The death of Captain Bedford Clapperton Trevelyan Pim, R. N., is announced. He was born on the 12th June, 1826. He held various commissions in the royal navy and was well known as a scientist of repute. In February, 1874. Captain Pim was returned as member of parliament for Gravesend. He was a magistrate for the county of Middlesex, a member of several scientific societies, a barrister-at-law, an associate of the institution of civil engineers and was proprietor of The Navy—the only newspaper and review devoted exclusively to the maritime interests of England. He was recently in Canada engaged in pushing his interoceanic canal scheme. For Goldwin Smith and wife have returned to Toronto from England.

trial. The trial was made during Decemwould have given this powder so severe a test, for everybody who keeps hens knows that they will not lay during these months except in rare cases. But the result of this trial was most satisfactory and conclusive. Hundreds of those who made the trial received 18 to 24 eggs per hen per month, while many got one egg a day from each hen. The price of eggs during December, January and February last, averaged 30 to 35 cents per dozen. Thus it will be seen that a very few hens each laying an egg a day would support a small family. I. MONTREAL, Sept. 30-On Tuesday orning a guard at the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary heard an unusual noise in the cell of Napoleon Cadieux, a noted convict. Upon approaching the guard done being concealed by the front row of bricks being again put in their proper places; for the offence Cadieux was sentenced by the warden to receive 36 lashes. The flogging took place on Thursday evening. The severity of the punishment s said to have made a very deep impres sion on the minds of the other convicts.
