

The Acadian.

HONEST, INDEPENDENT, FEARLESS.

WOLFVILLE, KINGS CO., N. S. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1904.

NO. 21.

THE ACADIAN
One Year to Any Address for $1.00.

THE ACADIAN.
Published every Friday morning by the Proprietors.
DAVIDSON BROS.,
WOLFVILLE, N. S.
Subscription price is $1.00 a year in advance.
Newspapers from all parts of the country, or articles upon the topics of the day are cordially solicited.
ADVERTISING RATES
$1.00 per square (2 inches) for first insertion, 25 cents for each subsequent insertion.
Contract rates for yearly advertisements furnished on application.
Reading notices can be put on a line for insertion, two and a half cents per line for each subsequent insertion.
ROLES
Copy for advertising must be received by Thursday noon. Copy for notices in contract advertisements must reach the printer by Wednesday noon.
All advertisements must be paid for in advance unless otherwise specified.
This paper is mailed regularly to subscribers until a definite order to discontinue is received and all arrears are paid in full.
Job Printing is executed at this office in the latest styles and at moderate prices.
All printers and news agents are authorized agents of the ACADIAN for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, but receipts for same are only given from the office of publication.
POST OFFICE, WOLFVILLE.
Office Hours, 8.00 a. m. to 4.30 p. m.
Mails are made up as follows:
For Halifax and Windsor close at 6.35 a. m.
Express west close at 9.45 a. m.
Express east close at 4.30 p. m.
Kentville close at 6.10 p. m.
Geo. V. RAND, Post Master.

CHURCHES.
BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. L. D. Moraw, M. A., Pastor. Services: Sunday, preaching at 11 a. m. and 7.00 p. m.; Sunday School at 2.30 p. m. B. Y. P. U. prayer-meeting on Tuesday evening at 7.45, and Church prayer-meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30. Woman's Missionary Aid Society meets on Wednesday following the first Sunday in the month, and the Woman's prayer-meeting on Sunday at 3.30 p. m. Sunday School at 2.30 p. m. All seats free. Ushers at the door to welcome strangers.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. E. M. Dill, B. D., Pastor, St. Andrew's Church, Wolfville: Public Worship every Sunday at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m. Prayer Meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30. All seats free. Ushers at the door to welcome strangers.
METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. Geo. F. Johnson, Pastor. Services on the Sabbath at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sabbath School at 10 o'clock, a. m. Prayer Meeting on Thursday evening at 7.30. All seats free and strangers welcomed at all the services. At Greenwood, preaching at 3 p. m. on the Sabbath, and prayer meeting at 7.30 p. m. on Wednesdays.
CHURCH OF ENGLAND.
ST. JOHN'S PARISH CHURCH, OF HORNS
—Services: Holy Communion every Sunday, 9 a. m.; first and third Sundays at 11 a. m. Matins every Sunday 11 a. m. Evensong 7.15 p. m. Wednesday Evensong, 7.30 p. m. Special services in Advent, Lent, etc., by notice in church. Sunday School, 10 a. m.; Superintendent and teacher of Bible Class, the Rector.
All seats free. Strangers heartily welcome.
Rev. R. F. DIXON, Rector.
Robert W. STORRS, Wardens.
Frank A. Dixon, Organist.
ST. FRANCIS (R. C.).—Rev. Mr. Kennedy, P. E.—Mass 11 a. m., the fourth Sunday of each month.
THE TABERNACLE.—Mr. N. Crandall, Superintendent. Services: Sunday, Sunday School at 2.30 p. m.; Gospel service at 7.30 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

MASONIC.
ST. GEORGE'S LODGE, A. F. & A. M.
meets at their Hall on the second Friday of each month at 7.30 o'clock.
F. A. DIXON, Secretary.
TEMPERANCE.
WOLFVILLE DIVISION of T. meets every Monday evening in their Hall at 7.30 o'clock.
CHRYSTAL BIRD OF HOPE meets in the Temperance Hall every Friday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock.
FORESTERS.
Court Eldonville, L. O. F., meets in Temperance Hall on the third Wednesday of each month at 7.30 p. m.

REPAIRING STATION.
Bicycles repaired and cleaned. Lawn Mowers put in order. Locks repaired and keys fitted.
Bicycle Findings.
Alfred Suttie.
Fred H. Christie
PAINTER
AND
PAPER HANGER.
Best Attention Given to Work Entrusted to Us.
Orders left at the store of J. W. Sleep will be promptly attended to.
PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

W. F. PARKER,
AGENT,
Wolfville, N. S.
Dentistry.
Louis Saunders, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE AND LATE DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND.
Crown and Bridge work a Specialty. Anesthetics administered for Painless Extraction.
Will be at Wolfville Friday and Saturday of each week.
Office and door east of Dr. Bowlin's.

Wm. Regan,
HARNESS MAKER.
HOUSE TO LET.
On Central Avenue, six rooms, comfortably fitted up with all the modern improvements. Bath room, furnace etc.
Apply to C. S. STEWART.

WOLFVILLE COAL & LUMBER CO.,
GENERAL DEALERS IN
Hard and Soft Coals, Kindling-Wood, Etc.
Also Brick, Clapboards, Shingles, Sheathing, Hard and Soft Wood Flooring and Rough and Finished Lumber of all kinds
AGENTS FOR
THE BOWKER FERTILIZER CO.,
BOSTON.
And Haley Bros., St. John.

Do You Want Money?
The Nova Scotia BUILDING SOCIETY.
Can supply you at the lowest rates and on most advantageous terms.
95 HOLLIS ST., HALIFAX.
G. H. LONGARD, Sec. T. eas.
W. F. PARKER,
AGENT,
Wolfville, N. S.
Dentistry.
Louis Saunders, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE AND LATE DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND.
Crown and Bridge work a Specialty. Anesthetics administered for Painless Extraction.
Will be at Wolfville Friday and Saturday of each week.
Office and door east of Dr. Bowlin's.

A GOOD ASSORTMENT OF ALL KINDS OF PLANTS!
Freeman's Nursery,
WOLFVILLE.
Roses, Carnations and Other Cut Flowers.
Weddings and Funeral Designs a Specialty.
W. A. FREEMAN,
WOLFVILLE.

SIO REWARD!
As we are under considerable expense in repairing street lights that are maliciously broken, we offer the above reward for information that will lead to the conviction of the guilty parties.
Offenders will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.
Job Printing is executed at this office in the latest styles and at moderate prices.
All printers and news agents are authorized agents of the ACADIAN for the purpose of receiving subscriptions, but receipts for same are only given from the office of publication.
POST OFFICE, WOLFVILLE.
Office Hours, 8.00 a. m. to 4.30 p. m.
Mails are made up as follows:
For Halifax and Windsor close at 6.35 a. m.
Express west close at 9.45 a. m.
Express east close at 4.30 p. m.
Kentville close at 6.10 p. m.
Geo. V. RAND, Post Master.

Leslie R. Fain,
ARCHITECT,
WOLFVILLE, N. S.
Edwin E. Dickey, M. D.,
Wolfville, N. S.
Office: Two doors east of Manual Training Hall. Telephone No. 5.

J. F. Herbin,
GRADUATE OPTICIAN
and WATCHMAKER,
Wolfville, N. S.
Ten years experience in the examination of eyes and the fitting of glasses. Scientific methods used and satisfaction guaranteed.
Have you seen the latest thing in eye glasses?

what of the future?
Do You want to be better off than you are now? In your old age do you wish to live in ease and comfort? In the event of your death do you wish your family to enjoy in some degree the comforts you can now provide for them?
IF SO Apply at once for a policy with THE ROYAL VICTORIA LIFE INSURANCE CO.
TO-DAY you are in good health — BUT
WHAT OF THE FUTURE?
JOHN T. PURDON,
General Agent
Wolfville, N. S.
C. M. VADORN.
F. W. WOODMAN.

Do You Want Money?
The Nova Scotia BUILDING SOCIETY.
Can supply you at the lowest rates and on most advantageous terms.
95 HOLLIS ST., HALIFAX.
G. H. LONGARD, Sec. T. eas.
W. F. PARKER,
AGENT,
Wolfville, N. S.
Dentistry.
Louis Saunders, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE AND LATE DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND.
Crown and Bridge work a Specialty. Anesthetics administered for Painless Extraction.
Will be at Wolfville Friday and Saturday of each week.
Office and door east of Dr. Bowlin's.

Wm. Regan,
HARNESS MAKER.
HOUSE TO LET.
On Central Avenue, six rooms, comfortably fitted up with all the modern improvements. Bath room, furnace etc.
Apply to C. S. STEWART.

All those who work with hand or brain are strengthened and invigorated by a good cup of tea.
HARRY W. deFOPEST, Direct Importer and Blender, ST. JOHN N. B.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Feed your hair; nourish it; give it something to live on. Then it will stop falling, and will grow long and heavy. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the only hair food you can buy. For 60 years it has been doing just what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.
It is the only hair food that has been doing just what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.
It is the only hair food that has been doing just what we claim it will do. It will not disappoint you.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY CO.
ON AND AFTER OCTOBER 15th, 1903, trains will run as follows, connecting at Truro with I. C. N. train and at Windsor with the D. A. R.:
Leaves Truro at 7.00 a. m., arrive in Windsor 9.45 a. m.
Leaves Truro at 3.15 p. m., arrive in Windsor 5.35 p. m.
Leaves Windsor at 7.35 a. m., arrive in Truro 10.10 a. m.
Leaves Windsor at 10.45 a. m., arrive in Truro 1.25 p. m.
Leaves Windsor at 5.45 p. m., arrive in Truro 7.55 p. m.
H. V. HARRIS,
General Manager.

J. F. Herbin,
GRADUATE OPTICIAN
and WATCHMAKER,
Wolfville, N. S.
Ten years experience in the examination of eyes and the fitting of glasses. Scientific methods used and satisfaction guaranteed.
Have you seen the latest thing in eye glasses?

what of the future?
Do You want to be better off than you are now? In your old age do you wish to live in ease and comfort? In the event of your death do you wish your family to enjoy in some degree the comforts you can now provide for them?
IF SO Apply at once for a policy with THE ROYAL VICTORIA LIFE INSURANCE CO.
TO-DAY you are in good health — BUT
WHAT OF THE FUTURE?
JOHN T. PURDON,
General Agent
Wolfville, N. S.
C. M. VADORN.
F. W. WOODMAN.

Do You Want Money?
The Nova Scotia BUILDING SOCIETY.
Can supply you at the lowest rates and on most advantageous terms.
95 HOLLIS ST., HALIFAX.
G. H. LONGARD, Sec. T. eas.
W. F. PARKER,
AGENT,
Wolfville, N. S.
Dentistry.
Louis Saunders, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE AND LATE DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND.
Crown and Bridge work a Specialty. Anesthetics administered for Painless Extraction.
Will be at Wolfville Friday and Saturday of each week.
Office and door east of Dr. Bowlin's.

Do You Want Money?
The Nova Scotia BUILDING SOCIETY.
Can supply you at the lowest rates and on most advantageous terms.
95 HOLLIS ST., HALIFAX.
G. H. LONGARD, Sec. T. eas.
W. F. PARKER,
AGENT,
Wolfville, N. S.
Dentistry.
Louis Saunders, D. D. S.,
GRADUATE AND LATE DEPARTMENT OF UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND.
Crown and Bridge work a Specialty. Anesthetics administered for Painless Extraction.
Will be at Wolfville Friday and Saturday of each week.
Office and door east of Dr. Bowlin's.

Wm. Regan,
HARNESS MAKER.
HOUSE TO LET.
On Central Avenue, six rooms, comfortably fitted up with all the modern improvements. Bath room, furnace etc.
Apply to C. S. STEWART.

All those who work with hand or brain are strengthened and invigorated by a good cup of tea.
HARRY W. deFOPEST, Direct Importer and Blender, ST. JOHN N. B.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

The Fiftieth.
In the handsome waiting-room of the great oculist there were, on that dismal day of rain and fog, but few waiters. There were but two. They sat the width of the room apart, and gazed abstractedly out of the opposite windows. There was not one apparent trace of similarity between them except the fact of their waiting together in that room.
"Spectacles! I won't do it," Constance Quay was fuming inwardly. "I can't wear eyeglasses, but spectacles could wear them and talk. It's never. He may talk and talk. It's too dreadful to be borne! And to take them off—never! And to take them off—that was what he said. I heard him tell daddy. No! No! No!"
The girl was sweet and demure from her beautiful hair to the soles of her pretty boots. Every detail of her lovely face. She looked straight out into the rain through wonderful indignant grey eyes. She tapped nervously with her fingers on the window sill. The faint, indefinable perfume that enveloped her stole across the room on the breeze to the other woman.
"The idea! Oh, why can't they see what it would mean to me—daddy and Dr. Bell and Aunt Pamela? One might as well be deformed and done with it as to go through life spectacles like an old woman! I tried 'em the housekeeper's when she didn't know—I looked at myself in the glass. It was awful, but I had to do it. And—I saw!"
The climax of her thought wrung a little groan from her lips. Constance Quay had never known a trial before, and the taste of this one was bitter on her tongue like gall. She was sure she could not bear it. She was sure no one else had ever had so terrible a possibility looming up before her.
"He told daddy I'd have to wear spectacles—spectacles—spectacles—like the housekeeper's spectacles. He told daddy so," her thoughts whirled on.
Her eyes turned toward the beautiful, sunlit room, and roved about its luxuriant appointments, coming to rest on the other water across the room. She wore spectacles. Constance shivered unconsciously.
"He is so long. It is terrible to wait!" Judith Reese mused. "She will go in first, that other girl, and I shall sit here and wait—and wait! It is the hardest part to wait!"
As the minutes lengthened into a half hour of waiting, she could not subdue her anxiety. It was impossible, she could not sit still. She got up and walked about restlessly.
"The other girl" watched her in idle misery of her own. She saw her take off her glasses and grope ahead of her like a blind person. It reminded her of when she was a little tot, and "played blind," with a tight hold of her nurse's hand.
By and by the incongruity of her being there at all occurred to Constance. Dr. Bell's prices were notoriously high, and the girl in her shabby red and sailor hat did not suggest a fit price. She had come to the wrong place, probably—why, yes, another Dr. Bell around the corner, who performed miracles of healing in general. The papers all teemed with his advertisements. Daddy had joked this patriotic, blue-blooded Dr. Bell about him. Now Constance remembered distinctly.
Judith Reese's aimless circlings around the room ended near Constance. Suddenly Judith halted. She began to speak hurriedly, her voice strained and high.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it?"
"I beg your pardon."
Constance drew her slight figure up frigidly, and her skirts rustled softly.
"It's Wednesday, ain't it, to-day?"
"Yes, it is Wednesday."
There was a tone of finality in the cool, low voice. It seemed to end the conversation indefinitely. But the other voice went on.
"I made sure it was; of course I knew it was. But I had a sudden feeling that I'd made a mistake, maybe. And then I got to be afraid."
A faint color deepened in her pale cheeks. She peered into Constance's face with near-sighted eyes.
"Wednesdays are the days I'm free—ain't they? The consultant, I mean. Of course I know it is, only—"
It seemed difficult for her to go on. She circled about the room once more, and came back to the same spot.

All those who work with hand or brain are strengthened and invigorated by a good cup of tea.
HARRY W. deFOPEST, Direct Importer and Blender, ST. JOHN N. B.

Lumbago and Pains in

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 19, 1904.

All over the civilized world there is a great revival of interest in forestry. As the world is using up its wood faster than it is growing, the planting and preservation of forests, the enforcement of laws against willful or careless destruction of forest growth have become matters of vital importance. The vast forest wealth of Canada makes it doubly important that we should zealously guard this great national asset. The careless and ignorant handling of forest areas, the indifference of municipal ties as to the planting of shade trees and of the farmers as to the value of trees as wind breaks to protect growing grain, to hold the snow in winter and to prevent some of the most valuable portions of their fall plowed fields blowing away, makes it imperative that new interest be awakened in this subject. In some of the universities professorships of forestry are being established. In Mt. Allison, Mr. Geo. Treuman gives this term a short course of lectures on the history and methods of German forestry. Mr. Treuman had exceptional opportunities for studying forestry in Germany, a country where the law demands that whoever cuts down a tree shall plant one. He mastered the literature of the subject, attended the lectures of the professors in the Carlsruhe High School, and inspected their forest areas.

The following very flattering reference to that very excellent publication of the late Dr. T. H. Rand, and incidentally to "The Canada of 1783," is taken from the Christmas number of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, whose editor is George Horace Lorimer, son of the great Baptist preacher. The Post is by far the highest class magazine of its kind published in the U. S. Its founder was Benjamin Franklin, and it dates back to 1783. We understand that a few copies of Dr. Rand's "Treasury of Canadian Verse" are now on sale at the store of Mr. Herbin:

"A Treasury of Canadian Verse (J. W. Dent, London) contains the songs of nearly one hundred and fifty bards who have their homes in the northern half of this continent. Life in Canada must be strangely wholesome and happy judging from these songs, which thrill with a passionate delight in Nature, in clean love and in home. There is not a hint of gallows-trees, nor of ruined lives in them. The men and women who sing in this heartsome book, if not great bards, are 'dowered with the hate of hate, the love of love.' Evidently each man believes in himself, in his English rulers and in all other Canadians; hence he strikes his harp with no uncertain sound. Only a national life which was both clear and high in its aims could have brought forth so many so true and sweet."

THE ACADIAN has received an attractive and interesting pamphlet containing "Letters from the Canadian West," by Rev. P. M. MacDonald. The reverend gentleman, who was formerly pastor of St. Andrew's church, of this town, made a trip west last summer, during which he contributed a number of letters to the Halifax Morning Chronicle. On his return, at the request of a number of friends, he decided to have these reprinted "between covers," which has been done. These descriptive letters cover the trip from Winnipeg westward and are written in a bright and interesting style and give a grand idea of the country traversed. The pamphlet is on sale at the store of Mr. H. Tweedell, this town, and we advise our readers to secure a copy and give it a careful perusal.

As has been expected, steam navigation with P. E. Island has closed for the present. The Minto lies in Pictou harbor, and the Stanley in Georgetown. The straits are one solid mass of ice, which no boat can penetrate. The present winter has been colder than any winter since the boats commenced to run. The boats have actually done better work than in any former season, but the severe weather which has blocked freight traffic on the railroads all over the northern part of America, has made it impossible for the steamers to make trips at present. They will have to remain where they are until a strong south-westerly wind separates the ice and allows it to drift around St. Paul's Island to the Atlantic.—Es.

Monday Chinamen all over the world celebrated the birth of another year, according to the deduction of the Chinese calendar. The date of the Chinese New Year is seldom twice the same; it may not even occur during the same month two years in succession. Last year January 27th was the first of the Chinese year; this year Monday was the day fixed. It all depends on the moon when the date falls. A Chinese month is a lunar period of time, containing sometimes twenty-eight days and sometimes twenty-nine. The New Year is one of the great holidays of the Chinese calendar and no Chinaman would fail to observe the day.

Matti Heleinius, a Professor in the University of Denmark, has calculated that during the last 30 years 7,500,000 people in Europe died of alcoholism, a greater number than were killed in all the wars of the nineteenth century. He estimated that in Denmark itself, of those men who died between the ages of 35 and 55, one in seven is killed by drinking.

Wagon's Lightest Lumberman's Friend.

Rearing Chickens on the Farm.

There is every indication that there will be a great consumption of poultry in Canada this year. The demand for every class shows a striking increase during the last few years. Mr. F. C. Hare, Chief of the Dominion Poultry Division, does not believe it possible for the farmers to rear, for at least five years to come, more utility-type chickens than can be sold with profit on the Canadian market alone. Moreover, commission merchants in Great Britain can handle profitably at least $1,000,000 worth of our poultry yearly. Last year the export of chickens to Great Britain was materially reduced on account of the great demand in Canada. The poultry exports from Canada to Great Britain were only $160,518; a small proportion of the $5,154,892 imported by the mother country. The greatest value of poultry was exported from Russia, Belgium, France and the United States. Each of these countries shipped over $1,000,000 worth. It is a short-sighted policy on the part of our farmers to neglect this industry, when there is an unsatisfied demand for poultry; information with regard to any branch of the business can be had gratis, and the business is a profitable one.

It will pay almost every farmer to improve his flock before the breeding season begins. The old fowls should be killed. There is a greatly increased profit in breeding from utility-type specimens rather than from common barnyard stock.

It is preferable to select the eggs for hatching from a breeding pen of the best ten or twelve hens and one cockerel rather than from the larger number of laying hens on the farm. As a general rule, the eggs that are incubated on the farm are the eggs from the poorer layers. A utility type Plymouth Rock cockerel should be bought and placed at the head of the breeding pen. A great improvement will be noticed in any flock of farm fowls by crossing with the Plymouth Rock.

The eggs for hatching should be kept in a cool place (40 to 60 degrees). The chickens should not be hatched later than the middle of June. May-hatched chickens are preferable. It is quite possible for almost every farmer to increase the number of chickens reared with little extra labor.

Sitting hens should not be allowed to hatch chickens in any place they choose about the farm buildings. They should be in one pen, set apart for this purpose. The nest boxes should be made without a floor and placed around the sides of the pen. Two or three shovelfuls of earth should be thrown into each nest box and a hollow space scooped out for the eggs; the earth should be covered sparingly with straw. A board is required in front of the nest to confine the hen at will. This nest will give satisfactory conditions in an indoor pen. The sitting hen should be thoroughly dusted with sulphur to kill the vermin. All of them should be fed on whole grain and grit, and watered at one time. The hens should be placed on the nests and closed in when they finish feeding. It is advisable to start several hens together. The infertile eggs can then be tested out on the ninth day, and one or more of the hens reset.

There is a great loss in farm-reared chickens, caused by the mother hen having her liberty. The hen wanders through the wet grass; the chickens follow her and become chilled and the weaker ones die. This loss can be prevented by confining the hens in brood coops. It is more satisfactory to have a large brood coop that will be a shelter during inclement weather. A packing box of three or four feet each dimension, is none too large. The cover of the box can be used for the floor. The box is reversed (open end on the ground) and an opening one foot high is made across one side of the box against the open end. Two one inch by two inch cleats are nailed on the two ends of the box at the ground; the cover or floor is reduced in size so that it will slide in on these cleats. This allows the floor to be removed for cleaning. The box should be covered with tar paper to make it water-tight and there should be a 10 by 14 inch pane of glass in front for ventilation. In front of the one foot opening at the ground there should be a crate 15 inches high covered with laths two inches apart. The hen comes out into the lath crate to be fed and watered; the chickens run through the laths. This form of coop will house safely one hen and 30 chickens. The number of coops is thus reduced. The hen and chickens should be placed in a grass field. This will reduce the mortality due to the chickens being reared on infected ground around the farm buildings. A number of cases have been reported to the Poultry Division of chickens and turkeys dying because of feeding on ground previously infested by diseased fowls.

W. A. CLEMONS, Publication Clerk.

You Take No Chances.

G. V. Rand guarantees every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and will refund the money to anyone who is not satisfied after using two-thirds of the contents. This is the "see" remedy in the world for a cough, cold, croup and whooping cough and is pleasant and safe to take. It prevents any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

The Premier of Cape Colony has been defeated in his constituency at the Cape, that he has represented for 30 years. The new progressive party appear to be on top now at the Cape.

Board of Trade.

A meeting of the Council of the Wolfville Board of Trade was held on Tuesday evening. President Oakes and Secretary Herbin were present, with most of the members of the Council. The matter of the securing of a drop letter box at the railway station, referred back to the Council from the Annual Meeting of the Board, was taken up, and the president and secretary were requested to have a petition prepared at once and sent to the Post Master General. They were also requested to write the representative for the county, Sir Frederick Borden, asking his assistance in securing this convenience.

The following standing committees for the year were appointed:—Tourist Committee—R. R. Duncan, W. H. Chase, F. P. Rockwell, J. E. Herbin and B. O. Davison. Committee on Streets and Public Grounds—C. R. H. Starr, President Oakes, R. E. Harris, Capt. Tingley, B. O. Davison, A. F. Little, J. F. Herbin and F. J. Porter.

Press Committee—B. O. Davison, F. P. Rockwell, C. R. H. Starr and J. F. Herbin.

Another matter referred from the Annual Meeting of the Board was the need of improvement in the sanitary condition of the railway station. This was discussed at some length and the president and F. J. Porter were appointed to appear before the Board of Health and urge that some immediate action be taken.

It having been proposed that for the ensuing year the work of looking after the destruction of Black Knot in the town be taken out of the hands of the late inspector and given to the policeman, it was thought by the Council that such a move would be an unwise one. In view of the good work done by Mr. Archibald during the past year, and the importance of having the work continued in the same lines, it was resolved that in the opinion of the Council Mr. Archibald should be reappointed as Inspector.

A Membership Committee comprising the whole Council was appointed, and an effort will be made to greatly increase the membership of the Board and particularly to secure the co-operation of all the business men in the town in the work of the Board.

A number of matters of importance to the progress of the town and district were discussed and laid over for action at subsequent meetings.

The By-Elections.

Eight by-elections for the Federal Parliament were held on Tuesday last. Of these two were in Ontario, one in New Brunswick, one in P. E. I. and four in Quebec. In Queen's West, P. E. I., and in the four constituencies in Quebec, the Liberal candidates were returned with reduced majorities.

In the two Ontario constituencies, which all the Dominion was especially watching, the Conservatives increased their majorities enormously. In St. John, where Hon. Mr. Blair was elected at the last election with a majority of 97, the Conservative candidate, Dr. Daniel, was elected with a majority of 300. The result of these contests was somewhat of a surprise, and will add immensely to the interest of the coming Dominion election. The Conservative are jubilant, pointing to the result as a direct "hand-writing on the wall"; while the Liberals the effect will be to cause them to don their armour for a hotter fight than ever.

Fresh glimpses into the life of Washington as a youth are afforded by Mrs. Burton Harrison, who, in the Washington's Birthday Number of the Youth's Companion (Feb. 18th), describes the home of the Virginia Fairfaxes—Belvoir on the Potomac. People who have been persuaded that there is nothing new in fiction may change that opinion after reading "McDon's Item." Four other anecdotes, humorous sketches and bits of biography, with a good article on "Cold Bathing," are among the contents of this double holiday number.

On Sunday afternoon Harold Lewis, 15 years of age, whilst attending the library at the Tabernacle Sunday School, jumped from a chair to the floor. His right leg got doubled under him with the result that the hip joint was fractured close up to the body. He was conveyed home and Dr. Fuller summoned, who attended the injury, and the boy is progressing as favorably as possible, although the fracture is a serious one.—Yarmouth Herald.

Mayor Wyncoop, of Serrance, Kansas, has proclaimed that all bachelors of that town, who do not take advantage of this year, will hereafter have to pay a tax to the city. "A man who won't marry when he has a chance," he says, "is not much of a citizen, and ought to pay a bachelor's tax." Hear! Hear!

A strong syndicate of Canadian and American capitalists has been formed to develop and operate the extensive sub-marine coal areas at South Head, Port Morien. These areas comprise no less than twenty-seven miles, and it is estimated, contain two hundred and forty million tons of coal.

Senator Hanna, the Republican king of Ohio, and whose name has been mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency, died in Washington on the 13th, of typhoid fever, after an illness of two weeks. He was the greatest Republican in the country outside the President.

The N. S. Temperance Alliance.

A meeting of Temperance workers was held at Halifax on Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was summoned by the Executive Committee appointed at the Temperance Convention held a year ago, for purpose of completing the organization of the Nova Scotia Temperance Alliance.

Those present were: E. D. King, Halifax; A. B. Fletcher, Truro; Rev. M. McLeod, Canning; Rev. D. Stiles Fraser, Halifax; P. F. Morley, Halifax; T. M. King, Truro; I. L. Barnhill, Sable Island; Rev. S. Huestis, Halifax; B. H. Eaton, Dartmouth; Rev. H. B. McKay, Halifax; M. H. Fitzpatrick, New Glasgow; Rev. Robert Murray, Rev. Thos. Fowler, Rod Macdonald, Edmund McDonald, Rev. J. L. Betty, John Bowes, Edgar MacKinlay, W. S. Saunders, Halifax; G. B. Thurston, Yarmouth; J. W. Publicover, Truro; F. M. Grant, Truro; Rev. A. E. Fisher, Lunenburg, Cumberland; A. T. Dalrymple, Truro; Ira Cox, Canning; Rev. J. F. Dunston, Halifax; Rev. J. Astbury, Mahone Bay; Mr. Dunlop, Baddeck, and D. W. B. Reid, Halifax.

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED.

The following constitution was adopted after a brief discussion:

Article 1.—Name.—This organization shall be called the Nova Scotia Temperance Alliance.

Article 2.—Objects.—This Alliance shall seek to unite the temperance forces of the Province for the carrying out of the following objects: 1. To promote the principles of Total Abstinence by educative effort. 2. To secure sufficient enforcement of existing liquor legislation. 3. To secure improvement in existing liquor legislation. 4. To secure the legal prohibition of the Liquor Traffic.

Article 3.—Membership.—All persons interested in the promotion of any, or all of these objects, are eligible for membership, and all persons shall become members on signing the Constitution.

Article 4.—Officers.—The officers of the Alliance shall be a President, Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer. There shall also be an Executive Committee to consist of these officers, and at least one representative of each County in the Province, in addition, to be elected at the Annual Meeting each year.

Article 5.—Meetings.—This Alliance shall meet at least annually, at the call of the Executive, during the month of February.

Article 6.—Finance.—The necessary expenses of the Alliance shall be met by voluntary contributions.

Your Committee believe that there is a growing vigorous temperance sentiment in the Province in connection with organized work and otherwise, now detached and isolated, that if welded together, and actuated by a common purpose, would constitute a force that could not easily be withstood in the sharp conflict with intemperance that is now upon us. We feel assured that the new organization has an important mission. It united action can be secured, the temperance forces of this Province are strong enough to achieve victory.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED.

The officers elected were as follows: President—M. H. Fitzpatrick, New Glasgow. Vice-President—Rev. D. Stiles Fraser, Halifax. Secretary—Rev. D. McLeod, Canning. Treasurer—Rod Macdonald, Halifax.

The following representatives for each County in the Province were then appointed:—Antigonish—W. E. Armstrong. Antigonish—W. P. Cunningham. Colchester—F. M. King. Cape Breton—Dr. W. K. McLeod. Cumberland—S. Parry. Hants—Geo. Harvey. Guysboro—C. H. Whitman. Inverness—Rev. D. McPherson. Halifax—William Sedgewick. Kings—Dr. H. Chipman. Lunenburg—S. D. Chesley. Pictou—P. A. McGregor. Queens—J. W. Graham. Richmond—John Morrison. Shelburne—Emmet Nickerson. Victoria—D. Dunlop. Yarmouth—Rev. S. Crowell.

The meeting passed a resolution approving of the temperance legislation that is now before the House of Assembly, and appointed the following committee to watch the same: Rev. D. Stiles Fraser, Rod Macdonald, E. D. King and B. H. Eaton.

In the evening the Alliance held a public meeting when addresses were delivered on the following subjects: "Is our present liquor legislation practical and effective?" and "The Temperance Problem in Halifax."

The organ to be used in the recital at the World's Fair, is the largest and most perfect on earth. It has more stops than the next largest organ, that is in the Town Hall, Sydney, Australia. Electric power supplies the wind, and a movable console or key desk, enables the organist to come close to his audience at the front of the stage. This is highly important where the organist plays in conjunction with an orchestra, or a chorus, as he is enabled to work in close connection with the director.

Hon. Mr. Fielding says tariff revision will not be taken up at the coming session of Parliament. There may be a few changes but they will be very unimportant.

CANADIAN. The End For Ever! Buy the Best! Cash's Choice.

BUY CASTLE SOAP

In original bars. We have just received an original case of Genuine White Castile, Which we are selling at 18 cts. per pound

This is the pure article guaranteed and is SELLING FAST.

Have you tried Rand's Baking Powder?

RAND'S DRUG STORE, Telephone 19

World Wide.

The Russian Bear is learning what it feels like to be hugged.

There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of the Alliance, and matters of special interest were discussed. The following are the officers for the current year:—President—Col. Shippy Spurr, Meville Square. 1st Vice-President—Paul C. Black, Falmouth. 2nd Vice-President—Charles Hill, Onslow. Directors—Edward Harris, Pictou; Jno. Donaldson, Port Williams; D. R. Nicholson, Oban, C. B.; F. Miles Chipman, Nictaux West; Hugh Fraser, Elmsdale. Auditors—M. G. DeWolf, Capt. C. O. Allen, Kentville. Exhibition Commissioners—J. R. Wyman, Yarmouth; D. Logan, Pictou.

By drinking down a quart of patent catarrh medicine, a woman in Derby Conn., has become violently, and, her doctors say, permanently insane. It seems like an insane act in the first.

Shoes at $1,000 a pair are produced by a New York factory and sold to persons who are under the impression that they are suffering with peculiar nerve troubles in their feet.

Kings County Temperance Alliance

The King's County Temperance Alliance met at Canning on Friday afternoon of last week. A goodly number of temperance workers were present and the meeting was interesting and profitable.

In the absence of President Neily, Rev. Dr. Wilson was elected to the chair and proved a very efficient chairman. A communication was received from the Baptist Conference of Kings County endorsing the past action of the Alliance and pledging to support it in progressive temperance work in the county.

A resolution was passed by the Alliance expressing appreciation of the Conference's action.

Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Canning, was elected delegate to the meeting of the N. S. Alliance at Halifax.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a mass temperance meeting at Kentville in the near future, and to endeavor to secure the enforcement of the Scott Act in that town.

Other matters were dealt with, looking to the progressive work in the interest of the cause in this county.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S CATARRH CURE .25c.

is sent direct to the diseased parts by the Improved Blower. Heals the secret, clears the air passages, stops discharges in the throat and permanently cures. Sold by all druggists and by Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Toronto and Halifax.

After the Dogs

Residence—Lower Wolfville.

A bill has been introduced into the assembly by Mr. Dodge, M. P. P., of Kings, to amend chapter 92, Revised Statutes, relative to stray cattle and animals going at large. It has particularly to do with dogs, but refers only to the municipalities and to the towns. It provides for a tax of one dollar and a fine is imposed if the tax is not paid.

A fine is imposed on the owners of dogs which have the habit of molesting teams or persons on the highway. This provision should abate a howling and barking nuisance on country roads. The amendments are brought into force when passed by the council of the town and municipality.

For Sale Cheap.

A 50 H.P. Boiler and Engine, suitable for Saw Mill.

For particulars apply to P. O. BOX 99, Wolfville.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TOURIST CARS EVERY THURSDAY FROM MONTREAL.

Every TUESDAY and SATURDAY FROM NORTH BAY.

NO CHANGE OF CARS. MONTREAL TO VANCOUVER. TRAVELLING THE GREAT CANADIAN NORTH WEST. The finest Mountain Scenery on the Continent.

Lowest Rates Apply.

Canadian Pacific Service is Up-to-Date.

World's Fair, St. Louis, opens May 1st, closes December 1st, 1904.

Write for descriptive matter, rates, etc., to C. S. POSTER, N. E. C. P. R., ST. JAMES, N. S.

OXEN FOR SALE.

A FAIR of evenly mated, good working oxen in good flesh. For more particulars apply to C. F. PATTERSON, Yarmouth.

OUR HAIR IS GOING OUT OF BUSINESS SALE!

WILL CONTINUE DURING FEBRUARY!

(Unless we sell out 'en bloc'.)

In the mean time big mark downs on everything, nothing reserved.

People's Shoe Store, N. M. SINCLAIR.

P. S. The early buyer gets the best choice before sizes are picked.

50 PIECES 50 CENTS

SHEETS... TABLE CLOTHS PILLOW SLIPS

25 of these in each lot, all over 2c each.

Towels, Napkins, Doilies, and Bed Spreads, Two Dozens allowed in each 50.

Rough dry including all classes of family washing 25c per doz. Sheets, Slips, Table Cloths, Quilts etc. returned ready for use.

30 to 50 WHITE Pieces Rough Dry 50c.

WOLFVILLE LAUNDRY CO., Limited.

FIBROID TUMORS CURED.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Finkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. FINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for 1 year and have had no relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 253 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hayes' Second Letter:

"DEAR MRS. FINKHAM:—Some time ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give this faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 253 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.—$1000 forfeit if original of above letters proving genuineness cannot be produced.

No Need of going out of Town for Fine JOB PRINTING

Send your orders to "THE ACADIAN" And Patronize Home Industry.

REPAIRING STATION

W. F. PARKER

SPRING GOODS JUST ARRIVED!

Come Early and Get First Choice.

Don't Forget that you will save $2.00 per Suit by leaving your order here.

Geo. A. Crozier, WOLFVILLE.

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S.

Gleanings by Acadia

The annual report of students of Acadia takes place this evening.

Modern six-room three adjoining on Summer Street terms apply to

On Friday evening Hon. J. W. Long lecture on "Men I like Hall, under Atheneum Society

Mr Geo. Borden joined the Acadia ACADIAN. Mr printer, having both in this country.

Under the shell Bowles Mrs. Geo steady progress. The Dr. is to be success in this vail case.

The present work for seven weeks. The D. A. how. The students of Acadia are "ful".

During Lent in St. John's Church, and Litany. The early celebration of Communion (at commenced).

Two games played in Abeney. Canningville first and play Wolfville time is exp

One ad. will may not mak lastingly at it ways to the long-winded. ly Times, Elm

The commit Town Council the Exhibition Municipal Convention, and a recommendation Council at it's

Rev. S. West King's College impressive scene Church last Spring day he rec some donation of the college. over $25,000

A lady rem day. "What select such b home, instead store and their want." Send and he will finest and ch America. T you.

Science m Library Men Subjects:—The Indu Fruits—R. Y Local His Haycock. The Black C. Sears. The last t with lantern cordially inv

We had th examining automobile. Munro has is intended roads get fit some one. I latest imp with a $3 a make a spec hour. Wolfv watch f streets.

Miss Chib Art Club to past three The Neth Hague, A Rubens, e the Minor ance of J present w vesting ma man pres many pict All intere rare oppor for the co

Last F ville Nigh match ga one betwe 1st team Wolfville from Ken a large n first gam team, a sulting in the victo tween the being sh to end, some of are good have fac to be gon

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., FEB. 19, 1904.

Cleanings by Acadian News Gathers.

The annual reception by the faculty and students of Horton Collegiate Academy takes place in College Hall this evening.

Modern six-room dwelling and three adjoining orchard buildings lots on Summer Street for sale. For terms apply to E. HAYCOCK.

On Friday evening of next week Hon. J. W. Longley is to give his lecture on "Men I have met," in College Hall, under the auspices of the Athenaeum Society.

Mr Geo. Bendler, of Windsor, has joined the mechanical staff of THE ACADIAN. Mr Bendler is a first-class printer, having had a long experience both in this country and the United States.

Under the skilled treatment of Dr. Bowles, Mrs. Geo. A. Pratt, is making steady progress towards recovery. The Dr. is to be congratulated on his success in this very trying and difficult case.

The present winter maintains its record for severe cold and plenty of snow. The D. A. R. trains have been held back several times because of the inclemency of the weather.

During Lent there will be services in St. John's Church at 7.30 Wednesday, and Litany on Friday at 4.30. The early celebration of the Holy Communion (at 8 a. m.) has been recommenced.

Two games of hockey are to be played in Aberdeen Rink this evening. Canning first will play Wolfville first and Canning second will play Wolfville second. An interesting time is expected.

One ad. will not make your fortune—may not make a sale. Keep everlastingly at it. The race is not always to the swift—sometimes to the long-winded.—Folder from the Weekly Times, Elmer, N. J.

The committee appointed by the Town Council had a conference with the Exhibition Committee of the Municipal Council on Wednesday evening, and agreed on a number of recommendations to be made to the Council at its next meeting.

Rev. S. Weston Jones, the agent for King's College, preached two very impressive sermons in St. John's Church last Sunday. On the following day he received some very handsome donations towards the support of the college. He has already raised over $25,000 of the $100,000 required.

A lady remarked to me the other day: "What a blessing to be able to select such beautiful room paper at home, instead of standing around a store and not getting what you want." Send a word to B. G. Bishop and he will show you samples of the finest and cheapest Wall Papers in America. "I will be a revelation to you." Feb. 19, 3 mos.

Science meeting in the College Library Monday evening, Feb. 22nd. Subjects:—

The Influence of Climate upon Fruits.—R. W. Starr.

Local History from a Rock.—E. Haycock.

The Black Knot of the Plum.—F. C. Sears.

The last topic will be illustrated with lantern views. All interested are cordially invited to be present.

We had the pleasure yesterday of examining Mr D. R. Munro's new automobile. This is the third Mr Munro has brought to Wolfville and is intended for his own use when the roads get fit. The carriage is a handsome one, brand-new, with all the latest improvements. It is fitted with a 3 h. p. motor and will easily make a speed of twenty-five miles an hour. Wolfville people will anxiously watch for its appearance on the streets.

CANTORIA. Base the Big Sign of Dr. A. H. Weston

Miss Chipman's lecture before the Art Club to-morrow afternoon at half past three in the Seminary will be on: The Netherlands, Antwerp, The Hague, Amsterdam, the works of Rubens, Rembrandt, Vandyck, and the Minor Dutchmen. The attendance of Jan. 30th was large and those present were delighted by the interesting manner in which Miss Chipman presented her subject and the many pictures she used in illustrating. All interested are welcome. It is a rare opportunity and only one dollar for the course.

Last Friday evening was "Kentville Night" at Aberdeen Rink. Two match games of hockey were played, one between Kentville and Wolfville 1st teams and one by Kentville and Wolfville 2nd teams. A special train from Kentville brought the teams and a large number of spectators. The first game was between the senior teams, and was well contested, resulting in a score of 4-3 in favor of the visitors. The second game between the juniors was also a good one, being sharp and fast from beginning to end. In this Wolfville won by a score of 3-2. The Kentville boys are good skaters and now that they have facilities for practice are getting to be good hockeyists.

YOUUMANS AND DUNLAP BLOCKS.

THE NEWEST IN MEN'S STIFF HATS.

JUST RECEIVED FROM NEW YORK.

The styles this season are not extreme and are very becoming.

POPULAR PRICES.

C. B. BORDEN, WOLFVILLE.

Kentville.

Canon Brock's paper on "The Abbeys of England," which he read before the literary club, was much appreciated. The last meeting, for the winter of this popular club, takes place next Tuesday night.

John McDonald, while returning from school to his home at Chipman's Corner, was thrown from his horse and severely injured.

A Valentine Social was held in the Baptist vestry Monday night.

The Rev. Mr. Dobson preached in the Methodist church Sunday.

Mr. Kildner recently visited the Manual Training and Domestic Science Schools.

Mr W. C. Archibald, proprietor of the Earncliffe Gardens, Wolfville, is in Amherst. He is conferring with authorities in the various towns contemplating the laying out of park grounds with their planting.

He drove around the lands of the proposed park for Amherst and will probably have some suggestions to make. He says every town needs a beautiful spot for restfulness and recreation. Mr Archibald is an expert of a large experience with plant life.—Amherst News.

FOR SALE OR TO LET.—Eight room cottage on Westwood avenue. All modern improvements. Apply to C. R. H. STARR.

BORN.

REID.—At Wolfville, Feb. 11th, to Mr and Mrs Holmes Reid, a son.

MARRIED.

SULLIVAN-SALTER.—At the Methodist parsonage, Grand Pre, Feb. 16th, by Rev. E. Frigens, Edward Sullivan and Pryantha Salter, both of Hantsport.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

College Notes.

Mrs. Charlton, mother of Carroll Charlton of the senior class, died at her home in Middleton on 11th inst. Mrs. Charlton was a sister of Mrs. Cohoon of this town. She was a woman of high character and attainments. Before she married she taught with much success in Vermont.

Mr. F. W. Pattison, of the senior class, was called to his home in Rochester, New York, on 10th inst., owing to the illness of his father Rev. Prof. F. H. Pattison, of Rochester Theological Seminary. We regret to learn that Dr. Pattison died on 13th inst. He was widely known as an author, professor and teacher.

A boy named James, residing at Richmond, whilst skating on Bedford Basin on Saturday, went through the ice near the Narrows, and had a narrow escape from drowning. He went under the ice, but fortunately came up again in the place where he fell in, and with some difficulty he scrambled out.

An organ of unusual power and richness of tone has lately been placed in the church at Earlton; the gift of D. A. Munro, Esq., Wolfville. This is the second time within a year that the church has been remembered kindly by her sons that are away.—Colchester Sun.

The dwelling house of Mr. J. M. Reid, Brooklyn Corner, was destroyed by fire on Friday morning last about 3 o'clock, together with nearly all the furniture, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. We understand there was a small insurance on the building of about $600.—Western Chronicle.

CANTORIA.

Base the Big Sign of Dr. A. H. Weston

SOAP! SOAP! SOAP!

A BIG DRIVE IN SOAP For the next thirty days we will sell 7 Cakes of Oak Leaf and 6 Cakes of Comfort Soap For 50 cents Cash. Do not miss this opportunity to lay in a supply.

T. L. HARVEY, CRYSTAL PALACE. Jan. 14, 1904.

Watch This Space!

—FOR DATE OF—

Miss B. K. Saxton's, EASTER MILLINERY OPENING.

Personal Mention.

(Contributions to this department will be gladly received.)

Dr. Trotter preached at Frederickton Sunday last.

Miss Winnie Smith, of Windsor, is visiting in town.

Miss Burgess is slowly recovering under Dr. Bowles' care.

Rev. H. G. Estabrooks, of Springhill, was in town this week.

Master Wesley Gibbons is enjoying a few weeks vacation, visiting friends in Halifax.

Mr N. S. Sanford, editor and publisher of the Windsor Tribune, spent Sunday in town.

Mr and Mrs Clarence H. Borden left on Saturday last to spend a few weeks in Boston and vicinity.

Miss Elizabeth Higgins left on Wednesday for New York, to visit her brother, Mr George R. Higgins.

Mr. Guy Goodacre, formerly of Grand Pre, is expected shortly on a visit. His many friends will be pleased to see him.

Dr. M. F. and Mrs. Keith, of Harcourt, N. B., were in town this week visiting their daughter, who is a student at Acadia Seminary.

Miss Elizabeth Fullerton, Long Island, and friend from Boston, Mass., who have been spending the week with Miss Fullerton's aunt, Mrs. P. C. Bishop, Greenwick returned to Grand Pre Monday last.

The Piano Recital.

A good audience assembled in College Hall last Friday evening to listen to the recital given by the students in piano at Acadia Seminary, under the direction of Prof. Maxin. The entertainment given was a most enjoyable one and was an excellent exhibition of the general proficiency of the school in pianoforte playing. The selections covered a wide range, representing both the romantic period and delicate music with something of the dynamic variety to the rendering of which the modern instrument is so well adapted.

Miss Hazel Wortman's "Theme and Variations," from Schubert, and Miss Edith Spuden's Sonata, from Beethoven, were admirably executed as were Love's Dream, from Liszt and Etincelles, from Moszkowski, by Miss Alice Huntington, of the post-graduate department.

Rubenstein was represented by Miss May Woodman, and Phillip by Miss Henderson, while Miss Lillian Strong gave selections from Hoffman and Sinding; Miss Faulein Price from Bendel and Miss Lavina Lewis from Bartlett. Several of these compositions were new to a Wolfville audience but the sympathetic interpretation of these by the players made them thoroughly enjoyable. The piece de resistance of the evening was a concerto with orchestral parts played by Miss Evelyn Durice and Professor Maxin, on two instruments. It abounded in rich harmony and spirited movement and made a fitting close to a delightful entertainment.

An enthusiastic crowd greeted the Acadia-Yarmouth game at the rink on Friday evening last. The teams were well matched in size and a fine game was played. The Wolfville boys kept the home team on the jump, but the Yarmouths succeeded in placing the puck within their opponents' goal four times to their two. Mr R. R. Wallace carried off the honors for the home team, making three goals, and Capt. Hal. Cann the other one. The visitors played a good game all around and received as hearty applause as our own boys. They were entertained at the Queen hotel and left next morning for home.—Yarmouth Herald.

DENTISTRY.

Dr. A. J. McKenna Graduate of Philadelphia Dental College. Office in McKenna Block, Wolfville. Telephone No. 43. Gas ADMINISTERED.

FEBRUARY SALE AT J. E. Hales & Co.

ALL WINTER GOODS AT GREAT REDUCTIONS

Dress Goods, Furs, Men's and Jackets, Flannelettes, Boy's Rag-Underwear, Hosiery, lans, Suits Ready-to-wear Skirts, and Pants.

UNDERWEAR.

FLEECE LINED FOR MEN 37 1/2 CTS. ALL WOOL " " 50 " BOYS, FLEECE LINED 25 "

Lots of Remnants of Dress Goods, Flannelettes, Prints and Muslins AT HALF PRICE TO CLOSE OUT.

J. E. HALES & CO.

Dry Goods and Mens' Furnishings. Wolfville.

While this cold weather lasts
WE ARE SERVING DELICIOUS HOT
BEEF TEA
CHOCOLATE
TOMATO BULLION
COFFEE, Etc.
Will warm you up on a cold day. Only 5c.
AT
Parker's Pharmacy.

ASK?
TO SEE OUR NEW
WALL PAPERS!
They are the handsomest ever shown in Wolfville!
A. J. WOODMAN.

WE WANT CASH
And to get some we are going to offer in exchange some of the Best Bargains you ever saw.
FOR THIRTY DAYS
From January 4th to Feb. 4th, we will offer our Winter Stock of Suits, Overcoats and Trousers at prices that will surprise you.
WE WANT YOU TO THINK OF
A TWEED SUIT AT $13.50 A WORSTED SUIT AT 20.00
A TWEED SUIT AT 15.00 A OVERCOAT AT 14 and 16
A WORSTED SUIT AT 18.00 A PAIR OF TROUSERS AT 3 or 5
WOLFVILLE CLOTHING CO.

OUR GREAT CLOTHING SALE.

100,000 worth of good honest Clothing will be sold at prices lower than the lowest, for the next two weeks.

MEN'S ULSTERS, regular $5.50 now $3.90
BOYS' " " 5.00 " 3.25
MEN'S RAGLANS, " 8.50 " 6.90
BOYS' " " 6.50 " 3.90
BOYS' REEFERS from 98c to $3.90
MEN'S " " $3.90 to 6.00
MEN'S DUCK COATS, waterproof, $1.90
PANTS from 25c to any price

Spend your money with the people who are going to try and stay here.

Chambers

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS!
TABLETS, SCRIBBLERS & NOTE PAPER! DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY.

Clearance Sale

Of Ends of WALL PAPER, to make room for my Spring Stock.

FLO. M. HARRIS.

XMAS POULTRY!
We have a good supply of Geese, Turkeys, Ducks and Chickens, also extra quality Beef Pork, Lamb, Veal, Ham, Bacon and Sausages.
SIMSON BROS.,
TELEPHONE No. 40 C.
GRAND PRE.

Chronic Coughs
Get rid of them by all means. Use PARK'S PERFECT EMULSION. It is the great healer of all diseases affecting the throat and lungs.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the Mechanics' Association of Wolfville has adopted the nine hour system, and from this date, members of the Association will work the following hours, 7 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 5 p. m. The public and outside workmen will please bear this in mind, and assist the organization in this attempt at the adoption of modern methods in aid of the laborer.
By order,
H. A. Peck, Secty.
Wolfville, Jan. 29th, 1904.

NOTICE.

The Overseers of the Poor for the Township of Horton will receive tenders by the undersigned until 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday the 13th day of February, 1904, for supplies for Poor's House.
For 25 lbs. of choice all purpose family flour. Tenders to name brand, per cent, and cost per bbl. To be delivered at the store of the person whose tender is accepted.
Also for General Groceries at rate per cent, above invoice price for the year 1904.
Terms: Flour cash on delivery; payment for groceries will be made quarterly.
The Overseers do not bind themselves to accept the lowest or any tender.
By order of the overseers,
H. M. Neary,
Clerk.
Greenwich, Jan. 29, 1904.

PEOPLES BANK OF HALIFAX.
INCORPORATED 1884.
J. J. STEWART PRESIDENT.
D. R. CLARKE GENERAL MANAGER.

FOR SALE!
1 Lambert Mare, 16 years old; also a second-hand Truck Wagon, 1 Express and 1 Riding Wagon.
C. W. STRONG, Wolfville.
SPRING, 1903.
Come to me for
Sherwin-Williams
FLOOR PAINTS, WALL
PAINTS!
Alabastine, Varnishes, Oils, Turpentine, Leads.
BRUSHES.
White-Wash, Paint, Varnish, Scrub, Shoe, Stove.

'In the Good Old Summer Time'
everyone drinks
Morse's Empire-Extra
Because it is the BEST TEA on the Canadian market to-day.
For sale only by
E. J. BOWLES,
MAIN STREET.

L. W. SLEEP,
WOLFVILLE.

WOODS DRIVED!
PAPER and Get will save $2.00
order here.
rozier,
LE.

A GOOD MOTTO "Superiority."
We aim to Please; we sell Best Goods obtainable. Prices are Right, too. . . .
TRY US FOR Groceries and Hardware.
MILLSLEY & HARVEY,
WOLFVILLE.
January 22, 1904.

VIM TEA

Is not only the perfection of the blenders art, but is also the IDEAL of the drinker's palate.

