BEAVER FLOUR

THE BLENDED FLOUR

Compare a Loaf of "Beaver" Flour Bread With One Made of Western Wheat Flour

You never realized what a difference there could be in quality. "Beaver" Flour loaf is compact like cake—the texture is fine—smooth, even, regular—the color beautifully white—the crust, a rich, crisp brown—the taste, real homemade. Western wheat loaf is full of holes—texture, coarse—the color seems gray compared with the snowy whiteness of "Beaver" Flour bread—and the flavor is almost tasteless.

"Beaver" Flour has a quality all its own, because it is a blended flour. It is Ontario fall wheat flour—with just enough Manitoba spring wheat flour to increase the strength and make the dough stand up in the oven.

It is this combination—arrived at by years of experimenting and testing—that gives "Beaver" Flour both quality and quantity.

It is because "Beaver" Flour is a true blended flour and made of the best wheat in the world, that it is equally good for bread and pastry, and best for both.

"Beaver" Flour is immeasurably superior to any western wheat flour for all kinds of baking. You can prove this to your complete satisfaction, the very first time you use it for Bread, Rolls, Biscuits, Cakes, Pies or Pastry.

ALL FOR LOVE.

CHAPTER XVII.
LADY BETH'S CONFESSION

Beth had been very quiet and thoughtful of late, and Miss Prue, watching her, often found herself wondering what the subject of her thoughts could be. One day she came suddenly upon her and caught her looking at the old-time photograph which, strangely enough, seemed to possess a curious fascination for her.

"Why, dearie, where did you find that old picture?" she exclaimed, in surprise. "I haven't seen it for years. I never liked it very well, and thought I had tucked it away with a lot of other discarded photographs that I didn't quite like to destroy. It doesn't look much like you now, does it?"

Beth was very glad she had asked this latter question, and thus saved her explaining how she had come by the card, even though she was not pleased to learn there was another like it in existence.

"I should hope not. I wonder I was not ashamed to give a likeness of that 'red-haired, pug-nosed, freckle-faced little fright' to anybody," she returned somewhat bitterly.

"Still brooding over that old grievance?" said Miss Prue, smiling, but curiously scanning the flushed face beside her with her shrewd eyes. "I wouldn't if I were you, Beth," she went on gently. "There surely is no occasion now, and don't you think it is a trifle unjust to some one whom I could name to treasure it up against him for so many years?"

Beth's face grew scarlet again, but she made no reply, and Miss Russell thought she saw tears flash into her eyes. She immediately changed the subject, and Beth shyly tucked the picture back into her workbag.

The next time Phillip came he did not appear quite like himself. He seemed to avoid Beth, and spent a good deal of time conferring with Miss Prue regarding plans for the future of his proteges, for he had decided, if Nathan proved to be the boy he began to show promise of becoming, to give them both every advantage necessary to fit them to cope with the world. Beth was quick to feel this seeming coldness, and a corresponding constraint became immediately apparent in her own manner.

Miss Prue was beginning to lose patience with her niece. She had long suspected the real state of her feelings, but she knew that the girl's pride would never allow her to retreat from the stand she had taken unless some sudden shock or radical treatment surprised an acknowledgment from her. She knew that she was far from happy, for several times she had seen traces of tears upon her face, and of late she had acquired a habit of taking long walks by herself, or slipping away to a pretty summer-house in the grounds with her work or book, spending hours alone; and now, after this visit from Phillip just referred to, she was more unhappy than ever.

Things went on in this way until the Saturday following, when, feeling unusually depressed—Mr. Russell having written that it would be impossible for either himself or Phillip to get away that week—Beth took her work in the afternoon and stole away to the summerhouse, where she sat for a long time with her hands idly folded and her lovely eyes heavy with unshed tears.

How was it going to end? She had asked herself this question over and over during the week. She loved Phillip with all her heart—she had come to the point where she no longer hesitated to acknowledge it to herself—and she knew that life would hold few attractions for her apart from him. He had told her that he loved her; then all at once he had appeared to grow indifferent and to hold aloof from her. True, she had repelled him and forbidden him to speak of it again—and evidently he had taken her at her word—but she had not thought it would be quite so hard to maintain her position, and now she had kept up the wretched farce so long it would never do to let him suspect her weakness, even though she could not deny that she was very miserable over the situation.

If she could only forget, or if he had never made that cruel speech! This was always the sad refrain to her unhappy musings, and usually, as now, she drew that obnoxious picture from its hiding place, and stabbed herself afresh by studying and exaggerating its awkwardness and unloveliness.

She was unconscious that a pair of curious black eyes were peering at her at that moment through the lattice-work at the back of the summerhouse; that those eyes were growing rounder and bigger as they espied the picture in her hand, and that a pair of red lips belonging to a dark-browed boy, screwed themselves up as if to let forth a triumphant whistle as he recognized it; but a sunburned hand suddenly covered his mouth to stop the sound as Beth began to cry like a grieved child, whereupon the youthful spy crept noiselessly away over the soft turf until he gained the shelter of a thick growth of lilacs, when he took to his heels and was soon out of sight.

He did not pause until he reached a great rock under a tree by the wayside, where he was in the habit of watching for Mr. Russell and Phillip every Saturday afternoon, although to-day he was not expecting them. Here he sat down looking very sober and perplexed. He was sure he had found the lost photograph, but now the problem was how to restore it to the owner without stealing it from the lady who had also been good to him and Zieba. Besides, he had promised never to steal again. Where did she get the picture, and why did she cry as she looked at it? It was a great puzzle to the unsophisticated boy, and he was at a loss to know what to do about it.

Ten minutes after Nathan's discovery,

Miss Russell came down the walk leading to the summerhouse, and entered just in time to see Beth slip the offensive picture out of sight and hastily brush the tears from her cheeks.

"Now, I've caught you at it," said Miss Prue accusingly, determined to make the most of her opportunity. "My dear, what are you grieving about?"

She slipped into a seat beside Beth and tenderly passed her arm around her waist; and the unhappy girl, betrayed at last, did not try to stay the rush of tears, but dropped her head upon the motherly shoulder and cried afresh. Miss Prue let her cry it out, waiting patiently until the paroxysm had spent itself, just holding her in that loving embrace which was of itself an assurance of tenderest sympathy.

At length Beth sat up, a deprecatory smile trembling upon her lips.

"What a great baby you must think me, Aunt Prue!" she said, as she struggled to suppress the catch in her breath.

"But what does it all mean?" persisted her companion. "What are you unhappy about? I have noticed, for a long time, that something has been heavy on your mind."

"Really auntie dear, I feel I am too silly for anything," said Beth evasively, and beginning to resent being caught. "I—I imagine I am a trifle homesick. Papa isn't coming to-night, you know. Then—we are so—unsettled and—and I think shall rather miss the old home when we go back to Boston, though I would not have him know I even thought of such a thing, and—" Beth had started in somewhat volubly, but now began to falter, seeming to have reached the end of her excuses.

Miss Russell studied her downcast face for a moment, smiling wisely as she did so.

"Beth," she began, while she patted her playfully on the shoulder. "I begin to think you are too silly for anything. You can't fool your old auntie, who knows that it is not your father that you are missing to such an extent this bright day, and you were never homesick nor unhappy up here before; while, as for grieving about the old home, I know by the brave face and heart with which you met all your recent troubles, you never would allow the thought of being deprived of the mere luxuries of life to break you down like this. Now, my dear, no one loves you nor can read what is in your heart better than your Aunt Prue, and she is going to uncover the whole story and read you a lecture."

Beth lifted a startled look to her, then shrank closer into her encircling arms as she met the twinkling eyes gazing down upon her.

"When you were a little girl," the older woman resumed, "somebody made a foolish, impatient speech that you have never allowed yourself to forget. No, wait—as Beth put forth a protesting hand—"I am going to have my say out, now that I have begun. You were badly wounded, of course, but, instead of having it out with Phillip then and there, you just crowded the dagger in deeper and deeper, and have nursed the festering sore ever since. Why? Because with all your childish heart you adored the unfortunate offender, and, with the faithfulness that is one of your strong characteristics, you have kept on loving him ever since, despite your suffering."

"When he came home to fulfill a contract which he believed honor demanded of him, he found he had come on a wild goose chase—excuse contract which he believed honor demanded of him before he could even ask her if she were willing to have him; ran away from him; snubbed him when they finally met, and otherwise made him very uncomfortable; while all the time she was dead in love with him, and is now eating her heart out because she has been so unreasonable, even though she knows she could be happy, if she would—"

"Aunt Prue!" Beth's face was one sheet of flame as she sat erect and regarded Miss Prue aghast.

"Well," quietly returned the lady, "don't you know that Phillip loves you?"

MINARD'S LINIMENT—LUMBER-MAN'S FRIEND.

The Mind of God.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The talk drifted from second marriages to the after life the other evening. The transition was simpler than it sounds. A friend of ours who had just married the second time, a girl who during his life was devoted to her first husband, now seems equally fond of the second.

The old question arose as to whose wife she would be in the after life. And someone gave the old answer, "In Heaven there shall be neither marrying nor giving in marriage."

Now the idea that there will be no such thing as sex in Heaven seemed either to puzzle or displease most of the company. They could not allow such a radical change. They had evidently never conceived Heaven as anything distinctly different from this world, but merely as this same world with all annoyances left out and all pleasures raised to the nth power.

Now of course there is no reason why that should be so.

In this life we have five senses through which we receive pleasure, and there are certain things which arouse such pleasure. But why should we think the mind of God which conceived all this isn't big enough to conceive infinitely many more senses through which we might receive pleasure, and infinitely many more ways in which it might be aroused.

The average human being's habit of taking everything that is, for granted, and never wondering about it at all or realizing that things might have been different, is really rather remarkable.

There is a limited amount of food in the world, and sometimes men cannot get any and die of starvation. Suppose now, that air or water were limited, and that men had to earn enough for themselves and their families or else die of thirst or suffocation. That seems unthinkable, doesn't it? And yet, it might have been, you know.

Or suppose, on the other hand, that food were as free as air, and it were as unheard of a thing for a man to lack food as it is now for him to lack air. Such a condition is inconceivable, isn't it? And yet it might have been.

The world is a wonderful creation. Think how much more wonderful the mind of God that conceived it must be. Think what a marvelous power it must be to have thought up such things as music and roses and the ocean and stars and sleep and babies and sunsets and sex, and all the other strange and wonderful things which we take for granted. Think what it has done and then stand awed by the realization of what it might do, and do not attempt to define the after life in terms of your own finite understanding and experience.

Ruth Cameron

Fashions and Fads.

There is still a decided preference for the small hat.

White satin slippers with black heels are very chic.

Linen eponge suits have dangling bell buttons of pearl.

The bosque of chiffon appears on many afternoon gowns.

Heavy crocheted buttons are seen on the new linen skirts.

Simple printed voiles have girdles of vivid embossed velvet.

The very low-cut bodice is worn by Parisiennes in the daytime.

The low-waist line and gay saash are seen even on bathing suits.

Some of the new net dresses have three tiers of pleated flounces.

The tailored suit of fawn, tan or olive tinted cloth is very smart.

"Landscape chiffons" are used for the most striking evening gowns.

Coarse linen suits are made up in strange colors, even grass green.

The afternoon gowns grow more elaborate as the season advances.

Some long, close-fitting sleeves have white linen cuffs turning back.

Buckles and buttons are occupying the attention of the modish world.

A charming bridal robe is made of ivory crepe de chine of stottest quality.

One of the new net gowns shows net gathered from the bust line to the hips.

Some of the long sleeves have a double frill of lace falling over the hands.

On some voile dresses the buttons are dangling balls of bright-colored braid.

Broad girdles of black velvet or satin are worn on white evening gowns.

Net embroidered skirts, flounced with lace, are among the many new models.

White crepon afternoon dresses are relieved by heavy folds of coloured eponge.

Pin striped tub silks, fresh and light, make delightful simple day dresses.

Bright-colored moire ribbons appear on lace gowns half-veiled by lace flounces.

Blouses of darned net, trimmed with pleatings of meline lace, are very popular.

The white evening cloak shares popularity with the geranium red brocated silk.

A fluted braid in very strong colors makes collars and cuffs on white linen suits.

Some of the new sleeves start almost from the neck; others are hemstitched in.

French voiles with pin-head dots in color are trimmed with satin of the same shade.

A new wide girde is finished with three flat bows in the front, caught with a square buckle through the center.

Reduced in Flesh Sleepless Nights

(Kidney Disease and Gravel Caused Keenest Suffering—Cured by
Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. W. Smith.

That diseases of the kidneys cause the greatest suffering is well known, and what stone or gravel is formed in the bladder the torture is almost beyond human endurance.

The disease should never be allowed to reach this dangerous stage. Pains in the small of the back, pain in smearing when passing water, frequent urination, loss of flesh and weight tell of the need of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to regulate and invigorate the kidneys and restore these organs to health.

Mr. W. Smith, Fort Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most dreadful agony. As the disease wore on I became reduced in flesh and passed sleepless nights. No doctor was able to do much for me, and I used many medicines without obtaining more than temporary relief. My attention was directed to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and by using this treatment the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep, well, and feel better than I have for twenty years."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Syndicate to Acquire Fish Preserving Idea.

A syndicate of prominent Montrealers, associated with a number of leading Londoners, have formed a syndicate to acquire the Canadian rights of the Henderson Fish Preserving Process, and will conduct a series of experiments in Canada with a view to establishing the merits of the invention.

The inventor, Mr. J. R. Henderson, claims that he is able to so treat fish by a simple process that they may be shipped without ice or other preservatives, for long distances or held for a period of ten days or more without deterioration.

Associated in the Canadian syndicate are: Messrs. Alfred B. Evans, E. W. Bole, T. H. Wardleworth, and J. R. Finlay, of the National Drug Co., D. R. Clarke of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. George Lynch of London, and Grace Bris and Co., the famous English financial house.

The principle of the invention, if established, will, it is said, revolutionize the fish industry of the Dominion—The Star.

HAD GOOD FISHING.—Early this morning a number of boats were seen coming from the local grounds with good catches of fish, which were of a very large size.

Can Stop Human Heart for 10 Minutes

For an Operation.

Paris, June 13.—The following very interesting statements, some of which are considered striking by the leading lights of French medical science, were made by Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, at his first official lecture at the Paul Beaumont Hospital yesterday.

Dr. Carrel announced that he was now able to operate in the chest cavity with as much ease and safety as in the abdomen.

"It is now a simple cut," he said, "and we open the thorax and operate upon the lungs, heart, and aorta as we treat the kidneys and the intestines. We know also just how much the brain, the spinal cord, and the heart can stand as regards the temporary anaesthetics required by the operation."

"The heart suffers very little from interrupted circulation as long as care is taken that it has enough oxygen, and it may be stopped for five or even ten minutes without danger; while in the spinal marrow, the circulation may be stopped as long as twenty minutes."

"For the brain, however, four minutes is the limit of safety, and after five it is very difficult to restore normal conditions."

A huge field of work remained, he said in conclusion, to be done as regards operations upon the human heart, and the study of these was of the greatest possible importance. This was especially true of surgery for aneurisms and the shrinking of the aorta or pulmonary arteries.

The lecture was received with great enthusiasm.

A Simple Treatment that Will Make Hair Grow Now Sold in Canada.

Every up-to-date woman should have radiant hair.

Imperial Loan Fails in Berlin.

Berlin, June 13.—The attempt to place the new $12,000,000 four per cent. Imperial loan and the Prussian loan of $42,000,000 has practically resulted in failure.

The subscription books closed yesterday. While no announcement has been made of the exact amounts taken on, it is said that not more than 50 per cent. of the loans was subscribed for.

In view of the fact that the Chinese loan of $30,000,000 was oversubscribed six times, the failure of the German loans would seem to indicate a lack of confidence in domestic loans. The speculative elements made no bids, despite the fact that the new loans were offered at 97.70.

Something to Show.

The Daily News this morning advances the argument that while Sir Robert Bond increased the public debt and Sir Edward did the same, Sir Edward has "something to show for it" while Sir Robert had nothing. To quote the Daily News further "where Sir Robert's increase gave the nation no new asset, but went to defray the cost of the mistakes of the Government of that day, Sir Edward is placing in the hands of the people full value for the sum for which he has pledged their credit, in the form of railway extensions."

Now what is Sir Edward placing in the hands of the people? The answer to this query shows how mud-headed-headed both Sir Edward and Sir Robert are. Sir Edward's increase gave the nation no new asset, but went to defray the cost of the mistakes of the Government of that day, Sir Edward is placing in the hands of the people full value for the sum for which he has pledged their credit, in the form of railway extensions.

What do the people get after the spending of the six millions borrowed for the branch railway extension? We know what the contractors get! They obtain a lease to operate the branches until 1951. They get the same rights over the branch railways that they have over the main lines and branches comprised in the contract of 1911. Now what have the people got? The right to the reversion to the Morris branches in 1951, just as they have the right to the reversion of the main line and in the meantime the right to have the branch lines operated, just as they have the right to have the main line operated. For the operation in both cases special consideration is given to the operating contractors.

For the six million dollars he has borrowed, Sir Edward contends the people will have full value. What they will have is the reversion of the branch lines in 1951. The people have the same hold over the main lines and the older branches by the contract of 1911. Between 1898 and 1901 the people did not own the reversion. According to the conclusion of the Daily News the advantage is all in favor of Morris. According to the premises of the Daily News, pressed to a common sense conclusion, hard reasoning shows that the advantage of the comparison is overwhelming against Sir Edward Morris and in favor of Sir Robert Bond.

Morris can show a right to the reversion in 1951 of his $6,000,000 branch railways for his outlay of $6,000,000. Bond can show a right to the reversion in 1951 of the $9,000,000 railway for his outlay of $1,000,000. It is clear then if Morris can show "We have something to show" for the $6,000,000 expenditure, Sir Robert Bond has very much more to show for his million dollars expenditure. He has roughly nine times as much to show for it.

Giving Power to President.

Special to Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON To-day.
An amendment to the Underwood Tariff Bill, adopted by the majority of the members of the Senate Finance Committee, would give the President of the States authority to suspend certain rates proposed law and proclaim special rates against products of hostile States. The amendment is appended to the clause, giving the President authority to negotiate reciprocity. In substance the amendment would provide that when a nation discriminates against the products of the States or imposes restrictions upon the States exports or does not in the opinion of the President reciprocate in trade relations, the President may, by a proclamation, suspend certain rates and put in effect other rates. Only specified articles are understood as included under the terms of this amendment and retaliatory rates are specified also. Among the articles included on the list upon which the President might suspend rates are: fish, wheat, flour, coffee, tea, earthenware, wines, malt liquors, silk dress goods, leather gloves, jewellery, sugars and molasses. Duties prescribed vary as to different articles. Fish it is reported would be dutiable at one cent a pound, wheat at ten cents bushel, flour at 45 cents barrel, a few cents per pound on coffee and tea, on other items the penalty would be doubled rates, while sugar which probably never would be affected, the rate would be only a fraction of a cent per pound. The amendment of course is subject to ratification by the democratic Senators.

The Police Court.

A seaman charged with assaulting and obstructing Constable Day in the performance of his duty, was fined $36 or six months, that being the full penalty of the law.
Four drunks were discharged.
A fireman, drunk, was let go on payment of cab hire.
A labourer of the Battery, drunk for the fifth time this year, was fined $2 or 7 days.

Coronation Sports.

The Brigade Committee in charge of the Coronation Sports met last night and arranged the programme of events. Preliminary events will take place the day before the sports comes off. The fixtures in the football and tug of war contests were drawn as follows:—
Football Fives—N. H. vs. C. C. C.; C. L. B. bye.
Tug of War—N. H. vs. C. L. B.; C. C. C. bye.

Diana Sails to Baffin's Land.

The S. S. Diana, Capt. Walte, now coaling at A. Harvey's premises, sails to-morrow for New York where she will be delivered to a party of Americans who have chartered the vessel for an expedition to Baffin's Land. The ship will be provisioned and take aboard all necessary equipment for the voyage to New York. The Diana just came off dry dock where she was put in sound condition to contend with ice in the Arctic regions.

Smiths Take Weeks' Premises.

We understand that quite recently the extensive fishery premises at Bay Bulls, known as Weeks', and which for the past few years had been in the possession of Mr. Jeremiah Williams, has been taken over by the Smiths Co. Ltd. of this city. This business will be run jointly with the concern in St. John's, and we have no doubt that the able supervision of Mr. Hickman there will be a considerable development in the trade of the concern in Bay Bulls, and which will be mutually beneficial to the people of the place as well as to the new owners of the premises.

Laying Govt. Cables.

The s.s. Baleine will start shortly for Placentia Bay where she will engage in laying cables. She has 12 miles of cable on board but it is hoped that they are an improvement on the cable sent to Ramea by the Portia a couple of years ago. This cable had been better says but when an attempt was made to use it, it was found to be as useless for the work intended as the Picnic Party is to ensure the interests of the country. We wonder are the cables on board the Baleine any improvement on the Ramea "fake"?

Got Six Months.

Seaman Cunningham who while crazed with liquor created a sensation in the city on May 28th, and who escaped from police custody and evading justice for a fortnight before being recaptured, came up for trial this morning. He was charged with beating and assaulting a police officer. The accused was found guilty and was sent down for six months.

There's Many a Slip.

Smithson had been really a power in his day. At any rate, he had held a job bringing him in some thousands a year—that is to say, until the smash came. After that he failed to hold any job he got, and became permanently out of luck.
His old friend Jenkins was a bit surprised, therefore, when Smithson stopped him in the street one day and angrily exclaimed: "D'you know, I've just received the prize insult of my life! A chap down in the City offered me a job this morning!"
"Offered you a job?" replied Jenkins. "D'you call that an insult? I thought you were looking for a job!"
"Yes, but not at three quid a week. Hang it all, I can borrow more than that from you!"

Bridgie Webber, STABBED TO-DAY.
New York, June 14.—"Bridgie" Webber, one of the four gamblers who testified against Police Lieut. Becker and the gunman convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, another gambler, was stabbed in the shoulder shortly after midnight this morning under circumstances which he seemed loath to explain.
He was in the St. Vincent's Hospital to-day suffering from pain and weakness from the loss of blood, but his wound will have no serious result unless blood poisoning sets in. Although branded by some of his former associates in the underworld as a "squealer" in the Rosenthal case, the "informant" closed up tight when detectives tried to pry from him at the hospital this morning the story of the attack upon him.
At first Webber tried to hide his own identity, and the fact that he had been wounded. The stabbing occurred on East Eighth Street. Webber tried to walk away on the arm of a friend, hiding the wound, but on Broadway, in front of Grace Church, he sank exhausted and admitted to a policeman that he had been stabbed. An ambulance carried him to the hospital, where the flow of blood was stopped and where later Webber's identity was discovered by a detective who had worked on the Rosenthal case.
Detectives learned that Webber had kept a midnight engagement with Sam Paul. The latter, another gambler, whose name was often mentioned in the early stories of the Rosenthal case as a leader of an outfit of East Siders, who talked of "croaking" Rosenthal, had lately kept a small restaurant near Eighth street. It appeared that Webber had been attacked shortly after concluding his engagement with Paul.
It will be just eleven months next Monday that the murder of Herman Rosenthal occurred at an early morning hour.
The police up to an early hour to-day had made no arrest in connection with the stabbing.

SPECIAL EVENING TELEGRAM.
VALLEJO, Cal., To-day.
Ten adults and one child met death in a collision between interurban trains on the San Francisco and Napa Calistoga electric line near here yesterday. The number of injured is still unknown and probably will exceed 25. A mistaken order brought the cars head-on together.

LIVERPOOL, To-day.
During the electrical storm the Tower Lighthouse at Cotten's Island, situated at the mouth of the harbor three miles from the town, was struck by lightning. The lightning oil house and lightkeepers' dwelling situated some little distance away were actually destroyed. Con's Island light was built in 1812 and is 65 feet high. It is a revolving light and situated 50 feet above the sea level and is visible 16 miles.

ASCOT, Eng., To-day.
Hewitt is about fifty years of age. According to the police he is a cultured man, having been educated at Harrow and Cambridge, and possesses independent means. He had, however, shown evidence of religious mania. A bible was found on him, the fly leaves of which were full of quotations; also a diary in which the last entry was made a few hours before his mad act. It was: "Oh the weariness of these races. If I fall in my intention to stop the Gold Cup, I hope I shall not hurt anyone of these jockeys. These races bring out all that is worst in humanity."

LONDON, To-day.
Sir Edward Grey concluded the Marconi debate. He said: "If a motion of the Opposition was passed it would mean the political career of these two ministers would end for ever." If there were any other honorable conduct they ought to go, but there has been only carelessness. This House ought not to pass any motion that could be regarded as a vote of censure. Everyone admitted that earlier complete acknowledgment should have been made of these transactions. The Secretary continuing, said, the House should do everything in its power to relieve the ministers of injury done them by charges of corruption handed about the country; although he declared nothing that it did could right all wrongs they had suffered. The following substitute motion was proposed by William Ryland Dent Adkins was then adopted by vote 346 to 268, thus officially closing Marconi affair: "That this House after hearing the statement of the Attorney General and the Chancellor of the Exchequer in reference to their purchases of shares in the Marconi Company of America accepts their expression of regret that such purchases were made and that they were not mentioned in the debate of October 11 last, and acquits them of acting otherwise than in good faith and reproaches charges of corruption against ministers which have been proved to be absolutely false."

Dan Mackay Lands a Big One
B. M. Beckwith of Montreal, and Dan Mackay, proprietor of the Savoy Hotel, have returned from a two weeks' salmon fishing trip in Newfoundland. They brought back with them sixty-six excellent salmon and the usual quotations of fish stories. One of the best is told by Mackay. He had a twenty pounder on the hook, playing it for all he was worth when the line broke. No, he didn't lose it, strange to say. He caught the end of the line, wound it round his wrist, and held the salmon to it, while Beckwith was out in the water to his chin holding the big fish from going over the side. They landed the salmon—Sydney Post, June 16.

Big Receipts.

New York, June 14.—The gate receipts of the two games of the International Polo Cup series amounted to over $200,000, a greater sum than has ever been taken in during two days of baseball in the world series. The exact figures were $35,000 at Tuesday's game and $166,000 at the second contest on Saturday. The expenses are understood to be about $25,000 leaving a net profit of $175,000. What the American Polo Association will do with the balance has not yet been determined. About 60,000 persons saw the two matches at prices ranging from $25 for some boxes to $2 for seats in the grand stand and 50 cents in the field.

Investigating 5 Months and Not Over Yet.

For some time past we have drawn attention to strange doings on the Southern Shore in regard to smuggling and we have wondered why such a length of time elapsed between the discovery of goods apparently smuggled and any prosecution. We were under the impression that the authorities were utilizing the services of a detective and we wanted to know when the authorities would move in the direction of prosecution. This morning the Daily News characterizes our remarks as a campaign of calumny. We will have the public to judge that charge after perusing the letter of the Collector. There is a letter from the Inspector General denying that a detective has been at work, and also stating the stories have no foundation in fact. We can only assume from this that the Government has not availed of the Inspector General's Department for the investigation which the Assistant Collector declares is going on. It will be observed that a conviction has been obtained under the License Act, we assume that this has to do with the Sale of Intoxicants and not with the seizure by the police (we draw the Inspector General's attention to this) of tobacco and spirits in the bushes at Cape Broyle. Now this seizure occurred over five months ago, and Mr. LeMessurier says "Inspector O'Reilly is investigating the whole matter, but is delayed in obtaining certain evidence that is required." We would ask the public if it is an outrage after about five months for the Evening Telegram to stir up the Government and call the attention of the people to the delay in following up the prosecution of the matter? We append the Assistant Collector's reply to the letter of Sir Edward Morris drawing the attention of that official to our references:—

REPLY FROM ASST. COLLECTOR.

Dept. of Customs,
15th June, 1913.
Sir.—In reply to your letter of the 14th June, respecting an article which appeared in the Evening Telegram newspaper of the 6th June, headed "Smuggling in Contraband," I have the honor to inform you that no reports have reached this Department either officially or otherwise of smuggling being carried on in the District mentioned, viz. between Bay Bulls and Tor's Cove.

On or about the 20th January, some tobacco and spirits were found by the police in the bushes at Cape Broyle, and subsequently Mr. Ernest Carew was before the Magistrate for a breach of the License Act, and fined $50. Inspector O'Reilly is investigating the whole matter, but is delayed in obtaining certain evidence that is required. Perhaps this is the matter referred to by the Telegram.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
H. W. LEMESSURIER,
Assistant Collector.
Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris,
P.C., K.C.M.G.,
Prime Minister.

Mr. LeMessurier told the Daily News that the articles referred to as seized in the bushes at Cape Broyle, were:—
8 boxes tobacco,
25 lbs. loose tobacco,
25 boxes sugar,
1 keg, containing some rum,
1 tub, containing some gin.

The seizure of the tobacco and sugar shows that the case had much more in it than a mere breach of the Licensing Act, and we presume that is what the Government has been investigating for five months.

The Downey-Gibbs Dispute.

Editor Evening Telegram:—I have just read that letter signed J. F. Downey, in your issue of the 14th inst. This apology of the said J. F. D. is supposed to be a reply to your correspondent Western Shoreman, who does nothing more than call attention to the system of political patronage which is injuring our country at the present moment. I consider his flimsy attempt to 'red herring' the trail of his political manoeuvres with a letter from the Gordon Fawcett Co., the strongest evidence against him. His threat to expose the inner workings 'higher up' in the Tory Ring are but the empty vapourings of a placeman who is to be turned down to provide a place on the Tory ticket, at the Fall election for the Hon. M. P. Gibbs.

Knowing Mr. J. F. D. as I do, and as I am sure he must be generally known in the city of St. John's, and recognizing him in the present controversy as endeavouring to influence public opinion into favourable consideration of his side of the case, I am compelled at the outset to say that I am not influenced by Mr. Downey's reasons for not replying earlier to the castigation administered by Western Shoreman. He endeavours to pass it along to the public, that J. F. Downey, agriculturist and placeman, refuses to soil his pure mind with the political writings of our local newspapers. What a horrible thing it would be should the noble and manly instincts by reading McGrath's editorial notes.

Had you quoted at greater length from the Western Star you would have noted that the people of Bay St. George give expression to the opinion that they "too long have been acting the role of Lazarus at the political table and content with the crumbs"; but, Mr. Editor, the people whose cause I now advocate must bear in mind how, during the present administration, a carnival of Grab-all-ism amongst the newspapers has reigned supreme and the crumbs when they have been scattered have gone to favorites and heelers with a pull without regard to the general needs of the electors, who have been fleeced to provide the boodle fund. Where will you find a more unscrupulous gang than we have in this Newfoundland of ours at the present time? Their doctrine seems to be to let Morris rip; let him borrow and spend so long as his policy allows us to get rich quick at the expense of the overburdened taxpayers of this Colony. Bay St. George was induced to join the van and sent along to Parliament the subject to whom this letter has particular reference.

I think I am doing him no injustice when I say you will find him about all time lounging around the nursery. Morris has prepared for those who love and serve his purpose. This goody-goody who says he does not read the newspapers, they might corrupt his high sense of political morality, might explain how he has managed to swallow such copious doses of Government pap without any such qualms of conscience? Do we need to remind him that the fisherman and labouring classes who have been fleeced of their earnings regard with contempt a representative who pockets annually $1,635.00 and expenses, as an agricultural expert? Must we insist that this shameless waste of $50,000 a year is looked upon as a scandal which can only be remedied by driving from office the Government that inaugurated such a vicious system? He who does not know wherein he has failed to look to the needs of Bay St. George? If he would condescend to read a second leader in the Star of the 11th inst., he Salmon Regulations he will find the very pertinent question! "Again, what is the representative of the district doing?" "This is the second year of the enforcement of this regulation and surely he must know of the wrong and injustice done and will be done this season to many of those who helped to elect him but will do so no more." And in still another part of the same paper it is stated that a numerous signed petition from the people residing on Cape George was sent on last week to the Hon. M. P. Gibbs. The petition relates to providing suitable coastal service for the District.

Now Mr. Downey, placeman, political purist and agriculturist, it is clear to me and to the multitude, that the day of the political humbug is done. Your promise to provide a walk-over for your opponent is altogether a superfluous language, which by the way has always been a marked characteristic of your public utterances. The walking over has already taken place. Your position in the race is that of an "also ran." Bay St. George has wisely decided to join in the country-wide campaign which will rid this land of several political leeches who are now living in the lap of luxury as country squires with nothing to do but draw fat salaries and plenty of time to do it in. Who can better appreciate McGrath's parrot cry, "Morris times are good times," than Joseph F. Downey? Why, he is having the time of his life and I do not wonder that he gets cold feet as the time of the 'deluge' draws nigh.

Yours truly,
WESTERN SHOREMAN.

Regatta Notes.

All the practice boats will be put on Quidi Vidi Lake next week. The Myrtle will be launched Monday evening when crews will have their first spin. The Brigade crews are now being selected and will begin practice shortly.

Lynching

By H. L. RANN.

A lynching is a polite form of sudden death which is handed to the evil doer while he is figuring on a hung jury. While the practice is not one to be emulated, it is nevertheless a fact that a thorough, workmanlike job of lynching has a very discouraging effect upon people who are thinking of committing murder in the first degree. Some communities have more of a penchant for lynchings than others, and it is about the only form of entertainment everybody who was within four miles of the scene of the crime grew out of the failure of the courts to convict the accused until he became an old gray-headed man and nobody in the community could recollect whether he was on trial for manslaughter or petty larceny on a chicken coop. It was aggravating to see somebody who had stolen a $300 saddle horse languishing in the county jail on fried chicken and 49-cent fiction for eighteen months before a jury was empaneled, when everybody knew he was guilty and thirsted for a chance to prove it at $1.35 per day.

Sometimes the ordinary lynching is not adequate to express the dissatisfaction of the community, in which case a bonfire is built on the public square, with the accused officiating as fuel. After viewing one of these incendiary conflagrations, which are usually a total loss, without insurance, the murderously inclined will decide not to kill anybody until they have a chance to ring in a few supreme court decisions.

It occasionally happens that a lynching has to be repeated three or four times before the guilty party is located, but this doesn't hurt anybody's feelings but those of the deceased. Lynchings are always preceded by a voluntary confession, secured by mauling the accused into a proper sense of his duty. This saves the court costs and enables everybody to go to church the following Sunday and listen to a sermon on brotherly love.

There would be few lynchings if it didn't take the courts an average of four years to convict one criminal who was caught red-handed.

Snow-white and flaky—
the kind you like best

Here's baking-day magic!
A talisman that makes each batch of bread snow-white and flaky. Its name is Rainbow Flour.
While we buy only the very finest Manitoba wheat, less than 40% of each grain goes into Rainbow Flour.
It will pay you to remember this.
Much of the wheat that we reject would make good flour—but not Rainbow.
The only part of the wheat berry that meets our standard is that which will make the cleanest, whitest, most nutritious bread for you.
Try Rainbow Flour and you'll understand why it is so much depended upon by careful cooks.

LONDON, June 19. Leeds University has appointed Dr. Raper, of Toronto, as Lecturer in Chemical Physiology, while Manchester University has appointed William Anderson, of Queen's College, Kingston, to the Chair of Imperial Latin.
LONDON, June 19. Mrs. Pankhurst's doctor says she is suffering from valvular heart disease, caused by forcible feeding. She now needs food more than anything else, but is able to take water only. Another term of imprisonment would kill her.
LONDON, June 19. After all, the Prince of Wales will not experience the joys of a legal fight in the High Courts. The Prince had been cited as plaintiff in an action against one of his tenants under the Duchy of Cornwall from which Britain's heir draws the main portion of his income. Since the action was entered for trial negotiations have been in progress, with the result that the lawyers advised the Prince to abandon his action on terms. This being agreed to, the case was withdrawn.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 19. Count Zeppelin to-day declared that he was pledged not to accept any foreign orders for dirigibles. His company would construct them only for the German government, or for use in Germany. He denied the report published in Vienna that he had contracted to build six airships for the Austrian Navy.
WASHINGTON, June 19. Fourteen American soldiers were killed in the recent four days' fighting on Iolo Island in the Philippines when General Pershing's command subdued and disarmed the rebellious Moros. On the list of dead were Capt. Taylor A. Nichols, of the Philippine Scouts, eleven scouts and two privates of the regular Army.
LISBON, June 19. The Senate in agreement with the Chamber of Deputies, to-day, decided to suppress the Portuguese legation at Rome, and the Portuguese Council at Berlin, Madrid and Rome. At the same time it was determined to raise the Portuguese legation at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, to rank as an Embassy, and the Consulate at Guatemala to a legation; also to create a legation at Panama, and send military and naval attaches to Madrid.
LONDON, June 19. The Opposition is determined to press for a division on a vote of censure against the Cabinet in connection with the scandals caused by ministerial transactions in Marconi shares, according to the announcement made by Lyttelton at the resumption of the debate to-day. He said the apology made by Isaacs yesterday was too much qualified, and that the impugned ministers had not sufficiently cleared themselves with sackcloth. Asquith, whose statement was awaited, as his attitude was calculated to sway the votes of independent laborites and a number of liberals, expressed regret at the decision of the Tories. He said he had hoped after the speeches of the ministers concerned, some agreement had been reached by the House, but that hope was now shattered. Asquith spoke with evident emotion, and said he never had risen with greater reluctance to address the House, or under stronger sense of personal responsibility. He agreed that the ministers would have been better advised to have told the whole story in October last during the debate on the Marconi contracts. It would have saved the Commons an enormous amount of time and trouble. At the same time he did not hesitate to say the terms of the motion introduced by the Opposition were not only unnecessary, but in the highest degree ungenerous. The parliamentary enquiry having proved that the charges were disproved, it should have put in the forefront of its resolution an explicit finding that the Cabinet Ministers had been faultlessly acquitted. Henry Edward Duke assailed the majority report, which he said sought to give the go-by to a mass of facts. Bonar Law said his party had no desire to drive the ministers out of private life. The Opposition had not pushed the charges vindictively, and the ministers themselves alone were to blame for the situation which had arisen. When the country found after their speeches in October last that the ministers had been dealing in Marconi shares, the country, was astonished and angry. The opposite party, said Bonar Law, always made claim to special virtues. The Attorney General said yesterday the Government's standard was the highest in these circumstances, a claim that was not altogether appropriate. The charge the Opposition makes is that two ministers have done things which, in their position, they should not have done, and have shown a lack of moral courage in attempting to conceal from the House what they had done.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 19. Eighty women were burned to death to-day by villagers enraged at the importation of cheap girl labor to work on a sugar estate in Rostifin district, in Poltava province of Southern Russia. The excited villagers first secured and fastened all means of egress from a wooden barn in which the girls were housed. They then set fire to the building in which the inmates were asleep. All were burned to death without the chance of escape.

CHICAGO, June 19. A lock-out of twenty thousand men engaged here in the building trade, recently threatened by the contractors, who are putting up buildings in the downtown district, became effective to-day. The lock-out followed the refusal of one hundred and fifty striking stonemasons to return to work on a big Bank building. The officials of the Building Trades Council declared they would retaliate by calling a strike and stopping building construction throughout the city.

ASCOT, June 19. The waving of a suffragette flag by a male sympathizer, caused August Belmont's four-year-old Tracer, which swerve and fall in the race for the valuable Ascot Cup to-day. A later despatch says that the man was killed on the spot, whilst horse and rider were brought to the ground unscratched. The race was won by Prince Palatine, with Steadfast second and Allepo third. Tracery was last.

LONDON, June 19. Replying to a question by George Greenwood, Secretary of War, Seeley said that as few as possible docked horses were being purchased for the Army. The order had been issued that no horses, so docked, should be accepted after three years.

PRESCRIPTION "A"

CURES INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA IN ALL ITS FORMS.
It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."
I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.
Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Prescription "A". A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Casuals Win.

Last night's football match between the Casuals and B. I. S. drew a small gathering of spectators. The result was: Casuals, two goals; B. I. S., 0.
The game was slow and uninteresting. Very little combination was exhibited showing lack of practice on the part of the players. The Casuals scored twice while their opponents did not find the net once. Cunningham and Searle for the winning team played well. Despite the poor attendance last evening the receipts of the games to date are ahead of last year.

Nascope Here.

The S. S. Nascope arrived here last night from Sydney after a good run with a cargo of coal. The ship had been engaged in the coal trade running from Sydney to Quebec, and will now be put in readiness for her mission to Hudson Bay, and will go to Montreal first and thence to her destination. The Boothie will also be leaving shortly for the Bay and the Diana for New York.

Ventures Held up.

The steamships Bellaventure and Bonaventure which should have left here Tuesday evening for Halifax to begin their charter with the Canadian Government, has not yet left port owing to a difficulty in getting crews, especially firemen. The latter want $40 per month, while $35 is the wages paid to men employed in Hudson's Bay by the Canadian Government. However, a settlement is expected shortly as the ships while detained in port are under expenses of $180 a day each.

Ottawa, June 14.—The government steamer Minto, which is carrying north supplies for the works at Port Nelson, will take along an expert of the Biological Board, to study the fishery resources of Hudson Bay, which it is believed, can be largely and profitably developed.
An ocean-going tug has been secured in Scotland to tow up a large hydraulic dredge now being built in Toronto.

Prize Day.

The annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of Carew St. School, took place last night. Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., B.D., of Cochrane Street circuit, presided. Preceding the prize-giving, a concert, arranged by the teachers, Misses Joyce and March, was given. The programme was as follows: Chairman's Remarks, Chorus, Recitation by Max Willat, Solo by George Dowden, Drill by the Girls, Chorus, Recitation by Isabelle Yabsley, Action Song, Boot-black Drill by the Boys, Song; Chorus by the Girls; closing Chorus. Mr. J. B. Parsons acted as accompanist.

Used A Diamond.

Yesterday morning on opening his shop at the corner of Pope Street and Barter's Hill, Mr. Wm. Fanning, who has a grocery there, was surprised to find that some person had been tampering with the windows, either late the night before or early in the morning. It is thought a diamond was used as a piece of glass was cut out of the pane and thrust aside. Nothing was taken, but the belief is that person who was bent on stealing was at work. The matter was reported to the police.

Looking Forward.

Bad luck may come this year or next, and put me out of kilter, but I am not distressed or vexed, my eyes no teardrops filter. I'd rather think that coming days will be brighter and better, and so I sing my song of praise, and whoop and tear my sweater. I may fall down and break a leg, as you say, with emotion, and give to buy about a keg of powder, pills and potion; but while my legs are on my frame, no trouble will I borrow: I'll prance around and play the game and have no truck with sorrow. My aunt may come and bring her kid to visit for a cycle; on joy, you say, 'twill put the lid, but for the love of Michael, why should I fret till she shall start to share my humble pottage? No aunt can break a brive man's heart until she's in his cottage. Ten million chumps, all c'er the earth, are always muffled-drumming, and missing all there is of mirth, through fear of what's a coming. Oh, friends, to-day let us be glad and keep our tops a-spinning; and if to-morrow we are sad, the next day we'll be grinning! Let's always keep our smiles on straight, to sorrow make resistance; no folly's greater than to wait for troubles in the distance.

Prayer Meetings Used as Lure

In Confidence Trick.
Chicago, June 14.—Under indictment on a charge of operating a confidence game, Orland E. Robinson, former manager of a match company, and his son, Orlando, Jr., are accused of having duped forty members of the Forty-First Street Presbyterian Church out of $21,500. They are said to have interested the church people in their scheme to organize a match-making machine company by holding prayer-meetings.

The elder Robinson, who was arrested at his residence at Perrysburg, Ohio, and the son, who was taken to St. Louis, were brought to Chicago yesterday and released on $5,000 bail each.

Attorneys for that portion of the Presbyterian congregation which claims it has been swindled, assert that the Robinsons held prayer meetings in their suite in a downtown hotel and at the residences of several of their customers.

Ministers, business men, washwomen, factory girls, widows and orphans are listed as their alleged victims, whose confidence was gained at the religious meetings. The Robinsons are said to have operated in 24 cities in the same manner.

Prefers Downey to Gibbs.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—Will you please give me space in your popular paper for a few remarks on the politics, which are becoming quite an interesting subject here? It is the question brought up in every store, on every corner and wherever you see a number of men assembled you may know that elections is on the carpet. Conjecture is rife as to who will represent the Liberals here next term. Mr. Gibbs they say is coming as candidate for the People's Party, though why the ticket is not given to Mr. Downey who is a most capable representative, and who has done more for the District than any of his predecessors. I can't say Morris by doing this is courting defeat. I am not a rampant party man at all, but I think I am fair-minded, and I must say that Mr. Downey during his term did all in his power for the District, and when a man writes to him in any difficulty he would help him to the best of his ability irrespective of politics. He has gained many friends during his term, and if he were to come on the Liberal ticket he would poll a big vote and I think would give Mr. Gibbs the honour of another defeat. Mr. Downey was the first member we ever had to intercede himself in the poor man's interest and who had the courage of his convictions to carry them out every if by so doing he offended the higher powers and made them his bitter enemies. He would not grant a favor to a merchant if by so doing he would use one cent of the district money which all should share in alike. The Western Star is getting quite enthusiastic in its praise of Mr. Gibbs, and I think it but fair for some of Mr. Downey's friends to say a word in his behalf although this letter does not give him half his due.
I am, sir, yours,
St. George's, June 13, 1913. C.

S.A. Services.

The services at the S. A. Citadel continue to draw great crowds. Last night the large auditorium and platform was filled, whilst many occupied seats in the gallery. From the singing of the opening song until the benediction was pronounced there was not a dull moment. After the opening exercises the meeting was opened for testimony, and the manner in which the people responded was an evidence of the blessing which they had received through these services. The Citadel band led by Mr. A. Brewster, rendered one of its inspiring marches, while a solo sung by one of the bandsmen was much enjoyed. Miss Jones sang most beautifully "Saviour hold my hand," after which Adjutant Hargrove introduced Mr. W. H. Jones, Superintendent of the King George Fifth Institute. Mr. Jones expressed his pleasure at meeting with the Salvationists and their friends, remarking that this was not the first time he had taken part in a Salvation Army meeting. In fact his honeymoon had been spent assisting in a revival campaign led by the Salvation Army. The speaker took his text from Daniel 5 and 27. Mr. Jones is a pleasing speaker, and in words frequent in their simplicity he reasoned with that great audience of righteousness and judgment, to come, until Felix like, many trembled. At the close of the address, and in response to the Adjutant's appeal for penitents, many rose to their feet, while a number went forward to the penitent's table. On Sunday, Adjutant and Mrs. Hargrove will be in charge of the meetings, and on Thursday night, June 26th, Mr. R. K. Barnes will address the meeting. Seats free; all are welcome.—J. M.

Requiem Mass

For Repose of the Soul of the Late
Rev. Jas. McNamara.

On Wednesday morning, in the R. C. Church, Burin, a solemn High Mass of Requiem was sung for the repose of the soul of the late beloved Parish Priest of that place, Rev. Jas. McNamara, whose death caused widespread sorrow amongst the people of the parish over which he had spiritual jurisdiction. The church was crowded, people coming from all parts of the country to take part in the sad ceremony. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. Father Wilson, and the choir was supervised by the good Nuns of Burin Convent. At the conclusion of the mass, Father Wilson preached an eloquent and touching sermon in which he reviewed the life and works of the deceased priest and brought to the mind's eye of his mourning parishioners his kindness, helpfulness and charity. He particularly dwelt on the excellent work done by Father McNamara in the district, his attention to the church in which they were then assembled and pointed out that the fruition of his zeal could be noticed in the churches and schools erected by him, the advancement of education and the material and spiritual betterment of the people over whom he was placed. The oration was couched in beautiful language and many in the congregation were moved to tears.

First Schooner Down.

The schr. Mildred M. Belle, Capt. J. P. Wade, of Conception Harbor, was the first vessel to get down to Northern Labrador this season. The schooner did excellent work, was down before the mail boat, and made the voyage in 3 days. Capt. Wade will fish at Smokey Run. The schr. Frolic, which had to put into Conception after being damaged by ice recently, was commanded by Capt. C. Costigan, of Harbor Main, not by Capt. Spracklin.

THE MARY'S MISSION.—The s.s. Mary, which left here yesterday morning for Bay St. George, where she will run in the mail and passenger service, is commanded by Capt. Samuel Butt, formerly of the s.s. Active. The ship is in good condition for the service, being recently overhauled and her chief engineer is Mr. John Maher, with Mr. Matthew Pope, as second and Capt. Bonia, purser.

And I will tell of him who brought
Pure water from the rock;
Who boldly led God's people forth
From Egypt's wrath and guile,
And once a cradled babe did float
All helpless on the Nile.

You're weary, precious ones, your eyes
Are wandering far and wide;
Think ye of her who knew so well
Your tender thoughts to guide;
Who could to wisdom's sacred lore
Your fixed attention claim;
Ah! never from your hearts erase
That blessed mother's name.

'Tis time to sing your evening hymn,
My youngest infant dove;
Come, press thy velvet cheek to mine,
And learn the lay of love;
My sheltering arms can clasp you all,
My poor deserted throng;
Cling as you used to cling to her
Who sings the angel's song.

Begin, sweet birds, the accustomed strain,
Come warble loud and clear;
Alas, alas, you're weeping all
Another defeat. Mr. Downey was the first member we ever had to intercede himself in the poor man's interest and who had the courage of his convictions to carry them out every if by so doing he offended the higher powers and made them his bitter enemies. He would not grant a favor to a merchant if by so doing he would use one cent of the district money which all should share in alike. The Western Star is getting quite enthusiastic in its praise of Mr. Gibbs, and I think it but fair for some of Mr. Downey's friends to say a word in his behalf although this letter does not give him half his due.

Dear smitten flock, good night.

Mendelssohn Recital

The Mendelssohn Recital presented last night at Gower Street Church, under the direction of Mr. F. J. King, organist and choirmaster, afforded music-lovers a rare treat. Amongst the large and representative audience were their Excellencies Governor and Mrs. Davidson, attended by Major Davenport. The recital opened with congregational singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," to the good old tune of "Diadem." After the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Rogers, had said the Lord's Prayer, in which the congregation joined, the programme opened with an overture to "Lobgesang," faultlessly executed by Mr. King, who manipulated the organ, which was listened to by the audience with undivided emotion. The selections of the recital were from the compositions of Mendelssohn, chiefly from "Elijah." The chorus renditions went smoothly and showed that the greatest care had been taken in practice. The chorus "Blessed are the meek" was particularly pleasing and parts of it were sung without accompaniment. The duet "I waited for the Lord," by Miss Daffady and Mrs. King, evoked much favorable comment and the trio "Lift Thine Eyes," without musical help, by Misses Curtis, Vey and Russell were well received. Mrs. King interpreted splendidly "Hear ye Israel," and "Hear my Prayer." She has sung the former before in Gower Street Church, but last night's effect, it is said, eclipsed all previous ones. Mr. Seymour's "If with all your hearts," and Mr. Russell's "O Lord, have Mercy," were exceptionally good. The recital closed with the singing of the Doxology and Benediction by the Rev. Dr. Rogers.

Died at Montreal.

There passed away at the General Hospital at Montreal on last Sunday night, at the age of 48, Mr. W. J. Marquand. Deceased was a well known figure in St. John's, whether for over 20 years connected with the Sun Life Assurance Co., and for many years was manager of Sun Life affairs in Newfoundland. Prior to his demise, which was very sudden, Mr. Marquand was promoted to Insurance Manager at Pittsburg, and accompanied by his wife and niece, was leaving by the Ocean Limited on a visit to his home in Jersey, Channel Islands, when he was suddenly stricken and succumbed. The many friends of the deceased in St. John's will sympathize with his family.

Visited the Schools.

Wednesday, Sir Henry Lewis, now here on a vacation from England, in an informal way, visited the schools of the Christian Brothers, St. Patrick's Hall. Sir Henry was shown through the class rooms by Revs. Superior Ryan and Brother Kennedy, and was highly pleased with the facilities for a good education afforded by the schools. He examined some of the classes in their various exercises and complimented the pupils on their efficiency and the Brothers on their zeal and ability as teachers. The short and eloquent address he made was taken in a very accurate manner by the class in stenography and Sir Henry retained some of the typewritten copies of the boys' work. Sir Henry Lewis is an ardent Home Ruler, and a personal friend of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the world-famed Lloyd George.

Personal.

Rev. Dr. Kitchen, who was on a health trip, returned by the s.s. Florizel, yesterday.
Mr. N. and Mrs. Outerbridge were passengers from Halifax by the Florizel, yesterday.
Mr. R. G. and Mrs. Reid arrived here by the Bruce express yesterday, after having spent the better part of the winter in the old country. Mr. Reid and his wife were at the launching of the s.s. Kyle.

OBITUARY.—There died recently at Quinon, after a short illness, an old and respected resident of the place in the person of Mr. Josiah Taylor. The deceased was a popular and successful fisherman and was esteemed and respected by all who knew him.
