Arrangements were made to take a sunlight photograph at the bottom of the shaft of a mine 2,000 feet deep at Sombrero, in Mexico. The town is on the Tropic of Cancer, and the sun's rays at the meridian on June 21 fall vertically and illuminate the shaft brightly to its lowest depths. The sunlight lasts about three minutes, and then disappears for a year.

Maple Sugar and Syrup Must be Pure Products.

(Montreal Witness.)

Mr. A. P. Murray, the sales manager of the Edwardsville Starch Company, Limited, probably the largest producer of corn, rice, wheat, and potato starches, glucose, and corn syrup, in this country writes to the Witness, giving his views on that phase of the maple industry that was discussed in these columns by Mr. J. A. Vaillancourt last week.

Mr. Murray pursues the subject to a logical and patriotic conclusion when he advocates, in the interest of the Canadian farmer who produces the maple sugar and maple syrup, and in the interest of Canada's reputation as the producer of a pure food product peculiar to her soil, regulations that will ensure the absolute reliability of this class of goods.

He deprecates the traffic in impure syrups that has been shown to be injurious to the industry as it is carried on by the farmers, but he passes, uncomplained, the harm and injury that some of the farmers themselves are doing to the reputations of the communities in which they live, and to the good name of Canadian maple products. What protection do these farmers deserve who boil chips of maple wood to give a proper flavor to a mixture of brown sugar, glucose and water, which they send to the market under the name of "maple syrup," or those who increase the weight of their cakes of sugar by deliberately mixing all sorts of grit and other impurities with the syrup while it is thickening?

Mr. Murray says: "I have very carefully noted your interesting article regarding maple products. Personally, as a Canadian, I feel very strongly that we ought to insist on maple syrup and maple sugar being absolutely pure. Being in the syrup business, I know that a great deal of maple syrup is not pure, and in many cases, it is a grave question whether it contains any sugar whatever.

"To protect our Canadian farmers, and the reputation of Canadian goods there cannot be too strict regulations made to guarantee that maple syrup and maple sugar is sold, will be absolutely pure. On the other hand, almost everyone connected with the grocery trade knows that a great deal of maple syrup is going into consumption that is very impure to say the least.

"We make what we frankly call a 'maple flavored' syrup. We make it out of the best maple syrup but flavored with the very finest maple sugar we can buy, filtered and purified. This we have not pushed, but simply sold it where it was necessary to make an assorted confectionery to far off points, but we do not know of any such more satisfactory to the trade than a great many other so-called maple syrups on the market.

"On the other hand we have always felt that we should not compete against the farmer with his real maple syrup. I thought you would like to publish this as a more or less technical confirmation of Mr. Vaillancourt's very interesting report."

The Sabean Family of Annapolis County

The first one of the name who came to America was William Sabin, who was at Rehoboth, Mass., in 1643 when the town was organized. He was a man of culture, means and influence, and a leading man in all public affairs. The Rev. Anson Titus, historian and genealogist, writes in his Sabin, thinks he was a French Protestant refugee in England; see his article in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. XXXVI (Jan., 1882) page 52, but the writer doubts this, because the name was known in England for generations before he came over, borne by families whose origin was Norman. One small, but important branch of the family of which Hon. Lorenzo Sabine, the author, was a descendant, added on a note to the name, making it Sabein and sometimes it is found on Church and town records Sabein and Sabens, but the Nova Scotia branch alone spell it Sabean. William Sabin was married twice and had twelve children, four of which he brought to America with his first wife and eight by his second wife, who was Martha Allen of Medford, Mass. His eleventh child, born January 21st 1657, was named Jeremiah, which continued to be a family name in the New England Provinces for some generations. The names Benjamin and Timothy were also common names in the early generations in the old Provinces, and in the Nova Scotia Branch.

JEREMIAH SABEAN, SENR.

It is supposed that this man was a son of a Jeremiah, who was a son of Benjamin, fourth child and third son of William, as stated in Wilson's History of Digby County, but this has been disproved, and his line of descent from William is as yet not certainly known. He is still undoubted among several families of his time. There was one, Jeremiah (5), born at Berwick, Maine, about 1732, son of Jeremiah (4) born at Rehoboth, who, aged 21, married in 1751 Mary (Abbott) widow of Josiah Goodrich, son of Israel (3), son of Samuel (2), eldest son of William (1), but it would almost seem that he would be too young to be identical with the one who came to Nova Scotia, unless some of the descendants of the latter are much mistaken in the age of their ancestor. But the eldest two sisters of Jeremiah (5) were Mary and Sarah, and those were the names given by Jeremiah, Senr., of Nova Scotia to his first two daughters, and Mr. Titus thinks he was the same man. The mother of Jeremiah (5) was Mary O'Grady, Jeremiah, Senr., of Nova Scotia married Susanna (Lalby), whose ancestor was a French Protestant. According to Wilson "he came to Annapolis, Yarmouth county in 1762. Later, in company with Borden Thurber, Jonathan Strickland, Moses Morrill, and Robert Morrill, he settled on St. Mary's Bay, and engaged to settle at the mouth of the Sissiboo River. He settled first on West side, and in 1765 moved to a lot on the East side, where his daughter, Deidamia, was it is supposed the first white child born in Yarmouth. The locality where he settled, and where some of his descendants still live is known as Sabentown. Here he lived till he was an old man, and he and his wife were considered a worthy couple. They and their son Benjamin were the first adherents of the Baptist church in Sissiboo, (Yarmouth), and the whole family were much respected. See Wilson's History, p. 114. At length his oldest son, Jeremiah removed to Wilmot and took his aged parents with him shortly after the beginning of the 19th century. The only tradition as to the date that the writer can find is that this removal was about 1808, and that he was so infirm from old age that he had to be carried up from the vessel to his son's house, and that he died soon afterwards aged 98 or 99 and that his widow died a year later. The writer, however, from the dates of certain deeds of his son is of the opinion that the removal did not take place so early, and that he died some where between January 27th, 1812 and September 6th, 1815, because his son Jeremiah styles himself junior in a deed of the former date, but not in a deed of the latter date. According to Wilson the following is a list of his children, but the writer suspects that there was another daughter missed by Wilson, and that their order may not be entirely correct, although

FRIDAY, April 10th, 1908.

On our first page appears a general logical article which is contributed by a prominent geologist of this county. It will doubtless be of interest to many of our readers, especially as it will be a surprise to many that the antecedents of this numerous family comprised a large number of men prominent as jurists, authors, members of Congress, clergymen, etc. We would suggest that persons having copies of Calne's History of Annapolis County would find it of good value to clip this and succeeding articles and make a scrap book to supplement that valuable work.

Although no fair-minded person is likely to deny the obvious merit of the labor union in its broadest application as a banding together of workmen for the support of their mutual interest, its fundamental theory that wages should be fixed according to time employed and not according to workmanship goes far towards minimizing its influence as a body. The following excerpt from an exchange thus exposes the fallacy of this theory and also the dangerous tendency which underlies it.

The fundamental fallacy of the socialist is that the entire wealth of the community is created by labor and should therefore go entirely to the laborer. As a matter of fact, the wealth of the community is mainly created by machinery whose working is the chief function of labor merely to supervise. As civilization advances the relative amount of labor which has to be performed grows always less and less, and the amount of labor performed by machinery grows more and more. But the argument recurs that labor is indefinitely remunerated, while the remuneration of capital is excessive. As it happens that the rate of wages fixed by the present system of free competition is determined by the value to the community of the services rendered by the laborer, it is difficult to see how an arbitrary standard could be fixed without putting a premium on individual inefficiency and lowering the value of the individual skill. The fallacy that the workman should be rewarded rather according to the efforts which he puts forth than according to the value of these efforts to the community, would certainly work out equally to the detriment of society and of the individuals composing it. But, when even the most moderate of socialistic programmes is demonstrably impossible of realization, the danger becomes sufficiently obvious that the impudence of the socialistic theorist or the brutality of the privileged classes to his demands should assume the form of desperation and become actively anarchistic.

The Tragic Story of Bloody Creek

(From the Nova Scotian, Oct. 2, 1928).

The township of Annapolis stretches along the left side of the beautiful river which bears its name. On the Annapolis side the table-land is constituted in many places to a narrow strip by the proximity of the South Mountain to the river, and hill and dale are marked in gentle undulation as the traveler passes along. Some parts of the road are skirted to the left with huge masses of granite piled above each other in primitive ginghamity—here and there a rhyolite runs from the highland across the road seeking its way to the general base of the valley. In some places the water has cut a narrow, shallow, and treacherous passage through the granite, and the original founders of which have long since departed to another sphere. About three miles below Bridgetown you pass Bloody Creek, around which a tragic incident of our Provincial history has long a singular interest. About the year 1712, Captain Pigeon and a party of men were sent up in boats from Annapolis to cut wood; they had just reached the side of the creek, and commenced operations when they were attacked by a party of savages, who were lying in ambush, and who killed nearly the whole party, Captain Pigeon included. While passing along as evening closed around you, it requires no very vivid imagination to people the little glen with beings of another day. Indeed you can hardly persuade yourself that the dark eyes and scowling visages of the Indians are not hidden beneath the birch leaves, and as the stream rushes under the bridge on which you stand a death-groan will, at times, seem to mingle with the gurgling of its waters.—Joseph Howe.

SOBER MEN WANTED.

A fireman in uniform who enters a liquor saloon in Boston and drinks every one else is in danger of dismissal from the force. The men at the head of the fire-department are determined that firemen shall respect the uniform they wear and the position of responsibility they hold. Unless duty calls them, their place is without the saloon. This desire for men who do not use intoxicating liquors to fill places of responsibility is constantly becoming more apparent. Rail roads, express companies, great manufacturing and mercantile establishments are seeking not for men that are never overcome by liquor, but for men that are total abstainers. All this points to a better era, for the habit of moderate drinking than receives a severe blow.

A MISPLACED SWITCH.

Headless of the fact that it was Sunday evening, and that the ladies might be, and in fact was expected to be, rather low, Deacon Black had invited the minister home to supper. Mrs. Black, mindful of the fact that a small salad was all that could be placed on the board, was horrified at her husband's invitation, but with true hospitality attempted to make the best of the situation.

Leading from the parlor to the dining-room is a passage, dark and so narrow that but one can pass in comfort at a time. With a woman's quick eye, Mrs. Black, who had come into the parlor after laying what she could find on the table, determined to use a variation of the "family hold-back" that so often plays a part when the unexpected guest has come. Following her husband into the passage, on the way to the table, she clatched an arm, and pulling down his head whispered vehemently:

"Don't touch that salad for goodness sake!"

"All right," he answered in a similar whisper. Then the party proceeded to the table.

"I am very sorry, Mrs. Black," exclaimed the minister, as the party sat down, "but I feel a little indisposed from the heat today, and I think I will have only a cup of tea."

"Why, that's too bad!" the wife remarked. "I did want you to have a good supper."

"You didn't say anything to me about feeling ill," put in Deacon Black, who, despite the warning, had helped himself to a large portion of the main dish. "If I had known that I wouldn't have pressed you to come."

The clergyman passed the situation off with some slight remark, and a suitable period took his departure.

"Well, John," said Mrs. Black, "I'm glad for your sake that the doctor couldn't eat much, for there was so much of it and I know how fond you are of salad."

"Yes," said her husband, "but there would have been enough to go round, I think. I can't understand how the doctor accepted my invitation if he was ill."

"Anyway," she answered, "I'm glad I caught you in the passage and warned you about the salad."

"Fussage? salad? What are you talking about?" he exclaimed.

"John Black, didn't I speak to you in the passage?" his wife screamed.

"Why, no, the doctor let me go ahead of him after we started!" cried Black. "What did you say?"

The first butterfly of the season made its appearance in the suburbs of the Sentinel, only this week. The April snowstorm proved too much for its delicate constitution, however, and it meekly folded its yellow wings and met its fate.

THE FUNERAL OF ROBBIE YOUNG.
The funeral of Robbie Hastings Young was held from his father's residence on Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended, in fact the house would not contain all the people assembled, many of whom remained outside during the service. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. S. Lewis, who spoke impressively though briefly from the words of the text, "Let not your heart be troubled." Rev. A. J. McDonald read a portion of the scriptures. Rev. Dr. Jost followed with prayer, and Rev. G. Johnson gave a brief address dwelling upon the estimable qualities and sterling character of the young lad. The music by the choir of the Baptist church was of a high order, and consisted of a duet with chorus, "My Father Knows," a male quartette, "Nearer My God to Thee" and the singing of Robbie's favorite hymn, "The Sweet Bye and Bye." Flowers in profusion covered the casket. A beautiful wreath of carnations and lilies of the valley was contributed by his classmates of the eleventh grade. From the 8th 9th and 10th grades there was a large bunch of exquisite cream roses, and many other beautiful tributes were received from his companions and other friends of the family.
The undertakers were Lemmie Rugles, Frank Johnson, Arthur Dodge and Louis Young. The high-school pupils walked in procession to the grave as did a large number of citizens.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.
In the case of Geo. C. Hutchinson, plaintiff, vs. Andrew Bent, exec. of Samuel Bent, and G. S. Miller, defendants, after argument of the motion heretofore Mr. Justice Russell it was ordered that the surplus proceeds from the foreclosure sale, $742.00 be paid to Mr. Miller as the purchaser of Andrew Bent's interest in the property foreclosed. On appeal argued before the full bench at Halifax, J. M. Owen, solicitor for Mrs. Samuel Bent, appellant, March 21st, Judge Russell's decision was reversed and Mr. Miller ordered to repay the $742.00 with costs. We understand that Mr. Miller will appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

THIRTY TENEMENT DWELLERS.
Congressman Jacob Ruppert of New York represents one of the most congested districts in the metropolis. Thinking the people who live in tenements might want to plant seeds in boxes in the window sills and fire escapes, he sent an assortment of his quota of garden seeds to the inhabitants of a model tenement just built by a friend of his.
Later he received a letter reading:—
My dear Ruppert—Please send no more seeds to the people who live in my model tenement.
I went there today, and I find they are all raising cabbages, cucumbers and tomatoes in the bathtub.

It is not wise to take any notice of fault-finders, who are found in every community. According to them nobody does right. The trouble is in themselves. They live in an under-spirit of gloom and doom, and as a result, come to think there is no such thing as sunshine, hope, goodness or prosperity. It is an awful state of mind. To work, stop your fault-finding talking and grumbling, read whole some literature and be a benefit, instead of a hindrance to the community.

Indigestion
Stomach trouble is both a symptom of, and not a cure for, indigestion. We think of dyspepsia, flatulence, and indigestion as if they were symptoms only of a certain specific disease. It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the discovery of his Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, above the stomach, and favoring Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With out that original and simple principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and yellow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. D. Knott, pastor of the Baptist church at Mahone, and after the marriage a dainty supper was served to the immediate friends of the bride, and the happy couple drove to Lunenburg, where they will reside. The bride was the recipient of many very appropriate presents. On the eve of Miss Hamm's departure from the academy, the school board presented her with a flattering address. A WRINKLE FOR CAKE-MAKERS.
If you are your own cake baker—surely you are—you perhaps have noted the difference there is in flour. There are two principal constituents in flour—starch and gluten. All wheats contain both, but in varying quantities. Ontario flour is rich in starch, while Manitoba spring wheat contains a large per cent of gluten. The combining the two kinds of wheat scientifically a flour is made that gives slightly better results for cakes, pastry or bread.
Millers are now blending these two kinds of wheat in such a way that the rich delicacy of the first is combined with the strength of the second—making an ideal flour.
Expert cooks have given Blended Flour exhaustive tests, and they are in the opinion that no other flour can make such white, light, wholesome cake, pastry and bread.
Housekeepers will find Blended Flour without equal, both for making biscuits and substantial cakes, and they will find Blended Flour most economical, too.

A Sad Story of Consumption in a Canadian Town
The Local Hospital Unable to Care for the Patient, and the query is What to Do?
In a little booklet issued by the National Sanitarium Association, whose auspices has been established the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, we have the story told of a sad case of consumption.
A young woman, apparently friendless, came in on a train reaching Fort William, and immediately procured work as a domestic. A doctor was called in to examine her case, as she appeared to be a consumptive, and she was at once pronounced a bad case of tuberculosis.
She was placed in the small local hospital of the town, and everything possible for the moment is being done to help the patient.
But writing to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, the Secretary of the Board of Health asks: "Is it possible to make room for this patient in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives? The local hospital is crowded for room, and there is really no place for this poor girl."
Consulting the Fort William official adds "I may say that as far as being able to pay is concerned, as far as we can learn, has no friends who can afford to pay for her in an institution."
It is to meet just such cases as these that the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives has been opened.
The official reports of the past year show that more than half the patients who entered the institution were absolutely free—their maintenance not costing them a single farthing. The others only paid a nominal sum ranging from $1.50 to $6.00 a week, only a few paying the larger amount. The average of such patients was less than 50 cents a day. The actual cost of maintenance to the institution is over $8.00 a week so that our readers can readily see how strong a case is made out by the Trustees in their appeal to make provision for just such a patient as that from Fort William—only one of scores who are constantly seeking admission.
Contributions on behalf of this work may be sent to: Sir Wm. R. Meredith, Kt., Vice-President, Osprey Hall, W. J. Gage, Esq., 81 Spadina Avenue, J. S. Robertson, Secretary-Treasurer, National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street W., Toronto, Ont. No. 4

NO MORE RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-tives" will carry conviction.

Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time—pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from hemorrhoids, or piles, for years. I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-tives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Signed) C. D. GRAHAM.

"Fruit-a-tives" or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at a box a—6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BILL TO AMEND CANNED GOODS ACT.

OTTAWA, April 1.—Notice has been given by the Minister of Agriculture of a bill to amend the meat and canned goods act. The amendments to the meat and canned goods act are not radical, but are intended to meet minor objections found in the application of the act during the year. They chiefly apply to the inspection of small establishments. The amendments to the inspectors and sales act will provide more severe penalties for the fraudulent marking of packages of fruit and produce. It is found the magistrates allow the minimum fine of $10 under the present act and this does not stop fraud. Canadian custom houses took six million dollars more this year than last. During the fiscal year ending March 31 the customs collections totalled $87,866,632, while the twelve months previous yielded a revenue of only $81,812,599. Business was poor at the custom house in March and the collections showed a decline of $745,431.

CHAMBERLAIN'S HAS THE PREFERENCE

Mr. Fred C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have used and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that may give a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by Minard's Liniment Co., Limited, W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN, W. WADE AND BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE, BEAR RIVER.

Salvation Army Praise

"I feel it my duty to testify to the benefit I have received from the use of Psychine. While travelling in New Ontario conducting special meetings I contracted a very bad cold, which gradually developed into Bronchitis of the worst form. I was advised to try Psychine, which I did, and after using but a few bottles I was completely restored to health. I recommend this wonderful remedy to sufferers from Bronchitis and other troubles." "Later: I wish to add that my voice, since using Psychine, is stronger and has much more carrying power than it had before I had Bronchitis, and the vocal chords do not tire with speaking." P. TILLEN, Capt. Salv'n. Army, Ann St., Toronto, Aug. 13, 1907.

Throat, lung and stomach troubles cured by Psychine; also incipient consumption. All druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Stearn, Limited, Toronto.

"ONE TOUCH OF NATURE MAKES THE WHOLE-WORLD KIN."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefit of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by W. A. WARREN, BRIDGETOWN, W. WADE AND BEAR RIVER DRUG STORE, BEAR RIVER.

"It is a mistaken idea that learning a trade is not education. What the ability to work at some useful occupation does not enter into, and compose an essential part of a man's intelligence. You remember what Ruskin says: 'A boy can not learn to make a straight shaving off a plank or drive a fine curve without falling, or to lay a brick level in the mortar, without learning a quality of other matters which lip of man could never teach him.'"

WINTER CATCH OF FISH SMALL.

(St. John Times.)

To local wholesale fish dealers the winter season has been practically a failure, owing largely to the scarcity of small herring which forms the chief food for the fish usually caught in the Bay of Fundy. For this shortage the sardine and fertilizer factories are said to be in a measure responsible. The shortage in fish has also had its effect on market prices which on the average are 25 per cent higher than last season. H. P. Robertson and Leonard Bros., both tell of a discouraging winter in fish trade circles, and the former declares it is the worst he has known in nearly twenty-five years.

Speaking of the retail trade P. A. Smith said that by means of importing fresh fish from the Pacific coast and American markets it has been possible to cope with the demand although profits were somewhat smaller. Lobsters have been very scarce, the catch amounting only to about one-third of previous seasons.

When Principal Cumming was in the old country last fall he brought home the first flock of black faced Scotch Highland sheep ever brought to Canada. They are peculiar looking chaps, not very large, with long coarse wool reaching to the ground and each one is fitted out with an immense pair of horns, with as many twists as the proverbial "crooked ram's horn." These horns should render them dog proof. These sheep are raised in the wildest and coldest part of the Highlands of Scotland and where the pasturage is extremely poor. It is the intention now to send them to Cape Breton where they will get a range of land nearly like to their nature as the hills of the Highlands of Scotland but with better feeding advantages where it is thought they will grow in size. The strong point of these black faced Highland sheep is their mutton which is the finest in the world and the most sought after in the London markets.

A Chicago hide and leather firm has just manufactured the largest leather belt ever known. The hides of 225 steers were required to make it. The length is 114 feet and the width seven feet, while the weight is 2,300 pounds. The various pieces were fastened together by cement under 250 tons' pressure. The business requiring a belt like this is that of a sawmill in Tacoma, Wash.

GROWING LETTUCE.

Make the drills three-quarters of an inch deep and not less than fifteen inches apart. Sow the seeds at the rate of 25 to 40 to the foot, cover with less than half an inch of soil, and press down with the flat of the hoe.

When the young plants have been growing about two weeks they must be thinned to stand six inches apart, and when these begin to grow every alternate one should be pulled up. These, though small, make good salad and are often of delicate flavor if quickly grown.

Always thin when the leaves touch, and keep the plants growing till heads form, if of that variety. Additional plantings must be made for a later supply, but lettuce does not succeed well if planted late.

Heat and a poor supply of natural soil moisture will account for your lettuce being bitter and tough and young early to seed bearing. For it is a plant for a cool season, and requires spring rains, or artificial watering to ensure crisp, finely flavored heads or leaves. To blanch the "Cox" lettuce the leaves are often loosely tied together.

REFUSED HOTEL ACCOMMODATION

NEW YORK, April 2.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and F. R. Thomas were refused service at the Hotel Knickerbocker Monday night, and were practically put out of the hotel restaurant Manager Regan confirmed the story to a newspaper representative last night after Mrs. Thaw having said to him that she didn't remember ever having been in the Knickerbocker.

"They came in here Monday night and Evelyn was immediately recognized," said Manager Regan. "We don't want her patronage, and I decided that she could not be served. There was no trouble about it. None of the people in the dining room knew that anything happened out of the ordinary."

"When I recognized them I called Mr. Thomas aside and told him plainly that we did not care to have them there. I asked him to tell her not to come to the hotel again, as we would never serve her. They were in the hotel scarcely ten minutes, leaving immediately after my talk with Mr. Thomas."

It is expected Moncton churches will be open next Sunday, as smallpox is reported to have disappeared. Much attention will be paid to vaccination.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

The Restorative is a genuine tonic, to tire, run down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oftentimes weakens the Heart's action. Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day.

KEROSENE 7 CENTS A GALLON. RETAIL, IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, April 1.—Another cut in the price of illuminating oil was made by the New England Oil Company to consumers from oil-tank delivered Company yesterday, and was immediately met by the Standard Oil Company today. The reduction is a cent a gallon, which will amount to a loss of revenue of about a million dollars a year in the Boston district.

The price two months ago was five cents a gallon, but was initiated by the New England Oil Company, and a cut to eight cents resulted. This second cut brings the price to seven cents.

The reduction affects only the Boston district, which is practically within a radius of twenty miles of the State House, and the competition is only between the New England Company and the Standard. The New England Oil Company is understood to be backed by the Gulf Oil Company, which is a combination of the independent refiners practically controlling the output of crude oil in Texas and Indian Territory. It was stated by an officer of the Standard Oil Company that afternoon that that company has only met the cut, and whatever reduction is made in the future it will continue to meet, although no initial cut in prices will be made by the Standard.

"Mildred" said the prudent mamma, "I want you to treat Mr. Kitcher, who called on you last evening, with some consideration and respect. He may not be particularly handsome, or attractive, but he is sensible, well connected, highly successful in business and is regarded as one of the coming men."

"I wouldn't mind his being one of the coming men," said Mildred. "If he didn't take him so long to go." Chicago Tribune.
