AT THE PAN-AM.

Orville Dolsen and Frank Crow spent the first of July at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo. Speaking of their trip Mr. Dolsen said: "Frank Crow and myself stand out prominently as the only and original two men who saw the most of the Pan-American Exposition in one day. We were at the gates at 7 o'clock, when they opened, and we stayed till late at night. We didn't stop to eat, but bought sandwiches, which we ate as we marched along, and thus we utilized every available moment. "The Buffalo Exposition is one of the grandest things I ever saw and it is truly immense. The 48th Highlanders made a splendid appearance and were altogether different from the American soldiers. The kilted regiment is composed of a much better class of men."

RADIAL ROAD

Promoter Hickey Believes Prospects for the Proposed Line are Excellent.

W. R. Hickey, of Merita, one of the energetic promoters of the Essex and Kent electric railroad, was in the city yesterday. When questioned by The Planet as to the prospects of the road, he replied: "We are now waiting on a number of New York capitalists. The other capitalists we had in view, did not care to invest in the scheme, unless they could get more bonding privileges. Under the present system, we can secure bonds for $1,000,000, that is at the rate of $10,000 per mile. I think that we can induce some New York capitalists to undertake the construction of the road, and give us enough money to carry us over, until we can get the bonding increased."

RAILWAY RATES

City Board of Trade is Asked to Consider any Grievances in This Territory.

W. R. Landon, secretary of the City Board of Trade, has received the following communication:—
July 2nd, 1901.
The Secretary of the Board of Trade, Chatham, Ont.,

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly inform me whether there are such conditions in regard to railway rate grievances in your territory as would render an investigation of these advisable? In the event of such a condition existing, I shall conduct an investigation in your city at a later date, of which I shall give you due notice. I would suggest that your Association should have a formal statement of the grievances complained of prepared with a view to this statement being submitted before me when the investigation takes place.

Kindly let me hear from you in the matter at your earliest convenience. I should be further obliged to you if you would give this statement such currency as would ensure the eliciting of all essential information.

Sincerely yours,
J. S. McLEAN,
Commissioner of Railway Rate Grievances, etc.

Address—Care of Dept. of Railways and Canals, Ottawa.

A meeting of the executive council of the Board of Trade will be held on Tuesday evening for the consideration of this and other matters.

WHO GETS IT?

Mysterious Muddle Resulting From a Dispute Over the Ownership of a Bicycle.

There is a huge dispute likely to arise as to the ownership of the wheel which Andrew Thomson sold for Jos. Sykes by Bryan Freeman, on the market a little over a week ago.

G. A. Dixon, of Thamesville, had a lien note on the bicycle, he having sold it to Sykes for $10 and a lien note for the balance.

The wheel hasn't the name of the manufacturer, it hasn't the name of the place where it was made, and it hasn't the name of the vendor on it. The question then arises can Mr. Dixon hold the wheel, he not having filed a copy of his note with the County Court clerk.

Then is Andrew Thomson liable to Freeman in case Dixon secures possession of the wheel? Mr. Thomson was the auctioneer and it is said that he didn't disclose the principal for whom he was selling. If Dixon can't hold the wheel of course Freeman gets it. Judge Houston will refuse to decide to whom the wheel belongs, and the matter will have to be settled by the parties themselves.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality. They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitality.

Miss Mabel Mathers, who has been visiting Miss Estelle Kogelschatz, Taylor Ave., returned this afternoon to her home in Rochester, N. Y.

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN HONORS VICTORIA NURSES

Boer Prisoners at St. Helena are Well Treated and Satisfied—
Lord Roberts Gives Reasons for Deportation of Foreigners.

London, July 3.—The report of the Governor of the Island of St. Helena, dealing with the year ending March 31, says:—"The lies in the European papers about the treatment of the Boer prisoners even exasperated the prisoners. The latter enjoy large liberty, and are well behaved, contented and anxious to work. Many of them are employed by the farmers and others are employed on the roads and wharves."

DEPORTATION OF FOREIGNERS.
London, July 3.—Lord Roberts testified to-day before the Royal Commission, which is considering the claims of foreigners deported from South Africa. The Commander-in-Chief dealt with the plots against his life and the deportation of the ring-leaders. He said the officers and employees of the Netherlands railroad were so hostile to the British that many of them had to be deported. Every consideration was shown them. He personally investigated the great majority of cases, and sanctioned none unless on adequate grounds. No difference was made on account of nationality.

THE QUEEN AND THE NURSES.
London, July 3.—Queen Alexandra, in company with the King and Princess Louise and Beatrice, this afternoon received 770 Victoria nurses on the lawn of Marlborough House and distributed decorations to them. Many of the nurses have just returned from South Africa, and others have been engaged in city outdoor relief work. Her Majesty said: "It is a pleasure to receive you and help you to carry on the noble work begun by our deeply beloved Queen Victoria. It is a satisfaction to be associated with you in your labor of love. I cannot imagine a more holy calling than yours. I pray that God's blessing may be bestowed on your noble work, and that He will have you in His keeping."

THOSE WHO WON HONORS

Students who Carried off the Medals and Diplomas at the C. B. C.

Their Showing in the Recent Examinations was a Very Creditable One.

The following are the results of the June examinations at the Canada Business College, Chatham, Ont., which we have just received from the principal of the above institution. This is a report of the regular yearly examinations for gold and silver medals, which have just been completed, and the following is the result:

William C. Campbell, of Wingham, is the winner of the gold medal for General Proficiency in the Business Department. He is also winner of the gold medal for Mathematics, given by S. J. Sutherland, of the firm of Sutherland & Innes, Chatham, Ont. Herman Jenner, of Charing Cross, wins the silver medal for second highest standing for General Proficiency in the department. Edward Wells wins the silver medal for the best penmanship, and also wins another silver medal for the best set of books. Should Mr. Wells see fit to follow up the subject of penmanship he will, undoubtedly, some day rank among America's best. The set of books on which he won the medal referred to would certainly please the most exacting business man. They were a model of neatness. All the above are ex-public school teachers who have spent from 3 to 11 years of the work. T. S. Parkinson, of Freetown, wins the silver medal given for rapid calculation. He was also a close competitor for the silver medal given for second highest standing in General Proficiency.

In the Shorthand Department Miss Ella White, of Blenheim, was successful in carrying off the gold medal for general proficiency. Miss Margaret M. Kerr, of Chatham, won the silver medal for second highest standing, also the silver medal given for the highest speed in typewriting from dictation. Miss Kerr's speed was at the rate of nearly 70 words per minute, and when it was taken into account that the test lasted for 5 minutes, and that it was continuous matter with many long words occurring in it, the test was certainly a creditable one. Another feature in connection with Miss Kerr's work worthy of special mention is the fact that on one of her tests, she made a transcription of her notes at the rate of 30 words per minute. The Gold Medal given for touch typewriting by Creelman Bros., Toronto, representing the Underwood typewriter in Canada, was won by Miss Flo. Surby, of Chatham. The question of touch typewriting has been to some extent an experimental one in this College during the past two years. It was first made optional with the students as to whether they should take for not. The result of last year's work shows that touch typewriting has come to stay, and it is now felt that this method must be made compulsory with all students to secure the best result, in the future, in this part of the work.

Miss Surby has only been attending about five and a half months, and her carrying off this medal does her all the more credit when it is taken into account that she was competing with students who had four months the advantage of her in time. In copying work, Miss Surby was able to write at a rate of eleven words per minute faster than those who had not taken up this method, and had practised typewriting for more than double the length of time she had.

The contest for the medals this year was one of the best in the history of the College. In no case was there any certainty as to who would

IN THE STATES

Dr. J. M. Stevens, an old Chatham boy, is Answering the Calls of his Profession.

Traverse City is to have a new homoeopathic physician to succeed the late Dr. G. M. Chase. Dr. J. M. Stevens, a young physician, whose former home was in Canada, has arrived here and has purchased the practice of Dr. Chase, together with his office outfit and furniture. He will retain the same offices occupied by Dr. Chase and will begin at once to become acquainted with Traverse City.

Dr. Stevens is a graduate of the medical department of the Ann Arbor university. He is also a B. A. of Toronto college. While at Ann Arbor Dr. Stevens was assistant to the professor of gynaecology and obstetrics and comes here highly recommended. This is a good point for a homoeopathic physician since the death of Dr. Chase, and Dr. Stevens starts in with a well developed practice.—Traverse City Evening Record.

Dr. Stevens is the fourth son of Mr. N. H. Stevens of this city, and he is well and popularly known here. The doctor is an American by birth, since he first saw the light of day on Pilot Hill, 4,000 feet above the sea. His father jokingly remarks that "Wauk," as the doctor is familiarly known here, is the only one of seven sons entitled to run for President of the U. S.

Dr. J. M. Stevens has many warm friends in this city. He received his primary education in the Public schools and the Collegiate Institute, is a graduate in arts of Toronto University, and a graduate in medicine of the university at Ann Arbor. He is a most highly esteemed young man, unselfish and generous to a fault, and deserves success in his first field of labor.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

Regular monthly meeting of the R. C. School Board was held Tuesday evening.

Those present were, E. Reardon, chairman, and Trustees Robert, Gordon, O'Brien, Welsh, Stephens, King and Gerber.

The minutes of previous meetings were read and confirmed.

Salaries of teachers were ordered paid for months of June and July, and salary of janitor for June.

Trustee Stephens tendered his resignation as a member of the building committee, which was accepted, and Trustee O'Brien was elected to fill the vacancy.

Trustee King, chairman of the building committee, reported satisfactory progress regarding the building of the new school house.

Board adjourned to meet in special session next Monday evening.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

The Mayor's address to the City Council, on Tuesday night—published in yesterday's Planet—reviewing the municipal work of the past half year, and submitting suggestions for the ensuing six months, demands thoughtful perusal from the citizens. It was a happy innovation, for which his worship deserves credit.

The Council are acting wisely in holding a special meeting to deal with the contents of this message. Many of the suggestions are decidedly advisable and should be acted upon forthwith. Others, perhaps, will demand more serious consideration.

The address certainly furnishes the aldermen, and citizens with food for profitable contemplation and scope for progressive action.

THE GAME OF BOWLING.

Apart altogether from the natural impetus resulting from the large and successful tournament on Dominion Day, the game of bowling has taken a profound hold upon Chatham citizens.

And it is well it should be so. It is essentially the game of the business man. It furnishes pleasant exercise and recreation after the cares and worries of the day. It is doing a good work.

Last evening the scores that visited Tecumseh Park witnessed the universal interest and enthusiasm taken in this branch of athletics. From seven till nine o'clock the lawns were in use. The rinks skipped by Mr. S. J. Sutherland and Mr. N. H. Stevens respectively carried off the honors, and among their number were Messrs. Dr. Bray, Walker, Hutchinson, Von-Gunten, Webb, Thrasher, Tillson, Dr. Fleming, Reid, Robinson and many others.

This class of citizens elevate the game and it reciprocates by extending profitable relaxation from the day's duties, delightful recreation and pleasant social intercourse.

The game of bowling is doing much for Chatham.

MAKE THE APPOINTMENT.

From the editor's note in Tuesday's issue of our contemporary concerning the customs appointment at Tilbury it would appear that the Government is playing fast and loose with this matter.

The local organ says:

We would say that the local member, George Stephens, has assurance from the Minister of Customs that the office would be created and the appointment made as soon as the party in Kent agreed on an appointee. The Executive committee of the Liberal party in the County of Kent met during the winter and recommended W. A. Hutton, of Tilbury, for the position. Opposition developed among others believing they had just claims on the appointment and action was delayed. At a second meeting of the Executive held in Chatham on June 12 the previous action of the committee was endorsed.

If the Minister of Customs made the promise "that the office would be created and the appointment made as soon as the party in Kent agreed on an appointee," and if that agreement was reached during the winter and still endorsed—and there is no reason to doubt the statements of the Banner-News to this effect—why has the appointment not been officially confirmed?

Mr. Hutton, the nominee of the Executive, is a Tilbury man, principal of the Public school there, and fully qualified in every respect for the work.

Perhaps it is not particularly our business—this Government, dealing fast and loose with promises to its supporters. But it strikes us that no more honorable course is open to our member, Mr. George Stephens, than to demonstrate his good faith in the matter, by demanding of this Government immediate fulfillment and performance of its promise—especially when he has been its mouthpiece in the publication of that promise.

HOME OF THE FRIENDLESS.

The ladies of the Home of the Friendless held their regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon in Harrison Hall. There were present Mesdames Stevens, Ferguson, Fleming, Scane, Gassima, Snook, Tyhurst, McDonald and Misses Ryan and Kingston.

The following accounts were submitted: Ward accounts—Ward No. 1, J. Whelan, $2.50; Ward No. 2, J. B. Gurt, $2; Ward No. 3, J. Paul, $3.75. Home accounts—W. Somerville $3, W. Richards $3, Taylor & Williamson $12.14, N. Gorman $5, Wm. Potter $8.85, J. Morton $12.25, S. Margerson $1, Powell & Davis $1.72, T. Stone & Son $5.64, B. Cuyler 10 cts., Morton $12, Maid $8, Public General Hospital $10, railway passes $2.58, S. Johns, for Miss Burwell's funeral, $9.50, for David Cross, $9.50, for Mr. Harts, $9.50.

A nasty accident happened on one of the creek bridges Tuesday, which miraculously was not attended by a fatality. B. Hazelton and Son were drawing a heavy stick of timber with two teams, and while crossing the bridge at Smith's, the centre span gave way, precipitating everything into the creek below, a distance of nearly twenty feet. Strange to relate neither men, teams or trucks were injured.

High Constable Coogan was notified yesterday that the farmers living about two miles north of Thamsville had corralled a burglar in an oat field, and they wanted the High Constable to come up and make the arrest. BID THEM ALL FAREWELL

Rev. H. W. Locke's Parting Words to the Congregation of Victoria Ave. Church.

Impressive Service Held on Sunday—Thanks the Officials of the Church.

Rev. H. W. Locke spoke especially to the children on Sunday morning from John VI, 9.

"And they shall bring the glory and honor of the nations into it," were the words from Rev. XXVI, 21, that the pastor took for his text for his farewell sermon on Sunday evening.

He spoke of Heaven as God's great Art Gallery and at the present time preparing His people here on earth for His great gallery in Heaven. He believed, he said, that this was the best picture of Heaven we would ever have until "we could touch with our finger tips the pearly gates and golden."

Some, he said, might ask, "Where is Heaven?" He himself believed that Heaven was not very far away, and in fact, he believed that he was standing on the borderland of Heaven.

In conclusion he thanked the different departments of the church for the assistance they had given him during his stay in Chatham. He thanked the Trustees and Quarter Boards. He also mentioned the Sunday School, Epworth League, Choir and Ladies' Aid. The choir rendered special music for the occasion, the final anthem in the evening being, "Good-bye, Good-bye, and God Bless You."

On Sunday afternoon the Sunday School held a Good-bye service for Mr. and Mrs. Locke. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. Parrott, had members of the different departments of the Church give short addresses. Mr. Edmunds spoke on behalf of the Trustees Board; Mr. Frank McKeough, for the Quarterly Board, gave an eulogistic address in regard to Mr. Locke's pastorate in Chatham; the League was represented by the president, Mr. Fred Thompson, who spoke of the assistance that Mr. Locke had given to the League during the past three years; Mrs. Crow, as president of the Ladies' Aid Society, gave a short account of the work done by Mr. and Mrs. Locke in helping the ladies of the congregation.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Locke replied in a very able manner to the kind words that were spoken about them. Miss Clements gave a vocal solo and Misses Groves and Maggs sang a duet. Mr. Parrott, in closing, extended to Mr. and Mrs. Locke the best wishes of the school and wished them God-speed in their work.

A Child's Cry

Pierces the mother's heart like a sword. Often the mother who would do everything for the little one she loves, is utterly impotent to help and finds no help in physicians. That was the case with Mrs. Duncan, whose little one was almost blind with scrofula. But fortunately she was led to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and so cured the child without resorting to a painful operation.

The great blood-purifying properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery have been proved over and over again in cases of scrofula, eczema, eruptions, and other diseases which are caused by an impure condition of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which feed disease, and builds up the body with sound, healthy flesh.

"My little daughter became afflicted with scrofula, which affected her eyes," writes Mrs. Agnes L. Duncan, of Mansfield, Sebastian Co., Ark. "She could not bear the light for over a year. We tried to cure her eyes, but nothing did any good. We had our home physician and he advised us to take her to an oculist, as her eyelids would have to be 'scraped.' They had become so thick he thought she would never recover her sight. As there was no one else to whom we could apply my heart sank within me. I went to your Common Sense Medical Adviser, read your treatment on scrofula, getting the properties of medicines there advised. With five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I have entirely cured my child."

"Hoping this will be of some use to you and a blessing to other sufferers, with heartfelt thanks, I remain."

HIS REPLY

M. Wilson, K. C., Discusses the Efficiency and Satisfaction Given by the Privy Council

Matthew Wilson, K. C., president of the Western Law Association, has written Mayor Howland, of Toronto, as follows, in response to his request for information on the Privy Council, as published in Saturday's Planet: C. A. Howland, Esq., Mayor of Toronto, Toronto, Ont.

My dear Mr. Howland,—I have your favor of the 28th inst. with copy of London cablegram.

"Mills states Canada satisfied Privy Council. Could opinion Ontario and other bars be ascertained. Communicate Judge Emerson, Newfoundland, delegate, Innes Court Hotel."

SEVERAL YEARS ago there were some complaints that in Colonial Appeals a sufficiently strong Board would not in some instances sit in the Privy Council. I believe, however, that the members of the Judicial committee removed all cause for any such fears, and I have not since heard such complaints repeated.

Speaking for myself only, I may add that the Judicial committee has, I believe, given the greatest satisfaction to that body of a human tribunal where it is not to be expected that the unsuccessful party could be always convinced of error.

I do not think that the Colonial public confidence in decisions is increased by the fact that a Colonial Judge takes part in the hearing. Indeed I think it is a mistake to allow a Colonial Judge to sit also in appeal and determine there any question upon which he has given an opinion in the Courts below. If a Colony is to be honored and the Judicial committee of the Privy Council strengthened by the addition to that body of an eminent Colonial Jurist, then the latter should be removed entirely from the local surroundings and influences from which the other members of the committee are free.

The Canadian Bar and public would deplore the abolition of the right to appeal to His Majesty in Council. The disinterestedness, as well as the ability, of the members of that body gives great weight to and corresponding confidence in its decisions. The existence of a right to appeal gives a feeling of security to the Colonial litigant.

In my opinion the Canadian Bar would prefer that a Canadian Jurist should not sit at the Privy Council Board unless his connection with Canadian Courts is first severed. I shall lay the whole matter before the officers of the Western Bar Association of Ontario and of our Kent Bar Association, as it happens to be president of each of them, and if it is thought by them advisable to call any meeting I shall do so and advise you of the result.

Believe me,

Yours truly,

MATTHEW WILSON.

Several years ago there were some complaints that in Colonial Appeals a sufficiently strong Board would not in some instances sit in the Privy Council. I believe, however, that the members of the Judicial committee removed all cause for any such fears, and I have not since heard such complaints repeated.

Speaking for myself only, I may add that the Judicial committee has, I believe, given the greatest satisfaction to that body of a human tribunal where it is not to be expected that the unsuccessful party could be always convinced of error.

I do not think that the Colonial public confidence in decisions is increased by the fact that a Colonial Judge takes part in the hearing. HIS REPLY

M. Wilson, K. C. Discusses the Efficiency and Satisfaction Given by the Privy Council

Matthew Wilson, K. C., president of the Western Law Association, has written Mayor Howland, of Toronto, as follows, in response to his request for information on the Privy Council, as published in Saturday's Planet:

My dear Mr. Howland,—I have your favor of the 28th inst. with copy of London cablegram.

"Mills states Canada satisfied Privy Council. Could opinion Ontario and other bars be ascertained? Communicate Judge Emerson, Newfoundland, delegate, June Court Hotel."

Several years ago there were some complaints that in Colonial Appeals a sufficiently strong Board would not in some instances sit in the Privy Council. I believe, however, that the members of the Judicial committee removed all cause for any such fears, and I have not since heard such complaints repeated.

Speaking for myself only, I may add that the Judicial committee has, I believe, given the greatest satisfaction that is possible for a human tribunal where it is not to be expected that the unseasonable party could be always convinced of error.

I do not think that the Colonial public confidence in decisions is increased by the fact that a Colonial Judge takes part in the hearing. Indeed I think it is a mistake to allow a Colonial Judge to sit also in appeal and determine there any question upon which he has given an opinion in the Courts below. If a Colony is to be honored and the Judicial committee of the Privy Council strengthened by the addition to that body of an eminent Colonial Jurist, then the latter should be removed entirely from the local surroundings and influences from which the other members of the committee are free.

The Canadian Bar and public would deplore the abolition of the right to appeal to His Majesty in Council. The disinterestedness, as well as the ability, of the members of that body gives great weight to and corresponding confidence in its decisions. The existence of a right to appeal gives a feeling of security to the Colonial litigant.

In my opinion the Canadian Bar would prefer that a Canadian Jurist should not sit at the Privy Council Board unless his connection with Canadian Courts is first severed.

I shall lay the whole matter before the officers of the Western Bar Association of Ontario and of our Kent Bar Association, as it happens to be president of each of them, and if it is thought by them advisable to call any meeting I shall do so and advise you of the result.

Believe me,
Yours truly,
MATTHEW WILSON.

IN DISTRESS

Well Known Colored Woman Created Some Disturbance on Victoria Park the Other Morning.

Residents in the vicinity of Victoria Park were aroused early the other morning by the screams of a woman in distress. On examination, it is alleged that Martha Browning was found posing in the altogether on a park bench. It is still further claimed that the Maple City sourette was representing a statue of Venus much against her will, and the neighbors who heard her cries furnished her with clothes.

It seems the boys, wishing the maiden of uncertain plight to have a good time, procured for her a bottle of the liquid that electrifies. When Col. Stafford's sweetheart was sufficiently electrified, they removed all visible wearing apparel from the sleeping beauty and thus left her alone till she awoke and roused the neighbors.

 "Sakes an caterpillars, ain't I a-goin'
 to tell you?"

"I dunno, I'm shore. Don't look much like you're a-goin' to, though."
 "Great possuns an persimmons, I never see nobody in sich a pet an a stew as people have got to be. Ain't nobody got time to do nothin no more, seems like. A feller'll come a-ridin up yere to the fence an ask a question.
 Then if I don't jest jump out an break my neck a-answerin him he gits all riled up an 'lows I ain't never goin to tell him nothin. Lord a-massy, I never seed the like, an I reckon it'd be puvy hard to tell what the world's a-comin to anyhow."

"I'm not impatient, Uncle Jonathan."
 Sam replied, "but I would kinder like to know as soon as possible whar Melvin's at."

"To be shore you would, Sam. Lord, I know that. It stan's to reason that when you've come all the way over yere to see him you'd want to know whar he is. That's nat'ral."

"An you're a-goin to tell us, ain't you?"

"Why, Lord a-massy, Sam, to be shore I am. But, as I was a-sayin, I can't make out what's ever got into folks. Now, thar was that Melvin.
 Fust time he come yere he got all in a sweat an a swivet 'cause I said a word or two to him 'fore I asked him in the house. Then thar was that other young feller, thar Walte. Reckon you uns ain't seed nothin of him over thar 'bout Beckett's Mill, have you?"

"I guess not. Who is he?"
 "Lord a-massy, I ain't never goin to tell you. He was all in a sweat an a swivet, too, an he wouldn't tell me nothin, 'cep'n that his name was Walte an he was down yere lookin round for mineral. Reckon if I'd ask people questions an pry into their business I'd find out more 'bout 'em, but somehow that's somethin I can't do.
 You know that, Sam, you an Jason, too,
 jest as well as I do."

"Shore," Sam replied. "But you know whar Melvin is, so you can tell us 'bout that an jest let the other feller go."
 "Reckon that's 'bout all you uns are a-keerin for anyhow, ain't it?"

"Yes, jest at present."
 "Pears like you must be wantin to see Melvin right smart bad."

"Are you goin to tell what he's at?"
 "Lord a-massy, ain't I told you over an over I was? But to save my neck I can't make out what thar can be so pressin for you uns to see him about.
 Guess mebbe, though, you think that ain't a blamed bit of my business."

"Waal, mebbe that's so."
 "Then why didn't you say so at fust?"
 But you want to know whar Melvin is,
 do you?"

"Yes, that's what we want to know."
 "Waal, in that case, I'll jest tell you.
 He's over acrost Coon Run."

"Over acrost Coon Run?"
 "Them the words I spoke."
 "Yes, but whar 'bouts over thar?"
 "Lord a-massy, I don't know."

"But you said you could tell us whar he's at?"
 "Waal, hain't I?"

"Lord, thar ain't tellin us nothin. He mought be in a thousan' places over thar."

"Guess that's so, but I ain't responsible for that, as I can see."
 "An that's all you can tell us?"

"Yer speck. Say, Sam, reckon you ain't aggerin on tradin Melvin outen his house?"

Sam turned about and started off.
 "Come on, Jason," he said. "Thar's no use foolin 'way no more time here."
 "Whar you goin?" Jason asked, turning about also.

"Over acrost Coon Run."
 "Wont be no use," Jason grumbled.
 "Mought as well hunt for a fox in a cornfield as to hunt for anybody over thar."

Nevertheless they rode on until they were near Hi Jenkins' place, and as they approached the house they saw old Hi sitting on the wood pile, with his head resting on his hands.

"We'll jest ask old Hi if he's seed anything of Melvin round here," Sam said.

"No use to do that," Jason replied.
 "Why?"
 "Great land, Sam, can't you see he's a-settin thar waitin for his ager to come on?"

Without another word they turned and rode back toward Beckett's Mill.
 In the meantime Melvin had been at the Mill and gone again. It would have been better for him perhaps, and better for Sam Banks, certainly, if he had remained there until Sam and Jason returned.

firm, set expression there which showed that his mind was made up to a purpose and that there would be no wavering in fulfilling it. Like his class in general, he was slow to see his duty, but once having seen it there was no shirking it and no faltering in its discharge.

He believed all Sam Morgan had told him. In view of all he knew he had no shadow of reason for doubting. It was true, every word of it. Yet before he acted he would hear it from Louisa's own lips. He even hoped—hoped against hope—that she might in some way satisfactorily explain it all. Whatever she said he would believe. He would take her word against all the world.

When he reached home, he went directly to her. He noticed that she looked more sad and worn than he had ever seen her, and a feeling of pity and compassion stirred his heart to the very bottom. In his sympathies his own sufferings held the second place.
 His wife's were first.

Even as he stood before her he hesi-tated to speak, but not for long. Duty with him was duty, and it must be done, no matter how bitter the cost.
 With a quiet firmness that was surprising under the circumstances he spoke.

"Louesey," he said, "I'd rather be dead this minute than to speak the words I've got to say, but I feel it's my duty to speak, so that once an for all we may understand each other."

He paused a moment, and she glanced up inquiringly, then again bent her head over her work.

"Do you know, Louesey," he went on, "what all people are sayin about an Melvin?"

She shook her head, and he saw the color creep into her face.

"They are tellin that you met that man in the woods out thar an that you —Louesey, it's hard to say the rest, cruel hard, but it's best to say it. They say you told that man you loved him."

It was out, all out, and he waited for her to speak. But he waited in vain.
 Her head was lower over her work
 and her whole form seemed to droop, but she remained silent.

"Is it true, Louesey?" he asked after awhile, his voice strangely gentle and tender. "Tell me, is it all true, as they say?"

She did not answer.
 "Say 'Yes' or 'No,' Louesey," he insisted.

"Yes," she said in a tone scarcely audible.
 "An is it true, Louesey, that you do love him?"

"Yes." Then after a pause she added:
 "I can't help it. God knows I can't.
 I wish I was dead."

Sim turned to leave the room, but at the door he stopped.

"Louesey," he said, "I ain't blamin
 you. It ain't your fault that things has turned out like this. God knows it ain't."

Then he passed on and went to his own room. He picked up his gun and examined it and saw that it was in perfect order. He set it down where it would be handy to him, saying to himself:

"That's all I'll need, an it's all I'll take."

Then he took some papers from a little locked tin box and went out. He walked down the street until he came to the office of Squire Beeson, the justice of the peace. In all his movements he was as calm and deliberate as though nothing out of common had Powley's Liquified Ozone Saves the Life of Mrs. Sampson's Baby.

"I had given up hope of raising my darling, but through Ozone she is healthy."—MRS. SAMPSON, 391 Church St., Toronto.

"My baby was nearly a skeleton from indigestion, and I could not get anything to stay on her stomach, and I had given up hope of raising my darling, when by merest chance I was advised to try Powley's Liquified Ozone. I had not given her the Ozone for two days when all vomiting ceased, and in one month I scarcely knew my child, so great was the change. It is now two months since I first started giving her the Ozone, and her picture is proof of the work it has done. Mothers who desire their babies to live would profit by giving them Ozone. Any mother wishing to verify this can do so by calling or writing to my address, 391 Church street, Toronto, and find living proof."

(Signed), MADAME SAMPSON-LIVINSKI, 391 Church Street, Toronto.

You should be so careful of your child's health. You can easily make or mar its future happiness. Don't give drugs or medicines when the little one is sick. They are not the natural way to treat disease. Their action is to either stunt or deform. Now Nature's health-giving element is oxygen. There's not much oxygen in the city air—too many factories belching up carbonic acid gas for that, so you will have to resort to artificial oxygen. This you will get in Powley's Liquified Ozone—the new system of curing disease.

Appearing before the squire, he placed the papers on the desk, saying quietly:

"Can you make out a deed for me right away, squire?"
 "Shore," was the prompt reply.
 "Been sellin some of your land, Sim?"
 "No. I want the deed made out to Louesey."

The squire, having heard the talk about Louisa and Melvin, thought he understood the situation, and he was not surprised at Sim's words. It occurred to him at once that Sim and Louisa were going to separate and that Sim was going to divide his possessions with her.

"All right," he said, bringing out some blanks and preparing to fill in the deed. "What part of your land are you goin to give Louesey?"
 "All of it," Sim replied.
 "All?" the squire exclaimed.

"All," Sim replied.
 The squire laid his pen down and turned around, facing Sim. He took

PERILS OF FIREMEN.

IN THE GREAT CITIES THEIR LIVES ARE ALWAYS IN DANGER.

A New York Configuration That Illustrates the Kind of Daring That These Heroes Are Frequently Called Upon to Display.

Writing on the daring and the danger of firemen in The Century, Cleveland Moffett says: "In all its history I suppose the world has seen no heroes like these, who join the skill of gladiators with the valor of crusaders. Does that sound like exaggeration? I should call it rather understatement."

As illustrating the things firemen do every day and do gladly, he gives some incidents of one particular fire that happened in New York on St. Patrick's day, 1890. It was a pleasant afternoon, and Fifth avenue was crowded with people to watch the parade. A gayer, pleasanter scene it would have been hard to find at 3 o'clock on a sadder one at 4. The Ancient Order of Hibernians, coming along with bands and banners, were bearing Forty-sixth street when suddenly there sounded hoarse shouts and the angry clang of fire gongs, and down Forty-second street came Hook and Ladder 21, 4 on a dead run and swung into Fifth avenue straight at the pompous paraders, who immediately became badly scared Irishmen and took to their heels. But the big ladders went no farther. Here they were needed—oh, so badly needed—for the Windsor hotel was on fire—the famous Windsor hotel, at Fifth avenue and Forty-seventh street. It was on fire and far gone with fire (the thing seems incredible) before ever the engines were called, and the reason was that everybody supposed that of course somebody had sent the alarm.

And so they all watched the fire and waited for the engines, 10 minutes, 15 minutes, and by that time a great column of flame was roaring up the elevator shaft, and people on the roof in their mad panic were jumping down to the street. Then some sane citizen went to a fire box and rang the call, and within 90 seconds Engine 65 was on the ground. And after it came Engines 54 and 21.

Let's see how Hook and Ladder 21 came. She was the mate of the fire tower, and the rush of her galloping horses was echoing up the avenue just as Hook and Ladder 21 came. But there was no making up that lost 15 minutes. The fire had things in its teeth now, and three, four, five alarms went out in quick succession. Twenty-three engines had their streams on that fire in almost as many minutes. And the big fire tower came from Thirty-sixth street and Ninth avenue and six hook and ladder companies arrived.

Let's see how Hook and Ladder 21 came. She was the mate of the fire tower, and the rush of her galloping horses was echoing up the avenue just as Hook and Ladder 21 came. But there was no making up that lost 15 minutes. The fire had things in its teeth now, and three, four, five alarms went out in quick succession. Twenty-three engines had their streams on that fire in almost as many minutes. And the big fire tower came from Thirty-sixth street and Ninth avenue and six hook and ladder companies arrived.

As they drew along the curb Fireman McDermott sprang up the slowly rising ladder, and two men came behind with scaling ladders, for they saw that the main ladder would never reach the woman. Five stories is what it did reach, and then McDermott, standing on the top round, smashed one of the scaling ladders through a sixth story window and climbed on, smashed the second scaling ladder through a seventh story window, and five seconds later had the woman in his arms.

To carry a woman down the front of a burning building on scaling ladders is a matter of regular routine for a fireman, like jumping from a fourth story down to a net or making a bridge of his body. It is part of the business. But to have one foot in the air reaching for a lower step on a swaying, flimsy thing and to feel the other stop broad under you and to fall two feet and catch safely—that is a thing not every fireman could do. But McDermott did it, and he brought the woman safely to the ground—and the dog too.

Almost at the same moment the crowd on Forty-seventh street was gasping in admiration of a rescue feat even more thrilling. On the roof, screaming in terror, was Kate Flannigan, a servant, swaying over the cornice, on the point of throwing herself down. Then out of a top floor window crept a little fireman and stood on the fire escape grasping for air. Then he reached in and dragged out an unconscious woman and lowered her to others and was just starting down himself when yells from the street made him look up, and he saw Kate Flannigan. She was ten feet above him, and he had no means of reaching her.

The crowd watched anxiously and saw the little fireman lean back over the fire escape and motion and shout something to the woman. And then she crept over the cornice edge, hung by her hands for a second and dropped into the fireman's arms. It isn't every big, strong man who could catch a sizable woman in a fall like that and hold her, but this strapping did it because he had the nerve and knew how. And that made another life saved.

By this time flames were breaking out of every story from street to roof. It seemed impossible to go on with the rescue work, yet the men persisted even on the Fifth avenue front, bare of fire escapes. They used the long extension ladders as far as they could and then "scaled" it from window to window. Here it was that William Clark of Hook and Ladder 21 made the rescue that gave him the Bennett medal—took three women out of seventh story windows when it was like climbing over furnace mouths to get there.

And one of these women were reached only by working his way along narrow stone ledges for three windows and back the same way to his ladder, with a woman on his shoulder. Even so it is likely he would have failed in this last effort had not Edward Ford come part way along the ledges to meet and help him.

VIGOROUS WOMANHOOD.

Made Perfect by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—A Common Sense Treatment Which Does Exactly What is Claimed for it.

The happiness of every home depends very largely on the health of the wife and mother. If she is nervous, peevish and irritable, worried by the little cares of every day life, and tormented by pains and irregularities that are sure to accompany a rundown system, there can be no happiness in the home for husband and children.

Too many women are victims of nervous exhaustion, and do not know it. They suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia, nervous headache and sleeplessness, and drag themselves about the house feeling languid and tired but. The slightest mishap causes them to worry, and they feel gloomy and despondent.

Some women seem to think this a part of woman's existence. Not at all. You can be healthy and vigorous. It is only the advice of Dr. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author. He would not deceive you, and his treatment never disappoints.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is intended for just such weak and nervous women. It is above all a common sense treatment, which is approved of by physicians and laymen alike. By supplying the exhausted nerves the very materials of which nature constructs new nerve cells and new bodily tissue it gradually and certainly reconstructs and debilitated nervous system, cures nervous headache and dyspepsia, and permanently overcomes the weaknesses and irregularities from which women suffer so much.

Mrs. Chas. H. Jones, Piercetown, Que., writes:—

"For years I have been a great sufferer with my heart and nerves. I would take shaking spells and a dizzy, swimming feeling would come over me. Night after night I would never close my eyes, and my head would ache as though it would burst. At last I had to keep my bed, and though my doctor attended me from fall until spring his medicine did not help me.

I have now taken four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has done me more good than I ever believed a medicine could do. Words fail to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure brought about by this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is immensely popular among women, because it restores them to perfect vigorous womanhood, and does so by naturally and gradually toning up and invigorating the system, gently regulating the bowels, and strengthening the nerves. It costs only fifty cents a box; six boxes for $2.50. (At all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Company, Toronto.)

In some of the Swiss valleys the inhabitants are all afflicted with goitre or "thick neck." Instead of regarding this as a deformity they seem to think it a natural feature of the physical development, and tourists passing through the valleys are sometimes jeered by the goitrous inhabitants, because they are without this offensive swelling.

One time a woman from the town of Fribourg became so common that it is regarded as a natural and necessary condition of life. It is so, to a large extent, with what are called diseases of women. Every woman suffers more or less from irregularity, ulceration, debilitating drains, or female weakness, and this suffering is so common and so universal that many women regard it as a condition natural and necessary to their sex. It is a condition as unnatural as it is unnecessary. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription strongly restores the womanly functions, and regulates the womanly functions, so that woman is practically delivered from the pain and misery which eat up ten years of her life—between the ages of fifteen and forty-five. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Any man can go into a room full of women and pick out the one that thinks she is "advanced."

Distance for food often follows Gripe, and fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food, and give power to the stomach, there is no better remedy than equal Ferrozene. This is a new and startling discovery. Mr. McColl, druggist, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozene, how it cures and why it cures. Call to day and see him.

THE FUTURE OF CRICKET

"Onlooker" Writes an Entertaining Article on Local Prospects.

Enlist the Assistance of the Schools and Develop Enthusiasm in the Grand Game.

Gordon-McKay & Co's. representative cricketers began their tour through Western Ontario at Detroit on July 2nd and 3rd. They met Windsor to-day, Chatham will cross bats with them to-morrow. This team made quite an enviable reputation last season on their tour, winning nearly every game played.

Chatham has won its first two games of the season from Detroit. The first game was a remarkable one in that the visitors reached the unprecedented score of 11 runs. The second game, at Detroit, resulted in a very close score, 64 to 61. Now, gentlemen of the willow wielders, it becomes Chatham to add other victories to its credit. This can only be done by every member of the club practicing diligently one hour every night. A suggestion which has always stood in good service to the cricket practice is the arranging of matches such as Brooklyn vs. New York; Married vs. Single. The benedicts, who have lately had a tower of strength added to their force in the shape of a bowler of renown, are beginning to crow to the young bachelors. The bachelors think this cannot be tolerated by handicapped friends, and are anxious to settle all disputes on the crease, the game beginning at 3 p. m., on a date to be selected. The following is the strength of the respective sides:

Married—Kenny, Dennis, Nichols, Richards, Koffage, Woodward, Tye, Reese, Atkinson, West.

Single—Horstead, Wells, Aitken, Miller Brundage, Brundage, Mutchison, Robert, Reid, Angus, Richardson, H. Reeve, H. Richards, S. Mercer.

Of course the single men are perfectly willing should the benedicts be deficient in men, to allow some three or four of their number to be married, for the occasion, just to show that there is no bad feeling existing.

The above list shows good material for the organization of a second eleven. Kingsville has a new team with whom a game may be arranged.

Let this suggestion be followed up, for it is the school of development for the senior eleven. Besides it instills a love of the old game into the young mind. The Chatham Club is a venerable organization, dated back some fifty years ago; there have been developed a number of notable players from within its ranks and there is no reason but that cricket should be the great standard game of Canada. In order that this may come about it must be a feature of the public school curriculum. This is the case in Australia, and why should Canada take a back seat from Australia? This is a matter that the cricket organizations should act upon and act quickly.

There is getting to be too little exercise in the schools and too little attention is being paid to the physical development of the child out of regard for his mental training. This is not as it should be; nature does not justify it, and a sickly plant bears but little fruit. What is it if you have a child who has won his race through school to be a patient for a hospital at his graduation or to be physically impaired during his growing period. Why not the public schools carry out the idea. Some of the enthusiastic trustees who have bowed their heads and enter into the idea and there is no doubt but that an eleven could be organized in the Central school to play an eleven in the McKeough. It would not be in order for some generous cricketer enthusiast to offer a trophy to be competed for on Tecumseh Park by the opposing schools. Chatham has one of the best cricket organizations in Canada. Now if there is the material at our hands to make it the best, should we not be generous to a fault in promoting the love of the game in the public schools and in the meantime upholding Chatham's standing in the cricket world.

Thamesville had a very fine eleven but a few years ago. Mr. Sawyer no doubt brings his old team back to its allegiance. It is hoped he will. Several of the clubs are purposing holding a week's cricket by inviting all the surrounding teams for a day Chatham cannot be behind in the race. It is, therefore, requested that this matter be taken up by the club either verbally or by means of a meeting and all proper arrangements made for its being carried out.

Another point which has been discussed from time to time is the annual tour of the club. It is a matter of regret that of the late years this feature of club's games has been allowed to sleep; not only is this true, but it is still sleeping. Wake up! ye gods, and let there be definite arrangements made for one of the old-time tours. The citizens will no doubt be thoroughly interested in the club's success in this line. Not only this, but it adds new life to the game. It places the game in its time-honored position. It brings out recruits.

Now, gentlemen, it behooves the members to have both a week's cricket and a tour. If we can have but one, let us have the one; but we must have games to have a good club.

Men's Straw Hat Styles

The hatters have done well this season; brought out many nifty and becoming styles; and we have done our part in selecting and assorting them for you. From boys' up to elderly men's hats there is no gap in the range and variety. You may pick a straw hat here with the same satisfaction a robin feels in selecting his particular cherry from a whole ripe tree.

Boys' straws begin with three sailor styles at a quarter, a plain, fine, well bleached braid, with polka dot band, and two mixed braids. These are good and we have better at various prices up to 75c.

The stock is pretty strong in hats for youth's and very young men. Same styles as for older folks—with a little difference—and about any quality a young fellow wants to pay for.

For old and elderly gentlemen, there's a special Manilla hat, comfortably wide in the brim, costs $1.25.

Customers frankly appreciate our low priced straw sailors. There's one style in good light bleach with polka dot band and canvas sweatband, that looks like a mistake at 35c, but that's the price. You see we bought from the maker, and in large lots. You'll notice a natty mixed straw in the 50c stock,—a lattice braid in blue and white with blue band.

At 75c begin the fashionable rough straws, with plain or figured bands and double brims. Canton straws range from a popular hat at $1.25 to a finest sort at $2.00.
