THIRTEENTH YEAR. CANADA'S RAILWAY SERVICE.

IT PROMISES TO BE THE GREATEST ISSUE THIS SESSION.
Will the G. P. R. Acquire the Intercontinental Road?—It could be used as a means to establish the West Atlantic Service. The Maritime Members Not in Accord With This Deal.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—According to what one begins to hear in the corridors from those who are supposed to know, the railway question promises to be a greater issue than any other this session. The observers of the signs begin to see something in the wind, and they are making forecasts accordingly.

Among the signs observed is first and foremost the proposal that the Canadian Pacific should acquire the Intercontinental Railway, which cost some $60,000,000 and includes over 1100 miles of railway.

This proposal has not as yet come direct from Mr. Van Horne, or any other representative of the C.P.R., but it has been rather faintly put forward, and is likely, so it is said, to be fathered by the C.P.R. management as an early date.

Another sign that the observers notice is the attitude of the Toronto Globe, and of Mr. Robert Jeffrey and his fellow-directors, on that journal, who until recently were active promoters of Grand Trunk schemes. But from the day that they completed their deal with the Grand Trunk by the Midland Railroad becoming an integral portion of the Grand Trunk system, it has been apparent that they had taken service in the cause of the C.P.R.

The West Atlantic Service.
At any rate, the Globe has been preparing for some time the creation of a fast Atlantic service and then the acquisition of the Intercontinental by the C.P.R. in order to complete the fast service by proper railway connection.

Mr. Van Horne has made no uncertain deliverance in regard to the fast Atlantic service, for that was his main topic at the Board of Trade banquet a few weeks ago in Toronto.

The foregoing is pretty clearly understood and accepted as likely to come before Parliament in some shape or other. But the observers go still further and say that Mr. Van Horne does not want the Intercontinental as a complement to his fast Atlantic service, so much as he wants to use it as a means of raising further capital for C.P.R. purposes.

The observers already quoted go so far as to say that the C.P.R. has a large sum of money, running up into the millions, at an early date, in order to build the fast Atlantic service, and to reconstruct their main line in a thoroughly permanent way from end to the other.

A large portion of the work, so they say, at the present time is of a temporary or wooden character, and fast reaching the end of its usefulness. It is the opinion of the C.P.R. that it can raise money on the Intercontinental. The answer is that if they once acquire it they could build that road for $20,000,000 or perhaps more, which would produce in net money anything from fifteen to twenty million dollars. It must be the same way they have issued stock, not bonds, on all the smaller lines which they have bought or acquired and made a portion of their great system.

Of course if there is anything like this in the wind, it will make a great commotion among the Maritime members of the Board of Trade, especially in the Maritime Provinces, and in Ontario and Quebec to a lesser degree.

The Maritime members are very free in expressing the opinion that they will not consent to any change of form to the Intercontinental passing out of the hands of the Dominion Government, especially now that the Hon. Mr. Haggart, Minister of Railways, has got it down nearly to the self-sustaining point, and who promises to introduce still further economies without increasing rates.

American Antagonism.
Just now the C.P.R. is the object of very bitter attack in New York and other American papers, and it is the great transatlantic rivals in the United States. The bitterness of these attacks appears to the New York Times, at least, to be at its height, and it is just what the rumors that are now being circulated here in regard to the intentions of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and given for what they are worth as above, have had their source in the same quarter. It may be that the C.P.R. is simply about to Parliament to ask for a substantial annual subsidy to enable them to build their fast Atlantic service and to secure running privileges over the I.C.R.

Such a proposal will no doubt receive very favorable consideration in the House, as the Maritime members rather desire to see liberal running privileges over the Intercontinental given to the C.P.R., as that would both increase the earnings of the road and its usefulness to their provinces.

DOWN IN QUEBEC.
C.P.R. Officials Are Talking Fast Atlantic Service.
QUEBEC, Jan. 28.—Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Mr. George Price, the company's architect, are in town on business connected with the new Canadian Pacific hotel in course of construction and also with the erection of the grain elevators.

THOUGHT HE WAS BEING "HELD UP." A Drunken Man With a Revolver Creates a Panic in a York-street Second-Hand Store.

Jack Daly is again incarcerated in the cells at headquarters, and on a rather serious charge too. Jack went off on one of his periodical "toots" Saturday, and during the day purchased a revolver presumably from a York-street dealer.

He filled the chambers with cartridges, but after investing in some more liquor he sized up his pile, and ascertained that it was diminishing at an alarming rate. Fearing of running short before the time had arrived when he could bring his spree to a successful termination, he resolved to regain the money with which he had purchased the revolver. Being slightly befuddled with the fumes of the liquor he had already put under his belt Jack mistook the store wherein he had made his purchase and in mistake entered Grossman's second-hand store in York-street.

Lurching up to the counter he produced the revolver and mumbled out some inarticulate phrases about his money. Grossman once jumped to the conclusion that he was to be the first victim of the gang of desperadoes which is at present making this city its headquarters, and deserting his post rapidly from the store and, gesticulating wildly with his arms, ran down the centre of the street shouting for assistance.

P. C. Dick Doda, hearing the cry for aid, hastened up and listening to the tale of Grossman's speech, expected to catch the gang red-handed while in the act of looting the place. Judge of his disgust and astonishment when he found no one but poor Jack Daly there in a maudlin state.

SOCIETY AT OTTAWA.
A Brilliant Drawing-Room in the Sen Chamber.

Ottawa, Jan. 29.—The drawing-room held by His Excellency and Lady Stanley in the Senate Chamber last evening is generally acknowledged to have been the most brilliant assembly seen in Ottawa for some years. Perhaps it was to be attributed to the fact that it was the last occasion on which members of Parliament and Ottawa society generally would have an opportunity of paying their respects to Lord and Lady Stanley, who have for five years dispensed such generous hospitality at Rideau Hall and so ably represented Her Majesty there.

Perhaps it was because of Sir John Thompson's first appearance as Premier, and that in the exercise of that function he had the right to his Excellency's right bow, so to speak—clothed in the handsome diplomatic dress of the first order and wearing the Order of St. Michael and St. George, that his numerous followers and admirers showed by their presence that they wished to emphasize the occasion.

Perhaps it was for some other reason, but whatever was the cause the effect was the same, and the result was the most brilliant and largest gathering which has graced the red chamber for at least five years. The reception commenced promptly at 8.30 and lasted for an hour and a quarter, during which time 277 ladies and 240 gentlemen made their bows to the host and hostess. After that there were receptions in the parlors of the Speakers of the Senate and the House of Commons, and in the grand hall, and the whole entertainment was over by 10.30.

The Ministers present in official dress were: Sir John Thompson, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. John Gait, Hon. John Carling, Hon. A. R. Laurier, Hon. Frank Smith, Hon. J. C. Patterson, Hon. W. B. Evans and Hon. T. M. Dwyer.

Quite a large number of Toronto ladies were present, amongst them being Miss M. Meredith, Mrs. F. C. Denison, Mrs. W. F. Macleay, Mrs. James Macleay, Mrs. G. C. D. Maza, Miss Torrance and others.

The Debate on the Address.
Hon. Mr. Laurier arrived to-day, quite recovered from his recent indisposition, and the debate on the address will therefore go on to-morrow in both Commons and Senate. In the Commons it is to be held at 3.30, and will be pushed through with only the usual speeches from the mover and seconder and the leaders of the Government and Opposition. But in the Senate the debate is in a more dignified and stately way, and it is quite possible that the debate may be prolonged for two or three days.

Honor to Whom it is Due.
The members of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club had their annual dinner at Webb's restaurant dining hall Friday evening last, and it was a great success in every respect, and a royal dinner in every sense of the word. The champagne they drank. The wine card was headed with the celebrated brand "Cuvée de Réserve Dry." Next came "Pommery Sec" followed by "Gold Label Sec." "Duc du Montebello" and "Cuvée de Réserve" but the last three brands no show except on the cards. The guests were thought to have "royal" wine only did justice to "G. H. Munam Extra Dry" by giving it the place of honor on the list, a royal dinner in every sense of the word.

The Importations of this celebrated wine to America are shown from the customs of New York: Champagne entered in that port from Jan. 1, 1902, to Dec. 31, 1902, as follows: "G. H. Munam" Extra Dry, 65,780 cases; "Mummery Sec," 39,459 cases; "Gold Label Sec," 241 cases.

A Stupendous Magistrate Wanted.
The County Council of Haliburton have again petitioned the Ontario Government to appoint a stipendiary magistrate for that county, without any name being recommended for the position. Two years ago they asked to have Mr. Delancey appointed Police Magistrate, but the nominee of the Council not wearing the same kind of spectacles as the Hon. Sir Oliver Mowat nothing was done in the matter.

IT IS A PERMANENT DANGER. AND THE GERMAN ARMY BILL IS A NECESSITY.

Caprivi Again Talks About War—The Navy To Be Strengthened—Significance of the Carzewitch's Visit—Cordiality All on the Side of Emperor William—An Awkward Mishap.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Chancellor von Caprivi once more appeared before the committee and spoke in favor of the bill, arguing that it is approved in its entirety. He is sure, he said, and intended to avert a momentary danger of an acute nature. It aimed to make suitable provision for a state of things which he must describe as presenting a permanent danger. The Federal Government, he added, were strongly of the opinion that the country was in a position to bear the burdens that the Ministers sought to lay upon it. The Chancellor declared that when the situation became clearly apparent the Government would be able to find the support of the people.

Dr. Lieber reaffirmed that it was impossible for his party to concede more than it had already done, whereas the Chancellor curtly closed the discussion by expressing the hope that a consideration of the clause of the bill would convince the Contrists of the necessity of supporting the measure.

The members of the committee in conversation in the lobby, subsequent to the Chancellor's speech, concurred in the opinion that his words announced an approval to the country if the bill was not passed by the Reichstag.

New Credits for the Navy.
The Budget Committee of the Reichstag is rapidly voting the new credits for the navy under the impulse of Chancellor von Caprivi's declaration that there is a coalition of the fleets of France, Russia and Denmark.

Herr Hanke, a member of the Reichstag, made a powerful impression upon the committee by his statement that, despite the declarations of the Danish Foreign Minister in which the German Government had had reason to believe that Denmark in the event of war would make common cause with Russia and Great Britain.

Though the reception of the Carzewitch is not likely to modify the grouping of the powers, nevertheless, an approval to the French party is a decidedly temporary check. Despatches received from St. Petersburg testify to a marked change in the tone of the semi-official press toward Germany. The Government Messenger announces that on the occasion of the semi-official reception to the Emperor William the Carzewitch Gen. von Werder, the German Ambassador, Major de Jena, Military Attaché of the German Embassy, to the Antiochko Palace. During the course of the interview the Carzewitch made reference to the good-will existing between the courts of St. Petersburg and Berlin. Furthermore, the Journal de St. Petersburg publishes a communication expressing the satisfaction of the highest court circles at the manner in which the Carzewitch was welcomed to Berlin. The paper adds that in yesterday's despatches from Berlin, Russian newspapers made it their business to emphasize the health of the Carzewitch given by the Alexander regiment in honor of the Carzewitch, in which he received the same terms to the traditions of friendship uniting the two imperial families, of which the Carzewitch is a member.

The fresh report of Emperor William's words, the paper concludes, have been hailed with sincere rejoicing by all the friends of peace.

One-Sided Cordiality.
The significance of this semi-official language appears to be over-estimated by the official circle here, and to-night's reports are current that the Carzewitch has given Emperor William and Chancellor von Caprivi his personal address, and that he would use his influence against an alliance between Russia and France. The impression that the Carzewitch had made on the members of the Imperial Household who came in contact with him during his visit to the Emperor and the Emperor's family, is a matter of course, and is not to be regarded by the semi-official press. The closest observers say that the cordiality was all on the side of the Emperor and his family, and that the Carzewitch was not a very formal politeness. The Carzewitch is known to detest Republican France, but his attitude toward the Emperor and his family is one of the highest German personages around him.

The Carzewitch's Visit.
The significance of the Carzewitch's visit is a mystery to many persons, and it is to be noted that the visit is an international importance such as is attributable to no diplomatic event since the Kronstadt demonstration. The majority, however, incline to the opinion that the relations between Germany and Russia will remain substantially unaltered and that the visit is a matter of the atmosphere in which the houses of Hohenzollern and Romanoff move, the change of courtesy and the Carzewitch's Russian sovereigns have seldom allowed family matters to determine state policy, and Alexander's visit to the Emperor is a matter of course, and is not to be regarded by the semi-official press.

A Brilliant Reception.
The grand reception held after the marriage of Princess Margaret was the most brilliant of the past week's festivities. It was held in the White Hall of the Royal Castle. During the ceremony of filing past the throne an awkward mishap occurred. A lady in waiting to Princess Henry, in bowing, leaned over so far that she lost her balance and fell into the basin of the fount. She was speedily helped to rise and was found to be uninjured.

The Wedding Festivities.
The splendor of the wedding celebration has been the subject of general congratulation. The Radical editors, however, have found an unusual occasion for criticism. A scorching dance is regarded by them as not becoming the dignity of state ministers. Persons who were present at the ridiculous ceremony by a guarantee at court describe as highly ridiculous the spectacle of 11 elderly and dignified statesmen, clad in short tail trousers parading with enormous wax tapers in their hands.

Personnel who were grouped under the canopy of the throne, and the other guests were ranged along the sides, and the procession moved as a funeral procession, the room being filled with the smoke of the candles. Prince Frederick Charles of Hesse and his bride walking in the rear.

The ministers stopped before the throne, the bride invited the Emperor to dance and the march was repeated, when the bridegroom led the Emperor through the same ceremony.

This dreary farce was continued until the bride had danced with all the princes and the bridegroom had danced with all the princesses. There was so much protest at the moment during these ridiculous performances and it was with expressions of relief that the dancing statesmen delivered their papers to the bridegroom who escorted the bride to the altar.

The Uik, a comic periodical, has made the dreary subject of the Carzewitch visit a deputation of the unemployed at the door of the Ministry of Commerce listening to the printer's explanation that Herr Von Berlepach cannot receive them because he is taking a lesson in torchlight dancing.

The deceased felt not the slightest pain from his rash act until Thursday, when he was taken ill with inflammation of the bowels and died in less than 24 hours.

THE WIDOW OF P. D. CONGER NOW SINGING HER SECOND HUSBAND FOR ALLMONY.

The Plaintiff the Well-Known Author of "A Daughter of St. Peter's," Mrs. James Clark Allen, of Cornwall, formerly Mrs. P. D. Conger of Belleville, and the Defendant is Dr. William Cox Allen, her husband, who is at present collector of customs at Fort McLeod.

A writ in a suit for alimony has just been issued which will attract much attention. The plaintiff in the case is Mrs. James Clark Allen, of Cornwall, formerly Mrs. P. D. Conger of Belleville, and the defendant is Dr. William Cox Allen, her husband, who is at present collector of customs at Fort McLeod, in Alberta. The plaintiff asks for $100 a month. Mrs. Allen is well-to-do in Toronto. Her former husband, the late P. D. Conger, for several years carried on a large coal business in this city. At his death he left his widow a comfortable income.

Some time in Nov. of 1890, while visiting friends in Cornwall, she met Dr. Allen, a well-to-do young man, who was a friend, and in consequence of his residence at Fort McLeod he pressed a speedy wedding, which accordingly took place at Belleville on Dec. 11 of the same year.

After a protracted honeymoon, they journeyed westward to their future home. Their domestic relations do not seem to have been of the most pleasant nature, and after a short time the wife returned to her home in Belleville. The plaintiff makes several claims, accusing her husband of neglecting her, and of failing to provide for her maintenance.

The defendant in the suit is a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and has been a resident of Canada several years. He is now mayor of Cornwall for 10 years and was, although still vigorous and well preserved, some weeks ago he had Morgan & Co. of Montreal bring action against him on an account of $187.58 for goods bought during their honeymoon. He was defeated in the suit.

The plaintiff was formerly a Miss Bogart of Belleville and is a cousin of Ex-Gov. St. Peter's. She is a well-to-do woman, and has a considerable reputation as an authoress. Her book entitled "A Daughter of St. Peter's" received much favorable comment. She is now engaged in a work entitled "Corral in the Northwest." She frequently contributed to the local press, and has written a number of articles for the "Home of the Mariner."

The plaintiff is 42 years of age, while the defendant is a man somewhat her senior, although still vigorous and well preserved.

WORK FOR THE NATIONAL GUARD. WANTED, AT ONCE, A CLUE.

Another Strike Over the Border that Bothers the Militia to Aid the Employers Against the Workmen.

DUNKIRK, N.Y., Jan. 28.—At 4 o'clock this morning Sheriff James of Chautauque County came to the conclusion that the strike at the Brooks Locomotive Works had become so serious as to warrant his calling on Brig. General Doyle for troops. A telegram was accordingly sent to Gen. Doyle asking him for military assistance, and a reply was received stating that the 13th Separate Company of Janesville had been ordered under arms, and would proceed to Dunkirk this morning.

The message also stated that additional troops would be sent here from Buffalo. There is intense excitement here tonight and trouble of the most serious character is anticipated.

The Brooks people evidently intend to bring in a force of men sufficient to run the works, and in view of the fact that the strikers have threatened to prevent the operations the troops have been asked for. The streets are filled with people anxiously awaiting the expected trouble.

The depot swarms with men, while crossings in the suburbs are closely watched. The call for State troops by Sheriff James to protect the Brooks Co. makes the strikers here very angry, and which the Brooks officials then called an illegal matter, now a very serious affair.

Assigned Inhuman Treatment.
The strike was caused by the riveters in the boiler department refusing to work under two contractors named Kane and McKim, alleging inhuman treatment on the part of the two contractors. They left the works without stating their grievances, which were presented elsewhere, and which the Brooks officials then called an illegal matter, now a very serious affair.

President Hinman says that this was done as a precautionary measure to guard against an emergency, but hopes it will not arise.

Two of the new men were sent outside the enclosure of the works and were set upon and severely handled. The call for troops has caused much excitement, and the people fear that Dunkirk may be turned into a second Homestead.

Ready to Move.
BUFFALO, Jan. 29.—Gov. Fox of this city is holding the 74th Regiment under orders from Brig. Gen. Doyle, ready to proceed to the scene of the strike at Dunkirk at an hour's notice.

Sergeant Major Stuart returned from Dunkirk to-night, where he had been sent by Col. Fox to investigate the situation. He reported that the strikers were quiet, and that there were no indications of violence against persons or property.

February Will Undoubtedly Be a Cold Month—Preparations in Order.
Saturday's temperature was slightly higher than we have had lately, but still not so high as the fact that the day of this is a habit of a frosty day disagreeably rude when melted.

These robberies are surprisingly like those committed in Elgin and Middlesex, 10 years ago, by a gang of which Albert Wrightman was the ringleader. The members of the gang were all young men under 21, and numerous post-mortems were held at the point of the revolver by masked men. The last post-mortem raid was that at Middlesex. Grant Silcock, a post-mortem, resisted and was struck on the head with a counter weight by one of the burglars and killed. Wrightman was tried for the murder at London, and although a young son of the murdered man, who was in the store at the time of the murder, swore he recognized "Al" through the mask, Wrightman escaped conviction. He was taken to St. Thomas and tried for a masked robbery at Java Station, was fully identified by Postmaster Campbell and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment. He was released on parole yesterday, after the expiration of his term. It might not be a bad idea for Inspector Stark to trace Wrightman's movements since he has been released.

These shadowy suspects.
During the past two days every detective on the force has been engaged on the case. The rogues' picture gallery at Headquarters has many new additions. It shows a freshen their memories of faces, the station and hotels have been haunted, and every stranger coming within the category of "Al" has been questioned. Wrightman's picture has been compiled to give an account of his movements and his reason for being in the city.

ONE CENT

WILL YOU TRACE OF THE QUARTET OF BURGLARS.
The Whole Town Stirred Up Over the Affair—Every Detective in the City on a Hunt for the Gang, but Without the Slightest Result—Where Will They Strike Next?

The news of the attempted robbery of the office of the Home Savings & Loan Co. Saturday threw the whole town in a state of intense alarm. The two previous daylight robberies had created some excitement, but the jobs were set down to a local gang more daring than usual. The robbery of Saturday, however, negated this solution of the riddle altogether, and although the members of the detective force have brought all their intelligence to bear upon the problem nothing has come of it thus far but headaches and the admission that the exercise of a little common sense by the general public would prevent an opportunity being given for the commission of the crime.

Up to the present time no less than nine persons have observed these thieves, but singular to say not one of the lot can give the detectives the slightest description of them. Every gang of thieves have their own particular methods, and a thief is often able to pounce on the person wanted, even when no description can be supplied. The police officers by this gang do not fit any of the local "mobs," however, and the detectives are therefore satisfied that the robbery was committed from the other side of the line.

Not Professional Bank Sneaks.
That they are not professional bank "sneaks" is self-evident, for while the police officers have been hunting for a gang of thieves, the police officers have been hunting for a gang of thieves, the police officers have been hunting for a gang of thieves.

They adopt the best of all disguises, a well-to-do citizen, and depend on a success of mind rather than pistol. In their business the lines are sharply drawn respecting the kinds of criminality in which a gentleman is engaged. They are not professional bank sneaks, requiring great ingenuity and daring, and with the expectation of gains in proportion to the risk. Their work is a simple matter, and the police officers have been hunting for a gang of thieves.

That the visitors to the banking office knew their business, however, it shows the courage and determination they exhibited, and the careful manner in which they proceeded, and the fact that they had an intimate knowledge of the premises visited. Whether it was their masks—or it is certain that they "muffled" the men were specially constructed rubber-lined face masks—their stealthy tread or the feeling that the eyes of the men were not directed ready for use if necessary, or all of these concomitants combined, which made the robbery so successful, is a matter of indifference. The absence of the officials' part of sufficient presence of mind to seize a stool and dash it through a front window is creditable in view of the fact that gang of this ilk have a habit of always being disagreeably rude when melted.

These robberies are surprisingly like those committed in Elgin and Middlesex, 10 years ago, by a gang of which Albert Wrightman was the ringleader. The members of the gang were all young men under 21, and numerous post-mortems were held at the point of the revolver by masked men. The last post-mortem raid was that at Middlesex. A MEAN EPIDEMIC.

It is Cholera Morbus, Cold, Fever and Grippe combined, the Scurvy Intense. An epidemic has descended upon this city, and has caused enough pain and ache to drive the citizens into temporary insanity.

The quickest relief is gained by applying a mustard plaster to the stomach, and drinking warm water and mustard to ease the strain in retching.

Other physicians state that the impure water in general use is the cause of the epidemic. But they say water cannot be purified of causing catarrh and other ailments ascribable to cold, even if it might have the effect of creating an epidemic of stomach complaint.

THE CIVIL ASSESSOR. An Insurance Claim to Be Settled Out of Court by Arbitration.

The Assize Court held a short session Saturday, adjourning at noon until Monday at 10 o'clock.

The case of Skinner v. the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company was the first case taken up.

The plaintiff claims $214.80 for loss suffered by the fire on May 19 last. For the defence the plea is entered that the amount claimed is in excess of the damage sustained.

THE CIVIL ASSESSOR. Money, Cards, and in One Instance Arsenic.

"Many curious objects are found under the bands and in the lining of hats," said a dealer of old clothes the other day. "As to valuables, let me say at once that I on one occasion found a five-pound note in an old top-hat lining, and on another occasion, on looking a black cloth hatband of a wretched looking hillycock, I found $110 in American 'greenbacks'.

How a Husband, Who Died For $10,000. In December, 1890, William Metcalfe, a farmer of Simcoe County, was married to Lavina Roberts, whose parents reside in Aurora. The parties lived happily as man and wife till April last, when Metcalfe's parents came and induced her to leave her husband and return home, where she remained since. Metcalfe brought an action for $10,000 damages against her parents, which was tried at the assizes at London, Ontario, by Mr. Justice Falconbridge. His lordship on Saturday handed out judgment, awarding the plaintiff $250 costs. The entry of judgment is stayed till next term.

Local Jottings. A delegation from Montreal inspected the steam plant of the Toronto & Ontario Railway Company Saturday.

Some late gossip about the Pope says that he takes keen interest in mundane affairs. In the evening his favorite secretary, Mgr. Angel, goes to his bed room with the day's newspapers and reads aloud, sometimes late into the night, while the Pope sits on the bed, enveloped in woolen wraps, and follows the reader attentively.

Underwriters Association Meets. The third annual meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association was held in room A, Board of Trade Building, on Saturday, Jan. 28. There was a good attendance of members present.

Mr. Richard Lewis, the well-known reader, will give this evening at the Y.M.C.A. Stukopars class some renderings of special passages. The work of the class for this evening will be the second set of "Macbeth," which play will be taken up regularly from week to week until it is finished.

Mr. William Carroll of English has been appointed County Court clerk for the County of Wellington in the place of the late Mr. Honoh, deceased.

FOOTLIGHT AND FOYER.

The Amusements Which are Announced for the Week. To-night Miss Marie Walcott will begin her week's engagement at the Grand Opera House with a brilliant revival of that most amusing of all comedies, "The School for Scandal."

Probably the greatest hit that has ever been seen in the theatre at the Musee is the mammoth company of English vaudeville stars headed by the great and only Riley & Wolf, who appear this week.

Other physicians state that the impure water in general use is the cause of the epidemic. But they say water cannot be purified of causing catarrh and other ailments ascribable to cold, even if it might have the effect of creating an epidemic of stomach complaint.

THE CIVIL ASSESSOR. Married All at Them. (All the Year Round.)

The first place in the list of those who have married early and married often must be taken by Lady Elizabeth Darcey, the daughter of Thomas Earl Rivers, and second of the curious coincidence attending her marriages. She was wooed by three suitors at the same time, and the knights, as in chivalry bound, were disposed to contend for the customary hand.

THE CIVIL ASSESSOR. New Haves, Conn., Jan. 28.—After a bitter fight that has lasted nine months and has kept 400 men out of work most of that time, the granite cutters of the big Stony Creek quarries will probably return to work Monday.

Honorably Acquitted. LONDON, Jan. 28.—Frank St. Quinton Cockburn, a son of a former Speaker of the House of Commons at Ottawa, was tried at the assizes at London, Ontario, by Mr. Justice Falconbridge. His lordship on Saturday handed out judgment, awarding the plaintiff $250 costs. The entry of judgment is stayed till next term.

"German Syrup"

The majority of well-read physicians now believe that Consumption is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.

There was only a small business doing in local stock today, trading volume being 250 shares. There was no feature in the market except that for the first time since the outbreak of the war, American stock was sold in Western and Old at 107 1/2. R. Cochrane received the following despatch from Kennet, Hopkins & Co. to-day: CONCORDIA, Jan. 28.—Wheat & little panic on the part of operators who have been talking on after a supposed clique. Because some one tried to buy 2,000,000 bush the market jumped. There was great distress this morning to get out of long stuff, and as fast as the tallies could be sold, the market was cleared. It was 2,000,000 to 3,000,000, while the temporarily strengthened clique's strength. We do look for an upward advance, and believe wheat will be sold on all sides. There was confidence of the market, and it is strong support recently in corn market, and it is now disposed to go higher. Cuts follow freely in sympathy with corn.
