That the King Requires, St. Matthew 5. Golden Text, St. Matt. 5: 48.

4. They That Mourn. Luke has Ye that weep." Peter, in his first Epistle (1: 6), speaks of those who have been put to grief in manifold temptations," in which their faith is tried and proved. Their mourning is the natural grief and sorrow of those who suffer loss or pain or affliction because of their adherence to the right, and, especially, in the service of Christ. For them there shall be comfort. There is no doubt, too, that the Lord would extend this comfort to all who mourn the loss of loved ones or share in loving sympathy the grief and pain of others. A prophet of the earlier age pronounces a well deserved doom upon those who "are not grieved for the affliction" of their nation (Amos 6: 6; compare Ezek. 9, -6). And an apostle enjoins the Christian folk who would follow Christ's example to "weep with them that weep" (Rom. 12: 15).

5. The Meek. The meek are those who do not seek their own good by trampling on others, who are careful of the rights and interests of others. Their spirit is just the opposite of the rancorous, the self-assertive, and the aggressive. The meek man will do much and will yield much, in things that are not essential, for the sake of peace, although in matters of principle he can be strong as adamant. He will be remembered that Moses has been called "meekest of men." Jesus calls an ancient promise that "the meek shall inherit the land" (Psalm 37: 11), a promise which assures us that the best of material blessings are not altogether for the selfish and the self-seeking.

6. They That Hunger and Thirst. This is a blessing for those who do not think themselves to be good, but who long for goodness with all the vigor of their souls. And they desire with the same longing that righteousness and justice may be established in the world, and are willing to give themselves in whole-hearted endeavor for such an end. The heart of the heavenly Father goes out to His hungry and thirsty children. They shall be filled.

7-9. The Merciful are the kind-hearted, the patient, the forgiving.

To the pure in heart is promised the vision of God, and to the peacemakers, that they shall be called sons of God. Florence Nightingale, whose heroic pioneer work in nursing sick and wounded soldiers in time of war has made her name forever memorable, wrote the following words: "Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God—in all temptations, trials, and aridities, in the agony and bloody sweat, in the cross and passion; this is not the prerogative of the future life, but of the present." So Ruskin says that these words of promise, they shall see God, have always been understood by him as having reference, like the other Beatitudes, to actual human life, and not to some experience beyond the grave. It is here and now that the pure in heart see God. But impure and selfish thoughts and deeds obscure that vision of faith.

10. Which Are Persecuted. The disciples of Christ who heard these words were destined in after years to suffer much persecution. They must have often recalled them with great comfort, so that even in the midst of persecution they could rejoice. Compare 1 Peter 3: 14-18; James 1: 2-4.

Our Lord goes on to show His disciples further what must be the character of those who are to enter into the kingdom of God, and what their relation to the world about them. They must be like saving salt, like shining lights. In their life they must be obedient not merely to the letter, but to the spirit of their ancient law, which will find fulfilment in His gospel. Above all they must be governed by the law of love.

43-48. Compare Lev. 19: 18, 34 and Deut. 23: 6. While love was taught in the Old Testament, and even love to one's enemies, yet in the law, and in the Psalms there is preserved something of the ancient spirit of hatred. Jesus would make love supreme in every concern and relationship of life. For love is Godlike, and our human nature can only attain its best in Godlikeness. Even in war love must be still supreme. If we hate the evildoer, and seek to capture or drive off the evil doer, it must still be with genuine love for him and desire to do him good. Even if the stroke of death must be inflicted it must be with love and sorrow. Love makes perfect, and love only. Love fulfils every law. It is the "bond of perfectness."

The French Canadian Horse.

The French Canadian horse, which comparatively little known outside the province of Quebec, is claimed to be one of the most durable and otherwise useful horses to be found anywhere in Canada. In bulletin 95 of the Experimental Farms, the author, Mr. Gus Langelier, points out that this breed is descended from the old French Canadian pony, sent from France to Canada by Louis XIV. These ponies were the best that could be procured in their native land. They remained for three years the property of the king, and were then distributed among the farmers of Canada, in order to encourage the development of agriculture.

Some few years ago the pedigree records for the French Canadian horse, maintained by the Quebec Government, were transferred to the National Live Stock Records. Other steps have been taken to maintain the breed as pure as possible. One of the best methods, as pointed out in the bulletin which can be obtained from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, has been the establishment of a horse-breeding farm at St. Joachim, situated some twenty-five miles east of Quebec City. This farm, which is operated under the Experimental Farms system, has some thirty well selected good mares. These, together with a few of similar quality, kept on the is hoped to produce a superior new foundation stock for the breed.

Now that the bar has been abolished it is generally recognized that there should be some place of meeting where neighbors can get together for social purposes or for the discussion of public questions. A district hall, with reading room, library, rest room and kitchen, will serve so many uses that a community which is without one is seriously handicapped. Recognizing this the Ontario Government is offering to pay one-quarter of the cost (or at most $2,000) wherever such a community hall is erected. It stipulates that there shall be in connection therewith an athletic field for picnics, sports, school fairs and other neighborhood gatherings.

It is rather exasperating to realize that while the general mass of Canadians are hungrily reaching out for all kinds of fruit for which they are compelled to pay fairly high prices, the ground in many of the orchards of Ontario is lined by peaches and plums which are being left to rot on the ground.

What is it going to be—horse racing or fall fairs? This is a question that the Directors of all Agricultural Societies will have to decide during the coming year. The exhibits at fall exhibitions are fading away like the noonday flower, and the Board of directors who fail to put on a good horse race, fell short in their gate receipts and the fair pronounced to be a failure. The majority of citizens attend fall fairs to meet their friends and enjoy a program of sports. The school fair will probably be the substitute for fall fairs and may stimulate the enthusiasm and increase the exhibits for a few years, but we cannot get away from the fact that an entirely new program will have to be introduced to make fall fairs attractive.

To Stop Toothache

If you have toothache just press one of your big toes and the ache will disappear. That's zone therapy. It is the latest thing according to Dr. Wm. Fitzgerald of Hartford, Conn. He was one of the speakers on Wednesday before the Central Society of Physical Therapeutics, in convention in Chicago. "Your whole body" Dr. Fitzgerald explained, "is divided into ten perpendicular zones, corresponding to the ten toes or fingers. There are hundreds of little—what we might call electric buttons—on the body. If you press one you switch off the pain somewhere else. It's a sort of jiu jitsu: It is nature's own relief.

Coal at Shelburne?

Shelburne is a coal-crazy town. E. F. Logan, a farmer, whose place is situated about a mile north of the village, has recently been sinking an artesian well. Yesterday at a depth of about 100 feet the bore ran into a hard black substance, pronounced by those who seen it to be true coal and probably good grade anthracite. The seam struck appeared to be about 25 feet thick. The report of this and its probable value has yet to be verified by mining engineers but the dwellers in and around Shelburne are confident that the discovery is of tremendous importance and means great things for the district. Property values have already jumped 25 per cent, and according to Reeve Brown, land in the vicinity cannot be had at any price.

It is devoutly to be wished that we should get abundance of good coal in Ontario, but scientific men have given the idea little encouragement. What is found there is a species of lignite, a pretty low grade of coal, but a good quantity and plenty of it would be a great help as it fuel.

Suicide at Collingwood.

Mrs. Walter Morrison, of Collingwood, mother of five small children committed suicide by hanging on Monday morning. The family were intending to move to Duntroon on Tuesday and Mr. Morrison left the house early to get a team to move the first of their furniture, his wife staying behind to pack the dishes. The suicide was deliberate, the baby carriage being carried to an upstairs room, where a rope was tied to the handle and through a stove-pipe hole. The woman then climbed a chair, tied the rope around her neck and kicked the chair away. The youngest child is less than a year old.

It was stated that coal would probably be more plentiful next month with the closing of navigation on the upper lakes. At present the mines are sending the largest portion of their output to Western Canada, while they can take advantage of cheaper freight rates by water. With the closing of navigation in the near future, Toronto and Central Ontario district will come in for its share of attention.

Glen Fraser, aged 5 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Fraser, 4th con. of Huron, had both legs broken on Thursday last. One leg was broken below the knee and the other above the knee. Master Glen was in the yard and happened to pull a stick that was supporting the sides of a sleigh rack which fell on his legs. He is suffering considerable pain, but is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Amelia Lihou, who came to Owen Sound about four months ago from the little island of Alderney, in the English Channel, is the mother of 18 living children and four who are dead. She is 58 years old. One of her sons went down with the H.M.S. Goodhope off the Chilian coast. Eight sons are still living who served in the navy during the war. The daughters are all married with the exception of one, and every daughter's husband was a soldier.

The Making of 'Val' Pierce

By CONRAD RICHTER.

III.

Val passed on, approached the centre building, from which blue smoke fled, knocked on the open door and asked to see the boss. A common-looking workman in disillusioning faded blue shirt and overalls and high-topped shoes presented himself in the doorway.

"Job?" he ruminated. "Come in and get some cats. What can you do?"

"Not very much," admitted Val. "But I'm game to learn. The last job I had was running an automobile."

"Shofer for a rich man?"

"You might call it that," said Val.

"Well—Barney here's been belly-aching for a buddy since he come. He can break you in. Jake, quit your gawking at the young fellow and give him some beans and coffee." He turned to the youth in crude apology. "The fitch's all, but there's more where it came from. Charley, what the devil are you sticking around here for? You ought to be half way down to Murray Siding by this time."

"Oh, go hang yourself, Bill," said Charley affably, and strolled leisurely out in the direction of the stable.

Not daring to arouse suspicion by confessing that he had not slept the night before, Val accompanied Barney up the soft skidway to the standing timber. His hand wavered on the polished handle of the crosscut saw, but the first tree, a rock oak, driving to the ground, imparted a reacting sense of human power that strengthened the spirit.

Physically, he felt in purgatory. He perspired weakly, the midges and forest flies tormented his hot, moist face, and the food he had bolted at breakfast did not want to stay down. After a time the palm of each hand began to exhibit a row of bluish water blisters, which finally burst, and thenceforth burned and saw handles. By the end of the week, however, he had somewhat hardened. He was at least physically able to note the valley's evening hush as he camped stumbling back to the bunkhouse a step or two behind Barney, bitterly anathematizing himself for the mental shadow that prevented normal enjoyment. At this hour the valley seemed like a child down on its knees in prayer. The only sounds were the ceaseless monologue of the red-eyed vireo; the wild, elusive tinkle of the stream on the rocks and the occasional rumble of a prop wagon returning through the gap from Murray Siding.

A month passed, and he had learned to move a saw without wasted effort, to place the blade of his double-bit ax in accordance with his vision, to be forcefully tolerant of the midges and mosquitoes, to know the cough of the red squirrel from the bark of the gray; to name the swishing song of the high-perched indigo bunting, the mourn of the turtle dove, the foreboding of the black-billed cuckoo; to discriminate by taste and sight between birch and spice bush; to distinguish rock oak from chestnut and red oak, white oak from sour gum, pignut from ash; to answer in kind the rough banter of the other members of the crew; to fall into sound sleep with whip-poor-wills racing oratorically outside the window.

There were moments aplenty of distaste and rebellion, but a visualization of waiting prison masonry never failed to minimize his grievances. He felt like a student who, having done a forbidden lesson in the back of the book, turns front to find rudimentary tasks that had looked difficult before now seem comparatively simple. A few moments' reflection found him invariably tractable, eagerly willing to pay the price of midges, aches and sweat, for the boon of remaining free in this sequestered forest valley.

By the time October dispersed the mosquitoes, softened the sunlight, painted the mountains red and gold and impregnated the air with the tang of cold mornings, Val had let go into the tenor of Beaver Valley existence. He could not let go wholly, for there were nights when he tossed with remembrance of the past, and days when he could not unseat the feeling that the doors were closing in on him. Twice the unannounced arrival of tie inspectors from the railroad company sent him into a state of panic, and once a state forester in brown flannels and puttees, riding in from the state land office on Black Mountain, had actually put him to temporary flight.

Then, one Saturday afternoon, working in a strip of hemlock by the seasonally depleted stream, he became indefinitely conscious of some one watching him. Mechanically he continued lopping withered branches, but he gained some sense of direction, the perspiration, the fringe of hair on his forehead seemed to stand toward the watcher, and he turned toward the steep slope, but he could distinguish nothing except a long familiar gray rock prominent amid the mass of green, and a trio of turkey buzzards sailing silently up in the blue.

He was about to force himself back to work, when, for the fraction of a second, a flash of light flicked in his eyes. It was as if a small mirror on Black Mountain had reflected the sun across his face. Scarcely breathing, he realized that the lenses of a field glass might have done it. Unsteadily he studied the spot from which the flash had come, the foot of a lone pitch pine whose darker green foliage stood out perceptibly from the preponderance of hardwood.

"Barney," he asked, trying to remain calm, "can you see anything under that yellow pine over from that gray rock on Black Mountain?"

Barney concentrated his gaze on the point in question.

"Don't notice anything much in particular," he answered. "What's the idea?"

Val didn't answer. He was steadfastly watching the spot. As he looked, he would have sworn he saw a human figure retreat into the bushes near the bare trunk of the pine. He kept his eyes on the mountain until the effort brought the black dots swarming thickly in his vision, but the figure did not reappear.

He tried to continue work. The ax seemed an unwilling implement of lead. His hands had become unstrung and atremble. It struck him now how queer that he had never heard from Lou. Almost daily the teamsters brought mail for Jones. Barney received and wrote a lengthy letter once a week. But nothing had ever come for James Barth. Could the authorities have caught Lou in the murdered man's machine? Good Lord! Perhaps Lou had already confessed and this was the explanation of a spy on Black Mountain. Why, in heaven's name, had he stayed in Beaver Valley so long, when there were places where no one would know he had gone!

He tried to yawn naturally.

"Don't feel good," he mentioned to Barney. "Believe I'll call it a day." He drove his ax into the scarred hemlock trunk and started in the direction of the halting whine of the saw. Once out of Barney's sight, however, he cut swiftly to the flat on Sunset Mountain and made his way just inside of the edge of timber toward the path traveled daily to and from his home in Griffen valley by Davey, a freckled youth of fifteen or sixteen, who peeled chestnut posts and poles, the only member of the Beaver valley crew who did not work on Sunday.

He found the path with difficulty, a straight, pebbly course running like a tape up the cliff-like side of Sunset Mountain. Recovering his breath and strength on the summit, he sat glued to a lichen-tapestried rock by the sweeping expanse of view. Above the solid green wall of Black Mountain rose the dull blue of a second elevation; beyond, the hazier blue of a third and fourth. A fifth might have been cloud or imagination. From this pinnacle on Mount Olympus the earth seemed an endless panorama of lofty blue mountains whose complete numbers were hidden from mortal gaze by the drapery of the horizon.

For more than an hour he drank in the silent spectacle, then rose and crossed the narrow crest to view the land in the direction that he must go. Four successive mountains he counted on this side, and a fifth wedge-shaped mass whose summit towered kingly over the others. Below him lay Griffen valley, a peaceful, velvety basin of green, unbroken except by a patch of field which from this height glimmered like a mountain lake. He was wondering where he was going to spend the night, when the grating sound of rocks under shoe whirled him face about instantly.

Made a Difference.

In Scotland observance of the Sabbath is—or was—very strict, and manual labor on that day is looked on with horror. One Sunday the good wife of Jock was horrified to hear a great knocking in the garden. Going out, she found her husband hammering away at a barrow behind the trees.

"Ma gudness, Jock," said she, "what are ye doing; don't ye know it's the Sabbath?"

"Aye," replied Jock, "but I'm behind the trees, and I must knock the nails in."

Said his better half, "Hist, mon! why dinna ye use screws?"

Picot Edge and Hemstitching.

One can cut down the high cost of waists by making them at home but our home dressmaker did not know how to hemstitch the seams and hems of crepe and thin silks to look like those purchased ready made. Nor did she know how to put the tiny picot finish to edges of hems or ruffles.

Both of these finishes can be readily done by any woman who can run a sewing machine.

Suppose you wish to hemstitch the hems upon the front of a waist. Fold and press down the edge, then turn and press the hem the desired width, and cut off an eighth of an inch beyond the turned over edge. Then turn back an eighth of an inch at the edge of the large piece cut off. Baste this turned back edge upon the raw edge of the cut off hem, letting the raw edge extend a little beyond the folded edge.

Thread the machine with buttonhole twist, No. 30 white thread or No. 70 colored crocheted cotton, as top thread, and No. 50 cotton for bottom thread. Place the basted pieces over from 20 to 25 thicknesses of newspaper and stitch slowly. Tear off the paper carefully, a few layers at a time, open the seam, press flat, and then pull apart, so the row of hemstitching will show. Stitch down the folded edge of the large piece as close to the hemstitching as possible. Then turn the folded edge of the hem close to the stitching and stitch this also. These stitchings must be done with very fine thread. After a trial or two you will see just how it is done and a little and then proceeded to...

"I had found it necessary, on account of the astringency of the hard times and the general deficiency of circulation in me, in connection with this church, to interpose a new orthometric collection box. It is so arranged that a half dollar or quarter falls on a red plush cushion without noise; a nickel will ring a small bell distinctively heard by the congregation, and a suspendah-button, my fellow maitrels, will flash off a pistol; so you will govern yourselves accordingly. Let the collection now proceed, while I takes off my hat an' gibs out a hymn."

Cultivate the Saving Habit.

Money, safely invested, is the most faithful thing in the world. And every sensible person to-day should have some money invested. Money on deposit in a savings bank is invested just as much as money paid for a first-class security.

To be "broke" is a crime—nothing more. Crimes may be pardoned and sins forgiven; but the person who is absolutely "broke" is a fool—and for the fool there is little hope. I do not include the man who may be down and out because of accident. Such a condition may come to any of us; but he, or she, who by prudence and a very small quota of foresight might have sown a few dollars in the field of honest investment, and failed to do so, is not to be pitied.

The foundation of self-esteem is the successful conduct of your affairs. Be your own best friend. And remember that it is a legal as well as a psychological impossibility for money to earn more than a normal rate of interest.

Canada From Coast to Coast

Vancouver, B.C.—Rivers Inlet promises to be the fisherman's bonanza this year. Already nine canneries there have packed more than 100,000 cases of sockeye. At the prevailing price this represents $2,000,000.

In British Columbia there are now 2,149 separate district cities, towns, villages and settlements, an increase of 107 over last year. There are 826 post offices and 100 banks.

Calgary, Alta.—Federation of the Canadian Teachers' Alliance was effected here including the four western provinces and Ontario and representing 14,000 organized teachers.

Regina, Sask.—Changes in regulations respecting the standing granted to educational certificates issued in Great Britain have been made by the Department of Education with the expected result that more teachers from the old country will be attracted to Saskatchewan. Under the approved amendment teachers who have undergone two years training at a British college are granted a second class certificate and granted first class standing on an inspector's report.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Federal Government having approved the Manitoba Government programme of highway construction, a gravel highway to Lake Winnipeg, 45 miles long, has been commenced. It is expected 25 miles will be completed this year.

The highways approved are from Winnipeg to Lake Winnipeg, Winnipeg to Rainy River, Winnipeg to Emerson, Winnipeg south yesterday to Reston, connecting with the Saskatchewan highways there, Winnipeg through Portage la Prairie and Brandon to Elkhorn, and Portage la Prairie through Gladstone and Minnedosa to connect with the Saskatchewan system at Russell.

J. G. Cowper, Secretary of the British Dominion Immigration Society, predicts a still greater influx of immigrants from the British Isles to Canada. The society has for its aim the peopling of undeveloped portions of the British Empire with British people and has operated in this country for many years. The society is supported by voluntary subscriptions and much success has attended its settling work in Canada.

Toronto, Ont.—Canadian woollen mills which have had a representative in Europe securing business have received orders aggregating $10,000,000 and these are now being placed among the mills of Canada.

Montreal, P.Q.—Canada's immigration commissioners, who have just returned after six months spent in the British Isles, predict that as soon as transportation facilities are adequate the greatest wave of settlers on record will roll into the Dominion. The commissioners have selected six hundred settlers under the Soldiers' Settlement plan from thousands of applicants, and the new arrivals will bring with them wealth ranging up to $50,000 and averaging $5,000.

Halifax, N.S.—Preparations are now being made for the erection of a new tuberculosis hospital in the City of Halifax, the contract being awarded to Messrs. Rhodes, Curry & Company of Amherst, N.S., their tender being $160,000.

Sydney, Cape Breton—Major Burton, representing the Empire Silica Company, has purchased in the vicinity of 60,000 acres of land near Whycomagh, Victoria Co., for the establishment of a fire brick industry. The building programme in the city of Halifax has been seriously delayed on account of the cement shortage. The plants of the Sydney Cement and Brick Co. have been consolidated and are also reviving this important industry.

FOILED ATTEMPT TO ROB MAIL TRAIN

Irish Railway Traffic Superintendent Scares Off Raiders and Arrests One.

A despatch from Belfast, Ireland, says:—Henry Forbes, a railway traffic superintendent, recently foiled an attempt to rob a mail train at Drumbar, a lonely halt on the Donegal Ballyshannon section of the line. Nine armed men sprang from concealment and held up the train crew. Some of them proceeded to ransack the mails, but Forbes left his compartment on the offside of the train and creeping along the footboard, revolver in hand, surprised the men who were holding up the driver and fireman.

Forbes opened fire and the men bolted for the station waiting room, from where they returned his shots. The other raiders made off across the cornfields pursued by Forbes, who captured one man and eventually handed him over to the police.

Peary's Flag Found Far From North Pole

A despatch from Copenhagen says:—The United States flag which Commodore Peary planted at the North Pole has been found 400 miles away from its original geographical point. After an expedition of sixteen months in the Arctic regions, full of privation and hardship, Captain Godfred Hanson, leader of the Amundsen auxiliary, has returned here. He stated that while laying food depots along the Amundsen trail he found, 400 miles from the North Pole, the Peary flag intact in the ice.

Sensational Turn in Dublin Strike

A despatch from Dublin says:—The port strike here has taken on a sensational turn. The Lord Mayor called upon the striking men to return to work for the sake of their country. He made no reference to the matters in dispute. Seamen and firemen had been on strike for increased wages since early in October. The dismissal of thousands of dock workers followed, since which time the port has been almost completely closed. The men immediately replied that for the sake of patriotism they would resume work within an hour.

Grievances.

Strong men rise above the slings and arrows of censure, from those whose ignorance has made them fearless to rush in and say their say. Some of the censors, no doubt, think it their duty to be frank, and think that they have performed a service when they have ranted against some worthy work because they dislike a particular feature of it. They think they deserve to be admired for their courage and their candor in speaking out when others hold their peace.

The men and women carrying the burden, enduring the heat of the day, performing the tasks that others drop because there is no glory, must be content to let the event justify them if there is to be a justification. They must, as in Kipling's "If," bear to hear the truth they've spoken "twisted by knives to make a trap for fools." They read that whole fine poem for their comfort. Their motives are misinterpreted. They are the prey of the whole tribe of backbiters and gossip-mongers.

But they have no time to waste in venting their grievances. They have no time to parade their injured innocence or to air their integrity. They are too busy to apologize and explain. The work must be done; they must do what the avid chorus of carping critics leaves unperformed.

If a man once embarks in the business of retelling hard-luck stories he is always certain of a stock-in-trade, but he finds a glutted market. He had better remain on the job, doing something that counts, something that the earth wants done.

There is no pest, in fact, like the man with a grievance; the man who has a "chronic complaint." We all have troubles of our own, and the fact that we have them enables us to sympathize. One who has "been there" understands another soul's perplexity or misery. But we do not show our compassion and our understanding merely by adding burdens to shoulders already laden. The man who carries his cross and endures his sorrow with courage, and even with good cheer, is the useful servant of his kind. Those who make a fuss about mere trifles often go for support and comfort to those who with shining faces are enduring trials of magnitude, refusing to be crushed, refusing to proclaim a sorrow.

CONFERENCE WILL MEET IN BRUSSELS

France and England Will There Discuss Question of Reparations.

A despatch from Brussels says:—France and England will participate in a conference to be held in Brussels soon relative to reparations, according to the London correspondent of the Libre Belgique. He says propositions by German experts will be received at the conference by an inter-allied commission, which will then report to the different allied Governments. The correspondent adds that Premier Delacroix is reported to have succeeded in bringing the British Government to accept the viewpoint of France relative to an abandonment of the financial conference which had been planned to be held at Geneva.

HOUSE DEMOLISHED AND SEVEN KILLED

Explosion in Residence at Tintern, County of Wexford, Ireland.

A despatch from Dublin says:—Seven men were killed, five wounded, and two are missing as a result of an explosion in a house at Tintern, Wexford County, according to the official report. The statement adds that it is believed they were experimenting with bombs. The house, which was regarded as unoccupied, was completely demolished. The five wounded are in custody.

And Find It. Some men never marry because they spend all their lives courting trouble.

ELEVEN MILLIONS OF WAR ORPHANS

League of Red Cross Societies' Urgent Appeal to British Empire.

An urgent appeal for aid to combat the widespread disease and distress in the war-stricken areas in Europe has been made by the League of Red Cross Societies to the nations which have suffered least from the war. In response a War Relief Fund has been undertaken in Great Britain with an Empire-wide appeal for contributions. The Fund is under the immediate patronage of His Majesty the King and has the support of all parts of the Empire.

His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, having received communications from London on this matter, consulted the Prime Minister, and with his approval referred the question to the Canadian Red Cross Society, and it was arranged for an appeal to be made during Armistice Week, in November. The fund will be known as the British Empire War Relief Fund.

The Canadian Red Cross Society accepted the task of making this appeal known throughout Canada only in view of the relentless circumstances and the humane desire to help to alleviate the terrible sufferings of a large number of peoples. The reasons are numerous and compelling. Large populations are suffering from distress and disease and millions of innocent children are among them.

Many Employees Laid Off At Atlantic Sugar Plant

A despatch from St. John, N.B., says:—Many employees have been laid off at the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, and it was stated here yesterday that the plant may be practically idle for a month.

DAY OF HIGH PRICES IN ENGLAND IS BELIEVED TO BE PASSED

London Papers Announce That "War Boom is Over"—Substantial Reduction in Living Costs in Recent Months.

A despatch from London says:—The high cost of living in England is at an end. The "war boom is over," according to the London newspapers who announce the fact with prominently displayed streamers across their front pages. They indicate that the English are optimistic of giving the knockout blow very soon to the remaining high prices.

During the past six months the average fall in prices on raw materials has been thirty per cent. Rubber products have come down fifty per cent., tin has tumbled twenty-five per cent., copper six per cent., merino wool forty-five per cent., and American cotton thirty per cent.

The only sensational decline among food staples, however, was the thirty per cent. drop in the price of sugar. Declaring that the output has now outstripped the purchasing power, the London Times says that the "high tide of artificial prosperity has at last begun to ebb in the United States."

"The decline in England has been more rapid," the Times points out. "This was caused by the reduction in quotations by the sellers of goods in this country."

That there may be an industrial effect from the slump in prices is feared, as but a portion of woollen workers, cotton operatives and workers in automobile, leather, hosiery and lace trades, are now without employment.

The bankers are paying serious attention to the statement from the financial conference at Brussels that eleven out of twelve European states will have budget deficits this year. They declare this necessitates further monetary inflation, preventing the fall in the cost of living on the continent.

Exchange rates have resulted in another curtailment of exports from United States and from England.

Airplane to be Flown Back.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—The F-3 flying boat, in which Col. Robert Leckie and Major Basil Hobbs flew from Riviere du Loup, Que., to Winnipeg, in the trans, Canada flight, will be flown back from Winnipeg to Halifax to permit of a survey being made of the territory covered in the flight.

A Letter From London

Though a keen yachtsman and a fine sailor, King George never steers his own vessel, as did Charles II. The first yacht race in British waters of which we have record was a match between the Merry Monarch and his brother James. The course was from Whitehall to Greenwich and back for a stake of 100 guineas. The Royal brothers steered their own yachts and the King won.

Queen Mary has never been able to overcome a feeling of nervousness whenever she finds it necessary to ride on horseback. This feeling is certainly not shared by Princess Mary, who is the most dashing horsewoman amongst living Royalties.

An archery court is being fixed up at Balmoral for Princess Mary, who is very interested in the pastime. She has an extraordinarily accurate eye, and were she to shoot game it is said she would be a rival to her father, the King. It is a boast of hers that "she has never killed anything and is never likely to."

A flying officer tells me that while the Duke of York was never an enthusiastic sailor, his keenness for aviation knows no bounds. He subscribes to every British and foreign journal on the subject and loves to talk air "shop" with officers in the R.A.F.

Unlike King Edward, who seldom wore the same clothes on many occasions, King George has a great affection, I am told, for old garments. This is particularly the case in respect of gloves, and his valets have to use considerable tact and persuasion to induce His Majesty to put on a new pair when the replacing of old favorites is essential.

The Prince of Wales has all the virtues," wrote an enthusiast during his Canadian trip. "He is good-looking. He is amiable. He can make a speech. He has a sense of humor. He knows how to shake hands. And he dresses well."

I confess I do not know what tailor the Prince of Wales patronizes, but I hope, whoever he is, he shows a different spirit from that which the late King Edward's tailor ever exhibited. The tailor was the great Poole, of Saville Row, and he remarked to King Edward (then Prince of Wales) at a social gathering to which he had been invited:

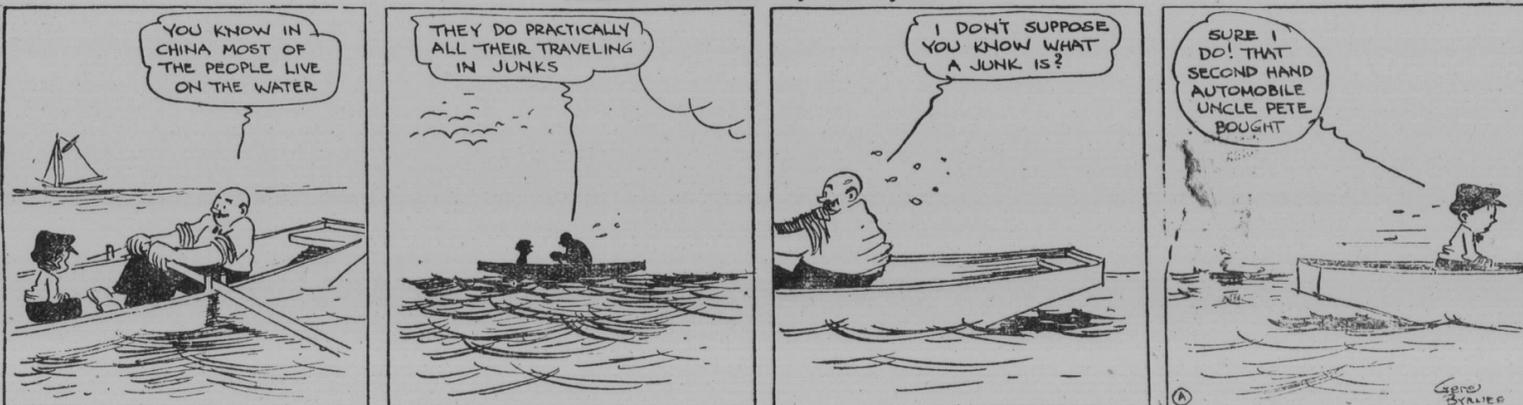

"The company's a bit mixed, you know, sir!"

"Hang it all, Poole," replied the prince, "we can't all be tailors!"

The Princess Royal does a lot of angling when she is in Scotland during the fishing season. The Duchess of Portland is another adept in the art, and is of opinion that fishing is the most restful amusement in the world. Another expert is the Duchess of Northumberland.

Many famous people possess nicknames bestowed upon them by their intimates. I was told the other day that among the many employees of his huge business Sir Thomas Lipton is always known as "The Trier."—Big Ben.

New regulations for the luxury and other taxes came into force November 1st. One requires that wholesalers dealing in articles coming under the retail luxury tax must not sell to retailers unless the latter have their license, which costs $2. The luxury tax is to be collected by means of stamps which may be secured from the department, all customs offices or from the banks. Machines required for cancelling stamps by perforation will be issued on loan to merchants.

Killed By Lightning.

During the severe electrical storm that passed over this district on Monday evening and which was especially severe around Linwood and Hawkesville, lightning struck the barn belonging to Mr. Valentine Foerster, near Hawkesville, killing him and two horses and a cat, which was sitting at his feet. Mrs. Foerster, who was engaged in milking a few feet away escaped unhurt. There were two holes burned in Mr. Foerster's shirt and his breast was singed. A peculiar thing about the incident was a horse at each end of the stable was killed and those between escaped. The gable end of the barn was also damaged but fortunately there was no fire started. Mr. Foerster had no family, but is survived by his wife. He was 49 years of age.

Keep An Account.

If it is a disagreeable or difficult thing for you to keep an account of your expenses, it is a pretty good sign that you ought to do so. If at the end of the week you wonder what has become of your salary, the chances are that the nickels and dimes are slipping away without doing you any real good. And if, when looking over your week's expenditures, you feel ashamed of their trivial or selfish character, that is another good evidence that you need to keep a strict account of the way you use your money. Thousands of young people fall into extravagance, who might have laid a very different foundation by forcing themselves to consider, week by week, whether they have used their income, large or small, as wisely as possible.

The Last Laugh.

He was a very young officer, who looked as if he should be wearing knee breeches.

One day when his company was up for inspection at the training camp, one of the men remarked in a tone of deep sarcasm, "And a little child shall lead them."

"The man who said that, step forward," was the immediate command. The entire company stepped out and repeated the quotation.

The lieutenant looked up and down the line. "Dismissed" he announced shortly.

The men thought they had gotten the better of him, but not for long, for that night at retreat when the orders for the following day were read, they heard: "There will be a twenty-five mile hike to-morrow with full equipment, and a little child shall lead them—on a damned good horse."—Exchange.

New C.P.O.S. Liner.

The Empress of Canada, a twin screw geared turbine oil burning passenger liner, built to the order of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Limited, especially for their trans-Pacific service, was recently launched at the yards of the Fairfield Ship Building & Engineering Co., Limited, Govan, Scotland.

The christening ceremony, which was performed by Mrs. G. M. Bosworth, the wife of the chairman of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Limited, went through without a hitch.

The ship is 653 ft. long, 77 ft. 9 ins. wide and has a depth to the bridge deck of 53 ft. 6 ins. Her gross tonnage is about 22,000 tons, and she is arranged to carry about 490 first class, 106 second class, 238 third class passengers and 547 of a crew. Of the cargo spaces, a large portion has been fitted for the carriage of silk. The ocean speed is about 21 knots. The vessel is built to the highest class of Lloyd's register, to full Board of Trade requirements and sub-divided in full accordance with the requirements of the Bulkhead convention.

A complete system of telephones with a central exchange is fitted to the special and private suites and various offices, etc.

The dining saloon is on the upper deck and will accommodate 325 persons, a large reception room is situated forward of the dining saloon with passenger elevator at the fore end; on this deck also is a swimming pool 30 ft. long by 18 ft. wide, and a gymnasium.

Throughout the vessel special attention is everywhere given to the fact that the Empress of Canada is to serve in semi-tropical climate; public rooms are therefore large and airy and the ventilation amply arranged. The maiden voyage of the Empress of Canada will be a tour of the world, starting from Liverpool, March 15, 1921.

Breaking the News Gently.

In our opinion, says the Kansas City Times, this Higginsville soldier deserves the medal for skill in breaking bad news. His letter said:

"How is everyone at home? I am fine and dandy. Say, mother, you ought to have seen my new bed last night. It was one of the nicest white iron beds, with springs, mattresses, sheets, blankets and a soft pillow. It was in a hospital, where I am now. The front is the only place I see any fun now. As I haven't been paid for six months, I am near broke.

Long Thumb—Strong Will.

If the top joint of your thumb is long, it shows that you have good will power. Well-developed, reasoning faculties are possessed by those people who have thumbs, the second joints of which are long.

Thumbs that work easily are owned by careless, happy-go-lucky, spend-thrift individuals. A stiff, firm-jointed thumb, however, shows that the person is keen, tactful, self-possessed, and cautious—the sort of man who will get on in the world.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for the little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculee Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right, and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Peaceful Autumn.

Golden-rod waving in veiled air; Michaelmas daisies, too, so fair. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

A glance doth prove all Nature's working. Not a leaf its task is shirking. In late blossoms bees are lurking. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

Foreward'd by the receding sun, The birds' long journeys have begun. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

Granaries are overflowing, Golden pumpkins, moon-like, glowing; Near the river cattle lowing. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

Drawing his bow across his wings, The lively music master sings. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

Flaming maples, beauty giving, Voices of all creatures living, Join in chorus of Thanksgiving. Peaceful Autumn, Peaceful Autumn.

Your Promised Land.

Mebbe we ain't all in clover, But we're goin' to play our part; Got so much for to say grace over, Dunno where to start! It's a fine old world, Where the blessings fall, Till you can't get 'round To count 'em all! Crystals of sodium nitrate made by a Paris scientist are so pure they can be used in optical instruments.

Jack Tar's Jargon.

As soon as anything new comes to the lives of our sailors they at once find a nickname for it, says a London weekly. Thus, when wireless came, its operators were immediately dubbed "Sparks" by the entire Navy.

Weird and strange is the vocabulary of our sea dogs. Almost all words seem to serve—provided they have no apparent relation to the thing referred to. A soldier is a "grabby" or "leather-neck." But a "soldier's wind" means nothing military—it is merely a fair breeze.

A marine calls his bluejacket pal a "flatfoot," in return for which he is hailed as "Joey." The ship's cook is "slushy," and an artificer is "chippy chap." Even the chaplain does not escape. He is the "devil dodger."

A grumbler "flogs the cat," while a bad-tempered man "lies under the truck." A "schooner on the rocks" isn't as ominous as it sounds—it is just a pan of vegetables; while preserved meat is "Fanny Adams." A "fanny," however, is a lot of rum.

A funny man is "Cuts," and a storyteller is "Tom Pepper." "Gold dust," of course, is the paymaster, though the less respectful call him "Pusser" and "Paybob." The commander is the "bloke."

A "holiday" isn't a good time, it is a gap left in the clothes-line when washed garments are hung up to dry. A "handy billy" is a small pulley; and the "bullgines" drive the ship. The order "Haul away handsomely!" does not mean pull hard, but pull slowly and carefully.

A gunner is "Buo lights," because he is responsible for the "fireworks." The master-at-arms is "Jaunty"; a ship's corporal a "crusher"; a petty officer is "Tanky."

"Sailors are 'matloes," and "Andrew is the Navy."

FREQUENT HEADACHES A DANGER SIGNAL

The Victim Nearly Always Suffers From Weak, Watery Blood.

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery than nervous or sick headaches. Only those who have endured the suffering, sometimes for days at a stretch, can realize the agony of the victims. Noises increase the pain; food is unthought of, for it only adds to the distress. When the attack is on there is little to be done until it passes away. These headaches are nearly always a danger signal that too frequently pass unheeded. They are the symptoms of many maladies, such as anaemia, constipation, indigestion, etc., and when these are cured the headaches permanently disappear. Headaches are more often a sign of weak, watery blood than anything else, and the most successful treatment, therefore, is a remedy that will rebuild the blood and make it rich and red. This can best be done through a fair course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which has a special action on the blood, and through the blood on the nerves. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases due to poor, watery blood, such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, after effects of influenza, neuralgia, etc. The effectiveness of this tonic treatment is illustrated in the following case: Mrs. Geo. Arn, R.R. No. 6, Simcoe, Ont., says: "Some years ago my daughter, then a young girl of eleven, became very much run down and nervous. She was troubled greatly with sick headaches, and frequently with vomiting spells, and although we lived just across the road from the school, she was not able to attend. She was taking medicine all the time, but it did not seem to do her any good. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally decided to give them to her. By the time she had taken two boxes she seemed much better, and before the fifth box was finished, she was again in the best of health and has always since enjoyed the best of health. I am satisfied it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that restored her, and I have since seen equally good results in other cases."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

That Grievance.

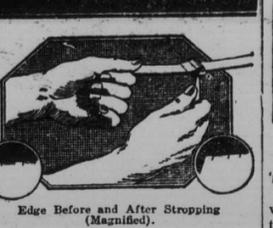

Have you got a grievance? We most of us have; yet harboring a grievance is one of the most foolish forms of hoarding.

Women usually have a great many more grievances than men. They are more introspective, also more intuitive. They feel even the slights they cannot see. Men are more frank with one another. If they are annoyed they say so; women sometimes smile, even when they feel very hurt.

It is a well-known fact that many women-run concerns—including clubs—break down owing to disagreements among the ladies. Women take offence, and as has been said already, they do not always show it, but they nurse a grievance, until it becomes a bitter sense of wrong and a heavy mind burden.

Now, why shouldn't we have any grievances? It's wrong and un-Christian, of course, but never mind that for the minute; we must avoid them out of expediency. They will hurt us far more than the person against whom we feel aggrieved.

I have a relation—we most of us have—who almost always has a "quar-

Edge Before and After Stropping (Magnified).

It's the stropping that counts!

Any razor is soon ruined by unskilled stropping. There is one and one only razor that sharpens itself—the AutoStrop Razor. You can't strop it wrongly—just slip the strop through the frame and a few strokes to and fro will renew the blade edge.

Any dealer will demonstrate the AutoStrop Razor to you, guarantee satisfaction, or refund of purchase price.

rel" on with some member of the family. Someone has not invited her, or they have slighted her, or done or left undone something, and she seizes upon it, and has a "grievance." This grievance she carefully nurses until it becomes a full-grown child of real unhappiness.

It's a nasty, spoilt child, too, and she always brings it with her when she comes to call, and lets it annoy you while she shows it off.

Of course, we can all make grievances. They are easily made—you needn't work overtime to get them done. You only want a great sense of your own importance, much conceit, a narrow outlook, and a thorough want of sympathy with everyone else to start a whole crop of grievances.

So let's get rid of them before they spoil our lives. We must throw them off, and make an effort to leave them on the sands of Time. Let the broad sea of selfishness and understanding sweep them away into its depths.

Oh, What a Surprise!

The christening had gone off splendidly, and even the very juvenile "star" had behaved beautifully; though the name he had received, "Reginald Homer," would seem to be sufficient justification for a revolt.

In the vestry afterwards, the clergyman was making the usual entries. When writing down the second name, he paused thoughtfully.

"Strange," he thought, as he recalled the original Homer, the great Greek poet. "It's a curious name for the sonny of a navy."

Then he turned to the proud father. "Your favorite poet?" he asked, pointing to the name.

"Poet, sir," repeated the man, with a surprised look. "Poet, sir? Lor, no; I keeps pidgins!"

MONEY ORDERS.

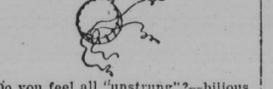

When ordering goods by mail send a Dominion Express Money Order.

Although wool prices declined to some extent this season, farmers should not be too anxious to get out of the sheep business. A fair-sized flock of sheep on the average farm will never be a losing proposition.

The tendency among shippers of farm produce, in view of increased railroad freight rates, is to favor good roads and the use of motor trucks. Will any but the highest type of road meet the demands of the increased amount of heavy traffic, and will the cost of such roads be less than the increased cost of railroad freight service?

CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

Do you feel all "unstrung"?—bilious, constipated, headachy, full of cold? Cascarets-to-night for your liver and bowels will have you tuned up by tomorrow. You will wake up with your head clear, stomach right, breath sweet, and skin rosy. No griping—no inconvenience. Children love Cascarets too. 10, 25, 50 cents.

Thought He Knew Better.
Johnny paid his first visit to a farm the other day. All his life he had lived in the heart of a great city, and when he suddenly came in sight of a hay-stack, he stopped and gazed earnestly at what appeared to him as a new brand of architecture.

"Say, Mr. Smith," he remarked to the farmer, pointing to a haystack, "why don't they have doors and windows in it?"
"Doors and windows!" smiled the farmer. "That ain't a house, Johnny, that's hay."

"Don't try to kid me, Mr. Smith!" was the scornful rejoinder. "Don't you suppose I know that hay don't grow in humps like that!"

Beyond Expression.
An elderly lady was questioning the ex-artilleryman. "And what was the most terrible sight you witnessed in the war?" she said.

"Well it was like this," replied the soldier. "We had just spotted a German machine gun nest with about twelve enemy gunners that were holding up our advance. We located the nest and put the first shot right in the middle of the Jerries."

"How dreadful!" interrupted the old lady, "did it kill them all?"
"No'm," replied the soldier sadly, "it was a dud."

Make Love—Live Long.

The art of love-making has a direct influence on the heart and blood. It stimulates the working capacity of the former organ, and keeps it up to concert pitch. As a result, the blood circulates with greater strength, and every part of the body is accordingly strengthened.

Love-making, moreover, has a very decided influence in stimulating the working of the liver. Patent medicines would have to go out of business to a considerable extent if the world were more generally given to the art of making love with genuine feeling.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO.

With around 2400 cattle at the Union Stock Yards Monday, altho the receipts were light, the market did not show any improvement; on the other hand the tendency was toward lower prices.

Reports from Buffalo and other outside points were very discouraging.

There was a fair demand for some good and choice butcher cattle and some heavy steers with weight—that is, 1,000 lbs and up yards.

For milch cows and springers the better class were in demand. It being a holiday, the trading was slow all round, but the prospects are not very encouraging for all classes of cattle for the future, and at the close a good many cattle were left unsold. Many western cattle were in the yards during the day, a number of which were billed thru to Buffalo, Lancaster and other points south.

With around 8000 lambs on sale the market again sold off very sharply—a good dollar a hundred—the top on the general run of the lambs being around 11½¢ a lb, though a few odd lots pretty closely sorted might and did bring a little more money. The sheep trade was easier in sympathy, being from 5½ to 6½¢ lb. The calf trade might be said to be holding about steady.

For to-day's delivery of hogs the packers are talking 18½¢ f.o.b. and 19½¢ fed and watered, but it is hard to say whether they will get them for that or not.

While we in Canada have been rejoicing in almost uninterrupted sunshine for many weeks, we ought to give a sympathetic thought to our friends over in England where they have had one of the worst seasons on record, both in the amount of rainfall and in the absence of sunlight.
