FORMAL PEACE PROCLAMATION DELAYED BY GERMANY'S ACTION

STORM'S DAMAGE IN WESTERN ONTARIO WILL TOTAL MILLIONS

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION LEFT IN WAKE OF HURRICANE THAT SWEEPS OVER EXTENDED AREA

Miles of Electric Power Wires Leveled in Michigan—Scores of Factories Temporarily Closed Because of Damage From the Storm—At Least Ten Boats On Lake Huron During Gale.

Detroit, Dec. 1.—Scores of industrial plants here and in other cities of the state are temporarily closed or their production curtailed because of the hurricane which swept across Southern Michigan late Saturday, according to reports early today. Miles of electric power wires were levelled to the ground by the wind, which reached a velocity of 84 miles an hour here and from 70 to 80 miles at Flint, Grand Rapids, Port Huron, Pontiac and other points. Stacks of power plants were levelled at many factories and other damage done that will take days to repair. The demoralized interurban electric railway systems in the southern portion of the state will not be returned to normal, it is stated, for several days.

Fresh tales of damage are being received as wire communication is being restored, but early today the list of deaths remained at six—five killed here and one near Jackson.

Early reports from Lake Erie, Lake Huron and Lake Michigan points failed to show any material marine losses, and Lake Superior was said to have been out of the path of the storm.

STORM'S DESTRUCTION IN ONTARIO WILL MOUNT UP INTO MILLIONS

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Southwestern Ontario was today gradually recovering from the effects of the Saturday gale which swept from the great lakes to the Ottawa Valley, causing damage estimated to total up in the millions. Many points on Lake Huron are still cut off from telegraphic communication with Toronto, and the damage ensuing from the storm in that district cannot yet be accurately estimated. Thousands of workmen including many telegraphic linemen, are busy today repairing the damage. Churches and other buildings were unroofed, trees and poles carried down by the hundred during the progress of the storm, and the streets of some villages and towns were left impassable. Brantford, Sarnia and Toronto seem to have suffered particularly severely.

So far there have been no definite reports of losses to shipping on the great lakes. The storm seems to have been less severe in Lake Superior and the northern part of Lake Huron. One fatality has been reported in Ontario—that of George Dowson of Toronto, killed by a falling tree.

BORDER CITIES ARE STRUCK BY WORST STORM IN HISTORY

Windsor, Dec. 1.—Electric light and power service was disrupted, plate glass windows were crashed into pieces, ferryboats were tossed like chips on the ocean, buildings were damaged and unparalleled destruction wrecked business and residential property in the border cities by a hurricane which swept over the district at six o'clock Saturday night.

In intensity and damage wrought by wind, the storm was the worst in the history of this border, and the extent of the destruction cannot even be estimated at this time.

Streets, places of business, factories and homes were plunged into darkness, and pedestrians who were sturdy enough to brave the gale and venture into the thoroughfares were swept from their feet and hurled bodily against buildings, posts or other obstructions.

Ferryboat Driven Ashore.

Trees were uprooted and carried by the gale, in many instances for a considerable distance. Roofs of houses and public buildings were lifted and crashed into piles of shattered timber and brick. The Ferryboat, Promise, plying between Detroit and Windsor, after an hour and a half in the storm, was steered into shore about 300 feet up the river from the Windsor docks, when many of the passengers leaped ashore over the bow of the boat. There were about 50 women and 100 men on board the craft when it was forced to put off from the Detroit side on account of the storm. It careened back and forth on the river and shipped water until the deck was covered to a depth of several feet. Many women were on the verge of hysterics. The boat attempted to make the Windsor dock, but the wind blew it up the river. Full steam ahead was ordered and the boat was run aground. The high waves had washed away much of the shore and the nose of the boat struck a freight car on the Grand Trunk tracks knocking it completely over. This caused a panic among the women many of whom believed the ship was sinking. Some sprang upon the rails and would have jumped into the water, had it not been for the restraining hands of others. The deckhands, as soon as the nose of the boat struck shore, ordered the men to stand back and the women were helped ashore some of them in a fainting condition.

All the wires to the lake points are down and until news comes in via other sources, nothing will be known of damage to shipping. Several passenger boats tied up here and in Detroit for the winter were considerably damaged by being hammered against the piers, one broke loose, but was anchored in mid-stream where she rode out the storm.

Freighters that made the Detroit river from Lake Erie and St. Clair after the storm began, report calls for help from shipping on the lakes.

Power Houses Damaged.

The local and interurban street railways have been at a standstill since Saturday night. The power houses of both the Sandwich, Windsor, and Amherstburg and the Windsor, Erie and Lake Shore roads were partially wreck-

LADY ASTOR TAKES OATH AS A MEMBER OF BRITISH HOUSE

Outburst of Applause Follows Her Appearance in Parliament.

PREMIER AS SPONSOR

Only Woman Member of Commons Receives an Enthusiastic Greeting.

London, Dec. 1.—Lady Astor took the oath as a member of the House of Commons this afternoon. There was a great outburst of applause when she was approaching the speaker and again when she signed the roll. Her sponsors were David Lloyd George, the premier, and Arthur J. Balfour, lord president of the council. Lady Astor wore a black dress and hat.

Tickets to the public gallery for today's session have been in great demand. So great has been the rush that it has been quite impossible to accommodate nearly all the applicants.

Countess Georgina Markievicz, who was elected member of Parliament for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin last year, but who refused to take her seat, owing to the Sinn Fein affiliation, has been in London over the week-end. Her presence here has created some curiosity as to whether she meant to forestall Lady Astor in taking a seat in the House of Commons by making a dramatic appearance there. The countess, however, went today to Manchester, where she addressed a big Sinn Fein meeting, and it is understood she had no intention of returning to divide attention with Lady Astor.

LOCK GATES ON SOO CANAL ARE RIPPED LOOSE DURING STORM

Large Fleet of Boats Harboring At Detour Awaiting for Storm To Subside.

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 1.—In the heavy storm of Saturday night the upper guard gates of the Davis lock here were torn from their fastenings, putting that lock out of commission for the balance of the season. As the Poe lock was damaged several weeks ago, the Forth lock and the Canadian lock will take care of vessels until navigation closes. It will be necessary to flood the Poe lock again to get out the big pontoon used for lifting gates.

38,000 TEXTILE MILL OPERATORS STRIKE

Fall River, Mass., Employees Walk Out for 25 Per Cent Increase in Wages.

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 1.—Virtually all the textile mills in this city, employing 38,000 operatives, were tied up today by a strike for a 25 per cent increase in wages. The demands were made by six unions of the National Amalgamation of Textile Operatives, numbering approximately 7,000, and their leaderships, as has been the case in previous strikes, was largely followed by the unorganized workers.

PRINCE IS WELCOMED HOME BY THOUSANDS IN BRITISH CAPITAL

Greeted by King George and Queen Mary On Arrival.

PLEASED WITH TRIP

Heir to Throne Delighted With Visit To Canada and United States.

London, Dec. 1. — The Prince of Wales arrived at Victoria station this afternoon. He was greeted by King George, Queen Mary, Princess Victoria Queen Maud of Norway, Premier Lloyd George and the members of his cabinet and a full array of the diplomatic corps.

The prince kissed the King and Queen and the other members of the royal family, and greeted the premier and the cabinet members. He then inspected the guard of honor and posed for a photograph before proceeding to his home.

The worst rainstorm of this winter was falling when the prince arrived, but the streets were packed with people, who were unable to get within eight blocks of the station. Trafalgar Square was jammed by noon, and the streets along the route to Buckingham Palace also were filled.

DELIGHTED WITH HIS TRIP TO CANADA, IS ANXIOUS TO RETURN

Portsmouth, England, Dec. 1.—The Prince of Wales arrived here on board the Renown at 9 o'clock this morning from a visit to Canada and the United States. The Renown left this port on July 5.

Upon entering the harbor the customary 21-gun salute was fired from the flag-bedecked ships, which were today decorated in honor of he birthday of Queen-Mother Alexandra. Earlier in the morning it was feared that the rain might interfere with the reception which had been planned for the prince.

The prince landed from the Renown during the forenoon and motored through the streets of Portsmouth, cheered by thousands of persons who had gathered to greet him. He was welcomed upon his arrival at the town hall with shouts from the crowds assembled about the building. Replying to the address of welcome, the prince said his tour had been for him a delightful and most valuable experience which would influence his whole life. He hoped often to be in Canada, he said, and would try another visit a the United States at the first opportunity.

During the course of the proceedings at the town hall a demonstration was created by 400 former service men with banners, appealing to the prince for help. The men waited outside the town hall while the prince received a small deputation and heard their complaints. "I will do my best," the prince assured the deputation. "I appreciate very much your coming to me, and I will do what I can." The prince then shook hands with each of the men.

LIBERALS MEET TO PERFECT PLANS FOR PARTY ORGANIZATION

Delegates From All Provinces in Convention At Ottawa.

LEADER'S STATEMENT

Declares There Is To Be No Discussion of the Party's Policy.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The national organization committee, formed at the Liberal convention in August, met this morning at 11 o'clock in the office of Hon. W. L. MacKenzie-King at the Victoria Museum. Delegates were in attendance from every province and several more are known to be on their way to Ottawa for the later sessions.

The meetings today and tomorrow are for the purpose of perfecting the national party organization. Prior to taking his place as chairman of the meeting, Hon. MacKenzie-King emphasized the fact that there would be no discussions of party policy or questions of that nature. The interior works of the party will be arranged, however, and committees named to carry on different portions of the organization work.

Twenty-five delegates were at the opening session and their numbers are expected to be swelled by half a dozen or so during the day. Each province was given seven representatives, when the committee was formed at the convention, but it was not anticipated that at any time there would be a full representation as such would not be necessary. About half of the entire number are expected in attendance at the various meetings.

Delegates in attendance this morning included Hon. Sydney Fisher, Ottawa; Hon. Jacques Bureau, Three Rivers; Ernest LaPoint, M. P. for Québec East.

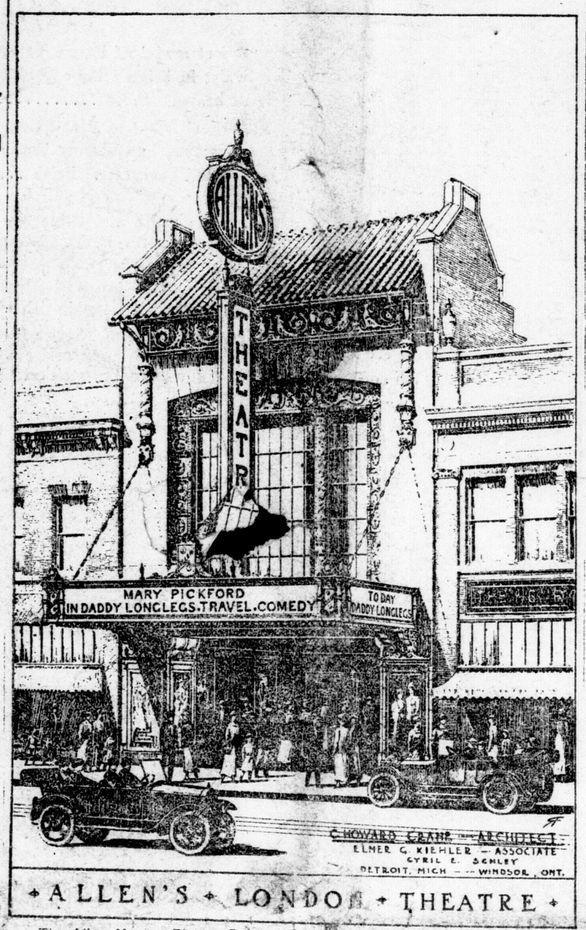

Ontario—Hon. Charles Murphy, Ottawa; W. C. Kennedy, M. P., Windsor; S. Little, London.

H. H. Dewart will arrive during the day.

Some Military Patients at Byron Demand Resignation of Col. Shannon and Threaten To Ignore Rules Until He Departs

They Object To Certain Rulesand Regulations and Meet To Pass Resolutions in Protest—Demand Also That Sergt. Cllins Resign.

That there is a real mutiny among the patients at Byron Sanatorium against the O. C., Lieut.-Col. E. G. Shannon, was demonstrated when a meeting of the patients passed certain resolutions stating their grievances and certain conditions which must be fulfilled, else all the patients now doing duty will resign under protest. One of these resolutions requires the resignation of Col. Shannon. The men refuse to obey rules or orders issued by him, and will obey the recent orders issued by Dr. Pratten, of whom they are in favor, only after Col. Shannon's resignation. The patients also demand the immediate resignation of Sergt. Collins and the severing of his connection with the D. S. C. R. Sergt. Young acted as chairman to the meeting, and R. L. Black as secretary of the patients' grievance committee.

The resentment of the men seems to have originated from several causes. The resolutions allege that grievances of patients have not received satisfactory consideration by the commanding officer, and that there has been certain friction with the police force which the patients consider "unnecessary, and a useless expense to the country." There is also resentment of the fact that medical officers keep certain men under treatment for several months at the sanatorium, whom they finally proclaim free of tuberculosis, and who actually are said never to have had it.

Full pensions for patients taking treatment under the D. S. C. R. for T. B. are demanded for the duration of time when treatment is being given, and six months after, and at least two evenings off each week.

Col. Shannon, asked by The Advertiser to make a statement concerning these resolutions, said:

"The doctors here are trying to make the cure as effective as possible, and the men object to the means employed. The department in Ottawa sent me here to see that the rules were enforced, and I am doing my duty to the best of my ability. Too frequent leaves mean going into the city too often, and the men are apt to go to places they should avoid, thus delaying their recovery, weakening themselves and defeating one curative object. While I am here I must do as I am doing—see that rules are obeyed."

Dr. Pratten is out of the city and could not be interviewed.

The resolutions read as follows:

No. 1—We, the patients of Q. A. S., desire that the o. c. grant not less than two evenings off each week.

No. 2—We the patients of the Q. A. S. also resent the action and consider the ALLIES TO SEEK PEACE WITH NEW HUNGARIAN GOVT.

Supreme Council Decides To Ask For Delegation.

Paris, Dec. 1.—An attempt to make a peace treaty with Hungary through the new Hungarian Government was decided upon by the supreme council today.

The council reached this decision after listening to the report of Sir George Clerk, the peace conference emissary, who recently returned from Budapest. It was resolved to ask the Government of Premier Huszar to send to Neuilly, near Paris, as soon as possible, a Hungarian delegation empowered to negotiate peace.

SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE SETTLED.

Kansas City, Dec. 1.—The strike of railway switchmen here, which began Saturday, was called off by the strikers early today.

Calling off of the strike, it was announced, followed a vote taken at a mass meeting of strikers which lasted until far into the night.

The strikers will return to work this morning.

Reasons for the decision were not forthcoming, but it was understood that an announcement at the meeting by G. W. Anderson of Cleveland, a vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, that the strike was unauthorized and that strike benefits would be withheld, had much to do with the final action.

MORE STRINGENT COAL RULES IN EFFECT TODAY

Drastic Measures Are Adopted Throughout United States.

STOCKS UNDER CONTROL

Regional Fuel Committees Order Non-Essential Industries To Close.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Further stringent regulations for conservation of fuel supplies, made necessary by the strike of bituminous coal miners, who have now been idle a month, were in effect today over virtually thre entire country between Ohio and the Rocky Mountains and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Regional fuel committees took control of coal stocks in many states, and non-essential industries continued to close down because of lack of fuel, while the hours for operating stores, theatres and office buildings were curtailed.

CANADIANS LIKELY TO FACE SHORTAGE OF HARD COAL

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—While every effort is being made to relieve the coal shortage to avert the spread of trouble among the Canadian mine workers, authorities here are none too cheerful as to the outlook. So far the strike situation in the United States has affected only the industrial life of Canada, it now threatens to be felt by domestic users. It is obvious that acute shortage of bituminous coal in the United States must cause that country to look toward a conservation of the supply of hard coal, and it would not be at surprising if supplies of the latter variety were very much curtailed if not entirely cut off in the near future.

In the meantime every effort is being made to insure that the Canadian mines continue to run to capacity. There has been no cessation to date either in the maritime provinces or in Alberta, though there are signs of rumblings from the latter province and a strike has been threatened in the Minto mine of New Brunswick in connection with which a board of arbitration was formed and recently reported. The findings of the board were accepted by the company which was prepared to put the recommendation into effect at once, but the employees objected to the finding, and the United Mine Workers' Association, which some of the employees belong to, have ordered a strike.

Urges Reconciliation.

The department of labor has urged the acuteness of the situation upon the employees, and has requested reconciliation, especially in view of the fact that the board of conciliation have been created for all the mines in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. These include the Dominion Coal Company, the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, the Arcadian oCal Company, the International Coal and the Maritime Coal Company.

An endeavor was made to secure an inquiry by one board for all the mines, but this was impossible owing to the companies being unable to agree on one arbitrator. J. C. Watters, formerly president of the Labor Congress of Canada, has been selected to represent the men on all the boards in Nova Scotia. No chairman has yet been appointed, but it is assumed that the difficulties will be settled as a result of the investigations and the department professes to be hopeful that there will be cessation of work.

In the west there is movement openly toward cessation. The importance of a continuance of work in the Canadian mines to Central Canada may be gathered from the fact that any importation of soft coal from the United States is conditional in a degree upon reciprocal export of Canadian coal to the United States on the Pacific and Atlantic.

HEAVY TAX PLACED ON ITALIAN WEALTH

Royal Decree Amounts Nearly to Fiscal Revolution.

London, Dec. 1.—As a revenue measure a royal decree has been issued by the Italian Government providing for an extraordinary levy on inheritances, an income tax, contributions from war profits, a tax on luxury goods, and a new national loan at 5 per cent. The Daily Telegraph correspondent in Milan says all the newspapers publish the decree and generally approve it.

The measure amounts to a radical reform, and is tantamount almost to a fiscal revolution, for it satisfies to a large extend the popular and Socialist demands for heavy imposts on the wealthy classes.

Its good effect is already apparent in the exchanges in Rome, Turin, Milan and Genoa, where adverse foreign rates immediately fell several points and industrial shares and Government securities advanced.

GERMANS ASK RETURN OF RELATIVES HELD AS PRISONERS IN FRANCE

RATIFICATION OF PEACE TREATY IS HELD UP DUE TO GERMANY'S FAILURE TO SIGN THE PROTOCOL

Today Was Set As Date For Formal Proclamation of Peace —Germans Delay Signing Additional Section of Treaty That Gives Allies Guarantee That Teutons Will Carry Out the Armistice Terms.

Paris, Dec. 1.—The French representatives in the peace conference are urging the American delegates to delay their departure for home until the protocol is signed putting into effect the peace treaty with Germany, it was learned today.

Although today was the date set for the exchange of ratifications of the treaty, no definite news was at hand regarding the intention of the Germans as to the signing of the protocol, in which they are expected to guarantee the carrying out of the armistice terms.

The supreme council this morning adopted the terms of the reply to the recent German note regarding prisoners of war. The contents of the note, however, were not given out.

The feeling in French circles, which is shared in by some of the other delegations, is that the departure of the American delegates at this time would be misinterpreted in Germany as a sort of abandonment of the conference, although it would in nowise change the relations of the United States towards that body.

KING OF ITALY ASKS PEOPLE'S SUPPORT IN ALL WORKS OF PEACE

Italian Parliament Is Opened With Usual Pomp and Ceremony.

LAUDS WAR'S HEROES

SOCIALISTS LEAVE PARLIAMENT.

Rome, Dec. 1.—When King Victor Emmanuel entered the Parliament today to deliver the speech from the throne he was received with loud cheers. Premier Nitti requested the audience to be seated. Upon this, the extreme Socialists shouted: "Via Socialism," and left the chamber. Their seats were immediately taken by other deputies.

Rome, Dec. 1.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena were given an enthusiastic reception while proceeding from the Quirinal to the Parliament Buildings this morning to participate in the opening session of the Italian Parliament. Bells were rung, there were salutes from many guns and thunderous cheers from the crowds. Houses along the streets were decorated with flags.

The king, in his speech from the throne, said that the confidence and sympathy of the nation were indispensable to the Parliament as was national collaboration in all movements for the good of the people. Italy, he said, after her great victory, must direct all her efforts to the works of peace.

Greets War Heroes.

The king began by greeting the heroes of the army and the navy. The virtues and energies they had displayed during the war would serve to hasten the economic reconstruction, he said.

Italy, through the war, continued the king, had gained her natural frontiers, but not all her aspirations, he declared, were considered everywhere in a spirit of justice. The aspirations of Italy in the Adriatic, he asserted, did not cloak any military design, and for the most part possessed no economic value. They were confined, he said, to the defence of native ideals. The protection of Italian populations was the duty and right of Italy.

"We have no imperialistic views," continued his majesty, "and intend in no way that the peace of Europe should be disturbed."

"Italy regards with the liveliest sympathy the rise of the popular classes," said the king, who characterized the movement as one which should produce in the interior of the country a program of intensive work and production, and in connection with the foreign products an increasingly democratic co-operation between nations.

There was no cloud upon the sincerity of Italy's foreign relations, continued his majesty. He referred to the especially cordial nature of her relations to the Allied and associated powers.

The king announced the program of reforms, saying that new commercial communications would be established and that new opportunities should be exploited to the utmost.

His majesty concluded by declaring that Italy regarded as an ever-increasing task the defence of Latinity, of which she was the mother, by addressing himself not only to the sister nations of Italy in Europe, but to all the people of Latin America, with which she hoped to work, he said, toward a more intimate union and closer friendship.

KOLCHAK'S ARMY STILL FLEEING BEFORE THE REDS

Head of All Russian Government Protected by Special Bodyguard.

London, Dec. 1.—The forces of Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian Government, are retreating with such rapidity that they are unable to construct defensive works, of which there are none west of Irkutsk, says a wireless dispatch from the Soviet Government at Moscow today. Partisan bands continually harass Kolchak, who has formed a bodyguard of 3,000 to protect himself, the dispatch adds.

Seventeen Men Will Take Up Work Industrial Conference Failed To Accomplish.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Seventeen men, widely known in business and public life, representing no particular group as such, but acting for the people as a whole, assembled here today to confer on the country's industrial situation. It was designed to accomplish what the recent national industrial conference failed to do.

ITALY IS ENFORCING STRICT CENSORSHIP

Customs Guards Along Italian-Swiss Border Have Been Doubled.

Paris, Sunday, Nov. 30.—The tense situation in Italy is reflected in the censorship exercised over telegrams, and also in customs and passport delays, according to advices received here from Geneva. Customs guards along the Italian-Swiss frontier have been doubled to prevent an influx of radicals or shipments of inflammatory publications.

Eight thousand Italians are reported to be awaiting to have their passports vised in order to enter Switzerland.

DEFENDS FAITH OF ROMAN CATHOLICS IN THE VIRGIN BIRTH

Montreal, Dec. 1.—That from the early days of Christianity there have been those who have attacked the virgin birth, that the views expressed against it are new, and that the church must meet such attacks with the same confidence as in the past, was the substance of a statement made by Bishop Farthing, preceding his sermon in the Church of the Ascension yesterday, when a window was dedicated to the memory of a member of the congregation who was killed in action.

DAMAGE BY FIRE.—Slight damage was caused by fire in the engine room of the lithographing plant of H. J. Jones Sons, at the corner of Dundas and Eleanor streets, about 9 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

GRASP AT LAST CHANCE; STAND IN CONFESSION

One Thousand Rise To Opportunity At Gipsy's Mission.

5,000 SIGNED CARDS

Largest Total Since Campaign Opened — Evangelist's Life Story Tonight.

[By Isabel Armstrong.]

The faces of thousands of people in the Armories last night indicated that their hearts echoed the words of Rev. D. C. MacGregor, when he said in referring to the fact that there were to be just two more meetings of the Gipsy Smith campaign. "Tomorrow night will be the last night that we will have Gipsy Smith with us. We have had great blessing through him in London, and there is a pang in our hearts at the thought that he is leaving."

One of the most solemn and impressive services of the whole mission series last night, it was the last opportunity afforded for standing in confession of Christ or acknowledgment of blessing received, the last opportunity for signing pledge cards.

Tonight Gipsy Smith tells his famous story, "From Gipsy Tent to Pulpit." Last evening, he took his only opportunity of giving farewell advice and admonition to two classes of people, those who had confessed or reconfessed Christ during the mission and the professing Christians carrying on the work of the churches. He also made his yearning final appeal to those still unsaved. To the last class he said: "I feel like a gipsy boy that my father knew, one of a large party of gipsies picking hops for a grower.

Finished One Field.

"They had finished one field and were to go on in a big, lumbering wagon to a second field in the midst of which was a river swollen by floods, over which they had to pass. A team of spirited young horses was attached to the wagon. Nearing the stream, it was discovered that the bridge had disappeared from view, and was being washed over by the rush of waters.

"Brave as they are, the gipsy women screamed and frightened the horses. Before the driver had time to tighten up the lines, the team had run away, crashed into the side of the bridge, and thrown the human load into the river. The gipsy boy managed to pull himself out by means of one of the lines, then hurried back and looked for the one dearest to him of all, his mother.

"He plunged in to her, but she gripped him so tightly he saw he could not rescue her that way, so shook himself loose, swam around her to the other side, and tried again. Once more she clutched him. Again it was necessary to shake her loose. The third time he tried she was caught in the roots of a tree. He could not find her, and when a few days later 39 gipsies were laid in a trench grave, side by side in the churchyard, she was among them.

In Midst of Service.

"In the midst of the funeral service, forgetting all else but his grief, the gipsy lad threw himself down beside his mother's coffin in the trench and cried out, 'Mother, mother, mother, I would have saved you, but you wouldn't let me.' I feel, like that boy about some of you. I've tried to do all that a man could do. I've put my heart and brain and body at your disposal without reserve.

"If I go without your knowing my Lord, my heart will pain: If I leave London without awakening in you a desire for Christ, there will be a pang in my soul. God knows, I would if I could bring you to Christ. An angel from heaven could not do more. Will all of you who have signed cards during this mission, all who can say, 'I will not let this man go without a movement nearer Christ and a better life, please stand?'

Perhaps a thousand people of the six thousand or so that packed the armories were on their feet in a moment, others joining them as the chorus was softly sung over and over again, "Where he leads me I will follow."

A Last Entreaty.

As these sat down and a last entreaty was made, "I see many new faces here tonight, recognize many as being here for the first time. Won't some man take this opportunity to take his stand for Christ?" One took the heroic step of standing, not with a large company, but absolutely by himself, then another, another and another in different parts of the immense throng. A woman followed their example.

"Thank God for you," came the voice of Gipsy Smith in the midst of the awed silence.

"What about tomorrow? You want to know. God will give you grace, and after grace glory."

Five thousand people have signed cards during the campaign in addition to thousands of others who have stoop up without taking the further step.

To the new converts and those who have re-pledged themselves to Christ, the evangelist said: "The battle has just begun. You have taken your stand for Christ and declared your faith in Him. You have made the most public confession possible in His name. Inwardly and outwardly you have said 'Christ for me, by the help of God I'll see this through.' I congratulate you upon doing the noblest thing you could do this side of the gates of pearl.

Successful in Life.

"If you would be successful in your new life, your declaration must be crystallized into actuality and there are certain things you must do. You must cultivate private prayer; you must read your Bible; you must associate yourself with some church, and you must do something for others.

"No one can live the Christian life without prayer any more than it is possible to live the natural life without eating. You must cultivate the sould's life by prayer to God, because the soul's life is prayer. Don't leave your room in the morning without saying to God. As you wash and clothe yourself, ask God to wash you through and through and clothe you thoroughly with the robes of His righteousness.

"Be natural with God. Talk to God as you would to your nearest friend. God knows, but he wants to be consulted, just as your father does. Commit thy ways unto the Lord and He shall direct thy paths. I am talking to you this way because I had to struggle ignorantly to find the way to live successfully for Jesus Christ.

"Backsliding begins with lack of private prayer. Am I right?" (Cries of "Yes, yes, yes.")

"Praying people are invincible, irresistible.

Read Your Bible.

"If you would grow in grace you must read your Bible. Never leave your room until you have had a few verses. Better miss your breakfast for the body than for your soul.

"If you would be lovely as a cluster of violets, beautiful as the sun-kissed, snow-crowned Alps, glorious as a noon-hour June day, you must be saturated, drenched with God's word.

"Your mind, your soul want food; the superior parts of a redeemed man need the sustaining of the Holy Ghost, for man does not live by bread alone.

In the third place, make up your mind to do something for Christ every day. Be ready to give a reason for the hope that is in you as a witness of God. The Lord has no dumb children. I have noticed that people who profess to be Christians, yet who can't say a word about Jesus have lots to say about other things. Remember, Jesus went about doing good.

Get Into the Church.

"As soon as possible get into the church, where you can take root and grow. You need the sympathy, help, fellowship of others. The church has lots of faults, but it is the church of God. Even if we are imperfect, your place is with us.

"Don't be a gipsy and a squatter. Don't say, 'I don't believe in the churches,' or I'll think you think you don't want to support any.

"Some one in the churches isn't perfect. Don't say, 'that's your churches.' It isn't. I'm not perfect, but I'm trusting a perfect Saviour. Fix your mind on Jesus, and He will never disappoint you. You aren't saved by whether other people stand or fall or not. Look to Jesus. If people looked to Jesus a little more there wouldn't be so many mistakes."

To "Older Christians."

To what he termed the "older Christians," the evangelist had this to say. "A greater responsibility is intrusted to you than even. Up to tonight nearly 5,000 cards have been signed since the mission started. Thousands more have also made decisions. What are you going to do about it? Some of your churches are a good place to get cool in on a hot summer day.

"I know a minister in this city who has been here some years who hasn't been invited ten times to the homes of his church members for a meal. He doesn't know I know this, but I've found it out.

"God has given you a number of spiritual babies to look after. You have got to feed and clothe them.

"My brothers and sisters in the churches, wake up, in God's name, wake up. I suggest that you go to your minister and get the name of noe person who wants to belong to your church. Go and pray with that person. More people die of too little loving than from too much."

At this point the evangelist yielded to an impulse, did one of the unconventional things which endear him to his audiences.

Had Kindness Done.

"Have you had a kindness done," he quoted, then commented, "I believe I could sing that."

And right in the midst of his sermon he sang the song through. "Have you had a kindness done, pass it on."

"Get the the sentiment and gospel of that song crystallized into life," he said. "There are lots of people in this city with lonely hearts, longing for human kindness and friendship. If they can't find it in the church of God, where are they going to look for it?

Will They Stand?

"You are saying in regard to these people who have taken a stand for Christ during the mission, 'Do you think they'll stand.'

"You don't ask that about a baby. You expect to love it, nurse it, carry it. Have pity on those who have just started. They'll walk some day.

"Make your church the warmest place on earth. If they slip, help them up again. It is one thing to capture a man, another to hold him; one thing to cradle, another to bring up; one thing to disciple, another to discipline, one thing to bear, another to rear. May God give you wisdom to carry on the work of this mission in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

Were Rapidly Filling.

The armories were rapidly filling by 6 o'clock, and the musical conductor, Gaidstone Brown, took no chance, as he had done the previous week of losing his position as leader. He was on duty early, leading a spirited song service until the arrival of Gipsy Smith which, as has become a custom, was greeted by applause.

Mr. Hamilton, the pianist, played a solo during the taking of the collection a transcription of "The Holy City," which was so much appreciated that the audience demanded another.

Mr. MacGregor announced that as soon as possible after the close of the mission, a statement of all collections and disbursements will be made public by the finance committee. If more than is required to meet expenses is received, the balance will be used to buy Christmas cheer for little children in the city who would not receive it otherwise.

"I'm not perfect, but I'm trusting in a perfect Savior."

"If people looked to Jesus a little more, there wouldn't be so many mistakes."

"The first watch that came into our gipsy tent, my father up on the wall because it was too precious to carry in his pocket. The church clock in many of the villages through which we passed was the village clock. When we came to a village, father would look at the clock, then look at the watch and say, 'She's lost ten minutes,' and he'd turn on the hands. Next village he'd look at the clock, then at his watch, and he'd say, "Fifteen minutes ahead,' then he'd turn it on. He kept turning it backwards and forwards till it wouldn't go at all."

"Don't go by your friend. Get anchored, tethered, tied up to Jesus Christ and He'll hold you fast."

"Some of your churches are good places to get cooled off in on a hot summer day."

"More people die for a bit of loving than from too much loving."

"Have you had a kindness done? Pass it on. Get the sentiment and gospel of that song crystallized in your life."

"Scores and hundreds of people in this city are Christless, hopeless, who would be in the church if they had been looked after at the right time."

"Don't ask, 'Do you think the new converts will stand?' You don't ask that about a baby. You expect to love it, nurse it, carry it."

"Have pity on those just started. They'll walk some day."

"Make your church so far as you are able the warmest place on earth."

"If people slip, help them up again, stand by them. It is one thing to capture a man, another to hold him; one thing to disciple, another to discipline; one thing to bear, another to rear."

"If anything in my personality or methods is hindering you from coming to Christ, let me say this: In spite of my blundering, awkward ways and limitations, God knows I want to help you, desire to be of service to you, to save you for Jesus."

"What about tomorrow? God will give you grace, and after that glory."

WINS CHILDREN BY TELLING OF CHRIST'S LIFE

Gipsy's Youthful Hearers Nearly All Stand Up and Promise.

RELIGION NOT KILL-JOY

Christianity Will Not Spoil Young Life, But Magnify Joys.

Pouring rain and a threatening windstorm could not keep hundreds of London school children from hearing Gipsy Smith at a special meeting, which he held for their benefit in the Armories Saturday afternoon. The building was not filled, but considering the weather the crowd was an immense one.

The great evangelist's personality immediately won the youngsters, and at the conclusion of the service nearly every one of them stood up and promised to lead a Christian life.

Mr. Smith announced at the opening of the service that he had a surprise in store, and this proved to be that his cousin, Gipsy Simon Smith, had come to the city, and would make the opening prayer of the meeting. A short song service followed.

"What would you like to sing?" asked Gipsy Smith.

"The Old Time Religion," called out a young voice.

"How is that for testimony?" demanded the evangelist turning to a group of ministers, who occupied the platform. "Even the young children are demanding, 'The old-time religion.'"

Turning to his youthful audience again he asked, "Do you know who I am?"

Roar "Gipsy Smith."

"Gipsy Smith," roared out hundreds of lusty voices.

"Well, why do they call me that?" he continued.

"Because you are one," ventured a more daring one.

"Yes," admitted the speaker, "but what is a gipsy?"

The answers to this question were an entertainment in themselves. They ranged all the way from "a man who has no home," to "a man who swipes chickens and kids." Finally Gipsy Smith told them that he didn't know himself, and neither did anybody else. There are two or three million gipsies in all parts of the world all speaking the same language. They are as distinct as the Jew, and like him, are a nation without a home. No one knows where they originated.

The gipsy then proceeded to give an interesting talk on the incident of the children being brought to Jesus, and turned away by the disciples, who were immediately rebuked by their Master. The speaker said he had often pondered on what reason the disciples would have had for turning the children away. It may have been because they considered Christ's message was only for grown-up people or from some other well-meant motive. But they were wrong, because a boy or girl of seven or eight years sees through a fraud quicker than any one else, and they are quite capable of understanding these matters.

Should Run Wild.

"Lots of people believe that boys and girls should run wild till they are grownup, and are able to understand, that they should sow their wild oats. I don't. I believe we ought to give Jesus the best we have, our thoughts before they are spoiled with bad thinking, our body before the devil has had a chance to ruin it," he said.

He stated that if he were given his choice of saving a thousand grey-haired men and women, who had grown up in sin, or of bringing an equal number of boys and girls to Christ, he would choose the latter. The sins of the older people might be forgiven, they could be blotted, but their results would remain. The conversion of children prevents a lifetime of rebellion. Gipsy Smith was converted himself when a boy. He declared that nine out of every ten ministers are converten when in boyhood.

"Christianity will not spoil the young life. It is not a killjoy religion, on the contrary, it will magnify your joys. When I had one joy before, I now have a million since I came to Jesus."

CANNOT BE NEUTRAL REGARDING CHRIST, GIPSY TELLS MEN

Thousands Follow Evangelist's Lead Through Pledge.

TAKES BIT OF COURAGE

Requires Boldness To Decide For God—Must Favor or Oppose Him.

"God helping me, I am going to see this thing through," repeated thousands of men after hearing Gipsy Smith in the armories yesterday afternoon. Almost every one in the huge assemblage of men had arisen to his feet at the invitation of the speaker, and with his right hand held high in the air, made the solemn pledge.

Then the singing of the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," was started by the massed choir, and in which the audience joined with whole-hearted enthusiasm. Before Gipsy Smith closed the meeting with prayer he said, "If you men earnestly meant every word of the pledge which you repeated after me, then London will be a wonderful city. I know that many of you would die for your city, and now I know that you will live for London and you will make of it a great city."

Commencing his address to the men, Gipsy Smith first expressed his thought that the men who heard him speak last Sunday afternoon had been thinking during the week of the message which he had delivered to them at that time. "It is almost impossible for one in London not to think of God during the past week," he said. "His claims have been so clearly announced upon the printed page of the newspapers every day, and by speech, that you have known that Jesus Christ has been in your city.

Men, Women and Children.

"Men, women and little children have been flocking toward him, and I believe that you have felt the influence of the changed lives around you.

"Neutral you cannot be," continued Gipsy. "You will either decide to devote your life to Jesus Christ before this mission closes or decide against Him. You are going to be a better man or a worse one; you are going to be lifted upward or drifted downward. The time which this mission has spent in London will be an epochal period in its history, and you will remember it always.

"The nature of your future life will depend upon and date from this period. This mission has not been in the field to appeal to the vulgar, emotional side of the people; it has led people to God through the appeal to everyone's sanity, reasonable and sincere thinking, for the results obtained from my appeals toward salvation have been decided entirely by the people themselves.

Takes Bit of Courage.

"It takes a bit of courage to decide to devote your lives to Christ, but surely it is a man's work. Surely it is a noble and not a weak thing to do! There are things in your lives which are eating away your souls and manhood, and if you do not take care they will damn you. Only the Almighty God can free you of them, so I ask you to get closer to Him and save your manhood. Say to yourselves, 'Have I got the sense and the manhood to let Him save me?'

"There isn't a sin in your lives that He cannot wash away; there isn't a sore that He cannot heal; and there isn't a dark hour in your lives that He cannot brighten. I do not know what Hell is, but there is a Hell, for it is mentioned many time in the Bible. Hell to me would be to lose Jesus Christ, but if you go to that place, it will not be because of your sins! It will be because you were such consummate fools that you did not accept God's remedy while you had life.

"Oh, men! Take home with you today a new spirit, a new man! Take home with you a new father, husband or son, for it will pay you to do so.

FOUND DEAD WHEN CALLED FOR CHURCH

When Mrs. Alex Knox of 457 Piccadilly street called her mother, Mrs. Margaret Henderson, in time for church on Sunday morning she could get no response, and on going to her mother's room she found her dead, heart-failure having caused the passing away during her sleep.

Mrs. Henderson was the widow of Robt. Henderson for many years license inspector of the city, and was a native of Scotland, her maiden name being Miss Margaret Lees. She was apparently in good health on Saturday night and had expressed her intention of attending divine service in the morning. There were no sounds of distress from her room, and the finding of the body came as a great shock to Mrs. Knox.

Mrs. Henderson is survived by three daughters and three sons, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. E. W. Leech of Detroit and Mrs. Frank Hicks of New Ambrook, Ont., and W. H. Henderson of Ottawa, Fred of this city and Robert of Hamilton.

Funeral arrangements have not been made because of the difficulty of communicating with relatives at a distance, owing to the storm.

LEWIS DECLARES NO SETTLEMENT LIKELY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 30.—John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, who returned from Washington today, reiterated his statement made at the unsuccessful wage conference that he could see no possibility of a settlement of the coal strike by sectional agreements. The action of the fuel administration in limiting a higher price on coal precluded the possibility of any such agreements, he asserted, after refusing to comment on the Washington conference.

A complete coal famine in Illinois was considered a possibility by the end of the week if cold weather did not abate and the strike continued. Operators have posted notices that a 14 per cent increase will be granted, but they expect little response from the miners tomorrow.

AVERAGE NOMINATION MEETING A DISGRACE, SAYS CLERK BAKER

Open Discussions of the Past Should Be Revived.

PREACHES CO-OPERATION

With Representation On Council of All Public Bodies.

The average nomination meeting for municipal offices is a disgrace. City Clerk Sam Baker declared in an address before the town-planning conference in Hamilton last week.

A handful of men, some of them not the most highly respected in the community choose the material from which the electorate is forced to select its representatives, he declared and recalled the good old days of the nomination for the "town council" when community issues were discussed freely by the candidates, and said he didn't think there would be much reform in city management till the old-fashioned meetings were revived. He said he believed in "home rule" for cities, and that there should be a clear line separating the legislative body from the administration department.

Looks to C. of C.

Chambers of Commerce, in his opinion, could do no more to bring about the desired reforms in municipal government than the Ontario Municipal Association, of which he was the president, for as soon as the ratepayers were thoroughly interested the Legislature would act. He heartily indorsed the position taken by Dr. Britain in regard to the publication of reports of the doings of the various city bodies, and stated that before the last municipal elections, he had, with the sanction of the city council, sent a summary of the work for the year of the city council, the board of education and the public utilities commission with the financial reports and a notice as to where the recipient could record his vote. The expense of preparing and mailing out this information was money well spent, but he thought reports of this kind should be prepared by a skilled reporter or editor not a department head. He also advocated the holding of citizenship meetings for the discussion of municipal affairs.

At the coming elections, he said, there will be bylaws calling for the expenditure of over a million dollars, and the tax rate of London is 35 mills.

"But London must spend money or go back," he said. "It must not be spent foolishly, but economy is not simply not spending money. It means getting value for it."

In the matter of administration, he believes in the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades and Labor Council and other bodies which represented strong factors in the municipality, and he said he would advise that such bodies have direct representation on the city council, as he thought the benefit would be great, and the plan could be worked out without interfering with the principle of direct representation of the electorate which should always have a majority on the board. In this connection, he pointed out that the great war wasn't won by the military leaders, but by the military co-operating with the great political leaders and civilian specialists in transportation, production and other callings.

SUB-OFFICES OF S. C. R. OPENED IN FOUR TOWNS

Representatives Directly Responsible to F. S. Fisher Here.

Sub-offices of the London branch of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment were opened in four towns—Aylmer, Seaforth, Walkerton and Wingham during the past week. The representatives in these places will be directly responsible to F. S. Fisher, unit service officer of the department in Military District No. 1.

The duties of these part-time offices, as they are called, because the representative will carry on the work of the department in conjunction with his other work, will be the same as carried on in the main office in London; the placing of returned soldiers who apply for work, and the giving of advice and information to those seeking it.

L. C. Cable is the representative in Aylmer, J. A. Richenbach in Walkerton, C. R. Wilkinson in Wingham and C. P. Sills in Seaforth. Only returned soldiers are receiving these appointments.

COLDER IN NOVEMBER THAN IN SAME MONTH OF 1918

Little More Rain and Snow Fell During Time.

The weather report for the month of November reveals that the lowest temperature of the period was 17 degrees, which was recorded on November 20, while the highest attained was 59 degrees on the first day of the month. The rainfall for the month amounted to 2.6 inches, and the snowfall to 1½ inches.

During the corresponding month of last year, the highest temperature registered by the official thermometer was 64 degrees, on November 7, and the lowest point to which the mercury descended was 18 degrees on November 26, 1918. The rainfall that month was 1.61 inches, while the snowfall was 1¾ inches.

To Have Smooth, White, Soft Skin All Winter

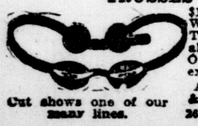

Does your skin chap or roughen easily in this weather or become unduly red or blotchy? Here is a quick, easy way to overcome the trouble and keep your complexion beautifully white, smooth and soft the winter long. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at the nearest drug store and use a little before retiring, as you would apply cold cream. Upon arising, remove the coating with sudsy water. The wax, through some peculiar attribute, flecks off the rough, discolored or blemished skin. The worn-out cuticle comes off just like dandruff, only in almost invisible particles. Mercolized wax simply hastens Nature's work. Used as required, it keeps the face constantly free from devitalized scarf skin and only the healthy, young-looking skin is in evidence. It's the best treatment known for weather-beaten, aged, muddy, freckled, pimpled and all unbeautiful complexions.—Advt.

MAN KILLED ON G. T. R. BELIEVED TO BE C. SNAKE

Worked in the Brussels Mills About Two Months Ago—Inquest Next Week.

C. Snake is believed to be the name of the man whose mutilated body was found on the Grand Trunk tracks just west of the elevated crossing over Wortley road at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning. According to word received from Brussels, he worked in the flax mills there about two months ago. Two receipts bearing the name "Snake" were found on him. Because of his dark complexion he is thought to be an Italian. No relatives have been heard from, and no one has claimed his remains.

At noon today, a jury empanelled by Dr. A. Maclaren and in charge of Detective Thomas Nickle viewed the body. The jury is composed of William Chittick, 299 King street; T. W. Thomas, 103 Wilson avenue; James Dean, 243 Wharncliffe road; John Jones, 368 Horton street; Charles Maker, 601 Ridout street; Jacob Fox, 209½ King street; E. J. Allen, 58 Wilson avenue; Charles Fish, 245 Talbot street, and Percy Ashton, Dominion Savings building. On next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock the jury will meet at the police court.

Dr. Maclaren was notified at 1:15 a.m. on Sunday and instructed railwaymen to bring the body to Ferguson's undertaking parlors. A yard engine was sent to the scene of the accident and the body brought in on it.

TWO PAY $10 EACH.—Two drunks and a woman charged with vagrancy composed all the cases heard in police court this morning. Both drunks pleaded guilty, and although they promised that they would "never do it again," they were each assessed $10 and costs. The other case was dismissed.

LECTURE ON VITAMINES.—"Vitamines" was the subject upon which Dr. J. W. Crane addressed the members of the Western University Science Club at a meeting held in the biology room at the university on Saturday evening. Dr. Crane gave an interesting account of the discovery and development of vitamines. Owing to the disagreeable weather, not many of the members attended. Professor A. D. Robertson was in the chair.

TO ATTEND CHICAGO CONVENTION.—A. M. Hunt, secretary of the Western Fair Association will attend the annual convention of the American Fairs and Exhibitions Association, being held in Chicago this week. Mr. Hunt will address the convention on Wednesday morning on the subject, "What Canadian Fairs Have Done to Build Up the Dominion of Canada." He leaves tonight for Chicago, accompanied by Mrs. Hunt.

DOG WAS POISONED, BUT IT TOOK TWO BULLETS AND STOUT CLUB TO FINISH IT

Constable Undertook to Help It to Happy Hunting Grounds and Had a Task.

He was just a plain ordinary brown dog of the collie variety. While wending his way along Richmond street last night he suddenly collapsed near the bank of Commerce building in a convulsive fit. He lay there for over thirty minutes, and it was evident to spectators that the canine was the latest victim of the dog poisoner and that strychnine was likely the cause of the death struggles.

Finally, the cop on the corner decided that as the victim was doomed it would do no harm to accelerate matters by ending the death struggles. With this end in view the constable journeyed to the police station, procured a revolver and returned to the scene of the affair where a group of pedestrians had congregated. He grasped the dog by its feet and carried it down a lane nearby, from which in a moment the sound of a revolver shot announced the fact that the brown mongrel was en route to the happy hunting grounds.

Revived.

The constable then brought the dog to Richmond street to be picked up by the garbage squad today. A gaping wound in the head announced to those present that the constable's aim had been true. Much to the surprise of the onlookers, however, in a short time the dog began to struggle violently, and several ladies in the impromptu audience beseeched the policemen to waste another shot on the animal. Being an obliging chap the constable returned to the alley with his charge, and once more performed the execution duties, with several inquisitive ones witnessing the tragedy.

Another Method.

Following the second shot the canine remained still as in death for a time, then repeated the struggles which accompanied the first bullet. Growing desperate the constable swore profusely under his breath, and grasping a wooden beam lying nearby he dealt the body several healthy blows over the head. The dog growled, then stiffened his legs, and gave up the ghost. In the opinion of the cop, the poison stimulated the heart, and thereby slightly impeded death following the shots in the brain.

"O, well," he muttered, after concluding the ceremony with the heavy beam, "that was all he needed in the first place, and the bullets were wasted."

DIES FROM WOUND RECEIVED IN ACTION

Lieut. Zoccano Fought Four Years and Was Wounded Three Times.

Ex-Lieutenant Samuel Zoccano of the Italian army died yesterday morning at the home of his brother, Anthony Zoccano, 394 Waterloo street, after a brief illness, the result of one of three wounds received during the war.

Deceased just returned two weeks ago to this country on a visit to his brother, Tony, who is well-known in London sport circles. He left America for Italy in March, 1914, and immediately war was declared by his native country, he was taken into the army. During 48 months in the trenches, he rose to the rank of lieutenant in the machine gun service.

He was wounded three times during his period of service, and during the drive of the Austrian along the Tagliamento was taken prisoner. He was retaken a few days later during the course of an Italian counter-attack.

He was demobilized from the army a few months ago, and immediately made arrangements to come back to take up his residence in America. Before settling down into civil life, he had intended spending some time with his two brothers here, Anthony of Waterloo street and Nicholas of Ridout street. Besides two brothers, he is survived by two sisters, now resident near Naples, Italy.

SAYS DECEMBER 25 CANNOT BE DATE OF CHRIST'S BIRTHDAY

Rev. P. Dennison Gives Reasons For Statement.

SUGGESTS MARCH 25

At That Time Shepherds Would Be Watching Their Flocks.

Rev. Patrick Dennison, at a meeting of the Baptist Ministerial Association held in the Y. M. C. A. this morning, claimed that the 25th of December could not possibly be the date of Christ's birth. This statment was made in the course of a paper on "The Pagan Origin of Christmas, Easter and Lent." He says that as the winters in Palestine are very much the same as the winters here, the shepherds would not have been watching their flocks in the fields on the 25th of December. His claim is that Christmas originated in Babylon about 260, B. C., from customs in connection with the worship of the Sun god, which was observed on December 25 and that the early church adopted this date to please and win the pagans to Christianity. He claims that Christmas really fell on March 25.

"Easter also originated in a pagan celebration in the worship of Bel, and the custom of Lent was borrowed from the pagans, having been practiced in Babylon, Egypt and Assyria," said the speaker.

Plans were made at this meeting in preparation of a big Baptist Forward Movement convention to be held here on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, December 11. Rev. John McNeill, D. D. of Toronto and Rev. T. T. Shields, formerly of London will be the principal speakers.

MILITARY PATIENTS

fines imposed upon three of our comrades very unfair and unjust.

The comrades were fined: Harold, $5; Steele, $5; Gordon, $2, for overstaying pass about two hours.

No. 3—We, the patients of Q. A. S., do consider that one of our comrades received very unjust treatment in that when his wife called upon the phone to tell him that his child was very sick she was told that he could not be brought to the phone. We claim an investigation.

No. 4—We, the patients of the Q. A. S., demand that we receive an allowance in lieu of washing, or satisfactory arrangement made to get our laundry done by the institution, and the D. S. C. R. be responsible for loss or damage of the aforesaid.

No. 5—We, the patients of the Q. A. S., demand that while taking treatment under the D. S. C. R. for T. B., we shall be placed on full pensions for duration of treatment and six months after.

No. 6—We, the patients of the Q. A. S., do resent the action of the medical officers in so far as some comrades, after spending many months taking treatment for T. B., are then told that they have not got T. B., nor did they ever have T. B.

No. 7—We, the patients of the Q. A. S., do propose, in the event of the officer commanding not giving us a satisfactory hearing to our first grievances, to call upon all patients now doing duty to resign under protest. We also consider the police force very unnecessary and a useless expense to the country.

No. 8—We, the patients of Q. A. S., do call upon Col. E. G. Shannon to resign and leave this institution immediately. Until he does we refuse to obey any rules or orders that may be issued by him, as we consider him to be a hindrance to our cause. Patients are in favor of recent orders issued by Dr. Pratten, but will not obey them until Col. Shannon is removed.

No. 9—We, the patients of Q. A. S., demand that Sergt. Collins resign immediately and sever all connections with D. S. C. R.

DEATH AND

ed by falling smokestacks. The steeple of St. Alphonsus Church crashed down, while many of the plate glass windows in the business section were torn out. The miracle of the visitation is the fact that not a single death nor a serious accident occurred during the storm. None of the border municipalities suffered to the same extent as the town of Sandwich. Standing on the bank of Detroit river the hurricane had a clean sweep of several miles up the river before reaching the town. The result was every building suffered to a greater or lesser extent. New houses in the course of construction were demolished, while many of the older ones, though not levelled, were thrown out of plumb, had their chimneys cut off or the shingles ripped from their roofs. The sixteen family apartment house of the Dominion canneries was shifted bodily for a distance of four feet. When it commenced to leave its foundation blocks the sixteen families in the big building rushed out and took shelter in the open street.

Approximately 1,000 telephones in the border cities are out of order, and long distance lines out of the city are down. It may be a day or two before service is resumed.

MANY LARGE VESSELS OUT ON LAKE HURON DURING BIG STORM

Port Huron, Dec. 1.—At least ten, and probably more, of the largest boats sailing the Great Lakes were on Lake Huron during the hurricane of late Saturday, it was stated at marine offices here. Rather than take the chance of his vessel being damaged or being blown aground in the river, the captain of the big Canadian passenger liner Hamonic, of the Northern Navigation Company, headed the boat out into Lake Huron.

Other steamers which went out into the lake included the E. L. Pierce, Saturn, Stanton, Rhodes, Charles Horn, Norton, Huron, W. E. Fitzgerald and F. T. Robbins.

Wind velocity during the storm reached 75 miles an hour here. Wires along the shores of Lake Huron are down, and no word of trouble to shipping has been received here.

WINGHAM SKATING RINK DESTROYED BY STORM

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Wingham, Dec. 1.—The Wingham skating rink was levelled to the ground on Saturday evening during the terrific gale that swept this district, causing thousands of dollars' worth of damage. Miles of telephone and telegraph wires were blown down, barns unroofed and trees broken by the high wind.

COL. LAFFERTY DIES.

Quebec, Dec. 1.—The death occurred here suddenly on Saturday afternoon of Col. F. D. Lafferty, superintendent of the dominion arsenals throughout Canada. Col. Lafferty had just entered the office of Major Labbe, accompanied by Col. Clark, a military doctor, when he complained of feeling unwell, and passed away shortly afterwards.

He was born at Pembroke, Ont., on January 23, 1876, and after graduating from the Royal Military College at Kingston, took survey work for the C. P. R. in Ontario.

His widow and three children survive him, besides his father, Dr. J. S. Lafferty of Calgary.

BOY PUT IN CELLS IN AFTERNOON AND GIVEN NOTHING TO EAT UNTIL AFTER COURT THE NEXT MORNING

Need of Juvenile Court Emphasized—Council of Next Year Will Be Asked To Provide Funds.

Immediate action to establish a juvenile court was urged by R. E. Davis at a luncheon of the Rotary and Canadian Clubs today. He thought that a deputation should go before the city council tonight. A resolution along this line was moved by Jared Vining and seconded by L. M. Holding, but it is likely that action will be deferred until the new year, so that co-operation of other bodies which are working on the matter can be secured.

Money Needed.

Mr. Vining pointed out that while it was necessary for the council to request the government to establish a juvenile court, it was also necessary to have an appropriation for the work. The 1919 council cannot pass this appropriation now and he advised leaving the matter to the 1920 council.

Mr. Davis said that last week in London a boy was arrested at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He was placed in the cells, brought before the magistrate at 10 o'clock next morning, and remanded for a week. A worker offered to take him to the children's shelter and told the boy he would have a nice warm bed and would get something to eat there.

Was Starving.

"I would like that, because I haven't had anything since breakfast yesterday," said the boy.

Mr. Davis said he inquired about the truth of this statement at the police station, and was told that the boy had not asked for anything to eat.

This is only one of many cases that establish the need of a juvenile court, he said.

LATE TO BED SAVED LIVES OF CHILDREN

Chimney Fell On Top of Their Cot.

The fact that the small children of Geo. Graham, Anderson avenue, were not put to bed as early as usual, prevented a double fatality occurring on Saturday night, when the chimney of his home, blown from its place during the storm, crashed through the roof and on top of the bed where the tiny tots are accustomed to sleep.

BUSINESSMEN ASKED TO ATTEND CHURCH TWICE EACH SUNDAY

Gipsy Smith Pleads With Them To Work.

GOOD-BYE AT LUNCHEON

Evangelist Pays Tribute To Press and Ministers of London.

Gipsy Smith said good-bye to the businessmen of London at a luncheon of the Rotary and Canadian Clubs in the Tecumseh House today.

"It is a very fitting thing that my last day here has a place for the businessmen of the city," he said. "My work and stay, and friendships I have formed here, will be a very precious memory to me all my life. I never enjoyed my work more, or was received more affectionately.

"Your citizens have been gracious and patient.

Press Has Helped.

"Your newspapers have excelled or exceeded anything I have seen on this trip. They seemed to have made up their minds to give this campaign a fair show. They have given my words wings so that they have reached people for many miles around in the surrounding country. The reporters gave more than my words—they recreated the spirit of the meetings.

"No men have stood by me better than your ministers. They have all come together. All shades of religious thought have been united. You have a body of men of whom you may be proud. Stand by your ministers and churches; get behind them. Get in them. If they are not what you think they should be, don't stay out and criticize. Come in and show us how to do it.

Place for Businessmen.

"Your place as businessmen is inside the church, standing four-square for all that stands for righteousness and the uplift of the soul.

"It is beautiful to see the leaders of all kinds of religious thought and feeling coming together. When we are separated the devil gets a chance to play hide and seek between us. I have been invited on my return to preach in the royal chapel—me, a gipsy. And why not? My gospel is as good as theirs. They may be able to present it better than I, but my gospel is as good. The minister of the royal chapel, in extending the invitation to me, said: 'We will show them that the court and the camp can come together in the service of the world.'"

MILK PRODUCERS AWAITING RESULT OF INVESTIGATION

Over a dozen members of the Middlesex Milk Producers' Association met in the rooms of the local branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture on Saturday afternoon, but only a routine session was held because certain facts concerning the cost of producing milk have not been submitted as yet by No. 1 committee of the city council, which is investigating the matter with the intention of forming a report to be presented to the county association.

The need of testing the milk given by herds was emphasized at the meeting, for by testing and weighing the milk, producers could form an accurate estimate of the worth of their herds in general and the worth of each cow in particular, and so help to reduce the cost of production. It was explained to the members that the testing would not cost them anything, as the expenses will be borne by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Plans for the holding of a banquet, possibly in January, were also discussed, the affair to be open to all who are interested in the production of milk or dairy work.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MRS. McLEAN.

Mrs. Jemima McLean died late on Saturday afternoon at the residence of her son, Duncan L. McLean, 544 Waterloo street, in her 76th year.

Mrs. McLean was the widow of Rev. Donald McLean, who was the first minister to preach in Mount Forest, and the daughter of the late Rev. J. Smith, the first Presbyterian minister to preach in Toronto, and founder of the First Presbyterian Church at Guelph.

Mrs. McLean came to London six years ago from Bridgeburg. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. McLean is survived by one son, Duncan, who is assistant postoffice inspector here.

A funeral service was held at her residence on Sunday evening, and the remains were forwarded this morning to Bridgeburg for interment there today.

DEATH OF MRS. WICKERSON.

Mrs. Caroline Wickerson died yesterday at her home, "Oakland Farm," Byron, following an illness, in her 67th year. Mrs. Wickerson had been a resident of Westminster Township for the past 50 years.

She is survived by her husband, Henry Wickerson, three daughters and seven sons. The funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending the arrival of members of her family from the west.

VOTE TO BE TAKEN ON TOWN PLANNING SCHEME IN LONDON

January Elections May Be the Time Chosen.

In all probability Londoners will be asked at the next municipal elections to state whether they are in favor of a town-planning scheme being adopted by the city. This would be somewhat along the lines suggested at the recent town-planning conference in Hamilton. All new public buildings would be required to conform to certain specifications with the idea of obtaining uniformity and bylaws could be arranged to control the development of new sections in a proper manner.

The Ideas.

City Clerk S. Baker was one of the London delegates at the Hamilton conference. He states that the work was practically summed up in the resolutions which were adopted.

These were that legislative powers be obtained to: (1) Adopt a town-planning scheme with suitable regulation for housing, sanitation, heights of buildings, width of streets, betterment and so forth and for fixing zones for industrial, commercial and residential purposes. This plan would be registered and all subsequent development would have to conform to it.

Appo[illegible] mmission.

(2) Appoint a [illegible]n-planning commission, in which the city council would be represented, this commission to have powers limited by having to submit to the city council any scheme involving large expenditures. The present commission is not properly constituted, the resolution declares.

(3) Provide for gradual street widening in congested areas by fixing a building line. All future development would have to conform to this.

J. R. MINHINNICK TO REMAIN WITH GRAND

Has Arranged Definitely To Retain Managership.

J. R. Minhinnick is to remain as manager of the Grand Theatre, in full charge under the new ownership. This has been definitely settled, the company's offer having been accepted by Mr. Minhinnick and confirmed, and it is understood that the position has increased in value considerably.

The new owner of the theatre is the Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, which controls, operates and books 116 theatres extending from coast to coast.

Mr. Minhinnick has had most flattering letters both from the new and old owners, and having heard some of the plans for the future is enthusiastic in his belief that better shows than ever will be presented here. He has been 12 years in charge of the Grand and for 5 years prior to that was Mr. Small's personal representative here. As a young man he entered the employ of the Carling Brewing Company and was accountant with that firm for 19 years. His popularity here moved several citizens to write the company recently urging that every effort be made to keep him with the Grand.

Steer Disputes Way With G.T.R. Engine and Loses Its Life

Animal Created Lots of Excitement Before End Came.

One lone Durham steer provided lots of excitement on the G. T. R. between the city and Hyde Park Junction on Friday evening, when it apparently went mad and ran amuck, becoming quiet only after a collision with the train to Windsor, in which it came off second best.

The animal was being driven to the slaughter-house near Hyde Park, and when about to enter the pens went wild. It broke loose and getting over a fence charged down the railroad towards London. Word was sent to the G. T. R. officials, and they notified train crews to be on guard. When the train leaving the city for Wingham at 4:45 p.m. came along, the steer was sighted. It had turned around and was again running west. It got off the tracks, and once more started for London. By the time it met the Windsor train darkness was stealing on, and the engine crew did not notice anything until the beast was struck and killed.

Fearing that some disease may have caused the steer to act as it did, it was decided to cut its head off and send it to Toronto for analysis.

To Vaccinate Gipsy

Gipsy Smith is obliged to undergo an operation before leaving London. Thanks to the new regulations, he has to be vaccinated either today or tomorrow, owing to the fact that from London he goes to New York, where he sails for home and family in England. When he crosses the line, even a world-famous evangelist will not be exempt from showing a certificate of vaccination.

Before leaving the city on Tuesday, he is tendering a luncheon to the members of the campaign executive who made and carried out such perfect plans for the mission.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

John Whitman Admits Stealing Suit Case and Clothes.

John Whitman pleaded guilty in police court on Saturday morning to stealing a suitcase, a suit of clothes and some underwear from Robert McGary and was remanded one week for sentence.

Whitaker Johns, charged with vagrancy, had his case adjourned for a week.

Charles E. Singleton was fined $5 and costs for breaking the motor vehicles act by speeding.

INTER-CHURCH CONVENTION OPENS HERE ON TUESDAY

On Tuesday evening the United Inter-Church Convention opens in the Armories at 8 o'clock. Bishop Farthing of Montreal and Rev. John MacNeill of Toronto will be the speakers of the evening.

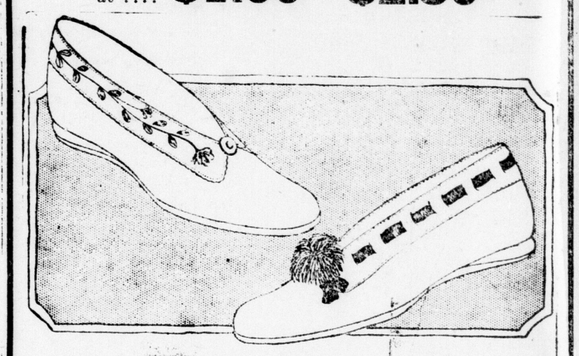

The convention will continue in session all day on Wednesday. Rev. Principal Gandier of Knox College, Toronto will give an address on "The United National Campaign." In the afternoon denominational conferences will be held at the First Presbyterian Church. At the evening session Principal Gandier and Rev. Hugh Pedley will give addresses in the Armories. The Gipsy Smith choir will sing at both evening sessions.

BERT LYTELL IN "LOMBARDI, LTD.," AT THE GRAND TODAY

Five Vaudeville Acts—"Fatty" Arbuckle Comedy, Another Film Feature, Completes Bill.

As its special feature attraction, the Grand will present "Lombardi, Limited," the Screen Classic, Inc., superproduction, with Bert Lytell as the star, for a run of four days, commencing at today's matinee. "Lombardi, Limited," which will be presented twice daily, is variously described as a fashion show, a girl show and a highly diverting comedy of the screen, with the star in the unusual and interesting role of a male modiste. Most of the action transpires in the swagger Fifth avenue dressmaking establishment of Tito Lombardi, an eccentric Italian genius whose artistic tendencies exceed his business acumen, and who finds himself in dire straits and facing bankruptcy because his faith in human nature has made him too "easy" with defrauding customers.

Alice Lake, Juanita Hansen and Vera Lewis have leading feminine roles in the production. Other beautiful young women in the cast are Thea Talbot, Ann May, Jean Acker, Virginia Caldwell, Golda Madden and Patricia Hannan, the last three being gown models of the "perfect 36" variety. Joseph Kilgour, George McDaniels and John Steppling have the remaining supporting parts in the male contingent.

The added film features of this bill will be a "Fatty" Arbuckle comedy entitled "Fatty Disturbs the Peace," the Pictorial Life and Topics of the Day, taken from the Literary Digest.

"JUVENILE FOLLIES" THE HEADLINE ATTRACTION

"Some Baby," the musical comedy announced as the headline vaudeville attraction at the Grand this week, has been cancelled owing to the order at the United States border forbidding United States citizens to enter Canada without being vaccinated. The management of the Grand have been particularly fortunate in securing in its stead an act that entered Canada before the order came into effect, and consequently will offer as its headline feature the first part of this week "The Juvenile Follies," an excellent, singing, dancing, comedy and musical offering featuring ten talented children. The act is one of the most delightful and original now playing vaudeville, and is certain of an excellent reception with young and old alike.

Another prominent feature will be Alfred White and company, who will present a delightful one-act comedy entitled "The Mirror."

Howard and Craddock are a team of colored comedians who offer some brand new comedy and the latest songs.

The Jack Martine Trio, in a novelty dance offering, and George and Ray Perry, the "Jazz Band-Joists from Frisco," will complete an all-feature bill.

GALLO ENGLISH OPERA CO. AT GRAND FRI., AND SAT.

That London is prepared to welcome the Gallo English Opera Company back with open arms is amply proven by the large number of demands for seats which are daily pouring into the box office of the Grand Opera House. Manager Minhinnick has decided to open the sale Wednesday morning, and it is confidently expected that long before the company arrives in the city on Friday the capacity of the house will be completely sold out for each performance. "The Chimes of Normandy" is to be the opening performance Friday night, in which the California mezzo-soprano, Ada Louise Armstrong, will make her first local appearance as Germaine. H.M.S. Pinafore is to be rendered Saturday night and "The Mikado" Saturday afternoon. All the old favorites of the company, Jefferson de Angelis, Rosamond Whiteside, Louis Casavant, Greta Risley, Albert Parr, etc., will be seen at every performance, while, of course, the dainty Japanese prima donna, Hana Shimozumi, will give her unequalled portrayal of Yum-Yum on Saturday afternoon.

RILEY YOUNGS, AGENT FOR P. M. R., DIED SUNDAY

In the death of Riley William Youngs, who passed away at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning, London lost a most popular and estimable citizen, and a host of friends mourn the loss of a true brother.

Mr. Youngs was born January 27, 1869, and was the only son of William Youngs and Emeline M. Nye. The major portion of his years was devoted to railway work, and for the past fourteen years he was division freight and passenger agent of the Pere Marquette Railway with headquarters in London.

By his geniality of disposition and strict attention to duty he won the esteem of the business community and the confidence of the executive of the railway, whose interests he so faithfully served. Mr. Youngs took a keen interest in every movement for the advancement of London's material and moral progress. He took an active part in the patriotic and Y. M. C. A. campaigns in London.

He was a past patriarch in the I. O. O. F., a past master of Howard Lodge, A. F. & A. M. of Ridgetown, a member of London Lodge of Perfection and Rose Croix Chapter, A. & A. S. R., and for the last two years was president of the Thistle Curling Club.

Besides his widow he leaves a family of one daughter and four sons, Mrs. A. J. Warrick of London, E. R. Youngs, manager of Molsons Bank, Bridgeburg; W. H. Youngs of Hamilton, A. L. Youngs at home, and J. G. Youngs of Oshawa.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place from his residence, 575 Colborne street, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

The star chamber sessions of the Russian soviet are relentlessly unveiled in "The Right to Happiness," the Universal photodrama of modern Russia which is showing at the Patricia today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

DOROTHY PHILLIPS IN "THE RIGHT TO HAPPINESS" A BIG UNIVERSAL JEWEL SPECIAL

The spectator sees the "comrades" and cohorts of the two principal Russian agitators in the chamber of deputies in Petrograd.

A girl skips lightly into the room, leaps to the marble rostrom and inflames the smoldering brains of the "comrades" by her creed of violence. Then she leaves Petrograd for New York as an envoy of destruction from leaders of the radicals.

How she finds her sister living in splendor in New York and how the whole fury of her heart is directed against her own father, who is known to her only as a stone-hearted money king, forms the theme of the unusual film drama.

Dorothy Phillips, star of "The Heart of Humanity," rises to dramatic heights in a dual role in her latest starring vehicle, "The Right to Happiness." She is sensationally tempestuous as Sonia, the little comrade of the reactionaries and fastidious and self-centered as Vivian, her twin sister, daughter of the money lord.

William Stowell, well remembered for his excellent supporting work in "The Heart of Humanity" and "Destiny," two previous Universal successes, supports the star. Robert Anderson, Hector Sarno, Henry Barrows, Winter Hall, Margaret Mann, Stanhope Wheatcroft and Alma Bennett are the other members of the cast.

The production was written and produced by Allen Holubar, who also created "The Heart of Humanity."

The vaudeville feature is Allman and Woods in a comedy singing and talking act. A special Strand comedy and a Fox News Weekly will also be shown.

MABEL NORMAND IN "THE JINX" AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

Popular Star Appearing in Great Film Story of Circus Life.

"Jinx," by Shannon Fife, is Mabel Normand's newest Goldwyn pictures, to be seen at the Majestic Theatre, today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The plot concerns an orphaned circus waif known as the Jinx (Mabel Normand), because she has supposedly brought hard luck to the traveling troupers. Her forlorn plight, her ignorance and awkwardness, and her kindly heart plunge the Jinx into situations which are highly ludricous and full of novel comedy.

When the circus folks strike and desert the almost bankrupt show, the Jinx, because she feels responsible for the catastrophe, tries to keep the performance going by taking the place of the serpentine dancer. This is the final calamity, as the Jinx cannot dance. She is pursued by an irate manager, and finds refuge in an orphans' home, where her cup of happiness is filled. Then when the actions of a tough woman member of the circus troupe cast their shadow over the helpless little waif, a complex situation arises in which she must unselfishly relinquish her own happiness and determine to go back to the life of the big show tent.

The supporting cast in "Jinx" includes Cullen Landis, Florence Carpenter, Frankie Lee, and other well-known players.

Mabel Normand in "The Jinx" showing at the Majestic today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

HOSPITAL PATIENTS SHOULD BE PLACED IN CITY SHELTERS

Supt. Heard Claims Refuge Case Cause of Congestion At Victoria.

According to a report made to the board of Victoria Hospital by Superintendent T. H. Heard, many of the patients being cared for in the institution should be in homes or shelters. At the board meeting Saturday afternoon the superintendent reported that the hospital has been crowded to the limit during the past week. The congestion is due to the fact that half the patients being cared for in the public wards are either incurables or refuge cases. They are at Victoria for the simple reason that there is no other place to take them to.

"There are not enough homes or shelters in the city, and although they have recovered from the sickness for which they were entered, these patients have no place to go to if we do discharge them. It is true that some of them have relatives in the city, but their relatives do not seem willing to do anything for them. There are many who have no friends," the superintendent said.

Expenditures Double Receipts.

According to the report for the month of October, which was read and adopted, 315 patients were admitted and 346 discharged. There were 19 births and 17 deaths. The free dispensary treated 202 cases. The cash receipts were $7,776.25, and the bills passed on to be paid amounted to $17,826.55.

The usual grant of $100 for Christmas cheer was made by the trustees. Regular routine business was attended to. Col. W. M. Gartshore, G. C. Gunn, J. W. Laidlaw and T. H. Heard were present.

VISITS LONDON AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

T. G. Mason, Founder of Firm of Mason & Risch, Inspects Local Store.

Mr. T. G. Mason, founder of the firm of Mason & Risch, Limited, the well-known Canadian piano and phonograph manufacturers for more than 50 years, accompanied by the general manager, Mr. H. H. Mason, has been visiting London for the past three days inspecting the local branch, the largest of the many they operate in Ontario, and one of the largest the firm have in Canada.

Mr. T. G. Mason, who is over four score years, is paying his first visit to London in 25 years. He says the city has undergone a complete change. Despite his advanced years, Mr. Mason has a very clear memory of the troubles experienced in the early days of putting on the market a piano worthy of their name. He is justly proud of the record made by the firm he started half a century ago, and which has grown from one manufacturing 50 pianos a year to one now selling, through their bunch stores which extend from coast to coast, thousands of instruments.

Mr. H. H. Mason feels so optimistic regarding business in London he announced that it was their intention to build, in the early spring, an addition to the London branch costing several thousands of dollars, which, when completed, would make it one of the finest piano, phonograph and sheet music stores in Canada.

DACHSHUND GAINS 'SPUDS' BY DISPLAY OF 'KULTUR'

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 29.—Severin Gundlach is one bushel of potatoes to the good as a result of a highly typical display of kultur on the part of his dachshund.

A farmer came along with a wagon-load of potatoes, and Gundlach decided to take twenty bushels, if the farmer would carry them into the cellar, which was agreed. The farmer wasn't so much on figures, so, in order to keep track of the number every time he carried a bushel down he laid a potato on the sidewalk.

After he had carried a while he stopped, mopping his brow, and surveyed the row of potatoes on the sidewalk with a troubled eye.

"It doesn't seem to grow much," he said, but he went on. Some time later he stopped again. Just then he caught sight of the dachshund rounding the corner with a potato in his mouth. He called Gundlach.

"That German dachshund of yours is stealing my counters," he said. "I know I've put twenty bushels in that cellar." He could only count thirteen on the sidewalk, so he and Gundlach set out to trail the dachshund. They found six potatoes in various places, making nineteen. The farmer insisted that he had carried down twenty bushels, and Gundlach paid for that many under protest.

LADMARKS OF LITHUANIA ARE ATTRACTING TOURISTS

London, Nov. 29.—Already the European countries are inviting tourists. The prosperity of some of the most celebrated capitals of Europe depends on the tourist business.

But now that Lithuania has become an independent republic and free to all visitors, her landmarks will attract as much of the curiosity of the traveler as any other spot of Europe.

A trip on the River Niemen or on the Luna, taken on a log raft, rivals in excitement and novelty anything attempted before. The wooded shores and the fishers' quaint huts, the boatman's shanty and the colorful costumes of the populace are some of the attractions.

LABOR CONFERENCE GIVES APPROVAL TO ALL CONVENTIONS

Last of Them Was Adopted Saturday Morning.

A DISAPPROVAL MOTION

South African Delegates Move Protest Against European Preponderance.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29.—(By the Canadian Press, Limited).—The international labor conference this morning voted to define what it did yesterday. Following a series of amendments made by the conference yesterday morning to the draft convention regarding employment of women before and after childbirth, the drafting committee was in a quandary. Exactly what the amendment means was not clear.

At the outset this morning the conference voted on the question as to whether or not it had meant to include all women wage earners in the convention—whether employed in industry, commerce or agriculture. First, application of the convention to women employed in agriculture was defeated by 52 to 27, then by a vote of 49 to 39, the conference decided to extend the provisions of the convention to women employed in commercial as well as industrial establishments. A vote followed on whether the conference wished maternity benefits to be paid entirely by the state or whether they should be paid by the state "by a system of insurance." By 73 to 8 the conference decided that benefits should be payable either by the state or by a system of insurance. A vote was then taken on adoption of the whole convention.

All Now Approved.

Tom Moore, substituting for the Canadian workers' delegate, voted for adoption of the convention. Hon. N. W. Rowell, Senator Robertson, Canadian Government delegates, and S. R. Parsons, Canadian employers' delegate, voted against adoption. The British Government delegates abstained from voting. The convention was adopted on the following vote: For 87, against 10, abstentions 11. Thus all conventions before the conference have now been approved on the final vote. They will now go to all states represented at the conference for ratification by the competent authority.

As a result of today's voting, the convention in regard to employment of women before and after childbirth will be the only one applicable to employees of commercial, as well as industrial, establishments. All other conventions adopted apply to workers in industrial establishments only. It was on this ground, it is understood, that the Canadian Government delegates voted against the convention adopted today. They take the view that the convention departs, in this regard, from the general principles laid down in other conventions. A resolution was adopted that "in view of the fact that the peace treaty is not yet ratified, the governing body of the international office be authorized to take such steps as will make the decisions of the conference effective."

Express Disapproval.

Further, the governing body was authorized either to reconvene the conference or to consider its present meeting closed, as might be deemed desirable. Mr. Gemmill, employers' delegate from South Africa, then moved that the conference express its disapproval of the composition of the governing body of the international labor office, inasmuch as twenty out of the twenty-four members of the governing body were representative of European countries.

The point, said Mr. Crawford, South African workers' delegate, was whether European countries should dominate the international labor conference.

Canadian Government delegates did not vote on the motion. Canadian employers' delegate supported the motion. The Canadian workers' delegate voted against. The motion was carried by 44 to 39. The conference closed at 2:15 this afternoon.

WRECK OF FREIGHTER HAS BEEN ABANDONED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 30.—The freight steamship Tioga, which went aground in Lake Superior near Calumet last Wednesday, is pounding to pieces and has been abandoned by her owners, according to advices received by the underwriters here today.

The boat was bound from Duluth to Buffalo with a cargo of 100,000 bushels of wheat, valued at approximately $250,000. The Tioga is owned by the Massey Steamship Company of Duluth. Her crew left the boat Thursday.

ARREST MINERS WHO REFUSE TO RESUME WORK

Such Action Indicated in Discussion in U. S. Government Circles.

MAY CHARGE CONTEMPT

Officials Believe Such Refusal Would Be Disobedience of Court Order.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 30.—Possibility of the arrest of miners who refuse to return to work tomorrow, when all mines will be opened by operators in compliance with the decision of the Government, was indicated in discussion in federal circles here tonight. Officials were of the opinion that such refusal would be in violation of the federal court injunction against interference with coal production in that it could be construed as encouragement of the strike, and action specifically prohibited under the provisions of the injunction. No statement regarding what action, if any, the federal agents intend to take, however, was forthcoming tonight.

A statement issued yesterday by Dan Simms, special United States district attorney, in charge of enforcement of the court's mandate, in which he said any person who had knowledge of the temporary injunction, and who afterwards violated its terms, would be cited for contempt, was taken to mean that such action would be pushed, it was stated, but Mr. Simms would make no comment on the statement.

There was no indication at United Mine Workers' headquarters here that miners in the Indiana fields intend returning to work tomorrow. It was said that word from local leaders showed disinclination to return to work at the 14 per cent wage advance offered. Leaders of the mine workers would not indicate what course they intended to pursue, but it is not thought notices in the mines that operations would be resumed will meet any response from the miners.

PRESENT CONDITIONS SIMILAR TO WAR TIME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 0.—The pinch of the coal shortage promised tonight to force the adoption of drastic measures to avert an actual famine. A vacation of one month by the soft coal miners has brought on conditions like those prevailing during the war in many sections, but war-time restrictions have not altogether checked the drain on coal piles.

Not much hope was held out by officials tonight for early production of bitminous coal in quantities sufficient to permit the maintenance of the present slim reserves under the supervision of the railroad administration's central coal committee. The latest authentic figures show that last week's soft coal output did not reach 50 per cent of normal production. This meant, officials explained, that local needs must be met from the supplies being distributed through the central committee, whose stocks aggregated about 22,000,000 tons when the miners quit work. No figures were available today as to the exact amount of coal now on hand.

While regional coal committees acting under instructions from Washington have been dealing out coal sparingly further and more drastic restrictions have been agreed upon by the central committee. They will be put into effect whenever the regional committees are unable to meet the situation with local regulations. Details have not been made public, but it is knlwn provides for a tremendous reduction in sofe coal consumption.

Honest Heart Was Secret of Prince's Wonderful Success

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—The Spectator anticipates the return of the Prince of Wales on Monday in an article attributing the wonderful success of his tour to his absolute correctness of demeanor.

"The great things the prince has done on the positive side deserve all the gratitude and admiration received, though these have been overwhelming," the Spectator says, "but the negative side, perhaps, has been a more remarkable part of the tour. The prince seems to have made no mistakes. The difference of tone demanded among Canadian and American peoples made a task capable of trying the ablest and most tactful man of the world, a crux for orators or diplomats, yet the prince sailed triumphantly over this troubled sea without getting even the slightest buffet from the waves. His simple secret was his honest heart, with the addition of good sense and modesty."

The writer advises the prince never to be turned from his friendly disposition toward all honest men and specifically urges him never to let go of the hand which America has held out and which he now grasps.

LIBERALS WILL OPPOSE DOHERTY AND RANEY

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—The Liberals have decided to put up candidates to oppose Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, and Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, in the coming by-elections. It is not likely that there will be any opposition to the other six ministers.

FROM A CHILD WAS CONSTIPATED

According to the best medical authorities, fully three-fourths of the people of the civilized world suffer in some form from costiveness or irregular action of the bowels. There is no doubt that many distressing diseases are caused by constipation. It gives rise to sick and bilious headaches, jaundice, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness and the painful, troublesome piles. Therefore, it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Simple food, fruit, etc., should be used, and rich food and stimulants of all kinds avoided. This, with the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills to regulate and establish healthy action of the bowels cannot fail to give permanent relief in the most obstinate cases.

Mrs. Letitia Wainman, Orillia, Ont., writes: "From a child I was always very badly constipated, and I can well remember when quite young my mother giving me senna tea nearly every morning, and I got to dread it. After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a while I am not troubled with constipation any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HEAD TURNKEY DIES AS RESULT OF STABS INFLICTED BY MAN SENTENCED TO HANG

Arthur Awty of Hamilton Jail Is Second Victim of Desperate Criminal.

HAMILTON, Nov. 30.—Arthur Awty, head turnkey at the Barton street jail, who was stabbed several times in the body by Paul Kowalski, awaiting execution for the murder on February 17 last of Nick Trembluk, after Kowalski had killed County Constable Springstead, the death watch, died from his injuries last evening in a room in the jail to which he had been removed.

Ex-sergeant John Lowery and William Berry, who also were wounded while attempting to overpower the man, who had added a worse crime to that for which he already had been condemned to death, are recovering in the General Hospital

A Desperate Man.

Although it was known to the police that Kowalski was a desperate man, he had been tractable since his removal to the jail on October 16 to await the carrying out of the death sentence. How he secured possession of the iron spoon with which he attacked the turnkeys, or was able to fashion it into a weapon such as that which he used with such terrible effect, are things that remain to be ascertained. Governor Ogilvie said that the prisoner was allowed no other utensils than spoons for his meals. It was the duty of the three turnkeys who went to the cell together with his meals to see that everything that had been taken in was removed. It was the spoon with which he had taken his breakfast that probably was used to twist the handkerchief which throttled the death watch.

County Constable Springstead apparently was caught off his guard, and never had a chance of defending himself. It seems that he was unarmed. Kowalski smashed everything in his cell, tearing out the window frame by sheer brute force the sash weight, with which he crushed the skull of his victim, whom he had already throttled, a very effective weapon. It was a long bar of metal about two feet in length.

Kowalski, shortly after the tragedy, the detectives say, informed the police that the knife which he used as a weapon was loaned to him by Constable Springstead. It is said that at breakfast time the prisoner had been given an apple and had asked his guard for his pocket knife to peel the fruit. It was loaned to him, and the weapon was not returned to the officer, but was secreted on the condemned man's person.

WABASH, Nov. 30.—Gladys' the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coulter of Chatham Township, is in a serious condition as the result of being severely scalded.

WOODSTOCK TO VOTE ON INDUSTRIAL BYLAWS

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 30.—The two industrial bylaws, concerning the establishment here of the Brunswick Canadian Products Company and the Warren Pipe Organ Company will be submitted to the people for their vote on Monday. Public sentiment strongly favors the carrying of these two measures, and though there are those who oppose it, there is every indication that the two will receive the required two thirds' majority.

CLANDEBOYE CHILD SERIOUSLY BURNED

CLANDEBOYE, Nov 30.—Arthur Dauncy, three-year-old son of George Dauncy, was seriously burned about the body and one side of his face today. It is thought that his clothing caught fire when the little fellow lit a match. Dr. Hamilton of Ailsa Craig, dressed his burns, and he is doing as well as can be expected.

A good crowd attended the social evening given by the Ladies' Guild of St. James Parish. A good program was given after which the ladies served lunch.

The clover threshers are in the vicinity, and those who have threshed report a fair crop of seed. Most of the farmers have their cattle and horses stabled for the winter.

Motor Boat Sinks; Three Have Narrow Escape From Death

(Special to The Advertiser.)

KINGSTON, Nov. 30.—Three men, William Leich of Cape Vincent, Grover Baker and Harvey Thompson of Watertown, N. Y., had a terrible experience yesterday when the motor boat in which they were attempting passage from Cape Vincent to Kingston foundered, and left them stranded on a submerged island. They remained in the ice water for three hours, and were on the point of collapse when rescued by two boys in a boat. They were taken to a farmhouse, where warm drinks and warm, dry clothes soon restored them to a normal condition.

The men were on their way to Kingston to secure a supply of sugar. They started to cross the lake towing a scow, but encountered ice and in order to secure sufficient headway to break through untied the scow. Rushing at the ice the motor boat, instead of forcing a channel, had part of its bottom cut clean off, and immediately sank. Its former occupants were good swimmers and managed to reach the sunken island, which was marked by a clump of cattails whose tops showed above the water, but not before they were chilled to the bone, for their overcoats had gone down with the boat.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

At no time in the history of this city has it been so necessary that the voter should interest himself in the annual municipal elections. Within a few weeks the electorate will be asked to pass judgment on proposed bylaws involving an expenditure of close to a million dollars. Many of these relate to affairs vital to the municipality. At no time should affairs of public interest be ignored, but especially at this time it is well for the city's progress and prosperity that citizens be familiar with whatever is placed before them for a decision. The city is at the gateway of a great expansion. It is destined to play a big part in the new Canada which will come up from reconstruction. The voter can no longer look at things in a small or narrow way, unless he wishes the city to become stagnant or to retrograde. We will have to legislate to keep pace with our rapid growth industrially and make certain the promise of the future. It is important that every citizen should give closest attention to the selection of the men who will represent him in the council and other civic bodies for another year. A careful study should be made, too, of the various bylaws that will be presented. The voter owes it to himself and his fellow citizens to go to the poll fully informed on all matters that will appear on the ballot form. He cannot afford to be indifferent if he has the best service of the municipality at heart.

THE WINNIPEG ELECTIONS.

In no Canadian municipal election of recent date has there been such widespread interest as in the Winnipeg polling held on Friday. Every municipality in the Dominion, big or little, was interested, as the main issue of the contest was the question of the right of civic employes to organize and be affiliated in other unions. The radicals amongst the Labor condidates asked for support on promises of reinstating all civic employees who last summer were discharged for taking part in the great strike. The candidates of the Citizens' League, the emergency organization which broke the strike on the other hand went to the polls on a platform denying the right of such bodies as firemen, policemen, waterworks men, to join with any other labor organization, because of the danger to the general public through the crippling of public utilities by a general strike. No objection was made to civic employees uniting amongst themesives, but the Citizens' League felt that it could not approve of a policy that might bring another spell of near-anarchy such as the city suffered from last June. The issue was clear-cut and distinct, and as the result was the return of Mayor Gray, who fought the strike, and as the Labor voters elected only four of fifteen candidates placed in the field, it seems clear that the prairie capital is determined to have nothing to do with the One Big Union idea.

A SCIENTIST'S LEAD.

The visit of Professor Conklin of Princeton to Western University was the event of the week-end for London's intelligenzia. His lectures in St. Andrew's Hall brought together large and appreciative audiences, and the distinguished biologist was eagerly requested to come back again as soon as possible for him. Not often are such simplicity and ease of presentation and such force of expression combined with research scholarship of the highest calibre. Dr. Conklin showed himself not only the biologist but a warm-hearted character, a keen and advanced political intelligence, and an effective orator. As one speaker said at the close of the second address, we had heard one of the best sermons ever preached in London.

The main idea of the first lecture was that the physical and mental evolution of individual man had long ago reached its limits. Professor Conklin did not consider the question whether eugenic breeding might improve on the results of natural heredity, but his statement in the second lecture that one in fourteen of the American population has probably recessive feeblemindedness does not look very sanguine in this regard, unless these one-in-fourteen, or seven per cent, could be generally found out for sure. But while convinced that individual evolution has reached its term, he is just as convinced that a great social and political evolution lies before us still. We are moving toward democracy, he declared, evidently not believing that we quite have it already, and in a lively and original way he showed that the natural evolution of man is along lines not aristocratic but democratic. Democracy is with him both a passion and a scientific conclusion. It is the divine event toward which all humanity moves. We are destined to be one world society of brothers or cousins at least, man being only one species. Natural evolution tends towards the three ideals of democracy: liberty, fraternity and equality. Specialization and co-ordination of function makes for freedom, from tyranny of environment and from mere instinct. But we need now not so much individual as social freedom and consequently must emphasize today our duties rather than our rights. The simplest study of heredity, again, deepens our sense of human fraternity; we are brothers by nature. Finally, the very complexity of heredity makes the probability of inferior children from superior parents about as probable as of superior children from inferior parents. Natural development recognizes no fixity of class distinctions, but in general makes for the third and greatest condition of democracy, equality. One genius was the son of a bankrupt butcher (Shakespeare), another of the consumptive daughter of a cook, Lincoln of "poor white trash," and so on. Heredity establishes in its own way, and democracy recognizes the individual inequalities that actually exist, while aristocracy insists upon sham inequalities. But democracy recognizes also the general equality of chances in development and correspondingly provides an equality of opportunity.

It is a good thing for any community to hear a voice like Dr. Conklin's, raised decisively and authoritatively for a democratic world. Led and inspired by such voices, men will fight, if need be, for democracy, though democracy itself, as Professor Conklin urges, is a polity of peace. We should like to hear him on the particulars of this subject, e. g., the rule and wisdom of the majority, or the means of industrial and international democratization. It is the men of science like Bergson, Bertrand Russell, Wells (glowingly commended by Dr. Conklin), etc., who can teach us today the ethics, the polity, yes the religion, that the modern world needs. Any one who should not be helped by such a discourse as that on "Evolution and Democracy" is not intellectually but morally incapable. He or she does not desire truth. There were no "big words," it was perfectly simple, sensuous, and at moments even passionate. Many, however, want not truth but sensation, and as Lascelles Abercrombie says (another scientific man and poet), "it is written in the heart of man, he shall no larger be than his desire." The great end of education must be moral, to make people desire truth, to lead them to prefer truth to mere cinema and excitement.

THE NEW LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

Mr. Lionel H. Clarke of Toronto has been named lieutenant-governor of Ontario in succession to Sir John Hendrie. Mr. Clarke is a native of Guelph, but received his early education at Port Hope. He has for many years been prominent in business and social affairs of the provincial metropolis, but has not directly been interested in politics, except as it has applied to the municipal affairs of Toronto. As he is a man of considerable wealth he will be in a position to occupy Government House as it should be occupied so long as we are obliged to put up for its costly splendor. He will, no doubt, admirably fill the position, as he is a man of sound sense and of tact, and is active in matters patriotic and philanthropic.

BETTER HIGHWAYS ARE VITAL.

Good highways have a definite bearing on the health of the nation. They permit better medical attention to sufferers in rural communities. Good roads allow the city people to frequently flee from the dust and dirt of the city and enable them to breathe wholesome, moving air. Excursions into the country permit the body to relax, and allow the mind to dispel thoughts of the day's work.

There are fewer physicians in the rural districts than in the cities; there are fewer nurses, and practically no hospital facilities in the rural districts. The inadequate supply of doctors in the country is largely due to the lack of means of getting around the country without extreme hardships.

The good roads problem is important to physicians, not only because it is difficult to travel through mud to see their patients, but also because it is next to impossible to transport patients needing special care, or to consult with specialists at a distance. The number of deaths of women in child-birth is proportionately greater in the country than in the city, and the number of babies who die within the first thirty days after birth is far greater. This condition is directly traceable to the fact that adequate medical care is not available for the rural mothers and babies.

Much of the future development of public health work, visiting, nursing and medical service generally in the rural communities depends upon the development of good roads. Likewise will be hastened rural community hospitals and transportation thereto.

City residents are vitally concerned in the condition of rural roads from the standpoint of health protection, because they are dependent on good roads for fresh milk. Large cities are furnished milk from remote rural regions. Bad roads delay its delivery. Sometimes milk accumulates two days or more before delivery from the farm. Bacteria often develops dangerously in the meantime. Good roads will emancipate the cities from depending upon existing clumsy means of transportation.

Good roads encourage the city man to spend more of his time in the open country. When motoring, he and his family may inhale vast quantities of air that is in motion. Rides in the country allow fresh air to reach the skin as well as the lungs. Deep breathing in open air prevents the accumulation of fat and is far more productive of general health than active exercises indoors.

Aside from their value as a medium of transportation, and their economic value to individual communities, as well as to the states and the nation as a whole, better highways are a factor in health that cannot and should not be underestimated.

From Here and There

INLAND.

[Edna St. Vincent Millay in Ainslee's.]

People that build their houses inland,
People that buy a plot of ground
Shaped like a house, and build a house there,
Far from the seaboard, far from the sound

Of water sucking the hollow ledges,
Tons of water striking the shore,
What do they long for, as I long for
One salt smell of the sea once more?

People the waves have not awakened,
Spanking the boats at the harbor's head,
What do they long for, as I long for—
Starting up in my inland bed,

Beating the narrow walls and finding
Neither a window nor a door,
Screaming to God for death by drowning!—
One salt taste of the sea once more?

THE MOVIE AS NEWS.

[New York Tribune.]

The public will see good sense in the decision of the appellate division in the Humiston case that a news film does not require the assent of the persons appearing in it to legalize its use. Whether this judgment is clearly in accord with the language of the privacy statute may be open to debate. That it is the sound and wholesome view, having regard to the paramount rights of the public, seems certain. The news film has become a recognized feature of American life. It is constantly being developed. Unquestionably it is destined to play a large part in the formation of public opinion and knowledge. It is not fairly to be classed with the display of a portrait photograph for advertising or other commercial purposes, in which a person's privacy is violated simply for private gain. The right of privacy is sacred and must be preserved; but it reaches its obvious limits the moment the public's legitimate interest is touched. To reach any other decision would destroy the public's right to a valuable record of public events. In a democracy the dissemination of facts touching public events is a vital part of the social system. This decision should be upheld and made secure, if need be, by legislative enactment.

HUNTING, 1919.

[Manchester Guardian.]

The hunting season has now opened with perhaps the hardest going for hounds and horses that has been known for years. The whole country is alive with foxes, and the five years' respite has produced almost a plague of them. As far as I can learn, the most remarkable thing about the meets this year is the small number of young men that are turning out. The same report comes from all centres: old stagers, ladies, but a dearth of the young gentry. The reason is not far to find. There has been a heavy casualty among young sportsmen during the war, an abnormal number of cavalry regiments are stationed overseas owing to our post-war necessities, and lastly, and not least, the cost of the sport. With hay at £20 a ton, as it stands today, the keeping of horses is prohibitive to the moderate purse.

A GREAT BATTLESHIP.

[Montreal Herald.]

Since the days when the Dreadnought was in building no greater interest has been aroused about the design of any ship of war than about that of the Hood. She is the latest British capital ship to be completed. Whether rightly described as a battleship or a battle-cruiser, she partakes of the characteristics of both types, and may be said to combine all the qualities and attributes which war experience showed to be desirable, so far as this is possible in one vessel. There is a likelihood, moreover, that she may be not only the latest, but—if Lord Fisher and Sir Percy Scott and their school of thinkers are right—the last of the great warships of Britain of her kind, says the naval correspondent of the London Times.

Only Ship of Her Type.

The new vessel was originally one of a class of four, all named after British admirals, but after the armistice the contracts for the Anson, Howe and Rodney, which were not so far advanced, were abandoned, so that the Hood is the sole representative of her type. The design was approved and orders were placed in the summer of 1916, when Mr. Balfour was first lord, and his board included Admiral Sir Henry Jackson as first sea lord, and Rear-Admiral F. C. T. Tudor as third sea lord and controller.

The contract for the Hood was allotted to Messrs. John Brown & Co., Limited, of Clydebank, which firm put afloat in the same year the Repulse, sister ship of the Renown. They were also the builders of the Barham, of the Queen Elizabeth class, and the Tiger, the last battle-cruiser to be launched for the British navy before the war broke out. The first keel plate of the Hood was laid on September 1, 1916.

It is interesting to note that the Hood is the first capital ship in the British—and probably in any—navy to be built since the Battle of Jutland was fought on May 31, 1916. She was launched on August 22, 1918.

In the Hood, gun-power, speed and armored protection are provided in such a degree that it cannot be said that any one quality has been sacrificed for the other. It is for this reason that the Hood is most remarkable, and presents a complete change from previous practice.

Has Eight 15-Inch Guns.

The main armament of the Hood consists of eight 15-inch guns, mounted in four gun-houses en barbette, two pairs forward and two aft. The disposition, indeed, is the same as in the Royal Sovereign and Queen Elizabeth, which also have eight 15-inch guns. The Renown class have only six 15-inch guns in three turrets. The gun-houses are protected by armor of a maximum thickness of 15 inches, reduced in places to 11 inches, and there is 12-inch armor on the barbettes. The main armament is thus afforded better protection than in the Hood's predecessors, which had 11-inch armor, and in this respect there is reflected the greater importance attached to this feature since the Battle of Jutland. Provision has been made for giving increased elevation to the guns over that allowed in earlier ships.

The secondary battery consists of twelve 5.5-inch guns, as compared with seventeen 4-inch guns in the Renown, and the fourteen 6-inch guns in the Royal Sovereign. The gun mounted is a new weapon, now adopted for the first time in a capital ship. It is of 50 calibres, with a length of 33 feet 8½ inches, or nearly half as long as the 15-inch guns, and throws a projectile weighing 82 pounds, the weight of the charge used being 23½ pounds. The gun itself weighs 6 tons 4 cwts, and develops a velocity of 2,950 foot-seconds. It will penetrate 4.2 inches of hard steel plate at 5,000 yards. These 5.5-inch guns in the secondary battery are mounted in a casemate, as in the Royal Sovereign, and not disposed in groups on the superstructure as in the Renown. Moreover, the guns are behind 5-inch armor.

Protection and Engine Power.

Complete details of the armored protection have not yet been afforded, but the Hood has an armored belt at the waterline of 12 inches, tapering to 6 inches and 5 inches, and completed at the ends by a 1-inch armored deck forward and a 3-inch deck aft. Above this main armor belt is a somewhat shorter one of 1-inch maximum thickness, the main deck being 1½ inches thick on the flat and 2 inches thick on the slope. The casemate, as already stated, is protected by 5-inch armor, and the forecastle deck has 2-inch armor amidships. The conning tower of the Hood is better protected than in either the Royal Sovereign or Renown, having armor of 11 inches and 9 inches thickness, as compared with 11-inch and 6-inch in the Royal Sovereign and 10-inch in the Renown.

Against under-water explosion the ship is protected by a bulge or blister, the invention of Sir Eustace d'Eyncourt, and there is a very comprehensive system of bulkhead and subdivision.

Geared turbines of Brown-Curtis type, with a shaft horsepower of 144,000, will drive the ship at a designed speed of 31 knots, steam being supplied by water-tube boilers. The power of the engines far exceeds that of any previous vessel in the British navy. The drive is more than five times as great as that of the Dreadnought, and more than three times that of the Inflexible. The furnaces are adapted for oil fuel only, of which the ship has a carrying capacity of 4,000 tons. Her engines have been manufactured by the builders of the hull.

The time given by Mr. Long earlier in the year for the Hood's completion was this month, and she is expected very shortly to proceed to Devonport from the yard of Messrs. Brown at Clydebank for her trials. She is then to be made ready for sea, with accommodation for an admiral, and will probably first hoist the flag of Sir Charles Madden as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

OUT OF THE DUSK.

By A. W. Peach.

Margery Orvis had never stopped to think of the danger that lay for her in her habit of leaving the coal office after dusk. Old Martin, who owned the business, had never reached the point of moving his office from his yards to some uptown locality, nor had he changed the old system of having his drivers collect the money for coal delivered.

He had found Margery so clever and keen that soon he was leaving the office early for his home, and she was taking the money from the drivers. Many times the great coal yard was grey with dusk before she slipped homeward from the office.

It did not occur to her that any one would rob her, for no one was supposed to know that she left with the entire money collected during the day. Some did know, however.

On that particular evening she was hurrying down the road between the bins when her heart jumped at the sound of rushing steps.

She half-turned to be grasped tightly around the body and to feel the innocent bag she carried snatched from her hand. In the same moment, in a wild effort she seized her assailant about the neck, but with an oath he tore loose, flinging her aside, and disappeared.

She drew herself quickly to her feet, but the dusky silence of the deserted yard gave back no sign of the robber. She stood helpless, a bit dazed; then through her consciousness came the hint that she held something in her hand. She held it up in wonder, and then shivered with the shock of what she saw. She had seized and torn away part of a necktie, and in it was still fashioned firmly a pin of peculiar design. She stared at it, recognizing it beyond any question, feeling her blood grow chill within her.

Half in a stupor, she made her way to the car line, and then to her room in the quiet, residential section. She studied the pin. There could be no doubt: Alden Kenyon was her assailant. Her world of dreams began to tumble about her.

Since the day of her coming to the coal office, the old dealer's son, Reed Martin, had pressed his suit upon her, and she had liked him—even to the extent of loving him if it had not been for her strict little Puritan body and mind.

His habits were against him, and she valued her own clean body and soul too much to risk it in his care. And then had come Kenyon, merry and frank of eye, poor but honorable—she had thought—tall and strong, the type of man she could love.

Reed had brought him to the office, for the two worked in the same establishment in the city, little thinking he was bringing a rival. Now the one she trusted had failed her.

"I was too hasty. I really did not know him," she said to herself bitterly, recalling the evenings with him, the pleasant times, the shy exchange of words and moods such as only lovers know. Tears came to her eyes as she remembered. "Oh, Alden!"

She slept little that night, her mind facing the issue that had arisen. He knew when she left the office; he knew she carried the money collected during the day, and she, on her part, knew that her love for him had been the quick, instinctive kind that reason does not guide with firm, directing finger.

She turned to the pillow at last, tears coming, but with her mind made up to tell the stern old businessman just what had happened.

She was not spared further shock. On her way to the yards the next morning she saw a familiar figure swing onto the car, and found herself looking up into Alden's tender, smiling eyes.

"Hello, little girl. I thought I would wait a few cars in hopes of seeing you. I want to engage you for the evening," he said easily.

"I am not free," she answered as coolly as she could, although trembling within. He was wearing the very suit he had worn when he robbed her. How keenly she recalled that grey stripe she had seen as she struggled!

"I suppose it is Reed, this time. Well, I can't complain. You have treated me fairly," he said genially.

He chatted with her, but she had little to say, and when he dropped from the car at his destination she was relieved, although she could hardly restrain herself from following his swinging form as it disappeared in the crowd.

All that day she fought a silent battle—whether to tell Mr. Martin of what had happened and who the guilty party was. Like a caged animal her mind went back and forth. At last she sought freedom.

The grey-haired veteran listened to her story without comment; then he said: "The evidence is clear against him. My dear little girl, you must learn, as we all learn, not to trust a handsome face, a friendly way, until it has been tested. I'll send for him, and see what he has to say. My boy likes him, and I hate to have him jailed."

She suffered in silence until, hours later, released from his work, he came. He was changed in some way, and she guessed that he sensed what he was wanted for.

She caught him impulsively as he started to the private office door, and whispered, "Oh, Alden—" Then, recovering and remembering, she backed off, leaving him bewildered, a glad smile on his face fading to a shadow of pain.

Martin called her in after a little. She went with trembling step. Alden sat white-faced and silent in a corner, wearing the look of a trapped man.

Martin's voice was grim. "Margery, Kenyon admits that the pin is his. It is such an odd one that I doubt if he could do otherwise, and he practically admits that he robbed you, although he won't say so."

She looked at him with tears in her eyes. "I can't believe it! I can't!"

Kenyon stared at her and half rose to his feet; his lips opened, but he said nothing.

Martin looked at him coldly. "I shall take action against you unless you return that money. Can you do it?"

"I'll try," Kenyon answered—and the answer was admittance of guilt.

As she sank back with a low cry, she heard a sharp knock on the door. It opened, and in came Reed; his handsome face dark. He threw his hat into a chair and sat down.

"I just heard what was up. I'm the one. I room with Alden. It was easy. I needed the money—debts—cards. I borrowed his suit, and the rest of his stuff. He was wise, and I knew he would try to save me. I'm not such a dog as I might be—and, dad, I'm downright sorry. I feel like a cur."

She saw the old man at the desk age years in a moment. As his son's self-condemning voice went on, the despair seemed to be checked.

She caught Alden's signal, and they both went out.

Outside the door, he looked down at her with a twisted smile. "I was afraid the old man's heart would break, and I thought I could save him. Reed told me and I urged him to 'fess up this afternoon, but I didn't think he would. Now, he has. Gee, but it's a rotten mess. And the only thing that looks good to me now is you. Say, will you go to the park with me this night?"

She leaned her face against his shoulder as his boyish voice rambled bravely on to cover his own emotion; and then, while his hand patted her encouragingly, she managed to say with more quavering that she wished, "I—guess—so"—which seemed to be quite satisfactory to him.

BETTER BLACKBOARDS AND MORE LIGHT NEEDED IN SCHOOLS.

"If you want anything to agitate about, just get busy on the school blackboards and more accommodation in crowded school buildings," said a prominent woman to The Advertiser the other day. Blackboards should be such that they will not tire the eyes of the children which must be constantly turned upon them. The light should be so let into the room that it will not cast a glare on the board and so strain the eyes of the small scholars as they try to make out what is written there. Some of the old-fashioned blackboards in the city schools are exceedingly bad and should be done away with.

Another defect which they have is that of being placed too high. A great number of them have been put in at a height which would suit a gown person, but which is altogether too high for a child. However, even the raising of a blackboard costs money, and the school board needs urging before it will undertake anything new. The people of London should study such things (it is their children who will suffer), and then come out and demand what they want. Of course, it will cost a little money, but how much better to spend it this way than on glasses and doctor bills!

ENGLISH DOMESTICS CROSSING ATLANTIC.

Cheer up, weary housewives! There is really a detachment of English domestics crossing the Atlantic now, 83 of them with promises of thousands more to come. Their passage is being paid by the Imperial Government, and they are being admitted to the country on the understanding that they will enter domestic service. The locating of these women is in the hands of the Canadian Council of Immigration for Women for Household Service lately appointed, and it is expected that 39 will find homes in Ontario.

Mrs. Chas. Robson of the department of immigration is now waiting in Halifax to receive them, and she will see that they find lodging in the hostels established throughout Canada for that purpose.

These women have been recently demobilized from the British women's war forces, and it is expected that thousands of others will follow them, as there is little employment for them in England. This will greatly relieve the strained domestic situation here.

Many Attend Girls' Friendly Convention Held Here Saturday

Col. Brown Delivers Address On "Our Books, Our Friends."

Delegates from the different Girls' Friendly Societies of Huron Diocese gathered together in Cronyn Hall on Saturday afternoon to hear reports of the different departments of the work and inspiring addresses from Dominion officers. Mrs. E. B. Smith, diocesan president, was in the chair.

A very interesting feature of the meeting was an address by Col. Walter Brown on "Our Books, Our Friends."

"Our success or failure in life depends on what we do when we haven't anything to do," declared the speaker. "What do you think about in your idle moments? What do you read about?"

The speaker urged people to fill themselves with the thoughts of the greatest minds of all the ages, placing the Bible as the greatest piece of literature.

The bishop opened the convention with a short talk which was followed by a paper on social service by Miss Dupont. Miss Smith read a report on missions and Mrs. C. C. Waller was appointed head of missions. A most interesting outline of an ideal Girls' Friendly Society was given by Miss Matthews.

Two members of the central council for Canada were present, Miss Charles and Mrs. Walter Brown. Mrs. Brown, as head of the department of literature, spoke extensively on this subject, and Miss Charles gave an inspiring talk on club programs for the year. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

769 Quarts Fruit Canned by School Children for R. C.

Domestic Science Kitchens Put to Good Use This Fall.

The magnificent array of about 769 quarts of fruit is the contribution of the school girls of the city to supply the trays of soldier patients in the various military hospitals of this district. The raw fruit was donated by various individuals in the city on the request of the Red Cross Association early this fall. This in turn was handed over to the domestic science teachers of the schools along with sugar and jars supplied by the Red Cross and the children did the magic work which converted all the materials into the most delectable jam for the soldiers.

The high school domestic science pupils under the direction of Miss MacPherson turned out 111 quarts of fruit and pickles and 75 jars of jelly. The public school pupils under the supervision of Miss Isabel Craig and her assistant filled 538 quart jars with fruit for the hospitals and 62 quarts with citron for the Soldiers' Aid Commission to distribute among needy families. A large amount of fruit was also contributed to the Children's Shelter by the Riverview School.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards, in giving this information to The Advertiser, said that the Red Cross wished to emphasize the splendid work which the teachers and pupils of every department in the schools had done during the period of war.

The Red Cross will shortly take up its new and permanent quarters in the old Dr. Belton home on King street.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

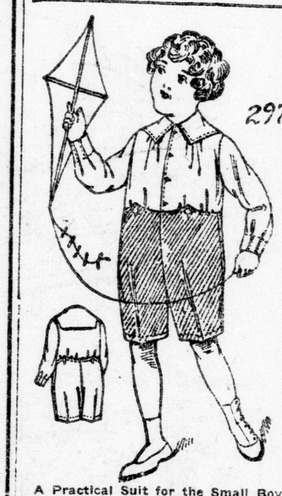

Mrs. H. E. Wheeler, Oxford street, was the hostess of a most enjoyable function on Saturday night when she entertained twenty of the convalescent soldiers of Wolesley Barracks and the Red Cross Hospital Visiting Committee.

Mrs. Byron Broadwell, formerly Myrtle Sheppard, received for the first time since her marriage in her beautiful home on Division road, near Kingsville. Receiving with her was Mrs. Benjamin Broadwell.

The drawing and dining-rooms were beautifully decorated with roses and chrysanthemums, a silver basket filled with roses decking the centre of the tea table.

Mrs. Charles Palmer, assisted by Mrs. H. A. Webster, presided over the tea table. Miss Clara Adamson, Miss Mildred Elliott and Miss Ethel Maiott assisted and the little Misses Lois Palmer and Carmine Vickers opened the door. A great many took advantage of the bright, sunny day to call on the happy bride in her new home.

FEELS WELL DRESSED BEFORE SOME PEOPLE, NOT BEFORE OTHERS

Why Is It? Asks Elspeth Wilson, Who Is Puzzled.

It is of interest to note how large or how small a place the matter of clothes fills in our lives and in the lives of those about us. Certain individuals have the knack of making us at once conscious of our appearance, indirectly affecting our spirits thereby.

I have sallied forth, my mind filled with other topics, yet subconsciously aware that, while I am not a fashion leader, I am at least fairly passable. Then I encounter a type of woman who, though no better gowned than I may be, instantly draws my thoughts to that eternal question. She may be all unconscious of it, but at once I see myself with this other woman's eyes, a back number, a derelict. In spite of my saner judgment my spirits are dampened, my cheerfulness evaporates while I denounce myself for being thus influenced.

Another Type.

Another type of woman immediately places me on the best of terms with myself. The matter of clothes and class distinction obliterated, this round world grows rosy and a sane place to live in. Though she may wear costly raiment she at once emits a feeling of equality where fine raiment has no part. One simply forgets it while with her.

Still another type gives me a "comfy" feeling of being dressed even better than I am. She has a "way" with her, inexplicable, and one seems to be attired in garments of finest texture. She makes the persons about her feel like knights and dames of note.

What is it?

What is this elusive something perhaps unconsciously emitted? Why is it that even a poorly-dressed woman may give us a helpless feeling of shabbiness, or a queenly-gowned lady raise us, figuratively speaking, to her own level in dress?

May the time soon come when personal adornment and the gewgaws for which so many strive will be of so little importance that one will be ashamed to be found guilty of scheming for a stylish appearance. For, after all, we are clothed only according as people see us.

ELSPETH WILSON.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Wants Christmas Dialogues.

Dear Cynthia Grey.—May I come into your corner for a few minutes' chat? I wrote some time ago for the stocking foot pattern, inclosing a stamp also, but have not received it yet. Has anyone ever tried salts of lemon for rust? Could you send some good Christmas dialogues? DEWDROP.

Ans.—Welcome to our corner, We're always ready for a chat, Dewdrop. Sorry you didn't get the S. F. pattern before. It will be forwarded immediately. What about Christmas dialogues, Boxites?

Still Another Pattern.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am inclosing a stamped envelope for your stocking foot pattern, which I have heard praised so much, and oblige,

Yours truly,
MRS. P. C. P.

Ant.—All requests for stocking foot patterns will be met in a day or so, when yours will be mailed to you, Mrs. P. C. P.

Juno Discussed Things.

Dear Miss Grey.—Last spring I wrote asking for a poem which I thought was entitled "Be a Canadian." The correct title is "A Talk With the Boy," and I am pleased to be able to send it now myself in the hope that you may find space to print it. I also asked for Gen. Currie's address to the Canadian army before the drive of 1918. This is the extract I referred to:

"I place my trust in the Canadian corps, knowing that where the Canadians are engaged there can be no giving way. Under the orders of your devoted officers in the coming battle you will advance, or fall where you stand, facing the enemy."

There have been many subjects discussed on your page that I would have liked to express my views on, but before I could get my ideas written out a new one cropped up. One was "Who is the more lonely, a man or a woman?" I should say it would depend greatly on the man—and the woman. But I think allowing each to have the same experience that though a woman would feel just as lonely as a man, she would bear her loneliness more bravely. If a man's wife dies he will sell out and move to a strange place or begin hunting another wife. A woman will miss the society of her husband just as much, but will keep right on living where she is, run the farm or business and not whine about it either. There are many other points to be mentioned, but I wish to discuss the latest subject. I haven't Sunflower's letter by me, but I remember she denounced consolidated schools, and another writer echoed her sentiments. I think neither understands what the term means. One objection was that the farmers could not spend time driving their children so far. It is not supposed that each farmer would, but that one conveyance would take all from one direction or locality. People can afford to have their milk or cream carried to the factories, why not the children to school in these days of motor cars? As for the expense—if three teachers can do the work of four or five there would be that much saved in salaries. As for the expense of building new schools, in many places new schools are needed and where they are not the present ones might be rebuilt in a central location. Or where a community house is needed the one building might do for both. I think where the advantages are more thoroughly understood there will be less objection to the idea. The world is moving on and we must move with it.

How many of you have seen Rural Canada for October? I'm afraid the editor didn't see what a break he was making when he wrote this on Professor Graham of the O. A. C. poultry department. "Graham's best record in egg production is 310 eggs in one year, or to be strictly accurate in 355 days; the hen died with ten days to go to complete the year."

I thought it was only the farmers' wife that died from overwork, but even the poor hen can't escape. If the U. F. O. are going to work us all to the vanishing point in the interests of more production, we will be sorry we voted for them. I suppose everybody is waiting anxiously to see what a fist they will make of fashioning laws. More power to their army, say I.

JUNO.

P. S.—Is "Rural Canada, or "The Farmers' Sun" the official U. F. O. newspaper?

Ans.—The Farmers' Sun, published in Toronto, is the official U. F. O. organ. Very glad to received your opinion on consolidated schools. Shall welcome views from any other of our farm women who have given thought to this subject.

That was surely a calamitous ending for the hen after her wonderful record; somewhat similar to killing the golden-egg goose of the old fables, eh?

Christmas Recitation Wanted.

Dear Miss Grey.—A few days ago a lady named Ericum offered a comic recitation "Miss Prim's Christmas Shopping." I would be very pleased to receive it. Miss Grey.

MISS E. D. LONDON.

Ans.—Watch the page for the recitation asked for. We hope to have space for it soon.

Finds Mail-Box a Helpmate.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have been a constant reader of your column and find it a pleasure and a helpmate. I have been thinking of writing to your column for some time, but never could get a chance, so I thought I would take one this time.

The stocking foot pattern is beginning to get busy again as it is near winter. Could you forward me a pattern? I saw in your column the other day that Ericum had a good Christmas recitation which I would be very pleased if she would copy as soon as possible for me. I will leave a stamped envelope with Miss Grey, hoping I can return the compliment again. I will close.

A DAIRYMAID.

P.S.—Tell me, Miss Grey, if my letter is too long.

Ans.—Glad you found your way to our circle, Dairymaid. Your letter is by no means too long, and we hope you will come again. The stocking-foot pattern will be sent to you, also Ericum's Christmas recitation, as soon as it reaches us.

Here's Mickey!

Dear Miss Grey.—I never wrote to your charming circle before. I have always been a silent reader, though I have come to your circle for aid. Could you supply me with the comic recitation entitled "Miss Prim's Christmas Shopping," and if you have the "Aspiring Dishwasher," I would like it too. I would like comic recitations for our Christmas entertainment. I will send in two recipes for candy which are good for Christmas Day or any other occasion. I hope that I may come again, and be of more use next time.

Yours truly, Mickey.

Ans.—Do you answer the description of "Mickey" we sing about. We need you very much, and are glad you joined us. We may publish the above recitations, as they are being asked for so seasonably—Many thanks for the recipes for Christmas candy.

Handkerchiefs

Bits of silken tissue, first used centuries ago by priests at the altar, later taken up by grand court ladies when maids and gentlewomen gave their favorite little handkerchiefs and the gentlemen wore them in their hats.

Twenty-five years ago the handkerchief was a lacey effect, used by the belle of the family to flutter au revoir from the garden gate to a home going beau of an evening. Nowadays handkerchiefs are practical as well as beautiful. This season our newly arrived stock was never more complete or attractive — a large assortment and the lowest prices in each line.

The handkerchief is a favorite Christmas gift, and because of its small size and light weight is most suitable for sending long distances. All our Christmas lines are now in stock. Have the pleasure of choosing from a complete assortment.

SARNIA TRAMPLES THROUGH MUD AND DUNDAS INTO O.R.F.O. FINALS

6-0 Score Was Final Result of Game Played in Sea of Mud and Squalls of Drowning Rain — Imperials Now Meet Capitals in Finals For Intermediate Championship.

Make Two Championships Possible.

HAMILTON, Nov. 30.—With the rain pelting in their faces and the field nothing but a mudhole, the Sarnia Collegiate Institute and Hamilton Collegiate rugby teams on Saturday battled in the first of the home-and-home games for the final intercholastic O. R. F. U. junior series, Hamilton winning by 8 to 7.

SARNIA, Nov. 29.—A handful of supporters of both teams watched the local fourteen battle its way to a 6 to 0 victory over Dundas and incidentally slush its way into the finals and toward the Intermediate O. R. F. U. title here this afternoon through squals of wind-driven rain which made it almost impossible at times to watch the progress of the play and absolutely impossible for the players of either team to play anything approaching an actual game of rugby. The win gave locals the round by 16 to 11.

It was the worst storm experienced locally for years, but despite the weather, the both squads journeyed out to the park and attempted to do what a townful of fans thought could not be done. When the opening whistle blew, a few scattered, drenched groups of fans shivered on the side lines waiting for the coming travesty on football and epic in mud. It was a pantomime from start to finish with the gusty squalls of blinding rain doing duty for the shouts of fans and usual medley of whistles and thud of bodies and booted pigskin. When the ball was booted which was often, it took speculative spirals all over the lot and towards the last of the session, players and spectators tired of the game of wondering where it would land. Buckling was almost impossible in the slough of mud which soon changed itself into one of despond for the visiting Valleyites. Both teams tried it out and gave it up after a few tries. After that it became a booting game with everyone taking boots and making them, and the game getting more muddy, fumbly and tiring every minute. Harding again was the star of the locals with Cameron, Minton and Sinclair who took Copeland's place ably assisting. Harding booted shorter and less often as the game wore on, but had the best of that department of the game throughout. All the points were scored on side line kicks after the ball had been worked down to a favorable position by preceding kicks down under which, the local line made mud encased and consequently heavy footed attempts to get. There was little to choose between the play of the two games, as team play went this afternoon. The heavier Sarnia line were able to work through at will in the heavy going, and when they tired, were able to hold the lighter and equally weary visiting attack.

W. Hoare refereed, and W. Tackaberry tried to judge what the play would have been had it been out in the open instead of under all that mud, and both succeeded in lasting out the game.

The line-ups were:

Sophs Lead in Varsity Indoor Baseball League

Class '24 Are Saturday Victims—Sophs Defeat Med Freshies in Basketball.

Class '23 Western U. meds defeated Class '24 in a game of indoor baseball staged at the University Gym., Oxford street, Saturday afternoon, the final score being 15 to 10. The affair was a scheduled game in the Western Indoor Baseball League, and by virtue of their win the Sophomore Meds are now at the top of the league, Class '21 having defaulted to them in a scheduled game last week.

The score is no indication of the play, the losers celebrating a swatting bee, but poor base-running eliminated their chances, causing them at one stage of the game to fall victims to a triple play. The batteries for the victors were Hunter and McLeod, while Graham and McClean acted for Class '24. "Stew" McPherson officiated as umpire satisfactorily to both teams.

Following the above game, Class '23 once more demonstrated its superiority by defeating the Freshmen Meds at basketball by a score of 17 to 11. Callaghan was the star player for the sophomores, while McPherson and Graham played a brilliant game for Class '24.

Two games are scheduled for tonight in the U. indoor baseball league, Seniors Arts clashing with Meds '23 at 7:30, and Class '22 meets the Freshmen Meds at 9 o'clock. These games will be played in the Western U. Gymnasium, Oxford street.

As You Were

Sarnia's great victory over Dundas on Saturday and the holding of the Hamilton Collegiate to a one-point lead by the Sarnia Collegiate team leaves the Imperial City in the position of place for two championships this year.

The chances of the Intermediates against Capitals, whom they will play this week in home-and-home series, or a possible sudden-death game, look mighty good from the performances of both teams. Capitals had a fairly easy time in their Toronto district, but according to officials of the O. R. F. U., who have seen both teams in action, it is unofficially tipped off that the clash between the two teams now in the final will be one of the greatest that has ever been staged for an Intermediate title.

With only a one-point lead to beat, the Sarnia Collegians should be able to make certain of their title next Saturday. With younger teams, the question of whether they are playing at home or away is a big factor, and the Imperial fourteen at home should have little difficulty in getting the series by a big margin. Besides Coach Jack Newton has drilled them thoroughly and with decent weather conditions they should on the form they have displayed all season, give anny team anywhere an argument.

Now that President Ban Johnson has definitely taken a stand and called a meeting of the Aberican League for December 10, in Chicago, just where Ban stands and his position in the league will have to be definitely shown. The rebels, Frazee, Comisky and Ruppert have called a meeting of their own for the same date in New York. The upshot, of course, will be that the last three will have their meeting, Ban will have his, and then they'll go to court to decide which was the legal meeting and who is who.

Johnson says that the date is specified in the constitution, but it does not name the place, and he thinks as president of the league, he has the right to name the place where the meeting will be held. He further makes no comment on the action of the three directors in calling a meeting in New York. Probably when the records are looked into, he'll discover that he isn't president.

Five victims are all that are claimed for rugby this season in America. These were all high school boys playing under conditions that did not make it imperative that they receive a medical examination before they entered a game.

Mike Smith, the gunner chap from Woodstock who made his professional debut in the ring in Toronto last night against Gallagher, went along fine for two rounds and then blew. About the same time his eye was closed. However, he received a very decent welcome from the press on his first appearance, and it is probable that he will get a chance on the card that is being arranged here for December 12 by the Toronto G. A. C.

Bob Martin, the interallied army champion, certainly impressed Detroit boxing fans with his ability, and it is claimed that he is the most likely-looking heavy developed in the last ten years. His next bout with Burke, who holds the championship of the forces that stayed at home for the army championship, will put him a step further on his way. Jimmy Bronson, manager of the new heavy, says that he isn't looking for champs nor for sports from Brantford, there isn't a possibility of the circuit operating as last year. There are three alternatives being considered. A six-club circuit with Montreal and Ottawa; an eight-club affair with Wilkesbarre and three other hard coal cities, and an eight-club league with Montreal and Ottawa and two towns in New York State across the St. Lawrence, to break the long jump east. The smaller towns are of the opinion that the only way to include Ottawa and Montreal in a new circuit would be to obtain a double guarantee in both cities.

St. Peters Lose and Girls Win in Games at Railway City

C. A. C. Juveniles Meet St. Thomas C. I. Seniors by Mistake, Is Claim.

St. Peter's C.A.C. juveniles journeyed to St. Thomas Saturday night to take on the St. Thomas C.I. five, and came out from under an avalanche of 31 points with a round dozen counters to show they had been in the game. The locals claim that they expected to play a juvenile team, and instead had to go up against a team closely resembling seniors. The Shamrocks of the Girls' City League, however, made up the boys' defeat by taking their hosts of the St. Thomas C.I. into camp to the tune of 14 to 9. The half-time score was 9 to 6 in favor of the local girls.

The line-ups were:

St. Peters—O'Hara, l.f.; Cook, r.f.; Henry, c.; Mohan, l.g.; McGinnis, t.g.; subs, Coughlin, McIntyre.

St. Thomas—Leitch, l.f.; Lane, r.f.; Murray, c.; Johns, l.g.; McCrimmon, t.g.; subs, Stowson, Lay.

Shamrocks—K. McAvory, A. Blackwell, P. Blackwell, H. Fritz, E. Hoiand, H. Morris.

St. Thomas C. I.—M. Brame, L. Black, K. Browlee, L. Stanley, H. McGeary, D. Hammond, B. Logan.

On Thursday night at St. Peter's gym, three St. Thomas teams will be entertained by local fives. The Shamrocks will stage a return game with the St. Thomas Collegiate girls. C. A. C. Juveniles and Intermediates will take on two St. Thomas Y. M. C. A. teams. A big gallery is expected to watch the evening's program.

FIFTEEN TEAMS AWAY TO START IN THE SIX-DAY BICYCLE GRIND

$500 To Be Awarded Each Day To Sprint Winners On Point System.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The annual six-day bicycle race, which began tonight at the Madison Square Gardens, is being contested over a track which measures nine laps to the mile. For the last 26 years this event, which marks the opening of the winter indoor sports season, was decided on a ten-lap track. This year, however, the management decided to enlarge the wooden bowl so that the riders might have an opportunity of obtaining greater speed, and also to avoid spills on the turns by making the back and home stretches longer.

The point system for sprints, which proved so exciting during the last three or four years, will govern the contest this year also.

In addition to the cash prizes for the winning and placed teams at the finish of the event, $500 will be awarded each day to the sprint winners. Fifteen teams, picked from the best riders in the world, ten of whom are champions in their respective classes, make up the thoroughly international field of starters.

LABOR PARTY URGES NATIONALIZATION OF PRODUCTION SYSTEM

Declares This Is Only Means of Ending Profiteering in Britain.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The annual conference of London Labor party has adopted a resolution declaring that the only effective way to end profiteering was to end the capitalistic system of production for profit and advocating the nationalization of all means of production and the encouragement of municipal trading.

It has also adopted a resolution demanding the withdrawal of all intervention in Russia.

Delegates were present from the trades and labor councils and many of the trades unions throughout London.

DRAFT OF AGREEMENT BETWEEN GOVT. AND G. T. R. COMPLETED

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—The draft of the agreement between the Government and the Grand Trunk Railway Company has been completed, and though it is subject to revision before being accepted by either or both sides, it was ready for Sir Arthur Smithers to take with him when he sailed for England from Montreal on Saturday.

This draft agreement, it is expected, Sir Arthur will submit to a meeting of his directors on reaching London, and in the meantime the revision will be proceeding in Canada. Any changes to be made, it is announced, will be made by cable before the final acceptance takes place.

1,500 Trainmen in Kansas City Have Gone on Strike

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—All prospects of an immediatesettlement of the strike of the members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who went out on strike yesterday, is entirely out of the question, it is learned from authoratative sources, following a secret meeting today of 1,000 members of the organization. While it was said that there were speeches for and against the walkout, a majority of the men insisted that it be continued.

Dissatisfaction over the present wage scale and the failure of the grand officers to get action on their demands were said to be the reasons for the walkout. When asked whether Governor Allen's action of putting volunteers in the Kansas coal fields had in any way influenced the trainmen, one of the local leaders declared that the coal situation had acted as an undercurrent in the local strike. He expressed the opinion that not a pound of coal mined by the volunteers would be moved.

The striking trainmen, it was stated, expected the firemen to co-operate with them should the railroad attempt to use strike breakers for the switching work.

Approximately 1,500 of the trainmen walked out late Saturday.

A. S. Rodney is moving his training quarters from Goshen, N. Y., to Readville, Mass.

NIGHT COUGHS PREVENT SLEEP

WEAR OUT THE SYSTEM.

The dry, hacking cough, cough, day and night is very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition they get no chance to heal.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy without an equal for curing coughs and colds, soothing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, strengthening and healing the breathing organs and fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mrs. Fred Fairburn, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes: "I caught a heavy cold, got a sore throat and had a terrible hacking cough that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night. I had tried quite a few remedies, but they did not seem to do me much good until I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles my cough was all gone.

"It seemed to loosen the cough right away so that I could spit up the phlegm that gathered in my throat, and also took that hot, raw, burning fever out of my bronchial tubes. I feel that Dr. Wood's has no equal."

LONDON RAILWAYMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ST. THOMAS YARDS

James McLeary Is Severely Crushed When Roof Catches Cab.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 30.—James McLeary, a London man, was severely injured late last night while proceeding from Ingersoll to St. Thomas as fireman on a C. P. R. train. He was leaning out of the cab window and failed to notice the projecting roof of a box car which had been blown off by the storm. The wreckage struck the cab and tore one-half of it away, crushing McLeary's head and shoulders badly. He was brought to St. Thomas and rushed to the local hospital, where he now lies in a critical condition. The extent of his injuries could not be definitely learned tonight, owing to his condition.

MISS BROWNE HAD TO GIVE UP POSITION

Was in a Badly Run-Down Condition For Six Months—Tanlac Restores Her.

"Tanlac has helped me so much that it is a great pleasure to recommend it," said Miss Doris C. Browne of 87 Glen Lake avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"I suffered from a nervous breakdown," she continued, "and for six months I was in a dreadful condition. My appetite failed, strength and energy left me and I was so nervous I could hardly keep still. I would have dizzy spells when I would almost faint. My condition was such that I had to give up my position and for several months I couldn't do any work at all. I could hardly sleep, lost several pounds in weight, and became very despondent, for nothing helped me, and I was getting worse all the time.

"Hearing so much about Tanlac, I decided to try it, and before I had finished my second bottle I was feeling so much better that I kept right on taking it and have recovered entirely from the nervous breakdown. My appetite is fine, I sleep like a child, and am in better health than I have been in years. I have regained all my lost weight, and really feel as well as if I had never been sick at all."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

PRINTERS CELEBRATE FIFTIETH BIRTHDAY OF LONDON UNION

Local Union One of the Best On the Continent.

OFFICERS TELL OF WORK

Old-Timers From Far and Near Guests of Local "Typos" At Banquet.

Celebrating the 50th anniversary of the London Typographical Union, No. 133, the present members, and many former members now living in other cities gathered at a banquet held in the Tecumseh House Saturday night. Many prominent members and officers of the International Union were present. A splendid program of toasts and musical numbers was given.

James Drury, of Montreal, international delegate of the union, said that the conduct of the branch in London has always been exemplary and in the history of the I. T. U. nothing to the discredit No. 133 has ever been chronicled. He read a report of the work accomplished by the union as a whole during the war, and told of the future program which has been adopted.

Splendid War Record.

"In the world's great war no group of workers has given more loyal and effective co-operation than have the members of the International Typographical Union. On the firing line and in the workshops we have supported the governments under which we live, with unfaltering determination. Many sacrifices have been necessary and these have been made courageously and without flinching. Many members have died both in the Canadian and American armies, and large sums have been paid out in mortuary benefits for these men.

"These institutions which we have established have been preserved intact through this critical period; every responsibility has been met, and the organization is stronger numerically and financially than at any time in its history. It has in its treasury a total of $1,276,967.81.

"The I. T. U. has disbursed $3,888,474.18 in its three beneficial features, during the five years of the war, as follows: Old age pensions, $1,693,125; mortuary benefits, $1,521,672.18; Union Printers' Home, $673,676.32. Every dollar of this amount was paid into the treasury of the I. T. U. by members of the organization, and not one dollar of it was contributed by voluntary subscriptions solicited from any person.

Increased Pensions.

"In the recent referendum vote, the recommendation of the executive council that old age pensions be increased from $5 to $6 was carried by a majority of over 40,000. This increase will make the yearly pension $312 a year, which is as high as the receipts from the pension assessment will permit.

"Efforts will be made by the union to secure a 44-hour week so that the Saturday half-holiday may be observed without necessitating the working of overtime on other days to make up for time lost in that half-day. In many cities the eight-hour day, which was fought for and secured in 1906, has become almost a joke, for it is in reality an eight and three-quarter day, for this reason. It was proposed to have the 44-hour week start in May, 1921, and it will prevail internationally in the printing industry.

"While our wage scale increases show that substantial gains have been made in many jurisdictions, the fact remains that the members of union have not received increases sufficient to enable them to maintain standards of living which they enjoyed in the years previous to the war, because of the depreciation in the value of the dollar.

"In many instances employers have granted voluntary increases above the rates fixed by local agreements. Some of these increases have been substantial, and others have been entirely inadequate. On the other hand, a few employers have insisted on the last pound of flesh. There has been no uniformity in these scale readjustments. Of course, there has been some friction. It could not be otherwise. Fair wage adjustments are the only cure for industrial unrest.

Local Boards Successful.

"Local boards of conciliation have been successful in a large number of cities. The suggestion has been made that a national board of conciliation in each industry offers the most practicable means through which the printing industrial reconstruction can be accomplished. In the commercial branch of the printing industry such a board or council has been organized in the United States. It would work to the advantage of the employer and employee if a similar body was created in Canada.

"Realizing that the printing industry demands intelligent men in the composing rooms, the I. T. U. has worked out a program that will produce journeymen of high mental calibre. A system of trade training for apprentices has been perfected that solves the problem of incompetency, and insures the boy taking up the compositor's trade of graduating into a thorough printer.

"Employers have been content to disregard education in preparing boys for the trade and did not seem to realize the injury such indifference inflicted on the future conduct of their composing room. It finally resulted in the decadence of the physical material of the trade and brought about a deplorable condition. Employees were simply able to set type and turned out work without any regard for artistic appearance.

Apprentices Thoroughly Trained.

"The I. T. U. recommends that local unions provide in their wage scale a system whereby the apprentices will be given an opportunity to master all the processes of printing and that a reasonable wage be paid them upon their introduction to the trade. This will have the effect of attracting boys into the industry who will be mentally capable of mastering every phase of their chosen vocation. This will wipe out incompetency in our ranks and will make a card in the I. T. U. a guarantee of the holder's ability to perform efficient work.

"The local unions should adopt laws making it mandatory for the boy to complete and graduate from the technical course of instruction owned and operated by the I. T. U. It is essential that the boy learning the trade assume some responsibility in the premises where he is surrounded with every protection of the employer and the union."

Mr. Drury told of the efforts of the One Big Union to secure the co-operation of the Printers' Union in the western provinces. It is to the everlasting credit of the unions in Seattle and Winnipeg that they turned down the idea of a sympathetic strike. The O. B. U. movement is but an attempt to revive a movement of similar character launched and abandoned thirty years ago. The international craft organizations have established the right of independent self-determination, and that right will not be surrendered to any autocratic authority in the labor movement.

Michael Powell of Ottawa, a former member of the union in this city, and now a trustee of the Union Printers' Home, also responded to the toast. As he stood to speak the words of "Pretty Micky" sung by many present, greeted him. He said that he was glad the banquet was held on Saturday [illegible] of Friday, so that he could eat the turkey.

Working-Rooms Sanitary. .. ..

He spoke of the work accomplished by the union in making the working-rooms sanitary. Thirty-three years ago the average life of a printer was 37 years, now it is 54 years, that means the seventeen years has been added to a printer's life. One often hears of people speaking of the good old days, but when it is considered that then men in the trade worked fourteen hours a day, compared with the eight hours of the present days, things don't seem so rosy. He also said that now when a man gets sick he can either go to the home till he has recovered or else stay at his own home and receive $6 a week.

T. H. Purdom spoke on behalf of the publishers of the city. He said that, although he had enjoyed the banquet in its entirety, he had been particularly pleased with Mr. Drury's speech, and the stand he had taken in it regarding the education of the boys. He said the boys should be trained properly, for in spite of the fact that members of the printers' trade were intelligent men, very few among them were of the calibre of foreman, and this was entirely due to incorrect training.

He paid tribute to E. Hayden of the Advertiser Job Printing, who, he claimed has made that establishment one of the best in Canada. The sanitation conditions were unexcelled in any place in Canada. The Advertiser, too, under its different leaders, had grown from an ordinary paper to the present first-class news sheet. London has two better papers than her population warrants, but it must not be forgotten that Western Ontario, the best country of the world, surrounds us and also is reached.

Favors Broader Education.

He advocated a broader education, and said that in time he believed that the university education will be nearly as common as the public school. The workingmen are fathers to the big men of the country. The farmers have given us some of our leading lawyers, doctors and public men, and for this reason and because he believed in the equality of man he thought that more attention should be paid to education.

He had been reading McKenzie King's "Capital and Labor," and recommended the book be read by all present. The book must be read several times in order that the great underlying principles might be grasped. When the world has grasped those facts law and justice will prevail.

He lauded the platform drawn up in Mr. Drury's report. Its principles are those that are the foundation of the republic of the United States. The spirit of the brotherhood of man permeates it. "Common sense must rule," he said. "The nonsensical and there are many such, must not rule. We must seek for the underlying facts and reasons and when we find them if we do our duty our future will be all that we desire."

E. J. Carty, who holds a membership card that dates back many years, and which he claims is one of his most treasured possessions, spoke next. He told of difficulty of getting raises of salary in the days before the union.

Farmer and Labor.

He said that the speeches of Mr. Drury and Mr. Purdom impressed him greatly. He thought that the idea of educating the apprentice was a good thing, but still only a side issue. The time is coming when the laboring man will not sit back and be patronized by the other professions.

The recent elections demonstrated two things, that the Tory party is dead and the Liberals are slipping. The two parties of the future will be the farmer, with his conservative spirit and the labor party with its more radical views. The printers are the salt of all trade unionism because of their broader education, gained through much reading.

He pleaded for university education for the children of laborers. They must be trained to become leaders. The majority of the present leading men of the world have university training. It is a great help. Every fingerpost raised in London shows that labor is to become the backbone of the country, and at the present time in England it is organized labor that has stabilized the country in spite of the attempts of the extreme radicals to throw it into confusion.

Must Combat Reds.

The toast to the guests was responded to by J. Pendergast of Detroit, the former president of the local union. He was sent to represent many former members of Union 133, but now working in that city. He said that great care should be exercised in the selection of officers and in the expressions of views in order that the Red element might be combated. He spoke against incorporation of unions because, if at times unruly members destroyed property the unions would be held responsible for their acts.

J. Gallager also responded, and enlarged on the views of Mr. Pendergast. Others who responded were J. Reid, Windsor; E. Carter, Brantford; H. Bentley, E. Hayden and Robert Burns.

To the toast "London Typographical Union," A. Wheatley, president of the local union, responded. He paid tribute to the pioneer and to the organizers. He said that the local union is the banner union of the province, barring number of members, and all the credit must go to those who blazed the trail. This union is entereing into a new era.

A. Flowers, the vice-president, said that London has the best apprenice laws, the most sanitary composing-rooms in the province and already had the 44-hour week, for which other unions were just beginning a fight. W. Hunter, who has been a member for 33 years; John McLean, B. L. Parkinson, A. W. White, Frank McKay, treasurer and J. Norris, all spoke, telling of the better conditions now existing in London printing shops.

Letters received from ex-members living in all parts of North America were read. Invitations had been sent to nearly all of them, and many sent their regrets. Several told of their experiences in the early days of the union, and many amusing incidents were told. The outstanding letters were from George Buskard, secretary to Sir Robert Borden, telling of the amusing incidents in his life as printer in London, and one from Richard Butler, an 85-year-old veteran, now living in Hamilton. He told of the early struggles of newspaper in London. In those days one worked for $1 a week when learning the trade, and first-class printers received the huge wages of $6 and $7 a week. Mr. Butler was absent through sickness.

A monologue by D. Walsh, in which funny stories were told about many present, stirred up a great deal of laughter. E. Wilmer sang "Young Tom of Devon," and was encored. Music was supplied by the Waverly orchestra. A. Wheatley and A. Flowers acted as chairmen and toastmasters.

It was thought that the vice-president of the International Typographical Union and Secretary J. W. Hays would be present, but at a late hour letters were received stating that owing to their activities in the settling of the New York strike it would be impossible to come. However, J. W. Hays promised to visit London in the near future.

The Storm

As a result of Saturday night's storm, many miles of telephone wire are down, and service, especially long distance to all points, is interrupted.

Every effort is being made to effect repairs and re-establish connection quickly.

We ask the indulgence of our patrons, assuring them that no time is being lost in getting the lines working again.

How Bacteria Are Employed To Save You From Their Kind

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

"Doctor," asked a patient of mine recently, "do you advise the serum to prevent influenza-pneumonia?"

"You are like many others," I said. "You say serum, but you mean vaccine."

"What is the difference?" quoth he. "One poor layman cannot be expected to know."

"Well a serum is what its name implies—blood with the clot removed. Mixtures used to prevent diseases such as typhoid, flu-pneumonia, whooping cough, small-pox, rabies and others are all vaccines compounded of microbes that are made poisonless?"

"What do you mean? How can the deadly typhoid microbe be made poisonless?"

"Well," I replied, "I'll pass over your erroneous English. By a microbe is usually meant an animalcule. The little demons of most infectious diseases are bacteria. These are vegetable creatures, not animal."

To make bacilli or bacteria poisonless advantage is taken of the discoveries of a great Frenchman, Louis Pasteur and a great Englishman, Almoth E. Wright.

Bacteria and microbes cause much of the severe sickness in the world. They make you sick by their rapidity of breeding and by the poisons called "toxins," which these hordes of microscopically small plants discharge.

Many of them manufacture an internal poison, called "endotoxin."

The latter one is loosed on the victim in whose blood and tissues the bacilli are at work. They are more easily attacked and destroyed by the human fabric than is the entotoxin.

Antibodies of Combat.

This poison is really incorporated in the meshes of the microbes and bacteria themselves. It is part and parcel of every manjack of them. To be rid of the endotoxins the bacteria themselves must be annihilated.

However, the very presence of both these toxins in man is enough to make his living texture generate and manufacture material to combat them. These are called antibodies, which are antibodies to them. Just as we overproduced poison gas and ammunition once we got started to fight, so the living animal produces more antibodies than it needs.

The exotoxin, which is solvent, thin and discharged externally by the bacteria, produces an antibody like itself, dissolved in the serum of the subject that was sick or inoculated with the germs.

This antibody can be obtained then by bleeding the subject, sterilized, bottled and used in other persons' blood in an emergency to give them temporary immunity.

Ways to Immunity.

This is a serum or antitoxin of which there are only a few, such as diphtheria and lockjaw. The bacilli of those diseases produce both kinds of toxins, endo and exo.

Unhappily, it is not possible to separate the exotoxins from the endotoxins of the influenza, smallpox, pneumonia, whooping cough, hydrophobia, typhoid and other germs. There is no antitoxin or serum of these—only vaccines.

The way the endotoxins of these are used is to utilize the whole bacterium of microbe. These are killed and injected into the flesh of those of us who are alert and practical enough to protect ourselves against these plagues.

Dead bacteria have almost as much of the toxins in them as the live ones, but they cannot keep on replacing what is lost. hey can be injected, therefore, in small numbers so they cannot produce disease, yet still be capable of stirring your flesh and blood to make enough antibodies to keep you immune three to five years.

To be free and safe from these ailments you must be reinoculated as they do in hospitals, the army and the navy, namely every couple of years.

If you inoculate yourself with a toxineless mixture of five billion influenza bacilli, hemolytic cocci and pneumonia cocci, you may escape epidemic influenza and pneumonia and yet "catch cold." If you do, a bacteriologist will examine the "cold" and make a vaccine of the particular bacillus at fault. You can then give yourself an injection of these killed and thus escape a return of this annoyance.

2. Here is a formula that will keep your hair in curl for several days, provided you roll it up afterward on kid curlers or on paper until the hair has dried in the shape you want it to go:

Gum arabic	½ ounce
Quince seed extract	2 ounces
Carbonate of potash	½ ounce
Glycerine	½ ounce
Rosewater	1 pint

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND
ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Arthur Walters Brought to Madge.

Despite the assiduous interest in my convalescence which Major Grantland displayed, an interest which never permitted my sick room to lack fresh roses, he was not the first grown-up tured rib had healed sufficiently to permit of my walking around downstairs and into the garden. It was a far different sort of man whose card Katie brought to me the first day I was downstairs. She tendered it at the end of her fingers as if it were something that would bite.

An Insistent Caller.

"I joost tired sweeping dot bunch of soup greens off front porch," she said pertly. "He coom every day for two, tree days, say he want see you. I tell him nothings doing until next week, but he coom joost same. Missis Underwood she say bring everybody to her, but he never have time to stay. She ask me vot he look like, and ven I tell her she say he probably some young book agent, and tell me to say you never home, he get tired cooming. He never give me dot card before, but he saw you in yard joost now, and say bring dot card to you qveeck. Vot I say? Tell heem get qveeck to hell out of here?"

"Katie! Katie!" I reproved, repressing a smile with difficulty, for my little maid's adventures in American slang and mild profanity are irresistibly funny sometimes. "You must not say such things."

"I know. I always forget," Katie returned with superb nonchalance. "But you pleese let me tell dot empty can on front steps joost dis vunce vot I said?"

Her eyes were laughing, her lips pursed and pleading, and I knew that she was anxious to save me the possible ennui of seeing a persistent stranger. But the name on the engraved card which she had handed me was not strange to me, although I had never seen the man who owned the cognomen.

ARTHUR WALTERS,
Walters, Hines & Gibson,
Attorneys-at-Law, Bayview, L.I.

One of the most lovable girls in my class in the Bayview high school bore the name of Esther Walters, and I knew from her girlish comments that this must be the idolized brother, "Art," of whom she had so often spoken. That the young man was a stanch friend of Kenneth Stockbridge I also knew, and my decision to see him was taken in a moment.

"Take Mr. Walters into the living-room, Katie," I said with quiet soberness, the manner which always best subdues my volatile little maid, "and say that I will be there directly."

She looked at me shrewdly.

The Sealed Letter.

"All right, I feex," she acquiesced, and in another moment I heard her assuring my caller that "Meessis Graham, she coom in double qveeck."

My first impression of Mr. Walters as he sprang to his feet at my entrance was of extreme boyishness, but a second look told me that he was much older than he seemed, that in fact the early thirties were not far away from him if he had not already entered them. But young or old, he was a most prepossessing chap, and I felt the tremors which had seized me at the sight of the word "attorney"—one to be dreaded in the present state of uncertainty surrounding the mystery of Milly Stockbridge's death—vanish at my first look into the steady hazel eyes of the young solicitor.

"Mr. Walters, I believe," I said, cordially. "I am Mrs. Graham. I have heard of you often from your sister, Esther."

He laughed boyishly.

"Not more often than I have heard of you from the same source," he countered promptly. "I only hope her accounts of me are as enthusiastic as those she gives of you."

"They are the last word in enthusiasm," I smiled, and then as we sat down in chairs facing each other I saw that the young attorney's face grew grave.

"I must only detain you a moment Mrs. Graham, for I find that because of my friendship for Kenneth Stockbridge I am constantly shadowed. But I have a letter for you from him which he could trust to no one else, and which he insisted that I must deliver only into your own hands. I know nothing of its contents, but I do know that if you are ever asked if I brought you any message from Kenneth Stockbridge you must deny it positively. Say that my business with you was a purely personal one, invent any excuse you please, but give no one an inkling that my friends has ever sent you a message of any sort. You will promise this?"

"Of course," I said simply, but I felt again the shadow of intolerable mystery and crime enwrapping me as I spoke.

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlysle H. Holcomb

MISS MOUSEY DISPLEASES THE KING.

Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, was delighted to find that the forest dwellers were of one accord concerning the reception for Mr. Ground Hog. Each one seemed anxious to have a part.

Lady Duck was more than glad to do her part, for she promised an egg for every visitor. Mr. Muskrat said he would gather an ample supply of sassafras, alder and wild cherry bark. And Mr. Turtle made final arrangements with the chipmunk and Mr. Squirrel for plenty of nuts of various kinds and flavors.

"But I must make sure Mr. Frog will not disappoint us," said Tinker, as he thought about the music for the evening. "I will go at once to see Mr. Frog."

Tinker Bob found Mr. Frog as usual singing his doleful song. Says he: "Mr. Frog, tell me truly; will you play for the reception or no?"

"Well," said Mr. Frog, "I have just received another important request from the home of Miss Tree Mouse. You see, one of my distant cousins, Mr. Tree Toad, is going to marry Miss Mousey, and I must be at the wedding.

"But why have this wedding on the night of the great reception?" asked Tinker Bob.

"I do not know," said Mr. Frog.

"But don't you know I must give consent before anyone can marry in the great forest?"

"Yes, I know," said Mr. Frog. "Miss Mousey's father expects that you will marry them."

"This is a very strange thing," said Tinker Bob. "I will have to go at once to Miss Mousey's house and see what can be done."

Tinker Bob started straightway to Miss Mousey's house, but there were still things stranger that happened before he arrived. Here is some of the conversation that was taking place before he reached there:

"The King of the great forest is angry because he plans a reception for Mr. Ground Hog on the night of your wedding," Mr. Frog was telling her.

"But I expect the King to marry us!" she cried.

"But your father did not tell him so, and now he will punish you both, and maybe he will not let Mr. Tree Toad marry you at all. You know such things have happened before, and it might happen again because big things always come from small beginnings, and this is not very big now, but what the King is apt to do no one can tell." At this moment Miss Mousey fell in a faint. It was too much for her frail body to stand to think of what the King might do.

Also at this moment the King came into view and who do you think he saw? No other than Jerry the Jay bird, who had been gossiping about what he heard Mr. Frog and Tinker Bob say. A few misplaced words have made many people faint.

LOSSES MOUNT AS GALE CUTS SWATH IN LONDON DISTRICT

Storm Almost Isolates City—Telephone Poles and Trees Fall, Cutting Off Communication—Western Ontario Towns and Cities Suffer Heavy Losses—Roofs Torn From Factories—Windsor Apparently Storm Centre—Ferry Runs Aground.

London and Western Ontario suffered heavily from a hurrican which swept over this district, starting about 6 o'clock Saturday night. In its wake were left wrecked buildings and towers, broken telephone and telegraph lines, and damage to property amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Not since Good Friday, 1913, has such great havoc been recorded as was wrought by the Storm King in this district.

Communication with many Western Ontario points by telegraph and telephone was cut off. Those cities and towns throughout the district which could be reached reported heavy damage from the storm.

Roofs were torn from buildings, plate glass windows blown in, trees, billboards, store signs and telephone, telegraph and electric power poles knocked down.

Telephones Crippled.

The Bell Telephone Company officials stated last night that they could communicate no further than Ingersoll in the east, and that while emergency lines occasionally gave connection with Sarnia, Stratford and St. Thomas, other places to the west were out of reach.

Most of the breaks in lines were caused by trees falling across cables or by poles snapping off. The Canadian Pacific Telegraph and Great Western Telegraph companies also suffered. Neither could effect any connection with Sarnia last night, and trouble was encountered on other lines.

Live wires hanging dangerously low or on the ground proved a menace to pedestrians and motorists. Between London and Glencoe one motorist reported seeing a single stretch of eighteen poles down.

Windsor and Detroit appeared to suffer worse than other portions of the section. It is thought that the storm centered there.

London's Heavy Losses.

Thousands of dollars worth of property was damaged and hundreds of lives were endangered by the gale in the city. A strong breeze was still in evidence Sunday, while the streets were strewn with broken tree branches, shingles and roof tiles, fence boards and similar debris.

All means of communication were paralyzed, the hydro lighting system was demoralized and street car service was tied up for several hours. The storm is the worst which the hydro has experienced since being established, General Manager E. V. Buchanan stated.

Gangs of electricians worked all Saturday night and all day Sunday, and today some semblance of order is being restored on communication and lighting systems.

Damage at Springbank.

The greatest damage reported was at Springbank, where the Victor Amusement Company's dance hall was leveled to the ground. The roller coaster is still standing, although it is reported to have suffered. The roof was blown off a driveshed on the farm of Purdom F. Love at the top of Springbank Hill, and a similar mishap occurred to the barn of James Mair on a nearby farm. This barn was reshingled only last summer. Nearly every other barn for miles around was damaged. The residence of Harry Mc. Cann near the reservoir was damaged.

In Springbank Park itself trees and shrubs in the deer inclosure were leveled to the ground. The summer camp for girls on the river opposite the pumphouse was also blown down.

The city of London was one of the chief sufferers. The arch of welcome for the soldiers opposite the city hall was blown off its base and was then removed, so as not to endanger traffic. A window of the hydro shop was blown in, and several windows in the city hall were broken. Signboards around the federal square were blown down.

The flagpole of the postoffice was broken. It fell to the street and narrowly missed several pedestrians.

Chimneys Blown Over.

Chimneys in all parts of the city were blown over and several houses in course of construction are reported to have been demolished or partly destroyed. Board fences and sheds were also destroyed.

The downtown district was plunged in darkness at 6 o'clock, and car service ceased soon after. The downtown streets presented weird sights with automobile lights glaring through the driving rain and furnishing practically the only illumination. A few candles and gas lamps appeared in shop windows and the streets were almost devoid of people.

More than one person imagined that the end of the world had come and were confident that the prediction made some time ago that the millennium would come in December had come true.

Street car wires were down on Adelaide and Horton streets. At Anderson avenue on the Hamilton road a high tension hydro wire fell across the street railway line and paralyzed traffic. Trees in several parts of the city also fell across the tracks.

Over 200 Telephones Off.

About two hundred telephone services were reported out of order Sunday by General Manager C. H. Beard, while more are expected today. Outside communication was completely cut off for a time but Sunday the company was successful in establishing connections with several nearby points.

Telegraph wires were also affected, but communication had been restored somewhat on Sunday night.

The storm had its humorous features. Hundreds of citizens lost their headgear and carried on a fruitless search for it in the darkened streets. Many of them went home bareheaded.

No local statistics on the storm were available at the local bureau, except that there was a rainfall of 1.74 inches.

Reports from outside points said the disturbance started in Arkansas, moved forward in a northeasterly direction and centralized over the western section of Lake Michigan.

Gaining Momentum.

Continuing from that point, steadily gaining momentum it struck this section at 6 o'clock Saturday night. The wind reached a velocity of 84 miles an hour, the weather bureau at Detroit reported.

Damage to the hydro system in this city is estimated at $4,000. Since the beginning of the storm the linemen have been working day and night, in relays, replacing poles and wires. One pole, at the corner of Beaconsfield avenue and Wharncliffe road was burned. No. 3 fire hall responded to the alarm. Station equipment was damaged because of short circuits on the lines.

Along the railroads poles and wires were broken. No train delays were experienced, however. G. T. R. telegraphers here received word that the roofs of sheds on the Northern Navigation Company's docks at Sarnia, and the roof of a large flour shed at Point Edward belonging to the Grand Trunk and used by the Northern Navigation Company were carried away.

Roof Carried Away.

At the D. H. Gillies' lumber yard on Rectory street a large chimney was blown down.

A. R. Murdock 160 Mount Pleasant avenue, had his front porch carried away by the wind.

Near Lambeth many large billboards in the fields were lifted and thrown about over an area of 50 acres. Gangs of men were required to saw up the trees which fell across the road near Glendale.

At Richmond and St. James streets here, one motorist narrowly escaped electrocution when he encountered a hanging live wire.

A large portion of the fence along Queen's Park on Dundas street was levelled. Manor Park suffered heavily, chicken coops being levelled there.

GALT STREETS STREWN WITH DEBRIS

GALT, Nov. 30.—Thousands of dollars worth of damaage has been done in Galt and district by the most severe gale that has been known in years. Streets are today strewn with wreckage. Two-thirds of the roof of the building of Thos. Kinnear & Co., wholesale grocers, Water street north, was carried across the street and a section of the brick wall on the east side blown down.

The old gas works and the Goldie & McCulloch Company's pattern storage shop were partly unroofed. Trees are down all over the city, while one on Elms street fell on a house. Except where it fell it did little damage to the building. Shingles were ripped off buildings, chimneys blown down, garages and fences were wrecked and windows blown in. All over the city telephone, telegraph and hydro wires are down and on account of breaks in the street lighting wires the city was practically in total darkness last night.

Mrs. Renwick, of 89 Spruce street, while down town shopping Saturday night, was struck by an electric sign in front of a Chinese laundry on Ainslie street, when it broke from its fastenings and fell to the sidewalk. She was rescued unconscious, but was not seriously injured. The firemen were called once last night, but fortunately it was only a rubbish fire and they were able to prevent flames from spreading.

Great damage has also been done in the rural districts. There was not a road leading out of Galt which was not blocked last night with telephone poles down. Hundreds of them were snapped while fences were laid low and a few silos wrecked. At Preston also there was considerable damage done by the wind, the new addition to the Crown furniture factory being unroofed.

DAMAGE AT ST. MARYS.

ST. MARYS, Nov. 30.—A terrific wind and rain storm passed over St. Marys Saturday evening. The electric power went off and the streets were dark and deserted and strewn with dangerous fallen debris of shingles, glass, etc. Some of the upper windows of the drygoods store of A. H. Lofft & Co. were blown in. Many other places suffered from blown-in windows, and many roofs were bared of their shingles. Many stores closed up.

LIFTED ROOF OFF SARNIA CHURCH

SARNIA, Nov. 30.—A gale blowing 90 miles an hour here Saturday knocked down most of the signs in the main streets. The front of the Wellington street school was blown in, and the roof of the Free Methodist Church was lifted 100 yards away and placed on top of the parsonage.

Framework of buildings under construction was scattered for a distance of about five blocks. Two or three big steel chimneys were blown down; also the derrick of the Salt Block and the roof of the Northern Navigation building. Many persons received minor injuries.

FACTORIES AT STRATFORD WRECKED

STRATFORD, Nov. 30.—Stratford experienced one of the worst storms in the memory of older residents on Saturday night, coincident with the storm the electric power failed. Trees were blown down or split, windows smashed, awnings torn from their hangings, roofs blown off, and in one instance the top story of a factory was left amongst broken bricks and mortar.

Possibly the most damage done was at the woolen stocking mill, where the first story was blown in, and the entire plant is in bad condition. At the Pfeffer planing mill on Bay street, a building, about 180 feet by 80 feet, the entire roof was torn off and thrown on to nearby houses. The water tower at the Globe-Wernicke Company crumbled in the face of the wind.

At the Whyte Packing Company's plant a portion of the roof was torn off, while at the Salvation Army Citadel the ornamental brick peak, about six feet, high, was blown down, as was also part of the built-up front of Stillman's creamery.

ROOFS BLOWN OFF AT CHATHAM

CHATHAM, Nov. 30.—Following torrential rains which swept the city and district yesterday, a wind developed to hurricane force, and left considerable damage in its wake. Huge trees were uprooted in the city, and some streets were blocked this morning by the fallen timber. Small buildings and advertising boards were torn down. Telephone and telegraph wires were also broken, and the service interrupted. Reports from the rural districts indicate considerable damage in the way of small wrecked buildings.

The local buildings which suffered the most were the Cement Products Company, where the roof was blown away, and Bilsky's drygoods store, where considerable damage was done to the roof. Several store signs were blown down.

Several people had a narrow escape from being injured when the iron ventilators were blown from the roof of the Spencer Stone store. The street was thronged at the time. The falling iron snapped high voltage cables of the Chatham Gas Company, and live wires swung dangerously, necessitating the assistance of the fire department.

To add to the confusion, both hydro and city electric lights were out for several hours in the evening. The cold snap, which followed today, caused a shortage of gas, and many houses were chilled.

STORM LEVELS WOODSTOCK FENCES

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 30.—Woodstock and the surrounding section of the country was visited by a heavy wind storm on Saturday evening. Trees were uprooted, fences levelled, signs torn from their positions and thrown to the ground. Windows were blown in, among them two large windows in the Buckingham Hotel, and boards were torn from frame residences. The electric light and telephone systems were put out of commission for a time. No serious damage is reported, however.

DEBRIS BLOCKS INGERSOLL TRACKS

INGERSOLL, Nov. 30.—This is a debris-strewn town today. At the factory of the Ingersoll Packing Company the damage is estimated at from $10,000 to $15,000. Two-thirds of the roofing of the cheese warehouse was blown off, while the entire west wall fell in. Parts of the wreckage were carried a considerable distance, while many large trees on the river flats, in the same locality, were snapped off like pipestems.

Much of the debris from the falling roofing and bricks and mortar at the factory of the Ingersoll Packing Company was piled up on the Grand Trunk Railway, but through prompt action it was cleared away in time to allow the fliers to go through on time. A large section of the roofing of the hog pens was also torn off, while the ammonia condensers, used by the firm in connection with their ice-making plant, were leveled and a large quantity of ammonia released.

At intervals the lighting service was off and part of it was off for the whole night. Many buildings were partially unroofed, many windows broken, including several large plate glass windows. The plate glass window in the office of Evans Bros.' Piano Company, Fleet's butcher shop and Bingham's confectionary store were broken. Part of the roofing of plant No. 4 of the Morrow Company was also blown off. One large pine tree on the lawn of Bruce McDougal, Thomas street, barely missed falling on his residence.

The Ingersoll and Bell telephone systems are crippled. At Salford a church steeple and the school were blown down, while a number of buildings are said to be damaged.

Many citizens had thrilling experiences in the storm. One resident who was returning by motor from the country states that he was caught by the full fury of the storm and his car turned completely around.

BOATS HELD AT PORT COLBORNE

PORT COLBORNE, Nov. 30.—The worst storm in years raged last night and all day today. The south to southwest gale reached a velocity of 80 to 90 miles an hour. The steamer Glenlyon, waiting to sail for Port William, and the small Government tug Bar Point are the only boats here.

FLATTENS BARNS IN GUELPH DISTRICT

GUELPH, Nov. 30.—Not for a great many years has a storm done as much damage to property as did the one which struck this city on Saturday night. It laid many buildings and trees low. In the country houses, barns were flattened, while in the city damage was tremendous. On Strange street the roof of a big brick house was lifted and carried across the street, smashing another veranda and doing other damage. Out at the O.A.C. seven valuable trees were blown down, while in one or two directions at least the roads are blocked by trees falling. Telephone and telegraph wires are down in all directions, but so far as could be learned no persons were injured.

HAMILTON SUFFERED EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

HAMILTON, Nov. 30.—On Saturday night a strong southwest wind that had sprung up in the afternoon developed into a hurricane that left a trail of ruin all over the city. While much material damage was done no person was injured.

On Sunday morning the streets were littered with shingles torn from the roofs of houses, branches of trees, signboards, broken glass and other wreckage, while in all parts of the city trees were uprooted, fences levelled, chimneys blown over, and houses and other buildings seriously damaged.

Some scaffolding used in building two stories on the old Sun Life building was carried by the wind into the roof of the Red Mill Theatre while it was crowded with patrons. There was a loud crash, and immediately the people in the theatre rushed for the doors. All got out without mishap.

Part of the roof of the Tuckett factory was torn off and deposited in the street. The roof of the Zimmerknit factory suffered a like fate, and a number of dwelling houses are minus chimneys, and several gables were stove in by the wind.

Wire communication was also badly interrupted.

DEATH LIST OF SEVEN WAS TOLL IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 30.—Twenty-four hours after the most severe wind storm experienced in Michigan since 1913 the demoralized conditions of the telegraph and telephone wires throughout the state were such that no accurate or complete reports of damage caused could be ascertained.

Early tonight one death was added to the six reported last night. A carpenter, E. J. Herrington, was killed when a barn on which he was working near Jackson collapsed. The other five deaths occurred in Detroit. Scores of persons were injured here and elsewhere by falling cornices and signs or flying glass.

Thousands of dollars in damage was done buildings here and at Grand Rapids, Jackson, Port Huron, Saginaw and elsewhere. At Richmond, Mich., a three-story business block was unroofed and collapsed, damage being estimated at $18,000. No one was reported seriously injured.

As far as can be learned at this point and at Port Huron, at the south end of Lake Huron, no boats were lost during the storm. The White Star Line steamer Waubuna from this port, believed lost last night with 25 passengers sought shelter from the storm and reached Port Huron this morning. The steamer White reached here tonight from Buffalo and reported no shipping in difficulty. Reports from Lake Huron points are meagre because of demoralized conditions.

FERRY RUNS AGROUND AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Nov. 30. — The Border Cities suffered heavily in the 84-mile gale which struck this district at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening. Dozens of buildings were wrecked, trees may be seen laying on practically every street, and the stately spire of St. Alphonsus Church, the tallest on the border, is flat. The damage from the storm will run into hundreds of thousands, it was estimated today. The cities along the border are cut off from the other part of Canada, owing to the blowing down of hundreds of telephone and telegraph wires.

It is considered a miracle that no lives were lost when the ferry "Promise," with 150 passengers aboard, was forced to drive head-on for shore, after making an unsuccessful attempt to land during the gale. Fifty women aboard the ferry became frantic, and some of them fainted. As the boat struck, several passengers jumped for shore, and although the boat held firm for some minutes several persons were more or less injured in the rush to get on land.

Washed Away Shore.

As the high waves had washed away much of the short, the boat struck a freight car on the Grand Trunk, as it hit, and knocked it from the tracks. Henry Pocock, captain of the ferry, is the hero of the border today. He is praised on all sides for the manner in which he handled the small craft, which was tossed like a cork by the waves.

Electric light and power service was completely disrupted and not a street car turned a wheel in the Border Cities the greater part of today. The gigantic chimney of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway crashed in, completely wrecking the plant and shutting off the power, which operates the cars. The roofs of several houses were torn off and buildings in the course of erection were completely demolished.

Narrowly Escapes.

Several people narrowly escaped injury when the large shed of the Windsor Truck Company, London street, was turned completely over into the street. A number of people were huddled against the building, but took warning when boards cracked and moved a few minutes before the building toppled.

Hoary-headed grandfathers, many of them veteran seamen searched their heads today for an equal to last night's storm. No gale which had previously struck the border, including the one of six years ago, has left in its wake such a trial of destruction as the storm of last night.

ALL BOATS SAFE.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 30. — While there was a bad storm at this end of the lakes, the local wireless station reports all boats in harbors and shelter, and no loss of life is reported.

RAILWAY CITY HIT HARD WHEN CYCLONE WRECKED BUILDINGS

Pinafore Park Completely Ruined—Stands and Trees Tumble.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 30.—The terrific storm that swept Western Ontario last night and continued throughout today wrought havoc in and around St. Thomas, destroying thousands of dollars' worth of property, and in some cases wrecking buildings beyond repair. Several large trees were razed, but no lives were lost, as far as can be learned, in this vicinity.

The rain fell incessantly on Saturday, and was followed late in the evening by a gale that broke all records, continuing throughout the night. Business was crippled last night through the entire city by the trouble experienced at the hydro station. Wires were down all over the city, and as soon as one section of the town was repaired, another would fail. About midnight the entire city was left in total darkness, and the "juice" was not available until late this afternoon. The rural telephone service is practically out of business. At Port Stanley a considerable amount of damage was done, but the storm was not as furious there, as it was here.

STAND DEMOLISHED.

At Pinafore Park the baseball grandstand, erected some years ago after a fire had destroyed the old one, at a cost of several thousand, was swept completely off the grounds. Fence and fenceposts and the entire stand were scattered over all sections of the park. Not a post remains standing. The greenhouses erected as a municipal plant house two years ago were badly damaged, and all the plants in one section were destroyed by frost during the night. A section of Stills' sawmills in Elm street was demolished and considerable damage was done in the Pere Marquette yards, several cars being lifted off the tracks and small "shanties" being blown down.

AGED PEOPLE'S HOME DAMAGED.

The most miraculous escape recorded happened at the Thomas Williams' Home for aged people, Walnut street. A chimney on one section of the building fell and destroyed a large portion of the roof. This section of the building finally collapsed, but no one was injured. A number of men were at work today repairing.

Several windows at the Collegiate, Myrtle and Balaclava street school's were smashed, and in Queen street several chimneys were blown over.

In the outlying districts trees and fences were removed. The entire orchard at Pinafore Park was swept down.

Disrupted telephone service and impassable conditions on some of the county highways prevented a definite estimate of the total damage in this district. There is little doubt but that the loss through the cyclone will be far greater than present information would indicate.

QUEEN CITY MAN KILLED

Skull Fractured by Tree Blown Down by the Terrific Gale.

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—One man was killed and several persons were more or less injured in a terrific gale which swept this city on Saturday night, and many thousands of dollars loss was entailed in the wreckage that followed in the wake of the wind. It was one of the worst storms of the kind ever experienced by the citizens of Toronto, yet the material damage was comparatively light in view of the severity of the gale.

George Dawson, an expressman, 33 years of age, was hit by a falling tree on the street, and died a few hours afterward in St. Michael's Hospital from his injuries. His skull was fractured. The majority of the injuries received from things falling or being blown about in the streets were of a minor kind. One of the most serious reported occurred to Miss Mary Duffy when her shoulder was wrenched by a sign falling and striking her. She was taken to St. Michael's Hospital for treatment.

Everywhere throughout the city the storm raged. It started at about 8:30 and continued all night. For three hours and a half every street car in the city was tied up. Thousands of houses and hundreds of stores were without electric light. These had to resort to wax candles. Both the Toronto Electric Company and the hydro-electric were affected, though the latter escaped with much less damage than its rival. The chief trouble to the hydro-electric service was caused by trees and signs blowing down and breaking the wires, but the inconvenience caused to the hydro customers was small compared with that suffered by the customers of the Toronto Electric Company.

Four Lines Down.

The four power lines of the Toronto Electric Light Company, which supplies the Toronto Street Railway Company with power, were temporarily put out of business at Niagara Falls, and for at least three hours and a half there was no service in Toronto from that quarter. The hydro-electric transmissions were not seriously interfered with, but some of the low-tension circuits sustained breakages, resulting in street lights and house lights being out in some sections of the city for a while.

The Bell Telephone Company's services suffered seriously, not only in Toronto, but throughout the country, the gale being somewhat general. K. J. Dunstan, manager of the western division of the Bell Telephone Company, said tonight: "The sections between the Niagara Peninsula and North Bay and between Orillia and Oshawa have reported widespread damage."

Mr. Dunstan estimated that at least two hundred poles had been felled by the storm in the country sections. He said the long distance leads from Toronto to Montreal, North Bay, Guelph, Hamilton, Niagara Peninsula, London, Oshawa and Orillia had been snapped. All of these, except the London lead, had been replaced by emergency cables. The emergency cables had been strung along the ground. Connection with London had not been re-established tonight, but it was expected that the repairs would be made before long.

At Exhibition Park.

The storm was exceedingly violent at Exhibition Park, where the gale had a wide sweep off Lake Ontario. The damage done there is estimated at about $25,000. The big "figure eight," one of the thrill producers at the exhibition, was levelled to the ground. Part of it was carried through the roof of an adjoining stable of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, where two horses were injured.

The "old mill" on the Midway was also damaged. The wind played havoc with the poles, wires and transformers on the Midway, and left much wreckage in this popular resort.

The manufacturers' building and the transportation building at Exhibition Park were damaged, the former losing its dome, which was badly smashed, and both being almost depleted of glass in the windows. The metal roof of the transportation building was more or less torn and twisted.

A brick house on Woodbine Heights, into which Augustus Reid, a returned soldier, had put practically all his savings, was swept from its moorings by the gale and completely wrecked. The family had gone out for the evening, and when they returned they were shocked to see their home in ruins. They had not heard of the wreckage while out.

The home of John Cox, in the east end of the city, under which there was a recent excavation, was tilted out of true and partly sunk into the excavation.

Scarboro Beach was a scene of wreckage after the storm abated. The chief damage done there, however, was to the grandstand, which was almost totally destroyed. The roof of the grandstand was completely lifted off and scattered around in pieces.

Telegraph Impaired.

Telegraph services out of Toronto Saturday night and this morning were seriously impaired as a result of the storm. Every route out of Toronto was temporarily cut off or seriously affected. Poles by the scores were broken and hundreds of pins pulled out of the cross-arms, wires crossed and lying on the ground, and things generally mixed up.

Almost simultaneously with the rising of the gale adequate steps were taken to restore telegraph communication. Gangs of repair men patrolled every line throughout the night on trains, on motorcycles and a-foot, carrying searchlights to locate the breaks. The principal routes were re-established late today.

The Canadian Press, Limited, was enabled to begin its Sunday evening service at the usual hour as a result of the repair work having been carried out with dispatch on its leased wires.

A thunderstorm accompanied the windstorm for a time Saturday night. Lightning struck the residence of Samuel Hobbs on Pearson avenue, knocked a chimney off and did considerable damage to one of the rooms in the house. No one was injured.

INVESTS IN "MOVIES."

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Lord Beaverbrook is said to have purchased £400,000 worth of shares in the Provincial Cinematograph Company, one of the largest film businesses in the country, operating 40 theatres.

INFLAMED GUMS— A CAUSE OF LOOSE TEETH

Pyorrhea is undoubtedly a vital danger to both gums and teeth. Tender gums indicate it, and with it come loosening teeth. Imperceptibly, at first, the gums recede from the normal gum line. They inflame. They present many tiny openings for millions of bacteria to attack the unenameled tooth base. Tooth-base decay quickly follows. Even if the cavity be filled and the tooth saved, the gums continue to recede. Remember, too, that inflamed and bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Against this Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) ordinary tooth-pastes are powerless. Yet Pyorrhea attacks four out of five people who are over forty, and many under this age. But Forhan's—if used in time and used consistently—positively prevents Pyorrhea. It is a scientific tooth cleanser as well. Brush your teeth with it. See how promptly bleeding or gum tenderness ceases and how your teeth are kept white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

DANCES FORBIDDEN, PARIS UP IN ARMS

Capital Appeals to Clemenceau, So He'll See What He Can Do.

Paris, Dec. 1.—The French Government appears to have undertaken a task more serious than it thought when it issued an order recently closing all dancing establishments because of lack of coal.

It appears the government did not realize how many folks in Paris danced, and did not wish to stop their amusement.

The prefecture of police and the national government authorities as well find themselves flooded with thousands of protests from high and low, and Premier Clemenceau has consented to take a hand in the situation and will receive proprietors of Paris "bals" this evening.

In the meanwhile M. Raux, the Paris chief of police, threatens to put lots of people in jail if his orders are not obeyed better than they were last night.

Proprietors of bals now demand that all theatres and motion picture places be closed, as well as their establishments.

In the case of dancing palaces the proposition is plain—they are closed. But where the fight arises is in the cases of restaurants, practically all of which have a space cleared of tables and have orchestras.

When the police agents visited a number of these last night and notified the proprietors that the law was being violated because dancing was going on, the proprietors shrugged their shoulders and said in effect:

"Orchestras are not forbidden. Our orchestra plays, and our patrons, without saying a word, get up and dance. We cannot offend our patrons. What do you wish that we do?"

The agents reported to M. Raux, who said dancing was taboo, and that was all there was to it.

Mr. Raux's troubles increased today when representatives of 4,000 musicians thrown out of work by the new order, bore down upon him and surrounded him when he started out for luncheon. He promised to talk to them.

Mr. Raux explained to the newspaper men that the measure was taken to permit families to get more coal. He was asked if Paris could hope soon to dance again.

"One may always hope," was his answer.

TO DENY FURTHER MERCY TO MOONEY

California Governor Calls Him Vicious Murderer.

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 1.—No further clemency in behalf of Thomas J. Mooney convicted of murder in connection with the San Francisco preparedness day bomb explosion, is warranted by anything within the knowledge of Governor William D. Stephens, the executive, stated in a letter made public Saturday at his office.

"Of Mooney's guilt there is in my mind, no question," the letter stated.

"In my judgment a grave injury is being done labor everywhere," the letter said, "when it is made to appear by those who occupy places of leadership that organized labor champions such a heartless and vicious murderer as Thomas J. Mooney.

"I am convinced he had a part in one of the most atrocious crimes involving treasonable purpose ever perpetrated in the history of our country. Mooney and his associates evidently were in sympathy with Germany's agents who were resorting to every desperate measure to thwart preparedness of the American nation for war."

TWO HUNTERS SLAIN, 7,000 DEER KILLED

Michigan Big Game Season Ends With Few Casualtes.

Kalkaska, Mich., Dec. 1.—With only two known fatalities, a new record was established for the 1919 deer hunting season in Michigan, which closed at midnight Sunday, according to complete records prepared by Deputy Game Wardens Edward Deuell and Thomas Bryant, in charge of deer shipments across the Straits.

According to the records shipments of deer across the Straits up until Saturday night, numbered 4,363 consigned to the southern peninsula. This total does not include deer shipped by freight, via the Soo, or by way of the Wisconsin-Michigan border.

Conservative estimates place the total number of deer killed in Michigan during the 1919 season at more than 7,000. Deputy Deuell reports definite word of only two fatal accidents, which is the smallest number ever recorded in a Michigan deer hunting season.

HAD $25,000; ENDS LIFE IN FIVE TRIES

Calhoun Farmer Told Doctor, "I'll Fool You Yet."

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 1.—After four unsuccessful attempts at suicide, David Tracy Wilcox, 69, whose estate is worth $25,000, ended his life by hanging last night.

"I'll fool you yet," he told Dr. R. J. Gubbins, who saved his life after a previous attempt at self-destruction.

He went into the basement for apples and later was found hanging from a beam. In his room his clothes were found laid out for burial.

Last Monday he refused $15,000 for a 120-acre farm.

MURDERS WIFE, KILLS HIMSELF

William Newell, Detroit, Enraged Because Mate Starts Suit For Divorce.

Detroit, Dec. 1.—Because his wife Violet had, Saturday, filed a bill for divorce in the circuit court, William Newell killed her Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at their home, 1339 Twelfth street. He then turned the pistol on himself, inflicting fatal wounds.

Mrs. Newell, who was 27 years of age, was shot through the heart and died instantly. Newell's aim on himself was a little lower, but equally effective. The police say that the couple had previously been divorced and then remarried.

In a note left by Newell he intimated that his wife had been keeping company with other men and that this deed would save her the trouble of obtaining another divorce.

MEXICO IS SEVERELY ARRAIGNED IN NEW MESSAGE FROM U. S.

Demand for Immediate Release of Consular Agent Is Renewed.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Renewing its request for the immediate release of Consular Agent Jenkins, imprisoned at Puebla, the latest American note to Mexico, made public here today, arraigns the Mexican Government's conduct in severe terms and characterizes it as a studied attempt to ensnare the American consular agent in the intracacies of legal proceedings. No ultimatum was served and no indication was given of what the American Government's course would be if Jenkins is not immediately released. The note to Mexico begins by saying the United States declined to be dragged into a judicial discussion of "irrelevant or unimportant matters," and says the request for the consular agent's release is founded on "right and justice."

"It appears," says the note, "to have been the purpose of the Mexican Government to assume a wilful indifference to the feelings of the American people, that have been aroused to the point of indignation by the exposure, hardships and physical sufferings by Jenkins during his abduction and his subsequent treatment at the hands of the Mexican authorities.

BODY OF WOMAN IS FOUND IN OLD TRUNK

Efforts Will Be Made To Clear Up Mystery At Lawton, Mich.

Lawton, Mich., Dec. 1.—Jammed into a rotting trunk which was concealed under a pile of shingles in the cellar of her home, the body of a woman believed to have been Maud Tabor, missing about three years, was found here yesterday by her sister, Florence Tabor Critchlow. The missing girl was the daughter of the late Lester Tabor, prominent attorney. The mother and a brother, Walter Tabor, are said to reside in the west, where it has been reported Miss Tabor had died on a ranch a few months after her disappearance. Circumstances prior to her disappearance are now being investigated by the authorities. The young woman was a graduate of the University of Michiga, and an instructor of foreign languages.

Evidence of conditions prior to death that might have formed a motive for murder was pointed to by physicians who examined the partially decomposed body, according to the police. The officers now are searching for the mother and brother of the young woman, and for one other, not named, in their efforts to solve the mystery.

When Mrs. Critchlow attempted to pull the trunk from beneath the pile of shingles, an end came away, exposing a foot and leading to the finding of the body.

4 PCT. BEER SALES PERMITTED IN R. I.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 30.—A move in the fight in this state against national prohibition was made today when the town council of Johnston granted the applications of a number of citizens for licenses to sell "pure, spirituous, malt and intoxicating liquors" for one year, beginning December 1. The council also granted to the same applicants licenses to sell 4 per cent beer under the provisions of the state act which declares beverages containing not more than 4 per cent alcohol non-intoxicating.

The town of North Providence was expected to take similar action tomorrow evening and applications of hundreds of liquor dealers in the cities of Providence and Woonsocket will be acted upon by the boards of police commissioners of these two cities next Monday.

The constitutionality of the national prohibition amendment will be tested in the federal courts as soon as it becomes effective next January by Attorney-General Herbert A. Rice, assisted by former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas. The Legislature last winter adopted a resolution instructing the attorney-general to take such a step.

LIGHT "FLU" EPIDEMIC EXPECTED IN ENGLAND

London, Nov. 30.—What is the likelihood of a recurrence of influenza this winter?

"One cannot prophesy," said Prof. W. J. Simpson, an English authority, "but judging by previous occasions, there will be some recurrence. The history of influenza points to it always.

"There has already been a recurrence out of England, in Bombay and Capetown, for instance. There have also been cases of septic throats in Scotland, and a few in England, I believe, but I am not sure of that.

"But there is not the slightest need to be alarmed. Since last year the ministry of health has been set up with powers of enforcing notification of influenza directly a case occurs. The local authorities are working in conjunction with the new ministry, and between them they will know the exact position of things anywhere. That is a great point.

"I feel quite confident that any influenza this year will be an epidemic of small account.

STEEL STRIKER IS SHOT DURING CLASH WITH AUTHORITIES

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 1.—One striker was shot to death and another was seriously injured in a clash between striking steel workers and Sheriff Clayton at Benwood this morning, according to a report received by the police here.

BUTCHER NOT GUILTY OF STEALING LAMBS

Bought Stolen Carcases From Unknown Farmer.

Carl Rossoni, a local merchant, was arraigned before Judge Judd for trial this morning in the county court upon the charge of stealing four lambs valued at $35 from the slaughter house of George A. Smith, a butcher of Westminster Township. The accused pleaded not guilty and after the evidence had been heard, the judge acquitted him of the charge, because the onus of guilt had been removed.

The theft occurred on the night of October 10, from Smith's property on lot one, concession three of Westminster Township, at some time between 12 o'clock and 5 o'clock the next morning.

Marked Carcasses.

Mr. Smith, who was the first witness, stated that he had killed the animals early the same evening and had left them in the slaughterhouse without locking the door. But he had marked the lambs in a distinctive manner that they could be identified. Then after discovering his loss in the morning, he prepared to come to London in the morning where, later in the day, he had found two of the lambs at the Metropole Cafe on Richmond street. He knew that they were the right ones, he said, because of the marks upon them. So he went out and found Constable Alex. Shaver, who ascertained from the owner of the cafe the name of the man who had sold the two lambs.

So Carl Rossoni who is part owner of a combined meat and grocery store upon the corner of King and Ridout streets, was arrested and placed in the county jail.

Bought From Farmer.

Through the evidence given by several witnesses Rossoni's innocence in connection with the theft was confirmed. It was proved that the accused had purchased the four lambs from a farmer who came to Rossoni's store with the animals in a wagon the morning after the theft had been committed. This farmer, who is unknown at the present, is said to have entered Rossoni's store at 7:30 that morning to offer to sell the four lambs for $30. Rossoni would not pay that amount, however, and offered to pay $20 for the four animals. The farmer accepted this amount, saying that it was too cheap, but that he was in a hurry and would take the $20 to save time and the bother of going to the market, according to Rossoni's evidence.

Confusing Evidence.

The fact that the accused had purchased the meat in a bulk form and not paid for it by the pound, and also the fact that he had sold two of the lambs to the Metropole Cafe at a smaller price than he could have obtained at the market, rather confused his case at first. But the evidence of further witnesses made clear that he had not been out of his room on the night of the theft.

Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop and E. Meredith, for the defendant, were the counsels in the cas.

JAIL ALMOST EMPTY; TURNKEY SUGGESTS GIPSY IS TO BLAME

Next Thing There Will Be No Work To Do.

"If a certain evangelist whom I know doesn't get out of this city soon I shall be out of a job, for there won't be anyone to lock up here any more," said a man with a huge bunch of keys, in the county buildings this morning. "I tell you, there will not be a single man to do the work around here if we don't get another batch of 'winter boarders' in pretty soon. There are less than a dozen men in the whole place now, when there should be a score at least. I can't understand it at all—with the cold weather here and everything. And the high cost of living, too, you know. You'd think that we would have a houseful instead of just a handful.

"It must be because someone in this city has a wonderful influence toward good, as I sort of suggested at first. Well, I don't care if the place does become empty, but I certainly do not want to do the sweeping and cleaning myself, and perhaps lose my job as well."

BUILDING DAMAGED; HOUSE IS TWISTED

Results of Storm Is Causing Much Loss.

W. E. Mitchell, manager of the Mitchell cooperage, reported to The Advertiser that a number of the buildings connected with the cooperage were badly damaged by the storm. The buildings are situated in Chelsea Green and the hurricane had a clean sweep.

A returned soldier who is erecting a house on Thompson avenue suffered considerably as the building is twisted so badly that it is most probable that it will have to be torn down and rebuilt.

PINNACLES ON TOWER OF ST. PAUL'S CRASH THROUGH ROOF RIGHT INTO CHURCH

Pew Smashed and Back of Edifice Rendered Unsafe.

With such fury did the gale of Saturday evening sweep against the main tower of St. Paul's Anglican Cathedral, that two of the smaller pinnacles, one on the east side and the other on the south side, toppled over, struck the roof, and cut a gaping hole in it. One large piece of stone crashed to the floor of the building, striking a Union Jack that was draped over the main entrance. One of the pews was smashed by it.

One of the pinnacles remained embedded in the roof near the triangular six-foot hole made by the other piece of stone.

John M. Moore, the church architect, declared the rear of the church to be unsafe for use, and so the congregation was foced to enter by the side, and take seats as near the front as possible. Here, however, the atmosphere was cold, for a stained glass window in the south transept had been smashed by the wind.

Three hundred dollars is estimated to be the total damage done.

STOCK MARKET REPORTS MISSING BECAUSE OF BREAKDOWN OF WIRES

Owing to many wires being out of commission as a result of Saturday night's storm, only a portion of today's stock markets have been received by The Advertiser.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, Dec. 1.—Oats opened ⅛c higher for December at 82⅝; May ¼c down at 85c.

Barley opened ½c higher for May at $1 36¾.

Flax opened ½c higher for December at $4 82, and 2c up for May at $4 83.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Opening: Corn—December, $1 37¾; May, $1 32.

Oats—December, 74⅜c; May, 73¾c.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Corn made a sharp ascent in price today, owing chiefly to the fact that offerings were light and that receipts were of comparatively small volume. The coal shortage and a decided jump in hog values counted likewise toward strengthening the corn market. Besides, there were continued complaints of car scarcity. Opening prices, which ranged from ¼c to 2½c higher, with December at $1 37@1 37¾, and May at $1 31½@1 32, were followed by a slight reaction, but then by a fresh advance.

Oats hardened with corn. After opening ¼c to ⅜c higher, including May at 77@77½c, the market sagged a little before developing new firmness.

MONEY.

Paris, Dec. 1.—Prices were irregular on the bourse today.

Three per cent rentes, 60 francs 5 centimes.

Exchange on London, 39 francs 40 centimes.

The dollar was quoted at 9 francs 86½ centimes.

New York, Dec. 1.—Sterling fell below the $4 mark in the local exchange market again today, demanding bills being quoted as $3.99¾ for the English pound, one-half a cent below Saturday's closing quotation. Franc checks made a new low record today, being quoted at 9.85 for the American dollar. Lire checks also fell nine centimes to 12.36 for the dollar, while German marks were quoted at 2.35 each.

WALL STREET.

New York, Dec. 1.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The week of the stock exchange began with no essential changes in the general conditions which have influenced recent operations. Aside from Anaconda Copper, which gained almost two points, and Crucible Steel, in which a three-point loss was recorded, changes in initial transactions were limited to fractions. News over the week-end was conflicting, and impending events, including the convening of Congress, caused conservative financial interests to urge further caution.

GREAT Y. P. RALLY ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Presbyterians Unite in Sunday School Movement.

New Year's Day has been set as the day upon which to hold a rally of all the young people of the Presbyterian Sunday schools and churches in the First Presbyterian Church. This was decided at a meeting of the Presbyterian Ministerial Association held this morning at the home of Rev. J. R. Laverie, 510 Hamilton road. The entire program has not yet been mapped out, but promises to be an interesting one for the young people.

The various ministers made comments on the good accomplished by the Gipsy Smith mission and the president, Rev. T. A. Symington, said that he knew every minister would do his utmost to carry on the good work thus started.

ANGLICANS WILL TENDER LUNCHEON TO PROF. WRIGHT

Clerical Association Hears Interesting Paper by Rev. C. C. Waller.

Rev. C. C. Waller presented an interesting paper to the Anglican Clerical Association, which met in Cronyn Hall this morning, on "Some Centres of Gravity in Church Teaching and Experience, Practically and Historically." The paper was very well received by the clergy, considerable discussion taking place, and Rev. Dr. G. B. Sage was asked to speak on the same subject at the next meeting, to be held the first Monday in January.

It was resolved by the association to tender a luncheon, the date not yet decided, to Professor T. G. A. Wright, who leaves shortly to take up his duties as rector of All Saints' Church in Whitby. Professor Wright has been in the Diocese of Huron for the past seventeen years. The luncheon will be held at Wong's Cafe, at which function Professor Wright will be presented with an illuminated address.

Much favorable and complimentary conversation was heard regarding the fine evangelistic campaign carried on by Gipsy Smith.

CUSTOMS CLEARINGS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Record Except for March, 1918.

Customs clearings for the month of November are the largest since March, 1918, and then they were exceeded by only a thousand dollars. The clearings for the month of November were $177,177.

An increase of $45,440.93 was shown over the clearings of the corresponding month of last year when they were $131,736.07.

Officials at the custom house said that the increase was due to heavy importation of Christmas goods, especially fruits from Spain. These had fallen off during the war.

WINNIPEG LABOR MEN WILL MOVE TO HAVE EMPLOYEES REINSTATED

Seven Members of City Council to Press Claims.

Winnipeg, Dec. 1.—The Labor party in the city council are not going to take any setback from the polling on Friday, and will at once open the battle for their views. They plan to advance a motion at the first regular meeting of the council to reinstate all former employees dismissed during the strike. They will also ask the city council to rescind the civic pledge, and not only permit staff members to organize, but to affiliate with the trades and labor council.

With seven members representing labor and seven opposing, the mayor will probably be required to give the casting vote to turn down the motion.

Destroy them with Keating's. Every insect you allow in the House spreads disease germs. Sprinkle Keating's and kill them before they kill you. Keating's is unrivalled, and is sure death to all insects. Cartons only 15c, 25c and 40c. b

PIGEON BUILDING NEST IN UNPROTECTED PLACE

Undaunted by the cold weather and the storm of Saturday, a pigeon is busy building her nest on the beam over the platform of the weigh scales. How she intends to raise a brood of squabs without any protection except a roof over her head is a mystery to the market officials, for the open ends makes the scales an inviting passage for the cold winds.

Pigeons have been blamed by the market officials for the breaking of the clock in the Royal Bank building overlooking the market square. Early Saturday morning a pigeon was seen to fly against the glass and to smash a hole in it. The high winds at night completed the job, and now little glass remains.

TRAINS ARE OFF—Reduction of the passenger service in the local division of the Grand Trunk to the extent of seven trains was made on Sunday morning, although there was some hope that the order might be cancelled.

The Time to Buy a Home

London has just passed through the nearest approach to a building boom in its history.

At the same time available housing accommodation grows scarcer.

New industries and business firms are bringing new citizens.

Soldiers returned from overseas are settling here with their families.

The moderate cost of living in London, compared with some other places, is a strong factor in attracting people retiring to the city.

NOT ONE HOUSE in some instances is left for sale in desirable residential blocks where we had FIVE OR SIX a short time ago.

The houses are sold; people living in them; the big demand continues for houses in these localities.

Building operations will be practically at a standstill during the winter months.

Inevitably housing accommodation will be even more scarce in the spring than it is now.

Be Wise---Be Sure of a Home---Buy Today

Little Hope of Treaty Decision at Early Date

U. S. Senate Probably Will Not Reopen Question For Some Weeks.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 30.—Although a new effort for compromise ratification of the peace treaty is expected to follow closely the reconvening of Congress tomorrow, discussion among returning senators tonight revealed little optimism that the question would be brought to a decisive state for some weeks.

In the absence of information as to what President Wilson will recommend in his message to the new session, Republican and Democratic leaders in the senate were preparing to go ahead with long-delayed general legislation.

It was agreed that even if the president asked that the fight for ratification be renewed at once, the work in that direction would be carried on privately in conferences in the opposing senate groups, while other business proceeded without interruption on the senate floor.

Latest Note to Mexico Is Still More Emphatic

Some Officials Intimate This May Be Last Word by the U. S.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 30.—Another note to the Mexican Government relating to the arrest and imprisonment of William O. Jenkins, consular agent at Puebla, was sent by the state department today to the embassy at Mexico City for presentation tomorrow to Carranza.

The note, which some officials indicated might be the last on the subject, was in reply to Mexico's answer to a sharp demand by this Government for the immediate release of Jenkins. No intimation of the exact character of the note was revealed, but officials in touch with the situation believed it was more emphatic than any sent heretofore.

Italian Socialists To Leave Chamber While King Speaks

ROME, Nov. 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—When King Victor Emmanuel enters the Chamber at the opening of the 25th session of Parliament at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the Socialist deputies will not rise. They will leave the Chamber when the rollcall begins, and hold a meeting of the Socialist bloc in an adjoining room, while the king delivers his address.

They will take the oath at Tuesday's session with mental reservations and present a motion to eliminate from the constitution the requirement that the deputies shall take such oaths. This is the program agreed upon by the Socialists after long discussion.

NO LAKE ACCIDENTS IN STORM REPORTED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 30.—Though a wild storm has been raging over Lake Superior since yesterday, no reports had been received of any accidents on the lake up to 6 o'clock this evening. Neither Canadian nor American ship canal officers have heard of any damage. The only vessel which passed through here today was the steamer Utley, which was downbound, and had a rough passage over Lake Superior. The wireless station here has no reports of any trouble.

DETECTIVE SERGEANT KILLED IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, Nov. 30.—Detective Sergeant Barton was shot and mortally wounded tonight a few yards from the central police station near, the spot where his colleague, Detective Hoey, was killed recently. Soon after being taken to the hospital Barton died.

No arrests have been made. Barton was particularly successful against ordinary criminals. He was not active in politics.

EXPECT AUTOMATIC TELEPHONES TO BE IN USE VERY SOON

New York, Nov. 28.—The automatic telephone will soon be in general use in this city, and in other parts of the state. The New York Telephone Company announced yesterday the new system was being put in at Dunkirk, Ithaca, and Geneva, and that the work was expected to be completed about the first of the year. The machine switching apparatus will be used first in this city in the Pennsylvania, Academy and Canal central offices, but the work in these districts will not be completed, according to present estimates, much before the end of the year.

Company officials said the new system would do away with telephone operators. In this city the operating force has been increased by 2,000 new workers the last nine months, and the company intends to obtain 1,000 additional employees in the next few months. The force then will number 12,000.

"The system," explained a statement by the company, "is extremely simple to operate. Instead of telling the desired number to an operator the subscriber indicates it himself by manipulating a dial attached to the telephone instrument. This dial is equipped with ten finger holes, each carrying one of the ten numerals. In some cases the dials will be marked with certain letters of the alphabet.

"To call a number the subscriber simply places his finger in the hole corresponding to the first digit of the number desired, pulls the dial around to the finger stop, allows it to return to its original position, and does the same for each other digit of the number. His connection is then completed automatically. If the called number is busy an audible signal in the receiver

FAITH IN WHEAT BOARD.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30.—A resolution expressing faith in the Canadian Wheat Board's ability to get the best possible price for this year's crop, and urging the wheat board to advance the domestic price of wheat to millers, was passed unanimously by shareholders of the United Grain Growers', Limited, at the concluding session of the annual convention here yesterday.

Increase in Bread Prices

FOR years Neal's Bread has represented the highest achievement in bread making. It has given its makers a reputation they are proud of, and one that they jealously guard. Our many thousands of patrons have learned to know and appreciate this quality, and will accept nothing else.

Since the the first of May, 1917, that quality has been unflinchingly maintained without any increase in price, in spite of the advancing cost of material, fuel and labor.

After operating for the past few weeks at an actual financial loss, the Neal Baking Company is now faced with two alternatives:

Higher Price or Lower Quality

We know our patrons do not want us to lower the quality of our bread, and we will not do so under any circumstances.

We are sure that our patrons will be willing to pay a fair price for their bread, providing the quality is maintained.

Therefore, we are today forced to announce a new scale of prices:

NEAL'S

Standard 24-Ounce White Loaf, Unwrapped -	12 Cents
Standard 24-Ounce White Loaf, Wrapped - -	14 Cents
Standard 12-Ounce White Loaf, Wrapped - -	8 Cents

By holding bread prices steady while the cost of other foods soared upwards, we have for more than two and a half years been helping the people of Western Ontario to fight the high cost of living.

We are confident that they will still co-operate with us, and give us their support in turning out the most nourishing, most economical pure food offered for sale in Western Ontario at the present time.
