PLANS GO AHEAD FOR FIRST OF FOUR MENS' RESIDENCES

The building of a new men's residence which was announced last Sunday is going ahead and already plans have been made for its construction. The proposed residence will be the first of four which are to be built in the open areas behind the Student Centre.

Architects are already working on plans for the new buildings and it is hoped that construction on the first of the block will start sometime next spring. If the work goes as expected the university authorities hope that the first group of students will take up residence in the fall of 1959. So many of the undergraduates at the University will see the opening of the new residences long before they graduate.

The president of the University Dr. Colin B. Mackay foresees an era of rapid expansion as a result of the recent gift of one hundred thousand dollars by the publisher of the Montreal Star, John W. MacConnell.

In a special statement issued here Wednesday, Dr. Mackay said: "Mr. MacConnell's gift has started a chain of events which may well mark the beginning of a new era for Canada's oldest university."

Dr. Mackay pointed out that this gift had prompted Premier Hugh John Flemming, on behalf of the provincial government, to promise the same substantial amount toward alleviating the university's residence problem.

"It has stimulated our Chancellor, Lord Beaverbrook, to launch an appeal to the citizens of New Brunswick for an additional $100,000. And Lord Beaverbrook has personally started this fund with a gift of $10,000.

Dr. Mackay's statement expressed the university's deep appreciation to Mr. MacConnell and its profound admiration for his contributions to the public welfare. The UNB president also extended the gratitude of the university community to Lord Beaverbrook for his initiative in promoting the fund.

Dr. Mackay confirmed Lord Beaverbrook's earlier announcement that the sum of $400,000 would be raised to build a residence for men.

"But this is only the beginning of a large-scale residence scheme which will change the face of the university. It is our intention that the complete project will provide accommodation for 400 men at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. We mean to start construction in the spring.

"Lord Beaverbrook's stirring appeal to the people of New Brunswick for assistance in this scheme reflects the university's desire to provide the best facilities for our young people," Dr. Mackay added.

For some years, the UNB president explained, the university's residence situation had grown steadily more serious. Lady Beaverbrook's Building, the only men's residence on the campus, was opened in 1930 when total enrolment was approximately 300. By doubling up, it today provides accommodation for 82 men. But enrolment in 1956 was close to 1,300.

More than 90 per cent of the students, the statement continues, were forced to seek accommodation in the city of Fredericton. The capital city, however, had been subject to heavy demands of the Camp Gagetown development, and accommodation had become scarce.

The situation would worsen, Dr. Mackay said, as the university's enrolment increased substantially over the next ten years.

"More residence accommodation at the university will enable us to attract more good students, will promote a community of spirit and will have a

WUSC Proposes Aid to Student PLAN TO BRING HUNGARIAN REFUGEE TO U.N.B.

Wednesday Deadline Set for Sale of Tickets

The demand for Canadian Players tickets among the High Schools of New Brunswick is so great that the tickets must be withdrawn from the market for UNB students on Wednesday. This was stated by Carl Wallace, who heads a ticket sales committee up the hill, yesterday.

The Canadian Players, who will present Hamlet and Peer Gynt in Fredericton next February, are an offshoot of the famous Stratford Ontario group.

Special student tickets will be on sale in the student Centre again next week, as well as in the Library. The price of this restricted issue of tickets is a mere two dollars which buys one ticket for each night.

You are advised not to procrastinate any longer, remember you have only until next Wednesday to buy tickets for this presentation of professional theatre in Fredericton.

At the meeting of the S.R.C. held on Wed. night Nov. 17 in the Oak Room a motion was passed to approve a suggestion made by Ron Pearsall of W.U.S.C. In view of the recent world developments in Hungary it was suggested that a Hungarian refugee be given a one year scholarship to U.N.B. Mr. Pearsall reported that there are 12,000 refugees, a large number of whom are students. There is a shortage of employment in Europe and therefore very little opportunity for the students to obtain further education. They have been fighting valiantly against Communism and well deserve the further education which Canada could help to provide.

Acadia University has considered a similar plan. In many other Canadian Universities W.U.C.S. sponsors foreign students. This would be the first time that U.N.B. has considered sponsoring overseas students.

The Council was asked its opinion and the majority of the students were strongly in favour of Mr. Pearsall's suggestion.

It was suggested that a levy be made on all students entering the university next year to cover the cost of the student's board. The technical end was not further discussed as Mr. Pearsall only wished to hear the Council's opinion before he continued his investigation.

Carel Van Vredenburg presented his report on weekly dances to the council. He recommended that the Social Committee have the actual responsibility, although various organizations on the campus would be responsible for the majority of the dances. The organizations in question would take a cut of the profits. The problem of a floor on which to dance has not yet been overcome. It was felt that the dances should be semi-formal, and that there be a small admission charge. They would be open to students going up the hill and to the students at the Teachers' College. It was hoped that they would begin shortly after the Christmas vacation, with the newly formed UNB band providing the music.

Mr. Teller reported to the council on his efforts to organize a card index of the students for the use of the SRC, and for the use of other campus organizations. His proposal was thought to be a good one by the administration, but they did not feel that they were able to do anything to help. The council asked its president to look further into the matter.

Jack Ernst in a letter to the council suggested that he give a short talk to the members on his experiences at the IUS conference in Prague this summer, as an observer for the SCM of Canada. This proposal was welcomed by the council and the speech will be given at next week's meeting.

The meeting closed after Jim MacDonald read a memo to the council from the registrar stating that no notices to the effect that lectures are cancelled must be posted on the campus.

The conference studied statistics on crisis in scientific education, and in use and wastage of universities is an emergency of grave national concern. It asked for provincial, federal, corporation and private financial support.

The NCCU, including Quebec, accepted this proposed federal aid to meet the expected doubling student enrolment in 1965.

A resolution was passed warning Canada that the crisis of the

AIR MARSHAL VISITS RCAF SQUAD

Air Vice Marshal J. J. Bryans, C.B.E., Air Officer Commanding, Training Command, visited the University of New Brunswick Tuesday as part of his tour of RCAF university squadrons.

AVM Bryans, whose headquarters are at Trenton, Ont., flew into Fredericton yesterday afternoon in an RCAF Dakota. He was accompanied by four officers: Wing Commander C. S. Gilliat, staff officer, ground training; Squadron Leader J. T. Dalton, staff officer, postings and careers; Squadron Leader A. M. Halkett, staff officer, air training; and Squadron Leader D. W. Carr, executive assistant to the A.O.C.

During his visit, AVM Bryans inspected the UNB squadron, which is commanded by Squadron Leader J. O. Dineen. Following the inspection, he delivered a short address to the cadets, in which he emphasized the importance of their training to Canada.

He said the RCAF was interested in university people as potential recruits, but equally important to the country, he stressed, was the familiarity obtained with problems of national defence by the cadets.

Earlier, the AOC and his party attended an informal dinner in beneficial effect on student morale and discipline," he concluded.

C.I.C. SPEAKER

Scheduled as speaker for the November 19th meeting of the UNB chemistry club is Dr. O. J. Walker, vice-president of the National C.I.C.

The topic of his lecture is a highly controversial topic, fluoridation in water supplies; one of great general interest nowadays. All interested persons, especially those in the chemical faculties are urged to attend. The meeting will be held in the Chemistry Hut, 7.00 p.m.

Canada Council created to Aid Universities

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the creation of Canada Council endowed with one hundred million dollars at the National Conference of Canadian Universities meeting in Ottawa. He also doubled university grants, subject to the approval of parliament, now amounting to sixteen million dollars.

Half the council grant will be used for building facilities of universities over ten years and interest on the other half to finance new council. The federal grant of sixteen million will be distributed through the MCCU which will be incorporated to do this.

The NCCU, including Quebec, accepted this proposed federal aid to meet the expected doubling student enrolment in 1965.

VOL. 89 FREDERICTON, N.B. NOVEMBER 16, 1956

Your Editor Speaks . . .

It was with a good deal of pleasure that we noted that UNB will finally be able to boast of finer Residence Facilities. It is no secret to anyone that this, the Provincial University, has in the last 15 years suffered from a painfully obvious lack of Residence space. Truly, the ratio, of students in Residence to the total is prodigious. Out of 1200 estimated students on the Campus over one thousand live in Boarding Houses in the City of Fredericton.

There was a time, it seems, when University authorities had considerable difficulty in filling the Lady Beaverbrook Residence. Those days are definitely over. With a great number of students in Residence, life at UNB will be vastly enriched, and college spirit significantly heightened.

Lord Beaverbrook has again taken the lead in another new, and much needed enterprise at UNB. In his statement, he pointed out that Mr. John W. McConnel of Montreal had generously contributed $100,000 toward the new Residence; the Provincial Government forwarded another $100,000; the Federal government is considering an equal increment to the fund; and finally that he himself had put $10,000 for similar use. In addition, The Lord Chancellor, appealed to the Citizens of New Brunswick for the remaining $90,000.

This situation provides us with two significant indications. It clearly demonstrates that Canada is taking an interest in this, The Provincial University of New Brunswick. That is, UNB has made its scholarship known throughout the country, with the result that persons far removed from New Brunswick are expressing concrete interest in our future. Lord Beaverbrook's faith in the people of New Brunswick as evidenced by the belief that they will contribute a substantial portion of the necessary money, is an indication of true interest in scholarship. What could be more fitting than for the population of this Atlantic Province, to demonstrate their concern for, and interest in, higher education, financially supporting their provincial university.

Letter to the Editor

The Editor,
The Brunswickan,
University of New Brunswick.
Dear Sir:

It is with great interest but more than a touch of disillusion that I have read the many criticisms re your reply to Mr. Thaler of "The Silhouette".

It is true that the reply was too sarcastic and indirect, but in the face of the issue it was a lot more polite than what McMaster's editor deserved. Since he himself admits that he is not questioning the validity of the NFCUS article but your editorial policy, isn't his own letter defeating his purpose? It is through the Canadian University Press that this exchange of university publications across Canada has been organized, and its contribution towards drawing closer the various campi is to be complimented. However, it is doubtful that they foresaw any editor of one university organ scrutinizing each paper for policy defects and writing letters to the student bodies across the country informing them that their rights are being usurped. That is exactly what Mr. Thaler did, and when one considers that "The Silhouette" and "The Brunswickan" compete for the very same trophy as the best bi-weekly college paper, Mr. Thaler's letter is almost a foolish contradiction of his argument. However, I did not notice anyone criticize his letter.

In the long run, it is unfortunate that NFCUS had to take another beating, since both Mr. Thaler and the many 'critics' seem to, through either a lack of knowledge or interest, dismiss the original issue which caused this whole rumpus in the first place.

Sincerely yours,
Bella Zworn, B.A. 3.

CAUSTIC COMMENT

by a disgruntled Co-Ed
Where can you find nicer, prettier or more intelligent Co-Eds than those on the campus of U.N.B.? They do have brains, although they often wisely conceal the fact because of the present trend of North American men to demand their women stupid, in order to flatter their own ego. If you question this, and you probably will, look at the number of girls in corresponding ratio to boys who flunk out! And if one wishes to investigate the means which it is often necessary to employ to repel the over-virulent U.N.B. student without hurting his tender feelings, it would reveal the true ingenuity and intelligence of the Co-Ed.

Complaints are often heard concerning the Co-Ed's appearance. In Economics we are taught that the supply fits the nature of

In Remembrance

On Remembrance Day, 1945, Dr. Bryan Priestman, then Head of the UNB Physics Dept., lost his life while trying to save that of another. A young boy, playing on the Railroad Bridge, slipped and plunged into the cold November waters of the Saint John River. Dr. Priestman unhesitatingly followed him; they both drowned.

Doctor Priestman was well liked both at the Provincial University and in Fredericton. His unflinching devotion to the University and his fine work in the Physics Dept. only heightened the deep sense of personal loss felt by his many friends. As a memorial to Dr. Priestman, the Bryan Priestman Memorial Lectures were inaugurated; lectures that were to be given by outstanding men in the fields of Arts and Science. To date, the people of Fredericton and the University have been privileged to hear such men as Harlow Shapley, Dr. Gamow, and Dr. Quastel, to mention only three.

November 11, Remembrance Day, is set aside each year to give humble appreciation to those who lost their lives in the cause of Freedom.

The "Brunswickan" wishes to express for all those at the University and in Fredericton who knew Dr. Priestman, gratitude and appreciation for a man we will never forget.

the demand. The male members of the college get what they deserve if the Co-Eds are not as well dressed as they might be. There just isn't any incentive. A normal date arrives in dirty tans, a plaid shirt and a U.N.B. jacket which has not seen the cleaners since it was purchased. They arrive thus dressed, with several days' growth of beard, shaggy hair and dirty fingernails. Perhaps the theory of reciprocity is

TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE FOR FALL PRODUCTION

Why Mem. Hall?

For the first time in many years the Drama Society is using Memorial Hall for a major production. This is not because we feel that the facilities in the Hall are good enough for the production of a play, but because the exodus to Mem. Hall was a necessity.

In previous years the society used either the Teachers College or High School stages downtown. But over the summer the governing bodies of these institutions raised the price of rental by almost one hundred percent. This meant that the club was quite unable to afford the rent on a stage.

This state of affairs forced the society to look elsewhere for a stage on which to produce its two scheduled plays this year. The only possible alternative to the theatres downtown was Memorial Hall: It seemed, at first, that to produce a play on the stage was going to be very difficult. But the stage crew, under Bill Pollock, worked hard and the technical monstrosities were soon overcome. The director and actors have worked equally hard and they too quickly overcame any difficulties which confronted them.

THE DIRECTOR

The director of the fall production is a relative newcomer to the society. Miss Joan Mansfield joined the Drama Society soon after her arrival in Fredericton last year. Before her settlement in New Brunswick she had a distinguished training in many fields of Drama.

She studied for two years at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London, England. After her course she joined a repertory company in England.

After two summers in repertory she came to Toronto. While in Toronto she had considerable experience with the CBC, acting in many dramatic productions. Last year she arrived in Fredericton and immediately played a leading role in the Drama Society production of four one act plays.

"The Biggest Thief in Town" is her first experience as a director, we confidently expect that

WHY STUDENTS MUST PAY

When the Drama Society Budget came before the Students Council earlier in the year many of its members were rather shocked that the Society intended to charge students admission to their fall production. There was good reason for this move, but it is a move which we think should be explained to the students in case of any misunderstanding.

One of the requirements for a club being granted money by the SRC is that students should not pay to partake in its activities. Therefore the Drama Society does not charge the students an entrance fee for one production a year.

In the past few years the Society has staged only one major production. This year we are attempting more; the members are staging two major productions. To do this we need more money than in previous years and unfortunately the Students' Council is unable to grant the Society any more money than last year. So we were forced to look elsewhere for a source of revenue. The only possible solution was she will be as successful in her new role, as she has been as an actress.

Present were thirty-three university presidents, federal, provincial, national and American representatives totalling 136. The three-day conference at the Chateau Laurier was financed by the Carnegie Corporation.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Drama Society will stage its first production of the year. It takes place in Memorial Hall at 8.15 p.m. Tickets can be bought in the Student Centre, from members of the Society or at the door on the night of performance.

The Fall production is the "Biggest Thief in Town", a comedy in three acts by Dalton Trumbo. Perhaps the easiest way to sum it up is to call it a concentrated 'Red 'n Black' in three acts!

The play tells of an undertaker in a small Colorado town, who because of his kind heart, is unable to do all he would wish for his young daughter. His great chance to remedy the situation comes with the impending death of a local multi-millionaire. The only snag in his scheme is that the old man wishes to be buried by a larger firm in Denver. However the undertaker thinks up a plot to win the right to the funeral. This he carries out with the help of his hard drinking friends.

The undertaker is played by Phil Reynolds, a freshe-soph.; his drinking partner is played by Pat Blake, another actor who is new to the society. The young couple is played by Ian Robb and Noreen Keith, both are in their freshman year. Others in the cast include, Jim Jardine, Doug Gibson, Elsworth Briggs and Joan Yeomans.

The cast is a young one, a policy which has been instituted this year by the society to get the freshmen working on stage as soon as possible, from the results shown during rehearsals it seems that this policy will be a success.

The set was designed by Bill Pollock, and erected by his hard working stage crew, who have done a fine job in converting the elevated platform in Mem hall into a stage.

Danger, men at work! Three of the advertising men shown hard at work planning the campaign. Pat Blake seems quite intent on Dave Cooke's drawing while Elsworth Briggs seems quite intent on Dave Cooke.

U.N.B. BAND PRACTISES

PLANS AWAIT NEW INSTRUMENTS

Pictured is the University Band. The present strength of the band is approximately twenty-five members, most of whom have had previous band experience. There remain, however, many musicians in the college who, due to the lack of an instrument cannot take part. This situation will be rectified in the near future as delivery of a complete set of band instruments purchased by Lord Beaverbrook is expected shortly.

Plans for the future are for a forty-five piece band that will be able to play at all college occasions and sports events.

The repertoire will include not only marches but also light classical selections and modern popular tunes. The band's conductor Mr. Trythall has made it known that he plans to have the band learn precision marching and drill formations.

It is hoped that, when the band reaches full strength that it will become an important part of college activities and help to make UNB more music conscious.

EngineEars

by Red 'N Black

"Where's The Bulldozer?" some 500 engineers are asking. Look closely—EngineEars, alias The Bulldozer, is your engineering column under a new title. We have been meditating for some time (yes, even engineers can meditate) about a more related name for (y)our column. Finally, some inspired fellow engineer suggested EngineEars. Since we are the ears of the engineering faculty, EngineEars seems very fitting. Hope you like it.

The spirited smoker held last week gave the engineers the opportunity to get together for a stimulating social evening. Although statistics as to the course of events are somewhat lacking, we did manage to learn that the third year civil engineers received a free quart of beer each. Congratulations, boys, for having the highest engineering percentage in the recent blood donor clinic. During the early part of the evening records showed that the seniors had consumed some 96 quarts, the sophomores—75. To quote one who knows: "I just lost track after that!" An exhilarating discussion must have taken place sometime that evening, for our Engineering Society President has been sporting a beautiful shiner ever since. What happened, Dave?

Don't forget that the contest for the drawing of a free engineering jacket closes on the 30th. 90 jackets must be sold by that time to make the contest valid. Contact the engineering store for details. Monday, the 19th, is the date of the next Engineering Society meeting. See you there.

Yes, they do say that! So if you think that girls should or should not drink in moderation let it be known! At U.N.B., once it becomes known that a girl drinks at all, unless she is of sterling character, she immediately has a bad reputation, and this is utter nonsense.

WRITER'S WORKSHOP

by C. A. Brewer

It is a lonely island, that island of the Atlantic. From its long, low beach to its highest peak, the land is almost entirely without vegetation. A few blades of grass abide here, but even these are stunted and remain a dull green through most of the year.

At dawn, the slopes of the island appear not unlike mounds of soft clay which have been thrown there by some impatient sculptor. As we come closer, however, unmistakable lines of rock face emerge. Small holes and fissures scar the uneven features, while a thousand hues reflect from the heterogeneous rock. The shadows retreat farther and farther into the crevasses, as the sun, unperturbed today by either cloud or fog, climbs to its highest station.

The sheer barrenness of the island discourages all animal life except those hearty scavengers of the sea, the gulls. These birds, in another of nature's mysteries, have come to make this forbidding place their home. Hundreds of them are on the beach where their nests are located; others perch proudly on the cliffs, or glide with an almost effortless motion through the air. Like specks of ivory whiteness they dot the blue screen of the heavens, and not even the ugly grey colours of the young birds can hide such beauty. Yes, the gulls belong here. And as if they sense the grim solitude of the island, their mournful voices cry out over the sea.

The beach is interesting, not only as the habitat of the gulls, for it is a place of variety and splendour. A great number of small stones rest at the water's edge. Trying to claim these for her own, the sea has covered them richly with a green film of seaweed. Golden sand shines in the sunlight farther up the beach, and strikes a sharp contrast with those lower rocks. Above, the stretch of sand is another line of stones reaching to the foot of the cliffs. But these are mainly large in size, and are free from any camouflage. Here are fragments of granite, white quartz, red quartz, limestone and sandstone. Amazingly, all appear to have a common resemblance. No matter how large or of what quality the boulders are, their edges seem to be in the process of being worn away. Not only this, but they are slightly oval shaped. Erosion has done its work so well that a piece of coloured glass lying among the stones looks like a precious gem.

One hundred yards from the shore two large rocks protrude from out of the grasping waters. They await the enemy, and then it comes. Like a line of charging Cossacks, the wave sweeps all before it until it reaches the outer barrier. The two staunch defenders are nearly swallowed in the onslaught, and snow white foam is smashed far into the air. Now, the first obstacles are past, and the wave gleefully rushes on. It breaks upon the beach, unaware that already its strength has been diminished. The wave must die and die it does, falling far short of the drift wood and other debris which mark the highest advance of the tide. The water falls back humiliated, but even in doing so, it draws a sigh of anguish from millions of pebbles. No quarter is given, no mercy shown in this battle for survival; one wave follows another in quick succession.

So there the island stands, wrinkled by wind and water, battered by the elements, but still defiant, still holding its head high above the onrushing sea. It stands as a symbol of strength and courage. It commands the respect of those who see it.

Council Completes Slate for 1956-57

The student representative council completed its numbers on Tuesday with the election of two Sophomore representatives. The slate of Freshmen representatives to the council was completed with the close of nominations two weeks ago, there being only six nominations for the seven Freshman seats on the council. So the council starts off the year one short—there is no Freshette in the group.

The voting for Sophomore representatives was poor, only 25% of the class exercising its franchise. The race itself was equally uninspiring, George Bastin winning by an easy margin from Peggy Colpitts.

The directorship of the Red 'N Black was decided with vote for Senior Class President, for a convention states that the president of the Senior Class shall be the Director of the annual revue. Jim Brooks, a star of previous shows, won the honour by beating Hazen Marr by a convincing margin. The interest in the position was shown by the percentage of the class that turned out to vote; 59% is well above the average for Fall election.

The most keenly contested fight was that for the position for Secretary-Treasurer of the Sophomore Class in which Norma Wiley nosed out Dawn Bell by a mere two votes. Terry Champion easily won the contest for Vice-President of the Class from Joan Young and Skip Stewart.

ALVA WHITE (with blueprint plans) 1953 engineering graduate of McGill University. Now an engineer, buildings, at the Bell, he performs the duties of field supervisor on new Company construction projects of all kinds.

What are some of the reasons why more and more college graduates are joining the Bell? Read Al White's report on his first year with the Company:

"What I like about my work as a field supervisor is the feeling of responsibility. I like the way I'm handed a job with the statement, 'We're going to build—it's all yours!'."

"I also like the way in which my college training is being put to use. In my first month, I made quite a number of visits with an experienced Bell engineering supervisor to new buildings under construction. These visits gave me a clear picture of that phase of my work. I'm always surprised how frequently I can apply my college training, for example, trigonometry, maths and considerable surveying for new micro-wave tower sites at remote locations.

"At the earliest possible moment, I was put 'on my own' and given all the responsibility one could ask for. Delegating of authority has been 'tops' and the teamwork is good, too, for the Bell is a company where management-employee relationship really works.

"At present, about 50% of my time is spent out of the office, and I enjoy meeting the public, architects, contractors and other professional men in my work.

"I'm glad I joined the Bell!"

Numerous friends of Al's at the University now also work for the Bell. If you, too, want interesting variety and increasing responsibility in a rapidly growing organization, have a talk with the Bell Employment Officer when he visits your campus!

O'CONNOR TOPS BOMBERS

U.N.B.'s MIKE TALLIES 26 POINTS FOR THIRD PLACE IN THE N.B.C.R.F.U.

Mike O'Connor led University of New Brunswick Red Bombers in scoring during the 1956 New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union campaign.

The hard-driving end scored a total of 26 points in four games, finishing in third place in the league scoring. Top point-getter was Richie Bateman, speedy Mount Allison University Mountie, who compiled 42 credits. In second spot was Bill Keleher, triple-threat Saint John Wanderer. He counted 28.

The twenty-year-old Bateman compiled seven touchdowns. Keleher came up with three touchdowns, two converts, two rouges and a pair of field goals.

O'Connor racked up his 26 points on three majors and eight converts.

Won Last Year

Fred O'Brien, who coached Saint John Wanderers this year, won the scoring crown in 1955 with 30 points.

Mount Allison Mounties who won the league title and the Senator J. P. Burchill Trophy were the top offensive and defensive team in the circuit. They racked up 152 scoring points, to 45 against.

Charlie MacLaughlin, plagued by a knee injury towards the end of the season, emerged as the top convert kicker with 11. Second spot went to O'Connor with eight.

SKATING

If enough people are interested in figure-skating this year, lessons will be taught. Professor Lovell Clark has agreed to instruct the co-eds and any boys who are interested. Janet Hunter will also be on hand to instruct the co-eds.

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL

The intramural softball season is over and the Senior Engineers have emerged the champions. They beat the Intermediate Engineers twice in the playoffs 6-4, 6-4.

CLASS(IC) HOCKEY OPENS SUNDAY

Have you signed up yet to play intramural hockey? If not, there are going to be lots of teams in the league this year so get your name on the list. Games will be played in the Lady Beaverbrook Rink. Anyone wishing to sign up should get in touch with the Athletic office at once as workouts will begin this Sunday.

The teams are: Freshman W, Senior Engineers, Freshman Foresters, Freshman Arts and Science, Sophomore Foresters, Foresters 345, Sophomore Engineers, Intermediate Engineers, Freshman Engineers, and Business Administration.

Practices will be held this coming Sunday for the following teams.

1.30: Senior Engineers vs. Foresters 345.

2.30: Arts and Science vs. Freshman Foresters.

3.30: Sophomore Engineers vs. Sophomore Foresters.

4.30: Freshmen Engineers vs. Freshman W.

Stan Trzop With Queen's Gridders

A former UNB grider is drawing high praise this year as a lineman with Queen's Golden Gaels. He's Stan Trzop.

Reports the QUEEN'S JOURNAL:

"Trzop, from the University of New Brunswick, appears to be a 'find' at centre guard and has been playing outstanding football since his arrival."

Gaels are defending the Inter-collegiate Union championship against McGill, Toronto and Western.
