Money Borrowed to Pay Gambling Losses is Not Gambling Debt—Verdict by Justice Dugas.

From Friday's Daily. Judgment was rendered this morning by Justice Dugas in a suit which has become somewhat famous inasmuch as the action was one instituted to recover money advanced for the purpose of settling a gambling debt.

The opinion of his lordship upon the question is as follows: The proof established that the plaintiff is proprietor of a licensed saloon called the "Dominion saloon," and that the back part of it is occupied, with the consent of the plaintiff, by one Sparks, or was at all events on the 4th day of May last, as a gambling room.

REGARDING "DOGGIES"

They Must be Fuzzled or Impounded and Killed.

From the number of "dear doggies" which are seen roaming the street unmuzzled and untaxed it would appear that the idea has become indelibly impressed in the minds of the owners that the recent order allowing the dogs their freedom also relieved the owners from any further responsibility concerning them.

James Adair was called before Magistrate McDonnell this morning charged with allowing his dog to run at large without a muzzle. The information was laid against the wrong person, but the proper owner of the dog appeared instead of Adair and notwithstanding the elaborate explanation he made of how his dog had stolen away while eating his supper and how he was the "innocentest and harmlesst" mastiff dog that ever lived the magistrate found him guilty of the charge and fined him $5 and costs.

Good Tennis Last Night. Last evening one of the best matches of the season was played between Dufferin Pattullo (owe 2 1/2) and O. S. Finnie (owe 30). Pattullo opened the first set in splendid style winning easily the first three games by excellent drives and volleys at the net.

HUNKER SPEEDWAY

Superintendent of Public Works Tache Will Construct Bois de Klondike

That Will Be Modern Bicycle Road And Extend From Ogilvie Bridge to Mouth of Hunker

ALONG WORLD-FAMED RIVER

Mr. Tache Will Make This Finest Driveway in Territory as Monument to Himself as an Officer

From Friday's Daily. Dawson is to have a speedway, one that perhaps is not as long, not as elaborately constructed, nor as fast a track as its namesake along the shores of the Hudson, but one which when completed will prove a revelation to those who traverse it for the first time and a joy forever to such as can afford the luxury of a horse and carriage.

It was first proposed the road should closely follow the foot hills, that location being considered the better one, but Mr. Tache has later decided upon the old foot trail which the entire distance lies along the river bank.

Bolled the Body. San Jose, Cal., July 12.—The body of Lee Wing, a Chinese, who was murdered last March by highlanders, was boiled in an iron cauldron last night by order of the county authorities.

Forest Fires Are Raging. Denver, July 19.—Forest fires are raging in two sections of the state and it is feared that they will destroy a vast amount of property before they can be controlled or extinguished.

RECEIVED BY WIRE. CAPTURED A WOMAN

Situation in South Africa Continues Gloomy.

London, July 19, via Skagway, July 19.—Lord Kitchener in a dispatch to the war department confirms the report of the capture of the wife of Acting President Schalkberger and says the prisoner has been brought to Pretoria.

Returning British officers do not speak hopefully of the situation in South Africa. They report that the railways and small zones are securely held by the British around Bloemfontein, Pretoria and Johannesburg, and that in those localities the natives are settled down and have resumed their usual occupations.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

In Case of McLaughlin Charged With Forcible Entry.

In the police court yesterday afternoon J. McLaughlin was on trial before Magistrate Scarth charged with forcibly entering and taking possession of the Yukon stables on Third street, the same being at the time owned and controlled by Jonas Bergman and Frank Wishard.

All of his coaxing was of no avail, the door remaining securely locked and it was only through the efforts of the police that he could get possession of his place of business.

Alexander was also put on the stand and testified that Bergman had left him in charge of the business while he had gone to see what was wanted at the Dominion saloon and that while Bergman was away he (Alexander) had stepped into Hadley's stables which are located in close proximity and had been gone about two minutes; when he returned he found the doors securely fastened and saw McLaughlin inside the building.

Attorney Clarke appeared for the defendant and asked for a dismissal of the case on the ground that it was a civil dispute and not a criminal case.

Since writing you we learn that the report emanating in Seattle of our barges being in trouble is all false.

From Dutch Harbor to St. Michael the coast would be closely followed and on any indication of a storm shelter would be sought in one of the many harbors which line the shore.

There is not a pound of freight on the barges, therefore, all attempts to frighten Dawson merchants who are saving $50 per ton shipping their goods by St. Michael are futile.

Besides, if these wood-laden barges had gone to Davy Jones' locker, what would there be in the story to warrant a four-column, poster type head?

It is a rank case of crying "wolf" to frighten those to whom it looks for support into permitting themselves to be further ground down by the W. P. & Y. R.

At noon today the Nugget received the following telegram: "Skagway, July 19.—There has been no heavy weather along the coast for some weeks."

STROLLER'S COLUMN.

Sulphur Creek, July 15, 1904. Dear Stroller:

While I should be one of the happiest women in the Yukon I am probably one of the most miserable. My days are filled with fearful expectancy and my nights—well, for nightmares, they discount a livery stable.

I am a bride of only seven weeks, having come in early this season to marry my husband, as good a man as ever lived, kind-hearted, loving and, between ourselves, he washes the dishes.

But he snores to beat any fog horn ever heard on a Puget sound sand spit. He snores both in and out like a cross-cut saw, the most gigantic, terrific, outlandish snorer that ever snored.

What I want you to tell is this: What can I do? I love my husband—I adore him when he is awake, but I never sleep a minute when he does.

For the past two weeks I have taken a quiet sneak after he begins to snore and have gone out and set on a stump and read a novel until 6 o'clock in the morning.

Now this is a new one on the Stroller who is never troubled by snoring men. Honestly, he is in a box as to what to tell the poor woman to do.

Some years ago when the Stroller was in the callow days of young manhood he was en route to New Orleans to attend the annual Mardi Gras.

He was a passenger on a way train from the Florida peninsula to Thomasville, Georgia, where he could take a New York and New Orleans sleeper on the through train from the former place.

While yet on the way train and when between the towns of Pinderville and Happy Day the baggage car cultivated a hot box and it was necessary to stop until it could be cooled.

Only one person of 20 or more in the smoking car was asleep and he was what is known as a wiregrass cracker who, when curled up on the car seat did not look larger than a 10-year-old boy, his head and feet being about the only portions of him visible, and the way and tone in which he was snoring was frightful to hear.

While the train was running the partially fattened car wheels had made such a din that the noise made by the sleeper had been unnoticed but when the train stopped it was a terror.

Frogs in the ponds outside felt outdone and quit and the passengers within stormed, swore and raved but to no avail.

At length the sleeper was silent for nearly a minute after which he gave a snort that caused the dimly burning lamps to tremble in their brackets.

And the Stroller, in a basso-profundo voice, yelled "put him out." Then it was that the bundle on the seat began to uncoil and stand up on the floor.

Little by little it got the kinks out of itself and at the end of a minute it stood up in majestic splendor, thin as a pole but 6½ feet high and with a gap in its right hand that looked as big as the hind leg of a horse.

There was a cold glitter in his eyes as he raised his gun and directing his remarks to the party in general said: "Put out to me the one that suggested that I be put out."

STEPS TO RETIRE GOLD DUST

Business Men Cooler Today With Commissioner Ross.

Letter Will Submit Question of Law Against Using Dust as Exchange to Legal Advisor.

From Friday's Daily
The question of the retirement of gold dust as a medium of exchange which was discussed this spring has been revived and the revivers hope for the accomplishment of better results than accompanied the former agitation. A committee composed of a number of the leading merchants including H. C. Macmillan, R. P. McCannan, P. Palmer, H. Teffler and others met with Commissioner Ross at noon today and the question was discussed. No action was taken, the matter being left to the commissioner who has agreed to look into the question and confer with the legal advisor concerning the possibility of legislating the gold dust from the exchange market.

The propositions submitted to Commissioner Ross for consideration were first to provide legislation, enforcing the law as it now stands which would have the desired effect and in case that did not meet with general approval another proposition to pass legislation compelling all dust to be cleaned before being used as a medium of exchange.

A number of business men were seen this afternoon and it seems to be a very general opinion that if some means can be provided whereby the gold dust can be retired so that no one's business or the miners themselves will be injured thereby it would be a very wise move.

The question is considered one of many sides and will require careful study from every point of view.

Several meetings were held early this spring by the Board of Trade and the subject was pretty thoroughly discussed by the business men and the miners side of the question was also heard and the subject at the end of the discussion was referred to come up for consideration some time this summer. The agitation has been renewed and the matter is in the hands of Commissioner Ross is assured a careful consideration and a practical solution of the difficult question if one can be found.

Tennis Tournament.

The tournament of the Yukon Lawn Tennis Club and the games of cricket which have been played during the last week have rekindled the interest in local sporting events which for some time past has been on the wane.

The game which is scheduled for tonight will be one of great interest if it is played as announced.

The N. W. M. P. cricket team has issued a challenge to the Gandolfo baseball team for a game of cricket and also a game of baseball. The cricket team does not know anything of the game of baseball and the baseball team will take its first lesson at the game of cricket so that it is the general expectation that the both games will be made interesting by the lack of knowledge each team possesses of the opposing team's game.

Tomorrow afternoon a match game of cricket will be played at the barracks grounds between the Forks team and a picked team from among the players in Dawson. Both teams have now had some practice and should play a lively game.

Nat Darling's baseball team has again become disorganized which accounts for the fact that no game of baseball has been played recently. The Gandolfo team is still intact and is making arrangements for a game with the Forks team to be played some time in the near future.

One of the Civil Service lacrosse players was deploring the lack of interest which the lacrosse players are taking in the game this year. He said that it has been a hard task to get enough players to make up one team and thus far it has been an impossibility to get two teams on the ground at one time. Some of the players are practicing once in a while, but unless they play more they will not be repaid for the money invested in the new lacrosse outfit bought this year.

As a number of the football players are cricket players as well, the interest which is now being taken in the latter game has slackened to some extent the interest which earlier in the season animated the former. However, as cooler days of the fall season approach the game of football will be revived and we will yet have some good games.

Notice.

A special general meeting of the members of the Zero Club will be held at the club rooms at Dawson Saturday 9 p.m., July 20th, to hear and consider the report of the trustees on an agreement to be entered into for a change of club rooms.

Contractor Goes Mining.

B. F. Sinclair, one of the most prominent contractors of the city, has lately purchased an interest in 22 Eldorado with Alex. Ross and will devote considerable of his time this summer to working the property. The claim has yielded no small fortune in the past and as there is still much virgin ground to be worked out, the fortunate owners will doubtless reap a big reward as a result of the investment. During his residence in Dawson Mr. Sinclair has been identified with some of the heaviest improvements yet inaugurated, and if his success as a builder may be taken as a criterion of what may be expected in his new enterprise it will not be long before he blossoms out as a typical Eldorado king.

One of Mr. Sinclair's last contracts was the raising up of the Nugget office building and putting a solid foundation beneath it; also constructing a 20 foot addition to the building. If he is as good a miner as he is contractor and workman, he is bound to succeed.
