KENNEDY SQUARE.

By F. Hopkinson Smith.

Kennedy Square, a place of "birds and trees and flowers," is both abiding place and symbol of that small and charmingly select coterie of aristocracy in the old South. St. George Wilmot Temple, "a perfect embodiment of all that blood had bequeathed him," is the center of the group portrayed in this story and at his invitation enters also Poe at the beginning of the poet's prominence. The love of a tempestuous youth, born a gentleman, for "the proudest and loveliest girl on earth," furnishes the theme of the tale—a love tested by pride by a duel by hospitality and by the devotion of faithful blacks; a love in the evolution of which character is deepened and chastened and strengthened.

A Great Intrigue, OR, THE Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Lucille's lovely eyes rested on him with faint surprise. This man a friend of her husband's, the fastidious marquis! But she inclined her head slightly.

"I shall be ready in a moment or two," said the marquis, and he went to open the door for her.

Lucille glanced at him, and then at the man, bowed again slightly, and went away.

The marquis stood, white and motionless, drops of sweat upon his brow.

Mr. Sinclair chuckled.

"Rather rough upon her ladyship," he said. "This little slip robs you of your title and her of all her money—every penny of it, marquis!"

The marquis stared before him vacantly. Then he came and stood opposite Mr. Sinclair.

"Five and twenty thousand!" he said. "It is enormous; a fortune—"

"A mere slice out of your cake," said Mr. Sinclair.

"But you shall have it," continued the marquis.

"Right!" cried Mr. Sinclair. "Give us your check—"

The marquis shook his head.

"Not now. I have not got the money."

"Oh, come!" expostulated Mr. Sinclair.

The marquis' eyes grew steely and flashed.

"I have not the money," he said; "but I will get it."

"All right," said Mr. Sinclair, amiably. "I'm in no hurry for a day, or a week or two. Meanwhile, marquis, you won't mind my keeping my eye upon you? Men in a hole like this you're in are apt to give one the slip. You won't mind my giving you a look in now and again?"

The marquis remained silent—a crushing weight seemed to have fallen upon him.

"I'll look in now and again in a friendly way until the money is raised," said Mr. Sinclair, obligingly.

"You telegraph to Paris, if you like. Better run over and see for yourself; it would be safer. I'll go with you." He got his hat. "Don't take my word for it; prove it to your own satisfaction. I'm off now! Here!" he said, as if a thought struck him. "Just come down with me, will you?"

The marquis hesitated, then followed the vulgar, resplendent figure down the stairs.

Arrived in the hall, Mr. Sinclair held out his hand, and, glancing round at the group of servants who were watching with all their eyes, he said, in a loud, hearty voice:

"Well, good-evening, Merle! Sorry I can't stay! Look in again soon. Good-evening, old chap!" and, shaking the white, thin hand like a pump handle, he glanced rather triumphantly at the amazed faces of the porter and footmen, and stalked toward the door.

Arrived there, however, he paused, and looked back.

"By the way, Merle, these fellows at this hotel aren't over civil. Just tell them that I am not to be kept waiting when I call, will you?"

The marquis inclined his head, and without looking at the amazed group below, said, in measured accents:

"Show Mr. Sinclair up to me immediately he arrives, please!"

And Mr. Sinclair, with a chuckle, stuck his hat on one side, and staggered into the street.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

London is said to be paved with gold, but, if it is, the authorities take very good care that one does not meddle with the pavement! Harry Herne, with nothing but his youth and health and burdened with a sorrow which weighed upon his heart like lead, reached London to find himself alone in a city, big and crowded enough for a world in itself.

He had a little money, a small sum, representing the saving of years, and he intended taking passage in one of the Australian liners, for what part he did not much care. "Hope which springs eternal in the human breast," had not sprung up in his. Love and despair reigned too supreme in his heart to permit of anything like hope, leave alone ambition. To get to Australia and bury himself in a cattle run seemed about the best thing he could do, and he went straight to the office of an emigration agent to make inquiries. The man, sharp and utterly unscrupulous, advised Harry to go to the part which would pay the agent the highest commission, and, having pocketed Harry's passage money, informed him that the vessel started on the day after the morrow.

Harry wandered about the streets, solitary and alone in the great crowds, just as Lucille drove through them a little while afterward, and scarcely seeing the things his eyes rested upon. All his heart and mind and soul were back at Darracourt, and it was his miserable body only which he had brought with him.

Toward evening of the second day he sauntered down to the docks to see the vessel in which he had booked a passage.

She was taking in a cargo, and the wharf was crowded with hands swinging bales of goods into the hold. Harry seated himself upon one of the short, thick posts and watched in dreamy and melancholy idleness. There was not one of the busy gang who had not some one to love him—a wife and children, perhaps, for whom he was working—and Harry sat and envied them!

Harry wandered about the streets, solitary and alone in the great crowds, just as Lucille drove through them a little while afterward, and scarcely seeing the things his eyes rested upon. All his heart and mind and soul were back at Darracourt, and it was his miserable body only which he had brought with him.

Toward evening of the second day he sauntered down to the docks to see the vessel in which he had booked a passage.

She was taking in a cargo, and the wharf was crowded with hands swinging bales of goods into the hold. Harry seated himself upon one of the short, thick posts and watched in dreamy and melancholy idleness. There was not one of the busy gang who had not some one to love him—a wife and children, perhaps, for whom he was working—and Harry sat and envied them!

Presently there was a clatter on the stones behind him, and some men appeared, riding and leading half a dozen horses. In the rear rode a dog fellow, with a smooth-shaven face, and with a pair of clear, gray eyes that seemed to take in the whole scene. Harry included, even while his attention never strayed from the string of horses.

Arrived at the wharf, the big man dismounted and gave some orders to the men in a clear, resolute voice that struck pleasantly upon Harry's ears.

The horses were evidently intended for shipment upon a vessel lying next to Harry's, and he turned on his post and watched the performance with the first symptoms of interest he had felt since he left Darracourt.

It was not a brilliant performance, by any means. The horses were young—Irish, Harry decided—nervous, and frightened by the unfamiliar noise and sights, and the two men in charge of them were not up to their work.

One man led a horse up to the steep incline from the wharf to the ship, and then attempted to drag him, while the other struck him on the hind quarter. The big Yorkshireman, who was riding a young and almost thorough-bred horse, and could not leave them, shouted out directions, strongly spiced with oaths. But the men were sad bunglers, and every moment the frightened horses grew more restless and unmanageable.

Harry stood it—or sat it—as long as he could; then rising, went up to the perspiring and bewildered couple, and offered his assistance. The men stared at him, and responded with a scowl, but Harry nodding a kind of request to be permitted to the Yorkshireman, took the horse out of their hands, and led it some distance from the vessel, and to a quiet part of the wharf.

There it walked it up and down for a little while, talking to it in the soothing tone which a horse loves, and presently, after he had thoroughly impressed the poor thing with the idea that he was coming to no harm he got on his back, and rode him as quiet and serene as a sheep, up the bridge into the vessel, saw him comfortably stabled, and went down to the wharf again.

The Yorkshireman stood at the foot of the incline, the stablemen were nowhere to be seen.

"You're a brick!" said the man, eyeing Harry, approvingly. "Will you see to the others for me? I can't! I dare not leave this young devil; and I'll pay you for your trouble! I've sent those other two blockheads to Jericho!"

Harry smiled and nodded, and before very long the remaining horses were standing quietly beside their fellows. Then the Yorkshireman took off his hat, wiped his brow, and said: "Come and have a drink!"

Harry followed him into a public-house, and the giant ordered some liquor, and while they drank it he eyed Harry over, very much as he would eye a good horse, with a complacent admiration and approval.

Anaemic Mothers
Here is Relief!

You Can Enrich Your Worn-out Blood and Quickly Renew Your Health With Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a Real Cure.

"I can't remember any time during the past twenty years when my heart wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to my head."

Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P. O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going upstairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. I tell you how I feel to-day and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made. I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going up stairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any well person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine. They helped me, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health. Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, 25c. per box at druggists and storekeepers, or the Catarthosone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

"You are a fine fellow," he said, at last.

Harry smiled.

"This isn't the first time you've handled a horse, eh?"

"No," said Harry.

"No, I thought not. I got those two fellows from a livery stable. I suppose they'd only been used to old, worn-out screws, and my young 'uns frightened 'em. I don't know what I should have done if you hadn't turned up. I'm much obliged to you," and he plunged his hand into his pocket, and held out half a sovereign.

Harry shook his head.

"I'm much obliged to you," he said. "I was sadly in want of something to do, and so we're quits."

The Yorkshireman stared at him curiously; then his tone changed.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said. "I took you for one of the hands here, but I couldn't quite make you out. I see now, though. You are a gentleman?"

Harry shook his head again.

"You are quite wrong," he said. "I am a workman—"

"Workmen don't talk like you, as a rule," said the Yorkshireman, dryly. "What do you work at, if it's no offense?"

"None in the world," said Harry. "I have just come from the country, and I am going abroad."

"Oh, I see—a farmer?"

"No," said Harry, rather amused by the man's curiosity. "No; I am simply an emigrant."

"Well," said the Yorkshireman. "I don't care what you are—or, rather, what you say you are. I think I know a gentleman when I see him, though he is got up in rustic style. Anyhow, I'm much obliged to you. I expect you've saved my horses from getting their legs broken."

"You are quite welcome," said Harry. "I'm fond of horses, and have been used to them."

"And you're going to emigrate?" said the man, nodding. "I know something of that business. Now, if it isn't a rude question, where are you going to?"

Harry mentioned the port and the vessel.

The Yorkshireman started, then whistled.

"What on earth would you think of that place?" he demanded.

Harry told him that the agent had recommended it, and one place was the same as another to him.

The Yorkshireman set down his glass and swore.

"You couldn't go to a worse place," he exclaimed. "Here, come and sit down!" and he threw his bulky frame onto a form. "It's no use going there; the labor market is glutted already! The agent fellow is in the pay of the shipowners and the people on the other side, and gets a commission on every passenger he sends there. He has taken you in—swindled you. I like the look of you, and I tell you what. Don't go across the herring pond, but join me."

"Join you!"

C. C. C. Farewell.

At the T. A. Armour last night the members of the C. C. C. regulars and reservists, who have enlisted in the Newfoundland Regiment, were farewelled by their friends. Amongst those present at the gathering were Lieut.-Col. Conroy, Hon. John Harris, Chairman of the C. C. C. Committee; F. J. Morris, K. C., T. H. O'Neill, J. L. Slattery, T. Power, W. J. Oakley, J. Spearna, Capt. C. C. O'Brien of the Regiment, Capt. Murphy, Meenan, Perez, Burke and other officers.

Several French residents of the city, and others representative of Russia were also present and expressed their appreciation of the spirit with which the anthems of the allied nations were sung, particularly "La Marseillaise," sung by Mr. Clement J. Benning.

Mr. F. J. Morris addressed the volunteers in a stirring manner, showing that their cause was just and that their response to the call of the Motherland was a call of duty. As to the issue of the extending struggle he had no doubt, and he felt that Newfoundland would be proud to assist in keeping inviolate a treaty that had been so nobly signed by the enemy.

During the evening the Cadet Band rendered patriotic selections, including the war song: "It's a long way to Tipperary." The concert was under the direction of Mr. J. L. Slattery, who was ably assisted by his nephew, Mr. J. L. Slattery and Mr. T. P. Haley, who acted as accompanists.

The following is the programme:—"Rule Britannia," J. L. Slattery; "Mr. Murphy," T. Power; "The man with a single hair," After all your boys are gone," L. Murphy; "Break the news to mother," "Far Away," C. J. Fox; Band Selections (1) A Long Way to Tipperary, (2) American Airs; recitation, E. Keating; "A Long Way to Tipperary," J. L. Slattery; "La Marseillaise," C. Benning; "Tags," "Bonnie Scotland," P. J. Morrissey; "Hymn to the Czar," J. Burnstein; "Cadeis 'Can't Lose," "Room in the Gloom," J. M. A. Kinross; Address by F. J. Morris, K. C., member of the Committee; "Waiting till the moon went by," Corpl. Gardner; "Have a banana," (sings) Kenneth; recitations, "Louis Philippe and Queen Victoria," "Jack Pats," T. H. O'Neill; "Way down East," P. J. Maloney; "Go where glory waits," C. Benning; Address by Lieut.-Col. Conroy.

GOD SAVE THE KING.
At the close of the programme Lieut.-Col. Conroy on behalf of the C. C. C. addressed the lads in a whole-souled manner, congratulating them on their patriotism and urging them to adhere to strict discipline. He felt that they would prove worthy sons of the Empire, and be true members of the Catholic Cadet Corps.

Germans Cut off Hands of Red Cross Nurses.

SAYS AMERICAN WOMAN.
One more link in the chain of evidence showing that atrocities almost unbelievable are being committed by the German troops was forged when a letter written by Mrs. Ernest G. Weymouth, wife of Major Weymouth of the Royal Artillery, was received here yesterday by her father, Rear Admiral John V. B. Bleeker, U.S.N., retired. The following is an extract from Mrs. Weymouth's letter:—

"This is one of the true things. The Germans cut off the hands of a large Red Army Medical man, who wear a large red cross on their arms and are non-combatants, therefore are not allowed to carry arms of any description.

"There is a man here in the hospital" (Portsmouth, England, where Mrs. Weymouth lives) "with both hands cut off at the wrists. He and six others went out with a stretcher to pick up the wounded. They were attacked by the Germans. The other six were killed, the man on the stretcher finished off with bayonets and swords; this man's hands were cut off and he only escaped by pretending he was dead. He was rescued afterward and is now in the hospital here."

Mrs. Weymouth's letter was dated September 8.

Vanquish England At Whatever Cost.

London, Sept. 26.—A copy of a memorial addressed by the Hamburg section of the Pan-German League to the German Secretary of the Navy was received here to-day:—

"The Germans are daily becoming more and more convinced that England has been the real originator of this war that has been continued up in such infamous manner, must be utterly vanquished at whatever cost."

"Here in Hamburg merchants, shipowners and workmen employed in the port and on the docks feel that England's intention is to throttle German trade and commerce. Every resident of Hamburg knows that world trade and freedom of the seas are as necessary to the modern German as breathing.

"We therefore beg Your Excellency to adopt all measures requisite for the creation of a fleet that shall gradually equal the naval strength of our united opponents so that we may vanquish the English, our deadly enemy, and his accomplices. The German people are resolved to make any sacrifices to attain this aim."

Responsible Only to God.

KAISER ASSERTS.
Mr. J. M. Kennedy, says the London Daily Express, has collected a series of illuminating quotations from the Kaiser's speeches, and his little book, "The War Lord," gives a complete picture of the ruthless egomaniac who has planned Europe into mourning.

"Remember the maxim of an old Emperor, who said:—'The Emperor's word must not be twisted or explained away.'"

"Shame on the man who abandons his King!"

"You wear the Emperor's uniform; you have thereby received a preference over other men."

"I am the possessor of an inflexible determination to proceed fearlessly in the path that has once been recognized as the right one, and this in spite of all opposition."

"As I look upon myself as an instrument of the Lord, I am indifferent to the point of view of the present day."

"The soldier must not have a will of his own—they must all have only one will, and that will is mine."

"A ruler may be very disagreeable, and I will be disagreeable if I think it necessary."

"There is only one law—my law; the law which I myself lay down."

"The King holds his power by the grace of God, to whom alone he is responsible. He chooses his own path, and only decides his actions from this point of view."

"There is only one master in this country. I am he, and I will not tolerate another."

At present the trunks skit is made with a circular yoke. The yoke is hip length.

Nfir. Killed in Quebec

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The sad intelligence has just reached us of the untimely death of one of Terra Nova's sons in the person of Mr. Joshua Gooby, at Quebec. About five and a half years ago Mr. Gooby left his home Queen's Cove, Bantamby Trinity Bay, for Brooklyn, New York, U.S.A., where he has since been employed as a carpenter. At Quebec was a ship which a short while ago had been rammed by another ship, and was needing repairs, and the company of which Mr. Gooby was an employee, undertook to carry out the contract. Mr. Gooby being one of their leading carpenters, was consequently sent over. Though no details have reached us yet, it is thought that at the close of his day's work Mr. Gooby was returning from work in an automobile, when by some accident he was struck by a machine he was unfortunately killed. The news of his death has come with sadness to all who know him, as he was a man beloved and respected by all. He has left behind him a wife and five children to mourn his death, and to add to the grief of his heart-broken wife, he was over in Canada when he met his death and in America. Mr. Gooby was a man of genial disposition, a thorough man in every sense of the word. His tragic death has cast a gloom over his former home Queen's Cove, and many beside his own family are to-day mourning his demise. To the grief-stricken widow and children we extend our deepest sympathy in this their hour of darkness and sorrow, and we earnestly pray that "He who came to bind up the broken-hearted" may speak to them His words of comfort, cheer and consolation. To his father and brothers and sisters who are frantic with grief we also tender our deepest sympathy and for them we pray, and ask our Heavenly Father to teach them to say "thy Will be Done."

Yours sincerely,
KENNETH G. RICHARDS,
St. John's, Oct. 1st, 1914.

Wedding Bells.

ROSNAD—POWER.
A very pretty wedding took place last week in Port-au-Prince, U.S.A., when Miss Lucy Power, formerly of Bell Island, became the bride of Ferdinand Konrad, a well known musician and composer of that city. The bride is a graduate of Littledale Academy and of Boston City Hospital Training School Class of 1913, and has been visiting brother T. A. Power, now of Portland, for the past few months. The bride's dress was of white tulle, and she carried with her a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids were Miss Josephine Power, sister of the bride, a journalist and teacher in Boston, Miss May V. Bowdring, formerly of Bell Island, who is also a cousin and classmate of the bride, and Miss Myrtle Joslin, of Portland, Or. The Pebble Business.

A large shipment of twenty thousand sacks arrived by the Stephano from New York, for the Pebble Co. operating at Manuels. About 130 men in the employ of the Pebble Co. are now at work on the beach, which is a regular hive of industry, picking a second cargo of Pebbles which it is expected to ship by steamer early next month. As so many men are out of employment owing to the closing down of the mines on Bell Island, and war conditions, this work of picking pebbles comes as a boon to the men who are there, especially at this season of the year.

FRIDAY, October 2, 1914.

Tide Running Strong.

On August 17th, it was officially announced that the British Expeditionary force had landed in France. The next four days were occupied in concentration work, and then they began to move to the front, and within the week after the official announcement they were in the thick of the fight.

Yesterday it was officially announced that Indian troops had been landed in France last Friday, and it is highly probable that they are now ready for the front. They would probably be given some days to recover from their sea trips, and then time would be taken up to concentrate them and their equipment. If we give a week for all this, it will allow of their use from this week on.

The messages coming in today speak of the Germans admitting that at certain points they are feeling the weight of the increased pressure of the British forces. This points distinctly to the reinforcement of British troops. This further borne out by the praise which is given to a corps of dispatch riders who are doing excellent work in keeping the commanders and forces in touch. The despatch says this corps is mainly composed of young men from the Universities. This is the first mention, so far as we know, of volunteers at the front. Although they are not in the regular line and are used for a special purpose, it means that use is being made of volunteers for at least special work, to relieve regular officers for company work. The hearts of the French are rising and the hearts of the Germans are sinking. This should be a good index to us how matters are going at the front. Kitcheners three weeks ago said the tide had turned. Everything points to it running stronger than ever in our favour.

PLEASANT PRESENTATION.—Yesterday Mr. M. J. Murphy, late of McMurdo's Drug Store, was the recipient of a valuable shaving set presented by his fellow employees as a souvenir of his long connection with the firm. "Mike" had been in the employ for 16 years and at the time of his resignation, to join the Nfld. Regiment, was foreman of the wholesale department. Accompanying the gift was an address wishing Mr. Murphy God speed and a safe return.

WEATHER.—It is calm and fine along the line of railway to-day with the temperature ranging from 30 to 50 above.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Oct. 2, 1914. It would be a mistake to despair of getting a cure for Dyspeptic trouble, or indigestion, before you have tried Gault's Syrup. Gault's Syrup has done amazingly good work in some cases which were chronic, and which were believed to be beyond remedy. While it would be rash to claim Gault's Digestive Syrup as a specific for this serious of troubles, it has cured so many cases and relieved so many others, that it is certainly worthy of trial by anyone suffering from trouble in the digestive system. Price 50c. a bottle.

Retained Volunteers

Last night the members of Wesley Bible Class, with their lady friends entertained the volunteers of the Class numbering eleven. Rev. H. Royle acted as chairman and a patriotic programme was gone through. A special feature of the programme was the rendering of the Russian, French and English National Anthems by the Church Organist, Mr. Jas. Pratt, also the solo of Mr. H. A. Chaplin, "Soldiers of the King," the audience joining in the chorus. Speeches were made by the Chairman, Mr. Puddister and Mr. Rooney, who complimented the volunteers for their grit in responding to the call of the Motherland. Wesley Bible Class can boast of having more volunteers than any other of the Methodist Bible Classes of the city. Volunteers numbering 11 are as follows: Lieut. M. Godden, L. Corp. C. Garland, Ptes. W. Gooby, W. Taylor, J. Nicholas, P. Garf, E. Martin, H. Matthews, B. Ryan, W. James, N. Lovesy. After the program refreshments were served and were thoroughly enjoyed by all. Various games were then indulged in. The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

DUNURE ARRIVES.—The barq. Dunure, Capt. Connolly, reached port last evening from Barbados via Cape Breton, after a passage of 24 days. The vessel put into the latter port on Sunday last owing to stormy weather. She was detained there until yesterday when a favorable time offered for coming down the shore. The Dunure brought a cargo of molasses consigned to A. S. Rendell & Co.

Special to Evening Telegram: WEBB CITY, Missouri, To-day. A mine here caved in last night and 59 men were buried beneath the debris. It is believed all were killed.

NEW PREMIER OF ONTARIO.
Special Evening Telegram: TORONTO, To-day. It was officially announced to-night that the Hon. W. H. Hearst, Minister of Land, Forest and Mines in the Whitney Government, and the youngest member of the Cabinet, last night was summoned to Government House and asked by the Lieut. Governor to form a new Government. This disposes of the much vexed question as to who will succeed the late Sir Jas. Whitney. Hearst will continue to hold the portfolio of Land, Mines and Forests, and the only change in the personnel of the Government is the appointment of Findlay G. MacDermid, member of West Elgin, to the portfolio of Public Works, resigned by Hon. Dr. Reumo. Hon. J. P. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer succeeds Hon. J. S. Hendrie now Lieut. Governor on the Hydro Electric Commission. Sir Adam Beck is no longer a member of the Government without a portfolio. His dropping out being at his own request for the re-organization of the Government. His wish for a long time has been to devote his whole attention to Hydro Electric development with which his name is so prominently associated. The new Premier has represented Sault Ste. Marie since 1908. He entered the Cabinet in 1911 in succession to the Hon. Frank Cochrane who at the last Dominion election entered the Borden Government.

BIG HAUL OF SHIPPING MADE BY H. M. S. CUMBERLAND.
Special to Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty announces that the British cruiser Cumberland has captured the German liner captured in the Cameroon River in West Africa, the Hamburg American liner Arnfrida, and the following merchant steamers: Max Brock, Klaus Amstnek, Paul Woermann, Enna Woermann, Aline Woermann, Maus Woermann, German prizes, all are in good order. Most of them contain considerable general cargo and a quantity of coal. The European crews have been removed as prisoners but the native engine-room hands are being retained. The gunboat Soden has also been captured and placed in commission, while it is expected that the floating dock and the Herzogin Elizabeth which have been sunk can be raised. Cameroon is the German colony of Western equatorial Africa. It has heretofore been announced that the British naval forces have visited the place and captured the German shipping assembled there.

DESTROYED BY GERMAN.
Special Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. Eighteen steamers with an aggregate tonnage of 29,561 have been sunk by German warships during September, while 9 steamers were destroyed by mines in the North Sea in the same period.

HARRELL HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR DUBLIN TRAGEDY.
Special Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. The Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the events of July 26th last, when four people were killed and many wounded in Dublin during the fight with the police and soldiers following the landing of guns for Nationalist Volunteers at Howth to-day reported that the employment of police and military was not in accordance with the law. The report further says that the Assistant Commissioner of Police Harrell was responsible for the calling out of military and for the orders issued to the police.

FRENCH BECOMES BUOYANT.
LONDON, To-day. Despite the fact that thousands of Frenchmen are lying down their lives and thousands of wounded are arriving daily from the front the Parisians, says the Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, are regaining some of their customary buoyancy of spirit. Victory is in the air and all indications point to the fact that the German Commanders and German troops are realizing for the first time that they are in a desperate position. Their attacks during the last few days, delivered as they were at no decisive point with overwhelming numbers, but haphazard all along the line, show that they have been driven desperate, and that their plan of campaign has been completely frustrated. That the German night wing is completely in the air, that it rests on no fortress or entrenched position and daily its position becomes more critical.

ANOTHER PEACE TREATY.
Special Evening Telegram: WASHINGTON, To-day. Secretary Bryan for the State and Ambassador Baklanoff for Russia today signed a treaty ending the two nations to submit all disputes that cannot be settled diplomatically to an international commission of five members for investigation during a period of at least one year, during which hostilities may not be commenced.

GERMAN PEOPLE BEING PREPARED FOR NEWS OF DEFEAT—GALLANT WORK OF DESPATCH RIDERS.
LONDON, To-day. A Rotterdam despatch to the Daily Telegraph says the Germans in Rotterdam are agitated at the tone of German newspapers which arrived yesterday, Thursday. Only one meaning can be attached to what they contain. They are preparing the German people for defeat and the ruin of their hopes. Official messages ask that judgment be suspended if news should arrive that German troops have been compelled to abandon certain positions. British troops are mentioned as pushing on by the sheer weight of their masses and the French are admitted to have taught them a severe lesson. A week ago such statements would have meant the suppression of the newspapers printing them. At the battle front the Generals in command of the allies are full of praise for the corps of despatch riders, who since the beginning of the great battle of the Somme have kept up communication between the various corps along the line now spreading from the Somme to the Selle and along the frontier of Alsace Lorraine. The corps is composed of mostly volunteers from British universities, many of them very young men, who night and day have made dashes throughout the country infested with German cavalry, carrying messages which have kept brigades and army corps in close touch and enabled commanders to send reinforcements to points where they were most needed. On many occasions these dispatch riders, mounted on motor cycles, through sheer audacity and speed, have scattered the German messengers. German cavalry, sometimes facing enormous odds in their dangerous work, have been able to overtake each other from breaking through, but they have gained ground steadily and now have captured German prisoners who have been taken in large numbers on the western end of the line show that reinforcements which have arrived recently consist largely of older men who are nearing middle age.

The Patriotic Concert.
After the very hearty appreciation given by the public and press of St. John's to the Patriotic Concerts this week, I feel sure they will wish to know to whom they are indebted for the delightful entertainment. Alexander the Great.

Red McGehee says:
St. Paul, Nebraska.
Lemme see—
It boasts a railroad, a siding, an a store, in straight geography that's all. But when you reckon in baseball it boasts one big gob more. For Alexander first pitched there. He pitched clean out of 'er high chair in 1888. An' darned if he ain't pitchin' yet. He's Philly Doolin's one best bet to serve 'em to the plate.

His folks originally meant that he should be a president instead of just a king. They called him Grover Cleveland so he'd have a little better show to join the big Dem ring. But politics was nix with Grover. He shovelled out-curve in the stove an' pitched ball in his sleep. In nineteen-nine he left the boys an' went to Galesburg, Illinois, an' pitched ball for his keep.

This six-foot slabster had the goods an' didn't stay long in the woods. The scouts got on his track. His right arm reached the Phillies' dough an' when he got a chance to show he run up all his sail. He hit the spotlight from the start. His pitchin' an' his fieldin' art took rating in Class A. They tacked behind his name "The Great." He's made good on it three years straight. I guess it's gonna stay.

PRO PATRIA.

The editor of "Punch" admirably describes the duty of those who are unable to go to the war, and what he says is equally applicable to those who are, for valid reasons, compelled to stay at home while their hearts are in the fighting line:—
England, in this great fight to which you go
Because, where Honor calls you, go you must.
Be glad, whatever comes, at least to know
You have your quarrel just.
Peace was your care; before the nation's
Her cause you pleaded and her ends you sought;
But not for her sake, being what you are,
Could you be bribed and bought.
Others may spurn the pledge of land to land,
May with the brute sword stain a brilliant past;
But by the seal to which you set your hand,
Thank God, you still stand fast!

Forth, then, to front that peril of the deep
With smiling lips and in your eyes the light,
Steadfast and confident of those who keep
Their storied scutcheon bright.
And we, whose burden is to watch and wait—
Light-hearted ever, strong in faith and prayer,
We ask what offering we may consecrate,
What humble service share?
To steel our souls against the lust of ease;
To find our welfare in the general good;
To hold together, merging all degrees
In one wide brotherhood;—
To teach that he who saves himself is lost;
To bear in silence though our hearts may bleed;
To speak our values, and never count the cost,
For others' greater need;—
To go our quiet ways, subdued and sane;
To hush all vulgar clamor of the streets;
With level calm to face alike the strain
Of triumph or defeat;—

This be our part, for so we serve you
So best confirm their prowess and their pride,
Your warrior sons, to whom in this high test
Our fortunes we confide.
—Sir Owen Seaman.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office,—its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKS CO." When six offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world famous firm in Newfoundland.—

The Real Causes of the War.

DR. DILLON'S REMARKABLE SURVEY OF THE LONG-PLANNED GERMAN PLOT AGAINST THE PEACE OF EUROPE.

Dr. E. J. Dillon is quite the most remarkable publicist of to-day. His personal knowledge of European statesmen and affairs is unique, and if you would get a glimpse of the sort of life such a man lives, and what influence he has, you should read his brilliant article in the brilliant September issue of the Contemporary Review, in which he points out what were the causes of the European war. It is a most masterly document, which should be read at length. It is also a self-revealing testimony to the acuteness of Dr. Dillon's observations and perceptions. The point which specially concerns us is that Dr. Dillon's article most clearly shows that it was not Great Britain's action which started this great war in Europe. The sequence of events was far otherwise.

DR. DILLON'S FORECASTS.
Dr. Dillon is able to show by quotations from his own articles in the Contemporary and the Telegraph, ranging over the last three years, how calculated and fixed were Germany's plans to find its place in the sun at whatever cost.
"In January, 1912," says Dr. Dillon, "I wrote: 'The root of the antagonism between Germany and Great Britain is this. We want to keep what we have, and therefore we favor the maintenance of the status quo; whereas our Continental cousins crave for what they have not got, and are minded to wrest it from the hands of those who possess it.'
"Germany's fixed aim and object from which she will not, cannot, swerve, is to weaken our power, to organize a European coalition against us, unless we consent to such changes in the map of Europe and of Europe's overseas possessions as could and would be effected by the Kaiser's Government were England's veto overruled. That is the clue to the tortuous policy of the Wilhelmstrasse. It would be wasted breath to inveigh against it."

"Many of our hopeful and trustful publicists joined issue with me on this diagnosis. They had a higher opinion of the German Emperor, and especially of the German people. Well, events have borne out every detail of that judgment. Nobody can any longer doubt that it is for the furtherance of that tortuous policy that the Kaiser and his advisers have plunged humanity into the most horrible war of modern times, and shaken the very foundations of civilization."
"The truth is," wrote Dr. Dillon, in 1911, "in this country we fail utterly to fathom the German psyche just as in the Fatherland they misunderstand the workings of the national British soul. What is meanwhile clear enough is that the peace of Europe is at the mercy of well-armed, restless, ill-balanced Germany; that treaties possess no binding or deterrent force, and that friendly conduct on the part of Great Britain or France has no propitiatory effect. Brute force is the only thing that counts, and henceforth the peace Powers must store it up at all costs."
THIRST FOR COLONIES.
"What has now moved Germany to steep the elite of the nations of the human race in horrors unprecedented in the annals of war? Greed for overseas colonies and for such paramount power in Europe as would enable her to secure what she wants without the sacrifice of a man or a mark. This thirst for colonies and for power I described as fully and as confidently as though the sinister events of the past few weeks had already revealed them."

"Germany," I wrote (January 1912), "would fain get wealthy colonies without the sacrifice of money and blood, but she is bent on getting them, cost what they may. And that is one of the main factors which it behoves us to bear in mind. Another is that in the pursuit of her aims she deems all means good. Success is the unique test. 'You can expect forgiveness for a breach of faith only from a foe worsted on the battlefield,' says a latter day German aphorism."
ELBOW ITS WAY.
"I asked my readers (in 1911) 'to weigh well the maxims which the German Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg, whom many of our people esteemed as a peace apostle and a Peacemaker, laid down as indisputable. 'Strength,' he publicly declared, 'is a condition of a peaceful disposition. The old maxim has not yet lost its force that the weak become the prey of the strong. If a nation will not or cannot spend so much on its armaments that it can elbow its way through the world, it falls back into the second row. There will always be another, a stronger, one in readiness to take its place in the world. Peace is parchment, steel alone is force.' That," I added, "is the gospel preached by Herr von Bethmann Hollweg."
SLAV V. TEUTON.
"Coming to recent events Dr. Dillon says, 'On Friday, July 24, 1914, I telegraphed from Vienna: 'It is a great mistake to suppose, as most people do, that the dispute between the two States turns upon the dastardly crime which befell the Hapsburg Monarchy of its Herr-Apparent and his Consort. That revolting misdeed is at most only the occasion; the real causes lie much deeper. Stripping the matter of its diplomatic character, the differences between Austria-Hungary and Serbia as the first symptoms of a gigantic struggle, which is bound to make itself felt throughout Europe between Slavs and Teutons."
"This is no mere dispute about territorial expansion, political designs, or commercial advantages," said Dr. Dillon in April, 1914. "It is a ruthless struggle for mastery in all domains of national and international existence, which, so far as one can now see, may at most be retarded by diplomatic goodwill on both sides, but can hardly be settled with finality by any treaty or convention."
"Austria's plight was truly desperate, and Germany was resolved to make that the ostensible cause for the war which would render herself mistress of Europe, thrust France into the position of a fourth-class Power, and reduce Great Britain to the role of a German satellite. The assassination of the Archduke offered a splendid pretext."
THE KAISER KNEW.
"The circumstance came to my knowledge as a fact, not as a supposition or as an inference, that the Kaiser himself was kept informed of the various phases of the Austro-Serbian answer, that the ultimatum was laid before him in the rough draft, and that, having read it, he made a suggestion to sharpen it which was approved and adopted. That it was which strangled the slender hopes I had entertained of a diplomatic compromise or a localised war. It is worth noting that the Berlin Government had 'no communication of the text' of the ultimatum from the Austrian Foreign Office. Consequently, Italy, it was thought, could not complain if she, too, were not consulted. Spendiwe and Jorkins were again playing their wonted game. The Kaiser was initiated, but not his Government.

A PRETEXT.
"There can be little doubt in the mind of an unbiased outsider," concludes Dr. Dillon, "that the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand was fastened upon Germany as a favorable pretext for obliterating Serbia from the list of independent States, inflicting upon Russia an intolerable humiliation, giving a set-back to Slavdom generally, and establishing the hegemony of the Teuton in Europe."
"These were the prizes to gain which the German people had been compelled to offer up tremendous sacrifices for thirty-five years; and to secure them now was the object of the Kaiser's apparently sudden and striding spirit of aggressiveness."
"If the facts before us justified our declaration of war with Germany on August 4, how much more have lurid facts since that day justified us, and shown us the abyss into which we were being led.
The past is lit up by to-day, and men wonder that, having eyes, they were too blind to see.
More Fires.
Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percis Johnson would provide for you this desired security at a small expense. Have you enough insurance?

REPORT.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in the Court House Wednesday, Sept. 9th, Mr. Thompson presiding. The large gathering including friends from Clarke's Beach and the Goulds, was the best testimony of the patriotism of our women. After an interesting address on the War by the Rev. E. K. Caldwell, Mr. Thompson brought the object of the meeting before the women which resulted in forming a Branch of the Women's Patriotic Association. Mrs. J. P. Thompson was elected President, Mrs. Caldwell 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Hy. Chafe 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Charles Jerrett Treasurer, Emma G. Bartlett Secretary. Committees were formed and volunteers offered to canvass the town and outside places—over $158 being collected by them. Much interest has been centred in the Sewing Class and we are pleased to be able to report good progress.
EMMA G. BARTLETT, Secretary.

Coat of Mail Falls To Save Von Moltke.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The son of Count von Moltke, the German Chief of Staff, whose death was announced yesterday, was killed in the battle of Esternay, according to La Liberte to-day. Young Von Moltke wore a coat of mail beneath his tunic, but the top of his head was blown off by a shell. For several days before the battle he lived in the local Presbytery. Several times daily, it was said, he would point his revolver at the priest's head, threatening to shoot him at the slightest sign of treachery.
When he ate, Von Moltke always had his pistol on the table within easy reach, and guards were posted at all the doors and windows of his bedroom while he slept.

Kaiser Planned

TO SEIZE ALL FRENCH OFFICIALS, SAYS PARIS.

Paris, Sept. 24.—Gomez Carillo, the Paris correspondent of the Madrid Liberal, affirms that he says is "indisputable authority" that the Kaiser's plan after taking Paris was to capture President Poincaré and his Ministers, the British and Russian Ambassadors, and the presidents of the Senate and Chamber.
Further, it was to seize all bank directors, to place an embargo on the Bank of France and detain numerous prominent men.
Next was the confiscation of the public debt, and all in order to coerce the French people into favoring Germany's peace terms.
This accomplished, an army of 600,000 was to keep order in East and North France, while twenty-five army corps were to be thrown against Russia.
The German plan then was to arrive at Petrograd by the end of September or the middle of October.
The Spanish correspondent adds that so confident was the Kaiser of German victory at the battle of the Marne that he drew up a message of congratulation to his people before the struggle.
Carved wood buttons and buckles will be used on the new cloth suits. The rippled chevrot is one of the most attractive of the new materials. Bead fringe is used to border the tunics of dance frocks of sheer material.

Feature Films at the Nickel to-day.

Mary Fuller, the beautiful actress of the Edison Co., will appear at the Nickel Theatre to-day in the strong social drama in two reels: "Alexia's Strategy." The story deals with two bank clerks who are rivals for the hand of the President's daughter. To win her one alters the other's books and steals an amount of money. The evidence is strong against the innocent one and he is convicted but the girl clears him. The acting is perfect, and patrons are certain to be pleased with it.

"Broncho Billy" Anderson is featured in a splendid Western drama: "The Struggle."

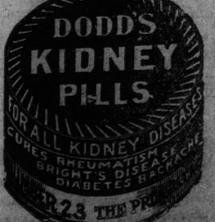

"Objections Over-Ruled" is a very funny farce comedy by the Biograph artists. The Vitagraph Company offers a beautiful love story entitled: "The Sacrifice." "Our Children" is a comedy drama by the Keystone Co.

Mr. De Witt C. Cairns sang "The Sands of the Desert" last night and won great applause.

There will be a special matinee for children to-morrow with extra pictures.

Wedding Bells.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Deanery, St. Patrick's, yesterday afternoon when Miss Gertrude Wadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wadden, Power St., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. J. J. Murphy, of the R. N. Co. The bride looked handsome in a gown of silk crepe lined with tulle and shadow lace, she was given away by her father and was attended by Miss Rose Lundregan, who was charmingly gowned in corset crepe with black picture hat, the duties of best man was ably performed by Mr.

They Who Wait.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Sickness and sleep? Then perhaps you will wonder with me, whether Leslie's night sufferings are not equalled by Margaret's the next day.

Sickness must have money. Margaret makes a good salary, but she has none of the luxuries which to the other business women of her class, are compensation for the pleasures of domestic life. She cannot even save for her old age.

And last, but by no means least, Margaret loves Leslie very deeply. And that means she suffers the constant ache of anxiety.

Leslie is at the hospital, in an atmosphere of care and solicitude, flowers and tenderness. Margaret stays at home, lonely and anxious. Leslie faces death to be sure, but Margaret faces life.

Understand I do not grudge the Leslies of this world their need of sympathy. But I demand more for the Margarets.

There are some compensations for illness. It gives the invalid the center of the stage; it surrounds him with an atmosphere of tenderness and solicitude; it gives him the right to be tyrannical without fear of reproach; if he be sufficiently ill, he acquires a sort of halo. The friendship of his friends grows infinitely enmity of his enemies cannot come nigh him.

But tell me where are the compensations of having someone who you love sick? They do not exist.

And that is why when I go to a home where there is illness, I try to remember to give plenty of sympathy and attention to those who only stand and wait.

Fate and a Dance

Challoner, the newcomer at the Inn, paid little attention to the remaining guests. He was politely indifferent to the few to whom he had been introduced. During the day, he would disappear for hours at a time for rambling alone, or would take his pipe and a book and paddle up the river alone in a canoe.

Marian was not flattered that he paid but scant attention to her, consisting now and then of a nod of recognition in the dining room, or of a formal bow and some perfunctory remark if he chanced to pass her in or about the Inn. Yet she was thankful for this indifference, for the unprecedented magnetic excitement to which she was stirred when he was near persisted, and she was afraid of really knowing this man.

She contrasted his peculiar effect upon her with that of other men she had known, including that of Frank, her former husband. She knew that wholly novel depths were being sounded, and that no man had ever affected her the way Challoner did. She could never understand nor define it. It baffled and bewildered her. She knew that if he were to vanish and never come within her sight again, she would nevertheless remember him vividly. Certain personalities have a way of attaching themselves to the memory like barnacles, clinging thereto on through the years, while others which were once intimately familiar, dissolve at length and are gone.

It was not ordained, however, that this man was to slip out of her life and assume the aspect of a mere memory. Fate, or whatever it was that had made their paths converge to Plaefid Inn, was busily engaged in constructing an entirely different pattern of events. Had either of them been able to lift the curtain and peer into the future, it is probable that each would have fled in a different direction.

One evening there was an informal dance at the Inn. Marian had been planning to go to her room and work right after dinner. But the lure of dance music held her, and she whirled off into a bit of tangoing with young Dale. After that McCarens was on hand begging for a dance. Later, seeing old Wiley, the woman-hater, standing by and watching the dancers, Marian could not resist the temptation of challenging him to a dance. This last completed, she started for her work.

"Not going are you, Miss Wintrop?" demanded a quiet voice.

Marian turned, to find herself looking into the gray, commanding eyes of Challoner. This time the eyes were smiling gravely.

"I have a pile of work to do to-night," she answered.

"Then I shan't detain you," he replied. "I thought you might care to dance."

The music struck up at this point. Her senses strangely a-whirl, Marian answered: "I'll be glad to dance again, thank you."

It was anything but what she had intended to say. His indifference had irritated her like the feel of a whip. That, and a sudden desire to see and know more of this man, had made her reply bound to her lips. And with an abruptness that almost startled her, she found herself moving across the floor in his arms.

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company,
Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly,

Patriotic Concert Another Success.

The entertainment in aid of the Women's Patriotic Fund, was repeated at the Casino Theatre last evening to another full house. The entertainment was in every respect an enjoyable one, and the spirit of patriotism was everywhere present. The programme, which has already been published, was divided into two parts, the first consisting of patriotic songs, choruses, recitations, and national dances, and the second part a series of lantern slides and exquisite tableaux. All the performers acquitted themselves very creditably, and were received with much applause. The special features, including the national dances, marching songs, and splendidly arranged tableaux were well received and the performance on the whole was full of patriotism and in every way successful. The ladies, under whose direction the affair was held, are to be congratulated on the success which crowned their efforts in the Empire cause.

After the betrothal it is perfectly natural to consider the HOME. The HOME is the important point in your married life. The cozier and the more comfortable the HOME, the happier are the conditions under which the couple lives. Let us furnish your Home as you want it. After the man has popped the question and the girl has said yes, then it's only a step to consideration of the Home; for the Home is in itself the biggest, most vital and most important part of the matrimonial venture.

When you come to this important consideration, bear in mind the big part this store has played in outfitting thousands of happy newlyweds. You will do better here than elsewhere. Why? Because we are the only people that have our Mattresses made by machinery in our own building, the only machines of its kind in the country. We also have our Springs made by the only weaver in the country, also the Oxford or Copper Wire. We are making our own ParLOUR Suites, thus saving considerable in cost. We have the Surface Oak finish for our furniture, which is the only thing of its kind here. Having the Factory in the same building we can handle all sizes of repairing, in fact you can choose your own coverings for ParLOUR Suite, Mattresses, etc., and have them made to order. We are, where possible, reducing the price, which should appeal to every housekeeper when in need of furniture. A trial order will convince.

Messages Received During the Night.

GERMAN ARMY MAKES NO PROGRESS.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 1. — Although the expectations of decisive news from the French battle front are not yet fulfilled, the official bulletins are still regarded in competent quarters here as satisfactory. The German army which crossed the Meuse between Verdun and Toul seems to have made no progress, and the uneshing which was at one time felt has disappeared in the belief that the Allies have strongly corked up the hole made at St. Mihiel. In the west progress is reported in the extension of the flank movement, though the sensational reports from Paris that the German right had broken, and that Von Kluck was thinking of surrendering, evidently outran the facts.

GENERAL SITUATION SATISFACTORY.

PARIS, Oct. 1. — The official announcement issued to-night says: This evening there is nothing of particular importance to describe except in the region of Roye on the French left wing, where a violent action has successfully turned in our favor, and in the Argonne where we have made progress at several new points. The general situation is satisfactory.

INDIAN TROOPS LANDED IN FRANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 1. — The War Information Bureau made it known to-day that Indian troops were landed in France last Friday at a point not stated, but it is presumed the troops disembarked at Marseilles.

COLOGNE IN A PANIC.

LONDON, Oct. 1. — The Copenhagen correspondent of the London News, wires that 60,000 wounded Germans have arrived at Cologne, and the great Exposition Building there has been transformed into a hospital, where the wounded are being cared for. Most of the wounded are victims of artillery duels that have been in progress for the last 17 days along the Aisne. In many instances they have been blown off by exploding shells. Cologne is in a panic, fearing raids by British aeroplanes. The city is also suffering from spy fever, and as many as 21 suspects have been shot in one day.

A LARGE NUMBER OF GERMANS KILLED AND WOUNDED.

ANTWERP, Oct. 1. — The Belgian troops in a series of successful sorties from the southern forts late to-day, captured a number of artillery and killed and wounded a large number of Germans. The Germans had been shelling the forts with a time and accordance with pre-arranged agreement, apparently ceased firing. The Germans

CREW LANDED.

CALLAO, Peru, Oct. 1. — The Kosmos steamer Marie arrived here to-day, with the crew of the British steamer Banksfields sent by the German cruiser Leipzig, off Eten, Peru. The crew of the Banksfields have appealed to the British Consul here in the hope of obtaining their liberty. The men said their ship carried a cargo of sugar valued at five million dollars. The Marie was followed into port by the German Anais, also of the Kosmos line.

CONTRABAND OF WAR.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — United States Ambassador Peck at London, to-day, cabled the State Department that the British Government intends to treat as conditional contraband of war the following: Copper, lead (pig, sheet or pipe), glycerine, hematite, iron ore, rubber, hides and skins, raw or rough tanned, not dressed leather.

THE BATTLE OF CRACOV.

VIENNA, Oct. 1. — The battle of Cracow began to-day when the advancing Russian army arrived at the outlying forts and attacked by combined German and Austrian armies. Indications are that the battle will be long drawn out and bitterly contested, as the Austro-German forces are strongly entrenched and well equipped.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR AND THE ROUMANIAN CABINET.

BERLIN, Oct. 1. — The German Ambassador at Bucharest held a lengthy conference with the Roumanian Cabinet to-day. It is understood he very frankly warned the Roumanian Government that any declaration of war or hostile acts against Austria would necessarily involve Germany. It is also announced here that Turkey to-day expelled from Turkish territory all correspondents of Russian newspapers.

FOREIGN OFFICE DENIES REPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 1. — The Foreign Office issued a statement to-night stating that the report published in London to-day saying that the situation between Turkey and Great Britain and the Allies was critical, was not authorized, and did not represent the views of the Government.

The Old Girls.

When man grows old and muscle-bound, and crippled by the load he's carried, it's pleasant then to look around, and see the girls he might have married. Some chance, that once conveyed a smart, prevented this or other wadding; ah, then he had a broken heart and found this life but weary sledding. But now, grown old and feeble, he gazes on many a dismal female relic, that he adored in other days, and thought enchanting and angelic. That matron with the shrewish tongue, who keeps her neighbourhood excited—she was a peach when she was young, and once with her my troth was plighted. And that old maid who loves her cat, and has of singing birds a covey, and who has grown absurdly fat—ah, once I called her "Lovey Dovey!" And yonder suffragist so grim, whose purpose is poor man's abasement; long since I sang a lover's hymn, on summer eves beneath her easement! I thank the destiny that shaped my course when I was young and giddy! Ah me, the perils I escaped, when I pursued the maid and widdy! I see old sweethearts in the town, as here I ride, my Ebenezer, and thank them that they turned me down, and handed me the ice cream freezer.

Capt. Connors Drowned Near Narrows.

The entire community was plunged into deep mourning yesterday evening when it became known that Captain Michael Connors, of the barquentine Gaspe, one of our best-known master mariners, was suddenly snatched almost within sight of his home.

The sad affair happened an hour after the Gaspe left this port for Pernambuco with a cargo of about five and a half thousand quintals of dry codfish, shipped by Messrs. James Baird, Ltd.

About three o'clock the vessel left here and was towed out the harbour by the tug John Green. After clearing the Narrows and when a distance of about a mile and a quarter at sea, the peak halyards began to run out. Capt. Connors, who was standing on the starboard side of the vessel, got his legs entangled in the lines of the halyards and was forced overboard. The vessel, which was going at the rate of three knots, was brought to a standstill by the tug. Almost every member of the Gaspe's crew knew right away what happened, except James Connors and a cabin boy, a brother of Capt. Connors, James, who was on the rigging was shouted to and he came to the deck hastily. Meanwhile Matt Doyle and another threw Capt. Connors a rope which he grasped and was drawn near the side of the vessel. The Captain could not swim. James, who could swim, pluckily jumped overboard and just reached his brother and caught hold of him when the latter, overcome by being such a heavy man together with the rope for several minutes, released his hold and sank under the stern of the vessel to rise no more. A seaman named Shanahan also jumped into the sea to try and rescue Capt. Connors but this attempt was also unsuccessful. In consequence of the tragedy the voyage was postponed and the vessel with her cargo towed to half mast, towed back to port where she will remain until a magisterial enquiry into the drowning is made.

Capt. Connors was born in Wilkes Bay and was much esteemed both as a citizen and in nautical circles. He was one of the finest seamen that Newfoundland could boast; besides he was a most popular master, especially noted for all the record trips that he made. In fact his last round trip voyage in the Gaspe was one of the quickest on record. He was connected with the firm of Baird's for fifteen years and during that time was master of the vessels Maggie, Galatia and Gaspe.

News of the sad drowning was broken by Rev. Dr. Greene last evening to Mrs. Connors who was almost inconsolable over her husband's sad ending. Besides a widow deceased is survived by the three children who will have consolation in the fact that their breadwinner lost his life at duty's post. To the bereaved family general and sincere sympathies will be offered and in which the Telegram joins.

Colors Presented to Mld. Regiment.

Yesterday afternoon the presentation of the S.O.E. Ensign to the 71st Mld. Regiment, took place in the presence of a large concourse of people. The presentation was made by Lieut.-Colonel His Excellency Sir Walter C. Davidson, K.C.M.G., who was attended by Capt. Goodwin, A.D.C. At 3 o'clock the Volunteers marched in company from the camp to the place opposite where the ceremony was to take place. A S.O.E. deputation then asked the Regiment through His Excellency the Governor, to accept the handsome silken banner, which was won by the Newfoundland Sons of England for their meritorious work in Society Street, St. John's, Nfld., P.G.D. made a brief address pointing out what prompted the presentation. Several of the hon. officers and members of the Order were present with Mr. Lloyd, His Excellency the Governor followed and delivered an inspiring speech. His Excellency emphasized the fact that they were going forth to defend the British Empire and to uphold the traditions and dignity of Newfoundland. They were to remember that they were soldiers of the King and as such they were to keep the sacred trust placed in them and to strive to the utmost to guard the nation's interests. Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris also addressed the Regiment assuring them of the sympathy of the Colony. He predicted for them a successful campaign and felt that they would add a page to the Colony's history, of which the coming generations will feel proud. The Color Guard, consisting of Sergeants Taylor and Steele, Corporals Shortall, Cliff, Newman and Oke, under command of Lieut. R. H. Taft, then advanced and His Excellency committed the colors to their keeping, saying that they were to defend it with their lives, that wherever it was they should ever be, it was the emblem of their patriotism, around which they should rally to a victory that would bring credit to their King and their country. After the battalion had marched past, the officers were presented to their Lieut.-Colonel, who addressed them also, expressing the pride he felt in the Regiment. He urged the officers to preserve unshaken their reputation as gentlemen, and to do nothing that would alienate the loyalty of their men from them, to act as true leaders that when in a tight place the men would follow without hesitation, and at all times to set an example to the men that would preserve the honor and honor of the Colony. The battalion, after returning to Camp spent the afternoon with their friends.

BUY MATCHES

Made in Newfoundland by Newfoundlanders.

Abram Lincoln, President of the U. S. A., once said:—

"I do not know much about the tariff, but I do know this much: when we buy goods abroad, we get the goods and the foreigner gets the money; when we buy goods made at home, we get both the goods and the money."

This may be a hard winter for our Colony, keep your money at home; buy Matches made in Newfoundland. Matches that are the Best, Cheapest and most suitable for Home, Woods and Vessel.

The state of war makes our winters none the less severe. In making your old suit or overcoat do for the winter may be false economy. Protect your body from the warring elements by ordering one of our Heavy-weight Overcoatings. Owing to general depression in woollens we were enabled to buy in a splendid variety at a considerably reduced figure. Also a very fine range of Winter Suitings. Write for samples and self-measuring cards, as we guarantee results.
