Moore's Maliciousness

Stabbed James Robinson and Gets 18 Months in the Central.

Hinks Moore Goes to Jail for Two Months - The Plea of Provocation and Self-Defense of No Avail,

The Newbury stabbing case was disposed of this morning by Judge Wm. Elliot. On Saturday afternoon, a number of witnesses were called both for James Robinson in the abdomen with a pocket knife on the night of Dec. 30. Both men had been drinking, and the affair grew out of Hinks Moore's assault upon George Robinson.

Judge Effiot, in addressing Wm. Moore, the older prisoner, a man of about 50 years, said there was no doubt that he had stabbed Robinson. His ground of defense rested upon provocation, but the judge could not accept that. Moore had sworn that had he not used the knife, his life would have been in danger. That he could not accept, as he did not think there was sufficient provocation for the act of stabbing a man with a weapon like a pocket knife, and that such In reply to the judge's question as to what he had to say, Moore said: "I had provocation, and if I had not used

An Awful Condition of Affairs in India.

Plague Follows Close on the Heels of Famine.

Food Enough to Last Until April Must be Provided.

Mortality at Bombay Frightful - Europe in a State of Alarm.

Bombay, Jan. 16 .- Plague and famine are stalking arm in arm through densly populated portions of the British empire, thousands are dead or dying, and the outlook becomes more terrible every day. Millions of helpless men, women and children are starving, and the famine-stricken district, having a population of nearly 40,000,000 people, will have to depend upon the hand of charity for food enough to keep body and soul together until April or later. Other districts with a population numbering about 50,000,000 are already feeling the pangs of bitter privation from food, and this must be endured well on into spring before permanent relief will be afforded by nature. Funds for the relief of the sufferers are being raised on all sides; but a very large amount of money will be needed to provide food even for these unfortunate people who live on almost nothing, in comparison with Europeans and others, from one end of the year to another. THE TERRIBLE PLAGUE.

This calamity, awful as it is in its intensity, is possible not much greater than the ravages of the dreadful bubonic plague here, which is threat-ening to spread, through the fright of the natives of this city, into other parts of India, and if it reaches the greatly weakened famine sufferers, the mortality may be enormous. The natives have been reduced by lack of food to little less than living skeletons in the most heavily stricken districts, and as such they cannot but fall victims by the thousand to the black plague, which threatens to in-vade Europe through the Mecca pilgrims and other sources for the spread of contagion. The mortality here has quadrupled, without counting the deaths which have occurred among the hundreds of thousands of people who have fled in terror from Bombay, in may cases abandoning their all in the hurried flight from the pestilence.

BOMBAY DEPOPULATED.

Up to recently Bombay, with its population of about 850,000, enjoyed the reputation of being one of the healthiest cities in India, its sanitary works being equal to those of the European capitals. But all this has changed. More than half the population have disappeared, and those who remain are either helpless or cannot get away, or are crowding out of the city by rail, or else contemplate so doing unless there is a change for the better shortly. The Government officials are seriously alarmed, the native physicians have nearly all left the city, business is paralyzed, and mills are closed or closing, the streets are partly deserted, and on all sides are empty houses, boarded up, or wide open, the passage of funeral parties through the streets goes on day and night. The ghats light the skies with their reflections, and line after line of bodies there or at the paree burial spots await consignment to the a salutary effect upon the populace, WHITESIDE AT THE GRAND which might otherwise start rioting and looting. It is also suggested that the whole city should be isolated, and the exodus be prevented by a strong cordon of troops and armed steamers.

There are people who go so far as to strongly advocate that the only radical cure is to drive the remaining natives from the quarter of the city inhabited by them, apply the torch to their habitations, and burn every place there to the ground. They point to the fact in support of this policy, that no amount of disinfecting work will wipe out the horrible scourge, as the rats and even the ants, it is claimed, are infected, and will carry the pestilence far and wide unless the fire cure is adopted. If this is done, and it does not seem unlikely, the whole of the remaining native population will be driven out by the troops to an immense camp, which will have been previously prepared for them. There the natives will be compelled to remain until the plague is stamped out or works its worst among the unfortunates.

The camp at Andheri is in a particularly unhealthy state, and an outbreak of cholera there seems certain, in addition to a visitation of the plague. Water is scarce, and what there is of it is filthy. Many of the refugees, alarmed by the deaths which have already occurred there, have fled Official reports show that the famine district in India already cludes a population of 81,000,000, and that the number of natives employed on relief works will soon exceed 3,000,-000. The prices of imported food in Bengal are high, traders taking advantage of the chance to make private fortunes.

EUROPE ALARMED.

From the European point of view, the plague is a matter of graver concern than the famine. All the con-tinental governments are adopting precautionary measures at the and imports from India of rags, linen and other articles capable of conveying germs are prohibited, and it is announced that an European conference will be held at Rome to consider the adoption of combined measures to prevent the plague from invading Europe. The Russian Government has sent doctors to Persia to watch the progress of the disease, and if it appears in either Persia, Afghanistan or Kash-gar, the Russian frontier will be immediately closed.

The Clever Young Tragedian as Eugene Aram and Shylock.

The brilliant young tragedian, Walker Whiteside, paid his regular visit to London Saturday, appearing in two roles that he has not heretofore presented here. The matinee performance was a dramatization of "Eugene Aram" by Paul Kester and Mr. Whiteside himself. This thrilling story of real life, rendered immortal by Lytton, in prose, and Hood, in verse, has been admirably adapted to the stage, and makes a tragedy of absorbing, though melancholy, interest. Mr. Whiteside is to be commended upon this valuable addition to his repertoire, and upon his masterly conception of the title role. It is subtle and powerful, and has a cumulative intensity which bursts with splendid effect in the grewsome climax of the confession. In the evening, Mr. Whiteside es-sayed Shylock, and won the admiration of a most enthusiastic audience, who recalled him again and again. For a young man, the impersonation was the more remarkable. Mr. Whiteside takes the softer and more ideal interpretation of Shylock. He does not make him a fiend incarnate, but ra-ther an object of pity than of scorn, by accentuating the few redeeming traits of his character, and by laying his vengeance to the contumely heaped upon him and his race by his Christian adversaries. Mr. Whiteside received competent support. Miss Lucia Moore made a charming Portia—sprightly, tender, mandy and womanly. Mr. Hermin's Bassanio had the necessary dash and fire, and Mr. Tanner's Young Gobbo was an excellent bit of comedy. Mr. Whiteside and his company will always be welcomed to London.

(By The Advertiser's Special Reporter.) A large number of the yeomanry in the vicinity of Elderton greeted the Farmers' Institute on Friday and showed their sympathy in the work and their willingness to learn, and thus benefit themselves financially, socially, and intellectually.

The meeting opened at 1:45 p.m., the president, Mr. R. H. Harding, in the chair.

FERTILIZING THE FARMS. "How to improve the fertility of farms" was the subject introduced by Mr. R. Harcourt, B.S.A., Guelph. Land, he said, is made up of decomposed rock and humus, or vegetable matter. To have this humus in the soil seems to be the key to keeping up the fertility of a farm. The advantages of this humus are: (1.) It enables soils, especially sandy ones, to hold moisture like new or virgin soils. (2.) It helps to bind together tion renders the soil warmer and admits the air. (7.) It makes the soil | it.

A GREAT MISTAKE. Farmers make a great mistake in selling their ashes, which make a better fertilizer than any upon the market. On no crop are you likely to see better result from the application of ashes than on clover, He advised the farmers to experiment in this. Potash is also good on small fruits and potatoes. Regarding commercial fertilizers, he recommended that they go slow-each man should experiment for himself, as soils were so varied.

GOOD ROTATION.

As an example of a good rotation he gave the one used at the Model Farm, in which Mr. Rennie plows only once in four years; viz., First year, and harrow until late, to kill weeds The manure and decompose the sod. is spread on this and the land is ridg- and capital invested. ed up in drills to pass the winter. Third year: Pea ground in wheat and other ground in spring grains, seeded down with seven pounds red clover, three pounds Alsike, and three pounds timothy. Fourth year: Two crops of hay.

Q.—Would you spread manure most-

Ans.-Plow down clover, and to clover applying ashes, which is more rich in nitrogen give rank growth, and by plowing in the fall the surface soil, by action of sun and atmosphere, has more nitrogen made available for plan't growth, while in spring plowing the surface soil is in a rawer condition and goes more to producing grain.

WINTER DAIRYING. The next speaker, Mr. L. Patton, gave a stimulating and encouraging address on "Winter Dairying," showing that hard times among farmers could be averted if they would intelligently devote their energies in a business-like way to dairying in the winter, and not allow their cows to eat the profit, in the winter, of their summer production. This move was now beginning to work nicely all over Canada, and ere long, with Government assistance, he believed Canadian butter would occupy a place equal with Canadian cheese upon the British market.

For butter there was an unlimited market in Britain, as they spend annually $45,000,000 for that article, Canada receives as its share $2,000,000 only while for cheese they receive $11,000,000 annually. To gain this required (1st) a business sagacity, and attention to every detail to suit the market; (2nd) the right cows-cows that would produce at least 8,000 pounds of milk in one year; (3rd) cheap rations — ensilage to be the basis of a dairy ration; (4th) proper stables — roomy, clean, well-lighted, ventilated and handy; (5th) skilled operators, and the co-operative syssandy soils and render more porous tem, as in cheese; (6th) perfect cleanclay soils. Everything with the latter should be narrow-leaved them is done in the most cleanly manner. The stables in which the cows are kept and the milking done are kept as clean as possible. The cattle are groomed every day before the milking is done; their udders are well washed and dried. The milkers, in marked contrast with the practice of many Canadian dairymen, have their hands and clothing scrupulously clean. The milking is done with dry hands, and after each cow has been milked the milker washes his hands before beginning to milk another cow. This close attention to details and cleanliness in every step of the process has been the secret of success in fancy butter-making in Denmark, and we have only to follow in the same path. Weed application—that is, one-half pound out our poor cows, aim to have a cheap ration, and to keep our cows milking during the winter months, and in a few years we will be able to sell in grass, plowed in August or early fall, the English market six times the and worked with a grubber, cultivator quantity of butter that we sold them in 1896, and at prices that will leave the farmer a fair profit for his labor

SMALL FRUITS. Mr. H. L. Hutt gave a very interesting talk on small fruits, urging farmers not to deny themselves the luxury of the small fruits; then we would see less dyspepsia and yellow faces. He believed the close fence around a small garden did more harm than good by keeping out the horse cultivation. Give the small fruits shallow cultivation, keep them mulched with a loose surface or straw in the dry sea-

We find the Warfield strawberry the best on clay soils. Currants and gooseberries we prefer to grow in bush form, six stalks to the hill, pruning have borne fruit after the crop is picked, and leave five or six strong new canes to each hill. For the currant worm spray with paris green, 4 ounces to 40 gallons of water, add-ing a little lime water to prevent injury to the leaves. For mildew on the gooseberry, use Bordeaux mixture. Mr. Hutt gave different methods of cultivation by manuring, and illustrated the best methods to prune grape

Mr. J. S. Pearce, the reliable seedsman, of London, gave a valuable paper on the advantages of a selection, and buying of seeds, an account of which will appear in a later edition. He also spoke for a short time on corn, giving the best varieties in this neighborhood, and method of cultiva-

In the evening the house was full and the people were thoroughy enthused with the meeting, forty members being secured. Mr. R. H. Harding, Thorndale, occupied the chair. Choice selections of music were furnished by Mrs. Robson and son, of Ailsa Craig and Professor Stuart and company, of Toronto. Mr. Harcourt addressed the meeting on "Science in Farming." Mr. Patton on "The Farmer of the Future"; Mr. Hutt, on "Culture of Flowers." The meeting closed at 10, with the National Anthem

Ans.—I should explain that in this way: Their soil is very righ in hypers. is very rich in humus, or vegetable Every move to keep off flies and matter, therefore in nitrogen, and soils secure food the dairy man has to pay Now, by keeping cows housed in feeding them on peas and oats, sown thickly, and allowed to wilt for one day, with bran and oats, a return within 10 per cent of the flush in June may be secured, and the cows will be in a condition to give a large flow of milk in September and October, when cheese is the most valuable. He considers it a losing game to give cows a rest the most of the winter, for if well-fed cows may be milked eleven months in the year without any injury to the animal, and in nine cases out of ten the man that is interested in winter dairying will have his cows in better shape for the following summer's work. Clover and corn are two of the farmer's best friends. He can secure better returns for coarse grains feeding to cows, and besides, benefit the land. If butter was in shape and quality for the unlimited market of Great Britain, it need not be sold for less than 20 cents per pound, as last week Mr. Ballantyne's shipments of his creamery butter netted to the patrons 20 1-2 cents per pound. Mr. J. S. Pearce, of London, next gave to the meeting a paper of useful information on the advantages of a selection in buying seeds, which was much appreciated. He said it possible to greatly improve varieties thus selected of a uniform appearlocality and soil to another somewhat different.

POTATO CULTURE "Potato Culture," by Mr. H. L. Hutt, of the O. A. C., Guelph, was ably dealt with. Potatoes can be greatly improved by selection for earliness and trueness to type. He recommends that the potatoes selected for seed be well exposed to the sun for two or three weeks before planting, to start growth and develop strong buds that will not rub off in handling. In cutting it is best to select medium-sized potatoes having the best growths, and cut the pieces to two or three eyes to the piece. OTHER SUBJECTS. The evening session was well attended for a Saturday night meeting. The chair was occupied by Mr. R. H. Harding, the president. The question box proved interesting.
"Butter Making," by L. Patton, was listened to attentively by all present.

Mr. Harcourt gave the results of experiments at the college in the curing of hay; also a valuable talk on "Ashes," convincing all present of their great value on the farm. The closing address was by Mr. Patton, on "Beautifying the Farm," in his usual stirring, humorous and intellectual manner. Choice selections of music were furnished by Mr. H. Poole, of Lambeth, and Mr. McMurray gave a large number of songs on the graphophone.

Eight Unseated So Far.

With the vacating of the seat for Winnipeg, the number of constituencies in which bye-elections for the House of Commons will have to be held in the next few weeks foots up to eight. The vacant constituencies are North Ontario, South Brant and East Simcoe, in Ontario; West Prince, in Prince Edward Island; Champlain, in Quebec; Macdonald and Winnipeg, in Manitoba; and Colchester, in Nova Scotia.

at the general election by Consrvatives, so that in the bye-elections the Laurier Government have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

All these seats have been made vacant because it was proved in court, or admitted by the members themselves, that they were carried by corruption.

In North Ontario the ballot boxes were illegally stuffed with ballots marked for Mr. McGillivary, and the returning officer declared him elected by a majority of one. South Brant was lost by Hon. Mr. Paterson because he went out of the constituency to fight the battles of his party in other districts believed to be more in need of argument. While he was gone the agents of Mr. Henry corrupted the electors by wholesale, and the Conservative was elected by a majority of 91. There was a triangular fight in East Simcoe, Mr. Bennett, the Conservative candidate, receiving 2,775 votes; Mr. H. H. Cook, the Liberal, 2,529 votes; and Mr. Anderson, Independent, 1,650. In West Prince, Mr. Prince, the Conservative M. The classes of 20 to 25 will be drafted from the fourth and fifth forms. Some of the members expressed themselves as opposed to the "new-fangled methods of cooking"; they preferred the good old ways of mother, they asserted. To these critics, Major Mason replied that domestic science aimed at providing instruction in simple cooking and economy in the preparing of foods, and the nature of foods. Whether this experiment is successful or not, it is a notorious fact that much of the cooking of today, especially when undertaken by ordinary hired assistants, is wasteful in the extreme. It has been said that in the Irish questions average household in North America enough good food is thrown away in a year to feed an extra family. At a public meeting held in support of the movement for incorporating Kensington as a city, with its own mayor and council, a letter was read from him in of the metropolis. He considers London too large to be governed by a single central authority, degenerating into a pure official and bureaucratic administration. Kensington has followed the example of Westminster in agitating for a separate charter. Metropolitan London includes 42 parish and district councils, and on the Kensington plan these may be coverted into 42 incorporated cities, with a central board to keep the main sewer pipes in order and to oversee a few other odd jobs. This result would mark the collapse of the London unification movement. Then, again, Westminster, Kensington and other conservative parishes might apply for charters and become separate municipalities, while the East End parishes might remain loyal to progressive principles and continue to support the London County Council—that is to reason to entertain the same fear, and say. The Good Things.

Goods that can be recommended to give good wear, nice neat patterns, and they will compare with any 50c Tweed Dress Goods in the market. Our price is 25c yard.

Better Lines.

Fine wool, desirable patterns, just the goods for a serviceable dress; the best value we have ever had; only 35c yard. Our best tweeds now only 48c per yard, sold at 65c and 75c yard.

Don't turn your back on a good thing. Some people do this, but regret it afterwards.

Dame Fashion

Calls for plain cloths, and this is the spot to get them. We have a big range of prices and colors—we will just mention one. Fine heavy tinted Cloths, very wide; have been selling at 75c yard, but they are going now at 56c yard.

What are left of those knotted plaids, which have been so much admired, that have been selling at 50c yard; we will clear them out at 25c yard.

An Item of Interest to You.

These skirts we are selling at half price. If you are an economical woman, this item should interest you.

Ladies' All-Wool Opera Flannel Skirts, silk embroidered, yoke band. They have been selling at $2 each, but $1 now takes one.

Heavy Braided Cloth Skirts have been selling at $1 75 each, 88c can get one.

Cotton Embroidered Cloth Skirts, worth $1, for 50c

Why Delay

Getting that good Black Silk? You could not get a better opportunity if you waited until your ship came in. Very little money goes a long way now. You ought to see the Black Peau de Soie Silk we are selling at $1 23. Can't be beat. Worth $175 yard.

For a good Black Dress take a look through our Black Goods stock. The prices there have been used in the same style as those in the Colored Dress Goods Department That means bargains.

CHICAGO. Chicago, Jan. 16.—The buying of wheat today was principally to cover shorts. The bears have had things pretty much their own way for ten days, and it is but natural to assume that some have been excessive in their short selling. That theory added firmness to the opening encouragement and resulted in a moderate gain in values. Exports for the week from both ceasts were heavy, at 2,896,000 bu. Atlantic seaboard clearances for 24 hours aggregated 269,084 bu. Receipts at Chicago were 40,000 bu, and 137,743 bu were withdrawn from store. GUY WILKES TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION. San Francisco, Jan. 18 .- Guy Wilkes, the sire of Fred. G. Moody, Hulda, Fred Kohl, Hazel Wilkes, Sable Wilkes, Muta Wilkes, and many other grand circuit performers, is to be shipped east in the course of a few days to be sold at public auction. Six years ago Guy Wikes would have brought anywhere from $50,000 to $75,000, but the depressed condition of the market makes it problematical what the price will be. In the hight of the light harness boom many shrewd turf-men paid $1,000 for the privilege of breeding to Guy Wilkes.

DETROIT DRIVING CLUB. The directors of the Detroit Driving Club re-elected the old officers. The club made a profit of $26,000 last year, in spite of the bad weather at the Blue Ribbon races, and the poor success of the running meeting. The regular Blue Ribbon meeting will be in the third week of July. There are already 200 entries of the Derby and Campau stakes, which closed a year ago.

CURLING. SHOTS.

A FINISH FIGHT. Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 18.-Billy Brown, of Grand Rapids, welter-weight, and Jack Donoghue, of Chi-cago, middle-weight, fought a finish mill at Reed's Lake early Saturday morning. Brown was knocked out in the third round. He remained unconscious for two minutes, but was finally driven home in a carriage. Geo. sociation of Otsego. The decision was given against Stewart.

EVERHARDT KNOCKED OUT

New York, Jan. 18 .- Jack Everhardt, of New Orleans, knocked out Billy Ernst, of Brooklyn, in the 12th round at the Broadway Athletic Club Saturday night. The men were announced to go fifteen rounds at 137 pounds. The announcer said that if both men were on their feet at the end of fifteen rounds there would be no decision rendered, and that the merits of the men would be left to the opinion of the audience. He added that up to the end of the fifteenth round the men would box subject to Quebec Archbishop's Extraordinary Decree Anent the School Question.

No One Must Accept Doctrines or Writ-Disapprove.

Quebec, Jan. 18 .- Archbishop Begin of Quebec, has just addressed a vol-uminous paper to the Catholic clergy of Quebec Province. The following is a verbatim translation of the most important paragraphs of the article. "No bishop wants, or can approve the so-called settlement of the Mani toba school question, which definitely rests only upon the unjustifiable aban-donment of the best established and most sacred rights of the Catholic minority.

"Mgr. Langevin's energetic protest against this settlemenet was in ordance with the direction of the Holy Father. This is not the time to examine this settlement in its various articles, but what I have already said and written is sufficient for you to conclude that I absolutely disapprove of it.

"In his encyclical to the French nation, Leo XIII. said: (The following is published in Latin in the circular.)
But the church, that guardian and safeguard of the integrity of the faith bequeathed her by the authority of God, the foundator, shall call all the nations to a Christian wisdom, and also see by what precepts and institu-tions we cultivate the youth who shall not be formed in mixed and neutral schools that the church has always openly condemned, and she (the church) shall warn the fathers of families to watch the eminent danger for the soul in this moment.' "Following the example led by other bishops of the Dominion with a view to come to the aid of our brethren of Manitoba until justice is rendered them, I ask $5 from each curate, $2 from each poor missionary, vicary and college professor, and $10 from each religious community.

"This money shall be sent to me before Lent." The fifth article of Mgr. Begin's circular is totally devoted to City Clerk David's book, entitled "Le Clerge Canin the world. David's book, entitled "Le Clerge Canadien, sa Mission son Oeuvre." It is condemned indignantly, and it is announced that "Every faithful is obliged, under the penalty of a grievous sin, to immediately destroy or remit to his confessor Mr. David's pamphlet. "No one shall forget that nobody has any right to judge, condemn or approve authoritatively any doctrine or writing, except the bishops. It is an abuse to buy under cover of the authority of certain personages dangerous writings. It is through your bishops and priests that you shall re-ceive the teachings and directions of the Holy See. "Let every one of you have enough of Christian sense to banish from your house any man or writing which may teach you, in the name of whatever dignitary, not to respect and listen to the bishops whom the Pope himself gave you to govern you, and whom he ordered you to obey you as if it war Jesus Christ.

BELMONT.

Presentation to the Organist of the Methodist Church. Belmont, Jan. 15.—The members of the trustee board of the Methodist Church, Belmont and their ladies on Thursday evening gave Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick a pleasant surprise in their beautiful home. They arrived at about 8 o clock, and after partaking of a sumptuous repast, the following address was read;

"Mrs. Fitzpatrick,—Dear Madam -We have assembled here this evening as the trustees of the Belmont Methodist Church, on behalf of the members and congregation of the church, to express to you our high appreciation of the valuable services Hogs—25 cars through; 25 cars on this syrup is pleasant to the taste, sale; market higher; Yorkers, $3 80 to and unsurpassed for relieving, healing, and curing all affections of the throat teur—W. comes early to the clothes that are dragged up and down over the wash-board. It's ruinous. Nothing else uses them up so thoroughly and so quickly.

This wear and tear; that tells so on your pocket, ought to be stopped. Get some Pearline-use it just as directed-no soap with itand see how much longer the clothes last, and how much easier and quicker the work is. Pearline saves the rubbing.

Send Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S it Back FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

WOMAN'S WEEK

At our store during this week we're going to make it profit. able and pleasant for the women of London.

MISS COCKBURN

Who has charge of our Fancy Goods Department, is an expert and competent instructor in all that pertains to fancy work. From 9:30 till 11 o'clock every morning this week she will give free lessons in Fancy Work. Those who require special assistance or who would like to take lessons either alone or with their friends, can do so by making an engagement for any afternoon. The Instruction Room on the second floor has been fitted up in good style. Ample room, abundance of light, and every convenience that a fancy goods worker could desire will be at your disposal. Make your engagement as soon as possible, and thus secure a good time for your lesson.

We have all the newest designs in Stamped Linens and a full range of

A Word About Prices.

All our fancy goods represent the most careful workmanship of the best makers in the country. This careful workmanship guarantees you correctness of style, excellence of materials, and the lowest price that high quality goods can sell for. Here are the prices-none can be lower;

I. Fringes in all the newest shades; they're very desirable goods, and all the more so because they are low priced, 12½c ones are 11c, 25c ones are 19c, and the 45c ones go for 35c. II. Those lovely Silks that are nominally 85c for 59c, and the real Japanese Crepe, usually 50c, for 39c.

III. Pom-Pons-not the tawdry, cheap article, but the genuine Silk Pom-Pons-IV. Silk Tassels, with all their beauty-giving power, go at 5c a dozen.

V. All the shades in Linen Fringes for trimming denims, regular 15c for 9c. VI. New Ribbons are arriving daily; every new lot possesses some new and sparkling color combination. Come and have a look. VII. Coates' Thread, Clark's Celebrated Mending Wool and also his Crochet

Cotton, have come to us in an immense shipment. The price marks are VIII. Silk Curtain Tassels that have "seen better price marks" go for 10c or 19c

CROSS-EXAMINED. Cross-examined by Mr. Hellmuth, witness said he came from Detroit this morning with his brother and Hubert Dignan, of Love & Dignan, lawyers. He saw Mr. Dignan yesterday for the first time, but did not discuss the election trial with him. Mr. Dignan paid witness' fare to London, and also his brother's. Mr. Dignan had subpoened both witness and his brother for this trial. Witness had asked Mr. Dignan, as his mo-ther's legal adviser, whether he would get into trouble by ignoring the subpoena, and Mr. Dignan said he would. He had only one interview with Mr. Graydon. Witness had been expecting Graydon, because Dan Gray, a London boy, had taken his (witness') name a month before. Gray represented that he was taken the names of London voters in Detroit for the Conservative party. Witness was closely questioned about his interview with Graydon, but repeated the story exactly as he told it to Mr. Osler. He destroyed the envelope; the money was gone, and the ticket was used. "Pardon me," returned Mr. Huntress, with dignity, as it suddenly oc-curred to him what his host's suspicions might be. "I prefer that Mrs. Mapleson should herself tell you that, since it is more her secret than mine. Perhaps, however, it fould be better for Geoffrey and me to retire to some other room while she speaks with you alone," and he half rose as he

But Mrs. Mapleson threw out one clenched, jeweled hand, with an imperative gesture to check him. "Oh, the curse of gold," the unhappy woman went on, wildly. "What will it not tempt one to do? The love of it blunts natural affection and honor. and warps the reason. It leads one to deceive and scheme for the pos-session of it. What blind fools men and women are to sacrifice so much-love, a lifetime of innocence, purity, and happiness, for the sake of a little paltry yellow dust! If I could but live over my life, how gladly would I endure poverty, and toil, and selfdenial, to secure a quiet conscience and a heart free from the burden of sin, and dread! Oh, such a life as I have led is but a miserable fallure

"I will not carry this dreadful burden on my heart another hour! For more than twenty years I have borne the brand of an inhuman monster on my soul, and I wonder that it has not transformed me into something so repulsive and loathsome that everyone would shrink from me in fear and disgust. I have often looked at myself with amazement to think it was possible for any one to conceal so effectually the corruption and wretchedness and duplicity of one's nature. I believe I have realized, as no one else ever did, what the Saviour meant by 'whited sepulcher full of dead men's bones.' William!" turning upon her husband, with a wild, glistening eye, and searching his face with a glance of pitiful appeal, "I expect that you will despise and hate me, that our son will loathe me, when you learn what I have to tell you."

The scene was becoming very painful, and Mr. Huntress, pitying her from the depths of his heart, arose and walked out of her sight, feeling that he could not look upon her agony, while Geoffrey sat spell-bound, dreading the impending disclosure more than he could express.

Col. Mapleson, feeling as if he must do something to calm her excitement, went to a closet, poured out a glass of wine, and brought it to her.

tion by preserving her beauty and shining as a star in the society they frequented; and now, after succeed-ing for so long a time, it drove her nearly crazy to think that perhaps the confession of her early folly would undo all this and breed contempt for her, or worse—his pity.

His own deception seemed very trivial compared with hers, for a cruel fate alone had prevented him from acknowledging his wife and child whom he had fondly loved and would have cherished as long as they had been spared to him, while she had deliberately planned to abandon her delicate babe and cast it unloved upon the care of strangers. The wine which she had drunk however, served to steady her nerves, and to give her strength for the trial before her, and after a few minutes she raised her white, drawn face, say-

"Sit down, all of you, for my story is not a short one, though for your sakes I will make it as brief as pos-"You will remember, William, that after I came into possession of my half of Uncle Jabez's fortune, I went abroad. I had always had an intense longing to see Europe, and when the means to do so were at my disposal, know, too, that as a family, we had always been poor. It had been a continual struggle with us to secure even the necessaries of life, and the battle with poverty had been a most bitter one to me. Now, I was bound to get the most I could out of life, to make up for the deprivations of my youth. I indignantly refused to marry as my uncle desired, for I, as well as you, considered that he had no in which to enjoy my wealth, and I said I would spend every dollar of my income in being happy and making up to my family for the hard-ships of previous years. So I settled a comfortable income on my father and mother, and then, taking my sister Nellie for a companion, I sailed for Europe to gratify my taste for travel and sight-seeing. We both spoke French and German fluently, or we had been faithful students, and fitted ourselves for teaching; both were self-reliant and courageous in spite of our youth—our conflict with our unfavorable surroundings had made us so-therefore we felt onfident to travel by ourselves without a chaperon, who, we felt, would hamper our movements. Some of the ime we had a guide, but in England, France, and Germany we were able o go about quite independently. It was, perhaps, a daring thing to do, but, dignified in our bearing, and we never met with the slightest inconvenience from being without an escort. We had a very pleasant time together; we had plenty of money, and did not need to stint ourselves; Nell loved art, and I music, so for a year we put ourselves under the best of masters, and gave ourselves up to these accomplishments, and had our fill. But I am getting somewhat ahead of my story.

"While we were in London, a few months after reaching England, we met a literary gentleman, a Mr. Chas. Southcourt, who paid me considerable attention, and to whom I was very strongly attached. We met often, too, upon the continent, for he also was traveling in search of material for his writings, and our routes frequently crossed each other. Finally, during my second year abroad, h confessed his affection for me, and asked me to marry him. He was brl-Had he been rich I would not have hesitated a moment, for I loved him; but I knew, far too well, what poverty was to be willing to relinquish my fortune and the handsome income it brought me, the luxuries and pleasures it yielded me, to say nothing of depriving my parents and sister of the comforts and advantages they were enjoying, and I refused him. He knew that I returned his affection—he had not dreamed of being rejected-and demanded the reason. I told him frankly. He then informed me that all pecuniary difficulty could soon be removed, for there was a prospect of his soon receiving a responsible appointment somewhere in the Far East, which would secure him an ample income which, with what he could realize from his writings, would enable him to provide for the comfortable support of my family, my own fortune was then giving me. Would I become his wife if he secured this appointment? he asked. I told him yes, and I believe that if it had not been for depriving my delicate and aged parents and sister of the comforts they were enjoying—if I had only had myself to consider, I could willingly have thrown up my fortune, and become his wife, whether secured the appointment or not.

"Full of hope at having won my consent, Charlie returned at once to London—we were at that time in Rome—to bend all his energies to secure his coveted position. Two months later Nellie and I returned to Paris, where we were again joined by Mr. Southcourt, who was jubliant, for he said he was sure of his appointment, and he showed me a letter from a person high in authority, which seemea to promise it beyond a doubt. Will advance the price of their shares to 15 cents on January 11th, 1897, and a further advance to 20 cents will be made on January 31st.

This step is not only warranted by the intrinsic value of the properties under the control of this Company-WHICH ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT GROUP YET OFFERED UNDER ONE MANAGEMENT IN THE DOMINION—but also from the fact that we have just made arrangements for the placing of 500,000 shares of our treasury stock on the London, England, market. This has been done with a friend of Barney Barnato's and one of the great English promoters who has successfully floated many large concerns.

This insures us a good market and a much better price than we could secure here, as none of the shares will be offered there at less than two shillings per share.

THESE WILL BE THE FIRST FULL-PAID SHARES EVER OFFERED IN ENGLAND AT LESS THAN PAR, and the successful placing of this means more for British Columbia than any other event since gold was discovered, as a market for all other companies that must have means to properly develop their properties will be opened up.

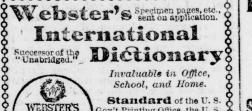

Please notice that this Company, and the parent, the Colorado Gold Mining & Development Company, are at all times to be found in the van, and when seeking an investment, why not take the best?

Subscription books are now open at the office of Messrs. Lownsbrough & Co., Bankers and Brokers, 22 King Street East, where J. LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, sating that his wife had used it for a throat trou-ble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believed it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

AT THE AUDITORIUM. "The Mystery of Man" was the subject chosen by Rev. (Capt.) H. C. Kimball, of Aylmer, for his discourse at the Auditorium in the Association Hall, at the men's meeting yesterday afternoon, and the clever lecturer pointed out with impressive eloquence that the most horrible anomaly in all the created existence was that man, being by divine creation a shading below God himself, and crowned with glory and honor, should become the servant of the devil and of sin. Is seemed to the speaker that if people know what God meant them to be, they would hate with an infinite loathng the things that rob them of their birthright.

Mr. Kimball is the pastor of the Baptist Church in Aylmer, and well known to Londoners as a very able ex-American army captain
