Ing in Recreation Grounds.

The squirrel population in Victoria Park numbers one less as a result of a soldier striking one of the little creatures with his cane, when it came towards him in a friendly manner on Sunday. When an explanation was demanded by a park attendant, the trooper is said to have explained that "in the country he had killed hundreds of them."

When the rodents were imported by the commission and placed in the park, a warning was issued that any person molesting or harming the little animals would be severely dealt with. The park superintendent has approached the police, who declare that the killing of the animal is a violation of the game laws, and therefore a serious offense.

The park commissioners declare that the next offender will be severely dealt with.

RUSH FOR CARS ENDANGERS LIVES

Should Wait Till They Stop. Declares Magistrate J. C. Judd.

WARNS MOTORISTS TOO

Savs They Run Beside Cars and Increase Dangers of Pedestrians.

Police Magistrate J. C. Judd is of the opinion that many citizens in this city have two bad habits, and while dispensing justice on the bench today, during motor car cases, he announced what these faults were.

"In the first place," said the magistrate, "many citizens while waiting for cars in the downtown sections rush from the sidewalk as soon as they see the car coming and place themselves in danger of being struck by motor cars or other vehicles. I am one of them myself, but I believe if the peo-ple waited until the car stopped their would be fewer accidents.

"The other fault is that motor car drivers run beside or even with the street cars to corners and then, when the car stops, they go ahead, and if brought into court they claim that they were even with or partly ahead of the car when the latter stopped. This endangers the people who commit the first fault," stated the magistrate.

Judgment was reserved until Thurs day by the magistrate in a case against W. Ashplant, charged with a breach of the motor act. Mr. Ashplant maintained that he was in the right, as the front of his car was even with the street car when it stopped, and he kept on going.

L. Robb and J. W. Pulling pleaded guilty to committing breachs of the motor act, and pail $3 and costs into

Late tonight it was learned that two Windsor aldermen, whose names are being withheld for the present, have recently been the recipients of anonymous communications warning them of some possible attack on public buildings here. "Beware of attempts on Windsor public buildings by German sympathizers!" read this mysterious communication. A letter written apparently by a woman, bore the signature "A Girl Friend of the Allies." The letters, of which there were two, letters, of which there were two, showed a Detroit postmark. They are being held as evidence by the police.

Both aldermen admitted having received the warnings, but said they had paid no attention to them. The alder-men declared the warnings, followed by them that there is an organized plan afoot near Windsor to work damage to the Canadian Government as a blow to England in the war.

Mounted Rifles May Go.

Intimating that the 300 men of the Mounted Rifles from London would be dispatched to Windsor to guard against further attempts on public buildings was contained in a message received in Windsor this evening by Pte. W. Smith, a member of the Rifles. Smith was about to return to his command after a furlough when he received a message to remain at Windsor. No explanation accompanied the order. With all Windsor and Walkerville, Ford City and the Ontario towns for miles around on edge as a result of the dynamiting attempts, the Walkerville and provincial police and the military rities combed the whole western end of the province today in search of clue to the dynamiters, but no arrests were made other than the man Fraser was immediately released.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, June 22 .- The total amount of redits voted since the beginning of the war exceeds 15,615,000,000 francs ($3,123,000,000), according to a statement by Albert Metin, general budget reporter of the Chamber of Deputies. The provisional credit for the third hree months of the present year, it is stimated, will be 5,940,000,000 france ($1,188,000,000). Of this amount the udget committee has requested some eduction as to civil employees. In adding certain expenses and tak-ing care of increases in the soldiers pensions, M. Metin says that France's war budget can be estimated at about 2,000,000,000 francs ($400,000,000) month. If the war continues, M. Metir adds, the time is not far off when the country will spend 3,00,000

Accordingly, that evening, giving up his uniform for a civilian suit of black, he went to the office of the yellow journal. He knew the man with whom he would have to do business. It was an old reportorial friend-Keenan, who had since risen to the city desk, On arriving at the office, he asked for Keenan, and the boy at the door departed with his message. Beyond the railing, where the captain waited, was a big, low-celled room, with a scattering of incandescent drop-lights, which hung close to flat-top desks. At the desks young men sat in shirt-sleeves, hammering away at typewriters or idly reading newspapers. There was a constant opening and shutting of doors, and from one corner there came the regular beating of telegraph-sounders, Keenan was but little changed since the days of his reporting. He was still very thin, and perhaps a little whiter in the cheek; nevertheless, he had the ne keen, penetrating eye as of old. "Good-evening, captain," he said, hold-ing open the gate, "Come right in, won't

Burke started to put out his hand; but as he made a move forward, all at once, he took his boy in his arms. There, as he held him to his heart, patting him on the shoulder, he went on crying out:

"My boy! My boy!"

fully ate a bit of toast. "The poor, poor fellows!" murmured quaint little Miss Arbutus, also sighing, then handed over her cup for more tea.

Miss Jasmine carefully poured in a spoonful of the "top milk," which necessity demanded as their substitute for cream, added the half lump of sugar which was all Miss Arbutus would take for each cup, and filled up the fragile china from the crooked brown teapot. Their eyes met as Jasmine handed Arbutus her cup. "Mother's linen," breathed Jasmine

The sisters winced as Mrs. Anna, blissfully ignorant, tossed a parcel on to the centre table, almost disturbing a bunch of wax flowers which primly reposed there beside the family album of the Temples. "I hope you'll like it," continued Mrs. Anna. "It's not so fine, continued Mrs. Anna. "It's not so fine, but it will wear, and that's what counts most nowadays." "It is very good of you to remember me," murmured little Miss Arbutus, although not making a move to open the package. "Ours was getting a trifle worn, I guess," she added, with a flush rising to her cheek. "Oh, you're as welcome as the flowers in May," responded the irrepressible Mrs. Anna. "Well, I must be jogging along."

With a few more formalities, Mrs. Anna took her departure, rising with an inward sigh of relief that was more gently echoed in the hearts of the sisters. "Poor old frumps! They didn't seem very grateful for my gift, either," was her thought as she hastened down the path. "Poor Anna," was what the sisters murmured as they returned to the gentle ways of their household, Jasmine to "straighten up" the parlor after the mewhat cyclonic movements of their sister-in-law, and Arbutus to reassure the yellow canary, whom Anna's presence always drove into a trembling open before them. Anna had described the old as Mrs. Anna Temple differed from Misses Jasmine and Arbutus. The sisters examined the gift thoughtfully, the same picture in the mind of each. The dear old china and crooked teapor would not feel at home on such linen as this. as this. "There is no doubt it will wear well, Jasmine," commented Arbutus. "Yes, Arbutus, I always rather fancied a shamrock pattern. too," was Jasmine's reply.

A brief silence fell between the two.

"What lovely old tablecloths these have been," said a woman worker down at the cooms" the next afternoon "Yes; see how carefully they have been laundered and mended, too," com-mented a second woman. "Look what's on the ticket: 'Old linen for surgical dressings, in memory of Mother."

"Isn't that touching! Such dear, quaint handwriting! It just goes with the linen," said the first woman softly. And in a shabby little home on Harper street, the Misses Temple sat down to their frugal meal. The same quaint dishes and crooked little teapot adorned the board. A rose or two in an old old vase was placed in the centre of the coarse cloth. A new light shone in the eyes of each sister as they sipped their tea.

"I'm so glad we did it," murmured Miss Jasmine. "Yes, so am I," answered Miss Ar butus. And both smiled bravely.

NEW YORK, June 21 .- Canada's contributions towards the relief of the destitute people of Belgium amounted to $2,071,083, up to May 18, according to a report issued by H. Prudhomme, honorary secretary of the central executive committee for the Dominion of Canada, of the commission for relief Canada, of the commission for relief in Belgium, and announced here to-

The report, which does not cover the period since May 18, says that up to that time the Canadians sent five cargoes of food to Belgium. The largest and most important cargo was valued at $462,500, but another shipment was worth nearly that sum, being valued at $450,000. In addition to these cargoes the committee at Montreal report-ed that on May 18 they had on hand $48,148 in cash, $54,090 worth of clothing, and $7,500 worth of foodstuffs, towards loading a sixth Canadian ship.

aspects of the European war. Pope Benedict is quoted as expressing horror at some of the developments of the war, but in the main the words of the Pope have to do with peace.

The interview began with an allusion by the pontiff to what the Holy See had one in respect to the war. The pontiff had addressed a letter in favor of peace to the Catholic world. He had proposed a truce to the belligerents for the Christ-mastide. He had endeavored to obtain an exchange of prisoners unfitted for military service and had had the good fortune to obtain in this respect an apreciable result.

His holiness referred to the letter he had written to Cardinals Lucon and Amette of Rheims and Paris, respectively, and to his consistorial address on January 22. Latapie quotes the Pope as

How To Prevent Acid Stomachs and Food Fermentation

By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many ears in the study and treatment of tomach troubles, I have been forced to years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full, bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 30 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—

1915 Edition of McKim's "Canadian Newspaper Directory" Now Issued.

It is now nearly a quarter of a century since Mr. A. McKim, who established the first independent advertising agency in this country, completed the rather Two Girls Who Tired of War Nursing mbitious task of publishing the first directory of Canadian publications. The ine successive editions of this valuable work provide the most complete and de-tailed record available of the growth of Canadian periodicals.

The 1915 edition, of which we have just received a copy shows that the great war has not seriously affected the newspapers of Canada. While the birthrate of new publications has received a check, and the death-rate of the weak feet and cause foot torture.

Ones has, perhaps, increased a trifle, Get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" at any ones has, perhaps, increased a trifle, most of the leading papers, particularly the dailies, show very healthy increases in circulation. Three metropolitan dailies have reached or passed the hundred thousand mark. A census of the papers listed and described in the 1915 directory shows nearly 150 dailies, 7 tri-weeklies, 45 semiweeklies, over 1,065 weeklies, about 40 bi-weeklies or semi-monthlies, 250 monthlies, 3 bi-monthlies and 18 quarterlies, a total of over 1,575 publications. This means approximately one daily to every 10,000 families, and one weekly to every 1,500 families. From this, one would infer that for a comparatively country, Canada is well read. A. McKim, Limited, report the usual keen demand for the Canadian Newspaper Directory, which sells at $2. Its red-banded, gold-stamped green cover has become a familiar sight on the desks of advertisers, publishers and businessmen everywhere who are inter-ested in Canada.

United States Rubber fell 2 points, and Reading, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper lost fractions. The Locomotive issues, Steel Foundries, American Can and local tractions registered advances ranging from large fractions to 1½. Later there were general recoveries led by Steel, which rallied a full point. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, which has been ordered by the suprement court to divorce its coal properties, rose 5 points.

Noon.—Stocks were in free supply on the rally which followed the early irregularity, and Steel, Coppers, American Can, Reading and war shares went lower. Bethlehem Steel lost almost 4 points, and other stocks in the same class declined 1 to 2½. Canadian Pacific was weak, losing over 3 points in connection with rumors which revived doubts of the stability of its dividend. Lackawanna increased its gain to 5 points, and Baltimore and Ohio rose a point on publication of highly favorable May earnings. Trading became duller towards midday, with very slight recovery. Bonds were steady, despite further foreign selling.

NEWSPAPERS BETTER

London, June 22.—Bar silver, 231/4d Speaker Before Convention Says They Have More Gripping Power.

> [Canadian Press.] newspapers are a better advertising medium than ever because they have a more gripping national power—a power that has been studied by every thinking advertiser, John Finn of Chicago told delegates attending the annual convention of the Associated Advention of the Associated Ad-of the reading public than the "live news concerning buying opportunities."

"I believe in the efficiency of newspaper advertising." said Mr. Finn, "because I have seen what it can do in Perrott, Fred Barrett, city attorney, cause I have seen what it can do in such a variety of lines, covering such a divergency of propositions that the possibility of luck or accident must be eliminated from consideration."

It is the paper which publishes the true news that pays the advertiser best, the speaker said.

All sections of the convention held business sessions today.

Perrott, Fred Barrett, city attorney, and Democratic county chairman; Robert Metzer, former chief of police and safety, and Frank P. Baker, former county prosecutor, are among the more prominent of the men indicted.

First Reading Given New Bill Will Meet at Detroit on July 3 to Protest Against in the Commons Shipments. Unanimously.

MEETS ALL OBLIGATIONS May Take Over Previous Loans and Bear Interest at

4 1-2 Per Cent. [Canadian Press.] LONDON, June 21. - The House of Commons adjourned tonight after manimously giving a first reading to the bill providing the new chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald McKenna, with a blank check, which may amount, at a maximum, to one thousand million ounds ($5,000,000,000). The vote of credit for £250,000,000 ($1,250,000,000) passed last week by the House simply authorized the Gov ernment to spend that much for was purposes, but did not provide for the manner tr. which this sum should be raised. Tonight's enactment was in the form of a resolution, which empowers the Government to raise not only the £250,000,000 deemed necessary to pay the cost of the war, at the rate of £3,000,000 sterling daily, for a limited period, but as much more as may be needed. The Chancellor of the Excheque made a long explanation of the proposed loan, and, in closing, said that on the technical questions as to the limit of the loan, it would be dannarrow escape from a submarine in that the only figures he could put in loan, including provisions enabling the subscribers to previous war loans and Favorable Reception. Although the stock, exchange had losed before Mr. McKenna's statement was published, the proposed new loan is said to have met with a favorable reception in the financial districts, but is not yet possible to say how the terms of the loan will affect other kindred issues, such as consols and last
