

ZULUS SURROUND BRITISH; BEATEN OFF IN HOT FIGHT

Six Hundred Rebels Attack Leuchars' Force, But Are Defeated After Two Hours' Stiff Battle.

Durban, Natal, May 29.—Six hundred rebel Zulus surrounded and attacked Colonel Leuchars' force yesterday afternoon near the Buffalo River. Under cover of the bush, the natives got within fifty yards of the British, but the latter opened a heavy rifle fire upon the rebels, and after two hours' fighting the Zulus fled, leaving seventy killed. The British loss was one man killed and three wounded.

SPANISH M. P.'S WELCOME ENA BABYLESS COLONY BLAMES A "WITCH"

Delegation from the Cortes Say Nice Things to Their Future Queen.

Madrid, May 28.—A delegation of the foremost men in the Chamber of Deputies and Senate visited the Pardo Palace tonight and presented Princess Ena of Battenberg, the future Queen of Spain, with an address of welcome on behalf of the Spanish nation. This action is significant of the sincere cordiality with which Spain has received the foreign princess. King Alfonso, with Princess Ena, received the visiting statesmen in the grand salon of the Pardo Palace. Senor Canalejas, president of the Cortes, addressing the princess, said: "Madame, we come before your royal highness both as the representatives of the Parliament of Spain and as representatives of the nation to convey to you the assurance, without the slightest semblance of flattery, that if the nation itself had chosen a spouse for its king as our august sovereign has seen fit to select a queen for his people, the aspirations of Don Alfonso XIII. would have coincided most happily and completely with the wishes of his people. His majesty has been a model son and a model brother, which inspires us to confidence that he will be a model husband. As to Parliament, we will do our utmost that your highness may be happy in Spain and may not regret parting from your native land. Your highness, in adding the task of the King, will work for the good of Spain and to this noble purpose let us all concentrate our best efforts."

Lopez Dominguez, president of the Senate, spoke in a similar strain. Later in the day the municipality of Madrid extended its salutations to the princess and presented her with an address. Princess Ena received the city's representatives most graciously, conversing with the leaders of the delegation.

ALAS! POOR JOHN

Frisco Chinamen Suffer Loss of Certificates of Residence.

San Francisco, May 28.—Chinese residents who were burned out during the recent fire will sustain a still further loss, it is said, that may reach as high as $50,000 or $60,000. They must obtain from the Government at Washington duplicate certificates of legal residence in the United States. About 6,000 of the certificates were destroyed, according to an estimate made by officials of the Chinese bureau. This loss falls on the Chinese alone, as upon them rests the necessity when occasion may arise, of proving the right to remain here.

THE EDUCATIONAL BILL

First Clause of British Measure Carried by Big Majority.

London, May 28.—The education bill was considered in committee by the House of Commons today. An amendment offered by Sir W. B. Mason (Liberal), declaring for denominational teaching was defeated by a majority of 191. After the strongest opposition protests the Government invoked closure, under which the first clause, involving the principle of the bill, was carried by a majority of 202.

CZAR TO VISIT DENMARK.

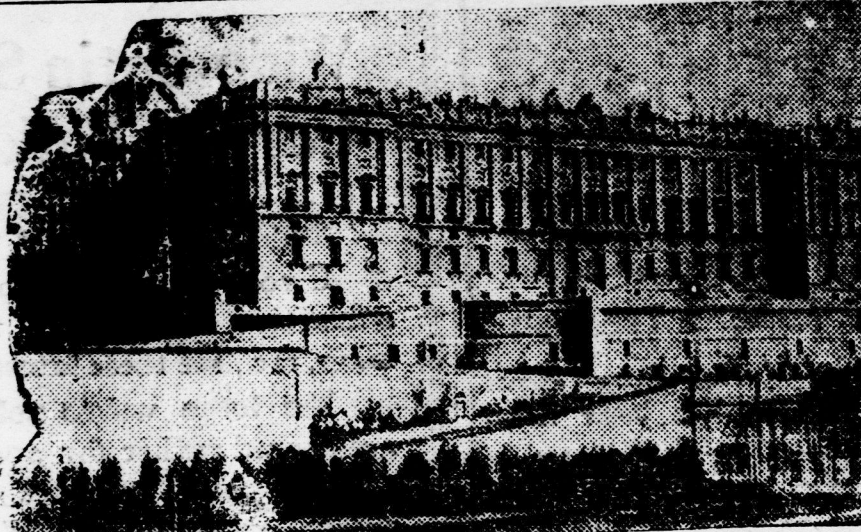

London, May 29.—The correspondence at Copenhagen of the Tribune says it is stated there that Emperor Nicholas of Russia will visit the Danish court in August.

CHINA IS SHARPLY CALLED DOWN; NEW CUSTOMS SYSTEM PRESENTED

London, May 28.—In the House of Lords today, Lord Reay (Liberal) asked the Government for information regarding the Chinese customs edict of May 9. Lord Fitzmaurice, under secretary for foreign affairs, in reply, said there was an atmosphere of ambiguity around the new system, and the British Government had asked for a definite assurance that there would be no disturbance of the present administration of the customs.

The Government was acting with the knowledge of the other powers interested, with whom its representative in charge at Peking was in communication. No reply had yet been received to the last note, but communications were still proceeding.

There was no intention on the part of the Government to allow the question to be involved in any permanent delay, because the ministers fully realized its great importance to the trade and commerce of Great Britain and all the nations trading with China. The Government was in perfect harmony with the other powers, including the United States and Japan. The under foreign secretary added that the department under Sir Robert Hart was one of the brightest spots in China. Lord Lansdowne, the former foreign secretary, said the statement was most satisfactory, and he was rejoiced that the Government had put its foot down on the customs of China, the one oasis in that country.

WAR RAGES IN MOROCCO INTER-TRIBAL FIGHTING

Unrest Is Due to Reforms Adopted by the Algeiras Conference.

Tangier, May 29.—News has been received here that the perpetual anarchy in Southern Morocco has blazed out in inter-tribal fighting, and that the whole country is given over to fire and the sword. A notorious depredator, is being attacked by combined forces in the Province of Mogador. The latest raid resulted in the tribesmen being killed. Fighting on a bigger scale is imminent. Mogador is practically blockaded on the land side. Rifles are being carried across the land. Rifles are being carried across the land. Rifles are being carried across the land.

THE KING WILL BE THERE

Royalty to Attend Ellen Terry's Jubilee Matinee.

London, May 29.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra have promised to attend the Ellen Terry jubilee matinee at the Drury Lane Theatre on June 12. It will be a unique entertainment, besides the number of leaders in the theatrical profession assisting. Madame Melba and Sig Caruso will sing. "Tribal by Jury," in which the jury will be composed of leading authors, and the bridesmaids will be the prettiest actresses in London. A reminiscence of Lyceum days will be various instrumental items conducted by the composers, MacKenzie, Stanford, Ed. German, and others, who wrote incidental music for the living plays. Several boxes for the matinee already have been booked at $500.

THROUGH THE SUEZ

British Shipping Shows a Falling Off While German Increases.

London, May 29.—According to a parliamentary paper issued tonight, there was a decrease last year of 476,288 tons of British shipping passing through the Suez Canal as compared with 1904, while for the same period the tonnage of German vessels passing through the canal increased 143,923 tons.

TEAMSTERS STRIKE

C. P. R. Carters at Montreal Demand $175 Per Day.

Montreal, Que., May 29.—Two hundred teamsters employed by the Dominion Transport Company, who do the cartage work in Montreal for the C. P. R., went on strike today for an increase in wages. The men have been getting $1.00 a day, but want $1.75. There is also a dispute between the men and the management over the question of pay for overtime. The men want 25 cents an hour for such work, claiming that according to their present arrangements they have no right to it. This is denied by the company. Police have been detailed to guard the company's stables in different parts of the city.

SUED BY CIRCUS

Hagenbacks Claim $25,000 Damage from Canadian Government.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Has the Canadian Government the right to refuse the passage through Canada of a body of Hindoo people attached to a circus? That is the question the Hagenback circus authorities say will have to be settled in the courts at the earliest possible moment, and to that end Attorney Monaghan, of this city, was today retained to bring an action against the Canadian Government claiming damages of $25,000. A short time ago the Canadian Government refused to allow the Hindoos to land at Halifax, and the circus people had to charter a vessel to carry them to Boston. Sunday at Niagara Falls the Hindoos were again refused admission to Canada, though it was only to pass directly through. Ontario to Port Huron, the Grand Trunk Railway having the contract to transport the three circus trains from Buffalo to Port Huron. The management was compelled to charter a train via the Lake Shore route, via Cleveland, from Buffalo to Detroit. The only reason assigned for the action of the Canadian Government was the immigration laws. It is claimed the refusal of passage through Canada was improper and illegal.

A BUST OF WHITNEY.

Toronto, May 28.—Mr. W. S. Allward, of Toronto, the well-known sculptor, has been commissioned by the Government to make a life-size bust of Premier Whitney to be placed in the education department.

CZAR IGNORES DOUMA'S DEMAND

No General Amnesty and No Resignation of Govt.

TOTACKLE AGRARIAN PROBLEM

Parliament Will Remain Open Until July—Will Not Be Summarily Dissolved by Emperor.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—As foreshadowed in the statement made by Minister of Agriculture Stuchinsk to the Associated Press last night, the Government has decided on its course of action with reference to the vote of lack of confidence of the Lower House and its demand for the resignation of the ministry. It will swallow parliament's affront and treat its resolution simply as a declaration beyond its competency and, consequently, as not binding upon the monarch. In other words, the Government has decided to ignore the conciliatory attitude in the hope that the storm will subside, and unless parliament takes some revolutionary action the original plan of prolonging the session until it is time for the summer vacation, at the end of June, will be carried out.

The Government will offer its own projects for the solution of the agrarian question, etc., and if they are reasonable, the ministry is evidently ready to be granted, but the political prisoners will be released as rapidly as possible. The Lower House will be allowed to strongly convince that its agrarian programme will win the support of the conservative interests of the country, which naturally are frightened at the universal scheme for the expropriation of land proposed by the Lower House. Both the ministry and the court camarilla are understood to have joined in a decision to adopt the above tactics.

WORK OF FIREBUGS?

Supposed Attempt at Incendiarism Discovered on King Street.

What looks to have been an attempt to set fire to the harness shop and residence of John Jones on King street, was discovered yesterday. A large pile of paper was found close to a high board fence, near a shed attached to the shop. The paper had been ignited, but the rain had extinguished the blaze. The matter has been reported to the authorities.

BETTER SERVICE STILL

Pere Marquette to Run Seven Trains a Day to Port.

The Pere Marquette announces that this summer seven trains will be run every day to and from Port Stanley. Last year but six trains were run, and the service was splendid, so that with an additional train this summer things will be booming between London and the old-time resort. The first train will leave London at 6:45 a.m., and the last train at 9:45 p.m.

CY DID NOT APPEAR

And the Alleged Hold-Up Case Was Further Adjourned.

Cy Bush, the rip-roaring romp from the farm, failed to appear yesterday against Helen Grant, an inmate of an east end house, whom he charges with stealing $5. The case was further adjourned for a week. The ball of the accused was renewed by Squire Chittick.

It is possible that a warrant may be issued for Cy, to compel his appearance. The young woman was communicative, and talked about Cy's celebrated jaunt to the disorderly house. She told some of the spectators that Cy delivered from 9 o'clock until 11 whether he would loan his chum the $5, and that when she went into Cy's room and pointed a perfume atomizer at him, Cy capitulated and handed the girl the money. She declares there was no hold-up and he witnesses to prove that she had no gun, and that Cy was not compelled to disgorge. In the meantime Cy will ponder the matter.

Mr. Hays Has Statement; May Meet City Half Way?

Rumored That Grand Trunk's General Manager Has Proposition Satisfactory to the People.

Mayor Judd is in Toronto today on private business, it is said. Ald. Forriest is acting mayor.

It is barely possible that when his worship comes home there may be something doing again in Grand Trunk matters, though there is nothing certain on this point.

Mr. Charles M. Hays, first vice-president and general manager of the G. T. R., was in the city last night, and he is credited with the statement that he will make an announcement to the city of London shortly, in regard to the negotiations, and it is hinted that this statement will be found to be satisfactory to the people.

It was rumored around the city hall today that City Solicitor Meredith had heard something from the company, too, but inquiry at his office elicited the information that he is in Toronto.

Whether Mr. Meredith and the mayor will have an interview with the Grand Trunk officials remains to be seen.

Last night Mr. Hays, with Mr. McGulgan, Superintendent Brownlee and Mr. W. D. Robb, superintendent of motive power, went to Barrie, and it may be that they will be in Toronto today.

If it is true that the company is ready to make a statement which will please the people, there must be quite a change in the terms which the company is willing to accept.

Acting Mayor Forriest expressed the greatest satisfaction when he heard the story, and other aldermen declared that the city desires to meet the G. T. R. half-way and they would be glad to see the present tangle straightened out.

PLANS ARE READY FOR LONDON HOUSE

New York Architect In City in Consultation About Bennett Theater.

Mr. E. C. Horne, of New York, known all over America, as a builder of first-class playhouses, is in the city today going over the plans and specifications for the remodeling of the Vaudeville Theater in this city. He is also going over plans for new houses in other cities in which Bennett's theatrical enterprises intend building.

With Mr. Horne today were Mr. James C. Duffield, president of the company; Mr. John Pringle, and Major Beattie, two of the prominent shareholders.

Mr. Duffield was seen by The Advertiser, but he would not talk. It is known, however, that Manager Bennett intends to have the house here remodeled and in running order by Sept. 1.

Mr. Duffield promised a statement as to the company's plans tomorrow.

SIR W. P. HOWLAND IS 96.

Toronto, May 29.—Sir William P. Howland is ninety-six years of age today, and is enjoying good health. He has recovered from the recent operation, and yesterday was strong and vigorous enough to work on his memoranda, which are making good progress towards completion.

DR. J. W. DIGBY DEAD.

Brantford, Ont., May 29.—Dr. J. W. Digby, one of the most popular and best-known medical practitioners in this section, passed away early this morning. He had not been very well for some time, but said nothing serious was anticipated.

THE MEAN THING.

Orangeville, Ont., May 29.—A foreigner hired with Mr. D. McPheeter, near here, and worked well for two days. He then got his pay and left, but last night returned and stole a bay mare and buggy and harness from his late employer. The thief, who seemed to be an American, was dressed in a gray tweed coat, with blue trousers. Detectives are on his trail.

DEAD IN A CHAIR.

Toronto, May 28.—Victor Jacobs, who came to Toronto from some point on the Pacific Coast on Thursday last, was found dead in his room in the Commercial Hotel, on Jarvis street, this morning. Jacobs was sitting in a chair with a newspaper over his head. Heart failure was the cause of death. A brother came here with Jacobs, but he cannot be located.

DAVITT LOSING GROUND.

Dublin, May 29.—The bulletin issued this morning by the physician in attendance upon Michael Davitt says that he continues to lose ground, though he is resting quietly and is free from pain.

King Alfonso's Busy Week.

Madrid, May 28.—Following is the provisional general programme of the royal wedding festivities:

May 29—Arrival and reception of foreign princes, and a presentation at the theatre of the Pardo Palace.
May 30—Official signing of the marriage agreement at the San Jeronimo Church Monastery.
May 31—Marriage ceremony at San Jeronimo Church at 11 o'clock.

June 1—Gala banquet at royal palace.
June 2—Flower battle and gala representation at the opera.
June 3—Religious feast and gala ball at the palace.
June 4—Royal bullfight.

June 5—Excursion towards Aranjuez; luminous cortege and departure of foreign princes.
June 6—Banquet at the palace in honor of the authorities.
June 8—Reception at the palace and ball at the opera house; departure of the king and queen for La Granja palace for two weeks' honeymoon, the royal couple later going to San Sebastian for the summer.

THIS THIEF MAY HAVE BEEN INSANE

Question as to Quait's Mental Condition Raised—Five Months' Term Imposed.

Alfred Quait appeared in the dock at the police court this morning for sentence on the three charges of stealing to which he pleaded guilty when he last appeared.

Mr. Hume Elliot appeared for Quait and asked that mercy be shown the prisoner, on the ground that he came from a respectable family, and that he had always borne a good character. Mr. Elliot also pointed out that Quait's manner of stealing had been out of the ordinary. He had evidently been possessed of some insane desire to hoard up goods, as there was no evidence to show that he had in any way made gain by his thefts, for he had not sold any of the goods. Counsel pleaded that the stealing might have been caused by a form of insanity, as the prisoner's father had died in an insane asylum, and a brother had also been troubled with some form of mental derangement. He also presented a petition, signed by about a hundred neighbors and friends of the prisoner, asking for leniency.

The court, in passing sentence, pointed out that the strength of Mr. Elliot's plea for mercy could not be overlooked, but that nevertheless even should Quait be insane (as did not look to be the case), a man whose insanity would cause him to steal could not be allowed to go at large, and that punishment must be dealt out to him. All possible leniency would be shown him on account of his relatives, upon whom any punishment would fall harder than upon the prisoner.

SUING FOR $30,000,000

Princes Claim the Egyptian Govt. Owes Them Huge Sum.

Cairo, May 29.—A trial of considerable interest and importance is before the Mixed Tribunal. It is the action brought against the Egyptian Government by the princes who are descendants of the late Khedive, Ismail Pasha, to recover a sum of about $30,000,000 which they allege is due to them as the surplus resulting from the sale of certain land once belonging to Ismail, but surrendered by him for the satisfaction of his debts.

Ismail Pasha, whose expenditures were enormous, raised personal loans amounting to several millions sterling, and when in 1882 he became practically bankrupt, he turned over the lands known as Istiqlal for the benefit of his creditors, who secured reimbursement by the sale of them. But there was a surplus of $30,000,000, and it is to this sum that the Khedivial princes are now laying claim. Mr. Asch, was originally brought in this case, but had, of course, to relinquish it when he became Chancellor of the Exchequer. His son, Raymond Asch, however, has been in Cairo in connection with the suit. The princes are represented by Baron de Ville, the most distinguished advocate in Cairo. The main question is whether the Istiqlal-Sanich lands were the personal property of Ismail Pasha.

NEW GUNS FOR CANADA

The Experts Busy at Woolwich Testing the New Arm.

Ottawa, May 29.—In anticipation of supplying Canadian batteries with the new British 18-pounder field gun, the new guns are now under construction in Ottawa. It was announced, it will be remembered, at the last annual meeting of the Dominion Artillery Association, that the Canadian Government had arranged for a supply of the new British artillery arm. The guns and carriages will be procured from England and the limbers and wagons will be constructed here. These are now being made in parts, which will be assembled as soon as all that are necessary are finished.

The British Government experts are now experimenting at Woolwich with the new gun, with the object of making it a thoroughly efficient arm, the equal or superior of the best now in existence. It is probable that it will be some time before complete equipment of the gun will be issued in Canada.

KING OF STREETS FOR TEN DAYS

How Monsieur Lepine Headed Off Troubles

FROM PARIS MAY DAY MOBS

Prevented Workmen from Rioting and the Apaches from Wholesale Commission of Crime.

Paris, May 28.—The streets of Paris have had a king—for ten days only. He was hastily put into rule on the night preceding May 1—now looked back on as "the day of fear"—the date on which the mighty General Confederation of Labor was to inaugurate its famous "direct action" to obtain an eight-hour working day by "manifesting" with 100,000 workmen. And, autocrat of 50,000 troops and 15,000 police and republican guards, he held the streets of Paris for ten days through an incipient general strike.

I cannot exaggerate the fear we had—fear of mob violence, fear of revolution. Four hundred million francs in gold were rushed to Belgium for deposit. How much went to London and Geneva will never be known. Ten thousand automobiles fled to the country. Respectable folks locked themselves in their houses. No vehicles were on the streets. Shops were closed. And the whole population laid in food till there were no more homes for sale. Thousands fled their bath tubs against a water famine. Thousands bought lamps, fearing gas and electricity might be cut off. Live rabbits and chickens were bought for killing. Milk cows were installed in court-yards.

And terrifying rumors the king of Paris streets took up his sway. He is Monsieur Lepine, prefect of police, the little man with the big stick, the dread schoolmaster of the Paris proletariat.

Demand Absolute Control.
"You ask me to hold Paris without bloodshed," he said to the present workmen's autocrat. "I will do it. There are 100,000 workmen who may be led into disorder; but there are particularly 10,000 Apaches, loafers and criminal toughs, who will attempt to profit in their name. I have my police and republican guards. The Government has allotted 50,000 troops from Paris, Versailles and other garrisons. The thing can be done—despite the boasted organization of the general confederation. But, understand, I will have no general strike. Give me absolute command—or I resign!"

Do you know when London was last occupied by troops? Probably during the Lord George Gordon riots in the eighteenth century. And New York? It was during the draft riots in 1862. It is a strange sight—a capital militarily "occupied." Paris saw it, in certain quarters, during the Dreyfus affair; but the last general occupation was when this same Bourse de Travail (labor exchange), was temporarily closed by the Government in 1892.

"It is like London on Sunday!" Tourists, looking fearfully from hotel windows, made the observation. The Parisians caught it up. The papers published it. "Like London on Sunday"—yes, all the melancholy was there, but not the majesty. The London brand is of the goddess sage and holy, hail, divinity melancholy! Sober, steadfast and demure, with the publication opening at their accustomed hour. Here it was the melancholy of sadness—Paris in disgrace.

On that day Paris had but one unique sight for the eye—all over the city, every few blocks, were to be seen the same detachments of infantry and dragons. I saw them behind the shrubbery of the Parc Monceau; in the courtyard of the Grand Opera; around the Arc de Triomphe; under the Eiffel tower; in the Place of the Bourse; in the Gardens of the Tuilleries.

Hidden Troops.
And those we saw were little in comparison with what were hidden. They utilized the courtyards of all the local mayors' offices, the police posts, the national palaces, the ministries, the courtyards of great companies. Five days after, when the troubles were supposed to be subsiding, I saw 500 automobile-garage hands start suddenly to "manifesting" around the Mallot gate, the entrance to my own suburb of Neuilly. I was standing in front of the as yet unopened Printania summer garden. Rat-a-plan! Rat-a-plan! Ta-ra! ta-ra! Ta-ra-a-a! I jumped a yard to hear the drums and bugles!

The doors of the summer garden flung open, and out trotted a hundred dragons, each with a drum and a bugle. They had been hidden there for five days past.

The Ambulance Dodge.
It was a brand-new Lepine inspiration. Every transfer station was transformed into a showy temporary ambulance station. A few plain-clothes police in long white hospital dusters, a stretcher displayed invitingly on the sidewalk, actually Cross flag fluttering over the doorway—and the trick was done.

"Sapristi! they mean business!" reflected the most savage Apache. Where are the 100,000 manifesting workmen? Where are the 10,000 Apaches? Their general meeting-place was in the immense Place de la Republique, near their famous Bourse de Travail. You know what these labor exchanges are? They constitute places of reunion for the centralization of labor syndicates and, at the same time, syndicate intelligence offices. This one of Paris was built at great cost by the municipality in 1889-90. As the result of agitations the Government closed it in 1893 and reopened it in 1896 to professional workmen's syndicates only, since which time it has been the natural center of higher-class agitation. A great placard running across its whole front read:

"From May 1 we will work but eight hours a day!" The vast majority of the 100,000 workmen live far from here—across Paris in all directions, in factory suburbs, in the artisans' districts, in the cheap quarters, all over—because the decree of the general confederation affected all the syndicated trades. No one will ever know how many started out. Perhaps 60,000 had the good will to make a beginning. Perhaps 30,000 actually got to see the famous eight hours placard in the course of the day—but not all at the same time, oh, no!

"Ah, the 'petits paquets'! Ah, the strategy of the manifesting high school boys!" In his vast private office the wild-eyed, intense little king of the Paris streets received telephone and auto and bicycle messages minute after minute.

Directing the Forces.
On a table was spread a great map of the capital. Half a dozen trained subordinates kept pricking colored flags into it. Shift that flag two blocks on! Mass those three flags together! Here—a message—separate those four; they have been finally divided! Start the blue up the Avenue Henri Martin! And you, Vasseur, be ready when the message comes to shift the red one into the Place of the Trocadero. Quellian, you have the procession down the Avenue Kleber.

It was thus that Monsieur Lepine managed the manifesting high school boys of half Paris when they had a day to heap flowers on the statue of Joan of Arc and raise Cain generally on a famous occasion. He did not stop the generous-minded youth from marching. No, he let them march—all day! To have mislaid them would have been to make them marchers. So the wise, white-faced, hard-little man took care not to brandish his big stick. The boys were all marching to the statue, sure. They all got there, yes. But no important group got there at the same time with another.

So he did with the infinitely more dangerous syndicated thousands on the day of fear. Like an expert checker-player, who knows how to block a game without exchanging men, Monsieur Lepine barred this bridge, but let them march, hurrahing silly triumph, five blocks down and cross that other. At a corner they would be stopped for five minutes. Here they would find a street barred—and think themselves smart to make a long detour. Ah, me! the detour was part of Lepine's plan!

So they arrived at the Bourse de Travail, all day long. The "petits paquets," thousands dropping out of the procession, yes, but thousands still persisting, now a thousand, now another—while around the vast Place de la Republique continually moved the celebrated "Mouquin merry-go-round." Monsieur Lepine has graciously bestowed the credit of its invention, with the name, on his confidential subordinate, Monsieur Mouquin. Essentially it consists of a few hundred heavy dragons or cuirassiers, from five to ten abreast, riding their heavy chargers in a compact mass round and round and round the open space that happens to be threatening as a place of violence.

So does an ice-breaker navigate the freezing waters of a port—as much to prevent the ice from forming as to break it. So when the long day of fear was finished, Paris woke to the result that the "petits paquets" had been kept with the arresting of 600 persons whereas on the ordinary mid-Lent holiday the average of arrests for 2,000!

URGES THAT VISIT

Daily Telegraph Says Would Be Crowning Event of Edward's Career.

London, May 29.—In an editorial article, the Daily Telegraph this morning strongly favors King Edward's acceptance of the invitation to visit Canada.

The Daily Telegraph thinks the British public has not yet awakened to a full appreciation of the extraordinary interest of such an event, which would be likely also to involve a visit to Washington, and, perhaps, New York.

The newspaper recognizes that possibly there are state reasons in the way of such a visit, but urges that "Canada is a living link between the American Republic and the British Empire, and that if it can be accomplished it would be not merely historic, but memorable, past all example in the record of royal progress."

The alliance of Japan, the entente with France, the better understanding with Russia, followed by visit to Washington, and a meeting with President Roosevelt, which would be a dramatic moment, instinct with significance, sealing the reconciliation of the Anglo-Saxon races for ages to come, would make the years of his majesty's influence more memorable and beneficent than any equal period of any previous reign.

THE LAND FOR THE RUSS PEASANT

The Czar Plans to Dispose of 25,000,000 Acres on Easy
Payments.

St. Petersburg, May 28.—Outlining the Government's plans for distributing lands among peasants, Minister of Agriculture Stuchinsky said this evening that the Government already had at its disposal 25,000,000 acres, composed of 10,000,000 acres of crown arable lands, situated largely in the forests, and 8,750,000 acres of private estates, the owners of which have announced their readiness to sell. Without doubt, thousands of landowners will be only too anxious to dispose of their holdings at reasonable prices.

These lands will be sold to peasants on time through the Peasants' Bank, the payments not commencing for several years. The programme, in addition to colonization of Siberia and Central Asia, contemplates the improvement of the agricultural methods of the peasantry in the extreme and for bringing the peasants, whose gregariousness leads to their gathering in villages and even in towns of a population as high as 30,000, nearer to their lands.

THE SLAVE TRADE IN WEST AFRICA

Thousands of Victims Sent to Work in Plantations—Alleged Five-Year Contracts.

London, May 28.—Henry W. Nepin-son, writes as follows concerning the slave trade in Portuguese Africa:

Just a year ago I was starting for my walk of 200 miles across the Cunene River and through the Hungry Country of Angola, south of the Congo States. I had already come up from the west coast by a roundabout route to the district of Bihe, and there I joined the path which has for centuries been one of the chief trade roads into the interior. It is merely a track, in most places so narrow that you have to walk like a native, putting one foot exactly in front of the other, but it leads in almost a direct line from the sea near Benguela across the thirty mountain belt, to the copper ranges of Katanga, and so to the lakes and away to the eastern sea. And this little track, which turns and twists to avoid every tree stump and every clump of grass, has from time immemorial been one of the great slave routes of the world.

It is so still. As I entered the Hungry Country I found slave shackles hanging on almost every bush. They are the wooden fetters with which the hands or feet of the slave are tied at night or with which slaves are linked together on the march.

The path through the Hungry Country is strewn with bones and skulls, and I found there the fresh bodies of slaves, some murdered, some left to starve, because through fever or fatigue they had been unable to keep with the party on the march, and in going through the Hungry Country no one waits.

In most cases the slaves are originally obtained by natives, who buy them on some charge of witchcraft, or for debt, or for drink. Sometimes they are kidnapped or captured in raids. Sometimes they are mere plunder of Portuguese traders. They are brought to the so-called "central agents," who are established at various points in the country under Portuguese regulations, and are forwarded by them to the coast, where they are received by other agents, chiefly at Benguela, but also at Nova Redonda and Lourenco. The average price given for emigration slaves is £16, though I have known a mangive as much as £25 there for a really nice looking girl. She, however, was not required for emigration.

Large numbers of the slaves are kept to work the plantations on the mainland or other industries along-the-shore. But I wish now to speak only of the export trade to the Portuguese Islands of San Thome and Principe, in the Gulf of Guinea. The slaves are conveyed on the ordinary passenger steamers, which run about once a fortnight. A day or two before the steamer starts they are collected in a public building before a Portuguese official called the Curador. They are asked whether they are willing to enter on the islands for five years. Not the slightest attention is paid to their answer. A tin disc with a number and a tin cylinder containing a paper with particulars as to their names, etc., are hung round their necks, and having entered the office as slaves, they go out as "contracted laborers." The planters pay from £25 to £30 for a grown slave delivered in good condition.

It is almost entirely for the cultivation of cocoa that the slaves are required, and the cocoa trade is now of great and increasing value. I believe it amounts to about £1,000,000 a year. And the value of the slaves is consequently so great that I think their masters try in most cases to keep them alive. Yet, as our consul, Mr. Nightingale, said in his last published report, the death rate, where we can check it, is enormous.

The Arch-Fiend of the Age.

Not war, more deadly than ever this modern butchery—but catarrh which leads to consumption and annually kills more than famine and war combined. The doctors now successfully fight catarrh with a remedy that never fails—"Catarrhoxone." It's death to every type of catarrh. It destroys every root and branch of the disease so thoroughly that a relapse need never be feared. If troubled with cold nasal or throat catarrh, or subject to bronchitis or asthma use Catarrhoxone, and you'll be cured forever.

is enormous. Among the slaves of the Principe, one in five dies every year, and where I have been able to test the rate on San Thome, it is almost equally high.

At the end of the five years the survivors are called up in batches of about fifty before the Curador and are informed that their contract has been renewed for another term of five years. They never go back.

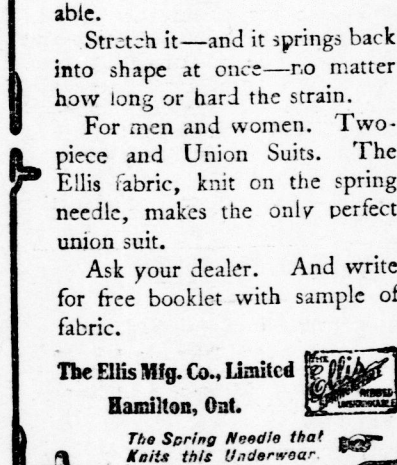

As a nation we have the right to interfere. In 1880 we paid Portugal £200,000 to stop her slave trade. By the Berlin and Brussels acts of only twenty-one and sixteen years ago, Portugal bound herself, in common with us, to put down the slave trade from the Congo Basin and Central Africa generally. We have also the right of common humanity, which we have always claimed. I go about the world a good deal, and I know only too well how much of her reputation for humanity and justice England has lost in the last ten years.

London, May 28.—Charles Devlin P., today asks questions in the commons. One is re the Allan Line and the London and North Western Railway. The question is that greater economy can be effected in time and distance by the use of the Allan Line than by the London and North Western Railway. The question is whether the Allan Line is a better mode of dispatch than the London and North Western Railway.

The third question urges that representations be made that an import be visited as hitherto.

LONDON, TUESDAY, MAY 29, 1906.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

This is the time of year in which London looks her best. Without any striking natural features, she is easily the comeliest city in the Dominion when she puts on her summer garb. This is not alone the conviction of every Londoner, but the testimony of strangers. Her rivals may derisively dub her London-in-the-Woods, but what wouldn't they give for her unobtrusive charms? Other cities have their parks, but London is a park in itself. Seasons come and go, and make little change in the aspect of these places, but London responds to the summer and autumn like a beautiful landscape. What city can show streets so wide? Or such profusion of green lawn? Or such profusion of trees? We can bless the early fathers of the city, who laid it out on so generous a scale that every householder may sit under his own vine and fig-tree, and who made tree-planting a civic policy, though the park commissioner would prefer that this be pursued on more scientific lines.

One request that we must make of this admiring stranger is to be content with what he sees at first glance. The city has a Queen Anne front, but a Mary Ann back. Our yards and lanes are dumps for offal and garbage, and we send health inspectors around once a year to make us clean up, or be summoned to the police court. In the spring the trees and lawns put on their lovely verdure in the front of the house, and the vanishing of the, fortunately, antiseptic snow reveals the refuse heap and the ashpile at the rear. The Forest City is like a pretty girl who rigs herself in a becoming skirt and waist, but is a little careless of her lingerie.

ELECTRICITY DIRECTLY FROM COAL.

Some weeks ago The Advertiser reprinted an interview obtained from Thomas Edison by the New York World in which he announced that in a short time he hoped to hit upon a process of producing electricity directly from coal, which, he declared, would revolutionize industry by the saving it would effect in the cost of motive power. It may be that he has been anticipated by Dr. W. W. Jacques, the electrical expert of the Bell Telephone Company. Jacques has secured a patent which the United States commissioner of patents says is the most important ever issued in that country. Careful tests, made by the National Electric Light Association, of a large number of modern electric light and power plants, show that the average plant wastes 97.4 per cent and utilizes as electricity only 2.6 per cent of the energy contained in the coal. Much of the energy of combustion goes up the chimney as heat or smoke; much of the heat is lost in boiling the water to make steam; much of the expansive force of the steam is wasted as it escapes from the engine; much of the power of the engine is wasted as friction; and there is some loss in the dynamo itself. Dr. Jacques' process is described as follows:

Starting with the familiar fact that when coal is burned in the air it produces heat, Dr. Jacques discovered that when coal is submerged in a suitable liquid and burned beneath the level of the liquid it no longer produces heat, but electricity instead. The apparatus is equally simple. Coal is put into an iron basket which is lowered into a heated iron tank filled with the liquid. Air is pumped into the liquid. Coal and air are consumed; electricity is directly produced.

The direct and cheap production allows enormous electrical power to be generated in a very small space; thus a single lump of coal no larger than an egg has been found to generate so strong an electrical current as easily to sustain a weight of half a ton.

Professor Cross, professor of physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says: "The current contains almost the total equivalent of the potential energy of the carbon and practically unlimited in quantity, can be continued for an indefinite time without any other than a useful consumption of material." The Hamilton Times comments as follows:

"Of course these are statements based on laboratory tests only; but if the practical development of the principle is a success the great Niagara power companies may find that their much-talked-of monopoly is a vanishing dream."

THE BALANCE OF TRADE.

The United States Bureau of Statistics, in a recent bulletin, states that the average monthly exports of that country are $147,208,973, and the imports $101,506,417. In addition, the readers of the bulletin are informed that Great Britain's average monthly exports are $143,574,912, and her imports $241,320,911. This comparison is probably furnished in order that deductions favorable to the United States may be based upon the excess of British imports over exports, and the excess of American exports over imports. The current notion in the United States is that these figures show a tremendous adverse balance against Great Britain. How does it happen, asks the New York Journal of Commerce, that Great Britain is not impoverished by having to pay nearly $100,000,000 a month for imports in something besides exported commodities? How does she happen really to hold the first financial position among the nations, and draw gold to herself whenever she needs it? What makes London still the commercial clearing house of the world?

These questions are perplexing only to people who do not understand the principles of commerce, but this class is probably in the majority. The Journal of Commerce undertakes to enlighten them. The "balance of trade delusion," it terms a "most tenacious superstition," and it points out that Great Britain's excess of imports over exports represents the proceeds of British capital and enterprise abroad. These are employed in production and trade in all parts of the world. "They (the British) are mining in Africa and South America; they are practically by their investments operating plantations, mills and transportation systems in various parts of the world; they are building and constructing for others; they are carrying merchandise over seas, insuring cargoes and other property, and conducting banking and exchange the world over, besides loaning to all borrowers with good credit and some without it. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, while not making the best use of its own resources on account of considerable monopolizing of land, is gathering tribute by its capital and energy and its business skill from the ends of the earth, and bringing treasures home by peaceful commerce. Thereby it is enriching the nation and not impoverishing it, adding to its prosperity a measure that could not be derived from its own soil and its home industries."

This is the very A B C of commercial science, but the lesson is still needed.

The Russian Government proposes to give away some crown land in order to secure a stay of execution.

While the city is waiting for Niagara power, a system of garbage removal might be a good stroke of business.

Nearly the whole Ontario Legislature has gone to New Ontario in a special train, and even the Whitneys hope to see something more than stunted poplar.

Earl Grey, unlike his predecessor, shows a disposition to see and judge Canada for himself. His education will not be complete until he visits the garden of Canada, of which London is the hub. Why not invite him?

Mrs. Montefiore, the English woman suffragist, whose house is under siege because she refuses to pay taxes while disfranchised, advises her sister suffragists to throw bricks through Hon. Mr. Asquith's windows. The ladies will have no difficulty in throwing the bricks, but how are they going to hit the windows?

A CURE FOR BIG HEAD.

"I hate a man who thinks he knows it all and wants to run everything," "Well," answered the placid person, "there is usually one way to get even with him."

"What is that?"

"Put him next to a sailboat."

THE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

[Manchester Guardian.]

In the year that ended on April 5, 1904, there were, according to a return prepared by the treasury, 19 persons in Great Britain with an income of over £500,000 a year. The aggregate income of these 19 persons was £1,968,442, or an average of just over £100,000 each. At the other end of the scale, there were 13,356 persons whose incomes did not exceed £160 a year, but who were not exempt from the payment of income tax. Their aggregate income amounted to £11,930,867, or an average of about £29 each. And the 140,154 persons returned themselves as receiving over £150 a year, but less than £290, while 219 persons possessed incomes of over £10,000 and less than £50,000 a year. The incomes of 113 firms exceeded £50,000 a year, as did also those of 34 public companies and 45 municipal corporations and other local authorities. The total number of persons assessed for income tax was 451,223, and the gross amount of income assessed was £123,592,622. The 56,865 firms who made returns admitted a gross income of £47,225,516, while the gross income of 23,152 public companies amounted to £238,944,107. In Ireland not a single income of over £50,000 a year was returned, but 28 public companies were assessed on incomes exceeding that sum.

WOMEN AND 'CAREERS.'

[Juliet Wilbur Tompkins in Success.]

Once it was difficult, almost impossible, for a girl of breeding to have a career. Think of poor Jane Austen, dropping her white sewing hastily over her writing when a guest came in, that she might not be called ungenteel! And it is only fifty-seven years since Elizabeth Blackwell, applying for permission to win a medical diploma, was refused by a dozen colleges, one of which added to its refusal the interesting statement that "it would be unbecomingly and immoral to see a woman instructed in the nature and laws of her organism." Now, in the United States alone there are seven medical colleges for women, besides the men's colleges to which they are admitted, over 7,000 are practicing physicians and surgeons, and the theories for and against such things are being forgotten in the light of their actual work. The same opposition met every new venture. About fifty years ago an Englishman tried to introduce watchmaking among his countrywomen, a delicate and profitable trade, in which hundreds of Swiss women were employed, but his initial lecture on the subject was mobbed and broken up by British prejudice, and though three venturesome souls did try to follow his suggestions and learn the trade, persecution finally obliged them to give up. Now there are over 4,000 watch and clockmakers in the United States, and a woman may learn any trade she pleases without comment."

EXPORT WIDOW TRADE.

[Peking Chung Hwa-Rao.]
A Fengtien correspondent states that a Japanese has imported about 3,000 Japanese widows, whom he offers for sale either as domestic servants or as secondary wives. Photographs are first shown to intending purchasers, who then make their selection, and the woman is weighed and her value calculated on a basis of 60 cents a catty (Chinese pound).

ONE CORONER'S JOB.

[Branford Examiner.]
The record of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police from the days when it made its celebrated march to the Rockies is a unique one, and equaled perhaps by no constabulary force in the world. The force has had before it high ideals of duty, and is justly proud of its traditions. Wrong-doing has been dealt with sharply and unflinchingly, no matter how remote the place, how dangerous the journey or how great the cost. Last January Inspector Gomer, of Port Albert, returned from a patrol to the far north to inquire into a case of alleged murder. He was absent 132 days and traveled 1,750 miles by canoe and dog-train. As a coroner he held an inquest and established that the death was accidental. One celebrated case cost upwards of $100,000. Labor and expense are not spared in bringing the criminal to justice.

MUTUAL GOOD WISH.

[T. P.'s Weekly.]
The Archbishop of Dublin recently performed a marriage in the family of a wealthy Irish distiller. After the breakfast the distiller thanked the archbishop effusively for his share of the proceedings, and said to him as he took leave, "The Lord be with you." "And with thy spirit," is reported to have been the rejoinder.

FLYING HIGH IN LONDON.

[London World.]
To ask one's friends to motor is far too commonplace now, so the newest notion is to take them ballooning around the adjacent country. "Will you spend Saturday to Monday with us and do a little flying?" is the new form of the week-end invitation, and as time goes on, no doubt, these balloon parties will be given on a more ambitious scale.

A STRANGE STORY.

[Chicago News.]
The nicest man I ever seen!

He didn't care if I was green.

It was so hearty an as free.

As chipper as a man could be.

He shook my hand and slapped my back. He took me right off, kersmack.

He showed me all about the town—By Jucks! that feller done it brown.

He set 'em up, I couldn't say. A cent for nothing, anyway.

I never seen his beat, by Jucks! I luffed till I most bust, by Jucks!

He was so plagues nice, by heck! Of course, I had to cash his check.

He said he was sea me later on. What's that? You say it was a "con?"

Mebbe it was; you ought to know. That feller was a corker, though.

I took his check and went next day right to the bank an' where they pay.

I haved it through the window, too. Jest 'ike I seen the others do.

An'—shucks! they didn't have no doubt. They counted me the money out.

WILL ENA BRING LUCK?

[From the New York World.]

All the world may love a lover, but all the world does not necessarily love a Spanish royal marriage. For a century now unhappiness and disaster have been bridesmaids at all these weddings. A fatality unlike anything else in modern history has hovered over the Spanish crown.

Ferdinand VII., while he was still Crown Prince, married Marie Antoinette Therese of Naples, and thereby earned the imperial wrath of Napoleon. After the death of the Crown Princess he began to intrigue for the hand of one of Napoleon's nieces, and thereby earned the wrath of his royal parents. The discovery of his secret negotiations was followed by his arrest; the Spanish people sympathized with the Prince; Charles IV. was forced to abdicate, and before Ferdinand was fairly seated on his throne, Napoleon was in possession of his kingdom.

After the French were driven from Spain, and Ferdinand regained his crown, he married Maria Christina of Naples, whose very name is still hated by the people of Spain. Largely through her influence he issued the Pragmatic Sanction, which abolished the Salic law and made Isabella the Crown Princess. It was this act which gave Spain its heritage of Carlist conspiracies.

As a result of Louis Philippe's interference Isabella was married to Francis of Assis for reasons which the historian hesitates to discuss too frankly. It was a marriage which brought the queen into the deepest disrepute and led finally to her exile.

When Alfonso XII., her son, was finally restored to the throne of his forefathers he made an unpopular marriage with his cousin, and Mercedes died a few months after becoming a bride. For his second wife he took the Archduchess Maria Christina of Austria. It was a marriage doubly distasteful to his subjects, for the bride was not only a Hapsburg, but she bore the name of Ferdinand's consort. Alfonso XII. did not live to see the son that bears his name, the "boy king," Alfonso XIII., and while the queen conducted herself wisely during her regency, she had the reputation of being with the Spanish people.

For the first time in a hundred years a Spanish marriage now promises domestic happiness to the royal couple and political happiness to Spain. In the first place, the union of King Alfonso and the Princess Ena next Thursday will be a marriage of love, which appeals to the sentiment of the Spanish people. The bride may lack great personal beauty, but she is represented as a wholesome young person, with all the tact and good sense of an eminently sensible family. Even the fact that she was a Protestant and accepted the Catholic religion only to become the wife of Alfonso has cost her no popularity in Spain, while her appeal to the English royal family appeals to the pride of the proudest people in Europe.

The marriage ought to be not only one of mutual happiness to the young couple, but one that will make for the political stability of the kingdom. It is more than possible that the coming of the young Princess of Battenberg will break the malevolent spell that fate seems to have cast over Spain's royal family.

The marriage ought to be not only one of mutual happiness to the young couple, but one that will make for the political stability of the kingdom. It is more than possible that the coming of the young Princess of Battenberg will break the malevolent spell that fate seems to have cast over Spain's royal family.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College.

[Thomas Gray.]
Ye distant spires! ye antique towers! That crown the watery glade,
Where grateful Science still adores Her Henry's holy shade;
And ye that from the stately brow Of Windsor's heights the expanse below Of green lawns, survey;
Whose tower, whose shade, whose flowers among,

Wander the hoary Thames along His silver winding way;

Ah, happy hills! ah, pleasing shade! Ah, fields beloved in vain!
Where once my careless childhood strayed, And where my footsteps still remain;
I feel the gales that from ye blow, A momentary bliss bestow,
As waving fresh their gladsome wing, My weary soul they seem to soothe,
And, redolent of joy and youth, To breathe a second spring.

POPE AT PUBLIC SERVICE

Somewhat Improved, But Shows Sign of His Illness.

Rome, May 23.—The ceremonies attendant upon the beatification of sixteen Carmelite nuns of Compiegne who were guillotined during the French revolution took place Sunday in the presence of a large number of French and Spanish pilgrims, who remained in Rome after having been unable to see the Pope on May 20, the occasion of the beatification of the Dominican monks who lost their lives in Tonquin.

St. Peter's was specially decorated for today's celebration with paintings representing the martyrdom of the nuns and miracles wrought by their intercession. The morning function consisted of the celebration of the mass and the reading of the decree of beatification to the public.

In the afternoon the Pope, who has been very ill, descended into the church with the usual solemnity. Ten thousand tickets had been issued for the services. The Pope did not appear as well as usual, but his satisfaction because of his ability to attend the ceremony was evident. The beatification of the nuns is noteworthy as being the first honor of the kind bestowed upon martyrs of the French revolution, and the occasion is regarded as having been opportune. The Pope selected the cases of the nuns out of 152 approved by the Congregation of Sacred Rites.

After the ceremony the Pope showed signs of exhaustion, and retired immediately to bed.

LOCKED UP IN ICE BOX

Butcher's Fix While Thief Robbed His Till.

New York, May 28.—Frederick Persen, of 516 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn, spent an uncomfortable half hour yesterday in the ice box of his butcher shop, in which he had been locked by a stranger who robbed the till of nearly $100.

The stranger, a well-dressed man about 35 years old, sauntered into the shop about 7 o'clock and called for an eight-pound rib roast, an article which he knew the butcher would have to enter the ice box to get.

Persen had scarcely got inside the

COTTAGES FOR IRISH

Bryce Asks for $22,500,000 to House the Poor Laborers.

London, May 28.—Chief Secretary for Ireland Bryce introduced in the House of Commons today a bill authorizing a loan of $22,500,000 to provide laborers' cottages in Ireland.

Mr. Bryce explained that the loan would be raised on the same terms as the land loan. He estimated the cost of a cottage and land at about $500; so that between 25,000 and 30,000 cottages would be erected.

John T. Redmond, Irish Nationalist, congratulated Mr. Bryce, and said he accepted the measure as an honest effort to deal with grievances of great magnitude.

We often wonder why the man who is always boasting of the splendid portions offered him continues to hold down a cheap job.

Tea Flavor and Strength

THE greater body and richness of Indian tea when combined with the delicately flavored but thinner tea of Ceylon, produces that "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea—a tea that is strong and goes further—requires less to make a cup of equal strength than any brand of Ceylon tea alone.

Red Rose Tea combines the strength and richness of Indian tea and the delicacy and fragrance of Ceylon tea.

TANGLED THREADS

"Well, you wished to know just how I felt," she said, as she bent a gloomy look upon me. "Helen had more than her share of milk, and every other nourishing thing she required, and she grew and thrived in a way to delight my heart, and so it did not matter to me that there were days when only weak tea and rolls passed my lips. But that state of things did not last," she continued, with more animation in her tones. "I took pains with every garment that I made; my work was always nicely done; my patrons were well pleased, brought me other customers, and, ere long, I had more than I could do. Then I took larger rooms, in a better location, employed a capable assistant, and soon found myself again overrun with orders, and, so obliged to increase my forces still more. This time I ventured out more boldly. I hired a portion of a building in a fashionable locality, fitted up my establishment in a tasteful, even elegant, manner, sent out attractive announcements to swell families, in addition to my old patrons, and almost immediately found myself well established in a very lucrative business. From that time, I have known no hardship, beyond the inevitable cares and responsibilities of such an undertaking, and what my pride would naturally suffer from my changed condition in life. I had long since changed my name, representing myself as a widow, having no personal friends in New York, and being so far from my former home. I never came in contact with any one whom I had previously known. I continued to prosper, I charged good prices for my work, and, in every instance, aimed to give an honest equivalent; consequently, money flowed into my hands faster and faster, until I was placed beyond all fear of want, and knew that I could rear and educate my child as carefully and thoroughly as my fondest wishes dictated. I made a pretty home; I surrounded Helen with all that was refined and pleasing, and almost in choosing her associates, I allowed her to go only to places of amusement that were pure, ennobling, and instructive, and she is today a sweet, innocent, lovable, womanly girl—talented, too, for I have given her every possible advantage, and she is a daughter of whom any mother may be justly proud," she concluded, her face having become tenderly luminous, as, for the moment, she forgot herself and her troubles in enlarging her child's life. "Yes, yes, I realize that all you say of her is true; and you have certainly been a faithful mother; you have done your work well," her listener observed, as she paused; then he added remorsefully: "But I am appalled when I think of what you have had to meet and conquer during all those years. Can you ever forgive me, Margaret?"

Two Million Little Children Starving

Poor and Rich Alike Suffer From Lack of Good Food

We notice that John Spargo, in his new book, "The Bitter Cry of the Children," says no less than two million of our American children between the ages of five and fourteen are victims of chronic under-feeding. They are the easy prey of disease, nervous, irritable, weakened both physically and mentally, and unfit for that perfect development which nature intended for them. Mr. Spargo speaks particularly of the children of the poor, but what he says is, in thousands of cases, true to the children of the wealthy and the comfortably well-to-do. Many children who have "all they can eat" are really undernourished. For the food which they are given is not food from which they can get the nutrition they need. There is no other food, so far as we know, so nutritious, so strengthening for children as Malta-Vita, the perfect malted whole-wheat food. This is not only because Malta-Vita is so rich in all the nutrition the body needs for sustaining health and strength. More important by far is the fact that the malted wheat is so easily assimilated and assimilated that all the life-giving elements are taken up by the system, forming rich, red blood in abundance and giving growth and vigor to body and brain. Malta-Vita is insurance of perfect health for children. And it is so good to eat! All grocers, now 10 cents.

passionately revengeful; but, one night when more than usually rebellious, a voice within me suddenly and sharply arraigned me. "What of your child, Margaret Wilton?" It seemed to say, "are you going to entice such a child, murderous thoughts as this innocent little one? Will you impose upon it the bondage of hate, and discord, and wretchedness? Will you, by the influence of your own unrighteous thoughts, thus bringing upon yourself, when it is too late, the curse of such incalculable less remorse for wrong? Or will you obey the divine precepts of One who, though stricken, smitten, and afflicted, as no other human being has ever been taught that love begets love, and that purity, gentleness, and sweetness are fruits which are gathered from the thorns and briars of envy, hate and malice." I was not conquered in an hour," she said, with a pathetic quiver in her tones. "I battled with my will for many a weary day, but the motherhood within me finally won the victory, and I began, as it were, a new existence, determined that my child should at least respect its mother, and find in her a model worthy to be imitated. So I ceased to hate. I turned my back resolutely upon all vain repining, and strove to cultivate in myself those virtues which I wished to see reflected in my little one. So you will understand, John, why I no longer cherish a spirit of ill-will or vindictiveness for you, and—if it will be a source of comfort to you—I will tell you I can also say that I forgive you."

"Oh, my darling!" the man suddenly burst forth, as he took an eager step toward her. "But—do not misunderstand me," she interposed, and lifting one delicate hand to arrest him, "we must never meet again!" John Wilton's head sank upon his breast at her words. He knew that he had received his final sentence; that there would be no spoken kindly and gently, but with a resolute intonation that bespoke an unswerving purpose. A deathly pallor settled over his face, which also seemed to grow drawn and pinched, from the agony of the past hours, while his eyes were like those of a deer that had been mortally wounded. "I see that I must bow to the inevitable," he observed, as soon as he could command himself sufficiently to speak. "I suppose I had no right to expect anything else, but it seems hard, Margaret, very hard. However, I am not ungrateful for your assurance that you forgive—that you do not utterly hate and despise me. Now, will you, at least, that I may be permitted to grant me a personal favor?"

Mrs. Seymour lifted an inquiring glance to him. "That remains to be seen; it depends upon what the nature of the favor is," she cautiously returned. "It is this—that you will allow me to provide for your future, to settle upon you and Helen a sum that will make you independent, and so relieve you from the necessity of ever toiling another day for your support." The man earnestly entered into the details of this proposition. "Accept money from you?" she cried, with quivering lips. "No, never, John Wilton! How dare you propose such a thing?" He flushed hotly, also, from mingled disappointment and wounded feeling. "But why, Margaret?" he pleaded. "It seems only right that I should share what I have with you and that dear girl. You are my nearest of kin, and the whole world belongs to you, legally, in the event of my demise." "No—no!" she reiterated vehemently, and with a gesture of repulsion. "But I shall do it, in spite of your protest!" he retorted almost fiercely. "You shall not!" she returned, straightening her form haughtily, her eyes beginning to blaze with anger. "You will see," he said, with firm-set lips, but gazing upon her with a look of admiration, for she was regally beautiful in that attitude and mood. "I will not have so much as a penny from you!" she said in a voice that was terrible in its calmness. "If you presume to do such a thing, I will immediately transfer every dollar to some charitable institution."

"Margaret, you are incorrigible!" cried her companion, in a voice of despair. "You tell me of your struggles, of the poverty you have suffered, you claim that I have ruined your life, and yet you will not allow me to make the slightest restitution." "There can be no restitution. Do you think that money could effect that?" she questioned, with curling lips. "I will never touch your gold. If I am incorrigible, I am also self-respecting, and will incur no financial obligations—least of all from you!" [To be Continued.]

Mr. Gould's Son

Local Contractor's Boy, Melvin, Cured.

Mrs. W. H. Gould, of 217 Hamilton road, this city, has given the following testimonial for Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill: "My son, Melvin Gould, fourteen years of age, who attends the Aberdeen school, Hamilton road, quite regularly, was taken ill two years ago with diphtheria. Although he quite recovered from his illness he has been rather delicate ever since, subject to spells of biliousness and nausea, and had a very irregular appetite, several days together not eating scarcely anything, and then again eating almost too well, what I should call a false appetite, for soon after he would be sick at the stomach. He was troubled more or less with costiveness. I tried everything in the medicine line, but only found a cure when he began taking Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill. The first two or three tablets helped him more than anything he had yet taken, so since then Anti-Pill is the only reliable cure. Anti-Pill seems to give him new life and energy and he eats better, more regularly, and is troubled no more with those nausea and bilious spells. In a short time, too, after he began on the tablets, the costiveness left; his bowels now move more regularly." The Wilson-Pyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

LIFE'S BLOOD FOR A LIVING

Exhibition Which Shows Conditions of London's Sweat Shop Tailors.

London, May 28.—Fashionable ladies, whose sympathy with social problems is confined to tea and discussion at west-end drawing-room meetings, are visiting the Sweated Industries Exhibition, now open at the Queen's Hall, Langham Place.

They will now understand, as they certainly never did before, the real meaning of the phrase, "How the poor live," which they are accustomed to use so glibly. One can imagine people who are not utterly dead to all feeling passing sleepless nights, haunted by thoughts of what this exhibition has revealed to them.

It was a brilliant inspiration to bring to the west end the life of the east end as lived by a vast number of London's toilers—that is to say, their working lives—a matter, probably, of sixteen out of the twenty-four hours in each day. Many people have such poor imaginations, never convey the real picture to their minds. It is only when they have such an opportunity as this exhibition affords, that they begin to appreciate the terrible significance of the word "sweating."

There are shown here examples of the hundreds of different articles manufactured in their homes by toilers, many of whom on the average cannot make more than a penny an hour. At a number of stalls the workers themselves are seated, continuing here the work they do at home.

It is not possible to enumerate more than a few of the "sweated" articles that are being shown. Princess Ena of Battenburg was present on the opening day, and saw a woman engaged in making children's knickerbockers, for which she receives 10d a dozen. A shawl fringer was showing how hard she has to work for seventeen hours a day in order to make 5s a week. Again, there was a blouse maker, whose income stands at the same figure. An experienced shoemaker, who has to find his own needles, was showing how he gains less than a shilling a day by fourteen hours' toil. A widow, who has made brushes for 37 years, was ready to tell how she received 1d for filling 1,000 holes, and can never make more than 6s a week.

The exhibition will have served its purpose if it opens the eyes of many to the methods by which men become rich to excess by sweating the very life-blood of the fellows.

The British people are all "sweaters." The world is full of willing people. Some are willing to work, and the rest are willing to let them.

The British Empire, with a big "B" on which the sun never sets, possesses courts which the sun never penetrates.

It is a nice thing to talk about thrift when one has £18 a week. It is quite a different thing to a man who earns a "bob" a day.

With telling words such as these, Mr. Crooks expounded and illustrated his theory at the exhibition on Friday that the responsibility for "sweating" rests not upon any particular class, but upon all classes. Women were telling their souls out for dry bread and tea, and the lower they sank, and the more worn out they were, the more humble they became.

GIVE COCAINE PARTIES
Chain of Philadelphia Houses Given Over to Drug Soirees.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Coroner's detectives probing into the case of Angela Carr, who died from cocaine poisoning caused by using a patent cocaine powder, discovered a startling social condition here in the shape of "cocaine parties," held as regular social functions in certain houses given over entirely to that purpose.

At the same time they found that these parties were attended in some cases by men and women of good families and of acknowledged social and business prominence. The chain of houses given over to the "parties" is apparently under one management, and the functions are presided over by a young woman of a good Norristown family.

The profits of the house are said to have been shared between herself and a well-known physician, from whom she secured the drug. The coroner learned that there are scores of women addicted to the use of cocaine. He secured the names of no less than six companions of the dead woman, nearly all of whom are broken in health and dying.

It was established that Angela Carr had acquired the drug habit at one of the "cocaine parties" and that she afterwards became a helpless victim.

LOVE DIES IN COLD BATHS
Such Appreciation of Daily Bunch of Violets Too Much for Him.

Chicago, May 28.—Every evening he brought her violets, but she made him take cold baths as he wanted a divorce. He is Alfred A. Lange, a music teacher, and she is Violet, and that is why he brought her the flowers.

"I had to go away from home to take baths because she would not allow me to use hot water," he told the court.

KILLED ON STATE SOIL

U. S. Soldiers To Be Tried on a Charge of Manslaughter.

Washington, May 28.—The war department has detailed Lieut. Edwin M. Stanton, Third Infantry, grandson of the famous war secretary, and at present attached to the office of the judge advocate-general, to assist the United States district attorney at Pittsburgh in the defense of two soldiers who are to come before the court at that place on June 18 on a charge of manslaughter.

The case is one of the first order of importance to military men, for upon it depends the right of the United States to inflict summary punishment upon civilians who commit crimes upon a military reservation, and then make their escape. Incidentally it involved the question as to the extent of the authority of the commanding officer of a post to protect the Government under his charge from harm.

Lieut. Drury and Pte. Dowd are the accused. Some copper had been stolen from the Allegheny arsenal and a man was seen running away with a parcel. He was pursued across the line of the post, and, falling to stop upon the demand of Drury, by his order Dowd sent a bullet through the fugitive.

If the man had fallen within the limits of the post, there would have been no question as to the right of the soldier to have shot him. But as he was killed on Pennsylvania soil, the local authorities had the soldiers arrested, and in the lower court pleaded lack of jurisdiction on the part of the state, but this was rejected, and now the case will come before the appellate tribunal to be tried upon its merits.

Physically Exhausted.

Lacking in courage—out of joint with everything—scarcely on speaking terms with even fair health. Such low spirits are pitiable. Your brain is fagged, vitality so exhausted your constitution is well nigh ruined.

What you need is Ferrozene, that great vitalizer and nutritive tonic. It's by making blood, by infusing iron and oxygen into the system that Ferrozene helps! It repairs weak spots, instills new life into worn-out organs—makes you feel like new. Ferrozene lifts you from the old and imparts resilience and buoyancy to the depressed. Be manly, ruddy-colored—cast aside weakness and enter the happy life that comes from using Ferrozene. Fifty cents buys a box in any drug store.

Money paid to a ferryman is ferocious, but money paid to a cabman is not cabbage.

TIME TRIES all things, and as Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup has stood the test of time it now ranks as a leading specific in the treatment of all ailments of the throat and lungs. It will soften and subside the most stubborn cough by relieving the irritation, and restore the affected organs to healthy conditions.

What Is Catarrh?
Disease Prevalent Now Can Be Cured Quickly With Hyomei.

Until very recent years, it was thought that catarrh was a disease of the blood, but now modern science has proved that catarrh is a germ disease, and can be cured only by a treatment that will kill the germ and heal the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

Therefore, when you have catarrh, you can really see that if you want to cure it, you should use Hyomei, which mediates the air you breathe, thus killing the catarrhal germs and healing the smothering and raw membrane of the passages through the nose and throat.

In breathing Hyomei you are really treating your catarrhal troubles with the only natural method, for it will make the air you breathe as pure, healing and antiseptic as that found on the mountains where the pine forests give off their fragrant and healing balsams.

The complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and a medicine dropper, costs only $1, while extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Write today for consultation blank that will entitle you to services of our medical department, without charge, to R. T. Booth Company, Hyomei Building, Ithaca, N. Y.

THEY DID JUST AS THEY WANTED

Witness Says Standard Oil Men Had Railways Under Their Thumb.

Cleveland, O., May 23.—After three days spent in taking testimony concerning the affairs of the Standard Oil Company, the interstate commerce commissioners, Prouty and Clements, adjourned and shortly thereafter started for Washington, where they will prepare their report for presentation to congress.

W. E. McEwen, former chief clerk in the car department of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad general offices in Cleveland, testified that he had charge of the compiling of the mileage of the cars of the Union Tank line.

He said that the reports were forwarded each day to the Cleveland office of the Standard Oil Company. The Lake Shore company, he declared, gave the Standard a big advantage in tabulating records of tank cars, in that the mileage of Standard tank cars were figured on a different basis than the cars of competing companies.

The advantage amounted all the way from eight cents to 54 cents a car, according to the distance between different points on the road. He left the Lake Shore company to work for the Peerless Transit Company, an independent tank line, and when he asked the Lake Shore officials for the same basis of figuring mileage as was given to the Union Tank line, he was ridiculed and every effort was made to belittle him in the eyes of his new employers.

Finally he got copies of the Union Tank line reports and taking them to the proper officials, he was reluctantly granted his request.

McEwen said the Lake Shore and Pennsylvania Railroad companies had recently begun rejecting the Peerless tank cars, built two or three years ago in accordance with specifications furnished by the railroad companies, while Union tank cars not complying with the specifications were accepted.

McEwen also testified that the mileage for Standard tank cars between Cleveland and Chicago was figured on the basis of 357 miles, while the mileage for independent cars was figured on the basis of 329 miles. The same rule, he claimed, prevailed between all other points on the Lake Shore road.

The witness made the further charge that certain freight employees of the Lake Shore road received monthly salaries from the Union Tank Line Company, a Standard concern, and made special efforts to facilitate the movements of Standard Oil shipments.

ARMY WITH THE DOUMA

Time Has Arrived When It Will Support
Parliament, Says Officer.

St. Petersburg, May 23.—There was much excitement in the corridors before the Lower House met today. An officer, identified as a colonel on the general staff, created a stir by openly declaring in the presence of a score of peasant members that the time had come when the army should support Parliament, which represented the will of the people and not the Emperor.

At the opening of the session a communication was read, outlining a project to grant general amnesty to all open private schools. A petition signed by 73 members proposed the appointment of a parliamentary commission to investigate the abuse of power on the part of the Administration.

When the debate on the personal liberty bill was resumed, M. Chichouloff, minister of justice, in an exceedingly liberal tone, made a speech, in which he pointed out the necessity for supplementing the proposed laws, which he endorsed, with bills providing for the reorganization of court procedure and others to enable officials, guilty of abuse of power, to be prosecuted civilly and criminally.

The speech created much comment, especially as the Government distinctly repudiated all responsibility for the minister's conciliatory remarks on Saturday, and in view of the fact that it was rumored that he would be dismissed.

The outcome of his conciliatory remarks was to show how great the gulf between Parliament and the ministry, the speakers who followed him, scoring his advances and declaring, amid applause, that Parliament wanted, instead of the responsibility of the judges, the responsibility in the ministry.

The personal liberty bill was then referred to a committee.

How the Liver Helps Digestion

It is the liver only that can remove the bile from the blood, where it acts as a poison and produces biliousness and jaundice, and pass it into the intestines, where it acts as a cathartic to hasten the passage of the food through the body.

Without the hastening influence of the bile the food ferments in the intestines and gives rise to such disagreeable symptoms of indigestion as wind on the stomach, choking feelings in the chest, heart palpitation, pain and feelings of fullness and discomfort.

By keeping the liver active Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure biliousness, intestinal indigestion and constipation, and these are the very ills from which most people most frequently suffer.

When you fully understand the nature of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you will find that they are indispensable as a family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ETIQUETTE NOT TO IRK PRINCESS

Alfonso Has Promised That She Shall Do About as She Wants.

London, May 23.—Like all young men very much in love, whose wedding day approaches, King Alfonso has promised his sweetheart everything she has asked for.

Princess Ena told her friends before she went to Spain that she had looked forward to the antiquated, rigorous etiquette of the Spanish court with fear and trembling.

"But," she laughed, "Alfonso has promised to modify the formalities that would surround me so that I can be comfortable at least."

The reigning Queen of Spain always has 24 noble ladies in waiting, of whom eighteen attend her every moment during her waking hours.

"I shall feel as if I were always in a crowd," Princess Ena told her friends, half joking.

He promptly declared that the ladies in waiting shall be invisible until she summons them to immediate attendance.

Traditional etiquette also, prescribes that a Spanish queen shall never except to take part in a formal court quadrille. Princess Ena is passionately fond of waltzing, and Alfonso has given her his royal word that she shall waltz when she pleases.

The Princess's friends have noticed a wonderful improvement in her figure during the past few weeks. Heretofore it has distracted from her beauty, appearing clumsy and too high-shouldered. Her friends are telling how the Spanish ambassador bravely assumed the role of a heavy doctor. Taking a liberal, even a fraternal, view of his diplomatic duties, the ambassador made bold one day to ask the Princess in a very polite and roundabout way where she bought her corsets.

Ena, always good-humored, laughed heartily in accordance with specifications furnished by the railroad companies, while Union tank cars not complying with the specifications were accepted.

McEwen also testified that the mileage for Standard tank cars between Cleveland and Chicago was figured on the basis of 357 miles, while the mileage for independent cars was figured on the basis of 329 miles. The same rule, he claimed, prevailed between all other points on the Lake Shore road.

The witness made the further charge that certain freight employees of the Lake Shore road received monthly salaries from the Union Tank Line Company, a Standard concern, and made special efforts to facilitate the movements of Standard Oil shipments.

IMPERIAL UNITY

McGill Professor Wants Us to Take
Hand in Governing the Empire.

Toronto, May 23.—"We must become a real integral, governing part of the British Empire: if not that, we shall become something infinitely less," was the emphatic declaration of Dr. Stephen B. Leacock, of McGill University, in his lecture tonight in Massey Hall on imperial unity, delivered under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire, and in the presence of His Excellency Earl Grey and party.

Dr. Leacock was introduced by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clarke. Speaking of the urgent importance and necessity of giving earnest thought as Canadians to the question of an imperial policy and of finding a solution in the near future, Dr. Leacock said:

"If we realize in this country the need, we shall see that the time is come for an adequate imperial representation as the best and nearest hope for a safe and secure future."

In this connection he pointed out the permanent advantage of having an actual real authority, that could tax us and defend us, and really govern us.

He denounced as unsound policy the disposition to allow evolution to work out the problem, saying that it is time to be up and doing, time that we should make our future and not merely wait to see it grow.

DIES OF BROKEN HEART

Weeps Away His Life Over Death of Daughter.

New York, May 23.—Grieving over the death of his favorite daughter, Lily, who three years ago had given up the man she loved, to keep house for him in his declining years, John Marxy, a retired steamship steward, 7 years old, of 415 Evergreen avenue, Williamsbridge, came home after her funeral and dropped dead from a broken heart.

Lily, who was 33 years old, was betrothed to a prominent citizen of Brooklyn, but on the death of her mother broke the engagement and decided to attend to her father. The rejected suitor called often to renew his plea, but the girl told him there was no hope for him while her father lived.

So for three years father and daughter lived alone but happy—in moderation. Then a few days ago the girl was taken ill. Her aged father sat at her side night and day, powerless to aid her. When on Saturday Lily died his grief was heart-rending.

At the funeral the father's suffering was pitiable. With his own hands he arranged the flowers on the grave and returned home in tears. Neighbors heard him sobbing bitterly for hours.

Last night, John Kleurze, the janitor, hears a noise as of something falling in the Marxy apartment, and going to the room, found the aged man dead on the floor. A parrot that had been the pet of the daughter was shrilly calling, "Lily, Lily."

TO INSPECT MANCHURIA

Togo, Kuroki and Ito to Start Soon on a Tour.

Tokyo, May 23.—Vice-Admiral Togo, Gen. Kuroki and Marquis Ito, with a suite of generals and admirals, will start shortly on a tour of inspection in Manchuria. This important mission is supposed to be the outcome of the recent state council, at which, though the details have not become known, it is understood weighty decisions were reached respecting the Manchurian railways, which are intended to be permanently run by the Government. This naturally will necessitate the dispatch of another big loan. Opinions are divided as to the prospects of the railways, but a hopeful opinion predominates.

Yesterday the anniversary of the battle of the Sea of Japan, the navy's greatest day, was celebrated with brilliant festivities, which were graced by the presence of the Crown Prince.

LOSES AN ARM AT CARDS

Player Puts Piece of Dynamite Under Table to Steady It.

Trenton, N. Y., May 23.—While playing cards last night, several men were badly injured by the explosion of a small piece of dynamite which one of the group had placed under the leg of the card table to steady it. The most seriously hurt was Michael Conto, whose arm was blown off.

The house is a four-story tenement on South Warren street. Seventeen families dwell in it and when the explosion occurred a hundred tenants rushed to the street.

A hole five feet wide was torn in the floor. The building was jarred to such an extent that a lamp was overturned on an upper floor, setting fire to the house. This was quenched after considerable damage had been done.

The accident was caused by Michael Conto, who in his enthusiasm over scoring a point, brought his hand down on the table with such force as to explode the dynamite.

Don't wake baby

Did you know you could give medicine to your children while they were soundly sleeping? You certainly can. It is called Vapo-Cresolene. You put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp, and place near the bed. The children quietly breathe-in the vapor. There is nothing equal to it for whooping-cough, croup, colds, cough, sore throat, and all other troubles of the throat and chest. It is economical, pleasant, safe.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists, or sent express prepaid on receipt of price. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including a lamp, of Cresolene, complete, 50¢. Send for free illustrated booklet. LAMARCO, White Co., Ltd., Agents, 209 St. James St., Montreal.

TEDDY'S RADICALISM

Ohio Republicans Lining Up Against the "Red Folly."

Washington, D. C., May 23.—There will be fought, in the coming Ohio state convention, the first battle to prevent the Republican party from giving its sanction and adherence to the radicalism of Theodore Roosevelt. Senator Joseph B. Foraker will lead the conservative forces and upon his success in stemming the tide of what men of his belief consider to be a sort of "red folly," may depend the chances of the senior Ohio senator of being considered as a leading candidate of the conservatives of his party for the Presidency of the United States.

It is practically certain that both the senators from the McKinley state will oppose any plan of the delegates to the convention to declare in favor of an endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt's inheritance tax utterance. Senator Dick has been known in a mild sense as an administration senator. The junior Ohio member of the upper house, however, it is understood, has had a troublesome task of it to make his beliefs and his theories coincide with those of the President.

It is possible that before the convening of the Ohio Republican state gathering some of the representatives in Congress may take the seal from their lips and declare that the President's fortune saying was pregnant with wisdom. All of the Ohio members are listening for voices. It is well understood that in the new paths, then any previous year the rank and file of the Republican party in the State of Ohio will be dominating.

If a sufficiently large number of the rank and file show that they have been over to a mind to walk with the President in the new paths, then the majority of the members of the Ohio delegation in the lower house of Congress will consent perforce also to be the President's traveling companions.

WHAT LINE IS THIS?

Detroit, May 23.—A special form New Haven, Conn., says: It is stated that First Vice-President Perry R. Todd, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway Company, is to take a position as the head of a large electric railway enterprise in Canada. The project, it is stated, contemplates the construction of an electric road several hundred miles long, paralleling largely the Grand Trunk Railway and reaching several of the most important Canadian cities in Western Ontario.

Many Women have Kidney Trouble and don't know it. They attribute their ill-health to weakness. Dragging pains in the hips, backache, nervousness, tiredness, headaches—are more often caused by sick kidneys. If your kidneys are not well, the other delicate organs are disturbed and inflamed, bringing on the horrors of female weakness and the serious troubles often attending pregnancy.

Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY PILL

cures these cases of "Female Weakness" because they cure the kidneys. They promptly restore the kidneys to health, allay inflammation, take away the pains, and make the delicate organs well and strong.

BLOOD HUMORS

PIMPLES
BLOTCHES
ERUPTIONS
FLESHWORMS
HUMORS

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by unsightly blotches, eruptions, fleshworms and humors, and various other blood diseases. Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted, as well as pain and regret to their friends.

Many a cheek and brow—cast in the mould of grace and beauty—have been sadly disfigured, their attractiveness lost, and their possessor rendered unhappy for years.

Why, then, consent to rest under this cloud of embarrassment?

There is an effective remedy for all these defects, it is,

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

This remedy will drive out all the impurities from the blood and leave the complexion healthy and clear.

Mrs. Annie Tobin, Madoc, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending your Burdock Blood Bitters to any one who may be troubled with pimples on the face. I paid out money to doctors, but could not get cured, and was almost discouraged, and despaired of ever getting rid of them. I thought I would give B.B.B. a trial, so got two bottles, and before I had taken them I was completely cured and have had no sign of pimples since."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, for over 30 years, and has cured thousands in that time. Do not accept a substitute which unscrupulous dealers say is "just as good." "It can't be."

Burdock Blood Bitters is sold by druggists, or sent express prepaid on receipt of price. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including a lamp, of Cresolene, complete, 50¢. Send for free illustrated booklet. LAMARCO, White Co., Ltd., Agents, 209 St. James St., Montreal.

Same Price To Children

As far as price is concerned your children could buy a Nordheimer—the price would be the same as to yourself.

As far as quality is concerned, no piano offers the value that the celebrated Nordheimer does. The individuality of its tone places it above all other instruments, and those who own a Nordheimer know that we give greater value for the money than any other makers.

You can get easy terms if you desire, but the Nordheimer Piano is sold on our exclusive One-Price System.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

Princess Ena is going to a bullfight in Spain. Why did not the O. J. C. get busy and invite her to the Woodbine? Those steppes would put the bovine business to the bad.

Barrow is releasing several of his players. Up to date he has not found anything better to take their places.

If those Douks ever get tired hitching their women to the plows, they can secure a select lot of skates at the Woodbine this p.m.

It looks as if Herman Long was out of the game for good. He and Bill Massey would tempt Oster to death.

Now they are going to put the bookies out of business in Toronto. Poor fellows! After the worst season in years (fingers crossed), prison bars stare them in the face. This sure is an unkind world.

Ontario is catching the last spasm of virtue tossed by our American cousins, and now wants to investigate everything the Woodbine bookies included. Great! They will probably see to it that those giddy girls, Minnie Adams and Ruth W., are stopped in their turf career.

The New York Telegraph says: Kinleydale must be passed up as one of the season's disappointments. His owner, Mr. N. Dymont, paid over $11,000 for him at public sale last fall, on the recommendation of several metropolitan horsemen. Mr. Dymont is one of Canada's best sportsmen, and is in racing for sport alone. The fact that his Potomac horse, Fort Hunter, has rounded to again, and promises to show something of the form he displayed at Saratoga a couple of seasons ago, in a measure makes amends for the disappointments of Kinleydale.

There were several upsets on Saturday, but the big war canoe didn't go over till Kinleydale struck the track. Kinleydale, oh, Kinleydale, that Casey at the bat of Canadian racing. Kinleydale, that wrecker of happy homes and bank rolls, a horse that has made bigger inroads into savings accounts than a Cobalt gold mine. When we look into those dear dead days and think of how that fine big hunk of Barrie junk was handed the populace as a coming champion, we feel fit to weep. But not from sorrow for the horse. Oh, dear, no, but for the "ghost" that has walked in the past. Did it ever occur to you how much the manager's going to hold out on your next pay day? Well, if you do you won't be there with so much gentle talk for the fallen idol, Kinleydale.—Telegram.

Terry McGovern may be crazy, but he had it on one J. Britt last p.m., at New York. Terry might win another fight, if they stacked him up against something as dead as the aforesaid J. Britt.

We have not read as yet of homes wrecked, families blighted, and banks robbed at the instance of the bookies at Toronto. To make their case strong something should be said about this hour.

Jack Wilson's averages were omitted from the City League list published yesterday. In two games he has been at bat twice, but has not made a hit, and has had nine chances in the field, foonzing one, giving him a percentage of .889.

One R. Ruby Fitzsimmons and N. Brusco, late of Galt, exchange wallops tomorrow evening. By which we will discover whether R. Ruby's martial wares were the cause of his downfall at the hands of O'Brien, or whether he is as dead as First Robber.

Edward Payson Weston, who is now enjoying his second sojourn on earth, recently walked from Philadelphia to New York in less time than it took him to make the distance forty years ago. In computing the significance of this performance you should allow 15 points for the simple life and 85 for the improvement in the going.

Jimmy Britt says Batling Nelson is a four-flusher. This original expression seems to have driven the words "cur" and "coward" out of the fighters' vocabulary.

The National Trotting Association has been enjoined from hearing evidence in the Lou Dillon case. We knew an injunction would creep into the affair somewhere. Any case not fit for an injunction isn't a case at all.

Prisco has the quake habit. All the fighters from that city are now engaged in shaking down the public.

The man who smokes the cigarette
May be a fiend at that;
And some may love the tennis net
And some love one o' cat.
And fiends for this and that abound,
At some we always scoff;
But never greater fiend is found
Than is the fiend for golf.

Some men are fiends for fishing trout
And some for fishing bass;
And some are fiends, or thereabout,
For bowling on the grass.
And some are fiends for baseball, too,
But now my cap I doff;
The greatest fiend I ever knew—
A fiend for playing golf.

The fiend for golf is ne'er at rest,
Unless upon the links;
He loves to wear a fancy vest,
And fancies fancy drinks.
He loves to drive the rubber pill
With caddy near to scoff;
He loves to clamber up a hill
If he's a fiend for golf.

There's no excuse for fiends I know,
For cigarettes and booze;
Such fiends are always very low,
Such stuff they shouldn't use.
But once this fascinating game
You try, it's then all off;
You then become a fiend the same
As I, for playing golf.

—E. A. G., in Detroit Free Press.

Next Wednesday's English Derby will be the 127th renewal of this great-est of world's racing events, and it is regarded as one of the most open races for the great prize known in years. Although King Edward's colors may be seen in the race, it is not thought likely they will be worn by the winner. His Majesty's dependence is Noll Secundus, a colt by the Derby winner and noted sire Persimmon, out of Nonsuch. In another column the fact was noted that Noll Secundus a day or two ago performed in a most disappointing manner in his workout, so that he is thought to have little chance to win the Derby. This is a general disappointment to the English race loving public, for as yet no actual ruler of England ever has won a Derby. As Prince of Wales King Edward won the Derby with both Persimmon and the latter's full brother, Diamond Jubilee, George IV., when Prince of Wales, also took the Derby of 1788 with Sir Thomas, but before he succeeded to the throne the Jockey Club had ruled him off for questionable practices. William IV. had a stable of horses, but, during his short reign, did not succeed in winning the Derby. King Edward has been the most devoted follower of thoroughbred racing of any member of the royal family of Great Britain. Always has been popular with the masses of England who like racing, and they would like to see one of his entries capture the great classic. A fact worthy of note is that Nonsuch, the dam of Noll Secundus, King Edward's Derby dependence, was the mare on which Tod Sloan got left at the post for the Cambridgeshire the first time he donned the royal colors.

COVERPOINT.

McGovern in His Old Form
Had Best of Go With BrittTerrible Terry Surprised Ring
Followers by Worsting
Ex-Champion.

New York, May 28.—Terry McGovern, of Brooklyn, surprised everybody tonight by his wonderful showing against Jimmy Britt, of California, in a ten-round bout before the Twentieth Century Club in Madison Square Garden in the presence of 4,000 persons.

Tim Hurst was the referee, but as no decision can be given under the law governing boxing bouts in this state, the spectators had to judge for themselves as to the relative merits of the men.

Immediately after the fight both the principals, Manager Harry Pollock, Referee Tim Hurst and ten others were arrested by Deputy Police Commissioners Mathot and Waldo, charged with participating in and conducting a prize fight.

McGovern was the choice of the majority, while none of the most sanguine of Britt's friends claimed anything better than a draw for the Californian. McGovern was not trained down as fine as he had been on other occasions. Britt looked to be in much the better condition, and was about five pounds lighter than the Brooklyn man.

McGovern's BULLDOG STYLE.

The style of the men differed. Britt was clever and shifty, and ducked away from some hard punches. McGovern stuck to his old bulldog style of fighting. There was considerable clinching, holding and infighting, but whenever they indulged in a mix-up, Terry had the better of it. Britt landed several hard jabs on McGovern's head and face, but McGovern did not appear to suffer much from those stinging blows. He was always on the alert for an opening to land a swing or hook, and got in a few which shook up the western man.

McGovern opened up a gash over Britt's right eye with a left hook in the second round, and in each succeeding round the cut was reopened with jabs or hooks. Britt was bleeding from the nose and McGovern's right eye was puffed up at the end of the sixth round.

It was a hurricane fight all the way through, and McGovern had the upper hand in every round but one after the opening round, in which honors were pretty even.

There was a lot of clinching and holding in the opening round, and the referee had a hard time pulling the men apart. McGovern got in a hard left on the body and Britt hooked his left and right to the head.

In the clinches McGovern pushed the call in landing short-arm blows, Britt off-balance with his left jabs.

TERRY LANDED OFTEN.

Britt opened the second with a left to the body and Terry sent a short right jolt to the head. Britt had the better of some exchanges on the body and Terry hooked his left, cutting Britt's right eyebrow. Terry swung right to the head and landed two right hooks to the side of the head and neck. They were clinched at the bell.

After an exchange of lefts the men clinched, and after they broke away Britt sent right and left to head and body. A hard left to the head shook up Britt, who ducked from two wild swings. Terry rushed him to the ropes, landing right and left to face and three body punches. Britt jabbed left to the face, and Terry, rushed in, sent both hands to the body. Britt sent in a straight left to the face at the bell.

They fought fast at close quarters in the fourth, and a left hook from Terry re-opened the cut over Britt's eyes. Terry missed several right swings, but landed his left on the head at the bell. Terry rushed to the ropes, and in the fifth, Terry rushed and missing a left swing, slipped to the floor, but was up in a second. Britt landed three lefts to the face without return, and after another clinch sent a right to the head. McGovern landed a light right on the head, but Britt jabbed him twice in the face, and they exchanged lefts on the body and were clinched at the bell. This was Britt's only clinch.

The sixth round and end of it Britt was bleeding from the right eyebrow and nose and Terry's right eye was swollen. In forcing the men to break Hurst got a blow in the stomach.

SOME FAST FIGHTING.

The fighting was fast in the seventh, and Terry forced Britt across the ring, landing left, right and left on the head and body. In the eighth Terry dodged a wicked swing and shot his left to the face. They exchanged rights and lefts, and after Terry, swinging his right to the wind, they clinched. Britt jabbed at long range and Terry hooked his left to the head again.

Terry rushed to a clinch at the opening of the ninth and worked his right to the ribs and head. Britt jabbed his left to Terry's injured eye and Terry landed a right to the head. Terry had the better of some hard mix-ups and jarred Britt with a right to the head at the close of the round. The bell rang none too soon for Britt.

The final round found Terry forcing the pace. After a clinch both sent right and left to the head, and exchanged rights far back on the jaw. There were several clinches, during which Terry had the upper hand in short-arm work. Terry missed a right swing, but landed a left hook to the face. They were fighting at close quarters when the bell ended the fight.

FLAHERTY'S SILVER
WEDDING A WINNERTook Victorious Purse at Woodbine Yesterday—Seagram
Cup to Moonraker.

Toronto, May 28.—Seven races were run at the Woodbine today on a slow track. The Seagram cup handicap was the stake event for Canadian-owned horses. It was won handily by J. Meagher's Moonraker, after Cleely, the favorite, had led for about seven furlongs. Three horses fell in the steeplechase and two in the sixth race on the flat, but none of the riders were injured. There was another very large crowd, and, although the track was slow, the time in most of the races were better than last year's record. Miss Clarke presented the Seagram cup to the winner.

First race, St. Simon purse, selling, 5½ furlongs, for 2-year-olds and up. Anna Smith, 99 (Farrow), 11 to 5, 1; Caper Sauce, 100 (L. Smith), 8 to 1, 2; Edgely, 91 (Burton), 12 to 1, 3. Time, 1:08 3-5. Prospero, Galletta, N. Trumper, Judge Richar and Albort also ran.

Second race, Stockwell purse, 5 furlongs, for 2-year-olds and up. Ethion, 107 (Nichol), even, 1; Lady Vera, 99 (L. Smith), 8 to 1, 2; Tudor, 100 (Powers), 25 to 1, 3. Time, 1:01 4-5. Round Dance, De Oro, Judge Nelson, Miss Martha Elskino and Pantaloon also ran.

Third race, Victorious purse, selling, 7 furlongs, for 3-year-olds and up. Silver Wedding, 107 (Kent), 2½ to 1, 1; Nonsuch, 101 (Christian), 15 to 1, 2; Judge White, 101 (L. Smith), 8 to 1, 3. Time, 1:29 2-5. Marimbo, Geo. E. Milner, Topell, Miss Hawley and Ezra also ran.

Fourth race, the Seagram cup, handicap, 11-16 miles, for 2-year-olds and up, owned in Canada—Moonraker, 117 (E. Walsh), 1 to 1, 1; Cleely, 106 (Nicoll), 9 to 10, 2; Demon, 100 (Austin), 4 to 1, 3. Time, 1:50 3-5. Loupania, Mortlake and Plearoon also ran.

Fifth race, Scarborough steeplechase, handicap, about 2 miles, for 4-year-old and up—Follow On, 152 (Slaughter), 4 to 1, 1; Dawson, 123 (Houston), 2 to 1, 2; Gold Run, 132 (Walsh), 16 to 1, 3. Time, 4:20. Decimo, Provost, Kassil Pan Longin and Lulu Young fell.

Sixth race, Matrimus purse, selling, for 3-year-olds and up, 1 mile. Wilder's Mine, 106 (L. Smith), 4 to 1, 1; Arab, 103 (Carter), 8 to 1, 2; Henry Ach, 104 (Dennison), 8 to 1, 3. Time, 1:43 3-5. Judex, Water Pansy, Orderly, Blue Miracle, Obstatine Simon and Very Waddell also ran. Yuga and Clara Dee fell.

Seventh race, St. Simon purse, selling, for 3-year-olds and up, 5½ furlongs—Herman Johnston, 105 (Nicoll), 7 to 5, 1; Kitsu, 107 (Olliphant), 4 to 1, 2; Lady Klepar, 99 (Farrow), 4 to 1, 3. Time, 1:08 2-5. Gen. Stewart, Operator, Miss Morgan, Draco and Henry Waring also ran.

BEAT HANDICAP WINNER.

New York, May 27.—On a track fetlock-deep in mud Inquisitor, a 5-to-1 shot, won the Cosmopolitan handicap at Belmont Park today, defeating the Brooklyn handicap winner, Tokalon, by a head with Grapple third. Blandy, the favorite, was interfered with in the early part of the race, ruining whatever chances he had in Inquisitor and Ceder-strome were the pacemakers to the stretch, where the latter quit. Tokalon closed strongly and forced Inquisitor to a drive to win. The horses from August Belmont's stable scored two victories, with Tipotee in the first and Okente in the Laureate stakes. Two favorites won.

YESTERDAY'S WINNERS.

At Gravesend—Tipotee 7 to 5, Water Pearl 15 to 1, Okente 5 to 1, Inquisitor 5 to 1, Palm Room 30 to 1, Go Be-tween 9 to 5.

POLICE WILL NOT ALLOW THE FIGHTOrders Issued to Prevent the Go Between Ruby Robert and Tommy Burns.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 28.—Governor Pennypacker, this evening directed Captain Grooms, superintendent of the state police, to send a squad of policemen tomorrow night to North Essington, Delaware County, near Philadelphia, to prevent the scheduled fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Tommy Burns in the clubrooms of the Tuxedo Athletic Association.

BURNS LOOKS GOOD.

New York, May 28.—Word from Essington, Pa., where Tommy Burns is training for his bout with Bob Fitzsimmons scheduled for tomorrow night before the Tuxedo Athletic Club, is to the effect that the Canadian wonder is feeling himself to defeat "Fitz" way inside the limit. Burns counts on his punch to turn the trick.

Philadelphia experts like Burns, and it is seldom the Quakers go wrong on a game of this kind. Men like McGovern, McGowan, Billy Weart and others who have looked over the stocky heavyweight, say he is faster than they ever believed it possible for a man of his short stature to be.

Keen interest is being shown by local sporting men in the bout. Tom O'Rourke, promoter of the fight, has arranged for a special to take 600 New Yorkers to the battleground. The train will leave the foot of West Twenty-third street at 6:30 o'clock.

Westerners, however, who have seen Burns fight say he is a good man. The Canadian, whose real name is Noah Brusso, is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. He is said to have a longer reach than any man of his height in the prize ring. Fitzsimmons is said to be in good condition for the bout.

FIGHT AGAINST
BOOKIES STARTSEffort To Be Made to Stop
Betting at the Woodbine and Hamilton.

The Toronto Telegram says: The minions of the law have planned a descent upon the bookmakers at the Woodbine race track for today or tomorrow afternoon, and will have the 40 layers of odds a summons to appear in the police court within a day or two, charged with gambling. Inspector Archibald is to be in charge of the blue-paper brigade.

The bookmakers—at least some of them—will fight the case. As a prominent member of the odds-laying fraternity said this morning: "We believe we are within the law in taking bets on the races at the Woodbine, or we would not be there. We will fight the case in that belief, and if necessary will carry it as far as it will go." "It is," he continued, "really the Jockey Club's case. We simply lease the privileges from them, and it is their duty to safeguard us in the exercise of these privileges, which we pay for. Whether they will or not remains to be seen."

Two years ago the Jockey Club, through its president, Mr. William Hendrie, was charged with breaking the law by permitting betting, but the case was not proved.

Rev. Dr. Chown is at the bottom of the raid on the bookmakers. Meanwhile the betting will go on as usual at the track unless something further is done to prevent it, and the public will be afforded opportunities to make their fortunes during the six days of the meeting remaining.

The Hamilton meeting follows directly after the racing here, and in all probability the same difficulty will face the chalkers up there.

SHERRING FUND NOW
AMOUNTS TO $5,000

Hamilton, May 28.—Champion W. J. Sherring was so well pleased with the arrangements made by the local committee for the handling of the testimonial fund raised for him that he has decided to turn over to the trustees all the money that he gets from other places and have it invested with the local testimonial fund. He has handed to Aid. Eastwood, the treasurer of the fund, about $1,100, the proceeds of his visits to Toronto, St. Catharines and Galt. Inclusive of the Government and city grants and the amount which the champion turned over to the treasurer, the fund now amounts to about $5,000, as subscriptions are still coming in.

Sherring has received a couple of letters from Greece. One informed him that a large statue of Hermes, a gift from the people of Greece, was at Athens for him. He was asked to notify the writer how he wanted it shipped and what his address in Hamilton was.

BOSTON'S SHOWING
A DISAPPOINTMENTIs More Astonishing as Bean-eaters Won the Pennant
Only Two Years Ago.

Boston, May 28.—The showing of the Boston (American League) team this season has been a sad disappointment to the owners of that club and to the owners of all the other clubs in the American League. What makes it all the more astonishing is the fact that two years ago they won the pennant. Last season they made a good showing but gave evidence of a decline, but not to such an extent as has been demonstrated this season. A pennant winning club should be able to hold together more than two years, but the trouble in Boston seems to have been that some of the members were old stars before they got into the band wagon at the Hub. When Henry Killilea, the Milwaukee lawyer, had the Boston club, he had several young stars picked out for just such emergencies as has now come up, but when he sold the club the young stars he had were disposed of.

Just imagine what a bracing season George Stone, Jim Staid, Nick Altrock and Rob Unglaub would give to the Bostonians now? All of them were members of the Boston club, but were allowed to go for a song, while in one instance the management of the Boston club traded Stone, the premier batsman of the American League (today, to St. Louis and gave $5,000 to boot for a man who proved to be a has-been—Jesse Burkett. Unglaub was a star first baseman, but he was never given a chance to show his worth there. Stahl has proved that Killilea had good judgment when he selected him, for he has played wonderful ball for Washington. The same can be said of Altrock, who has pitched wonderful ball for Chicago.

It takes more than a baseball general to handle a big league team successfully; they must have knowledge of young players as well as old ones and must know how to develop them and get the best results. There are a few managers like Connie Mack, Charlie Comiskey and John J. McGraw. They have a faculty of keeping youngsters in training all the while so as to be prepared for breakdowns by the veterans when the time comes. Joe Con-tilton, manager of the Milwaukee team, is another who has been very successful in molding good teams out of a mixture of veterans and youngsters. The Boston club has broken all league records in the number of successive games lost, having dropped twenty straight, but many of these were close and hard fought and not the result of poor playing, as many imagine. It has been a case of bad luck going hand in hand with poor team work at times, and with all the players getting dis-gusted because of the run they are in. Give them a new player or two and a little luck and they will no doubt take a surprising brace.

MATINEES WILL START
TOMORROW AT PARK

The matinees will start tomorrow afternoon at Queen's Park, the races on the holiday having been stopped on account of the rain. If the horses entered are in good condition and will go well.

The racing will start at 2:30 o'clock. The entry list is as follows:
Class A—Johnnie K. G. G. McCormick; Clipper, Dr. J. L. Wood.
Class B—Golden Text, Mr. J. McCarty; Sydney Pointer, Mr. W. T. Robinson; Grace Allerton, Dr. Hughson.
Class C—May B. Mr. H. S. Wilcox; Don Barr, Mr. G. G. McCormick; Pandora, Mr. J. Brown.
Class D—Pearl Carrier, Mr. W. E. Robinson; Barney H. Dr. Hughson; Dr. Jack, Drs. Tennent and Barnes; Perfection, Mr. G. Campbell.

FOOTBALL.

STRATFORD TO BE STRONGER.

Stratford, May 28.—Stratford will play their second senior W. F. A. game in Berlin on Wednesday night. A few changes will be made in the team that met Seaford in the opening game, and it is expected that it will be materially strengthened. Max Swain will likely be playing halfback, while Hart, of last year's club, will be on the line.

RANGERS HAD ALL
THE LUCK GOINGBall in Their Territory Three Parts of Time, Yet They Beat Guelph's Scots.

Berlin, May 28.—The Berlin Rangers had all the luck going in the game with the Guelph Scots this evening.

The visitors played a better game all around than did the Rangers and had the ball in the home territory three-quarters of the time, but were weak in shooting and lost the game by a score of 2 to 1.

Berlin scored its goals early in the game on a beautiful shoot by Burnham, while the second goal was bunted in by the Scots back, Johnston.

Guelph tried hard to score in the second half, but were unsuccessful until two seconds before time was called, when McLellan tallied for his team. Burnham, of Berlin, and Carter, of Guelph, were the stars.

O. Vagabond, refereed in a satisfactory manner. The teams:
Berlin (2)—Goal, Hyman; backs, Devitt and Toyske; halves, Relling, Rieckman and Jeanette; center, Martin; left wing, McLellan and Dettin; right wing, Watts and Buller.
Guelph (1)—Goal, Campbell; backs, Johnston and McLeod; halves, McKughlin, Fife and Palmerson; center, Carter; left wing, McLellan and Berk-inshaw; right wing, Wilker and Patterson.

TELFER PUBLIC SCHOOL

How the Pupils Stand at the End of May, 1906.

The following is the report for school section No. 7, London Township, for May:

Fifth Class—Leigh Telfer, Marlon Grant, Jean Charlton and Mary Telfer (absent from examinations).

Senior IV. Class—Mamie Robson, Ethel Scott, Sherman Needham, Agnes Scott.

Junior IV. Class—Bart Charlton, Winnie Mann, Ferguson Telfer, Gerrie Smiley, Dave Noble, Willie Scott.

Third Class—Mabel Demmy, Clarence Telfer, John Scott (equal), George Loft, Bart Loft (equal), Percy Stephenson.

Senior II. Class—Anna Needham, Mamie Taylor (equal), Berrell Loft, Marjorie Noble, Clinton Robson.

Junior II. Class—Retta Loft, Lorne Scott.

Part II. Class—Lance Telfer, Maggie Gilman, Dannie Mann.

Part I. Class—Vernie Loft, Mabel Robson, Johnnie West (equal).

Our wedding turn-outs are correct in every detail. H. H. Livery.

NEW SOUVENIR POSTCARDS.
The Red Star News Company, 8 Market Lane, are showing 80 different beautifully colored and photographic souvenir postcards of London, Ont. New subjects added weekly.

PURE LIQUORS.
Can always be got from me. Just arrived, a direct import of John Walker's Kilmarnock Scotch Whisky. H. Walker & Sons' "Epicure," a pure malt pot still whisky, only $1.75 per bottle. Labatt's Ale and Porter in prime condition. P. J. Watt, Market square.

IT WILL PROLONG LIFE.—Dr. Sota, the Spaniard, lost his life in the wilds of Florida, whether he went for the purpose of discovering the legendary "Fountain of Perpetual Youth," said to exist in that then unknown country. While Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will not perpetuate youth, it will remove the bodily pains which make the young old before their time, and harass the aged into untimely graves.

A $5.00 Problem
If you save $5 a month at home for five years, how much will you have? Ans.—$300. If it is not spent, stolen or burned.

If you deposit some sums in this Bank, what will you have? Ans.—$325.00—sure.

A BIG RALLY OF EPWORTH LEAGUERS

Local Union Assembles in Dundas Center School—Elects J. F. Maine President.

The semi-annual rally of the local union of Epworth Leaguers was held last evening in the Sunday school room of the Dundas Center Methodist Church. A large crowd, which filled the schoolroom, listened to a splendid address by Rev. George McAllister, of the Centennial Methodist Church. "What Is Your Ideal Life?" was the question discussed. He drew comparisons between the lives of Nero of Rome, and Paul the Apostle—Nero, as the incarnation of all that was infamous, while on the other hand, Paul was a man in the true sense of the word. The speaker then went on to compare the influence of the life of Paul with that of Nero. Mr. McAllister congratulated those present on living in this age. He referred to Russia, as a country awakening. Even though it be through revolution, every man in Russia must be a free man in the sight of God and his fellow men. Paul taught the immortality of man. We should not fret about whether the world is getting better or worse. If every man does his duty and does the best he can, the world will come out all right in the end.

MR. J. F. MAINE.

In closing, Mr. McAllister took advantage of the opportunity to admonish every Epworth Leaguer to throw his or her personality into the work. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—J. F. Maine, who for four years was president of the Askin Street League (which is looked upon as being the banner League of the London district).

Vice-President—E. E. Cowley, formerly president of Dundas Center League.

Miss Long, ex-president of Hill Street League, was elected treasurer.

Miss Wootton, of Colborne Street League, was re-elected secretary.

Solos were contributed by Miss Hall and Miss Reid, and they greatly delighted the audience.

Mr. Israel Taylor was in the chair.

D. O. C. WAS PLEASED
Col. Peters Witnesses Trooping of the Colors by the Seventh.

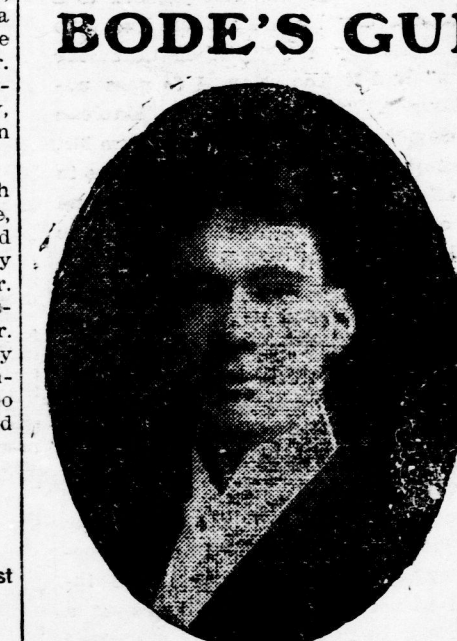

An exceptionally large crowd went to Tecumseh Park last night to see the Seventh Regiment troop the colors.

Col. Peters, D.O.C., was present, and expressed himself as being delighted with the showing which the regiment made. When Donington Day comes round, and the "sojers" boys go to Ottawa, there is little doubt but that they will create quite an impression, and show themselves in every way a credit to this city. Improvement by leaps and bounds, is a mild way of describing the progress being made in all departments of the corps.

This afternoon H. Company is holding a company shoot at the Cove ranges. After the shoot will come a supper. On Wednesday A. Company will hold a company shoot, and supper.

It is expected that the Seventh Regiment will be represented by at least one company, perhaps two, at the camp to be held in June.

BODE'S GUM HUSTLERS

W. H. McEACHERN.

Two large-framed, hustling young men came up from Montreal today, with the object of capturing the trade of London in their line of goods, and they have adopted a unique way of doing it. Their names are McEachern and McPherson, Ontario representatives of the Bode's Gum Company.

NOT ALL GETTING THE NEW PRICES

Many Local Hotelmen Said To Be Adhering to the Old Scale.

Local hotelmen say that the new scale of prices put into vogue the 1st of May for liquors is not being adhered to by all licenseholders.

"In three cases out of five we do not get what we agreed to ask for," the hotelkeeper said to The Advertiser. "Some times the bartender forgets and charges the old prices. Other times a man comes in and lays down the old price, and you prefer to let the matter drop rather than remind him that he owes you a nickel. And then again, some hotelkeepers have found it impossible to maintain the new scale of prices and hold their trade."

It is understood that all local hotelmen have dropped the price of bottled lager and ale from 15 cents to 10 cents a pint, the old price.

The Hamilton Spectator says: "There are in Hamilton a couple of hotelmen who do not employ a bartender, and they have been allowing their wives to tend bar while they were otherwise engaged. Inspector Birrell's version of the law was that it was illegal for a licenseholder to allow a woman behind his bar, even if she were his wife, but before taking any action in the matter, he decided to consult the department and make sure of his ground. He received a reply this morning, confirming his opinion. According to the letter, no woman is to be allowed behind a bar, the department being of the opinion that tending bar is not a proper occupation for the fair sex. The hotelkeeper whose wives have been assisting them in that way will be notified that they must make other arrangements."

CHINESE ORGANIZED
Local Celestials Have Branch of Empire Reform Association.

The London branch of the Society for the Reform of the Chinese Empire will be opened on July 2. The society has leased premises over 256 Dundas street. Every Chinaman in the city will become a member. Mr. C. P. Pun, of Vancouver, is the city organizing the society, and making all the necessary arrangements for the opening.

The membership of the organization at present is over 2,000,000, and there are 160 branches in all parts of the world. The object is to promote Christianity and civilization in China, as well as to promote the work in the large cities of the world having a big Chinese population.

The bulk of the membership is in Canada and the United States. The objects of the organization are being fully carried out, and considerable success has followed their efforts. The head office for Canada is situated in Vancouver, under the management of Mr. Pun. Mr. Kang Yu Wei has full charge of the Canadian branches.

The officers of the London branch are: President, Fung Wing; vice-president, Wong Lan; secretary, William Lee; foreign clerk, Lee Fong.

EMPIRE CABLE
Eighty Club Ask Sir Sandford Fleming to Address Them on Subject.

London, May 28.—It is understood that the Eighty Club have invited Sir Sandford Fleming to address them on the imperial intelligence bureau and empire cables.

It is believed that this foreshadows the decision of the club to become advocates of the scheme.

The Eighty Club is the chief educational organization of the Liberal party and includes one hundred and sixty M. P.s in its membership.

At the Unionist meeting in Perthshire, G. M. Stewart said the Government's action on the Canadian cattle question was a glaring example of promise without performance. No doubt pledges had been given for the removal of the embargo by the Premier, Mr. Asquith, Mr. Haldane and Mr. Sinclair, yet they had gone back on their pledges.

Two thousand immigrants sailed from Scotland last week.

LAID THE FOUR CORNER STONES

A Memorable Day for Kintore Methodists—Work on the Church Well Started.

Victoria Day, 1906, will long be remembered by the Kintore Methodists, for on that day were laid the four corner stones of their beautiful new church. The services began May 20, when Rev. A. Brown, of London, preached two able sermons. The choir gave excellent music, and the services were rich in spiritual power.

On the 24th a large congregation assembled around the foundations of the new church, and at 11 a.m. Rev. D. Rogers, of Thorncliffe, began the service. He was assisted by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Hibbert; Rev. J. Green, of Thamesford; Rev. Wm. Hibbert, of Linsay; and Rev. J. Livingstone, of London, the latter giving an excellent address.

Mr. B. Presley, on behalf of the trustee board, presented Mayor Butler, of Woodstock, with a silver trowel. After acknowledging the gift in a neat speech, Mayor Butler laid the first corner stone. Mrs. Quin, president of the Ladies' Aid, presented Mrs. (Dr.) F. W. Hughes, of Thorncliffe, with a silver trowel, with which she laid the second corner stone. Mrs. Hibbert, president of the Epworth League, gave a silver trowel to Mr. T. Seldon, of Ingersoll, who made a brief but interesting address, and for the league, laid the third corner stone. Mr. W. J. Dunster, Sunday school superintendent, presented Mrs. J. C. Rowe, of Hickson, with a silver trowel, and she, after wishing the Sunday school success, laid the fourth stone in their behalf.

This interesting ceremony over, the company repaired to a large tent, where a choice dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid.

At 3 o'clock a good concert was held, and to the hundreds assembled it was a delight. Rev. J. Livingstone, in his genial manner, occupied the chair. Mme. Egbert, of Detroit; Miss Rowe, of London; Mrs. Weisbrod and Mr. P. McTavish were in excellent voice and rendered splendid music. Miss Short, of London, captivated all by her extraordinary powers. H. E. St. George's cornet playing was a pleasing feature, while stirring, patriotic addresses and congratulations were given by Mayor Butler, R. E. Button, George Smith, M. P., Lieut.-Col. Munro, M. P., J. C. Rowe, Rev. Mr. Watson, of Lindsay, and Rev. Mr. Green. The Kintore band were also in evidence, with their splendid music.

Ideal weather favored the proceedings, and the liberal offerings of the people amounted to about $1,300. Pastors and people worked loyally and harmoniously together, and the day was one that will be long remembered. The Methodists of Kintore are looking forward with joy to the completion and dedication of their new church.

ACCIDENTAL, SAYS AN EYE-WITNESS
John Pugsley Tells His Story of the Shooting of Norman Richman on May 24.

The inquest into the death of Norman Richman, the young man who was shot by his companion, Patrick Taylor, near Pond Mills on Thursday last, was commenced last evening with Coroner MacLaren presiding.

The principal witness was John Pugsley, who was with Taylor and Richman at the time of the tragedy. Pugsley was very nervous, but told a straightforward story of the accident. He said that after walking about through the woods, shooting at frogs and targets, the boys determined to have lunch. They took off their shoes and stockings. When they had shot a few times at a target, they decided to join the picnic of the High Street Mission nearby.

Richman said to Taylor: "Pat, throw me your boots."

Taylor threw them to him, but one fell some distance away from Richman. The latter said: "Pat, get my boot." Taylor replied, "What do you take me for?"

Richman then picked up his rifle, putting it to his shoulder, said: "You won't shoot, eh?" Taylor then picked up his rifle, and threw it across his arm, pointing it towards the pond. Both boys were laughing and joking.

Pugsley was then talking, and Taylor turned to answer him. When the gun was in a line with Richman it discharged.

Richman threw up his arms and died in a few minutes.

Pugsley was given a severe examination, lasting over one hour and a half, but his story was unchanged. He insisted that Taylor never put his gun to his shoulder, and that he never pointed it toward Richman. He was of the opinion that the shooting was purely accidental.

When asked whether Taylor had any experience with firearms, Pugsley replied that he had not.

One of the jurymen wanted to know if the men who refused to answer the boys' cry for help, had been summoned, and it was decided to adjourn the inquest until Friday night, when they will be on hand.
