FIND DIBSDALE NOT GUILTY ON INSANITY PLEA

Middlesex Jury Returns Verdict After Seven Hours and a Half of Deliberation.

PRISONER COMMITTED

Will Remain in County Jail To Await Discretion of Lieutenant-Governor.

After deliberating on the evidence for seven hours and forty minutes, the jury selected to try Gordon Dibsdaile for his life on a charge of having murdered Christine Near, his 15-year-old sweetheart, returned a verdict of "Not guilty, on the grounds of insanity," at 12:50 o'clock Saturday morning.

Dibsdaile sat in the prisoner's box, apparently unmindful of the proceedings, but when William N. Mowat, the prosecutor, called the jury to the box, he leaned forward, then jerked himself back, and wept aloud, denying her the rope were of insanity. Judge Mowat said: "Gordon, the jury of your country, the evidence, found you not guilty, and you can now go into the arms of your loved ones."

Explains Verdict. In response to his Lordship, Mr. Mowat said: "The jury has found you not guilty, and you can now go into the arms of your loved ones."

"Your lordship, you do not understand the verdict," interrupted the foreman of the jury. "He is to be kept in close confinement in the asylum."

"But you have nothing to do with that," corrected the court. "May I speak to him a minute," asked Dibsdaile's father.

"O, leave him alone," said Judge Mowat. "You will be kept in close confinement as heretofore," said the judge addressing the prisoner. "To await the discretion of the Lieutenant-governor."

Dibsdaile made no effort to join his family when the opportunity to do so was afforded by the court. "Oh, you do not want to join them?" commented Judge Mowat. "Then sit down."

Long before eight o'clock Friday night the courtroom where Dibsdaile's trial had been proceeding since Wednesday noon was crowded with morbidly curious ones, who stood and sat in the aisles, anxious to obtain a glimpse of the prisoner, who was not brought up from his cell until five hours later.

Courtroom Filled. Some of the people present slept dozed while awaiting the verdict. Included in those who endured seven-hour vigil to hear the verdict were the parents and family of the prisoner and those of Christine Near, whose young life was snuffed out by Dibsdaile near her home on May 31 last.

As the jurors filed in to the courtroom to render their verdict they were anxious expressions indicative of mental torture in reaching a conclusion. Some wore a deathly pallor, with hair disheveled, while others were of more rosy complexion, heads of sweat standing out on their brows.

When the jury first filed out of the courtroom at 5:10 p.m. Friday, W. R. Meredith, counsel for accused, protested that the charge of Judge Mowat had omitted certain facts of the evidence including that pertaining to the appearance of the prisoner.

Found Not Guilty On Insanity Grounds

GORDON DIBSDALE.

At ten minutes to one this morning the jury of twelve men called to try Gordon Dibsdaile on a charge of murdering Christine Near returned a verdict of not guilty on insanity grounds. The jury were out seven hours and 40 minutes.

Judge Mowat recalled the jurors and instructed them on this point.

Recalls Jurors. Once again Mr. Meredith protested that the judge had not instructed them on the definition of right and wrong. His lordship acquiesced to this appeal, and once more brought the jurors back for instructions.

The verdict of the jury, which confines Dibsdaile to the Ontario criminal asylum at Hamilton possibly for the rest of his natural life, came as a bombshell in the crowded courtroom, and it was believed that the talesmen had disagreed and were returning for instructions from Mr. Justice Mowat.

During the reading of the verdict and subsequent remarks by the court, Gordon Dibsdaile did not alter the demeanor observed by him during the two days that he was on trial for his life. He wore the same clothes as on previous appearances in court, excepting that his apparel was augmented early Saturday morning by a brown sweater coat open at the neck.

Makes Eloquent Plea. In his address to the jury, W. R. Meredith, acting for the defence, declared that a human life was at stake, and admitted that Gordon Dibsdaile "killed Christine Near." His eloquent plea for a verdict of insanity occupied 70 minutes. "The whole result in this case must rest on a common sense basis," he began. "Here you have something that is most extraordinary. No doubt each one of you read of that case when it took place. You must have thought at that time, 'the man must be mad.'"

"A man may be a little peculiar on some subjects, but the law on insanity excludes crime is a very sensible one. We need not consider that at any great length, because doctors for the crown have told you today that if he had that disease he would not know that he was doing wrong."

"Now, what have we here in this boy? You need not worry yourself over his stunted mind, because no one suggests that is insanity, but Dr. English quite properly says that cases of that type are the very type in which dementia praecox is found."

"He was not a social being, not a normal young man. He was an addict to a habit which no one suggested was the cause of his present position. It is one of the symptoms of dementia praecox."

"The failure of his plan to marry was one of the most important causes of this trouble. You are entitled to say if the person who committed this act knew and realized the nature and consequences. I submit that this young man did not, and I have the authority of two such eminent physicians as Dr. English and Dr. Chre that if this young man had a confused state of mind at the time, he would not realize the nature and consequences of his act.

"I leave it to you. Look at the prisoner. You have just as much common sense as Dr. Clare and Dr. English. Do you think that man in the box is a sane man, paying attention to the particulars of the case? That man is as stupid as an owl."

"Dr. Clare says he is not feigning. Do you think that is just right or stupidity? Take him off to the gallows and hang him? That is for you to say. You have either got to hang him or send him to the asylum. There is no alternative."

Face Responsibility. "You have got to take the responsibility. That is your duty. If you say he has got to be hanged, he has got to be hanged. You must consider the family before you say this poor half-witted thing, he ought to be hanged anyway. That is your duty."

"These younger men have a better knowledge of scientific affairs than the older doctors. I submit that they are more competent to judge of a man's condition. I leave it to any medical man that you can find text book symptoms in any disease. You only get some of the copy book symptoms; otherwise, a man could go out and put his finger right on the disease."

"We have every indication that when he shot this girl he did have a confusion. We all know that when a lunatic is doing an act of this kind he will do it just as carefully as a sane man. The very act of the shooting speaks for itself. It was the act of an insane man."

"Do you know any grown-up men who go around kissing other men? Does it not show signs of degeneracy. This crying at the slightest provocation? Wouldn't it be a fearful thing if an insane man suffering from a disease through no fault of his own was taken to the gallows? Wouldn't it be a terrible responsibility?"

"His father was a weakling suffering from fits. The boy never had a chance. It is the fault of his family predisposition."

"They say that Dr. James Wilson is not an expert. He sees many insane men, and you can rely on this, Dr. Wilson is one of the most shrewd men in the city of London. He sees this man every day, and he tells you, in his opinion, that he is not malingering and that the man is insane."

"The only explanation the crown can offer is that the man is malingering; Dr. Wilson doesn't know what he is talking about, or he is not telling the truth. The only person who can say if this boy is to go to the gallows is you, yourself. The only fair way to deal with this case is to send the man to the asylum, because that's where he belongs."

"The law is clear enough without any more doctors, and you are the persons to apply it. The law leaves it entirely in your hands to say: Apply your own common sense, and having done so, I will be satisfied that the man did not know he was doing wrong."

"Remember this, his father, his mother and his brother have all testified, and I don't want you to suggest that they were not honest. It is not a case of revenge for this girl's death. Everyone with the slightest heart feels that this is one of the most terrible things that ever happened in London."

"This boy was born that way, and why kill this foolish, half-witted thing? Having found the symptoms of this disease, isn't it your duty to say the man is insane? It would be a calamity on human nature to say this man would wantonly kill the girl whom he loved."

"You are not sitting here as an automatic machine to turn out a verdict, but you are supposed to be human and to consult with each other. You are there for the prisoner's protection as well as to bring in a conviction."

"He is insane, and simple too. He is a simpleton," concluded Mr. Meredith. "I don't believe that you will take the view that this fellow knew what he was doing and say, 'We are going to hang him.' Insane men have been hanged. Don't you do it. If found guilty and hanged, his family and this girl's family will have to bear the disgrace for all time. I leave it with you."

Asks Fair Verdict. Summing up for the prosecution in 35 minutes, J.C. Elliott, K.C., crown attorney, reminded the jurors of their duty, no matter how unpleasant, and asked for a verdict without fear or favor.

"Bear with me for a few minutes until I point out to you a few of the salient features of the case," he said in his opening remarks. "The father and mother of the prisoner, and his sister and brother exhibit a fair amount of intelligence and physical health."

Mentioning the evidence introduced to show that Dibsdaile left school in the third book at fourteen years of age, the prosecutor declared that many men have risen to prominent positions in community life with even less education, and more backward tendencies in study."

"You heard the father and mother in the box, and I don't want to suggest that they told anything that they did not believe was correct," continued J. C. Elliott. "The father said, 'Christie, I don't blame you a bit for giving him up.'"

"I ask you from circumstances related by the witnesses, are you forced to the conclusion that something had arisen between deceased and the accused which decided her to terminate their relations? If so had that action of hers any relation to the crying which he was doing on Sunday and Monday?"

"Do you believe that this girl decided not to keep company with him any longer and told him so and that was the reason he felt the way he did?"

"Did you hear either of the witnesses called for the defense say that he did not know what he was doing on the fatal afternoon. You know how their evidence stopped as it approached that point. That's the vital point."

"You are not concerned whether he was an odd boy, or a bright boy. The whole question as I can see it is, did he appreciate the nature and consequences of his act? Every man has his peculiarities. Some of us have few, others have many. We all have some."

"Being only eleven years of age does not excuse a boy from committing an offence. If that is the case, does the evidence called by the defense help the unfortunate prisoner to escape the consequences of his act?"

"I am not going to dwell on the sentiment of the case. You know that the life taken was that of a healthy, young, virtuous girl. I agree with counsel that whatever punishment comes on the young man will fall on his good mother and father. That is the inevitable result of crime, that it falls more on others, but we must punish crime."

Stresses Jurors' Duty. "Was he of a mental calibre such as to excuse him from the consequences of that act? If he was not it is your duty to find him insane. But if he did know that it was wrong, it is your disagreeable yet solemn duty to say so, and I believe you will. Whom did he believe he was shooting? Why didn't he fire at someone else on the street? He must have passed many people. Do you suppose if she had shot him after the first shot that he would have fired again? He did not go on shooting after she fell."

"Why did he turn the gun on himself? Do you believe he did it not thinking that he had done something wrong? Or do you believe he acted as his own judge and jury right then and there?"

"I don't think it is necessary for anyone to direct you as to what your duty is. The question of punishment is not for you, gentlemen, you render the verdict. That is your unpleasant duty. I now leave with you the responsibility."

Judge Reviews Case. In his review of the case, Mr. Justice Mowat pointed out to the jury their duty in the trial of Gordon Dibsdaile.

"There being an admission of the killing by the defense, you can bring in a verdict against accused without leaving the box," the court charged the jurors. But the great question was, must that act go unpunished? Some jurors are timid and do not like to give a verdict which might bother them in after life. Others are filled with resentment and are prepared to convict on general principles. You must keep either of those thoughts from your mind. You must forget them."

"You must do your duty. All your strength of resolution must come into play in favoring your verdict. The evidence of the killing I will not refer to, because there is an admission of it."

"You must do your duty. All your strength of resolution must come into play in favoring your verdict. The evidence of the killing I will not refer to, because there is an admission of it."

"Before I go further I must say counsel has conducted the defense with signal ability, and I think Mr. Elliott, the crown prosecutor, has not strained any point to secure a conviction."

"You are not bound to take these expert opinions, because the fact that a person studies mental diseases does not make him master of the case. You are masters of the case, and they should only assist you to come to a conclusion. You are the persons to make the decision."

"This is a delicate case. The law does not say that an insane man cannot commit the crime of murder. Here's a man who shot a girl down as if she were a groundhog or a cat. An insane man cannot be allowed to do that if he has left the qualities of mind to appreciate the nature and quality of the act, and of knowing such act was wrong. I was disappointed here yesterday when a young practitioner, giving evidence, blurted out, 'I think he is insane' without being asked. That leaves too wide a range."

"Stick closely to what the law is, because that is your one and only duty. There is no one to judge between these two sets of experts but yourselves. You have the unfortunate position of two young physicians against two older men. How are you best going to come to a conclusion?"

"There is the suggestion that this man shot her down for some improper motive, but that is for you to say. At times you cannot help but bring in your own ideas to reach a conclusion, and you are justified in doing it."

"This young man's habits of self-abuse since 14 years of age are said to be compatible with his condition. You, as men of the world, may come to the conclusion that his continued self-abuse preceded his present condition. You are entitled to, and then it is not insanity at all, but another thing."

The defense experts were not asked the very question you are called upon to decide. This is a significant feature, which knocks out the defense by these expert witnesses when counsel evaded asking them if accused appreciated the nature and quality of his act."

Not Essential Points. The questions of mental sanity are pretty well mixed up. He shot the girl, so what does it matter about the motive? I don't think it is essential to the case now. As to what occurred at the house there to turn her against him is not important."

"If the parents of the prisoner thought that he was insane it is inconceivable that they would ask a girl to marry a boy who was crazy. That is apparently what they did. I am using 'crazy' in the ordinary sense of the word."

"If, as the result of your earnest consideration you are unable to find that this man is guilty, then it is your duty to give him the benefit of the doubt and find him not guilty. The British law is very tender with prisoners, but at the same time British law is stern and all are law-abiding."

"You have got to bring in a verdict of guilty or not guilty, but you must say the reason if you bring in a verdict of not guilty," concluded Judge Mowat after addressing his charge to the jury for one hour. "Bring in a verdict that is right and true."

GALT CHILD DIES FROM PARALYSIS

Dread Disease Contracted by 8-Year-Old Winnifred Duffield.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, Sept. 29.—Galt's first case of infantile paralysis proved fatal, Winnifred Duffield, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Duffield, 58 Stanley street, having passed away at noon today from the dreaded disease. Where she contracted it, no one knows. She had not attended school all week on account of her health, and on Wednesday while out in the garden, fell, and since then she had no use of the right leg. It was not until 10 o'clock this morning that a doctor was called in to see her, and then more medical men saw the patient before she died, and all were unanimous that she suffered from infantile paralysis.

Besides her parents, there is a brother surviving. Dr. Radford has placed the home under quarantine. The funeral, private, takes place on Saturday.

The Brennan Paving Company is rushing work on the Preston highway, with a view to completing it this fall. The grades of two hills on the road have been greatly reduced, and the improvement will be much appreciated by traffic.

Assessor Darwin of Heapelee has completed the roll for 1922, which shows the town's population to be 2,902, an increase of 49 over last year.

The Preston Board of Trade is still insisting that a local man should be police magistrate. At present John R. Blake of Galt, the magistrate, and while Attorney-General Raney has been asked to name a local man, so far he has not seen fit to reconsider his decision. B. W. Zieman is the prospective nominee for the office, the remuneration for which is $600.

Plans for the coming year's work of the L. C. W. Citizenship Committee were discussed at a meeting held last night at the home of Mrs. J. C. Middleton, library secretary, from Mr. Heinemann, a Finnish missionary at Copper Cliff, thanking the society for medical supplies sent during the summer, for which he was most grateful. A box of books suitable for his own personal use, to be used in religious work, is being gathered to be sent in the near future. The work being done in this district of Northern Ontario is chiefly among the Finns. Mr. Heinemann has sent a special appeal for an Encyclopedia Britannica, and it is hoped that the society will procure one from one of the members.

EXECUTIVE REPORTS SPLENDID PROGRESS

London Presbyterian W. M. S. Executive Discusses Work, Plans January Annual Meeting.

That five thousand dollars is the total amount sent to the provincial treasurer since the first of the year by the London Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society was announced at the meeting of the executive held Thursday.

A letter was read by Mrs. J. C. Middleton, library secretary, from Mr. Heinemann, a Finnish missionary at Copper Cliff, thanking the society for medical supplies sent during the summer, for which he was most grateful. A box of books suitable for his own personal use, to be used in religious work, is being gathered to be sent in the near future. The work being done in this district of Northern Ontario is chiefly among the Finns. Mr. Heinemann has sent a special appeal for an Encyclopedia Britannica, and it is hoped that the society will procure one from one of the members.

Reporting for the supply committee, Mrs. Ballantyne stated that the supplies were coming in and are being packed for shipping. These include clothing, shoes and hospital supplies. A grant of $100.00 was voted to be sent to Vegreville Hospital, also a number of records.

Plans were made for the annual meeting to be held the latter part of January, and Mrs. Paton of Glenora and Mrs. McIntosh, secretary of the young people's work, have been appointed co-conveners of the program committee for this meeting.

Three important meetings will be held soon at Thamesford, Belmont and Kintyre.

In future all social service work conducted by the societies will be linked up with the strangers' work.

NINA MOORE JAMIESON SPEAKS HERE WEDNESDAY

Popular Canadian Author Comes To Address Women's Canadian Club.

Mrs. Nina Moore Jamieson, a regular contributor to Canadian newspapers and author of one of the popular books of the past year, "The Hickory Stick," termed by critics "The Main Street of Canada," is coming to London to address the Women's Canadian Club on Wednesday afternoon next.

The delicious touch of humor which renders fascinating Mrs. Jamieson's sketches of experiences as a country housekeeper is so widely appreciated by London readers that the announcement of her engagement here is creating most pleasurable anticipation.

The Women's Canadian Club is again giving most sympathetic support this year to obtain the promise of the eminent Canadian man of letters, Dr. Archibald MacMechan of Dalhousie University to give a lecture under the club auspices one day during the week.

New Method Of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals, is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of these pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained at any drugstore the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4812 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a case, considering the number of tablets each case contains. They are harmless—Advt.

LIVES IN DETROIT.

Dear Miss Grey,—I enjoy your column, or rather columns, very much, but haven't had the courage to "break the ice" till today. Will be going back to Detroit either this Friday or Saturday, so won't be able to enjoy the sights here much longer. Of course, I'd write to anyone that didn't.

I'd love to correspond with someone about 15 years old, particularly if that someone is from the old country. Do you know anybody that answers that description? Of course, I'd write to anyone that didn't.

Is that your picture at the top of the column? I just wonder. I'm five feet four inches tall, have brown eyes, light brown hair and weigh 107 pounds with my clothes on. Am I underweight?

When I start back to school I'll be in the third year of high school. My birthday comes in the summer, so graduated from public school when I was 12 and went to public school seven years, counting my kindergarten year.

Is my penmanship all right? My teacher thinks I "put it on" by writing backhand, but it's natural. Hope the first attempt will meet all rules. I am, PERCIVAL ANGUS.

P. S.—I hope my name isn't misleading.

Ans.—It isn't such a terrible step to take, is it, Percival Angus, but anyone with such a penname might be a little timid in entering the Mail-Box. I am sure some of the younger boxes will be delighted to write to you, so I have placed your name on the list. Did you come from the old land? You have done very well at school. Are you going on to university when you get through high school? You write a very pretty hand. Your name is a little misleading, as you are one of the fair sex. That picture at the top is the way I look every time the Mail-Box comes in, sort of devoted.

A NOVEL PLAN.

Dear Miss Grey—Rap, rap, here we come. Please, Miss Grey, let us in just for a few minutes, then we will be away home to our green pastures. We are just going to tell you how we made a little mite for the poor sick children which we send you. We find one another, every time we left an article out of place or a door open, just one little copper, but we save it up.

Will you please tell us what days January 30, 1909; January 22, 1913, fell on? May we come again? We will sign ourselves, THE BLACK SHEEP.

Ans.—Certainly we will let you in. Three Black Sheep. How could we refuse you, especially when you bring such a large donation with you. The mite-box was delighted to think you were so careless, leaving things about. It fairly chuckled when I dropped the mites in.

January 30, 1909, fell on a Saturday, and January 22, 1913, on Wednesday. Won't you come again some time. Black Sheep?

ADVICE TO HANDY HANNA.

Seeing my letter in print, and also noticing the mistake I had made about the white thought I had better correct it.

I see where Lady Napoleon was asking for a ripe cucumber pickle recipe. We have a good one for large cucumbers and onions, and would gladly send it if she would care for it.

Handy Hanna, put your cat well under for six months twice a year, and I think your chicks will thrive. Did any of the Boxes ever read the book entitled "QUEECHIE"?

I wish you had sent in your recipe, Queechie, as some of the Boxes would have liked it too. Thank you for the mite this time, Queechie. Your advice re the cat was about the same as I advised Handy Hanna, so I guess

BYRON W. I.

The September meeting of Byron Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Mabel Sharp, Byron, with a very good attendance. Sewing for the children's hospital was distributed among the ladies, and plans were made to make quilts for the Byron Ward in the Sanatorium. A practical demonstration of home millinery was given by Miss Kate Merriam, and a talk on home dress-making by Mrs. L. Griffith. Both were much enjoyed. Mrs. Raywood Smith contributed a delightful solo. It was found necessary to change the date of the October meeting to Thursday, Oct. 19, this to be held in the home of Mrs. Robert McEwen.

LECTURING ON SOUTH AMERICA.

In connection with the annual thank offering meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of the Taibot Street Baptist Church, Rev. H. E. Stillwell of Toronto, secretary of the foreign mission board of the Baptist Association of Ontario and Quebec, will give a lecture Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock in the church. Mr. Stillwell, who was sent some time ago by the board to obtain first-hand information of Baptist mission work in South America, is telling the story, with the aid of lantern slides, of what he saw and heard on his trip from New York to South America, by way of Panama, and during his stay in Peru, Chili and Bolivia. The evening has been chosen for the lecture in order to afford all interested an opportunity of hearing Mr. Stillwell. The annual meeting of the mission circle, when reports will be received and officers elected, takes place Thursday, Oct. 5.

"BOUND TO WIN" CLUB.

Miss Vera Morrison was elected president of the "Bound to Win" Club of Askin Street Methodist Church, at the annual meeting of the club, held at the home of Miss Daisy Horwood, Ridout street south. The other officers elected were: secretary, Miss Mary Ashton, and treasurer, Miss Mary Shewer.

It was decided to continue the sewing for the Victoria Order of Nurses during the winter. The meetings and sewing circles have been well attended in the past, and great things are aimed at for the coming year. Plans for the winter months were made, and during supper, which was served later, practical suggestions were offered for the season's work. A vote of appreciation was given to the retiring officers.

Arthur Eves of Chatham Township lost his barn with the contents when a lantern exploded. His grain was destroyed and several pigs. The loss will be partially covered by insurance.

The golden anniversary of the North Dresden Baptist Church will be held next Sunday, when Rev. F. C. Burrell of Lexington will be the speaker for the day. Members of the Wallaceburg choir will assist with the music.

On Sunday, Oct. 8, the anniversary services of the Presbyterian Church here will be conducted by Rev. Norman Lindsay, B.A., of Dover Center, moderator of the London and Hamilton Synod, and a former pastor of the church.

One hundred and eight coils each with thirteen spirals make a bed so restful that sleep comes naturally and easily. Ordinary bed springs of the same size have only one hundred coils of seven spirals. Stiff end springs prevent swaying and sagging and the whole spring is entirely noiseless. DON'T THROW YOUR OLD CARPETS AWAY

Alias the Lone Wolf

"Ah, Michael, my Michael!" Liane cried. "It is so real to me, so true, so overwhelming, the greatest thing of all! How can it be otherwise to you? No, do not think I complain. But, oh, my dear, were I only able to make you understand, think what life could be to us, to you and me. You with your wit, your strength, your skill, your police—I with my great love to inspire and sustain you—what a pair we should make! Think, Michael, think!"

"Why, I think two things," said Lanyard. "First, that you deserve to be soundly kissed." He kissed her, but with discretion, and firmly put her from him. "Then—his tone put out a note of earnestness—"that if what you have said is true, it is a pity, and I am sorry, Liane, very sorry. And if it is not true, that the comedy was well played. Shall we let it rest at that, my dear?"

Half lifting her, he heaped her back into her chair, and as she turned her face away, struggling for mastery of her emotion, true or feigned, he sat back, found a cigarette case, and clipping a cigarette between his lips, cast about for a match.

As he struck the light he heard a sudden, soft swish of draperies as the woman rose.

Moving toward the saloon companionway, she passed him swiftly, without a word, her head bended, a hand pressing a handkerchief to her lips. Forgetful, he followed her swaying figure with puzzled gaze till admonished by the flame that crept toward his finger tips. He put it to his cigarette. At the second puff he heard a choking gasp and looked up again.

The woman stood alone, en silhouette against the glow of the companionway. Her arm thrust out as if to ward off some threatened danger. A second cry broke from her lips, shrill with terror, she tottered and fell, as dropping his cigarette, Lanyard ran to her.

His vision dazzled by the flame of the match, he sought in vain for any cause for her apparent fright. For all he could see, the deck was as empty as he had presumed it to be all through their conversation.

"Popinot!" she cried as Lanyard hastily took the glass away. "Popinot—he was there—I saw him—standing there!"

A trembling arm indicated the starboard deck just forward of the companion housing. But, of course, when Lanyard looked, there was no one there—if there had ever been.

"Impossible!" Phinuit commented, when told of the Apache's appearance. "Nonsense!" Monk added, speaking directly to Liane.

She had recovered much of her composure, enough to enable her to shrug her disdain of such stupidity.

"I tell you only what my two eyes saw. And I tell you, while that assassin is at liberty aboard this yacht, not one of our lives is worth a sou—no, not one!"

"Oh, we shall search," Monk gave in as one who indulges a childish whim. "But I can tell you now what we'll find—or won't."

"Then heaven help us all!" Liane went swiftly to the door of her room, but there hesitated, looking back in appeal to Lanyard. "I am afraid—"

"Let me have a look-around first."

Molded Salmon With Peas

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

1 pound salmon, freed from skin and bones
1 1/2 cups thin cream or top milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs. Slight grating of nutmeg

PUT salmon, after removing skin and bones, through the meat chopper. To this add seasonings, eggs slightly beaten and cream. Turn into a buttered mold, set mold in a pan of water and bake until firm, about 20 minutes. Remove from mold and serve with one cup cream sauce to which has been added one cup cooked peas.

If this is baked in a border mold it is pretty to serve the peas in center and sauce around the fish.

JACK WAS WITHIN SIGHT OF THE OLD MILL, SO HE THOUGHT HE HAD TRAVELLED FAR ENOUGH FOR ONE DAY. THEN HE LED THE HORSE TO A STRONG ARBOR AND THE HORSE AND DOG DRANK THIRSTILY.

JACK WAS VERY TIRED FROM THE LONG RIDE UP AND DOWN THE MOUNTAIN, SO HE LOOKED ABOUT FOR A GOOD PLACE TO SPEND THE NIGHT. THE BOY ADVENTURER GENERALLY WENT TO BED AT SUNSET.

AT LAST HE FOUND A SOFT MOSSY SPOT NEAR A TREE. AND LAYED DOWN. IT WAS NOT LONG BEFORE JACK WAS IN A SOUND SLEEP. HE SLEPT WELL.

A LOW SIGHING MOAN AWOKED JACK. AND HE SET UP THE OLD MILL WAS ABLAZE WITH LIGHTS. "I WONDER WHO IS THERE," SAID THE BOY TO HIMSELF. "I THINK I'LL GO UP." CONTINUED IN NEXT CHAPTER.

And twatching at the corners of his lips, Lanyard leaned back and studied the deck beams. Liane Delorme sat up with a movement of sharp uneasiness. "Of what, my friend, are you thinking?"

"I am marveling at something everybody knows—that history does repeat itself."

The woman made a sudden hissing sound of breath drawn shortly between closed teeth. "I hope not," she sighed. "You see, my friend, I think I know what is in your mind—memories of old times."

"True, I am thinking of those days when the Pack hunted the Lone Wolf in Paris, and made him much the same offer as you have made tonight. The Pack, you should know, messieurs, was the name assumed by an association of relaxed and his hand fell back upon the bedding.

"It's me—Mussey?" Lanyard echoed wittily. "Mussey?"

"I had to have a bit of a talk with you without anybody catching on."

"Well," Lanyard said, "I'm damned!"

"That's an unusual name, Michael Lanyard," cautiously replied its proprietor. "How did you get hold of it?"

"They say it's the right name of the Lone Wolf. Guess I don't have to tell you who the Lone Wolf is."

"They say? Who, please, are they?"

"Oh, there's a lot of talk going around the ship. You know how it is: a crew will gossip. And God knows they've got enough excuse this cruise."

This was constructively evasive. Lanyard wondered who had betrayed him. (Continued in Our Next Issue.)

"THEY are such, monsieur," Monk said with that deliberation which becomes a diplomatic personage—"your talents are such that you can, if you will, become invaluable to us."

"Never sail a straight course, can you, skipper, when you can get there by tactics?" Let me act as interpreter. Mr. Lanyard, this giddy association of malefactors here present has the honor to invite you to become a full-fledged working member and stockholder of equal interest with the rest of us, participating in all benefits of the organization, including police protection. And as added inducement we're willing to waive initiation fee and dues. Do I make myself clear?"

Lanyard lifted his meditative gaze to the face of Phinuit.

"I find something lacking. You have shown me but one side of the coin. What is the reverse? You have forgotten to name the penalty which would attach to a possible refusal."

"I guess it's safe to leave that to your imagination."

"There would be a penalty, however?"

"Well, naturally, if you're not with us you're against us. And to take that stand would oblige us, as a simple matter of self-preservation, to defend ourselves with every means at our command."

"Means which," Lanyard murmured, "you prefer not to name."

"Well, one doesn't like to be crude. I have my answer, monsieur—and many thanks. The parallel is complete."

With a dim smile playing in his eyes

Parisian criminals, ambitious like you, who had grown envious of the Lone Wolf's success, and wished to persuade him to run with them.

"And what happened?" Phinuit inquired.

"As memory serves, I told them they could all go plumb to hell!"

"Well," Phinuit hazarded with a good show of confidence, "I guess you won't tell us to go plumb to hell, will you?"

"No, I promise to be more original than that. You shall have your answer by the time we make our landfall—perhaps before."

Lanyard went to bed the last night of the cruise, leaving a noisy gathering in the saloon, and read himself drowsy. Then turning out his light, he slept. Some time later he found himself instantaneously awake and alert, with a clear head and every faculty on the qui vive.

He felt a presence, and knew it waited, stifled, within arm's length of his head. Without much concern he thought of Popinot, that "phantom Popinot" of Monk's derisive naming.

Well, if the vision Liane had seen on deck had taken material form here in his stateroom, Lanyard presumed it meant another fight, and the last, to a finish—that is to say, to a death.

He heard a whisper, or rather a mutter, a voice he could not place in its present pitch.

"Awake, Monsieur Delorme!" it said. "Hush! Don't make a row, and never mind the light."

His astonishment was so overpowering that instinctively his tensed muscles relaxed and his hand fell back upon the bedding.

"It's me—Mussey?" Lanyard echoed wittily. "Mussey?"

"I had to have a bit of a talk with you without anybody catching on."

"Well," Lanyard said, "I'm damned!"

"That's an unusual name, Michael Lanyard," cautiously replied its proprietor. "How did you get hold of it?"

WALLACEBURG

Special to London Advertiser.

WALLACEBURG, Sept. 29.—About 50 guests were entertained by the ladies of the Eastern Star in the Foresters' Hall, when a most enjoyable time was spent playing euchre, after which a dainty lunch was served.

The lady's prize was won by Miss Hickson, and the gent's prize by Garnet Bramer, and the consolation prize by Mrs. Shaw.

Arthur Billiet, proprietor of the Montreal Hotel, has just returned from a visit to Belgium. He states that everything looks very flourishing over there now, and very little can be seen of the devastation caused by the war. The city of Ypres is being rebuilt and the work is nearing completion, and promises to make it one of the finest cities in Europe.

Reginald Sherwood, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sherwood, who was so seriously hurt on Labor Day by a race horse, has recovered consciousness, and will be brought home from the Chatham Hospital today. Other than being very weak, the little fellow seems to be none the worse for his serious accident.

A. St. Clair Gordon, manager of the Wallaceburg Cut-Glass Works, is in the General Hospital at Chatham, where he was operated upon. He is progressing favorably.

John McDonald had an exciting experience at the glass works while driving a wagon, upon which there was a high, heavy machine. Without any notice the machine crashed through the wagon and the startled horses sprang forward, taking with them the front part of the wagon and McDonald, and got clear just as the machine toppled forward, missing McDonald by a hair-breadth.

Radio Radiations

ONE orchestra may yet supply music to the whole nation.

This is the prediction of Joseph O'Brien, president of the Dancing Masters Association. It follows installation of a radio receiving set in the ballroom of the Hotel Commodore, New York, for the reception of dancing music from a central broadcasting station.

The installation at the Commodore includes a loud speaking telephone outfit with the receiver. Projectors have been placed at various points in the ballroom and connected to the set.

The equipment is similar, on a smaller scale, to that used at Madison Square Garden in America where 18,000 people in and about the building were able to take part in the service.

Establishment of a central broadcasting system for dance music, O'Brien believes, would bring the world's best orchestra into every ballroom in the country.

If such a station is established," he says, "it could readily afford the best orchestra in the world. Yet the cost to each subscribing academy would be less than its present payroll."

"First-class music for dancing is essential if we are to please our patrons, and this kind of music costs us real money. It is an obvious waste for a hundred academies to employ a hundred orchestras if they can connect by radio with a central station which transmits dance music."

BETTER RADIO FOR SUBS. Submarines will soon be equipped with the latest improvements in radio. These improvements are such, say naval engineers, that they will be capable of sending messages up to a radius of 300 miles in the day, time and much farther at night. This is three times the distance spanned by the radio sets now installed in the submarines.

New radio sets recently issued have been formed from old apparatus along a design set up after careful experimentation by the naval radio experts. It will mean a saving of nearly $300,000 in the cost of the sets.

Although detailed specifications of these new radio sets are withheld, it is learned that they are of the latest type of vacuum tube apparatus. Their efficiency, it is said, will vie with those of the German submarines, which succeeded in sending messages at night as far as 800 or 1,000 miles to their bases.

The new apparatus on submarines will be able to receive long-wave signals while the craft is submerged to a depth of about twenty feet.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT. CHAPTER III. Hohenlohe.

AGAIN I was confronted with the difficult task of choosing a chancellor. His position and activities were to be under somewhat about the same auspices and subject to the same conditions as in the case of his predecessor. But now there was more of a desire that he should be a statesman, an older man, of course, qualified to inspire Prince Bismarck with more confidence than a mere general could do.

It was assumed that a statesman would know better how to walk in the footsteps of the prince, politically speaking, and provide Bismarck with less opportunity for criticism and attacks. These latter had tended to create gradually among all government officials, who dated mostly from the period of Bismarck, an unmistakable nervousness and dissatisfaction, by which the work of the entire government system was impaired to an extent which was inconsiderable. Moreover, it lent to the opposition in the Reichstag a constantly renewed strength drawn from elements previously faithful to the government, and made itself felt in a detrimental manner. Especially in the foreign office, the spirit of Hohenlohe, the supposed representative of the "old, tried Bismarckian traditions," began to assert itself, so that the unwillingness to collaborate with the emperor became particularly strong and the belief grew up that it was necessary to carry on, independently, the policy of Bismarck.

After mature deliberation, I decided to intrust the post of chancellor to Prince Hohenlohe, who was then governor of Alsace-Lorraine. At the outbreak of the war of 1870 he had succeeded, as Bavarian minister, in getting Bavaria to enter the war on the side of Prussia. Ever since he had been highly esteemed by Prince Bismarck on account of his fidelity to the emperor, and it was natural to expect that Bismarck's opposition would cool off when confronted with such a successor. Thus, the choice of Hohenlohe as chancellor was strongly influenced by consideration for Prince Bismarck and for the public opinion inspired by him.

Prince Hohenlohe was the typical old-style grand seigneur. He was thoroughly urbane by nature and in his dealings with others; a man of refined mind, with a slight touch of playful irony sometimes glinting through, keen on account of his years, a level-headed observer and judge of men. Despite the great difference in age between him and me he got along very well with me, which was shown on the surface by the fact that he was treated both by the emperor and myself as our uncle, and addressed as such, which brought about a certain atmosphere of intimate confidence in our intercourse. In his talks with me, especially in his opinion as to appointments of officials, he offered very characteristic descriptions of the gentlemen being discussed, often combined with philosophical observations which proved that he had reflected deeply on the nature of humanity and which were evidence of a maturity and wisdom grounded on experience.

Something happened during the first period of Hohenlohe's regime as chancellor which throws an interesting light upon the relations between France and Russia. Having, at the time of the fraternization between Russia and France received reliable information from the general staff as well as from our embassy at Paris to the effect that France contemplated withdrawing a portion of her troops from Algeria, in order to shift them to Southern France either against Italy or against Alsace, I apprised Czar Nicholas II. of this news, adding the remark that I should advise the emperor to take measures to oblige to adopt counter-measures unless the czar could dissuade his ally from so provocative a step.

Some Diplomatic Fencing.
At that time the Russian minister of foreign affairs was Prince Lobanoff, formerly ambassador at Vienna, well known for his pro-French proclivities. During the summer of 1895 he had visited France and been very cordially entertained. During the autumn, just as I was starting for the hunting at Hohenstock on the Scherndorf, near Eberswalde, Prince Lobanoff, on his return journey from Paris, requested to be received in audience, at the behest of the czar. Upon being received by me he described the calm and sensible frame of mind which he had found in Paris and sought to quiet me too with regard to the above-mentioned troop

STILLMAN TO RENEW FIGHT FOR DIVORCE

Millionaire N. Y. Banker Loses Suit Brought Against Wife.

HUSBAND FOUND GUILTY Counter-Charges of Mrs. Anne V. Stillman Are Sustained.

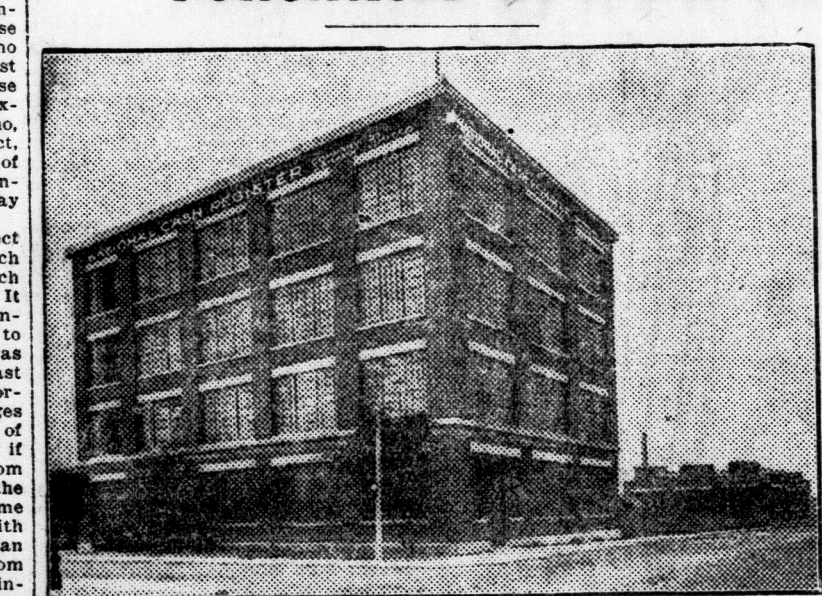

CARMEI, N. Y., Sept. 29.—James A. Stillman, multi-millionaire banker of New York, today lost his fight to divorce Mrs. Anne V. Stillman, and was himself found guilty of the charges she had made against his wife—the parentage of an illegitimate child.

Mr. Stillman, it was indicated tonight, has not given up the fight. His lawyers would not say whether they would appeal from the findings of the referee, should these be upheld by a supreme court of justice, but they were reported to have made a move which seemingly makes clear that they have not conceded defeat. It was announced by John E. Mack, guardian ad litem for Guy Stillman, that he would ask Justice Morschauser to confirm Referee Gleason's findings at Poughkeepsie a week from tomorrow. As soon as this announcement was given out, it was learned that the plaintiff will seek to have the matter placed before Supreme Justice Tompkins instead of Justice Morschauser on the same date.

The report of the case, filed here this morning by Daniel J. Gleason, the referee, gave to Mrs. Stillman a complete victory in her defence of her own honor and the good name of Guy, her 3-year-old son. She was also victorious in the counter-attack she waged against Mr. Stillman. The referee upheld her accusation that the banker had lived with a former Broadway show girl, Florence H. Leeds, in the manner of husband and wife, and that he had acknowledged himself the father of two children born to Mrs. Leeds.

Heavy Fog Stalls Sixty Freighters in St. Clair River At Port Lambton

Special to London Advertiser.

PORT LAMBTON, Sept. 29.—An unusual sight was witnessed by the citizens of Port Lambton about 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning, as the heavy fog which had settled over the St. Clair River during the night was clearing away. About 60 large lake freighters were observed directly in front of the village, having been held up by the heavy fog, heaving anchors and rounding to, amid heavy blasts of whistles, which attracted the citizens to the river front. The camera man was also on the scene, taking a view of the situation.

LARGES REGULAR TEST OF BRAKES

Expert Appeals to Service Men to Ally Themselves With Safety First Move.

Gives Hints On Best Way To Keep Mechanism in Order.

Good service is that which results in as nearly complete satisfaction to the owner as is possible—and it will bring its reward in the long run. Little disputes may arise over what the owner imagines excessive charges or something of the kind, but after he has patronized the other fellow, of whom he has heard, he is apt to go back to the original good service place and then stick.

Service men easily may ally themselves with the safety-first movement and, perhaps, be the means of preventing many bad accidents, if not material damage, by making it a practice to suggest to the car owner the advisability of regular and frequent examination of both sets of brakes on his car. If it happens to be a garage, the opportunity of brake inspection comes more readily, and in all events the suggestion is only necessary to obtain an order to have the work performed.

Poorly-acting brakes have been responsible for more accidents, more property damage and more disaster than any one thing connected with the motor car or with driving it, and any reasonable amount of money spent on the brakes will earn the biggest kind of dividend in a short and, generally, unexpected time.

It must be remembered that either service or emergency brake should perform its functions thoroughly—one quite as well as the other, so that if one does happen to fail the other can be used. It is not enough to have one working and the other failing, because the owner never knows when something will happen to make one inoperative.

Test Easily Made.

It will require perhaps ten to fifteen minutes to go out on a side street and test the brakes. Roughly, each brake should prove its ability to stop the car correctly under the following figures:

Remember, each brake should be capable of upholding these figures and not merely be somewhere near them. It will require two persons to make the test satisfactorily, one to drive and apply the brakes, the other to watch the speedometer and give the signals when to apply brakes and note where the car is brought to a complete stop.

A well-defined chalk mark on the pavement should be made for the starting place. The driver will approach this at a predetermined speed, say, twenty miles per hour, the usual driving speed. Just as the car reaches the mark the observer drops his hand as a signal to the driver, and the latter immediately decelerates and applies the brake. The distance the car travels is, of course, easily measured.

Brake Linings.
Brakes cannot be adjusted properly unless the lining material is kept in good condition, and it is not in that state if allowed to become hard and glossy. Whenever you hear screeching brakes make up your mind those brakes need attention and unless they have it an accident may be the result.

Once in two months the rear wheels ought to be removed entirely, so the brake bands may be washed off thoroughly with kerosene to remove accumulated oil and grit. It is best to jack up the rear axle and have both wheels off at once. Then, while the hands of one are being given their first application of kerosene, those on the other side are soaking and the kerosene is eating into and softening the grease. At the same time the pores of the lining material are being opened and the fibre of the material is swelling.

A few moments after the kerosene has pretty well disappeared, apply ordinary lubricating oil, see that it is thoroughly smeared all over, and is permitted to remain until the material absorbs it. This process, as a matter of fact, should be performed at night, when the car is not to be used, for then the oil will have had a chance to get well into the fabric and thereby will keep it from absorbing water and grit. At the same time, it will keep the material expanded that much longer.

After the surplus oil, if any, has been wiped off, and the wheels replaced, the owner will be astonished at the way the brakes will take hold, and what slight pressure of the foot is needed to make them perform.

Oil Once a Week.
An application of oil once a week will keep the brakes in condition, and this is only a moment's work. It will not be necessary to remove the wheels or to have anybody help. It calls for putting plenty of ordinary lubricating oil on the service brake bands, starting the engine, running the car back and forth in the garage or on the street, and keeping the service brakes gently set, so the oil will be carried by the brake drum to all parts of the band.

Moving back and forth only a few feet is as good as going a block, and the slowest speed possible is necessary, for it must be remembered that the brakes will not yet

Car's Appearance Depends On Owner's Care.

THE finish and appearance of your motor car depend on the care you take of it.

Lack of luster, cracks, rust spots may result from old age or poor workmanship on the automobile. But, in many cases, they are due to neglect on the part of the owner.

Dried mud spots, excess of water, strong soap, exposure to all sorts of weather are some of the causes for a poorly looking car.

The luster is the first to go. Then come cracks in the varnish. The cracks deepen into the paint and down to the metal or wood. That makes it easier for water to seep in under the paint and cause rust spots to form.

The Remedy.

By that time the only remedy is an entirely new coat of paint and varnish, not merely by dabbing the new paint on the old, but by scraping off everything down to the body before the new covering is put on.

Which entails quite an expense. And a long wait while the car is laid up.

An easy way to obviate this is to correct the wrong at the start. When the luster shows signs of dulling.

Then a new coat of finishing varnish is all that would be needed to make the car look like new.

If cracks begin to develop in the outer coat they should be caught immediately. If only in the varnish the cracks do little harm and a little sandpapering, with a new coat of varnish, would correct that.

Rust Blisters.

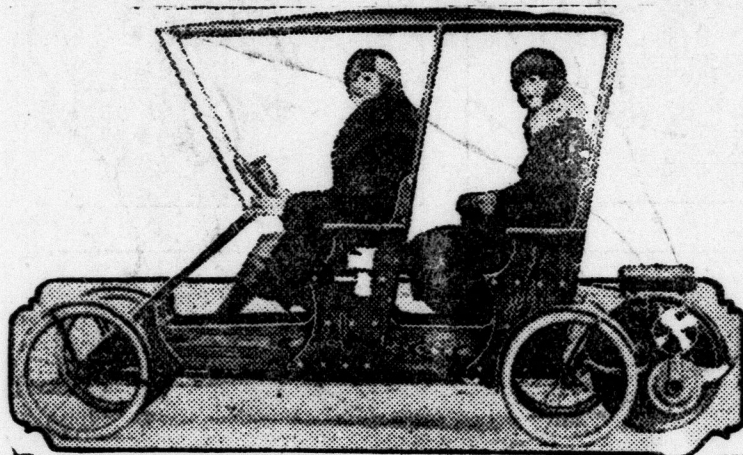

But if allowed to spread and go deeper into the paint the only remedy is entire removal of the paint and repainting. Mere filling and painting to cover the cracks will not do. The cracks would still be there, and continue to develop in the undercoating. Result—room for water to seep in and cause rust blisters.

The only effective remedy for rust blisters and deep cracks is entire removal of the old paint and application of a new paint and varnish job.

The only effective preventive is care on the part of the owner. Washing should be done carefully and often. This is especially urgent during warm weather when the varnish is apt to lose its luster. Polishing should not be attempted, for polish rubs off the varnish.

hold, and an accident might result. In the morning the surplus oil may be wiped off and the car taken out with absolute knowledge that the brakes will work perfectly if they are kept in adjustment. Of course, once a week treatment, for the emergency brake is inside the drum, gets oil frequently from the axle housing, and anyhow is protected to some extent.

Build Your Own Automobile

This "automobile" will soon appear on streets of American summer resorts. It will cost $325. But any motorist with a mechanical trend can build this at much less cost. All he needs is lumber, four bicycle wheels, some discarded Ford parts and the motor wheel which drives the whole contraption. The car is credited with running 80 miles on a gallon of gasoline and a half pint of oil.

You are entitled to a real battery — one that gives uninterrupted service and lasts a long time. You will find the Exide even more than a comfort, for its long life makes it a real economy.

GEAR INDICATOR.

To eliminate noisy gear changing an indicator can be bought for attachment on the dash by which the driver can tell just when to switch from one speed to another. The indicator is graduated to revolutions per minute and miles per hour. Three marked pointers represent the three gear ratios. To change gears the driver watches the dials until the long pointer coincides with the pointer of the gear he wishes to use. Then he makes the change.

EN-AR-CO GEAR COMPOUND
For Transmission and Differential.

YOUR motor will run better and last longer if the lubricating oil is taken out every five hundred miles and fresh oil put in Motor manufacturers recommend it.

When a low grade of gasoline is used—one that is not volatile and pure—it does not respond to the spark quickly enough. The stroke of the piston is over before it all ignites. This unconsumed gas line is then thrown off through the exhaust—and most of it often slips down past the piston rings into the crank case, diluting and making the motor oil lifeless. A certain amount of dust is also drawn into the crank case, as well as tiny particles of metal that may chip off from various parts of the motor. This causes wear and carbon formation so that fresh oil at regular intervals, is essential.

Carbon is mostly formed by the oil that seeps past piston rings upward, depositing on the piston rings, cylinder head and plugs where the intense heat from the sparks bakes it hard.

To overcome an excess amount of oil seeping upward, an oil of great adhesiveness and heat resisting qualities must be used.

En-ar-co Motor Oil has the "body" to hold up and withstand the greatest heat any motor will develop, retaining at all temperatures its cushioning properties, which is essential to prevent friction and insure a smooth running motor. En-ar-co Motor Oil has greatest adhesive qualities. It forms a seal around the pistons which tends to prevent excess oil accumulating and forming carbon on cylinder head and plugs.

We say to you that if you use En-ar-co Motor Oil you have the remedy that will insure a smooth running motor. You will get more and greater power. You will have no unnecessary motor repair bills. You will operate your car more economically.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept.

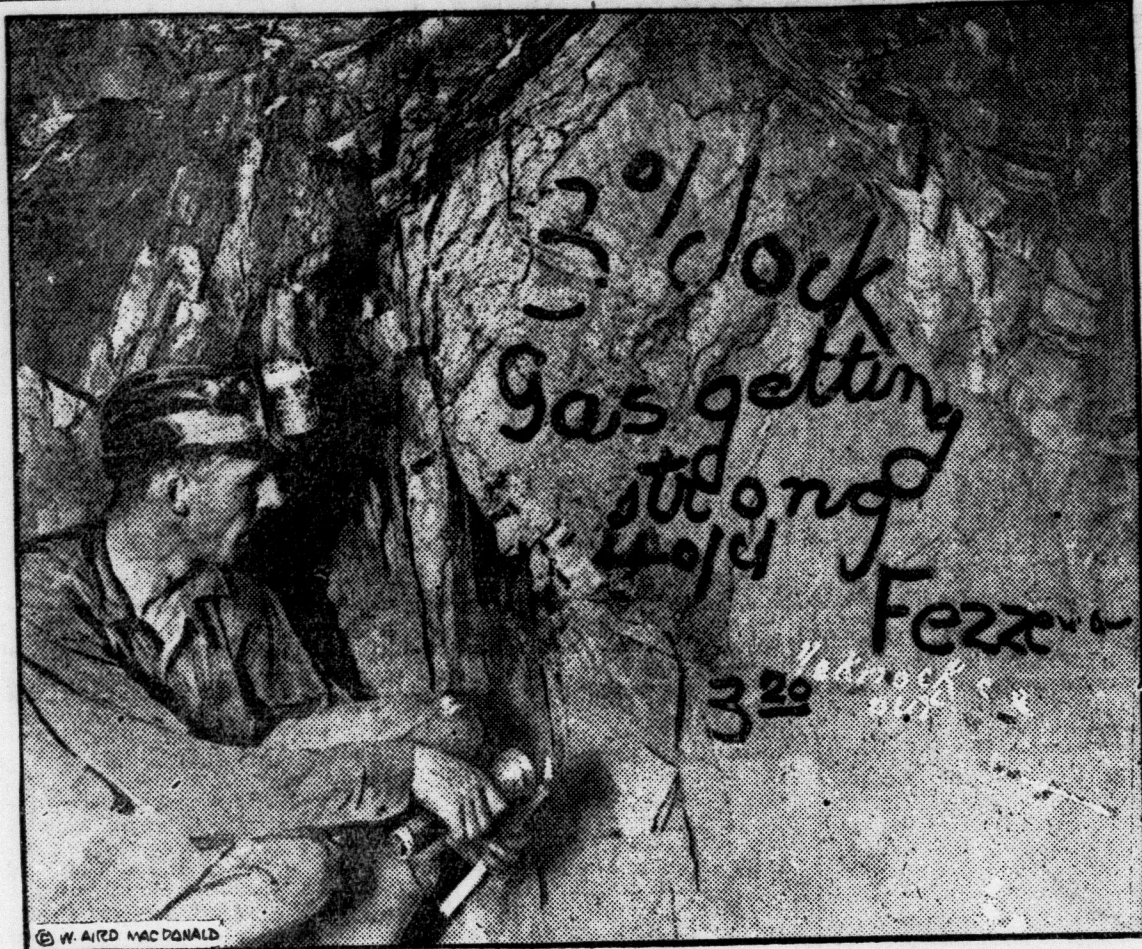

9.—A formidable fighting force of floating fortresses and powerful bombing aircraft, together with a greater destructive power than the British grand fleet at Scapa Flow, now guards the greatest international waterway of the Near East from the Narrows to the Black Sea.

Britain's gigantic armada in these waters is led by the two 44,000-ton super-dreadnoughts Revenge and Resolution. Then come the three veritable giants of naval prowess, the battleships Centurion, King George and Iron Duke. Some of these super-warcraft possess ponderous 16-inch guns, having a range of 20 miles. The remainder of the British naval fighting force consists of a number of the modern cruisers, destroyers and the airplane carriers, Pegasus and Argus.

The British are confident that this line of fighting ships will easily prove a stone-wall barrier to the Kemalists should the latter attempt to cross the Straits. It is also thought that they will be a sufficient protection for the troops entrenched at Chanak and other points.

Constantinople, too, will have air battles in the event of war. The British airplanes will fly over Stam-

Opposing them the Kemalists will have aircraft of various types to the number of 60. The British, however, are confident that in the air the Kemalists are no match for them. They point to the fact that the Turkish Nationalist army does not possess anything approaching the 20 super-planes which arrived today on the aircraft carrier Argus.

"LISTEN TO ME" AT GRAND PROVES HIT

Charming Musical Comedy
Captivates Crowded Audience With Beauty and Melody.

"Listen to Me," the musical comedy presented at the Grand Theatre Friday night, carried with it an atmosphere of prettiness, daintiness, cleverness and utterly charming vivaciousness.

There rippled throughout a vein of spontaneous gaiety while thrilled the audience into happy smiles, and it must have been that the house, so important a factor in the success of a play, sensed that something good was coming, for it was filled to capacity.

"Listen to Me" had not pinned its faith entirely on its six clever principals, its pretty chorus girls and its exceptionally lovely costuming, stage setting and lighting effects.

An airy wisp of plot floating around an exceedingly handsome man in search of his affinity was able to give a very good account of itself, and brought about in logical sequence scenes which had all the fantastic beauty usually associated with most romantic fairy tales.

Snowball Dreams.

Snowball, "the touch of color" and in everyday life, the jack-of-all-trades around a theatre, sampled "hooch" of too old a vintage, and in his dreams six actors began to get somewhat weirdly mixed up and to find themselves in somewhat strange environment. Through it all, however, the handsome man continued to pursue his elusive and changeable affinity.

Ross Robertson, as Robert White, the leading man, as well as the handsome man, is not only very handsome, but sings his love-songs in a throaty, husky and pleasant voice, through his roles of J. Lucifer Devil, Jack Frost, the Jack O' Diamonds, with the return in the last act to his real self, that of leading man.

Betty Dawn Martin, who proved at last to be the long sought affinity, makes first a seductive Theda Bareback, who ensnares J. Lucifer Devil, a Queen of Hearts, who almost captivates the Jack O' Diamonds, Aurora Borealis, who nearly melts the heart of cold Jack Frost, and finally, the lovely prima donna, Adele White, who wins the love of the leading man.

Barbara Bronel is a clever and airy little dancer. Her best opportunity came in the chance to exhibit some soft shoe dancing, although throughout her dancing is grace itself, and in a dance, "The Spirit of Winter," with a gorgeous dress of white plumes, Miss Bronel was completely captivating. The honors for clever acting among the feminine leads, however, went to Bessie Delmor as the comedienne. She provided humor throughout and although not billed as a dancer, proved that she could on occasion be quite gay and sprightly.

Billy Murphy as Mr. Slat, the comedian, and Joe McGee as Snowball, had a just claim to the title of funniest, and appeared always at the identical moment when a laugh would be most appreciated. In addition they danced well and sang well, having plenty of opportunity to show their ability along both lines.

Chester M. Gates was an able partner to Miss Bronel's dancing.

Chorus Pleases.

As for the chorus, one could go farther and find none better. They were all pretty, all lithe and graceful, and wore the most charming of costumes, with one especially striking outfit, made entirely of crepe paper.

The lighting effects showed the skill of an artist and added extensively to the beauty of the entire presentation. There was consummate cleverness shown in one scene, which depicted the North Pole with the lights of the Aurora Borealis, sparkling in the background.

"Listen to Me" is presented at the Grand Theatre again Saturday matinee and evening, and will easily bear comparison with any musical comedy shown here for a long, long time.

NINTH GEORGIA LYNCHING
IN 60 DAYS PERPETRATED

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 29.—When a mob took James Johnson, colored, from the custody of officers and hanged him yesterday it was Georgia's ninth lynching in 60 days. The negro, who was suspected of an attack upon a white woman, had planned to plead not guilty, and his attorneys claim he could have established an alibi.

Leaders of the mob extorted an alleged confession from him by promising him that he would "get off light."

BY STAFF REPORTER.

ILDERTON, Ont., Sept. 29.—The weather man looked into the future and planned an ideal day for the fair held here Friday, and it is estimated that between 3,000 and 3,500 were in attendance to view the various exhibits and to join forces in having a real good time together.

From the beginning the fair was a success in every way, and the fair board is to be complimented on the way the crowds were handled, and for the afternoon's program which furnished entertainment for everyone.

All the different classes of exhibits were very good and proved attractive to the people witnessing them. The cattle exhibit was especially, was the best of all previous years. The poultry exhibit was also better than that of previous years, and many fine birds were evidenced.

The exhibition hall was filled to capacity with the various exhibits, including the ladies' work, dairy products, fruits and various farm products, and it is agreed that an annex will be necessary to accommodate the exhibitors of future years.

A novel exhibit was that of two radio concerns. The sets were put in working order and messages were received from distant places. This exhibit drew the attention of many who never had the opportunity of listening in.

London Advertiser Fall Fashion Show At Grand Next Week

Big Scene From Musical Comedy "Listen To Me"

ONE of the finest shows of the season is that which is being presented at the Grand Theatre, today, matinee and evening. "Listen To Me" is a musical comedy.

I. O. D. E. Maidens Act As Models In Aid of Children's Hospital

Splendid Program of Vaudeville, and Motion Pictures Will Be Also a Feature of Grand Bill Next Week.

Of surpassing beauty and elaborateness, the Fashion Show of Fall and Winter Styles, which is being held at the Grand Theatre all next week under the co-operative management of The London Advertiser and the Harlett A. Boomer Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, will undoubtedly be the finest exhibit of its nature ever presented to London audiences.

Dressmaking has become one of the finest arts of the modern age. The greatest artists of the day have combined to produce the beauty of line and color to be found in the present modes. And at no time have London people had an opportunity of viewing modes of equal beauty at such advantage as that presented by The London Advertiser's Fashion Show.

Beauty of material is one of the striking features of the gowns which are to be worn by the ten lovely models, who, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire, are to appear in the gowns.

Crepes of deliciously soft and graceful material will feature most of the dresses, although there are models which will display heavier weaves for street wear. Cloths of velvet finish with deep rich pile form most of the evening wraps, with fur of the finest sort used as trimming. The gowns and wraps are all from the shops of London merchants, as well as the shoes, hats, jewelry, furs and hose to complete the toilettes.

The stage settings are being provided by London retail furniture shops, the effect being further enhanced by flowers, pictures and ornaments, all of which are to be found in the shops of London.

The entire effect will be one of extraordinary loveliness and artistry. The models are all well-known members of London society, and appearing as they do, in the most beautiful apparel that London shops have to offer, it should occasion no surprise if the Fashion Show proves one of the greatest drawing cards the Grand Theatre has ever offered in the city of London.

VULCAN COMPANY MAKES STEADY GROWTH IN LONDON

Pure Air Furnace Heats Thousands of Homes Throughout Dominion.

Prominent among London's leading manufacturers stand the Vulcan Company, Limited.

The firm started in a small way, and has employed all male help, with a record for fewer discharges than most industries of like nature.

Starting with only two employees it gradually increased to be in a position to employ nine men during the first five years. During the last ten years, under the able management of Morley W. Calcott, a steady growth has been made.

Today the company takes its place among the large manufacturing concerns in London, has a large plant on Fullarton street, and in normal times employs more than sixty men continuously.

The Vulcan Company, Limited, manufactures the well-known and popular "Vulcan Pure Air Furnace," which is the heating medium in hundreds of London homes, as well as in many thousands throughout the Dominion.

Few citizens of London are aware of the fact that many of the fire hydrants on the streets of London were manufactured by the Vulcan Company, that the hydro street lighting standards and parking signs were also manufactured by this progressive firm.

Other articles of merit manufactured by this company include fireplace grates, builders' supplies, manhole covers, gutter grates, waterworks specials, and all kinds of gray iron castings. It might also be mentioned that a fully equipped pattern shop is included in the company's plant.

Associated with Mr. Calcott in the business are A. R. Boug, president of the company, and P. E. Weir, secretary-treasurer, both very efficient businessmen.

PLUMBING FIRM HAS INTERESTING HISTORY

Eggett & Co. Keep Pace With Business Progress of City.

Eggett & Co., sanitary plumbers, steam and hot water fitters, located at 336 Ridout street, have an interesting history in connection with their business.

More than 33 years ago J. Eggett, present manager of the concern, started to learn the trade of plumbing and heating. After completing his training, he served as a journeyman until 1907.

He then purchased the business of the Smith Plumbing Company and continued with this business until 1910, when he formed a partnership with H. S. Laughton and H. J. Wil-den. Mr. Laughton has charge of the steam and hot water installation, and Mr. Wilden is in charge of the clerical part while Mr. Eggett looks after the plumbing.

The business at the time of taking it over was small, but by hard work and honest dealing has grown until today it is one of the largest businesses of its kind west of Toronto.

A few of the large contracts completed by Eggett & Co. are Westminster Hospital, Children's Hospital, Byron Sanatorium, Collegiate High School, Victoria School, and many others.

While a list of the bigger contracts have been given, smaller contracts are looked after as well. "We

Succeed In London

THERE was a time when friendship stretched to its utmost possible tension and could embrace only a pitiful few—a family group perhaps. Then the minds and hearts of men began to expand and though full of suspicions because of the violation of traditions involved, man came slowly, reluctantly, hesitatingly to the point of loyalty to clan, but all of the rest of the world was darkness.

Again the hearts and minds of men changed. They suppressed suspicions, jealousies and hatreds and there was born that spirit we now reverence—the love of country.
And for that love men were content to live and die. It was a far cry indeed from the man of the bloody club to him who was willing to give his all for his country.

When we look back and think, we wonder at the persistence of man's desire for friendship. As rapidly as the means of gratifying one ambition for an enlargement of the circle of friends have materialized other and larger ambitions have presented themselves—in fact, the progress of civilization itself has been born.

And upon this basis has been built the largest and most important factor of the world's enterprises today—that of industry, for it is not true that all dealings in this connection are first of all based upon the friendship and co-operation of fellow men?

Co-operation is the main essential in all walks of life, whether it be in the largest of matters or even in the most minute detail. In the early days, during the dark ages, a man in order to meet the demands of life, merely took up his bloody club and went out into the world and took, by brute force, that which he desired. Then came the time when his demands were greater and he had to depend on his neighbor for his wants, who in turn was traded something that was necessary for him to have. This deal or trade was known as "barterdom," and down through the ages this was used, improved little by little until at last it has been brought about to its best advantage, and now no man dare live to himself or for himself, lest he perish.

It has been the friendship and hearty co-operation on the part of the citizens of London that has brought about the industrial success in London. And the people, as a whole, realize that it will be friendship and co-operation, wrought together in a worth while cause, that will bring about the success of the future.

There are, of course, reasons for this. It is a durable, efficient and economical furnace, and it has been the constant aim of the company to produce a high-class article, such as this furnace, possessing all these qualities, at a very low cost. It is the greatest home builder in the world—it brings the family together
—the children as well as the elders, enjoy the warm, cosy home heated by a Vulcan Pure Air Furnace. It has been thoroughly tested, and proven to be superior to many others.
It is fully guaranteed in every particular.

The Vulcan Co., Limited, are also manufacturers of basket grates, fire hydrants, street lighting standards, waterworks supplies, all kinds of gray iron castings, manhole covers, gutter grates, plumbers' supplies and do general machine and pattern work.

Just phone 580, and any information regarding any of the above-mentioned products will be gladly

BASEBALL and LATE SPORTING NEWS

WESTERN 'U' AND O.R.F.U. SQUADS MAY MIX TODAY

Collegians' Casualty List Grows, But None Are Serious—
First Home Game Is With Aggies.

THE Western U. squad are piling up a few casualties these days, which is a quaint method of letting the rugby birds know that progress is being made. Dr. Fred Smith, physical director, stands on the sidelines as a sort of casualty-clearing station, and the injured gladiators limp their way to him for first aid treatment. The big genial director, as a left-over from his army days, also holds a sick parade before the drill starts, so all the Western workouts need to make them real serious, is a sad eyed undertaker hovering near.

There is a chance that the Westerns will stack up against the O.R.F.U. crew this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The O.R.F.U. are having good turnouts, and if a big enough squad is mustered, Coach Reid will send his men against them, good stuff for both camps.

Yesterday, including the main and the half, some of whom reported, there were over 40 out. Williams and Mc-Mahon were two of the cracked-ribbed cases when the workout started, and Cowley, half way through, limped off and came out of the dressing station with his ribs all bound up. These three will be back into the game Tuesday.

Reid gave his squad a real grueling yesterday, verbal some of it, and they are all in good shape.

The schedule:
Oct. 7—Western at Varsity.
14—O. A. C. at St. Michaels.
14—O. A. C. at Western.
14—Varsity at St. Michaels.
21—Varsity at O. A. C.
21—St. Michaels at Western.
21—Western at O. A. C.
28—St. Michaels at Varsity.
28—O. A. C. at Varsity.
28—Varsity at St. Michaels.
Nov. 7—Varsity at Western.
7—St. Michaels at O. A. C.

came gamely back for more, and the coach's scathing remarks brought forth some real snap when the line was pitted against another scrimmage. Rechner got away some nice long passing to both Dockert and Callahan. The line that had possession of the ball were not making much headway until told they had to stay there until they made the end of the field. They lost 20 yards on one play, and it began to look as if the coach should have named which end, meant, when Rice got away on a nice on-side kick for a run which brought the numbers of spectators are increasing, too, a sign in itself that the word has gone forth that Western has something real this year for a change.

ORDER FINAL MIX FOR SUNSHINERS

Maroon-St. Martins Winners
Sure To Figure in City Series.

St. Martins and Maroon's clash for the championship today in the C. A. A. League at Sunshine Park, starting at 3:30 sharp this afternoon. The fixture has been ordered as a sudden-death game, and this means that the winners are sure to get in the city series with the winners of the final game out at Queen's Park today in the Maroon's League between Civil Service and Grand Trunks.

Both games will attract big crowds as the interest in both series has reached the intense stage. Opinion is fairly divided in both tilts and on the season's showing it would be extremely hard to pick winners at either park.

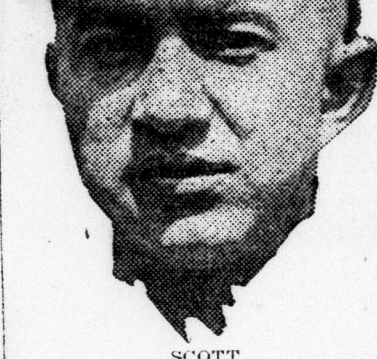

These May Face Each Other

BANCROFT.

BANCROFT, New York Giants—Bancroft is a great ball player. Frail of stature, he overcomes enthusiasm. He is the keystone of the Giants' infield. He has brain and uses "cm." Bancroft is a turn-around batter, shifting to the right side of the plate when a southpaw opposes the Giants. He seems to hit equally well from either position.

In the field Bancroft is a student. He analyzes his batters and plays for them, constantly shifting his position to meet conditions. He starts quickly on the ball, has a good arm, and gets the ball away quickly and from any position.

SCOTT.

SCOTT, New York Americans—Scott rates as one of the greatest shortstops of all time. However, he is a youngster no longer. He is now at the top of the game. He says that he finds the Polo Grounds the most difficult diamond he has ever played. It is of the opinion that it has affected his play. Scott never has been a most dangerous one. He seems to get his base hits when they will do the most good. Covers ground, has a good arm, and throws well from any position. Bats right-handed.

PLAY FOR NIVEN CUP TODAY

Annual Competition Between Women and Men Golfers Attracts Interest.

Play for the Niven Cup will be held for the important game tomorrow, St. Thomas vs. Galt, which the Terriers must win to keep in the running for the Niven Cup. The match will be played at the advance sale of grandstand tickets has been taken up. The Terriers are in good shape, and are confident of a victory. The match will be played at the Niven Cup.

The draw:
Niven Cup, G. T. Brown vs. R. Little, H. Greenhair vs. A. Mitchell, Miss Baker vs. J. C. Anderson, Mrs. Harris vs. H. Groom, Mrs. Sterling vs. V. P. Cronyn, Mrs. Allan McLean vs. V. Robertson, Mrs. Webster vs. M. Hunt, Miss Whitaker vs. P. D. Ball, Mrs. D. McLean vs. B. B. Manning, Mrs. J. A. Wright vs. A. G. Calder, Mrs. Nelles.

KIT FOX. Kit fox is revived this season for trimming purposes. It combines very pleasingly with duvety, gowns, cashmere and the popular fabrics for winter coats.

COMPROMISE ON ARENA PROJECTS ASSURES HOCKEY HERE THIS WINTER

Rumored Definite Understanding Likely Next Monday or Tuesday Will Mean Tecumseh Park As Site.

Rumors that a compromise is on the way to be effected between the two arena projects for London are rife, and that Monday or Tuesday of next week will see a definite understanding arrived at is a fairly accurate prediction. Immediate construction of an arena, to be ready in two months, is practically an assured fact.

An arena will be constructed anyway, it is understood, but it will be less pretentious than if a compromise is effected.

A compromise practically means that the new arena will be built on a site to be donated at Tecumseh Park, but, best of all, it means that there'll be no factions, and once the building is started it will be a real community drive. It will also mean an artificial arena.

The Tecumseh Park site has few opposed to it, except on the plea of being too sectional instead of central. However, to those who are looking ahead, it appeals as the one logical course, and the placing of an arena there as a start will insure the park developing into the athletic plant it is ideally suited for.

It is believed that if the two schemes are merged there will be sufficient capital subscribed to include an artificial plant this winter. However, the arena will be built for the future, whether an artificial plant is installed this winter or not, and that will help hockey and sport in general much better than if a small structure of a temporary nature were to be the outcome.

U. S. MAY LOSE GOLF TITLE TO BRITAIN

Mrs. Gavin, Canadian Title Holder, Goes Into Finals.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 29.—The United States will have a new woman golf champion tomorrow. The semi-finals in the national tournament today left Glena Collett as the American hope to keep the title at home, and Gavin, who, if she is victorious, will carry the United States championship to an English home.

Today's play eliminated Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, Greenwich, and Edith Cummings of Chicago. The results of the day's matches were:

Miss Collett defeated Miss Cummings, two up.
Mrs. Gavin defeated Mrs. Jackson, four up and two to play.
The final round will be over 36 holes, divided between morning and afternoon play.
Today's matches produced plenty of thrills. Mrs. Gavin played superbly, the best game she has played since she came to America, she said. Only a few strokes in her trip was the Englishwoman in trouble, and from these she extricated herself by brilliant recoveries from bunkers and traps. She handled the clubs with confidence and great control, and left little to be desired in her game.

PARKHILL NET CLUB IS HOLDING TOURNEY

PARKHILL, Sept. 29.—The tennis club has been holding a tournament, in which the members have been playing off for three cups given by the late Lieut. Hinds, who was killed in France while serving with the Canadian air force. These two cups are completed for by the girls.
The results of the tournament so far this year are as follows:
Men's singles—Ed Bartram.
Women, first cup—Mabel Meglady.
Women, second cup—Mary Kirkpatrick.
The juniors have not yet all played off.

Maybe Gerber Will Horn In

GERBER.

GERBER, St. Louis Browns—Gerber is a remarkable fielder. In this respect he need not bow either to Bancroft or Scott. Works easily, and for that reason does not get the credit he deserves for many brilliant plays. Like Scott, he is not rated as a great hitter, but rather a dangerous one.

There is little to choose between Bancroft, Scott and Gerber. A draw decision would be very fair. Their fielding is on a par. Bancroft is probably the best hitter of the trio. All other things being equal, that should give Bancroft a slight edge.

HAL ABBE TAKES FREE FOR ALL IN STRAIGHT HEATS

Gold Direct, Green Winner, Takes 2:40 in Straight Heats.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 29.—Small fields, but some good racing marked the horse races conducted at the Woodstock Fair this afternoon. The card consisted of a free-for-all with a purse of $500 hung up and a 2:40 trot or pace. A running event was carried, but did not fill. In the free-for-all Hal Abbe won in straight heats, Eva May Patchen and The Unity battled it out for second money, with the former getting the place in all heats. The time in the first two heats was slow, but in the final heat Abbe went a very good mile. He carried his field to the quarter in 34 seconds, reached the half in a shade better than 1:07, and was at the three-quarters in 1:41, and passed under the wire in 2:13; the last quarter paced in 32 seconds, ended up 2:13 Trot, Three Heats, $1,000.

Willie J. Kay, strong favorite in the 2:40 pace, failed to finish better than third, although two changes were made in his drivers. Tony Mac won the first heat and Esta G. the last two. Dottie Day, the first choice in the 2:10 trot, was never a serious contender. McCann, with Hollywood Hilda, won the first two heats and the race, while the third mile was won by Cupid Abingen.

YANKS LOSE AGAIN AS BROWNS IMPROVE CHANCE

Huggmen Still Under Evil Eye of Red Sox, Shawkey Falling by Wayside.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Boston again defeated the league leaders, the New York Yankees, today. Jack Quinn, former Yankee spitball star, held the visitors to five hits, and had the better of Bob Shawkey in a sensational play-off game. As the St. Louis Browns won their game today with Chicago, the pennant issue in the American League remains undecided. To clinch the flag the Yankees must win a game or the Browns must lose one.

The winning run today was scored in the sixth on John Collins' double to right center. Mitchell's sacrifice hit down the third base line and Ruel's drive, which Scott managed to knock down, Collins scored as Scott threw out Ruel.

Bob Meusel twice struck out with men on second and third and two out. Ruth's fielding was sensational. His single hit was a bunt with one out and none on in the sixth.

The score:
Boston..... 000 000-0 5 0
St. Louis..... 001 010-3 3 1
Shawkey and Schang; Quinn and Ruel.

BROWNS STILL UP THERE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—Two home runs by Johnny Tobin and masterful pitching in the pinches by Van Gilder gave St. Louis a 3 to 2 victory over Chicago today in the first game of the final series of the season. The victor continues the mathematical possibility of the Browns taking the pennant, in view of New York's defeat by Boston today. Should the locals win their two remaining games and the Yankees lose theirs, the teams would be tied for first place and a play-off series would be necessary.

The score:
Chicago..... 000 100-1 5 0
St. Louis..... 001 010-3 3 1
Faber, Leverage and Schalk; Van Gilder and Collins.

MACKEN GRAB BATT. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Philadelphia took both ends of a double-header from Washington today, winning the first game in twelve innings by 4 to 3 and the second by 8 to 4.

The first game was a pitchers' battle between Ogden and Erickson, and the former gave way to Rommel in the twelfth, who won his 26th victory.

The score:
Washington..... 100 001 000-1 3 0
Philadelphia..... 001 001 002-4 8 0
Erickson and Lapan; Ogden, Rommel and Bruggs, Perkins.

Second game:

Losers Riot On Rigley in 8th Frame.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Ernest Osborne held St. Louis to two hits, while Chicago hurled five of its hits off Pfeffer and defeated the Cardinals, 3 to 0, in the first game of the final series of the year. The entire visiting club surrounded Umpire Rigley on a peculiar play in the eighth inning. Fournier batted for Levan and walked. When he reached the base Mann took his place to run for him without notifying the umpire. Fournier went to the bench. O'Farrell then threw the ball to Grimes, who touched Mann, and he was declared out. The St. Louis players ran from the bench, and while they were arguing Fournier returned to first. The umpire then ruled that Mann was not in the game and Fournier had not been tagged out. Then Mann was announced as the runner, and the game resumed. St. Louis..... 000 000 000-0 2 3

O. R. F. U. TEAM WILL TACKLE PROBLEM OF ORGANIZATION TUESDAY

TOM ROWAN NAMED
POSSIBLE COACH

"Fast Freight" of 1914
Champs Would Be Popular Choice.

NEVER at any time in the history of rugby in London have prospects been brighter for an O. R. F. U. team than they are this year. Every squad is being increased by players anxious to get into the line, and yet lack of someone to step into the pilot's seat and look after the organization makes things look so bleak that it would be humorous if it were not rather tragic. Last night's hurriedly-called meeting to set organization under way floundered because it was too hurriedly called. Arrangements have been made now to have the meeting held after a signal practice to be held in the "O. R. F. U." Tuesday afternoon. All O. R. F. U. football needs is a man who is right now and the game would be on the way to booming. Probably by Tuesday morning the matter will be taken care of, for the courtesy of a deferred entry would be extended over to the O. R. F. U. candidates.

There are over 25 candidates available now, and three recruits were added yesterday, two former English rugby players, who could be easily converted to the Canadian game, and are in great condition for soccer playing, and one former Ridley player, among them.

Officially Receive Promotion

Official announcement was made at the C.P.R. head office of the promotion of two of the Company's higher-up passenger officials. Mr. C. E. E. Ussher is created general passenger traffic manager and Mr. C. B. Foster has been assistant passenger traffic manager.

The new office of general passenger traffic manager created for Mr. Ussher is indicative of the world-wide activities of the Canadian Pacific organization which stretches from Europe to the Orient and Australasia, covering steamship services on both Atlantic and Pacific oceans as well as the rail lines. The Canadian Pacific fleet is now one of the largest mercantile organizations in the world, and involves traffic considerations almost as great as those of the railway itself. In addition, Mr. Ussher has charge of the extensive chain of hotels operated by the Canadian Pacific, the capacity of which is constantly being increased and which contribute no little to the passenger traffic of the railway.

A native of Niagara Falls, Ontario, Mr. Ussher commenced his business career as clerk in the auditor's office of the Great Western Railway in 1874. In 1880 he joined the Chicago & Atlantic Railroad as rate clerk in 1883.

In November, 1886, when the Canadian Pacific inaugurated the transcontinental services he was called in to become Chief Ticket clerk and was promoted three years later to be Assistant General Passenger Agent. In 1898, he was appointed General Passenger Agent Eastern Lines, and 1907 assistant passenger traffic manager. Since 1910 he has been Passenger Traffic Manager.

C. B. Foster who has been promoted to the position of Passenger Traffic Manager Rail Lines, was born at Kingston, N.B., in 1871, and has spent his whole business life in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway which he joined in 1891 as stenographer to the division passenger agent at St. John, N.B. In 1902 he himself had risen to be District Passenger Agent at this point. Two years later he was transferred to a similar position at Toronto, and in 1908 was appointed assistant general passenger agent at Winnipeg. In 1910 he became General Passenger Agent at Winnipeg, and in 1913 was promoted to the position of Assistant Passenger Traffic Manager, Eastern Lines, with office at Montreal.

clothing he sent to New Ontario, as the need is serious. Ten dollars were voted to Queen Mary Consumptive Hospital. A petition was signed by those present, requesting the government to take action regarding feeble minded persons.

When an East End man recently applied for settlement of a claim for fire insurance the agent asked: "Much damage?"

"Not much," the man said, "just a door."

"How much would a new door cost?"

"About five dollars."

"When did the fire happen?"

The man hesitated a moment and then replied: "About thirty years ago."

"Thirty years ago?"

"Yes sir."

"You have waited all these years to report it?"

"Yes sir."

"How in the world does that come?"

"Well sir," said the man, "the woman folk at my house have been at me to do something about that door ever since it was burned and I just couldn't stand it any longer."

"I saw Mrs. De Smythe in town this morning," said Nell angrily, "and just because she was with Mrs. Bulion, she pretended not to know me."

"Don't you worry," said her friend, "just as if you are not her equal. Why, she's a hand-painted, conceited doll."

"I have some English Wool Gabardine Fall Topcoats, in dark blue, and coats that are quite in vogue for the fall stroll or horseback ride on the row in Hyde Park. These are worth $30, and on Monday, I will offer them at $15."

"All of the Paramount Raincoats left over I will sell at $11.50 each."

"And, then, we will get down to the steady trot of the cool weather business when overcoats are sought and warm suits are in demand," concluded Leo Watson.—Adv.

L. C. I. Track Team Hope To Lower Hamilton C. I.'s Colors Today

The L. C. I. track team last night departed for the big S. P. A. meet billed for Toronto this afternoon and carried with them high hopes of their fellow students in their ability to lower the colors of the crack Hamilton relay team.

Hunter, Westman, Wanless, Gorman and Wilson are the members of the relay team, and Wright has come down for the jump.

The relay race, which winds up the card at Toronto, is the light of the meet, as all the schools are out to take the Hamilton C. I. team down the line. Eleven high schools and colleges are entered in this vendetta.

Twenty-five good road performers have entered in the 10-mile race. They will be sent away from the track at 2:45 to do a grind out over the Hunter hills and will return about 4:15. Jimmie Dellow and Jimmie Moorecroft of the Gladstone A. C. are undoubtedly the best of the bunch, and they will have plenty of opposition. Arthur Scholes, the veteran, is always dangerous in a race of this kind, and he will be a hard nut to crack. The other runners from Hamilton are Emilio Begley and Percy Weyer of Toronto and Philip Giamville, the West Indian runner from Hamilton, who showed unexpected class at the C. N. E. Marathon. They all finished within the first six and were going along nicely.

MUSTAPHA KEMAL PASHA INSISTS ON RETIREMENT OF ALL BRITISH SOLDIERS

British Military Circles Regard Latest Note From Nationalist Chief As Virtually Closing the Door To a Peaceful Settlement of Straits Question — Preparations Made To Meet Any Attack That May Be Launched by Turkish Forces.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople says M. Franklin Bouillon and Mustapha Kemal Pasha have left Smyrna together for Angora.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29.—The situation between the British and the Turkish Nationalists was extremely tense tonight. A note from Mustapha Kemal Pasha to Brig-Gen. Harrington, the British commander, couched in a hostile tenor, was considered by British military circles here as closing the door to a pacific settlement of the Straits question. The prospects of an armed conflict were considered more evident than previously.

The note of Kemal demands the retirement of all the British troops from the Asiatic side of the Straits, as the French and Italians have done, and says in case of acquiescence he will withdraw the Nationalist forces "slightly" from the neutral zone.

It also demands the cessation of what are termed the arbitrary measures of the British authorities in Constantinople in dealing with the Turkish population, and a solemn undertaking that no Greek vessel should be permitted to pass the Dardanelles. It concludes with a protest against the destruction of Turkish war material in the Straits.

The note of Kemal is in reply to the last written communication of Gen. Harrington, transmitted through Hamid Bey, the Nationalist representative in Constantinople, to Kemal in Smyrna. It is felt in British circles tonight that they would be forced to modify their conciliatory attitude at the moment the Turks bring up heavy artillery with which they would be able seriously to threaten the European side of the Dardanelles, and also hamper passage through the Straits of British vessels.

Six submarines of the British Atlantic fleet have arrived and will be used to prevent the transport of Turkish troops across the Sea of Marmara in the event of war between the British and the Turks. The British have also posted batteries in strategic positions on the heights of Chanak, eastward of Scutari, and at Mal-Tepeli on the Heidar Pass Railway, facing Prinkipo Islands. These positions are on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, a short distance from Constantinople.

Some optimism was felt today over the meeting between M. Franklin Bouillon, the French envoy, and Mustapha Kemal Pasha at Smyrna, where there was a conference on the general situation. Later, while on the way to Eski-Shehr, Kemal received a message calling him to Angora to discuss with the government the Nationalists' reply to the allied demands.

Therefore, General Harrington has postponed his departure for Mudania to meet Kemal. Meanwhile the Turkish leader has given assurance that his troops will not advance farther than the neutral zone.

The belief prevails in British military circles that Greece may be asked to evacuate Thrace by October 10. This would permit the Kemalists to enter Thrace by ports on the Sea of Marmara, avoid a violation of the Straits and satisfy the Kemal demand for possession of Thrace before the proposed peace conference began.

It is held that the Greek revolution has radically altered the Thracian situation, and that there is no certainty the new Athens government will be able to maintain any efficient army there, even pending the settlement of peace. It is suggested that if Greece refuse to evacuate Thrace an allied fleet may blockade the Greek mainland. It is feared that only a radical modification of Kemal's bellicose attitude can avert a clash between the British and the Turks. If

Friends of the former Greek premier expect a definite statement from him in a few days.

The reported decision of the revolutionary leaders in Greece to renew as soon as possible the friendly relations with the entente, especially France, is further pointed to as a reason for Venizelos looking more favorably on the communist appeal.

According to supporters, he is strongly opposed to taking up the Greek cause abroad, unless the new government is willing to follow a pro-ally policy.

Come To Church Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss."

"You will take part in singing some good hymns."

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance."

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your work."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

Student Christian Movement

THE Student Christian Movement of Canada is no longer the vague hope of a small group of idealists with a far vision. It is a reality, having as vital a life as youth itself. In some of its aspects hard to understand it is nevertheless an open book, and all that so desire may read. There is a difference in giving an explanation and delivering an "apologia pro vita." In the case of this student movement, no explanation can be adequate, for the force that is its dynamic is essentially spiritual and much too elusive to be isolated or specifically named.

On the surface there is very little to mark this movement as unique or different. Its work is not superlatively apparent. But for those intimately connected with it, those who themselves are the movement, nothing short of a new world order is involved in its ultimate expression. Those who know best are persistent in their claim that it marks a new era in the student life of our country. They feel that it is no mere chance that the corporate life of Canadian students has found its expression in a form that links it at once with a world outlook. Such breadth is inherent in the spirit that brought the Canadian movement into being. As a unit in the World's Student Christian Federation, which brings together the student movements in 35 or 40 countries, its tone is necessarily international, and because it concerns itself with those problems of mind and spirit, which are common to all humanity, it is essentially missionary.

Historically, the movement may be said to go back four years. In the summer of 1918 the question of a different relationship of student Christian activities was brought before a small group of men for a student conference at Knowlton, Quebec. The idea was vague even in the minds of those who proposed the subject for discussion, but when the matter was brought to the attention of the secretaries and leaders present, it was evident that a number of minds had been working along similar lines. For the time being there was nothing to do, but here and there shadowy outlines were taking form and by Christmas 1920 the student body had developed mind enough on the matter to meet and give definite form to its thinking.

Since that time several features and tendencies have emerged. It is more apparent than ever that the movement must belong to the students if it is to really move. It must have student direction and be under student control. To this end conferences have been held and are yearly becoming more important. A few years ago scarcely more than a hundred men and women represented the student constituency in summer gatherings. This year there will probably be five hundred in the three conferences.

It has been said that movements are usually associated in the popular conception with the leadership of some powerful personality. Certainly this generalization is true of Christianity. From the first, however, the student movement has not been personally dominated unless in the sense that it has been dominated by the whole student group as an idea personified. Its leadership has not been that of selected individuals. Leadership has come from students whose ideas and spirit have commended themselves to their fellows. Spirit has communicated with spirit, but only those endowed with that particular kind of insight which discerns the things that are spiritual, have seen that there was leadership or anything to communicate.

Not only has there developed a spiritual life that is quite evident in the present, but the general direction that this life will take is beginning to appear. One can say, without fear of contradiction, that the life that is now just beginning gives every promise of growing into a larger life, that life more abundant which will more and more concern itself with those about it. The movement is thus far saved from becoming a cult.

At the National Student Assembly of December, 1920, the Basis and Aim was expressed as follows:

"The Student Christian Movement of Canada is a fellowship of students based on the conviction that in Jesus Christ are found the supreme revelation of God and the means to the full realization of life."

The movement seeks through study, prayer, service and other means to understand and follow Jesus Christ and to unite in its fellowship all students in the colleges of Canada who share the above conviction, together with all students who are willing to test the truth of the conviction upon which the movement is founded.

With such a background and purpose the Student Christian Movement of Canada may become a great force for progress. Potentially it is perhaps without equal, for its members are young men and women who must become leaders. Whether they lead will largely depend on the direction in which they face during the very formative years of college life. As a dynamic the student movement gives promise of great things. There is no tradition to hamper it. It has no past. Its present is full of life and its future depends on the people who are students and as friends contribute to the thought of the group that is the movement.

General Conference Also Backs Move To Extend Prohibition Laws.

RAP PROVINCIAL VENDING

Plan To Bring Bermuda and Newfoundland Under Dry Measures.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—A deputation will go to Ottawa with a demand that the federal government pass a law to stop race track gambling. Rev. Dr. Moore made an announcement to this effect during his presentation of the report on evangelism and social service to the Methodist general conference this afternoon. He asked the conference to stand behind this deputation, and the applause which followed indicated that it would do so.

Dr. Moore also called upon the church to continue the fight for prohibition until it was in force, not only from one end of Canada to the other, but also in Newfoundland and Bermuda. He condemned government control.

"No government under heaven can control the sale of liquor," he said. "Liquor has the same bad effect when sold by a government vendor as when sold by a bar tender."

Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, reporting to the conference for the superannuation fund, brought the cheering recommendation that pensions to retired ministers be increased 66 and two-thirds per cent. In the morning, appeals were made for more emphasis on church residential schools, secondary education, and for a more active program in organizing new Sunday schools.

Lose Young People.

Rev. Dr. T. A. Moore, in his report on evangelism and social service this afternoon, explained that only 35 per cent of the Sunday school pupils became members of the church after they pass their teens.

"We feel that something must be done to gather in the other 65 per cent," he declared. He explained the efforts to make the church service an evangelistic service, he said.

The program of the Methodist church in the matter of social reform had brought upon it the attention not only of all the great forces of Canada, but outside this country as well.

Dr. Moore told of his many invitations to visit the United States, where he had received from one of the great forces of Canada, but outside this country as well.

BEET CROP IS REPORTED LIGHT

Kitchener Sugar Refinery Will Not Open On Account of Shortage.

Wallaceburg Woman Hears of Sister's Sudden Death in Alberta.

Special to London Advertiser.

WALLACEBURG, Sept. 29.—The light crop of sugar beets in Ontario this year only warrants the operation of two of the sugar refineries of the Dominion Sugar Company, Wallaceburg and Chatham plants will operate and Kitchener plant will be closed.

The past summer months have not been favorable for the sugar beet crop, although other crops have fared well. The first rains of any account during the past two weeks came too late for the early crop of beets.

The sugar beet acreage is somewhat lighter than usual owing to the fact that the company could not afford to pay the high prices demanded by some of the growers.

The sugar beet campaign will commence on or about the 1st of October. Mrs. Henry Spencer of Wallaceburg has received a telegram stating that her only sister, Mrs. Ed. Shaw of Alberta, was killed instantly on September 25. No particulars regarding the accident are as yet forthcoming. Mrs. Shaw (nee Matilda Lindsay) was born and raised on the East Branch, but previous to being out West eight years ago the Shaw family resided on the North Branch, con. 4, Chatham Gore.

Miss Mildred Booth has gone to London, where she will attend Normal School.

CHARGES FALSE ARREST AT PORT

Jury Hears Evidence in Last Case Slated for the Fall Assizes.

Hearing of the final jury case listed for the fall assizes occupied the time of Mr. Justice Mowat, who is presiding, and the petty jurors Saturday morning. William McCrae, Glencoe farmer, is suing Leslie D. Thompson, contractor of London, for $5,000 damages for "alleged false imprisonment and malicious prosecution."

The suit emanated from the arrest of McCrae at Port Stanley in July, 1921, charged with pickpocketing, and plaintiff was later acquitted of the charge in the Elgin County court. Defendant in the lawsuit was the plaintiff in the charge against McCrae, who gave evidence relative to his arrest Saturday morning.

The case is still in progress and will not be concluded until Saturday afternoon. C. St. Clair Leitch of St. Thomas, is acting for McCrae, while Ivey and Company are conducting the defence. Witnesses called in the case Saturday included: Squire Hunt, St. Thomas, and Police Officer W. W. Hamner, of the London and Port Stanley Railway, who arrested McCrae, along with two men, later convicted of pickpocketing at Port Stanley.

The jury in this action was selected Friday night, after which Judge Mowat discharged the other summoned witnesses. Two non-jury cases were deferred by Judge Mowat, who must preside at Bracebridge assizes next week.

William Brace, labor adviser to the British department of mines, who came to South Africa as a member of the board at the invitation of the Union government, expresses himself as hopeful that the conciliation scheme recommended will prevent unnecessary strikes in future.

The main recommendation is that a conciliation board, consisting of twelve members, six representing each side, shall in future deal with disputes between miners and employers. In the event of a disagreement between the two sides an independent referee will preside and review the evidence.

REVOLUTION IN GREECE BRINGS NEW PROBLEM

Anti-Monarchists Are Inclined To Retention of Thracian Territory.

MAY PERIL PEACE MOVE

French Fear New Party Will Involve British in Combat.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The forced abdication of King Constantine, while viewed in Paris with the keenest pleasure as an isolated event, gives rise to grave fears for the Near Eastern situation because of the demands of the revolutionists respecting Thrace.

Those who appear to be gaining control of affairs have insisted on the Greeks maintaining a hold on Thracian territory that the Allies have promised to Kemal. The French have not the slightest fear that the Greeks will put up any fight or even create serious diplomatic difficulties, but what causes fear is the danger that the Turkish Nationalists, excited by the program of the revolutionists, to which they may have attached an exaggerated value, might decide to take matters in their own hands and attempt an immediate invasion of Thrace.

Such an event would be disastrous to the pending peace negotiations. Not only would it mean the refusal of Kemal to accept the terms of the allied note of last Saturday, but it would certainly spell a clash with the British, either in the vicinity of Chankir or Ismid, with consequences that no one can foretell.

According to official advice to the French, Constantine quit unconditionally. Of course, the ruin of Constantine is most welcome to the French who took a leading part in putting him off the throne once and who have always hated the ex-king's brother-in-law for his efforts to place Greece in the war on the side of the Central Powers.

The hatred of Constantine was at least a contributing factor in the French support of Kemal. But one must not suppose that Constantine's going will bring a French pardon for the mistakes they consider the Greek's mistakes, for they recall that an enormous majority of the Greek people voted to bring Constantine back and that his return to the throne was by no means forced upon them. Therefore, the return of ex-Premier Venizelos or his supporters to power would not bring French support for the retention of Thrace by the Greeks.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, S. E. Johnson, 248 Craig St., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Advrt.
