London, June 20-2:56 p.m.-Twenty-five thousand persons are reported to have taken part in demonstrations In Munich on Saturday, in the course of which considerable damage to property was inflicted. An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich says that word of this occurrence has reached that city from Munich, it being reported that the Rathaus was damaged and that windows of ail the neighboring houses were broken. According to this account, troops charged the crowd several times, and large numbers of persons were wounded. Many arrests are said to have been made.

Ottawa, June 19 .- That the Germans are murdering Canadian wounded and medical men whom they capture is the revolting fact received in the letter received by Gen. Sir Sam Hughes from Surgeon-Gen. Guy Carleton Jones. director of Canadian medical services at the front

Gen. Jones' letter tells of an atrocity of this kind performed during the recent fighting. He states: "I have learned today a ghastly story about Capt. W. R. Haight, the medical officer of the 1st C. At first, when the lost ground was regained, the regimental post was found to have been filled with wounded and Haight to have remained doing his duty attending to the wounded. great praise from all concerned. "I am proud to say that throughout the fighting the medical service carried out these arduous duties under very difficult circumstances in a very efficient manner."

WILSON NOT WANTED BY THE GERMANS AS A PEACE MEDIATOR

Berlin, June 20.-Professor Hans Delrueck of the University of Berlin has written an article in regard to American mediation in the war, in which he says there is something repellant to Germany in the idea of accepting President Wilson as mediator. It is obvious, he says, that the sympathies of the president are with the Entente powers. which might be regarded as disqualifying him, so far as the Central powers

SEES WAR'S END IN 1916.

[Canadian Press.] London, June 20 .- The Times military correspondent in France writes that the opinion on the British front is most optimistic that the war will be brought to a successful conclusion during the year 1916. The feeling of optimism, he said, is based largely on the following factors: "Continually growing numbers of men and quantities of munitions on the entente front; the extraordinary successes of the Russian army; the arresting of the Austrian offensive in Trentino; the silencing of the German navy through the sea battle off Jutland; the exhaustion of the German reserve as indicated by the calling out of 17-year-old youths and the use of prisoners in German mu-

Will Tomorrow See Last Rain? Old Time Weather "Rule" Says It Will,

But Citizens Doubtful Will tomorrow see the last of London's rainy season?

That question is one that is being gen rally asked throughout the city and district today. According to the oldtime weather rules it should, but the citizens are somewhat doubtful. There has been so much of what the weather oureau would politely call "moisture ecipitation," but which the general blic calls rain, that the most optimisc have begun to doubt whether the oldtime prophecy is going to hold good. Precedent and precept has it that when the wind is in a certain direction on March 21 there will be rain for three onths. The three months is up tomorrow. The part of the precept that calls for continual rains has been proven to the hilt, but the doubting Thomases and their name is legion, are convinced that the rain will not stop at thre months. Tomorrow will tell the tale. POLICE HAVE CLUE TO THOSE WHO TURNED IN FATAL FALSE ALARM

[Canadian Press.] Petrograd, June 20-Dispatch to London Morning Post .- Gen. Brusiloff's great push opened with a gas attack. Over a section of 30 miles in extent the new Russian gas was projected into the enemy positions, and was followed up by a hurricane of fire from a tremendous weight of artillery. American Note, Rejecting Demands of Mexico and "Calling"

Washington, D. C., June 20 .- The American note rejecting Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of United States troops from Mexico, and rebuking the Carranza Government for the discourteous tone and temper of its last communication, was handed today to Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador designate.

OUTRAGES MUST STOP. Long continued outrages against Americans and their property, both in Mexico and on American soil, are reviewed in the note, and warning given that the troops will be kept in Mexico until such a time as the de facto government performs the duty which the United States has not sought, and who are pursuing the bandits who ought to be arrested and punished by the Mexican Government. PLAIN TALKING.

It concludes with the statement that if the de facto government continues to ignore this obligation and carries out its threat to defend its territory by an appeal to arms against the American troops, the gravest consequences will follow.

RAIDS MUST CEASE.

"While this Government would deeply regret such a result," says the note, "it cannot recede from its settled determination to maintain its national rights and to perform its full duty in preventing further invasions of the territory of the United States, and in removing the peril which Americans along the international boundary have borne so long with patience and forebearance.

I am reluctant to be forced to the co from the circumstances," Secretary Lansing declares, "that the de facto government, in spite of the crimes committed and the sinister designs of Villa and his followers, did not and does not now intend or desire that these outlaws should be captured, destroyed or dispersed by American troops or, at the request of this Government, by Mexican

It is, however, a matter of common knowledge that the Mexican press has been more active than the press in the United States is in endeavoring to inflame the two peoples against each other and to force the two countries into hostilities.'

"SHOCKING" EXPERIENCES

These Days.

The condition of the telephone system at the various training camps could be described as "shocking." Several days of wet weather have dampened the ground even inside the tents and transformed it into an excellent conductor for electric currents.

The unwary who stand on the ground and grasp the telephone firmly in the hand experience a decidedly "thrilling" adventure. A few lessons, however, soon teach them to sit on the desk or to stand upon some non-conductor before beginning telephone conversations. A few days of dry weather will of course remedy this, as it is really through no fault of the installation or

MILITARY "Y" OPENS BRANCH TO SERVE FAR-NORTH CAMP

Tent at Francis a Popular Centre for Men.

SPORT AND SOCIAL CENTRE

The Sunday Night Religious Services Will Be a Feature, Too.

A branch of the Military Y. M. C. A. has been established at Francis Camp, Western University (No. 10) Stationand is proving useful to the men who are so far removed from the city and car service. A tent 40x80 has been erected. Tables and benches have been installed, and during the daytime it is used as a writing-room by the men off duty. The system of supplying writing material is much the same as used at the main branch of the institution on Oxford street.

At night this forms the chief centre of amusement for the men of the 168th and 186th Battalions and the quarters are always crowded. The concerts are for the most part impromptu, the talent being supplied by men from the ranks. Quite frequently in the summer, a special speaker will be obtained

On Sunday nights a service is always These are now well attended, and are expected to be more so as the summer progresses. When the service opened on last Sunday night there were only six present, but at the conclusion the tent was practically filled.

This also forms the headquarters for the discussion of field sports and the organization of teams. The organization has given hearty co-operation in almost every athletic movement started among the soldiers since the outbreak of the war, and has, in fact, originated commissions in the imperial service.

Students Given Chance Under New Examination Rule

No Longer Have They to Take Their Subjects in Dense Chunks.

Departmental examinations are in progress at the Collegiate Institute, and will continue to have right-of-way until June 29.

In the good old days students were given their examination in solid formations, in dense chunks, so to speak, rushed from one subject to another with scarcely a breathing space, and certainly no time to switch a train of thought from the dread languages to modern discoveries in science.

Now all this has been changed and more humane methods of late years have come into vogue. Examinations have been shunted back a full three weeks in order to avoid the sweltering weather scheduled for the end of June and the beginning of July-in normal

No longer is it considered practical, efficient and civilized to worry and hurry and flurry the suffering candidate. The up-to-date student ambles through the gates to a more progressive state in a leisurely, jog trot fashion, calm and cool and collected, and with intervals for recuperation and review between the various subjects. At the Collegiate this year, about 140 pupils are writing on the lower school examinations for entrance to the Normal School 100 on matriculation, 75 or 80 on the middle school Normal entrance, 40 on the faculty entrance and a dozen on honor matric ulation. Since it is recognized that examinations are an ordeal under any To date, none of the pupils who have been writing at the Collegiate since June 15 have been disabled by

ALL VARIETIES OF WEATHER From Africa's Heat to Chilling Rains is

Change Within Week. The men of the various battalions now under canvas in the training camps of London are experiencing all kinds of weather Last week several of the days were the warmest this summer. The heat rivalled that of Africa, according to the veterans, and the sun gloriously tanned the arms of those who came on

Most of them proved excellent as far as keeping water out, but even then the interior of them is not the most comfortable place in the world on a rainy day. The natural drainage is almost perfect, and the ground of a sandy nature absorbs the rain almost as quickly as it falls. POST-WAR TRADE.

REAT BRITAIN as a free trade G country has given the lie to Germany's claims that the Lion sought to gobble the world's trade. But if the agitation of certain Canadian statesmen and newspapers should bear fruit, it might be that the Empire would some day be a high-walled preserve of trade from which all other nations were barred.

Is the British Empire to seek their

Canadian Gazette recently, he said:

"It is a fascinating ideal to speak self-supporting Empire; and much as I admire Mr. Hughes, the Australian prime minister, who has done so much to wake up the people of this country, I think he pushes this ideal a little too far. We must remember that the Empire must find customers for its produce outside of the Empire, as its own consumption would not suffice. There must, therefore, be a very free exchange of trade with the countries to whom you expect to sell your produce. At the risk of saying something that is, perhaps, not quite popular with Imperialists, I say that there should be no reference made against the Allies. We have all been fighting for the same great cause; side by side we have made enormous sacrifices, and after the war we ought to cling together, and do all we can to combine commercially, so that the war may not have been in vain. I believe in as close a trade alliance after the war to complete our military victory as that which we have unhesitatingly entered into during the war to bring about our military success. "Of course, each country will wish to develop on such lines as to be to a certain extent independent, but no country can ignore the close relation of imports and exports, Therefore, if we wish to keep Germany from attaining her ideal of commercial supremacy-and if we do mean this, what have we been fighting for?-we must meet together and offer each other the best terms for mutual trading that we can. The idea of there being any commercial friction between two of side by side against German domination is unthinkable. This generation must never deal again with Germany as we have done. Possibly the next generation of Germans will learn how hopelessly in the wrong the present generation of Germans has been. Nothing but orce will teach the present-day German. In meeting the situation after the war, the allied countries must pursue a policy of give and take, and if they arrive at decisions fair to all, we shall not fear German competition. The pessimist says that in two or three years after the war German goods will be everywhere again, and German commercial domination just the same as now. If he is right, the war will have been in vain, and all our sacrifices in blood and money of no avail. But I do not believe he is If the allied countries meet and strive to deal fairly with each other, there will be no risk of German domination. The pessimist's opinion may be based upon the ssumption that Germany will take advantage of the attitude which, in some quarters, England and the dominions are advised to take towards the Allies. If so, let me call an optimist-without reserve!"

The British Empire is made up of a have been little different than if the rue that they could form a formidable alliance. living off and within one another. But the consequences? Would not such trade warfare (and the word is none too strong) force other countries, including the present allies of the Empire into other trade alliances? The world would be split into more livisions, and the results could not be Rather than Empire preferit is probable that the war will lead to a striking down of tariff barriers and a more free intercourse of trade between the nations. Germany, it would appear, has sealed her own fate, as well as that of Austria. The broad world outlook after the war most for Great Britain and Canada. We are not in this war at a

RUMANIA MUST PAY.

HEN Rumania has only recently entered into closer commercial relations with the Central Powers, it does not seem likely that she will be quite ready yet to join the Entente in the big fray. On the score of nationality, Rumania must have this country, and Bukowina, too, whose population of nearly a million is largely Rumanian.

If she presumes on the good intentions of the Allies that in their victory they will apportion to her, anyway, without effort or sacrifice on her part. the territory to which the national principle entitles her, acting on the desire of the Transylvanians and Bukowinians themselves, to be united with Rumania, she probably makes a miscalculation. If Rumania does not seize at any rate Transvlvania for herself. giving Russia also through passage into Central Hungary and Bulgaria, the Allies will probably make her pay most heavily for the coveted regions after the war is over. A billion dollars would be no unfair price to ask. As Rumania is not a rich country, it may be cheaper as well as more honorable for her to fight than to pay. She had better do like her friend Italy, hit out for herself, especially as Austria is now about finished and unable to resist a hard, fresh punch from a new assailant.

The Allies are the champions of little nations and the nationality principle but that does not imply that the little nations can sit back, hands folded, and Germany and the United States aside, wait for the plums to be dropped into what of France, Russia and Belgium? their mouths. Appreciated as this sympathy is, it causes no surprise among those who know Americans. Largely of British descent, they have the same ideals and the same characteristics. SPY LINCOLN HITS UP ANOTHER TUNE IN BRITISH COURT

Declares He Devised Scheme to Destroy Hun Navy.

IS GUILTY OF FORGERY

Defies British Government to Prove Charge Which He Admits.

LONDON, June 19.-Ignatius T. Lincoln, former member of the British Parliament, who was extradited from the United States on a charge of forgery, was committed for trial today, after a preliminary hearing. He pleaded guilty and declared the Government could not prove its case and expressed the hope to the court that justice would be tempered with mercy Lincoln conducted his own defense and during cross-examination of Seebohm Rowntree, whose name he forged established the fact that the British admiralty was indirectly responsible for his extradition. Lincoln was a selfconfessed German spy. Defies the Government.

At the conclusion of the preliminary hearing, before he decided to plead guitty, Lincoln made a statement to court summing up his case, in which he defled the Government to proceed with the trial. He contended no evidence had been put before the court to prove that the forged signatures had been written by him, and declared the prosecution had been undertaken by a vengeful and vindictive Government.

Lincoln addressed the court for two hours. Toward the close of his speech

"I was driven on by ambition, lured by the deceptive prizes of life. Having lost nearly all my money I did forge these documents."

To Destroy German Navy. He added that while he was in the employ of the British Government he devised a scheme to destroy the German navy, but that Great Britain declined to adopt his plan because it would involve disclosures of the whereabouts of the British navy.

Describing the manner in which, he said, he obtained valuable information about the German system of espionage, which he placed at the disposal of the British Government, Lincoln said it was a "devilish lie" to accuse him of treason. On the contrary, he had betrayed Germany. He concluded his address with an expression of the hope of mercy.

The magistrate remarked that he had only two legal points to decide and was against Lincoln on both of them. Accordingly he committed him to await Allied Line Unshaken and the action of the higher court at the

LONDON, June 20 .- Speaking to the Times' Petrograd correspondent regarding the situation on the Russian front as a whole, General Brussiloff said:

The fall of Czernowitz must create a profound effect in Rumania and the Balkan States.

These are the casualties resulting from a collision between a closed trolley car on the Welland division of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway with a passenger train on the Buffalo and Goderich branch of the Grand Trunk Railway at Port Colborne early this evening. The cars met on the diamond crossing of the two roads. The trolley was the regular 6 o'clock car from Port Colborne, and was well filled with passengers, the majority of whom were working people returning to Welland and vicinity. The train struck the rear end of the trolley, just before it had cleared the tracks. How the accident occurred is unknown, as the crossing is fitted with modern half-interlocking derail, by which it is necessary for the trolley conductor to throw the semaphore against the Grand Trunk train before the trolley is able to cross. The two trolley passengers killed were either knocked off or jumped from the car and were run over by the day afternoon, June 21, 11. CARLESS-In loving memory of our only beloved daughter (Edith) who fell asleep one year ago today, June 20. You went to your rest, fair child: You went to your dreamless bed, Gentle, meek and mild,

GIVE STREET RAILWAY Many Londoners Attended Big SUNDAY CAR RIGHTS

Special Meeting May Be Called to Settle Question.

UP TO BOARD OF CONTROL

Reward of $100 Offered for Party Who Sent False Alarm.

The council at the session last night refused to give the bylaw giving the street railway the right to run cars for two Sundays, pending a settlement of differences between the parties, its second reading. It was decided, however, to call a special meeting during the week to settle the question for some time, provided and understood that the board of control and the company can agree on terms. Ald. Palmer moved the second reading and stated that he was doing so in order that accommodation be given the soldiers and the citizens on Sunday, while the differences between the city and the company were being straight-

Ald. Ashplant accused C. H. Ivey, solicitor of the company, with deliberately stating untruths in his public explanation. He stated that Mr. Ivey had never mentioned Sunday cars when the conference was held on Thursday night last, and had dragged in other matters not in keeping with the questions in mind. On that score he could not support the second reading.

Supports Contention.

Controller Gammage supported Ald. Ashplant in his contention and explained that the only reason for requesting the council to pass a bylaw for two Sundays was to accommodate the soldiers and give the city solicitor time to prepare proper agreements. The vote was taken and Controllers Moore, Gammage, White, Rose and Ald. Webster, Palmer and Little voted for the bylaw, while Ald. Ashplant, Reynolds, Summers, Wilson, Dyer, Copp, Donahue and Burdick against it. Then Ald. Burdick introduced his motion to have the matter cleared up this week and that too car-

AT THE AUDITORIUM, The "Catspaw," an Edison five-part photograma released through the Kleine-Edison feature service, was shown vesterday at the Auditorium. In this fascinating story a woman's unfounded jealousy plays a leading part and nearly lands in prison her accomplice, the man she devotedly loves. Another woman's dream of love is shocked violently by supposed criminality of her sweetheart, and altogether these women, for a time at least, have most unpleasant experience in "The Catspaw." It all happens because an adventuresome crook employs a "double" to represent him in society and at social events, while he (the employer) is busy as a bank burglar and sneak thief. His woman accomplice is not aware of the "double's" existnce and for this reason finds cause she supposes, for being jealous. DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

Hon. George Brown and Wife Came All the Way From Saskatchewan.

Alma College, St. Thomas, threw wide its doors in welcome yesterday to former graduates, who gathered from all parts of Canada for the annual banquet of the Alma Daughters. Pleasurable thrills were experienced by the students of former days when they came in sight once more of their alma mater, the imposing building of memory's picture, looking most inviting on the June day after the rain, surrounded by ample lawns dotted with trees, shrubs and flowers Upstairs in the corridor, beyond the main entrance, a group qickly gathered and the incidents occurred which are inevitable on such an occasion. Women who had been away from school ten, twenty, even thirty years, looked eagerly about for familiar faces. The years slipped from off their shoulders, and once more they were girl together, calling one another by their arst names, in some cases they didn't know the last names, recalling incidents and escapades. Meet the Principal.

Much of the joy of th occasion was the meeting once more with Dr. Warner, principal, whom one of the speakers of the day referred to as "always just and kind," and Miss Sisk, beloved of two generations of Alma Daughters.
Among distinguished visitors of the occasion were Hon. George W. Brown, former lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan and Mrs. Brown, the latter at Alma graduate. Mrs. T. W. Crothers who was unable to be present, sent a telegram of greeting. Quantities o beautiful early summer flowers, peonies and syringa adorned the tables the dainty place cards, painted by Miss Rich of this city, adding still another pleasing decorative touch. The duties of toast-mistress were performed by Miss Sisk during the first part of the program, with the tact and wit which has always endeared her to Referring to the manner in which the oundaries of women's activities have been enlarged in the past few years, and the way in which women have stepped into new spheres to keep business as usual in war-time, Miss Sisk wondered if after the manner in which wo men have proved themselves, there would still be men who would fear woman would lose her femininity if she cast her ballot. Not Worrying.

"We are not worrying," she continued.
"We are just undertaking the immediate needs which are nearest to upon the subject of efficiency, "If every-one was only reliable," she said, "how o make excuses to ourselves for unfilled promises and engagements. Did it ever strike you that the less we do, the more we have to explain? Do you remember the three nen to whom the Lord gave talents? The man who didn't do anything with his required three times as much time to explain why he didn't, as the other wo to tell what they had done."

Dr. Warner extended a cordial welcome to the returned daughters, expressing the view that the energy which men have been devoting to patriotic work will, after the war, he turned in the days to come to solving of the problem of the wisest education for the youth of the land. He expressed his heartfelt gratitude to the Alma Daughthe sympathy and help extended to him in his work in the past year, which has been especially trying owing to the long and serious illness of Mrs. Warner
