

TO THE ELECTORS OF HURON, PERTH AND BRUCE.

GENTLEMEN:—

You are aware that when I appeared before you at the late General Election I had not accepted Office, although I had been gazetted as President of the Executive Council. My reasons for refusing that Office I stated to you plainly and in full. I then explained to you, that although it is necessary to have a Chairman or President, the duties hitherto devolving upon the President were not such as to warrant the country in paying eight hundred pounds a year for his services. Since that time, however, the office of President of the Council has been materially altered and other important duties, till now neglected, have been attached to it—so that it is now in reality no longer a sinecure and hence my principle objection to it is entirely removed. Indeed, it may be presumed that the duties allotted to the President of the Council, in future, are equal in number, and almost equal in importance to the duties performed by any other member of the Cabinet.

So early as the year 1841, I urged in strong terms, upon the attention of the then Government, the justice and utility of establishing a Department of Agriculture, feeling then as I do now, that if any one interest or department was entitled to the consideration and vigilance of Legislature, that one should be the Agricultural. This is Canada's great interest—the foundation of all our hopes of wealth and prosperity; and notwithstanding the comparative indifference with which it has hitherto been regarded, it is the one which must furnish the "men women and money," that will ultimately raise us in the scale of nations.

The Government has now established a Department of Agriculture, the management of which, together with several other duties connected with emigration, and the statistics of the Province are entrusted to the Chairman of Committees or President of the Council. And His Excellency having been pleased to offer me this office in its altered and improved character, I felt it my duty and esteemed it an honor to aid in the deliberations of an Administration in which I had full confidence—which I had assisted to form, and of which I expected to have been, from the first, a member.

And although I still feel that a gentleman of superior literary attainments would more properly discharge the duties of Chairman of Committees, yet as His Excellency and his Advisers have been pleased to consider me competent to the several duties now attached to the office, I have accepted it. And in doing so, I affirm in contradiction of the statements of the opposition and discontented Press, that my acceptance of it, in its present form, will be a considerable saving to the country. It has been alleged by certain portions of the Press that I am at liberty to accept and hold this office without again appealing to my constituents. But, Gentlemen, whatever the law may say on the subject, I have too much respect for public opinion and the principles of our Constitution, to evade both by availing myself of a legal quibble. I shall, therefore, so soon as Parliament meets, resign my seat and give you, the Electors of Huron, an opportunity of expressing, at the Polls, your opinion of my conduct in thus concurring in the first attempt of any Canadian Government to recognize and elevate the agricultural interests by a distinct Governmental Department.

I have the Honor to be, Gentlemen, Your obedient servant, MALCOLM CAMERON.

NEW APPOINTMENTS.—The Pilot lately announced that the following appointments were made, viz.—To His Excellency's Secretary, Recorder for Montreal, William King; Recorder for Ottawa Circuit, Daniel Ross; Justice Magistrate for Quebec, The Quebec Mercury, of the 11th inst. says.—We are authorized to give a direct contradiction to the statement of the Pilot, admitting the error of his announcement. He was either mistaken or imposed upon. The removed appointments are such as might be expected to take place.—North-Adriatic.

The Indians appear to be very troublesome in California, and particularly to the owners of cattle. An old settler at Los Angeles states that the value of sheep stolen from drovers and overland emigrants exceeded $110,000, during the past year.

THE EDITOR.

That Editor who will to please, Most humbly crawl upon his knees, And kiss the hand that beats him; Or if he dares attempt to walk, Must toe the mark that others chalk, And cringe to all that meets him.

Says one, your subjects are too grave— Too much morality you have— Too much about religion; Give me some witch or wizard tales, With slipshod ghosts, with fine and scapes, Or feathers like a pigeon.

I love to read, another cries, Those monstrous fashionable lies— In other words, those news Composed of kings and queens, and lords, Of border wars and Gothic borders, That used to live in novels.

No—no, cries one, we've had enough Of such confounded love sick stuff To craze the fair creation, Give us some recent foreign news, Of Russians, Turks—the Greeks and Jews, Or any other nation.

The man of drilled scholastic lore, Would like to see a little more, In scraps of Greek or Latin. The merchant rather likes the price Of Southern Indigo and Rice, Of India silk and satin.

Another cries, I want more fun, A witty anecdote or pun, A riddle or a riddle; Some long for missionary news, And some of worldly carnal views, Would rather hear a fiddle.

The critic, too, of classic skill, Must dip in gall his gender quill, And scrawl against the paper; Or all the literary force, Bred in our colleges and schools, He cuts the silliest caper.

Another cries, I want to see A jumbled up variety— Variety in all things; A miscellaneous hodgepodge print, Composed— I only give the hint, Of multifarious small things.

I want some marriage news, says this, It constitutes my highest bliss. To hear of wedding plenty; For in a time of general rain, None suffer from a drought 'til plain— At least not one in twenty.

I want to hear of death, says one— Of people totally undone, By hoarse, fire or fever; Answers another, full as wise, I'd rather have the fall and rise Of other sins and fever.

Some signify a secret wish For now and then a merry dish Of politics to suit them; But here we rest at perfect ease, For should they swear the moon was green, We never should dispute them.

Of grave or humorous, wild or tame, Of love or love, 'til all the same, Too naughty or too humble; And every editorial view, Has nothing to do but what is right, And let the grumbler grumble.

THE SAILOR.

BY D. C. COLSWORTHY.

CHAPTER I.

O, let me die the death of those Who calmly sink to rest, Like plumed some evening's dove, That falls so gently in the west. With not a pain—not a care, To rattle life's decline— But soft as dew of heaven, O, be the last repose of mine. As gently as the voice fall Of music on the ear, Be the commissioned angel's call— As soft, as melting, and as clear.

'Listen to me, Henry, and do not indulge the thought of leaving your place. True, you may do better, but there ten chances to one that you will regret it in the end.' 'I am so contented, mother, that I don't like to stay with M. Walker. I should rather go to sea. You know I always had a desire to see the world, and I told you I did not think I should stay when you put me to a trade.'

'You have been these some time—acquainted with the family, and your master is a good man and appears to be attached to you.' 'But I cannot stay. I am determined to go to sea, and you may as well give me your consent.'

'That I can never do, Henry. You are my only child, and to have you follow the sea was as severe as affliction as could happen to me.' Henry Norton lost his father at an early age, and the care of an only son was upon one of the best of women. His mother was kind and benevolent, and a pattern of industry. Having been left with but little property on the death of her husband, by taking work, she was enabled to live comfortably, enjoying all the necessities of life.

Henry was a good boy, but rather to headstrong, and when bent upon pursuing any course, it was a difficult matter to turn his mind. At an early age Mrs. Norton placed her son, as an apprentice, to a worthy mechanic, and for the first year or two Henry was contented and happy. But an associate of his had obtained the consent of his parents to follow the sea, which unsettled the mind of the apprentice and made him discontented with his place. He had often endeavored to get his mother's consent to leave Mr. W. and go with his companion, but the good woman would not hear a word about it. Finally seeing the determination of her son, she made known to him her feelings. But Henry was resolute. 'If you do not give your consent,' said he, 'I will run away.'

'Remember,' said his mother, the consequences of disobedience to parents. If you should so far forget me and disregard my feelings, perhaps it may be a thorn in your flesh the rest of your days. I have told you repeatedly, that I can never give my consent for you to follow the sea. If you ever go, it will be contrary to the express wish of your mother, and God will never bless you.'

'Well, I don't care—I will go to sea, if I can get away, whether you give your consent or not,' said the stubborn boy, leaving the house. A day or two after, Mrs. Norton heard from Mr. Walker that her son had run away from his place, and shipped on board a vessel and before he was apprised of it, had sailed. The poor woman burst into tears and wrung her hands, exclaiming, 'What shall I do? Oh! how can I bear this affliction? And it was a long time before she could be comforted. She thought how poorly her son was clad—of the deprivations and dangers of the sea—of the company of profane men on board the ship where none to counsel or advise him—and she was sad indeed for many a day. She had no heart to work—lost her usual vivacity, and her neighbors pronounced her to be declining. However, the poignancy of her grief wore away, although she never ceased to think of her erring boy.

THE WAY TO FORTUNE.

Let no poor boy after reading the following fact, despair of ever making a respectable living.

A gentleman was once walking down one of the streets in London, when a beggar loudly cried a few coppers for a night's lodging. The gentleman looked carelessly at the poor man, and enquired: 'Why do you not work? You ought to be able to get your own bread.' 'Oh, sir, I do not know where to get employment.'

'None such,' replied the gentleman, 'you can work if you will. Now listen to me: I was once a beggar like you. A gentleman gave me a crown piece, and told me to work and not see you begging again. He told me to go to the workhouse, and get out of the way of my old companions. I remembered the advice given me by my mother, before she died, and I began to pray God to keep me from sin, and to give me his help day by day. I went round to the houses in the vicinity, and with part of the five shillings I bought old rags. There I took to the paper mills and sold them at a profit. I was willing to give a fair price for the things I bought, and did not strive to sell them for more than I believed they were worth. I determined to be honest and God prospered me. My purchases and profits became larger and larger. And now I have got more than ten thousand coppers, which I can call my own—the great thing that has contributed to my success is that I have kept from drink and tobacco.'

As the gentleman spoke, he took from his pocket a few shillings, and handed them to the astonished beggar, saying 'now you have the same chance of getting on in the world as I had. Go and work, and endeavor to be the same as I have been. If I do, I shall hand you over to the police.' Years passed away. The gentleman had forgotten the circumstances, until one day, when travelling through Flanders, he entered a respectable-looking bookseller's shop in order to purchase some books. He had not been long in the shop, when he observed the bookseller, before the latter eagerly looking into the face of his customer, enquired, 'Sir, are you not the gentleman who several years ago gave me five shillings to go to work?' 'Yes, I am,' replied the gentleman, 'but I do not remember it well.'

'Yes, I remember it well,' replied the bookseller, 'the house in which you were employed, is the fruit of that five shilling piece. Tears of gratitude trickled down his cheeks as he related the gentleman to his happy wife and children. He was rejoiced to see his benefactor. When gathered round the table to partake of a cup of tea, the bookseller recounted his history from the above eventful day. It was very similar to that of the welcome guest. By industry, honesty, and independence on God's help, he had made step by step, from being rag to selling papers and tracts in the streets, and then to keeping an old book shop, and ultimately to being the possessor of one of the circulating libraries in the place. as in other places it is come to be very injurious. It is estimated that last year in Ohio they lost 30,000,000 of dollars in one night, so you see that this dreadful scourge of the farmer is about equally injurious South and West as it is East and North.

The above is a fair specimen of the consideration which the yeomanry of Canada would receive at the hands of the opponents of the present Ministry, were they to succeed in obtaining the reins of government. We have no sympathy with the man or the cause who would thus trample upon the rights of the yeomanry of Canada.

In Missouri very little wheat is raised, it is rather too warm, Indian corn is their staple production, and in Iowa they raise wheat with great difficulty by rat, and the snow being rather scarce to cover the ground any length of time in winter, it winter kills (as it is said), to the loss and disappointment of the settlers.

Many of the settlers in Illinois move North to Wisconsin for a colder climate, and lighter and more suitable soil for fall grain, and more especially for more timber. However there is not easy to get government lands worth having, nearer water than 100 miles, settlers are pouring out to Wisconsin and the Fox River, but the soil is reported to be rather sandy and light, and the country about as cold as this, with a much warmer summer.

The route round the Lake is only $3 from Buffalo to Chicago, or any town west of Lake Michigan. The route is very long 700 miles from Detroit, and often very rough in certain seasons of the year but rather lively and pleasing meeting and overtaking steamers and schooners without end on the coast. The Americans here show more care than our government, by having a string of light houses from point to point, along which the Lake craft make their way as by a high way by night and by day.

After this journey I travelled through a good deal of the Huron tract, otherwise called the Company's lands, on which there are now about 20,000 souls settled, and all the best places taken up, only the culls of a hundred choice are left, except in places that are some how or other unhandy or rather inconvenient for settlement. However those who have got hold of property here along the public road are settling down quite comfortably, and in many parts being free of stones, will soon be wealthy. They say much against settlers going further North, as if the difference in water should be very great which is a mere nothing, as we shall see again, so talking about it.

ing a programme of the policy by which he intends to conduct his government. The meeting at Lord John Russell's on Thursday shows a union among the different sections of the liberal party which the present Premier cannot disregard.

The Lord Chancellor opened on the 12th and on the Reform Bill coming up for the 2nd reading, Lord John Russell withdrew it, saying that he could not think of proceeding with the measure as a private member, which was introduced as a Minister of Crown.

At half-past 12 o'clock last night, a fire broke out on the corner of Broadway and Day Streets, the loss of which is estimated at $400,000. The principal sufferers being Merritt, Clark & Co.,—White, Branbath & Co., full insured—and Mock, Weaver & Co. It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed to have caught from the furnace in the basement. The buildings were erected the past season, and were very valuable, and stored full of the highest goods in the market.—Colinist.

Our contemporaries in all quarters are daily alluding to extraordinary Aurora Borealis and other strange wonders seen in the Heavens; and they argue from these, that some great event is about to happen. The Brockville Recorder says that on the 11th inst. the inhabitants of Brockville were alarmed by observing several large meteors falling in the evening, over the town for a considerable time, and an old ballad says:—

NEW YORK MARKETS. NEW YORK, March 23, 1852. FLOUR.—Market for low grades, State, and Western opened firmer, with better demand for export and home trade. Holders manifest less desire to sell but little could be had under $4 50 unchanged, and after receipt of the Europa's advices there was less buoyancy apparent. Few sellers at inside figures. Private accounts by the steamer were very conflicting, but on the whole we think the London and Liverpool markets firmer at the close. The advices from the continent were of the same tenor as the advices by the Pacific.—Canadian Mail, $4 50 a $4 56 1/2, in bond. Domestic $4 44 a $4 50 for common to straight.

GRAIN MARKET for what unsettled. Prices irregular. The steamer's advices depress the market.—Sales white Southern $1 8. Connecticut opens a shade better with less offering. Provisions.—Less buoyancy in market for pork and prices steady with more willingness to sell at current prices, especially new. Sales at $12 for new mess; $16 50 for old ditto, $16 for prime. Lard rather better and in good demand at $10 a 9 1/2. Butter firm and in fair demand. Western New York 23c a 27c. Cheese in moderate demand 6 1/2 a 8c.

THIS MORNING'S MAIL!

New York, March 27. We learn that only two lives were lost at the explosion at Hildgate yesterday. The charges, it appears, instead of remaining at the bottom of the water on the rock tower, which rent the wooden charge boat to atoms, instantly killing two men, and Malffert and an assistant in a boat containing the battery, were both thrown into the air to a considerable height, and fell into the water, which buoyed them up till relieved.
