The Czar and Emperor William Exchange Greetings on Board a Russian Yacht.

Reval, Russia, Aug. 6. - Emperor William of Germany arrived in the roadstead today. The shipping in the harbor was brilliantly decorated with bunting and garlands, and a spacious reception hall, lavishly furnished, had been erected on the quay. The Russian merchant squadron anchored in the harbor was dressed with flags. The czar, on the imperial yacht Standart, sailed early to meet the Hohenzollern, and the German emperor was transshipped to the Standart, which returned to port with the two emperors aboard, followed by the Hohenzollern, and the German cruisers Prinz Hein-rich and Nymphe. Soldier Gets a Bonny Bride and Bequest of $20,000 in One Day.

Chicago, Aug. 6 .- A twenty-minute courtship, a wedding within an hour, after the first meeting, and a legacy of $25,000, were the fortunes of Sergt. A. W. Harlis, Third United States Cavalry, in one day. The trilogy of happy events befell the soldier at Fort Sheridan, and before nightfall he was speeding to Wisconsin with his bride to round up his happiness on a cosy little farm there, which forms a part of his inheritance. The bride, who made up her mind CONTENTS OF SAFES TAKEN TORONTO LABY WEDS IN LONDON on the spur of the moment, and chose her husband almost before she had learned his name, is Miss Ella Mabel. ### WELCOME RAIN IN COLORADO

Relieves Water Famine in Denver, Helps Crops, Bothers Railroads.

Denver, Col., Aug. 6 .- A general rain has fallen all over Eastern Colorado. In many places it amounted to a cloudburst, washing out the railroad tracks. At Torcio, forty miles from Trinidad, the Colorado and Wyoming Railroad depot was moved from its foundations. At Manitou, the damage from a cloudburst accounted to $10,-000, while near Pueblo the damage will amount to $25,000.

The rain was of inestimable benefit to crops, and will relieve the water famine in Denver and other Colorado cities for a time at least.

Great Crops in Northwest. Ottawa, Aug. 6.—Mr. William Hutchinson, ex-M. P., who has just returned from a trip to the Pacific, says the crops in the Canadian northwest are the best yet. In Dakota the same rule applies, and wheat is king on both sides of the line. Montana, however, according to the Ottawa visitor, is a ruined, forlorn looking state, presenting to the eye a strip of khaki colored fields.

On the return of the regiment from maneuvers at lunch time the bandsmen were drummed out of the camp and dismissed the service by Lieut.-Col. Smith, the officer commanding, in the presence of the whole brigade. In a scathing speech Col. Smith remarked that the band refused to parade because they seemed to have discovered that bands in other regiments were receiving more remuneration for their services in camp. The band joined as volunteers, and were not entitled to be paid any more than any other member of the battalion. As he had intimated in the morning, he intended now to dismiss them with ignominy. Such a thing had never happened before in the annals of the regiment, but he could not show any clemency. The correspondent also says that from a mere money-making point of view there is much to be said in favor of the employment of hard-working Chinese, but in every other aspect the scheme is pernicious in the extreme, and if the attempt is seriously pushed the Government will have to intervene.

Arrangements have been made for the despatch of the first party, comprising fifty domestic servants and six dressmakers. The government provides five pounds of the cost of each woman's passage, and free railway transportation in the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies. The current wage of domestic servants in South Africa is $25 a month.

to prevent his flight. On June 28 Tracy killed Merrill near Napavine, Wash., by shooting him camp. Brig.-Gen. Gobin says the three from behind. He left the body in the forest, where it was found on July 15. On July 3, near Seattle, in a fight with a posse, Tracy shot and killed Charles Raymond, a deputy sheriff, and E. E. Bresse, a policeman, and mortally wounded Neil Rawley, who died on the following day.

He also wounded Carl Anderson and Louie Zafrite, a newspaper reporter. TRACY'S FEATS. Tracy committed many feats of daring during his flight, in the course of which he eluded various posses when apparently surrounded. He held up numerous farmers whom he forced to furnish him with food and clothing. By threats to murder their families he compelled them to cover up his tracks. Perhaps his greatest show of daring was on July 2 at South Bay, near Olympia, when he held up six men and forced four, including the captain of a large gasoline launch, to embark with him on Puget Sound and pilot him up stream for ten hours. In 1897 Tracy murdered Valentine Hoge, a Colorado cattleman and Wm. Strong, a boy, in the same state. REWARD OF $5,600. A total reward of $5,600 was offered for his arrest, Gov. McBride, of Washington, offering $2,500 for his capture dead or alive. The state of Oregon offered $3,000 and a brother of one of the guards killed at the penitentiary offered $100. The reward for Merrill's capture amounted to $1.500 which has been claimed by Mrs. Waggoner, a berry picker, and her son, who found the body near their home. CAPTURE WAS CERTAIN. Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6 .- In a fight with the sheriff's posse last night, Tracy was wounded in the right leg, between the knee and the thigh. Twenty minutes later, knowing that capture was certain, he killed himself with a revolver. His body was found in a wheat field this morning.

The Ministers Abroad.

Ottawa, Aug. 6 .- A letter received in the city from one in close connection with the Canadin ministers attending the colonial conference, states that there has been considerable progress made during the past two weeks. It is exnected, however, that the conference will last until the day before the coronation, when it is thought the deliberations will have been completed. The ministers will probably not leave for home until late in September. Hon. Mr. Paterson is booked by the Allan liner Tunisian, which sails from Liverpool on Sept. 11. It is expected that Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. Mr. Fielding will return about the same time. The premier and Six William Mulcok will return later.

Her work was too delicate for the appreciation of what the theatrical people name the public. Her work was too artistic not to captivate Nathaniel Hawthorns, Edmund, Clay. Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edmund Clarence Stedman, the most learned critics of literature, and at the other extreme, the people, the sailors and workmen practice in trade, day by day, order, measure and proportion.

Hawthorne said that no one expressed the character of New England as well as she, Stedman said that no one had her psychology of Massachusetts, and to those who had known her when she was a young observer in the seacoast towns where her ancestors had been shipbuilders for ages, she was admirable. But none had to be an artist or an artisan to know.

She could not remember an epoch when she had not loved him. The old poet, practically blind now, rested on her to find texts in his library or to walk in the streets. His forefathers had been sailors, hers shipbuilders, and be said, with a winning smile, that his being dependent upon her was in the natural order of things. natural order of things.

They were asked if they were not, because of their experience, in favor of artists marrying. They bent their white heads together and said, sadly: "No, not if they be sensitive artists, anxious not to deprive their children And one remembered painfully that Mr. Stoddard had not written anything subjective since the death of his first son, and that he and his wife were still deploring the death of Lorimer Stoddard, their son, who was in the way of becoming a great playwright.

Mrs. Stoddard's kindness was as extraordinary as her genius. In her books she has expressed her race so well that one may not travel in Massachuetts without finding there, at every step, a detail noted by her. If Massachusetts vanished entirely it would be preserved forever, an imperishable mummy in the cloths of her books Simplicity, emotion, love of humanity, that are in the depths of all poetry, were flush in her poems. THE LONDON ADVERTISER COM-PANY (Limited.) LONDON, ONTARIO.

London, Wednesday, August 6. American Fishermen Alarmed.

Gloucester (Mass.) Times sees lisaster to the New England fisheries union of Newfoundland with Canada. Gloucester is the center of the American fishery interests on the North Atlantic coast, and the Times is a recognized authority on fishery matters. The result of the union, the Times argues, would be to transfer the undivided control of the North Atlantic fisheries to Ottawa, and the Gloucester and Boston fleets would goon find themselves deprived of the right to enter Newfoundland and Nova Scotia waters to purchase bait. The Times goes on to say:

"As an example of the value of New-Coundland's bait supply, not alone to the United States, but also to the Canadian vessels fishing on the Grand Banks, it is only necessary to point out that while 66 Gloucester schooners procured licenses in Newfoundland waters last season to buy bait, no less than 99 Canadian vessels did the same, so it will readily be seen what en immense boon it will be to the Dominion to obtain control—absolute and direct-of this important lever in controlling the deep sea fisheries of the North Atlantic. It is impossible to suppose, then, in view of the well-known attitude of the Ottawa Cabinet on this bait fishery question, that Canada will refrain from 'put-ting the screws on,' if she can absorb in one week would mean a considerthis colony. That will mean that the New Eng and fishermen must prepare themselves to face a completely altered fishery situation. If they are forbided fishery situation. If they are forbidden access to the bait supplies, their industry must be crippled. If they concede reciprocity to Canada in fish products, the stocks of fish which will be sent from the Maritime Provinces (then including Newfoundland) will be so great as to compel a lowering of the price of the American caught article and a correspondcan-caught article, and a corresponding decline in the profits of the American interests involved. Canada is seeking new markets for her fish; the United States is doing the same; the power which holds possession of bait supply, which alone makes the industry possible, will be able to dictate its own terms to the other. Nor is this the worst phase of the subject. The winter herring fishery, now almost exclusively controlled by the Americans who go to Newfoundland every winter and carry away about $250,000 worth of this fish, would then either by absolutely forbidding the Americans to engage in it or by imposing an export tax on herring shipped in foreign bottoms, which would assuredly compel the Americans to abandon the industry. The herring fishery is almost indispensable to the Atlantic States, because the herring are the main source of bait for the early fisheries on the southern banks, and also are in general demand as an edible as far west as Chicago. The present American tariff, which imposes a duty of Into United States ports in foreign bottoms, makes it impossible for the Newfoundland or Canadian fishermen o engage in this industry under existing conditions, but should Newfoundand enter the Dominion, it would then be possible to turn the tables on the Americans and control the fishery from argument for union from the standpoint of Canadian interests. It is quite true that if the full control of the deepjea fisheries passed to Ottawa, as it would in the event of union, the Amrican fishermen would be able to conlinue their present scale of operations on the sufferance of the Canadian Sovernment. The latter could take Ldvantage of this dependence on the Danadian bait supply to compel the United States to place fish on the free list or grant some reciprocal favor in the American market. This the Washington Government has always refused to do, because it could make terms with Newfoundland without consulting Dominion. There is some excuse. therefore, for the apprehension of the Cloucester Times that the absorption of Newfoundland would be a good thing for the Canadian fisheries. The Nimes virtually admits it would be a good thing also for the American Asheaters, as Canadian competition

The Mosquito. There has been a plague and eruption of mosquitoes this season, due to the prolonged spell of wet weather. Londoners may find comfort in the act that the pest is everywhere the same. The Jersey mosquito, supposed to be the worst of the tribe, has been the subject of scientific investigation by the state entomologist of New Jerjey and he has thrown a great deal of light on its habits. He finds that the thousands of little pools, ponds. and ditches in the marshes, which the lides do not leave empty and which hold more or less stagnant water the year round, are the breeding places. He has found them so crowded with mosquito larvae that a pool 10x15 feet would produce 1,000,000 mosquitoes at one hatching. As there are thousands of these pools in the Jersey as well as in all other marshes, it is impossible to conceive of the number of mosquitoes produced in a single summer The remedy is to fill up the marsh depressions and shake petroleum over the pools so as to prevent the larvae this refers only to marsh districts whereas mosquitoes are as numerous weather when the mosquitoes do. It looks as if city people will have to be content with trying to cure mosquito bites, since preventing them is out of the question.

Girls and Domestic Economy. The local board of education last night decided to introduce domestic science in the collegiate institute. This is a step in advance, although tardily taken. Domestic science in the schools has passed the experimental stage and its general adoption is only a question of time. The results at the London Normal School have been pronounced highly satisfactory by teachers and parents of the pupils.

Domestic training of some kind should be a part of every girl's edu-, cation. The course at the schools presents it in an attractive form and tends to cultivate an interest in practical household duties which are not as popular in the present day as they might be. Perhaps the prevailing scarcity of domestic help is not without its uses if it compels a closer attention to kitchen details by "the lady of the house." Whether she can afford help or not, the art of management is equally necessary and she who possesses it is more precious than rubies. A scientific training in domestic economy will make a girl more

Holidays Galore.

The majority of the big retail merclose on Saturday, and it is likely there will be no general observance of coronation day in the city. Two holidays able loss, not only to the retail trade, but to the manufacturers and the workingmen, as many of the factories are running overtime to eatch up with orders. The city council might have met the difficulty by postponing Civic Holiday until Monday next, when the coronation celebration could have been combined with it. As it is, there will be the same confusion as on May 24, when the stores remained open but practically lost the Saturday trade because the bulk of the population was holidaying and there was no market. The merchants do not feel disposed to lose another Saturday's business, having already closed one day this week. The situation will cause a great deal of public inconvenience.

Welland county has had two cybe closed to them also. The Canadians clones within a year. If this is to conroothouse should be a feature of very well-ordered farm.

The Kingston Whig says that the vertical system of writing is the only public schools, and it has been very satisfactory because it has received the special attention of a writing master. The Whig declares the vertical style is half a cent a pound on all fish brought | more easily acquired, and can be more rapidly and legibly written than the Spencerian. There is a wide difference of opinion on that point. A competent writing master would produce good results with either system.

An English noblewoman has addressed an open letter to President Roosevelt calling attention to "the shocking and inhuman toleration of child labor in America." In the southern cotton mills in the past ten years the number of men increased 79 per cent., the number of women 158.3 per cent., and of children 270.7 per cent. Louisiana, Kentucky and Tennessee have declared against child labor, but Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas still tolerate it. Many of the children in the cotton factories are under eight years of

A Minneapolis paper says that the spread of rural mail delivery is ruining the country tavern business through out the State. The tavern keepers claim that under the old regime the farmers would drive into town daily to collect their mail in the good, oldfashioned way, and would then adjourn to the tavern and gossip, or swap stories. This led to a prolonged stay, and much drinking and treating. By the working of the rural delivery all this trade has been done away with, and the revenues of the taverns much diminished in consequence.

John Keats. John Keats was born at London in 1795. He studied medicine, but after passing his examinations he never practiced. About this time he became acquainted with Shelley, Leigh Hunt, and Haydon. In 1820 he went to Napes on account of his health, and from there to Rome, where he died in 1821. His longer poems are: "En dymion" (which poem was most severely criticised at the time of its publication), "Lamia," "Isabella," and "The Eve of Saint Agnes."

DOMESTIC SCIENCE WILL BE TAUGHT AT THE INSTITUTE

Introduce It.

Some Trustees Oppose It, as They Say Funds Are Too Low.

Domestic science has at last won out. After struggling gamely for several made by Trustee MacRobert and sec-years to gain a permanent foothold onded by Trustee Strong, that No. 2 upon the school curriculum of this city it has finally been placed there and will be taught after the beginning of this approaching term. The board of education decided to establish this department at the collegiate institute at their meeting held last night, the vote being eight for it and five against it. Those who opposed it—Trustees Dromgole, McLean, Teasdall, Birtwistle and Colerick-did not disapprove of the scheme upon its merits. At least they did not express themselves Their antagonism existed because of their belief that the funds of the board will not be sufficient to allow the new subject to be introduced. Trustees MacRobert, Evans, English, Gammage, Macpherson, Hamilton, Strong and Gillean favored the new study. They believed that there are sufficient funds and that even if there are not sufficient to carry it through for a year, it can be supported until the new year, when further provision for its support can be made. Apart from this they believed that domestic science should be taught, that the people want it and expect it. "It's the whole drift," so Trustee MacRobert put , after the matter had been brought up, and the other trustees who favored it seemed to agree that it was not only the whole drift but a drift in the right direction. Trustee Strong said that Principal Radeliffe was very anxious to have domestic science taught at the institute. Mr. Strong himself believed that the time is ripe for it. So also did Trustee Macpherso who said that it was the practical kind of education that they should give the pupils. Mr. Macpherson has been an advocate of this for years. He was one of the very small number of trustees that supported Mrs. Boomer when the championing of domestic

Board of Education Decides to that it was feasible at that time. He believes that it is now and last night stood up for it, not simply upon his own convictions, but as we'll, because he believes that the people want it. Trustee Gillean and Trustee Gammage were equally favorable to it, each be lieving that the new department could be financed all right. Mr. Gammage suggested that the girls of the upper classes at the public schools be taught as well as those at the institute.

A vote was taken upon a motion committee be instructed to make the necessary arrangements for teaching domestic science, beginning in September and upon an amendment made by Trustees Colerick and Birtwistle, that the matter be referred to next year's board. The latter was lost and the motion carried.

Applications for the position of teacher of domestic science were received from Miss A. M. Butchart and Miss C. G. McIntosh, of this city, and Miss Violet McCully, of St. Marys. Applications for position on the kindergarten staff were received from Miss Gertrude Bapty, of this city; Miss E. J. Graff, of Berlin; Miss Ede line Perry, Fergus; Miss Isabella Grant and Miss Annie Grant. Upon Inspector Carson's mendation, the Misses Grant and Miss Bapty were given appointments at St. George's school and Chesley avenue

Coldstream, Aug. 6 .- A rare occaof some 80 of the inhabitants of Coldstream and vicinity on the evening of July 31 at the home of George O. Zavitz and his son-in-law, John E. Bycraft. The proceedings of the evening were refreshingly varied, and never be fore has the writer observed on such an occasion more harmony in variety. The host and hostess did not wait until the company arrived before they showed the warmth of the welcome. It beamed forth from the brilliant lights hung in the trees of the grove to light the winding way. And how can warm welcome be shown better than by thoughtful care? In the early part of the evening games and plays as a means of introduction were engaged in on the roomy lawn. The young people pursued pastimes suited to their pe-culiar fancy, and the children, unmo-lested, had theirs, while the older people, looking on, enjoyed as keenly as any the antics, and the grace of their own selves rising up in the new generation. But the scene was chang-

Recitations and music and speeches, and witty anecdotes from the chair, delighted the audience; but the important affair of the evening, the long-to-be-remembered scene, was the presentation of a gold watch to Miss Georgia Zavitz. A fitting address was read by A. Roy Marsh, while the presentation was made by little Esther Bycraft, with the flaxen hair. The reipient, in a neatly worded and feelingy expressed reply, thanked the donors for the beautiful gift, which would be not only exceedingly useful but an ever present reminder of loving friends in the land of her birth. Miss Zavitz, at the midsummer examinations graduated from Macedon High School

The youthful company arranged in attractive and attracted clusters of two and more, in family groups, present and prospective, ample justice to the sandwiches, cakes and lemonade. At a wee hour in the morning the company, especially the older portions, very reluctantly counsel to the young to be home early from parties will have very little effect for some time to come. But finally the lights went out and all was quie on the hill.

U. S. Consul Culver's Dispatch to the Authorities at Washington.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6 .- A Washington dispatch says: "In a report to the state department, United States Consul Culver, at London, Ont., says that the arrangement lately made between the Pere Marquette and the Lake Erie and Detroit Railway Companies will doubtless prove of vast importance to Western Ontario.

"By this agreement the Pere Marquette Company secures the right to run trains over the Lake Erie and Detroit River tracks from Sarnia to Rondeau and Port Stanley, Ont., where it will connect with the car ferry from Conneaut, Ohio, thus making a short cut from the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to the Bessemer and Lake Erie road and the Eastern States.

This man—this Latimer! O God! that he should bear that name! How it tore him to think of it! this Latimer, then, must have been pear it very often. In the course of his wild adventurous career he must have learned to look upon it without terror, careely with aversion; must have preared many a time for the shock—nav, it was but one of the chances and caspalties to which all were liable pone nore so than those who were traveling

So different with different men is the standard of crime; and the bushranger would camp at night with but little additional remorse that he had one more murder on his conscience. Suppose such a thing were to happen? Suppose some merciles ruffian were to come upon him now in his sleep, and there were none to help, and the bedy were taken away and hid-den! Then would today be as if it had never been. Then would he Gilbert Orme, never been. Then would he, Gilbert Orme, be once more as he was when he awoke this morning, a time that seemed to be centuries ago. There would still be a fair world for him, and a laughing sky, and a hopeful future, and heaven at the end. Who was this man that he should seemed between him and his sensible, unimaginative sort of person, there have come between him and his thus have come between him and his happiness?—a happiness the man himself had voluntarily resigned and abandoned. What right had he to the rose he had thrown willfully away, the gem of which he never knew never could have known, the value? Then he thought of the brightness of the gem, the sweetness of the flower; thought of her as he saw her the first time they ever met; the last time, when she blessed him while they parted; and his brain reeled and "his inishment was greater than he could bear."
Unless he was dead! Gilbert Ornie felt of the quick turn of John's wrist as his

It was a relief from the crushing effects of the blow from the crushing effects of the blow he had sustained, to reflect on any other subject in the world, most of all on this. If he had not been an educated man and a gentleman; nay, if he had even been inured to scenes of blood and violence, it would not seem so impracticable to get rid of that sleeping man. Not while he slept—oh, no! that would be cowardice added to crime; but a brave, unscrupulous spirit might surely wake his enemy, and so, giving him an equal chance prapple with him to the death. When was it, then, but a life taken in fair fight, after all? It would be easy to tall him a bushranger, and talk about an attempt at violence and a resolute call him a bushranger, and talk about an attempt at violence and a resolute defense. grind.

He saw the pretty breakfast-room in the old house at West Acres, with his father's portrait on the wall, and windows opening to the park, where the old trees were bursting into a tender green, and the deer leaping among the fern the fair spring sunshine. He saw a gen lady sweeping in with her own grace and caim, matronly smile, to take her rightful place opposite his chair, where the light rippled off her shining where the light rippled off her shining tresses, and the deep, soft eyes grew deeper and softer in the shade. He saw little children with the dear mother's face playing around her, clinging to the soft hand, or helding by the muslin folds of that simple morning-dress. He saw the neatness, the order, and the sacred beauty of a home; far off he saw the gradual descent into the vale of tears, and the gates of heaven shining yonder on the mountain, and the long pathway they would travel hand in hand. Then he looked down and saw Latimer sleepne looked down and saw Latimer sleeping, more stilly, more heavily than ever man slept yet, unless he were dead. He put the knife back into its sheath. He put the knife back into its sheath.

A new thought struck him—he was mad—he knew he was mad; and yet he could reason now calmly, logically, and by consequence. The revolver was the more efficient weapon; one touch to its trigger and the thing was done. He possessed himself of Latimer's pistol and examined it carefully. All five chambers were readed; one of them would be sufficient.

but the purpose; he would be no murderer-not he! but this man and himself should have an equal chance for life. Thus he argued: they could not both live and be happy; one must give way; fate should determine the victim. He would draw lots, his own life against this man's-a murder or a suicide—and abide by the issue! Ha, ha! Was that mocking laugh from heaven or hell? Did it come from the bush behind him, or the sleeper at his feet? Surely not from his own lips? Again it was repeated harshly, distinctly. Laugh on, good devil, laugh on! We are busy about your work; we will come to you for our wages by-and-bye.

That laugh of Gilbert's must have disturbed him, for the sleeper stirred and turned, and muttered indistinctly. Even, and though his finger was on the trigger latter.

turned, and muttered indistinctly. Even then his enemy hoped it was a prayer, and though his finger was on the trigger he stooped down to listen. Latimer must have been dreaming, for he said, "Ada, Ada," twice over, and, breathing heavily, was immediately asleep again.

The words acted on Gilbert like a spell.

was immediately asleep again.
The words acted on Gilbert like a spell.
His whole frame shook and shivered; he laid the pistol on the ground quite gently and sat down confused and breathless. It is the felt faint and sick at heart. The man belonged to Ada, after all, and he would have killed him—killed Ada's husband!—one whom she at least had cherished and valued, who had loved her, who perhaps loved her even now. Killed him! oh, no! He must have been mad; he, who would prize a dog for Ada's sake. He felt kindly now toward the very man against whom he had well-nigh lifted a "murderer's hand but one short minute back. For Ada's sake! Never till that moment had he known how much he loved her. Does the brightness of heaven, think ye, glow with half such splendor to the exulting seraphim as to the poor lost spirit, turning sadly from the light to its own pertion of darkness for evermore?

Then the reaction came on, and he fled into the bush and threw blosself or the cartely greetings had been ex-the light to its own portion of darkness for evermore?

Then the reaction came on, and he fled into the bush and threw himself on his face in the long grass and wept tears of blood. God help him! had he fallen on his knees and thanked his Maker for his deliverance from the guilt of murder, crying aloud for mercy, that the rod might be spared, the burden lightened, if ever such a little—I think even then it had been the saving of my boy.

John Gordon came back with the fresh horses, as he had promised, and day after day the three men journey on together in brotherly kindness and goodfellowship through the bush; but when Gilbert arrived at Sydney there were white hairs in the soft brown beard, and white hairs in the soft brown beard, and a wistful look in the worn, anxious face that had never been there before and that never left it afterward.

CHAPTER XXX.

Happiness is a wondrous beautifier. No cordial or cosmetic has ever yet been invented to impart such a luster to the eyes, such a brilliancy to the skin. Uneyes, such a brilliancy to the skin. Under its influence even the withered branch seems to blossom into leaf; how much more, then does it enhance the bloom of seems to blossom into leaf; how much more, then, does it enhance the bloom of a flower glowing in its summer prime! As Ada walked along the streets, people turned round to look at her. There was a buoyancy in her gait, a brightness in her glance, a color in her cheek, that betrayed a heart overflowing with its own deep sense of joy. And well might she be happy. Was she not a woman, and had she not won the treasure which is a woman's most coveted possession? They can do very well without it. I have not lived to the age at which "grizzling hair the brain doth clear," to subscribe to the aphorisms of poets and romancers, who affirm that love is the essence of female existence. Not a bit of it. I know hundreds, and so do you, who tread the daily path contentedly enough, unscathed by the arrows of the mischievous boy, and scarcely even brushed by his wings, just as I have seen many a sweet flower reared in a dark, close chamber, watered from a broken jug, and screened by envious chimney-pots from the genial rays of the morning sun. But, of course, if you transplant the flower into a garden, if you place her where she can bask in the smiles of the day-god, and open her petals to the showers of heaven, she will out-bloom her former self in her new prosperity, even as bleak, barren March is out-bloomed by the merry month of June.

Ada was no longer young. I mean

June.

Ada was no longer young. I mean that her heart and intellect were mathat her heart and intellect were ma-tione through this trackless Australian vilderness. He himself ran the same tide of her womanhood. As a girl her vilderness. He himself ran the same risk. Truly in such a country a man may be said to carry his life in his hand. Was it really so valuable a possession? Could one more or less, indeed, make so much difference in the great scheme?

Unless he was dead! If he was dead he would hardly look different, lying there so still. How easy it would be for a bushranger, or such lawless brigand to rob him as he slept! How easy if he woke to quiet him forever; how simple to dig a hole down yonder in the mud by the winding creek, and hide all evidence of the crime! A bushranger would do it for lieve. Alas! that in such endeavors the success is seldom in proportion to the effort! Alas! that the hot-house flower should be difficult to force, while the corresponding weed we would fain eradicate spreads and germinates and thrives the more for all our labor to cut it down and tear it out and trample it to the ground!

When Ada's husband left her she felt alone in the world, and the sensation was rather a relief. When she heard of his death at Sydney, the few natural tears she dropped were soon dried, and it seemed to her no novel nor altogether unwelcome situation to be isolated and self-dependent. She had no near relatives sensible, unimaginative sort of person, for whom the matter-of-fact and the practical were all in all—she, with her father's warm, generous heart, and her mother's dreamy German temperament, and her own soft, kindly disposition! How little we know ourselves! Why, at one time of her life, when she began giving lessons to Lady Gertrude, she was actually distrustful of her own beauty, thought she was losing her caller and thought she was losing her color and growing old, pondered on the effect a few years would have, and wished her out-ward appearance as different as possible, like a fool as she was.

JUSTICE

Is portrayed as a woman, yet her sex might complain that they get scant benefit of her powers. There is little justice, it would seem, in the suffering that many women undergo month after month

Justice acts upon the legal maxim that ignorance of the law cannot be pleaded in mitigation of punishment. It is ignorance which causes so much womanly suffering. Ignorance of the requirements of womanly health: ignorance on the part of those who attempt to cure and fail, and ignorance of the fact that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains. heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Rank Selling Plater Won the Classic

After hearty greetings had been exchanged, play commenced. Twenty-one ends were bowled, and it was a tugof-war from start to finish. The score see-sawed, and the winner could not be picked until the last end was played. The Carletons bowled with as much seriousness as though they were still mindful of their poor showing at the London tournament, and were determined to even up matters with the Londoners, even though they could not get at any of the other clubs against whom they were pitted at the tourney. With the beautiful weather and the sportsmanlike good-feeling of the players, the game was watched with real When the last end had been pleasure. played at 6:10, St. Thomas had wen good skip, and with his long and strong right put several of Wood's left-hand shots out of business. Every time a ball rolled off the west someone was sure to suggest that it was showing the way to the brewery. George McColl played a steady game and was never far away from the "kitty." He was leading for Glenn's rink and had a strong opponent.

How aggravating it was when Horton was just getting ready to count on one "end" a half-dozen shots, to have the last ball of the opposing skip come

On No. 1 rink the St. Thomas four started the last end with the score one against them. So it remained until the last ball was delivered by the governor, and that ball was a winner, although it was such a close thing that the measuring string was necessary to decide it. The score on that rink was 19

THE TURF AT SARATOGA.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 6.-Par Excelence, quoted at 40 to 1, a selling plater of only ordinary class, won the Classic Alabama stakes for 3-year-old fillies in a hard drive by a neck from the 30 to 1 shot, Lux Casta. The result was one of the greatest upsets of the present racing year. Whitney's Gunfire was an odds-on favorite, but she, together with Hatasoon, was raced into the ground before the head of the stretch was reached, and both were badly beaten at the end, Josepha finishing third. The start of the race at the clubhouse stand caused a lot of crowding. Par Excellence and Femesole coming together, the latter being thrown out of her stride. The California owned and bred two-year-old Alsono gave a great exhibition of speed in the opening dash, making up a gap of 20 lengths and winning by a eck from Boutonoirle. The track was fast, Zoroaster running a mile in 1:39%, establishing a new record for the course. The attendance numbered over 4.000. Three favorites won. Sum-

AT HARLEM.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—McChesney, the much-touted colt backed from even money to 4 to 5 was badly beaten in the third race at Harlem yesterday, a six furlong sprint. McChesney, who was recently sold for $15,000, met with a bad fall at the former meeting at Harlem, and this was his first start since then. The accident prevented him starting in the American derby, in which he was one of the ante-post favorites. SIEVER'S RIVAL.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.] Billy Dineen, the clever pitcher of the Boston American Club, can lay claim to being the star hardluck twirler on the diamond today. For several seasons he has been unfortunate in losing games by one run, and this year has been no exception. Many baseball students consider Dineen the best pitcher in the business today, and it is seldom that a club's hits reach two figures when Dineen is in the box. He was born at Syracuse, N. Y., April 5, 1876, and began his professional career with Toronto in 1895. In 1898 he went to Washington and was sold to the Boston National League Club and jumped to the American from that

YE GAME OF BOWLS. [Woodstock Express.]

We take the following in praise of bowling from the London Advertiser: "One virtue about lawn bowling is that it has no deadline. It is somewhat different with other sports. The majority of the leading citizens of London played baseball in their youth, but stealing bases and chasing flys in the outfield ceased to be fun, and they now prefer it from the grand stand. Lacrosse is no game for mature years. Lawn tennis requires a high degree of mobility and good wind. Ping-pong is indoors, and warm work in summer. Bicycling has lost its charm. After years of success in America, George Dixon, once the premier feather-weight boxer of the world, is about to try his luck in old England. The Britishers have read and heard a good deal about Dixon, and perhaps he will strike it lucky while abroad, comments a Philadelphia writer. If he takes care of himself it may be possible for him to train and get back into something like his old-time form, If he can do this there is a chance for him to get good money before he returns home. An attempt to overshadow the magnificent battle between Jim Jeffries and Bob Fitzsimmons by the cry of fake proved a dismal failure, and the public at large is now willing to bow to the champion and compliment Fitz for his wonderful fight, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. ### FOOD TREATMENT.

Old Stomachs Made Over.

Improper medicine knocks out as many stomachs as bad food, but proper food will nearly always restore the health that Nature intended. "I suffered with chronic constipation for a long time, and two years ago became an invalid, being unable to retain anything on my stomach," says Mrs. F. M. Buss, of Millersburg, Ky.
"Physicians pronounced it catarrh of the stomach and bowels. In fact, the entire alimentary canal was involved, caused, they said, by continued use of purgatives. For several weeks I could not retain more than a teaspoonful of any kind of fluid at any time, and at this stage of my illness a friend suggested that I try Grape-Nuts. "I commenced by taking only a tea-spoonful at a time of the water poured, while boiling, over two teaspoonfuls of the Grape-Nuts. In five days I was able to digest a teaspoonful of the Grape-Nuts themselves, and in less than a month could digest an ordinary meal. I can eat anything now, after having used Grape-Nuts for nearly two years, and am entirely cured of constipation. It is a wholesome, pure and inexpensive food."

The following interesting sketch of Mr. John McClary and the great business he has built up is found in the Montreal Herald of Saturday last, as part of a series of sketches of Canada's leading men: Mr. John McClary, of London, Ont., the head of the McClary Manufacturing Company, is essentially a selfmade man, and is an excellent model for any ambitious young man of the rising generation.

Mr. McClary was born 73 years ago, at Niletown, in Middlesex county, Ontario, only a few miles from the city where his immense factories are situated, the product of which have made the name of "McClary" famous from ocean to ocean. Trustee Waterman Resents Criticism of "Ratepayer" and Others in Daily Press.

The board of trustees or Victoria Hospital met in regular session at the hospital yesterday, the members present being Chairman McCormick, Trustees McLeod and Waterman, Superintendent Heard. A couple of hours was occupied in transacting hospital business, none of which was of striking importance. Among the afternoon's proceedings were Trustee Waterman's protest against recent criticism of himself and certain members of the trust and the staff, the appointment of Dr. J. Knox Niven as house surgeon at the hospital, to suc-Dr. Hugh McGugan's resignation of the position of house surgeon at the hospital was accepted, he having left to take charge of a lucrative practice at Alvinston.

Trustee Waterman, in commenting on the resignation, expressed himself rather strongly. He said that the incident should teach the board to keep the appointment of house surgeons in their own hands and not let the medical school dictate to them as to whom should be appointed. Some of the appointees think they are at liberty to play fast and loose with the positions given them. Mr. Waterman thought that the house surgeons on appoint-ment should sign an agreement to stay the whole term of their engagement. As a lesson to them, he was prepared to move that Dr. McGugan's resignation be not accepted, but that he be con-sidered discharged.

The appointment of a successor to McGugan was then taken Dr. Only one name was mentioned up. that of Dr. J. Knox Niven, M.D.C.M. who returned a week ago from South Africa, where he was a hospital sergeant with the Second C. M. R. The appointment should prove a popular one, as the public will approve of this method of rewarding men who have served their country in South Africa. Dr. Niven will assume his new duties on Monday next. Trustee Waterman waxed indignant over some letters which have been appearing in the daily press of late. He referred especially to one signed by "Ratepayer." This letter, Mr. Waterman said, was full of lies, deceit and hypocrisy, and he threatened to expose the writer of it. The statement that the rates for private rooms had been raised was false, the only change for the lowest-priced rooms being from $5 per week to 75 cents per day, an increase for the week of 25 cents. Patients in the wards can have their own physicians on showing good reasons for such attendance, and no fees

Chairman McCormick thought it unwise to pay any attention to the letters which appear in the papers from time to time.

The matter was then dropped. Supt. Head asked the trust for directions in the matter of the hospital surgeons. Only one of the four appointed recently has been in attendance at the hospital, and the duties board directed Supt. Heard to request the surgeons to attend the hospital. If they do not do so new apointments will be made at the next meeting of

James F. Grocott, a former emplove of the hospital, wrote protesting against the report that he had been discharged from the hospital 'ecause of drunkenness. He had left, he said, because of the officiousness of some of the hospital employes, and because of favoritism on the part of some members of the board.

The letter was filed. A. Screaton & Co.'s tender to supply 23 window shades at $19 39 was accepted.

Supt. Heard's report showed that from July 14 to Aug. 4 there were admitted to the hospital 33 males, 26 females and 17 children, a total of 76. and his mother was Miss Sally Stark, foundry the aldermen readily granted The number of patients discharged were 25 males, 26 females and 17 children, or 65 in all.
