IN GERMAN EAST AFRICA.

LONDON, Aug. 17. The ring around the forces defending German East Africa is being drawn closer. An official statement received to-day from General Smuts reports that the British have cleared a difficult hilly country and captured several important positions being separated from the central railway by 25 miles of open country.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON SOMME FRONT.

PARIS, Aug. 17. The French official statement this evening says: On the Somme front our artillery was active to-day and carried out numerous destructive bombardments against enemy organizations. There has been no infantry action. The number of unwounded prisoners taken north of the Somme yesterday exceeds 200. We also captured five machine guns. There has been the usual cannonading on the remainder of the front.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

LONDON, Aug. 17. Six determined German attacks on the British trenches northwest of Pozieres were repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers, according to an official statement issued by the War Office to-night. To the northwest of Bazentin the British captured about 100 yards of German trenches. The text of the statement follows: On our right there was considerable artillery activity all day. Last night and early this morning the enemy delivered a series of determined counter attacks on our trenches to the northwest of Pozieres on a broad front with considerable force. Six times the infantry advanced to the attack, but ran back suffering very heavy losses. Our guns and machine guns did great execution. In no case did he succeed in entering our line. Northwest of Bazentin we captured about 100 yards of trenches. A counter attack made by the enemy to-day from Martingulch was repulsed, some prisoners being captured by us. A German aeroplane was brought down behind our lines near Pozieres.

LLOYD GEORGE ADDRESSES WELSH SINGERS.

ABERYSTWETH, Wales, Aug. 17. "Britain's honor is not dead, her might is unbroken, her destiny unfulfilled, her ideals unshattered by her enemies," declared the Secretary for War, Mr. Lloyd George, addressing the Welsh Singing Societies at Eisteddfod to-day. "Britain is more alive, more potent, she has greater dominions, her influence is wider, her purpose deeper, more exalted than ever. Why shouldn't her children sing?"

ANOTHER AIR RAID.

ROME, Aug. 17. Another Austrian air raid on Venice is reported in an official announcement issued by the War Office to-night. Only slight damage was done and there were no casualties.

WEAKNESS OR DISORDER.

PARIS, Aug. 17. The operations on the Somme yesterday were merely the detail of an offensive, and only of local bearing, a high military officer explained to-day to the Associated Press. But significance is derived from the fact that the Germans did not counter attack as usual. Never before have they failed to react when successfully attacked. Their failure to do so in this case is either a sign of weakness, or more likely because of confusion and disorder.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 17. An official this evening says: The situation on the Western and Caucasus fronts is unchanged.

ADJOURNMENT OF PARLIAMENT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. A News Agency despatch from London, published to-day says: Premier Asquith announced to-day that Parliament would adjourn Tuesday or Wednesday next until October 10. This step is taken to avoid an appeal to the country. There is a general feeling of disappointment with the Coalition Government. Recent outspoken attacks on it by Redmond, Dillon and Devlin have laid bare its inefficiency to deal with the great questions growing out of the war, and its breakdown in attempting to handle the Irish Home Rule Bill.

TROUBLE IN CHINA.

PEKING, Aug. 17. Chinese officials assert that the clash on Aug. 13th at Cheng Chai-trin between Japanese and Chinese soldiers was caused by the resistance of Japanese armed pealdris whom the Chinese endeavored to expel from Mongolia and prevent them from selling weapons to Mongolian outlaws. The right of Japanese troops to enter Mongolia is denied by the officials. The casualties in the encounter totalled 50 among the Chinese and 15 among the Japanese, 10 Japanese being killed. Prince Nicholas Koudachef, Russian Minister, protested to the Foreign Office against delegates from Outer Mongolia sitting in the Chinese Parliament, alleging this to be a violation of the spirit of the Russo-Chinese Treaty granting autonomy to Outer Mongolia.

friend—whether in training, or already at the front—needs Zam-Buk. It cannot be equalled for the many small injuries and ailments incidental to a soldier's life.

Sergeant F. Brennan of the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, writes: "For healing cuts, sores, blisters, etc., Zam-Buk cannot be beaten."

Corporal Franklin of the 10th Field Ambulance, writing from France, says: "We find Zam-Buk splendid for injuries and ailments, but we haven't enough of it."

THE BALKANS.

We think it was the New York Times that wondered recently who was the master mind that was very evidently directing the whole course of the Entente military operations; for the nature of the co-ordinated offensives, the points of attack and the exact timing of the successive blows must almost certainly be the work of individual genius.

Whether that be so or not, the developments that continue to follow one another do not tend to diminish the impression of a unified control of the very highest order. The latest one, the initiation of the great Balkan drive, comes at a time when it will have the maximum effect; when Austria has been thrown off her balance by the side to side buffeting of Russia and Italy and will probably succumb to a central attack of any power and persistence.

But it is not Austria who we think will be first or most seriously concerned. We venture the sweeping prophecy that the moment this new offensive assumes the formidable content of which it is capable, we shall hear of peace overtures of no tentative or indefinite tone from both Turkey and Bulgaria. The only thing that will restrain them and keep them very long in the arena is the consciousness that the terms of their exit must necessarily be costly and humiliating. Turkey in particular is in a most difficult position, being faced with an alternative choice of increasing crisis. She had from the beginning nothing to gain by her interference except the doubtful blessing of German domination, but she committed herself to a cause from which it would be disastrous to withdraw until compelled to. That is an event which cannot now be long delayed. Bulgaria may be in a slightly better case, for she is quite capable of riding herself off her unpopular ruler and by completely changing sides buying for herself more favourable terms than a defeat in the field would impose upon her.

Greece is in the throes of an election campaign which will almost certainly result in the return to power of Venizelos and the abdication of King Constantine. Not merely the friendliness but the active military assistance of Greece will be the outcome, to be followed, if it has not been preceded, by that of Roumania. All this must be becoming more plainly evident to the two junior partners in the Teutonic firm. It is as yet only the probable course of events still to come, but it is foreseeable in the military operations that seem to be at last under way.

They began a week ago north of Salonika and have now extended from Monastir, in Serbia, to the Vardar River, a distance of about sixty miles. At the proper time the considerable Italian army in Albania will strike in concert; it has been kept there all this time for the same purpose as the great garrison at Salonika. It is hard to see how the small Bulgarian army can oppose effective resistance to so large a force, capable of attacking from so many points; for it can evidently count on little or no support from Austria or Germany. It would be foolish to build exaggerated and premature hopes on the position, but it cannot be denied that it contains possibilities which, if they materialise, will almost in the twinkling of an eye alter the whole military prospect and shorten by many months the duration of the war. If Turkey and Bulgaria can be isolated, they can be counted out. Their severance would of itself be a terrible blow to Germany and Austria, who draw valuable supplies from the Sultan's empire and the copper mines of Serbia, but it would further open the way to an invasion of enormous power of southern Austria, which that country would be quite unable to repel, and which would speedily bring about its downfall. There is no need to look

Boy Falls Over Cliff.

NOW IN HOSPITAL.

A little seven year old boy named Joseph Cosh, belonging to Bay-de-Verde, came in on the train last night and was removed to the Hospital in the ambulance. The lad was suffering severe pain as the result of an accident which nearly cost him his life. It happened that on Wednesday evening the child was playing around the edge of a steep cliff near his home, and while attempting to pick wild flowers near the edge, lost his balance and fell head foremost down a steep incline of close on two hundred feet. After lying for hours in an unconscious condition at the bottom of the cliff, he recovered sufficient strength to crawl to his home. His shoulder blade is broken in two places, and he has severe cuts and bruises on his body and legs. The doctors say it is a wonder the child was not instantly killed.

Prospero Back From North.

The s.s. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, arrived from the north at 12.30 p.m. to-day, having reached as far north as Battle HF. The trip was made under favorable weather conditions with the exception of Wednesday and Thursday of last week, when strong winds and heavy sea were encountered. The fishery from Twillingate to LaSalle which up to a week ago was almost a blank, is now slightly improved. In White Bay there is no improvement, on the French Shore fairly good catches were secured since last trip and at Battle Harbor hook and liners are doing well. The Prospero brought the following first class passengers, including a number of round trippers and a fair quantity of freight: Mr. Hillier, Mr. Downs, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Waterman, Mr. W. H. Reid and boy, Master Hearn, Mrs. Sackley, Mrs. Crocker, Barbour, Mrs. Crocker, Mr. Seely, Miss Hinds, Mrs. House, Mrs. Lockyer, Ensign Keeping, E. and Mrs. Maidment, R. Stone, Miss Miller, J. Shattering a German Claim

Germany's insistent claims of a victory in the sea fight off Jutland is on a par with many more of her claims—willful exaggeration, misrepresentation and outright lying.

It is about the same as to who brought on this European war. "Can anybody doubt it," say both German or pro-German. "Why, who else but England?" German and pro-German see just one side alike—Britain's duplicity and aggressiveness, with unhappy Germany the innocent victim.

And now, to dissipate some of the doubts that may still exist, a telegram from the Kaiser to the King of Bavaria will be in order.

"All hostile assaults," ran this precious telegram, "will break to pieces on the power of a clean conscience, with which Germany and her faithful allies are waging a war for the existence of the world and liberty."

This proves that the war was forced upon the Kaiser and that he couldn't have avoided it if he would.

But here is the answer to the Kaiser's hypocritical whining: "I was at Fhrasdorf," writes Count Melgar, a confidant of Don Carlos, "when the war broke out. I was pleased with the prospect of German success, on which I counted. I hurried to Vienna, and the first thing I saw was the secret document written by the German Emperor to the Emperor of Austria to inform him of the order given to carry on a war of extermination: 'My soul is bursting with grief,' wrote the Kaiser, his lachrymal glands overflowing, 'but it is absolutely necessary to put everything to the fire and the sword. Men, women and children must be slaughtered; not a single tree must be left upright nor a roof intact. With such a system of terror the only one to be followed it is certain that the war will not last two months, while proceeding with humanitarian consideration it may be prolonged for years. I am having recourse, then, whatever it may cost me' (some more tears) 'to this method, which, in spite of appearances, will greatly diminish bloodshed.'"

From the foregoing it may be easily surmised that the Kaiser is almost as good a prophet as Mme. de Thebes, who had Wilhelm do the "vanishing act" in 1915. But he is still on this globular footstool, as is another subtle humanitarian, Francisco Villa.

After a renewal of the document cited Count Melgar wrote the following: "Such atrocious words made the first breach in my admiration for Germany. A few days later I read in an evening paper a speech delivered by the Kaiser to his soldiers in which he declared that he had learned that two French military doctors had entered Metz and poisoned the garrison wells with cholera microbes. Then I understood that such a man was not merely cruel, but a shameless liar and calumniator. I also had an opportunity of learning of the grief of the Russian Ambassador who told one of his friends how, in an interview with the Emperor Francis Joseph, he declared his government ready to make important concessions to avoid war. To his prayers the Emperor yielded, authorizing him to telegraph to St. Petersburg (now Petrograd) that all danger of war was averted. Next morning the Russian Ambassador was sent for by the Austrian Emperor, who told him he was obliged to take back his word, as Kaiser Wilhelm had telegraphed him as follows: 'If Austria is afraid, Germany fears nobody, and to burn the bridges, I have just declared war on Russia.' This revelation compelled my conversion. I felt sure that Kaiser Wilhelm instead of being an instrument of God, was inspired by the devil."

Well, if the Kaiser is not inspired by the devil, he is at least under the devil's protection, as is that gentleman with many lives, Pancho Villa!

The story is about the child of an English Army officer who is left alone when her father is called home to fight for King and Country. It is a timely subject and no one should miss it. Easier Now, and Harder Later.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine has a baby boy who has just reached the toddling age. When I called there the other day I found her lamenting the destruction of a cherished vase. The toddler, of course, was the culprit. "That settles it," she declared. "I'm going to put everything that he can possibly hurt out of reach or away."

"Couldn't you teach him not to touch?" I suggested mildly. "Perhaps I could," she said; "but it would be easier and safer to put the things away."

Of course I said nothing further, but I thought of another young mother whom I know. She has two babies and no maid. One is three years old, the other four months.

A Tea Table of Fragile China Within Baby's Reach.

In her living room is a tea table with one beautiful and fragile china on it. "I don't suppose you can let Philip come in here," I said, when I first saw her home.

"Indeed, I can," she answered. "He knows there are certain things he isn't to touch, and that table is one of them."

"How did you ever teach him?"

"By keeping right after him when he first began to walk. If I said, 'No, no, Philip,' about that and other things once, I said it a thousand times. It was hard then, but now I have the other baby it means everything to me to be able to trust Philip and make him mind."

There are few matters in which following the line of least resistance will lead ultimately to more trouble than in the bringing-up of children. And there are few matters in which the temptation to follow the line of least resistance is greater.

It is temporarily easier to pick up a baby's toys than to teach him not to throw them down.

Easier To Watch Than To Train.

It is temporarily easier to watch a child to see that he does not put things into his mouth than to teach him not to.

It is temporarily easier to put certain things out of his reach than to teach him to leave them alone.

It is temporarily easier to undress and otherwise wait on him, than to teach him to do such things for himself.

It is temporarily easier to punish than to investigate when one child tattles on another.

Easier To Forbid And Yield Than To Be Firm.

It is temporarily easier to thoughtlessly forbid, to yield to teasing, to scold weakly at disobedience, than to wield a firm and thoughtful discipline.

But alas! In just that proportion that it is temporarily easier to do all these things, so is your life ultimately harder if you have done them.

And not only your life, remember, but the life of those who are dearer to you than yourself.

JOHN ADAMS.

John Adams, second President of the United States, was born on a farm near the city of Boston, his father being engaged at the time in trying to pluck something from the rugged soil of New England besides the army worm and withered hopes. Young Adams did not take to the farm, as he objected to rising shortly after midnight and mingling with the irritable Jersey heifer, so he turned his mind toward the ministry.

The ministry in John Adams' time was different than it is now, inasmuch as the candidate was obliged to believe a lot of things about hell which could not be proven by personal testimony. Mr. Adams decided to take up something which did not require a man to believe anything he didn't want to, so he began to study law. He would have made a good lawyer if the political bee had not stung him very so much success that he ran for every office in the gift of the Thirteen Colonies.

John Adams was one of the first men to revolt against the British empire and call King George III. a scoundrel. He never put a two cent stamp on a promissory note or a chattel mortgage without urging his countrymen to throw off the foreign yoke and adopt one of domestic make. He helped Thomas Jefferson write the Declaration of Independence, correcting some of the spelling and inserting a number of valuable commas therein. At the close of the Revolution he was made our first minister to England, appearing at court in a pair of light-fitting knee pants which displayed his gnarled Massachusetts legs to the best possible advantage.

John Adams was not a popular president, owing to the rigidity of his back-bone, which made him harder to handle than a trick broncho. The politicians did not like him, as he was liable to appoint somebody postmaster on sheer merit alone. After completing his term he returned to his native state and tried to forget what had happened, dying on the Fourth of July, 1826, on which day his great rival, Thomas Jefferson, also passed beyond.

Mr. Adams was one of the baldest men who ever held the presidential office, and when angered or embarrassed lambent flames played over his dome. People who did not like his curt manner and prickly vocabulary had to admit that he was a genuine American, patriotic to the core, and which he died his baldness and other faults were all forgotten and forgiven.

The Deutschland's Message.

Boston Transcript:—But the chief thing of interest about this submarine, overtopping every other fact or question connected with it by as much as Mount Washington overtops an anti-hill at its base, is the peculiar significance of the feat from the point of view of America's defence. Perhaps the Deutschland came to our shores to bring a letter from the Kaiser to his great and good friend Woodrow Wilson; but the message which it brings to the American people is of more consequence. This message is as follows: "You see that we can do it; the ocean that was your barrier of defence is our easy path of entrance to your ports; your battlement has become a door to which we hold the key." This is what the Deutschland says to the American people. The marine gateway which he has chosen for his entrance is one to which the German navy has become very partial since the beginning of the war. The Eitel Friedrich, the Kronprinz Wilhelm, the Appam, have been able to test and measure very thoroughly the waters within the Virginia capes. These waters are the road to the national capital, to the Naval Academy, to the cities of Baltimore, Norfolk, Newport News and Richmond. They would constitute the principal base of any American fleet engaged in defending our coast. And they are the playground of these bright German navigators. The arrival of the Deutschland completes the circle of German investigation of these particular waters, whose vulnerability is now so strongly suggested. All this is a part of the message which the submarine brings to the American people. What is their answer to it?

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Every mother should investigate the milk supply thoroughly before trusting the baby's life to it. The milk should be absolutely pure and free from preservative and be delivered fresh every day in stoppered bottles. Corks or wooden stoppers should never be allowed as they absorb impurities. Soon after the milk is delivered the mother or nurse should prepare enough food for the baby for twenty-four hours. This should be put into the feeding bottles at once, just enough in each bottle for one feeding.

This will make it necessary to have about ten bottles for the small baby. The bottles should be stoppered with a little absorbent cotton and placed on the ice until needed. Remember that milk absorbs odors, and do not place it near onions or any vegetable with a pronounced odor.

When it is time to feed the baby one bottle should be heated by being placed in a pan of hot water. The other bottles should remain undisturbed until needed.

If a baby chokes, raise its left arm up over and very close to its head. This will relieve it at once.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—It is not my intention to write a diary, or to write about my travels since I left St. John's, New York, for England and Scotland, but a simple narrative that will interest the relations and friends in the Homeland, of what they are doing, how they look, by what means they saw them and wishes them well.

Having left Edinburgh on Monday morning, July 10th, by the 9 o'clock train for Glasgow, I spent the night there and then left for Ayr by 1 o'clock train, arriving in Ayr at 2 o'clock. My next advance was towards the house of my old friend, Whittaker, Officer Commanding the Newfoundland Regiment, and my staff were living. On my way to Private Brookes who very kindly escorted me to the residence of the C. and his Staff. The building occupied by the officers seemed to be in every way suitable for its purpose. In front of it is a Public Park with the Newfoundland Band playing music three times a week, including "Stacy's March", for the benefit of the public. I arrived at the Barracks Quarters at 7:15 p.m. and stayed at Major Rendell, who cordially invited me to dinner and join the little group of officers. I did not meet Major C. W. Whittaker this evening but to see the gallant Colonel in the uniform at the Race Course Barracks. Major Rendell occupied the quarters at his right, and my old friend Captain Greene, well known to me, sat to my right. I was glad to meet many old friends in the land over a hundred years ago.

A Day With Our Boys in the Land of Burns.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—It is not my intention to write a diary, or to write about my travels since I left St. John's, via New York, for England and Scotland, but a simple narrative that I believe will interest the relations and friends in the Homeland, of what their boys are doing, how they look, by one who saw them and wishes them well.
Having left Edinburgh on Monday morning, July 10th, by the 9 o'clock train for Glasgow, I spent the day there and then left for Ayr by the 6 o'clock train, arriving in Ayr at 7 o'clock. My next advance was towards the house where Lt.-Col. C. W. Whitaker, Officer Commanding 21st Newfoundland Regiment, and his staff were living. On my way I met Private Brookes who very kindly escorted me to the residence of the O. C. and his Staff. The building occupied by the officers seemed to me to be in every way suitable for its purpose. In front of it is a Public Park where the Newfoundland Band discourses music three times a week (including "The Banks of Newfoundland" and "Stacy's March"), for the benefit of the public. I arrived at the Officers' Quarters at 7:15 p.m. and asked for Major Rendell, who cordially invited me to dinner and join the little band of officers. I did not get to bed until 11 o'clock. The next morning, July 11th, I sat on his right, and my old friend, Captain Greene, well known in St. John's, sat to my right, and I was glad to meet many old friends in the Land of Burns, who described Newfoundland over a hundred years ago as a "place of dugs," and introduced to me "name o' Scotia's dugs."
But whelpit some place far abroad, where sailors go to fish for cod? Being a native of Ayrshire myself I had a double pleasure in me. Just here I am going to apologise to my numerous young friends in the Regiment, should I in any way make a mistake in giving them their ranks. In fact, many of them I will have to drop altogether so I must ask the indulgence of their relations and friends who may read through the list of those I saw.
It is still Monday evening—Sitting round the dinner table. Altogether feeling quite at home. There is an air of well trained Military Etiquette displayed among our boys and great respect shown to the Superior Officers, even if all be of equal attainments, and some have stepped through the St. John's Royal Gazette and others not. I have heard no complaints of any kind among the men. The officers are popular. I have met none whose head when he left St. John's wore a hat 6 1/2, that requires to wear a 7 1/2 now. They are quite natural. Not even do they try to say, "Hoo are ye the dae? ye for speerlin' and hoo's yerseel?" Hooch says, this noo, I'm hrawly, thank ye for speerlin' and hoo's yerseel!"

I wish all the friends, relations and sweethearts of the boys to understand—and this statement will apply to all—they are well, look well, and are happy. They are interested in the work, and with one voice cry to High Heaven for health and strength to break their vengeance on the Germans who murdered the Newfoundlanders the pride of our Country. On every occasion that I had a chance to address a few words to our boys who were leaving by the 9:30 train for the front, via London. They got a great reception at the Station and a grand "send off." I refer to 2nd Lieutenants Geo. Emerson, Gus Summers and S. Gane, the latter, who although an officer of the Newfoundland Regiment, is not a native of the Country, is very popular with the boys. These three officers left in the best of spirits, well and happy. I missed seeing Lieutenants Jack Cliff and Laurie Esin who on the previous Saturday had left Ayr with a draft of men 150 strong for "Somewhere in France." Lieut. Jack Fox was on brief leave to London.
Tuesday morning, July 11th, 10 o'clock. On my way to the Ayr Race Course I met the big-hearted Lieut. Peter Cashin who piloted me through the "toon that ne'er surpasses" For honest men and bonnie lassies."
What Peter does not know about the Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon, my native shire, is not worth knowing. Peter and I took a car, and in ten minutes time we arrived at the great practising battlefield where the boys of Newfoundland are training for the battles of the World's War. After paying my respects to the Adjutant and getting the latest news from him, I passed on and was introduced to H. S. M. MacKay. His name portrays the real typical Scotsman, one of the best and the real MacK! Every inch a soldier, he is beloved by the boys, but strict and firm as the Rock of Ages. I visited the barber-shop and met H. Walsh, Wm. Taylor and Thomas Lawlor. My next department was the butcher's, where hung stacks of beef, mutton, lamb, bacon, all of the best quality, and fit for the gods. Here I met H. Pitcher, of St. John's, a picture of health and a living example of the department he had charge of. Great loads of bread had just arrived and filled a large store. My next experience was to hear the band play. It was here for the first time I met Lt.-Col. C. W. Whitaker, M. A. in his profession, a great but little man, full of energy, every bit of him a soldier, and proud of the men under his charge and prouder still of the part they played in the "Big Push" on July 1st. That shall forever stand out in history as long as Newfoundland itself shall last.

I have heard so much about the Lt. Colonel that I was glad to meet him. It may not be generally known that he is a son of Joseph Whitaker, F.S.A., founder of "Whitaker's Almanac," established in 1868, than which there is no better authority in the world for information on all topics.
There is a very good story told between my friend Sir E. P. Morris and Lt. Col. Whitaker, who is still a partner in the great business. Sir E. P. as we all know, is a very fond of his umbrella, and it usually accompanies him upon all occasions, wet or dry, rain or sunshine. On a very recent occasion, Sir E. P., visiting our boys at the Ayr Race Course, forgot his umbrella, and during the day it became very wet.
Colonel (to Sir Edward)—"I thought you always carried your umbrella."
Sir Edward (to Colonel)—"So I do, but I turned up Whitaker's Almanac this morning, and found there that it was to be a fine day."
Colonel—"You make a mistake, Sir Edward, that was yesterday."
Sir Edward—"Then what about tomorrow?"
Colonel—"Sir Edward, you can always depend upon a Whitaker's Almanac, if you make sure of the day and date; but in Scotland it is best to carry your umbrellas all the time."
Such is the man who has charge of our soldier boys at Ayr. We can fully rely upon him to make good soldiers of them, fit for the battle of life, and the world's great war.
I was delighted with the fine instrumental band; although all the players did not belong to Newfoundland.

After saying "good-bye" to our boys until we meet again, a great chorus pealed forth: "Will ye no come back again?" I was accompanied to the telegraph office by my young friend, Jack Fox, from where he sent the following message: (which Mr. Cowan I have no doubt has published)
"Sincere sympathy Newfoundland's loss on battlefield—spent to-day with Regiment—met many friends—writing particulars for Press; unanimous message from Ayr boys: our ranks are thin, come all who can and get revenge, great cheers."
"ANDERSON."
In London I hope to visit all our wounded boys, if possible, and get a message from them to their fathers, mothers and sweethearts. Many of the young men that I met at Ayr have since gone to the front. May they be protected by an all-wise Providence, bring glory, lustre and honour to the Empire, credit to our Country, and assist in bringing about the termination of this body war, that has brought sorrow and suffering to many homes in Newfoundland, is the sincere wish of.
Yours in sympathy,

Sir James Watson's Opinion Considered Most Valuable.

He says that the component of all disorders, and one from which few escape is Catarrh. Sir James firmly believes in local treatment, which is best supplied by "Catarrhzone." No case of Catarrh can exist where Catarrhzone is used; it is a miracle worker, relieves almost instantly, and cures after other remedies fail. Other treatments can't reach the diseased parts like Catarrhzone because it goes to the source of the trouble along with the air you breathe. Catarrhzone is free from cocaine, it leaves no bad after-effects, it is simply nature's own cure.
Beware of dangerous substitutes offered under misleading names and meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhzone which is sold everywhere. Large size containing two months treatment costs $1.00; small size, 50c.; trial size, 25c.

Capl. "Hal" Tait R.A.M.C.

Congratulations to Dr. Harold Tait, R.A.M.C., second son of Dr. J. S. Tait, who has been appointed Captain and is now in London on a brief furlough after putting in over a year's hard work at the military hospitals at Malta, where he attended many of his wounded countrymen who passed through the terrible Gallipoli campaign. On several occasions some of his old college chums and former associates were among the number. In a letter to his father he said he was shortly to leave for France to resume his duties with the R. A. M. C.

An Act of Kindness.

By the courtesy of the Postmaster at New York, five baskets of parcel post mail consigned to the G. P. O., London, and containing gifts for members of the Newfoundland Regiment, which could not connect direct via Canada, were forwarded with the U. S. mail to their destination. As the Postal Department here has no contact with the Government of the Great Republic for the transmission of such mail over this particular route, the act of kindness was appreciated by the whole country, especially by those who are directly concerned.

IN FOR REPAIRS. The Purin schooner Nita M. Conrad, having on board 500 qts. godfish, put in here yesterday from the Grand Banks in a damaged condition. Her bowsprit and forward rigging were recently swept away by a heavy gale of wind.

What Peter does not know about the Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon, my native shire, is not worth knowing. Peter and I took a car, and in ten minutes time we arrived at the great practising battlefield where the boys of Newfoundland are training for the battles of the World's War. After paying my respects to the Adjutant and getting the latest news from him, I passed on and was introduced to H. S. M. MacKay. His name portrays the real typical Scotsman, one of the best and the real MacK! Every inch a soldier, he is beloved by the boys, but strict and firm as the Rock of Ages. I visited the barber-shop and met H. Walsh, Wm. Taylor and Thomas Lawlor. My next department was the butcher's, where hung stacks of beef, mutton, lamb, bacon, all of the best quality, and fit for the gods. Here I met H. Pitcher, of St. John's, a picture of health and a living example of the department he had charge of. Great loads of bread had just arrived and filled a large store. My next experience was to hear the band play. It was here for the first time I met Lt.-Col. C. W. Whitaker, M. A. in his profession, a great but little man, full of energy, every bit of him a soldier, and proud of the men under his charge and prouder still of the part they played in the "Big Push" on July 1st. That shall forever stand out in history as long as Newfoundland itself shall last.

I have heard so much about the Lt. Colonel that I was glad to meet him. It may not be generally known that he is a son of Joseph Whitaker, F.S.A., founder of "Whitaker's Almanac," established in 1868, than which there is no better authority in the world for information on all topics.

I was delighted with the fine instrumental band; although all the players did not belong to Newfoundland.

I must again apologize to all private, officers, or men of whatever military position they occupy, for my discourtesy in not giving them their proper titles. I know our boys are proud of promotion, and prouder still of being called by whatever office they hold; in any case I have found it impossible to do so, but I earnestly hope that some of our lads will win honors on the battle field and glory to their Country. I extend my cordial thanks for kindness shown me at the Race Course to Lt. Col. C. W. Whitaker, Major's Regt., Captain Greene, Sergeant Major Mackay, and my young friends Jack Fox, Frank Bennett, Sandy Baird, John Bethune, and many others whose names will

THE PRESIDENT'S PROPOSALS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. President Wilson today laid his plan for averting the threatened railway strike before the employees' committee, and having found the managers' committee adamant to his proposals that they accept an 8 hour day, he appealed to their Presidents and asked them to come to the White House for a conference. There is every indication that if the railroad Presidents sustain the Managers, President Wilson will appeal finally to the financial powers which control the roads, for it is his purpose to deal with the ultimate authority before he gives up his effort. The President's plan is expected to be formally accepted by the employees' committee meeting to-morrow morning, with the proposed 8 hour day as a basis for computing the wages and regular pay at the 8 hour day rate for overtime, and to refer all other collateral issues to a small commission to be created by Congress at which the employees of railroads and the public will be represented. The acceptance of the proposal by the employees is forecast by the expressions of the leaders after they left the President's conference. One of them declared the men would be fools not to accept it.

NO NEWS FROM ANY FRONT.

LONDON, To-day. For the first time in weeks no change of importance is reported in any theatre. On Thursday the most violent fighting took place at the Western end of the British salient on the Somme. Six times the Germans advanced in force in a desperate effort to bend back the British lines northwest of Poelers. London reports all these assaults were repulsed with heavy losses, and that the British in turn captured about 100 yards of trenches northwest of Bazentin. Something of mystery exists as to the situation on the Eastern front. For two consecutive days the Russians continue themselves to brief statements that nothing of importance had occurred. The Austrian and German War Offices have been almost equally uncommunicative. The only fighting mentioned by Vienna was the repulse of Russian attacks on the lines of General Von Bothmer, who is in command of the Teutonic forces retiring from the Tarnopol front. Berlin reports the repulse of Russian attacks south of Brody. The fall in the Italian operations against Trieste is unofficially explained from Rome as due to the general offensive against the great Austrian seaport; German seaplanes again raided Venice, but Rome says they caused only slight damage.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir,—Please allow me in your paper to thank all the very nice people who were so generous to us at the Old English Fair. I had a very happy time even many mice also came, but some did not return to their homes for I took several of them in a quiet corner, and just so had a real nice party to myself. Oh! I have to thank so many kind people who helped us. Now first there was dear Jenny who gave many little boys and girls a ride. She is a real good sort but she must feel so proud to be the only Donkey in Newfoundland. She is a real nice member and she worked so hard to earn all those dollars. She went many miles of love for the sake of the Orphans. Many thanks, dear Jenny, and that nice master of yours who looked so smart as Mr. Scott. Also I thank Bruce for his dollars so well earned, also his dear English Maester who kept him company. My cart is really not large enough to take little girls and boys in for rides, but it is very nice when loaded with dollars and cents so it comes in useful after all. And, did I hear such good news that a nice new Orphanage is going to be built? Well, I must still work harder and harder. I have 357 members and some money in my box. Come on, 365. Did I dream that some kind lover of children was going to give a nice little bit of land for the new home. I hope my dream comes true, don't you. Then there was another of my members who has sold many dollars worth of my pansy macoos. His name is Chin Chin, he is really a jolly little fellow. He comes from China. But by his looks he enjoys living in Newfoundland for his tail is always wagging and he has a smiling face with two nice large black eyes to roll round. He and his kind mistresses did lots of work for our Fair. Many thanks, keep going. Many thanks to our member Maggie with her pedlar's pack who found so many generous buyers for the Gem Cigarettes, etc. They must be good for they sold so very quickly. Many thanks to the Imperial Tobacco Company for the very generous supplies. Also to my big master for the gift of cigars. I must thank him and also my big mistress for the swags, etc. They were very much enjoyed. And to Nellie, the pony, for the use of her field. Then I have to thank the Sunshine girls for their jolly entertainment, but they, too, enjoyed it for they looked so well and happy. Then those nice boys from Mount Cashel who did those lovely gigs. Many thanks to you all. My little mistresses had two very happy days. They did enjoy themselves. I also thank all my friends at Government House and their friends who were in many ways so generous in making and sending some lovely things for my stall; the candles were just lovely from two friends.

I must thank Tatters for his nice letter, and he sent me for my box a dollar. He was sorry he could not come to our fair, but a good friend of his was in bed with measles so he stayed at home to look after her. Dear Tatters one good turn deserves another, she will perhaps find the sweetest bones for you. Yes, I have your friend Babe from Boston, many thanks. Now I must stop this letter but before I do I will say thank you all and with grateful regards.

Your loving friend,

Emperor William Designs a New Memorial Card

Copies of which are to be sent suffering People.

New York, Aug. 14.—In the midst of his labors on two military fronts and in the farthest fields, according to the Morning Post's correspondent in Bern, the Kaiser's authority's report is transmitted to the World, Emperor William has had time to design a memorial card, copies of which are to be sent to the kinsmen of German sailors lost in the war. This production of the Kaiser is thus described: "On the card is a picture of Christ, holding out both hands in blessing over a sinking ship. Surrounding the figure of Christ are the words: "Which stilled the noise of the seas, the noise of their waves and the tumult of the people." Under the picture is this inscription: "To the memory of— He died for the Fatherland. "Wilhelm, I.R." The eminent designer of this work of art has not, says the Sun, availed himself of the full possibilities of the occasion. How much more appealing for example, the card would be if instead of the sinking ship, it bore a picture of the sinking Lusitania, and in place of the legend selected by Emperor Wilhelm, this familiar injunction: "Suffer the little children to come unto Me and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of God." On the reverse side, to complete the

The Refugees.

Past the marching men, where the great road runs. Out of burning Ypres three pale woe-borne women. One was a widow (listen to the guns!) She wheeled a heaped-up barrow. One walked lame And dragged two little children at her side. Tired and coughing with the dust. The third a dead child on her breast, and tried. To suckle him. They never spoke a word. So they came down along the great Ypres road. A soldier stayed his mirth to watch them pass. Turned, and in silence helped them with their load. And led them to a field and gave them bread. I saw them hide their faces in the grass. And cry, as women cried when Christ was dead.

Gallipoli Hero Welcomed

BY BRETHREN OF L. O. A.

Last night the members of Leeming Orange Lodge at their regular meeting accorded an enthusiastic welcome to Bro. Private Bert Harris, of the Newfoundland Regiment, who is invalided home as a result of injuries received while fighting in Gallipoli. Speeches were made by R.W. Bros. J. C. Puddister, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, and Rev. H. Royle, to which Private Harris made a suitable reply. In a manner befitting a soldier he reviewed the life of the Regiment from the day he left his native shore till he was stricken with trench disease and sent to hospital. He spoke of the Regiment's popularity at every place they visited; of the splendid spirit of our boys, which was manifested under all conditions; of the trip across the Atlantic and at Salisbury, Aldershot, Edinburgh, Stob's Camp, Cairo, Egypt, and on the shell torn and winter swept battlefield of Gallipoli, where our men proved as hard as steel in battling with the severe and unusual weather which practically cleaned out other regiments. In speaking of the big drive on July 1st, he said it was what might have been expected of our boys, for when the order to charge was given every man was ready to go over the parapet and, if necessary, lay down his life for the cause. Friends of those who had paid the supreme sacrifice may be comforted by the fact that each man died willingly, and was fully prepared to answer the last call. At the conclusion of the address, he was heartily applauded by the large number of Orangemen present. Following the closing of the meeting refreshments were served in which the health of the returned brother soldier and other toasts were honoured. Over one thousand members of the Orange Society in Newfoundland are serving in the Army and Navy.

Dr. Murphy Dead.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—The American newspapers for August 12th give an account of the death of Dr. John E. Murphy, of Chicago, one of the world's most renowned surgeons. Dr. Murphy was the former President of the American Medical Association and for years internationally known as one of the greatest surgeons. He was born at Appleton, Wisconsin, and was in his 59th year. He had received many honors both in America and in foreign countries, and on June 16th, 1916, he received the Collar and Cross of the Order of St. Gregory the Great at the direction of Pope Benedict XV. In 1902 he received the Lastero Medal of the University of Scotland gave him the degree of Doctor of Science in 1908, and in July of the same year he received the appointment of First Lieutenant of the Army Medical Corps. In 1899 he grafted a section of a cartilage into the nose of a woman. This was his first experiment and two years later he built a nose on a man's face from his finger, and another time he manufactured a new jaw for a girl. At Chicago a few years ago the wife of our respected townsman, Mr. Frank McNamara, visited Dr. Murphy and he successfully cured her.

I remain yours etc.

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN DYING.—A Newfoundland lady, for many years a nurse in the U.S.A., writing from New York to her parents in the city, gives an interesting account of the manner in which the big city is fighting the terrible epidemic of infantile paralysis which is cutting off thousands of young lives, and in some cases claiming even adults as victims. A gathering of specialists from all over the country is now in session at New York, where it is hoped some effective means will be discovered to stamp out the disease.

A Blood-Food Discovered That Entirely Overcomes Anaemic Weakness

CAREFULLY INVESTIGATED REPORTS ESTABLISH TRULY WONDERFUL RESULTS.

Heretofore it has often been a hopeless task for a thin-blooded person to gain either strength or weight. Neither food or medicine in many instances had beneficial effect.

What is practically a perfect blood-food, containing such elements as iron, has at last been produced, and when taken after meals will put new life and vigor into people that have despaired of ever being strong again.

This truly wonder-working treatment consists of taking two small chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets at the close of every meal.

This wonderful blood-food supplies nourishment, vim, energy—sends a stream of vigorous, strength-making blood to every nook and corner of the body, makes every muscle and fibre sing with new-found life and health.

That gnawing tiredness leaves you—Ferrozone drives it away. Sleepless nights are turned into periods of rest, and you pick up fast. Day by day your appetite improves.—this means more food is transformed in nutrition that will build and energize weak organs. The inclination to worry passes away because Ferrozone imparts nerve-tone and bodily strength that prevents depression. Think it over—Ferrozone is a wonderful tonic, in fact, it is more than a tonic, because it establishes health that lasts. Thousands use it and thereby cleanse and restore the entire system to a perfect condition. You'll feel the uplifting power of Ferrozone in a week.—It's a sound to help you if you only give it the chance. Sold by all dealers, 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50; be sure of the name Ferrozone. Forwarded by mail to any address if price is remitted to The Catarahozzo Co., Kingston, Ont.
