THE MENDICANT.

I met Him to day in the wintry street,
The Christ on the cross who died.
All hungered and cold in the wind and sleet,
With bleeding forehead and hands and feet,
And I blindly thrust Him aside,

Had He only come with the crown of thorns Or the nail-prints ruby-red, Had the palms that pleaded for alms but worn Their wounds, I had not put by in scorn His piteous plea for bread,

But idly now and all in vain
I grieve for the grace gone by,
And muse, "might He only come again,
I'd pity His plea and ease His pain
And hearken unto His cry."

Nay, nay, for the blind distinguisheth The king in his robe and crown; But only the humble eye of faith Beholdeth Jesus of Nazareth In the beggar's tattered gown.

saw Him not in the mendicant And I heeded not His cry;
And I heeded not His cry;
Now Christ in His infinite mercy grant
That the pray't I say in my day of want.
Be not in scorn put by.

Three cats of a species said to be unknown were discovered recently in the spire of a church at Brighton, Mass. The cats are covered with a coat of long shaggy fur; their teeth are long and almost like tusks. On the nose of each is a large tuft of hair resembling a tusk. They are very agile and spring from rafter to refer with the case of a souirrafter to rafter with the ease of a squirrel. It is not known how they got on the spire or how long they have been there, but it is believed that they have been confined in their aerial abode for Another fairy tale is going the rounds of the press about the woman who, when her husband is on the verge of bank-ruptcy, produces her little savings-bank book, and says airily: "John, will $10,000 be of any use to you?" and John with tears of rapture accepts the donation, which she has earned by selling fine art embroidery through the Women's Exchange, or in some other clandestine but interesting manner, and straightway goes and steers it against a wheat deal, and it goes too. What a disagreeable myth this woman is! and if she ever existed and had business sense enough to accumulate $10,000 what a fool she would be to entrust it to a man who had already shown himself incapable of managing his own affairs.

GIRLS in all English-speaking countries will be in a flutter when they learn that the big-wigs of the English courts have expressed the conviction that the law permitting actions for breach of promise should be repealed. In the opinion of the mighty Dogberrys over the sea, this sacred privilege of the sex must be taken from it because designing females are constantly preying upon the fortunes of young and also of old peers. What a dreadful thing! Rather than sanction such a calamity, the learned judges would prefer that the aristocracy should prey upon the affections of the British spinsters of all classes without any fear of damages for broken vows. But Parliament will doubtless protect the girls.

A queer story, and one which readers would do well to take with more than the proverbial grain of salt, comes with first-class recommendations all the way from England. This particular Chaplin was a naturalist, and countries, most of them English-speaking, settled in the eastern townships of the Province of Quebec.

Religion in the public schools is causing trouble at Raymond, Ill. Miss Lou Watson, a teacher, has been requiring all pupils to stand every morning and repeat the Lord's prayer in union with her. In obedience to instructions from Father Dougherty, the Catholic children remained in their seats and refused to repeat the prayer. The teacher then appealed to the principal and the school oard to compel the children to repeat the prayer, but they refused to sustain her action and the children will continue to go to school and will not be required to repeat the prayer.

There can be no longer any question concerning Monsignor Satolli's attitude on the school question; and, in fact, his position has always been plain enough to everybody who wished to judge it impartially. In the address which he made at Gonzaga College, Washington, on Thanksgiving day, the Apostolic Delegate declared that he had always been in favor of the Catholic system of education, and could not understand why any doubt of that fact should ever have been entertained by anybody.

Death of Mr. John McDonagh.

The many friends of Mr. John Mc-Donagh, of the firm of McDonagh and Shea, brewers, of this city, will regret to hear of his death, which took place at 1.30 o'clock this morning, after a long and painful illness, at his rooms on Fort street. The cause of his death was caner. Mr. McDonagh was unmarried, and came to Winnipeg a few years ago from Minnesota, and was one of the founders of the successful firm which bears his name. The deceased will be buried at St. Mary's cemetery, Fort Rouge.

Death of Mrs. Collier,

One of the land marks of Red River Settlement disappeared by the death of Mrs. Catherine Collier, who has been here for about forty years. Well known and respected by the old settlers, she passed her declining years in retirement and died over 90 years of age at the residence of Mr. James New, Balmoral Street in this city. She duly received the last rites of the church and was interred in St. Mary's Cemetery.

On to-morrow a Requiem service will be celebrated at 7.30 o'clock for the repose of her soul, at St. Mary's church.

OUR ARCHBISHOP'S LETTER.

ST. BONIFACE, May 10th, 1893.

Mr. E. J. Dermody.

DEAR SIR,—I see by the last issue of the Northwest Review that you have been intrusted by the directors of the journal with he management of the same, "the company for the present retaining charge of the editerial columns."

I need not tell you that I take a deep interest in the Northwest Review which is the only English Catholic paper published within the limits of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. I hope that you will obtain a remunerative success. It is enough that the editors do their work gratuitously, it cannot be expected that the material part of the publication should remain without remuneration. I therefore strongly recommend to all Catholics under my jurisdiction to give a liberal support to the Northwest Review. It has fully my approval, though, of course, I cannot be responsible for every word contained in it. The editors write as they think proper, they are at full liberty to say what they wish and in the way they like best. The sole control I can claim is over the principles they express and I have no hesitation in stating that the principles announced by them are sound and ought to be endorsed by every sound Catholic in this country.

I therefore consider that you enter a good work and I pray to God that He will bless you in its accomplishment.

Yours all devoted in Christ,

its accomplishment.
I remain.
Yours all devoted in Christ,

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The action of the Milwaukee printers in excluding the A.P.A. traitors from their trade union has met with general approval all over the country.

The little town of Columbus, Ohio, is a stronghold of A.P.A.ism. It is also overrun by rats. Horrible thought! Can it be possible that there is a connecin Milwaukee. This means a "women's that other and larger class to whom no A.P.A." Bigotry is by no means a sacrifice is too great when the interests beautifying cosmetic. The W.A.P.A is of their religion are at stake, and should probably the prize collection of ugliness nerve them to still greater efforts in the wherever it is established. We pity the future. M. A.P.A. who marries a W.A.P.A.

Ample food for serious consideration is furnished Protestants by Rev. John Krantz, Jr., of Jersey City Methodist in the United States as the A.P.A. Episcopal Church in the following public announcement:

"I hope" said Mr. Krantz, "that the consistory of this church will soon provide me with a new parsonage, so that on Sunday morning when I look out of my window I may not be compelled to see more people going to St. for them. They openly boasted that Peter's Church than go to all the Protes- Mr. Honkins would be snowed under by tant Churches in the city."

Rev. Mr. Krantz's parsonage is on Grand street, opposite St. Peter's Church. Jersey City.

Among the good resolutions to be made about this time is one to pay for newspaper subscriptions. That is a debt that seems to be left to the last in most readers' minds. Some who would die rather than cheat the grocer or keep the butcher of his dues, allow their subscription account to run on year after year, giving no attention to the bills that are sent them and making no mention at confession of their failure to pay the publisher. So general is this delinquency that a Bishop in Canada thought it his duty to write an official letter against it. Not only is it a sin to defraud the printer but it is also a great drawback to the efficiency of Catholic journals when their subscribers merely keep them out of their money for months and menths after it is due. Their editors, contributors, compositors, pressmen and other employes all suffer through this neglect. Whereas when subscriptions are paid promptly the whole paper shows the benefit of its timely income and the tional reward in the snap and vigor of special features. For their own sakes, therefore, if for no higher reasons,

THE COMPLIMENTS OF THE

The New Year has come, and the REview presents the compliments of the season to each and every one of its patrons. We are fully aware that it is more than likely that the beginning of 1894 finds among the people of this city and province an unusual degree of poverty and suffering. From all parts of the world come lamentations, and while men differ as to the causes, certain it is that business is depressed and progress hampered to such an extent that many look forward with grave forebodings to the coming twelve months. In spite of this, however, we feel we are justified in predicting that the good wishes which we extend to our readers will in all probability, at least to a large extent, be realised, for we believe the outlook is good for an early return of that prosper. ity which has previously characterized this portion of the Dominion. We earnestly trust that it is only a temporary depression through which we have been passing, and that the strain is passing away, to make room for renewed vitality. To all whom we call friends—subscribers, advertisers, and readers—we wish a thrice bappy New Year, trusting that they may receive a goodly share of Heaven's choicest blessings.

A LESSON FOR THOSE WHO NEED

There is in every community a certain number of Catholics—in each case, we are pleased to be able to add, only a small proportion of the whole bodywho although they attend church regularly every Sunday, absolutely abstain from taking any active and prominent part in Catholic undertakings, because of the fear that possesses them that if they were to do so it might in some way prove injurious to their prospects in life. It is pleasant to us to be able to point out to this class such an illustrious example of the fallacy of their views as that presented by the life of the gentleman elected only last week to the proud position of mayor of the city of Chicago. We read that Mr. John Patrick Hopkins is a man who began at the bottom of the ladder, working at manual labour, that by energy and industry he became a leading merchant and public man in the city in which he lived, that throughout his career he has never hidden his religion, but, on the contrary, has always been prominently associated with Catholic matters, especially as a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and now, although a young man, he has been elected by the people of Chicago to the highest civic office in their power to bestow on any man. The fight against him was, it is true, a bitter one, and devised upon racial and religious bias, but his victory will undoubtedly be a lesson to the bigots, inasmuch as it is admitted by his opponents that an anti-Catholic circular issued during the campaign acted as a boomerang, and, as a matter of fact, in all probability was the very thing that insured Mr. Hopkins election. Surely such an example as this speaks volumes, and should silence those creatures who are apt to claim that to be active in the promotion of Catholic interests is detrimental to their success in public life, and it should, at The W.A.P.A. has organized a branch the same time, be an encouragement to

We are not without those in Winnipeg with whom it is a favorite argument that and if it is re-established it will be more Catholics are forbidden by the Church than a pity, it will be a shame, if our this odious appeal for the suppression of to read the Bible, and a few weeks ago Catholic people allow it to fall through it became our duty to take to task the for want of support. He indicates the method that should be followed in the study of the Bible, and in the training of youth in this study, and points out that the Catholic Church has always held that the sacred Scriptures are in-siderable expense by the various Prospired, that they are the word of God, and that the study of the Scriptures, their meaning and history, has been one of the leading courses in all educational institutions where teachers of the faith are developed. He remarks, "The Catholic Church at all times, and by the best law and institutions, has taken care never to leave the Heavenly Treasures which the Holy Ghost has given so liberally to man, neglected or concealed.' Both those who are teachers and those who are taught must study the Scriptures to know their real teaching and significance. This encyclical will undoubtedly serve to excite renewed interest in the written word of God amongst our Catholic people, and we trust it may not be without a good effect on those who are not of us, but have been unwillingly misled into forming the erroneous impression that Bible reading is a tor-bidden exercise with Catholics.

OUR CATHOLIC SOCIETIES. As our readers are all well aware there is a large number of Catholic societies in existence in this city, each one of which having received the approval and support of the ecclesiastical authorities is in all respects worthy of the confidence of our people. A couple of years ago all these associations were in a more or less flourishing condition with a creditable future apparently assured, but for some reason or another, and we are alraid we must confess that apathy on the part of those from whom hetter things might have been expected is the real reason, the record of the past twelve months has not been one of which we have cause to be particularly proud. Some of the societies have, it is true, increased their memborship to a certain extent, and otherwise will be able to show a certain amount of improvement in their condition as the result of the year's work, but we may venture to say that in not one instance has this improvement been so great as it should have beeen, or as the excellence of the objects these associations have in view should have insured its being. On the other hand, one or two of the most deserving of our Catholic societies have practically almost ceased to exist, and it is for the purpose of directing the attention of our readers to steps which are about to be taken to resuscitate these organizations, and to urge them to give all the support they can, that we are penning this article. The societies we particularly allude to are those known as the St. Josepn's Friendly Union and the Catholic Truth society. With regard to the first-named body we have often in our columns given it, and those of our readers who have read what we have published on this subject do not need to be assured of the they adapted of putting their into practice was one which ideas any reasonable man might have thought would have assured success and for a time the affairs of the Union did, as a matter of fact, prosper, and the organization grew in a manner which must have satisfied even the most is any need for us to go into the reasons it in that oblivion from which it should active. With regard to the Truth soof the revival, and we earnestly hope it may be so. There is in this city a great field for an organization of this kind,

TOLERANT (?) PROTESTANTISM.

Disinterested non-Catholic travellers in far-off lands have often testified to the uselessness, as a rule, of the great body of missionaries that are sent out to those countries and maintained at a contestant sects. In many cases indeed these missionaries, when not engaged in trade or money-making enterprises for their own benefit, have been active mischief makers, especially when an opportunity has presented itself to them to thwart the evangelical labors of the Catholic missionary organizations. Often these Protestant missionaries have been open or secret agents to foment political disturbances or to excite popular discontent. Of recent years it is true these Protestant missionaries have not been so much in evidence in these ways as formerly. But the New York Independent of December 14th prints, under the head of "Mexico Reform Laws," a letter that is curiously frank in its avowal of sympathy with religious oppression, when the oppression is applied to Catholics. The letter is credited to the Rev. James D. Eaton (of Chihuahua, Mexico), Missionary of the American Board."

This gentleman says that "the question is often asked, whether the Reform Laws of 1857 are usually enforced?" These laws, it may be mentioned, are laws passed in Mexico at a time when, under the presidency of Juarez, the infidels of the secret societies had gained the control of the government of Mexico. A fair notion of their character may be had in a general way from the words of

Mr. Eaton himself. "They are surprisingly severe in their restrictions, which are aimed against the Roman Catholic Church, making it illegal for the priests to perform the marriage ceremony, forbidding them to receive bequests from the dying, to wear their distinctive dress on the streets, to arrange for religious processions or acts of worsbip outside of church buildings, in an old Irish settlement, four miles etc. That depends upon those in civil west. Without luxury, without great office, and these are influenced by puboffice, and these are influenced by public sentiment, which varies widely in different States.' And then in this letter to the Independent he goes on to give a number of instances serving to show that to some extent at least these laws intended to extent at least these laws intended to There were never any slaves in the suppress religious liberty, for example colony. No man is ashamed or afraid to make it an unlawful act for a priest to perform the marriage ceremony, have fallen into a condition of "innocuous desuctude." He says, for example, that, "The first Bishop of Chihuahua arrived here from the south on the evening of October 3rd, and was met at the railroad station by an immense concourse of people, who tried to take the horses from his carriage that they might themselves draw it to the cathedral."

"But t his," he adds with some satisfaction, "was not allowed by the farge force of police!" In Chihuahua there a synopsis of the aims and objects of were, according to this fine specimen of the zealous Catholics who established a liberty-loving "mlssionary of the American Board" enough police to prevent the "immense concourse of people" from expressing too freely their devotion to their religion and their respect for their pastor. But not long after the same bishop visited a part of his diocese where the police were not so plentiful, where the writer happened to be visiting the little evangelical congregation. There eighteen triumphal arches had been erected along the principal street, under which passed the carriages of the party, preceded by a cavalcade of a hundred horsemen marching four abreast, with the Mayor and Postmaster at the head." Would it be believed that an evangelical congregation would be scandalized at this? that it would boil over with malice and envy and ill-feeling at this love of a Christian flock for its pastor? And yet Dr. Eaton follows the above description with the acknowledgement that they did all these evil things, that they displayed an amount of fanatical bigotry and really wicked desire to breed disturbance that an honman would be ashamed to have had anything to do with. Not so this queer sort of American in Mexico. Mr. Eaton calmly writes to the Independent, "That very evening a petition to the Governor was signed by the brethren ciety we hear that it is to have a share (the little evangelical congregation) to the effect that similar violations of the Constitution might not be allowed to occur in other portions of the State." Mr. Eaton probably forgot, in drafting religious liberty, that his "State" is Connecticut, and not Chihuahua. That a man who calls himself a free American should be a party to the perpretration of tyranny such as this is astounding, but that a missionary, a man who is ostensibly sent to preach the Gospel of peace, termomety in two, and swallowed the should not only countenance but actually boast of his efforts in the cause of isfactory to hear that a large number of bigotry and malice and hatred is a sight

EVERY LITTLE HELPS.

A striking illustration of the truth of the adage that "every little helps" is to be found in the following report of the Belgian priests who have been collecting cancelled postage stamps for some the stamps are use I for decorating various things, such as screens, china, and occasionally whole rooms are papered with these apparently worthless pieces of paper. Our readers, whatever their circumstances may be, may all help in any denomination or country are thankfully received.

The priests announce that they have raised enough money to begin the founding of a village on the upper Congo in Africa. During the last three years stamps have been received from all Year in our new hall. parts of the Christian world, and the number has reached forty millions. The village will be in a tract of about 200 acres of good land. There will be a church, a house for the missionaries, an orphan asylum and school, and some dwellings for the inhabitants. New families will be formed by marriages between the orphans, as they grow up, in the various asylums of the missions of that district. Little by little the village will grow in importance, and the poor negroes, formerly slaves, will see and acknowledge the blessings that come with the Christian religion. Being under the control of the missionaries, the village can be kept free from rum and the vices which the white men usually carry into savage countries to demoralize the unhappy natives. The Fathers are especially glad to receive Columbian postage stamps, but all kinds of cancelled stamps are accepted with gratitude. Their address is the Catholic Seminary, Liege, Belgium, or M. #### PROSPEROUS IRISH FARMERS.

A correspondent of the Catholic Advocate of Louisville, Ky., thus describes Catholic colony in Mississippi:

"Apropos of the repeated charge that Catholics, and the Irish particularly, are not agriculturists, I must tell you of a discovery recently made during a geo-logical trip through Jasper county, Miss. The whole region is intensely Protestant, yet at Paulding there is a fine Catholic church in charge of Father Beaur, the congregation of which reside of prosperity and the high, healthy tone of these farmers. The show of fine lothing and fine equipages was indeed wanting, but so also was the carping discontent of the white caps. And why! here are no secret society organizations among them; no colored laborers. to work, and to make his children do the same. These are reasons-but the main one must be the influence of their religion in a community. Land is cheap and good, and for the benefit of home settlers it is well to make the fact known."

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Northwest Review

Sir:—Through the medium of your columns I beg to make the following announcement: That as the St. Joseph's Friendly Union and the Catholic Truth Society have amalgamated and as the prospects are of one flourishing society, would respectfully invite all who have been members of either society to meet at their new hall, 183 Water Street, of Friday evening, the 5th day of January 1894, when the first regular meeting this society will be held. It is necessar that a large number of members should be present as at this meeting the cap this work. Cancelled postage stamps of didates for offices will be selected, and nominated on Monday, January 8th, for the ensuing year. The new hall is nicely situated directly opposite the Manitoba Hotel, on Water Street, the rooms are neat and comfortably furnished. Therefore I would be glad welcome a large attendance on the occasion of the first meeting of the New

New Year's Resolutions.

At least we may aim during the comng new year to be as good as we have been during the past year. If we think we can be better-so much the better. There are those who argue against the making of new year's resolutions: "We make them but to break them." So we repent only to sin again, but it is a condition of continuous forgiveness that we go on repenting no matter how often we fall.

Of the arrows sent up from the quiver of good resolutions some may reach the mark. One happy hit is worth a life of fifty or sixty new years' resolutions. Charles Lamb says that of all dates in the year the first of January is the date towards which none of us can be indiff. erent. It concerns us because it has relation to our own lives. Who can look into the future of which it is a reminder, without formulating some plan or purpose? To all wholesome minds the New Year's bell sounds a suggestion to "ring out the false and ring in the true" in their way of living. Good resolutions are the right instinct of the occasion.

REFLECTIONS.

A gentleman one evening was seated near a lovely woman when the company around him were proposing conundrums to each other. Turning to his companion, he said-

"Why is a lady unlike a mirror?" She gave it up.
"Because," said the rude fellow,

"And why are you unlike a mirror?" asked the lady.

He could not tell. "Because a mirror is smooth and polished, and you are rough and unpolish-

The gentleman owned there was one woman who did not speak without reflecting or casting reflections.

A Little Surprise for Mamma.

A school girl recently found a package of love letters written to her mother by her father before they were married-The daughter saw where she could have a little sport, and read them to her mother, pretending they were of recent date, and substituting her own name tor that of her mother, and that of a fine young man who was well known to both of them, for that of her father. The mother jumped up and down in her crair, shifted her feet rapidly, and seemed terribly disgusted, and finally she forbade her daughter having anything to do with a young man who could write such sickening nonsense to a girl. When the young lady handed the letters to her mother to read the house became so still that one could hear the grass growing in the back yard.

Norman, Ont., January 15, 1890.

Dear Sir, Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root P lls' are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time-piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; at the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise a'l to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve v.gor and vitality.

Yours faithfully.

DEAR SIR.—For many years, I haze been a firm believer in your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills." Not with a blind faith, but a confidence wrought by an actual personal experience of their value and merit. My business is such that I spend much of my time away from home, and I would not consider my travelling outfit complete without a box of Morse's Pills.

MESSES. GORDON & SUCKLING estimate the real estate transfers that have taken place in 1893 at $3,000,000, very little, if any, being sold for speculation. Many inquiries are being made by containing the specific of the spe inquiries are being made by outsiders at the present time, and it is expected a at the present time, and it is expected a goodly amount is likely to be placed here by investors in the year 1894. The building improvements during 1893 were the largest in the history of the city. Real estate men all predict an advance in property early this spring.

Mr. E. Coyle, of Vancouver, B.C., and son of Mr. D. Coyle, one of Winnipeg's most respected citizens, has been spending Christmas with his parents, and we were pleased to notice that he was looking remarkably well. Our readers will doubtless remember him as one of the 90th best lacrosse players, and his handling of the crosse is a tradition among the boys to-day. Mr. Coyle proposes returning on Friday by way of San Francisco, and will take in the Midwinter Fair.

THE repeated rumors of the early publication of a new daily paper in Winnipeg have now taken definite Winnipeg have now taken definite shape. The prospectus of a new evening and weekly journal, to be called "The Nor-Wester" has been issued. As was expected, Mr. W. F. Luxton is founder, and some of the leading business men of the city figure as charter directors. It is to be hoped that the pressing need of the city for a thoroughly independent paper—independent of pressing need of the city for a thoroughly independent paper—independent of political parties or great corporations—will be supplied by this new venture, and we confidently anticipate its success. The first issue will be placed before the public during this present month.

We wish you a happy New Year.
This is now the universal salutation.
But something more than good wishes must be done this year. Good wishes are nice enough, but they mean little when the opportunity for doing practical work, now so apparent, is neglected. The time to help our worthy poor is now and the place is right here. A great work is being done in this commuwishing happiness? Let your good wishes for the happy New Year be some practical charity.
