL SWIMMERS ST. JOHN WILL SEE

Three of Them in the Team
Which Won U. S. Relay Championship.

(New York Times.)
To its already long list of brilliant achievements of the Women's Swimming Association of New York yesterday added another world's swimming record. The new mark came in the national A. U. 400-yard relay swim championship, conducted as the principal event on an attractive swimming programme in the open-air pool of the Brighton Beach Baths. The four wearers of the W. S. A. emblem, defending a title they captured last year, swam to victory in the remarkable time of four minutes 38.8 seconds, shattering one and two-fifths seconds of the old record, made by a W. S. A. team on Sept. 28 last year. The best previous mark for the distance was four minutes forty seconds.

The speedy quartette which returned the new mark was composed of Miss Gertrude Ederle, Mrs. Charlotte Boyle Clune, Miss Aileen Riggins and Miss Helen Wainwright. In that order the team proceeded to a victory by the hollow margin of some twenty yards over the crack Philadelphia Turngemeinde quartette, composed of the Misses Elizabeth Becker, Frances Clarke, Margaret Ravior and Gertrude Artelt. A second team of the Women's Swimming Association, composed of the Misses Doris O'Mara, Frances Cooney, Ethel McGary and Ethel Baker, was third.

The team which made this new mark differs in only one position from the quartette which swam to the record of 4:40 in winning the title last year. Miss Ethel Baker, world's greatest swimmer, was a member of the team last year. Her place this year was taken by Miss Riggins, Olympic diving champion. Mrs. Clune, then Charlotte Boyle, Miss Ederle and Miss Wainwright, all swam in the last year quartette.

The performance was accepted as the more remarkable, in view of the almost total lack of competitive pressure. From the time Mrs. Ederle dove into the water with the gun mark to start the race, the W. S. A. quartette swam in front and never relinquished its position. Miss

Yeast No "Fad" Say Scientists

The greatest scientific minds agree that yeast is one of the most important medical discoveries. No method of banishing skin eruptions of building health has yet been found which can equal it. This is because yeast contains certain vital elements which are lacking in the modern diet. Already millions of people have secured amazing benefits from yeast. Recently, however, a new process has been discovered, called "ironization," through which people are securing benefits from yeast in just half the usual time. This process, embodied only in Ironized Yeast, helps to immediately convert the vital yeast elements into firm tissue and rich pure blood. If weak, thin or run-down—or if troubled with pimples, blackheads or boils, it will pay you to try Ironized Yeast at once. To try Ironized Yeast entirely free simply mail postcard for Famous 3-Day FREE Test. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Dept. 87, Toronto. Ironized Yeast is recommended and guaranteed by all good dealers.

Ederle touched off to Mrs. Clune with an advantage of about five yards over Miss Becker. Mrs. Clune, making her first competitive appearance of the year, added to the margin in a spirited struggle against Miss Becker, and when Miss Riggins entered the water against Miss Wainwright, who is being groomed as a successor to Miss Bleibrey, and Miss Artelt, all-around swim champion of 1917. The Philadelphia swimmer strove valiantly to overtake the speedy Miss Wainwright, but the latter, with surprisingly powerful stroke and leg-beat, proceeded on her way to a victory for the team by the margin of twenty yards.

Miss Wainwright enjoyed the distinction of swimming the fastest "century" of the triumphant team. She covered the anchor leg in one minute seven seconds. Miss Ederle swam the first leg in 1:08.45, Mrs. Clune the second in 1:12, and Miss Riggins the third in 1:10.45.

A surprise was sprung in the women's national fancy diving championship when Miss Elizabeth Becker of the Philadelphia Turngemeinde triumphed over Miss Riggins. The Olympic diving champion and her Philadelphia rival descended on point placements in the con-

PROCLAMATIONS BY INSURGENTS AND MULCAHY

(Canadian Press Cable)
Dublin, June 29—An impassioned appeal for all citizens of the Irish Republic to rally to its support in this supreme test of the nation's destiny, is contained in a proclamation issued by the Irish army insurgents who are holding the Four Courts against the Free State forces. The proclamation reads:
"The fatal hour has come at the dictation of our hereditary enemy, and our rightful cause is being treacherously assailed by recent Irishmen. The crash of arms and the boom of artillery reverberate in this supreme test of the nation's destiny.
"Gallant soldiers of the Irish Republic stand firm in its defence, and worthily uphold its noblest traditions. The sacred spirits of the illustrious dead are with us in this great struggle. Death before dishonor being an unchanging principle of our national faith as it was of theirs, they still inspire us to emulate their glorious efforts.
"We therefore appeal to all the citizens who without unflinchingly the oppression of the enemy during the last six years to rally to the support of the Republic and recognize that the resistance now being offered is but a continuation of the struggle that was suspended by the truce with the British.
"We especially appeal to our former comrades in the Irish Republic to return to that allegiance and thus guard the nation's honor from the infamous stigma that her sons aided her foes in maintaining the hateful domination over her."

Richard Mulcahy, Dublin minister of defence, in a message to the Free State troops, says: "With all the strength and all the clearness with which we have denied and do deny the right of any Irishman to interfere in our national affairs—with all that strength and all that clearness do we deny the right of any Irishman or any section of Irishmen to bring disorder on our country or injury to any of our countrymen."
"In Dublin some of you find yourselves today ranged in fighting against some who have been your comrades. The immediate reason for this is the seizure, by them, of your assistant chief of staff, Lieut. Gen. O'Connell, as reprisal for the arrest of one of their number on charges of seizing motor material, the property of a Dublin trader.
"The fundamental reason is that they systematically challenge the rights and liberties in common of all of the people of Ireland, the security and maintenance of which has been the aim of your arms since 1918.
"Only in pursuance of a clear and stern duty could we hope to surmount the ties of comradeship and affection that bind us to these against whom we find ourselves ranged. No efforts have been spared in the endeavor to avoid such a conflict.
"Let us remember our comradeship and affection as true strength while we stand firmly by our duties today with a steadfastness not less than that of yesterday."

APPROVE ST. JOHN FOR INTERNATIONAL SKATING MEET

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Saranac Lake, N. Y., June 28—According to the present plans of the International Skating Union which were discussed at the recent Chicago meeting, St. John (N. B.) will receive the sanction for the international races this winter. The United States national events will undoubtedly be awarded to Chicago. The selections were approved by the majority of officials at Chicago and final decision on the awards will be made at the meeting of I. S. U. in Montreal in November.

Eastern United States and particularly the Adirondacks will not receive sanction for any big meets this winter, officials reported on their return from Chicago. This action, they said, follows the ice skating controversy between the east and west brought about by the mid-summer protest of Lake Placid officials against a decision given last winter.

RARE COINS FOUND IN FRENCH RUINS

Paris, June 29—The first discovery has been made of important buried treasure in France since the war. When spading the region of the devastated town of Hatton Chatel, which she is rebuilding, Miss Belle Skinner, of New York, turned up a pot containing 400 rare coins. Many of the coins in the pot dated before the discovery of America, most of them being from the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. Some of them bear the effigy of the Duke of Lorraine, who defended Northern France before the Swedish invasion in the fourteenth century.

All buried treasure belongs to the government, but Miss Skinner will be given ten per cent. of its value, which it is understood she will donate to the Metropolitan Museum. The discovery is the most valuable find of its kind recorded in France. A large number of parents and others were present at the closing exercises of the Consolidated School at Rothesay on Tuesday. The principal delivered an address and the teachers of the respective departments presented the certificates to the successful scholars. A programme was also presented.

FOUR-CYLINDER SEDAN

Particularly in a Closed Car

The Durant unit chassis construction shows its advantages, particularly in an enclosed car. The rigid frame, re-enforced by the Durant Tubular Backbone, relieves the body of those strains which cause loosening and squeaking in closed cars. The Durant Sedan has attractive appearance and appointments without high upkeep cost. It is built essentially for the convenience of the owner who drives and who prefers to take care of his own car. The independent mounting of its mechanical units, accessibility of vital parts, and Alemite lubrication make maintenance a simple matter.
