New Postage Laws.

A recent law provides that all letters mailed to points outside the city must have a 3 cent stamp affixed. We have no objection to that, as it is just ONE way to help raise the funds to maintain OUR BOYS; but the point we want to make is this—that, to get that 3 cents you have to deposit a dollar bill for a whole year, unless you know of the good things that pay the greater earning power. Another way of looking at it is this: In 1914 you could buy a sack of sugar for one year's interest on $100. Today your sack of sugar will take the interest for 3 years and 8 months.

Baked in the Finest Biscuit Plant in Canada

We wish we could show you through our immense new plant—a snow-white palace inside and out, even the employees being dressed in white. The whole plant is flooded with sunshine and fresh air, there being no less than 40,000 square feet of glass windows.

Visitors are welcome—and the thousands who have already gone through our new plant are our best and most loyal patrons. They have seen with their own eyes how pure, how good and how wholesome are

McCormick's Biscuits and Candies

(Known and used in Canada for over 60 years)

They can rely everything bearing the name McCormick's, and highly recommend McCormick's Products to all their friends. But, after all, McCormick's Biscuits and Candies hardly need any recommendation in Newfoundland. The steadily increasing sales show that their goodness is known and appreciated.

Happiness Secured

A Heavy Cost!

CHAPTER XI. WHEN LOVE ENTERS.

"So you have come back?" I remark, without looking round, picking up my papers as I speak, with the reflection that I have written quite enough for the present, judging from the way in which my head is aching. "What do you suppose I have been doing all the morning? Guess!"

No answer. The problem is rather too much for him, I suppose.

"But, of course, you couldn't guess if you tried for a month; and, knowing that you are just ready to die of curiosity, I will take pity on you and relieve it at once," I add. "Don't let me take your breath away, dear boy, but I'm writing a novel!" I continue, making the startling announcement as cautiously as possible. "It is only just commenced yet; but don't laugh, and I'll read you the opening pages. Listen!"

There is a little, stifled cough, a fresh puff of tobacco smoke, but Len neither speaks nor advances, as, turning to the first page, I commence the reading of "Dark Deeds."

It has cost me a world of trouble, and taken me a long time to accomplish these few poor, short little pages of manuscript; but, somehow, now that I come to read it over, I fail to find the result as encouraging as I hoped.

"There! That's all there is written yet; and, oh, dear! I am afraid it isn't so very wonderful, after all," I remark, with a sigh. "I had no idea the thing was so difficult! Heigh-ho! I wonder what authors were born for?"

"To write things for other people to pick to pieces, I presume," says my unseen companion, rather huskily. Evidently the tobacco is getting into his throat, for he coughs and chokes once more to such an extent that his voice is scarcely recognizable as Len's.

"I'm afraid you are right," I reply, rather sadly. "But you have not told me yet what you think of 'Dark Deeds' so far. Will it please an editor, do you think?"

"He must be the most stony-hearted monster in existence if it does not," says a voice that certainly is not Len's; and, wheeling sharply round, in my astonishment, I find myself face to face with a perfect stranger.

I am not, as a rule, very easily embarrassed, or taken at a disadvantage, I think. But for once in a way I certainly am thrown completely off my equilibrium, as I find myself face to face with the stranger, who, with his feet firmly planted in the hillocky grass, and his back against the gnarled trunk of the old oak, stands looking down at me, a gleam of quiet but intense amusement in his laughing, gray-blue eyes.

He is a young man—a perfect stranger to me, and, I feel sure, to Hanbury. Moderately tall, well grown, with a pair of shoulders like an athlete; a splendid face, beardless save for a small mustache shading a mouth tender and sensitive as a woman's; and a careless abandon—an artistic ease in the style and fit of his dress that is certainly not English.

A frank, good-looking young fellow with a gay good humor in his honest smile and laughing eyes that would have put me at my ease with him in a moment but for the awkwardness of the circumstances under which we had met; but which, remembering my unlucky confidence about "Dark Deeds," renders me supremely awkward and ashamed, as, gathering up my papers with what I hope he will consider an air of the loftiest displeasure, I favor him with a little stiff bow and turn away.

CHAPTER XII. MY AMERICAN CRITIC.

"YOU are not angry with me, I hope?" he exclaims, as, lifting his hat, he steps to my side, and looks with half-pleading, half-mischiefous eyes into my face. "Don't make me feel that I have offended you past all forgiveness, by leaving me without a word."

"Pardon me," I return, in my feeblest tones, "I have not the honor of your acquaintance; you had no right to force your company upon me!"

"Hum! Do you think that quite a true bill?" he asked, still keeping by my side. "If you will just cast your memory back over the last half hour, I guess you'll find that the thing was—well, rather the other way. I did not speak first, you know."

"But I thought when I heard your mer, as I turn to look into the pleasant eyes that are smiling at me with a gay good nature that might have disarmed the resentment of a harder heart than mine.

"I knew that you had mistaken me for some more fortunate mortal," he says. "And, however the error occurred, I have every reason to be thankful to it!"

"But why did you not move, speak, or do something to disabuse my mind of so ridiculous an error?" I ask resentfully, as I quicken my pace.

"Well, now, wouldn't that be too much to expect? Did you never learn that there are some temptations too great for resistance?" he asks. "Remember, if I had disclosed my identity, I should have lost 'Dark Deeds.'"

It is useless trying to be serious. The utter absurdity of the situation strikes me so forcibly that, bursting into a peal of mirth, in which I am joined by my companion, I laugh until the tears roll down my cheeks.

"You must have thought it so utterly ridiculous!" I exclaim. "It was my first effort in the literary line; and, do you know, I am beginning to doubt whether nature ever designed me for an authoress, after all, I dare say you thought 'Dark Deeds' the greatest rubbish you ever heard; but you are quite at liberty to laugh as much as you want to," I add magnanimously, with a rueful glance at the poor little roll of manuscript in my hand.

"Thanks," he replies; "but I have no particular desire to laugh. Your work was not addressed to the ears of the critical when addressed to me. But you don't mean to say that you live here—at Deepdene?" he asks, utterable astonishment in both look and tone, as, having reached the garden gate, I lay my hand on the latch, and turn to bid him good evening.

"Yes," I reply. "Why not? What do you know of Deepdene? Judging from your appearance, I should have taken you for a stranger in these parts."

"I am a stranger," he admits, a little regretfully, I think. "I only arrived in England from America a week ago; but, for all that, I have heard of the old house at Deepdene, and the little family of adventuressome spirits who have come, after so many years of ruin and neglect, to take up their quarters in that ghost-haunted abode. You must be very ignorant of country gossip if you think such an unheard-of proceeding as yours can escape comment in a place like Hanbury, Miss Kendrick. I know your name, you see."

"Which, considering that you are probably staying in Hanbury, is scarcely so very wonderful," I reply, with a glance at the shadows that are beginning to lengthen on the grass.

One after another the minutes are slipping away as I stand here at the gate, talking to this new acquaintance of mine with an enjoyment I have not felt in weeks—a reprehensible proceeding, for which my only excuse is that I have been feeling, very, very lonely of late. And, besides, it is nice to chat with such a good-looking stranger, in whose easy, careless manner lies a simple gallantry, a chival-rous kindness, that impresses me greatly.

Recalled at last to a sense of the proprieties and the heinousness of my behaviour in thus talking to a man to whom I have never been properly introduced I call my dignity to my aid, and, with a final good evening, leave my acquaintance at the gate.

Addie and Mr. Warden, looking very love-like, are in the garden sitting in the shadow of the old cedar, a volume of Tennyson, from which Ernest has evidently been reading aloud, lying so palpably neglected on the grass at their feet, that I do not join them.

I have no wish to interrupt their tête-à-tête, nor do they want me very much, I imagine; and, with a sigh, I turn away from the sight of the happiness that makes my own lot look so dull and cheerless by the contrast, to enter the kitchen, where I am informed by Mrs. Martin, who happens to be at Deepdene to-day, that Leonard has not yet returned.

I go into the parlor and pick up a book of poems, then, seating myself in the window recess, I try to read. But in a little while the book drops listlessly from my hands, and my thoughts are straying so far away from my author and the dreamy old parlor at Deepdene, that it is with something very little short of a start that I am aroused from my reverie by the sound of voices.

Addie and Ernest Warden, pausing in their walk in the garden outside, have come to a stand just under the window.

"It is not the opinion of the world that I care for," Addie is saying, in reply to some remark of her companion; "but I should like to tell dear Len and Lesley. Why should we keep our secret from them?"

"Why should we take any one into our confidence, rather?" is the reply. "Mine is a love that will not brook no rivalry—not even a brother and sister!" I cannot spare one thought of yours, dear love. I want all there is of you; and I did think that you loved me well enough to trust me wholly and entirely," he adds, looking fondly, pleadingly, down at her, as she stands before him, her eyes still fixed with an expression of trouble on the flower she is picking to pieces.

"I do trust you, Ernest! How could I live if anything were to destroy my faith in you?" she replies, as she turns and looks at him with a mist of tears in her eyes. "But at the same time, I cannot understand the need of all this secrecy. Why should you wish for a private marriage? Oh, Ernest, tell me one thing: You are quite sure it is not because you are ashamed of me?"

"Ashamed of my own love, my heart's darling?" he replies, with an earnestness there is no mistaking; and, putting his arm about her waist, he draws her to him. "Ah! my darling, if you only knew all—if you could only understand how earnestly I feel that you are infinitely too good for a graceless fellow like me, who—except that I love you as few women were ever loved before—know myself so utterly unworthy of you that I am perpetually tortured by the fear that fate can never intend to bless me with so much happiness—a miserable, haunting dread that something is destined to come between us."

"But what can come between us, so long as we love and trust each other?" Addie inquires, a look of perplexity in the grave eyes she lifts to the face of her lover.

"I cannot tell you—I cannot explain what I fear," he returns. "But I am not what the world calls a good man, dear," he goes on, in a tone of deep earnestness. "There have been as many sins and follies in my past life as in most men's, more, perhaps; and if I were to tell you all—well, all my past life—you would send me away from you; and the end of it would be that I should either go mad or shoot myself!"

"I should never do that," she replies, with lips that quiver pitifully. "I shall never send you away from me, but for one reason—the knowledge that you have ceased to care for me; and if that knowledge ever comes, it will break my heart, I think!"

"That tender little heart is in very little danger, then, if it never breaks until I cease to care for you, Addie!" is the response. "But you have not answered my question yet, dear; you have not told me whether I am to be the most happy or the most miserable of men? Oh, my love, my darling, do not fail me now—do not refuse to trust me wholly and entirely."

Fashion Plates

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Fashion Plates. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

JUST THE STYLE FOR CALLING OR AFTERNOON WEAR.

Waist—2500. Skirt—2504. Comprising Waist Pattern 2500 and Skirt Pattern 2504. Foulard, taffeta, batiste, dimity, dotted Swiss, organdy, slanting, crepe and satin are desirable for its development. The skirt may be made without the trimming. The waist is finished with shaped vest portions. The sleeve may be made in wrist or elbow length. The Skirt Pattern 2504 is cut in 7 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. The Waist 2500 in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. It will require 6 1/2 yards of 40-inch material for the entire dress in a 38-inch size. The skirt measures about 2 yards at the foot.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 30 cents. FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps.

FOR AFTERNOON OR CALLING.

2502—Here is a smart and pretty model, easy to develop, nice for soft batiste, crepe or foulard, and just as good for satin, gabardine, serge or linen. As here shown, white voile was combined with cluny insertion. The girde is of pale blue satin. The tunic is finished separate from the skirt, and could be made of contrasting material. White serge with braiding or embroidery would be nice for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 will require 6 1/2 yards of 40-inch material. The skirt measures about 1 1/2 yard at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

DAYTON Money Weight Scales!

After deciding to locate in Newfoundland, we wished to obtain agency for the best computing scale made. We visited all the leading cities of the United States and Canada as far west as Chicago. We visited three computing scale factories, all of which offered us their agency. We talked with hundreds of users of various types of computing scales. The result of our investigation showed us that the Dayton Money Weight Scale was absolutely the best computing scale made, and that it would outwear any two computing scales of the swinging pendulum type.

We therefore closed the contract for the sale of Dayton Scales and have sold a number of them in St. John's and the various outports. Every scale sold is giving perfect satisfaction.

We are also agents for the Dayton Silent Meat Slicer and Dayton Cheese Cutter.

WAR REVIEW.

The Germans are employing fresh forces of reserves in efforts to hold back the Allied troops who are pressing them from the region of the Somme to the Oise where the American, British and French armies continue to make progress. Monday will need gains of ground at various points along the battlefield of big importance for the further prosecution of the endeavors of the Allies to drive out the Germans from old Amiens Mont Didier sector. After an extremely bitter contest the American and British have gained a foothold in the important little town of Bray-Sur-Home on the northern bank of the Somme. A short distance across the River to the south, the British have taken Froyart and midway on the line have pressed on east of Fonquesouin in a manoeuvre which has resulted in the further outflanking of Chauleux from the south, and of Roye from the north. On their part the French in the rolling country immediately north of the Oise River have captured Gury a position of great strategic value, lying S.W. of Lassigny, and at several points on the southward region of the Oise have advanced their line further toward Noyon. In Monday's fighting hundreds of additional Germans were made prisoners, and the enemy lost heavily in men killed and wounded. Unofficial reports give the number of Germans captured during the present offensive in the neighborhood of 40,000. The Germans at last accounts were still throwing in reinforcements east of the road running through Chauleux, Roye and Noyon, the passages of which by the Allies would seriously menace all the German forces inside the pocket formed by the Somme on the north and east and the Oise on the south. Not alone are the Allies endeavoring to press their advantage by frontal attacks, but they have drawn up to their back lines guns of medium and heavy calibre and with these are heavily shelling areas held by the Germans even as far back as Bethencourt, which lies on the Somme, seven and a half miles east of Chauleux. Meantime Allied airships continue to bomb the German positions and use machine guns from low altitudes on troop formations. Seemingly the advances by the French troops on the southern part of the line cannot but have an extremely important effect on the present battle. The hill positions they have gained alone dominate the Oise Valley running northwestward to Noyon, but around Lassigny, and also give them a sweep of the plains south of Roye from the Amiens-Mont Didier sector. Little fighting has taken place on any of the fronts along the Veale. The Germans again have delivered violent counter attacks against the Americans and French who are holding their ground on the north bank of the stream. As on previous occasions when the enemy attempted to dislodge Allied troops the counter attacks failed. British aircraft have brought down a German airship off the coast of Holland, according to announcement by the British Admiralty. An Austrian division is with the Germans but not yet in action.

FRENCH ADVANCE CONTINUES.

LONDON, Aug. 12. The French are continuing their advance between the Arve and the Oise according to news received in London to-day, and have captured the town of Lechele-Staurin, three miles directly west of Roye. The line of the front runs from Lechele-Staurin southeast through Armancourt and Thillois, three miles southwest of Roye, and continues in a southeasterly direction through Gury, eleven miles southeast of Mont Didier. It then curves more to the east and passes through the Montigny quarry to the hill north of Antoval, just northwest of Ribecourt on the Oise.

HEAVY FIGHTING LOOKED FOR.

PARIS, Aug. 12. The Germans are reacting on the Allied left with a certain amount of success, having had time to get into the divisions rushed frontally from the north. German troops are being thrown in the light in a desperate endeavor to block the Allied advance toward Nesle. General Von Hutier, who received much damage from the Mont Didier pocket, is now trying to hold temporarily on the Roye-Noyon line. He is strong enough on the Noyon and where his flank rests on the Oise, but should the British succeed in driving back the Germans from the villages of Lihons, Dully, Franzart, Fresnoy and Mortain.

Little fighting has taken place on any of the fronts along the Vesle. The Germans again have delivered violent counter attacks against the Americans and French who are holding their ground on the north bank of the stream. As on previous occasions when the enemy attempted to dislodge Allied troops the counter attacks failed. British aircraft have brought down a German airship off the coast of Holland, according to announcement by the British Admiralty. An Austrian division is with the Germans but not yet in action.

Mr. Angus Jones of St. John's, Halifax, N.S., writes: "For three years I suffered terribly with eczema on my hands. The itching was so intense that it kept me awake at night. I used various so-called 'eczema cures,' but got no better until I commenced applying Zam-Buk. The use of this wonderful healer, however, has entirely rid me of this distressing disease."

IMPORTANT TOWN TAKEN.

PARIS, Aug. 12. French troops have captured the town of Gury, about eight and a half miles south of Roye, according to the French official communication received to-night. Two counter attacks against the positions held by the French and Americans on the Vesle River near Fismes have been repulsed. The text of the communication follows: Between the Aves and the Oise our troops captured the village of Gury. We have made some progress to the north of Roye-Sur-Matz and Chevincourt. On the Vesle front we have repulsed two violent counter attacks against our positions on the north bank of the stream in the region of Fismes. The French war official in Sunday morning's statement announced that the French have reached the outskirts of Gury. This town is an important point of Lassigny-Massif, within two miles of Lassigny itself, which is the immediate French objective in this sector, possession of which would be likely to cause a considerable retirement by the Germans, both to the east and west of this end of the battle line.

THE WORK OF TANKS.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 11. (By the A.P.)—Tanks, both the large ones and the "whippers," have performed tremendous services at a small town along the Amiens-Roye Road. The French infantry sent word to the British that they could not get on because of the heavy machine gun fire from the town. Five ponderous armored monsters went over and rolled directly into the place. Their crews discovered that the houses were crowded with Germans manning machine guns, principally from second story windows. One tank leisurely advanced upon a house while a trail of bullets splashed off its metal hide. After connoitering at close range the tank backed off and charged home. Its great weight crushed in the whole building, and it continued forward until the structure was flattened out with the enemy machine gunners effaced. After this success the four companion tanks engaged various groups of the enemy, and the house wrecking machine proceeded to roll down and flatten nine other houses. This tank literally crushed the entire village and all the enemy within.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Aug. 12. (Official.) Yesterday evening the enemy again attacked our positions south of Lihons. He was repulsed. As a result of a successful operation carried out by us immediately south of the Somme we captured two hundred prisoners and linked up our positions east of Etineham on the north bank of the river. On the right of the Fourth British Army our Allies made progress yesterday afternoon in the direction of Roye, capturing the villages of Armancourt and Tillooy. On the northern portion of the British front we effected local improvement in our line east of Robecq and between Vieux, Berquin and Meris.

MOVING UP TO ROYE.

LONDON, Aug. 12. The French troops have advanced nearer to the important point of Roye from the southwest, by the capture of the villages of Armancourt and Tillooy, according to the official statement from General Haig today. South of the Somme British troops have captured two hundred prisoners. British positions east of Mericourt south of

CANADIANS' WORK.

LONDON, Aug. 11. (By the A.P.)—Sir Edward Kemp, Overseas Minister of Militia, said today the official reports covering the Canadian operations until nine o'clock Saturday morning showed the achievements of the Canadians in the present offensive were the greatest in the Corps' history. The extent of their advance on Aug. 8th and 9th was 12 miles. They went further in those two days than the Germans had progressed in the first two days of their March offensive. Sir Edward gives credit for the outstanding success to the incomparable spirit of officers and men, coupled with the efficient training and magnificent team work between the infantry and artillery.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 12.—There is an unconfirmed report that the town of Roye, which the Germans have been defending so desperately, has been evacuated. British tanks have been seen operating a considerable distance east of that town.

SUB. COMMANDER RECOGNIZED.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 12. Fishermen claim to have identified the commander of a German submarine, which has been sinking fishing boats off the Atlantic coast, as a skillful navigator, formerly in the United States Fisheries Service. Two men from different schooners that were sunk claimed to have recognized a former acquaintance who had changed little except that he had grown a beard since they last saw him.

GERMAN AIRSHIP BROUGHT DOWN.

LONDON, Aug. 12. A German airship has been brought down in flames north of Ameland, on the northern Dutch coast, the Admiralty announced today.

GERMAN GENERALS SIDE-TRACKED.

LONDON, Aug. 12. Three German Generals recently commanding near Mont Didier, have been cashiered for neglect of duty, according to Belgian reports received in Amsterdam and transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph Co. A large number of soldiers were court-martialed at St. Quentin on Saturday for high treason. The Germans in Belgium are showing signs of great uneasiness, and the German Emperor is reported to have moved to Brussels.

MACKAY-BENNETT TORPEDOED.

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 12.—Local morning papers publish reports to the effect that the cable steamer Mackay-Bennett has been torpedoed. One version is that the Mackay-Bennett was torpedoed off this coast. The reports have not yet been verified. Both accounts state the crew of the ship are safe.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. The Associated Press carries the following despatch: Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 12.—Sinking of the British steamer Penistone by a German submarine off George's Bank, was reported here today. The Penistone, a vessel of about 4,000 tons gross, apparently was sunk by the same submarine that destroyed nine fishing schooners on Saturday. The first reports made no mention of the crew's safety and gave no details of the attack.

A NEWSPAPER DENIAL.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 12. With reference to the recent statement in the House of Commons that 150 submarines had been sunk, the Dusseldorf Nachrichten's Berlin correspondent says "we are able to state definitely that the enemy's anti-U-boat war cannot show any success."

ZEPPELIN BROUGHT DOWN.

LONDON, Aug. 12. British airmen to-day brought down a German Zeppelin in flames off the English coast, according to advice to the Star; the machine was one of the largest and newest of this type of aircraft.

SUB. USE POISONOUS GAS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 12. Using poisonous gas, a German submarine attacked the coast guard steamer and lighthouse on Smith's Island, off the North Carolina coast Saturday night, the navy dept. to-night announced. Six men were overcome by the gas. The gas was released from oil spread over the surface of the water by the submarine. The navy dept. announcement said: Three large areas of the oil, each larger than an acre grounded near the island. The gas which appeared similar to mustard gas used in fighting on the western front was effective in about 40 minutes. None of the men overcome by the fumes died.

Letter From Her Son.

Mrs. Thom Oliver, 79 Field Street, is in receipt of the following letter from her son Philip, of "Ours," a prisoner of war in Germany. At the time of writing P.H. Oliver was about to be sent to Holland as an exchange, and by now is doubtless on neutral soil.

Dear Mother,—Just a few lines to let you know I am enjoying the best of health, as I hope you all at home are. I have passed the medical examination for to go to a neutral country, and I expect to go soon to Holland. My wound is healed up, and I am just the same as ever, and you will want to look out for yourselves when I get home for I have been a prisoner for the last six months. I had a letter from Florrie and there were two snaps in it and they were something grand. We are only allowed to send 4 postcards and two letters each month, so my letter or a postcard will have to satisfy the lot. I answered Florrie's letter last post card day; I hope she will receive it all right. Dear mother there is no need to worry over me, for I am in the pink. I want for nothing; I got my clothes, boots and plenty of cigarettes, tobacco and food stuff from the Red Cross in Canada. I wish to be remembered to all my friends at home; give them all my best love. How is J. Ivany getting on; I would like to be handy to him now; I could tell him some yarns. We will be together soon again, I hope. I think I have said all for the present, so I must now close with best love and a greater regard for home than when I left it.

I remain, your fond son,
PHILIP.

Not Affected By War.

MR. STONE'S INTERVIEW WITH HALIFAX CHRONICLE.

"Prospects are exceedingly bright in the fishing world of Newfoundland," said Hon. J. G. Stone, Minister of Marine and Fisheries of Newfoundland, to a Chronicle reporter yesterday.

"The fish are being caught in large quantities and they are also fine in respect to quality this year. It is too early yet to predict the catch for this year, as the Labrador has not yet been heard from, but it promises to be an average year. The shore fisheries and Straits are doing splendidly to date."

Hon. Mr. Stone said the war had not yet affected the people much and that they had been most fortunate in their supplies.

"The people seem to be more prosperous this year owing to last year's big catch and the good prices," said Hon. Mr. Stone.

Hon. A. E. Hickman, member of the Newfoundland Government and representative of the Government at the Convention, also spoke in the most optimistic terms of the fishing situation of the Island.

"The wealthy people of Newfoundland are our fishermen and so far our supplies have not been short. This year, though, with the strict Government regulations the people are a little worried, for in the North the fishermen have to take six months supply of food in the Fall. If the Food Board of Canada give the monthly food allotment the people will be in bad shape, but I guess that difficulty will be overcome," said the Hon. Mr. Hickman.

He also said that prices on fish were higher this year than last and that the herring catch was particularly good this year. Mr. Hickman also stated that vessels were being built in Newfoundland to conform to the markets in the war zone, and also referred to the fact that at present they had only one cold storage plant.

A Great Reward.

At a great Liberty Day meeting in London, when a resolution was enthusiastically adopted, congratulating the United States on the marvelous achievement of transporting the first million of American soldiers across the sea, Mr. Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions said: "I am persuaded that the finest and worthiest moment in our long British history was reached on that August night, now nearly four years ago, when we declared war on Germany. Little do we know where it would carry us or what it would bring us. Like the people of the United States, we entered this war without counting the cost and without any thought of reward. The cost has been far more terrible than our most sombre expectations. But a reward is coming to us beyond our dearest hopes."

That reward does not lie in territory, independence, commercial advantages. Deep in the hearts of our people lay the desire to be truly reconciled before all men and all history with that kindred across the Atlantic Ocean. "That was our heart's desire. It seemed utterly unattainable but it has come to pass. However long the struggle, however cruel, however con-

Bad Fingers Amputated

While operating a machine in his cooperage yesterday, Mr. James Fitzhenry, cooper, of James Street, met with a very painful accident. In some unaccountable manner, his right hand got caught under the knife in the machine and before he could extricate it two fingers had been nearly severed. He hurried to Stafford's pharmacy, but finding Dr. Stafford absent, visited Dr. Tait who soon bandaged the injured member. It is feared that Mr. Fitzhenry will be compelled to have the fingers amputated.

Death of A. M. Bell

The Halifax Chronicle of August 8th, contains the following obituary notice of A. M. Bell, of the firm of A. M. Bell, Ltd., of that city. Mr. Bell was well known in Newfoundland, particularly on the South and West Coasts, where he had many business connections. The Telegram extends sympathy to the bereaved relatives.
"The community will learn with regret of the death of Mr. A. M. Bell, who passed away at midnight. Mr. Bell had been in failing health and had been living practically in retirement for several years. He was for many years one of the leading business men of Halifax, and through the firm which bears his name, was widely known and respected throughout the Province. He was an active member of the Board of Trade and was deeply interested in every movement for civic betterment. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Church and was closely associated with its college and other work. He was over seventy years of age. He is survived by a widow and two sons, Ralph F. Bell, Secretary of the Halifax Relief Commission, and Winthrop Bell, who was studying in Germany at the outbreak of the war, and has been held there as a prisoner."

Let There Be Light.

If the unwillingness of the Minister of Finance and Customs to make public the report of the Auditor General on the alleged shortage of Six thousand dollars in Cold Cash in the Custom collecting department of the Customs House is due to a desire to shield some person or persons, then we feel that we are unable to compliment him on having that quality of courage which should be shown in a Minister of the Crown. There must be a great deal more than current reports suggest in this matter, and we are led to believe that there is just cause for condemnation of the manner and method by which the Customs Department is governed. For some days we have refrained from discussing this subject, hoping that official light would be thrown upon the darkness, but hopes have been vain and we are constrained to revert to this matter once more. It is too serious to let drop. Six thousand dollars of the public revenue have disappeared, not on I. O. U.'s as some of our outport contemporaries appear to imagine, but in actual cash, and so far from wishing to clear up the doubt, the authorities are deliberately suppressing any and all information, hoping thereby to leave the affair forgotten, or at least wishing that such will be the case. But there is a measure of justice to be satisfied, and until the whole facts are revealed, every official in the Customs Department will rest under suspicion. It is a wonder that they do not demand that the whole report of the circumstances be published. If the Minister has not the moral backbone to exonerate them, the initiative should be taken by themselves. Their positions as public servants demand it and their personal honor demands it. The public, too, have a say in this and judging by the unfavorable comments heard on every side, an opinion is manifesting itself which is distinctly hostile to the Cavalier way in which the taxpayers have been treated. Not so very many months ago a mail clerk was sent to the Penitentiary for two years, his offence being that of taking money from the mails, the whole sum of which did not amount to more than one-twentieth of the amount involved in the Customs shortage. The question might well be asked, is there discrimination? It looks like it. If an apparently unknown postal official was sentenced to hard labour for mail peculation, how is it that well known Government officials are permitted to embezzle (there is no other word for it) much larger sums from the revenue and no action be taken. We say it here and we shall continue to demand that the guilty parties in the Customs Department be punished and the innocent cleared of the suspicion, which attaches to them. We want no invidious distinctions, neither does the country want men occupying positions of trust, capable of betraying that trust. Let there be light.

Notes and Comments

The price of coal shows no devaluation, notwithstanding that the Reid Nfld. Co. sell it to their employees for $18.50 per ton, plus cartage.

These two items Food and Fuel, must have preference. Other goods must take second place.

Perhaps you will find it easier to pronounce the name of the Ourcq River if you remember what you remarked repeatedly that time when you were so seasick.

It is rumored that the "Blue Puttees" who returned home last week after four years service "over there" will be allowed only one month's leave before being ordered to France again. We trust that this rumour, much repeated, is not correct.

"The Lord hath done great things unto us" is said to be a frequent quotation in the German press. He has—but not in the way the Germans mean.

It will take more than a food shortage to make some people eat their soup without disturbing the peace.

High grade whisky is becoming scarce in England. At a country fair the other day, a tidy sum was realised by charging a shilling a sniff at a bottle of pre-war Scotch. How much could be raised in St. John's for patriotic purposes at the same rate?

"What made the lobster blush?"
"He saw the salad dressing."

The Foodstuffs Situation.

Mr. H. B. Thomson, Chairman of the Canada Food Board, had a lengthy conference yesterday afternoon with the members of the local Food Control Board and the Committee of the Foodstuffs Importers, at which the situation in relation to Flour, Substitutes, Feed, Pork, Beef, Fresh Meat, Butter, Sugar, Cheese and other commodities was fully discussed and a satisfactory understanding reached in relation to all of them. The result of the discussion briefly is that the position with regard to all these several matters was made very clear and we believe we are safe in saying that there is no reason to doubt that an adequate supply of all the main foodstuffs will be available for this Colony for the coming fall and winter. Another conference will be held this afternoon when it is hoped that as an outcome of this entire foodstuff situation for Newfoundland will be satisfactorily arranged for the present season, barring of course any emergency that cannot be foreseen at the present time.

Yesterday's Luncheon.

Yesterday, at one o'clock, for the purpose of meeting Messrs. H. B. Thomson, the Canadian Food Controller, Greenwood, of the Food Control Board, and Gossell, of the Department of Public Information at Ottawa, the local Board of Trade held a luncheon at Wood's Restaurant. Mr. Gordon Winter, the President, presided, and introduced Mr. Thomson to the members. Mr. Thomson expressed his great pleasure in having the privilege of coming to the Dominion of Newfoundland, and examining for himself the existing conditions here, which, he admitted, were very different from those of Canada. In a very interesting manner he told of the problems confronting the Mother Country, and of those confronting Canada. England imports a large percentage of her foodstuffs, in fact, nearly all, while Canada produces nearly all her own food, and her (Canada's) problem was conservation, so as to be able to ship as large a quantity as possible overseas, to England and her allies. Very graphically he described the efforts of the Board of Food Control in Canada in dealing with conservation, production, and agricultural labor. Canada's wheat crop this year is 300 million bushels short, or in other words, a shortage in Canada's earnings of 650 million dollars. However, this shortage will be made up by America's enormous wheat crop, this year, which will reach the stupendous total of one billion bushels. Before the war, said Mr. Thomson, a large proportion of the beef consumed in Canada, was imported from Australia, but this year, they not only are producing all that they themselves need, but are conserving enough to supply 500,000 soldiers at the front. The F. C. B. is looking ahead now to conditions that will likely prevail in 1919, and are preparing for any eventualities that might arise. Mr. Thomson's address was very interesting, and at the finish Mayor Gosling proposed, and Mr. F. H. Steer seconded a vote of thanks to the speaker, and it was heartily carried. The general public will have the opportunity of hearing the visitor speak to-night at the Casino Theatre where he will lecture on Food Control matters.

To-Night's Lecture.

It is to be hoped that there will be a large gathering of citizens at the public meeting in the Casino Theatre this evening when Mr. H. B. Thomson, Chairman of the Canada Food Board, will deliver an address on the Food situation. Everybody who possibly can ought to attend, women as well as men, and especially those who have sent representatives to the front or those who have men in uniform preparing to go there. The bearing of the foodstuff situation on the future of the war is one of the most interesting aspects of the matter and it is this which Mr. Thomson will deal with especially, and we have no doubt he will make a presentation of the case which will strongly appeal to the patriotism of all those who are present, as well as the community in general.

Changing Premises.

The firm of Percie Johnson, Ltd., has taken over the premises lately occupied by the Direct Agencies, Ltd., in the Board of Trade Building, and will use them in addition to the store in the City Club Building, which latter is now too small for the business which is continually growing. The Direct Agencies are moving into the Wood's Block, they also having found their present quarters too small for their ever increasing trade.

Rod and Gun.

"The Skunk and Dolphin" by Jane Dillworth, a story of the visit of that particularly obnoxious little animal with the white stripe down its back to the cabin of a French Canadian; "A Wet Breakfast on a Dry Stump" by Marlow A. Shaw, showing the psychological effect of continuous rain on the mind of an ordinarily cheerful camper; "When Grandpa Jumped over the Tracks," the story of a trek to the northern gold fields; "Five Shots at a Chuck" by F. V. Williams; are among the list of contents in the August issue of Rod and Gun. Such departments as Rod and Gun Mechanics, Fishing Notes and Guns and Ammunition are well maintained while a specially illustrated account of the tournament of the Canadian Indians at Niagara on the Lake on July 1st and 2nd is contained in this issue. Prominent trap-shooters in Indian costume are shown in connection with this account. Rod and Gun is published by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

BUILDING NEW VESSEL.—Mr. Clarke, of Springdale, N.D.E., is now about ready to begin building another schooner, which will be about 400 tons gross.

Open wide your eyes for here is something worth reading: 48 doz. Men's Dress Shirts, worth $1.25, all sizes and one price, 75c. each. W. B. GOOBIE is just opp. Post Office.

FIE, WINOOR WOUNDED.—Friday last, a message from the authorities at Ottawa, was received by Capt. Jesse Winoor, Wesleyville, stating that his son, Pte. Winoor, who has been with the Canadian forces during the past three years, had been dangerously wounded in the recent fighting. No further particulars have been received but it is hoped that ere this the young soldier's condition has much improved.

Cricket Revival.

Lovers of the game, and their name is legion, will attend on masse the match between the Shamrock and Nondescript elevens, which takes place to-morrow. A great game is promised as some of the best willow wielders in the country will play, and the bowlers of yore olden time will put some fast ones down the pitch. The proceeds will be devoted to a very laudable purpose. The game of cricket should never have been permitted relegation to obscurity, and it is to be hoped that to-morrow's game will be the initiation of its revival in St. John's.

The following are the players in to-morrow's game:—
Nondescript.—Revs, Brinton, Clench and Fletcher, Messrs. R. F. Goodridge, J. S. Ayre, J. A. Winter, H. A. Winter, E. Taylor, C. F. Taylor, C. R. Duder and H. W. Dickinson.

Shamrock.—R. Wallace, T. Ryan, J. Savage, E. Berrigan, C. W. Ryan, E. Purlong, P. Berrigan, N. Vinnicombe, K. Frenchard and R. T. McGrath. The game starts at 1.30 p.m.

Comparative Values in Footwear!

With the majority of people, price is the chief consideration in purchasing footwear. That's why there are so many uncomfortable feet in Newfoundland to-day and so many dissatisfied shoe purchasers.

For low-priced shoes cannot be good shoes—the high cost of good materials and skilled labour won't permit. Then why experiment—at the expense of your comfort—with low-priced shoes? Why not wear and be thoroughly satisfied?

Distinctive & Pleasing in Appearance, they possess that style individuality that is the hallmark of fine footwear.

INVICTUS SHOES will outwear ordinary low-priced shoes—yet they cost little more.

INVICTUS SHOES are still made from the finest grade of imported and selected leather by men expert in the art of shoemaking.

If you have not worn INVICTUS SHOES you do not know what comfort is. Let your next shoes be INVICTUS and you will be satisfied.

We are Sole Agents for Men's INVICTUS Shoes.

The Lie You Will Tell Yourself.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Speaking of lying (which I did a few days ago) I am not sure that the s k i n-out-of-it lie is the worst kind of lie, after all. It's the mesent k i n d; but there's another kind that I almost think does more harm, and that's the lie you tell yourself.

Many people who would be very careful not to tell a lie to some one else, will lie continually to themselves. About their motives for doing things, about their feelings towards others, about their reasons for those feelings, about their own rights and wrongs—in short, about every question that comes up between one and oneself in the course of the day's work and play.

They lie because they have to prove themselves right.

Self justification is perhaps the commonest form of self deceit. When one does a thing which one knows people do not feel is quite up to the mark, some part of one immediately starts justifying that deed. And the lie one tells oneself to accomplish that justification, are often so ingenious that it seems a shame to use such ingenuity to no better end. I have a young cousin who is rarely gitted in this way. When she does a thing purely for her own pleasure (as she usually does), she can nevertheless make herself believe that she did it entirely for the sake of others. I wonder if you know anyone like that.

Be Lazy If You Must, But Don't Lie About It.

One of my worst offenses in this direction, is the lies I am always tempted to tell myself when I know I ought to go to work and do not feel like doing so. I can think up all sorts of things I really ought to do,—run to ask a neighbour about this or that, look up something in a magazine, telephone someone, etc., etc.—all things which, if I feel I really ought to do before settling down to work. At least, so the part of me that tells the lies, assures me. The other part of me, the part that knows better, says, "Nonsense, you know perfectly well you are just lazy. Be lasy if you want to, but don't lie about it!" Sometimes people will tell you what you feel are lies in regard to matters in which they are absolutely safe from detection, because they are the only one who know the truth. For instance, what they meant by this or that. I always long to know, in such cases, whether they know they are lying or not. Personally, I would rather think lies to oneself do more harm than lies to me about it than not know the truth.

Character Houses Built On Sand. Perhaps that last statement seems strained to you. The point is this: I think lies to oneself do more harm than any other kind, because self-honesty is at the root of all honesty, all straight forwardness and clear mindedness. A person who lies to himself, who does not know himself, will never be efficient in character building, because he starts with a foundation of sand. And we have all known, ever since we first went to Sunday School, what happens to houses built on sand.

At the Pool of Bethesda.

An English reservist, who was living near Sudbury, Ont., before the war, writes to his old neighbors from the Pool of Bethesda, Palestine: "I tasted the water—not too clean!—and in order to do it had to descend lots of steps, as the well is deep down in the ground. At the entrance one may, if one wishes, read in 77 different languages the account of the healing described in the fifth chapter of John—a quite sufficient choice, one would imagine, but 'Taffy' thought differently, and not finding his mother tongue represented, promptly wrote it all out in Welsh from his own Testament. So now there are 78 different versions for visitors to choose from."

THE YANK WHO GOT A COLONEL.

I wish I could have seen him trudging rearward with his prize. Seen the grin upon his visage and the twinkle in his eyes. I wish I could have heard him in that din of war infernal shouting: "See the bird I captured! Take a look! I got a colonel!" Oh, I fancied when I read it I could almost hear him chuckle. As he grabbed that haughty Prussian and then calmly made him kneel. And I'd like to see his picture printed here in every journal. Proudly coming in from battle shouting: "Hey! I got a colonel!" I don't know where he hails from, and I didn't get his name. But I hold that Yank's entitled to a goodly share of fame. It would be an inspiration to our boys through time eternal. Just to read about that dough boy who went out and bagged a colonel.

"Strafe" Made Prize of War.

The British have taken "strafe." In an announcement from the Oxford University Press the fact is officially made known. The captured word has been included, not to say inserted, in the latest volume, Volume IX, of the Oxford dictionary. And as a trophy of war it has been treated after a characteristically British fashion. Its fat Teuton "a" has been changed to the long English "a" as of "safe," and from two syllables it is reduced to one, so that it may rhyme with "craze."

Nor does the process of eliminating German in this verbal instance stop on the mere point of pronunciation. To the compilers of the Oxford lexicon it is "v. slang." So in captivity this word of portent originally here loses not only in quantity but in quality. To quote the London Times, as cited by the dictionary makers, "strafe is becoming a comic English word."

THE PAINFUL HEADACHE.

Headaches are a foe to beauty that should be most carefully guarded against, even though the long train of beauty ill following in their wake is usually ascribed to other causes. A dry, scaly skin, dull lifeless eyes, lack of color, an unbecoming expression and, what is almost more to be deplored than anything else, wrinkles, can all be caused by headaches.

If you have been in the country for a long time and feeling particularly virtuous because you have been doing something for your health, it is decidedly annoying suddenly to find your head aching with a most unbearable throbbing. However, this kind of headache is very simply remedied. Your shoes are unquestionably to blame.

If the heel is too high or too narrow, or the sole is not broad enough, they will strain the muscles of your feet but throw out of balance the internal organs of the body. Of course, the cure for this form of headache is to get more sensible shoes. Strip off your stockings and bathe your feet in hot water in which two teaspoonfuls of some invigorating bath powder has been dissolved.

Don't forget that your diet has a great deal to do with your clearness of head, and no amount of foot baths or massages will overcome an upset stomach and its inevitable revenge—a headache.

Mild Scotch Cured Herring.

While importers continue to sell Newfoundland Scotch cured herring at prices well below the quotations, there is a tendency on the part of some holders to remain out of the market with offerings until such time as a real demand has developed. At present the market favors the buyer, but it may be that within the next few weeks the situation will be entirely reversed, especially when the demand assumes proportions with the increase of consumption requirements. Winter and spring Scotch cured herring have been bringing $31 to $33 ex-dock in some instances and sales ex-warehouse have been made at $22 and $25 for fancy stock. Still there are holders who will not make any concessions, being content to hold their goods until the market has reached the present quotations. It is not likely, however, that the price of Newfoundland herring will show a shortage. Shipments arriving in New York have been comparatively light, and most of the goods received have been of the spring and winter pack, there being little fall cured herring to be had. Indeed, most of the Newfoundland packers are entirely sold out of fall herring, and it is doubtful if there are more than a few hundred barrels in the hands of merchants and shippers in St. John's.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, Aug. 2.

As to Contributions.

"The question of the wisdom of printing the amounts of the individual contributions to collections for philanthropic and patriotic funds," says the Annapolis Spectator, "is one that has been of late discussed with clergy-men and leading citizens, the majority of whom are of opinion that it is unwise, as it only generates petty jealousies, only gratifies personal egotism and does no public good. Many of the best people prefer to give anonymously rather than have their names mentioned, while others who may be looked upon to set an example are of the idea that if it were possible to make all such collections voluntary, like that of a plate passed around at church, it would be much better. Of course when a church is dependent upon voluntary contributions and has no fasting population to loosed upon, it is necessary to have the expressions guaranteed in advance by something on the order of the envelope system, but where an amount is raised by collection, it is believed that a better feeling would result if it were stated that so many contributors totalled such or such an amount, rather than by specifying the individuals. The Spectator has heretofore given up much space to print lists of names of contributors when requested to do so but in future asks those who send such lists to oblige by having as nearly to the line of the above ideal as may be practicable."

Shell Shocked Nerves

Shattered nerves are the source of greatest suffering to many a returned soldier.

The doctor can give something to relieve physical pain, but when the nervous system breaks down and you are sleepless, nervous and mentally worried, real cure only comes when the exhausted nerve cells are nourished back to health and vigor by such restorative, up building treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

MORE SLACKING.

There are a hundred ways to slack, and each is worse than all the rest; so place your burden on your back, and do your stunt with joyous zest. In these grim times employers need the very best of their help can give, if they would keep up proper speed, and dodge the bankrupt court and live. If you don't do the best you can to help the boss survive the stress you're following a loathsome plan—the slacker's spirit you confess. There is no time to loaf and talk, when there are useful things to do; it is no time to watch the clock, or oggle all the dames in view. You may have bought a pair of stamps, you may have bought a bond or three, but you trade with the slacking scamps if you're not busy as a bee. This war won't last a thousand years, it may run down before next May, and then there'll be all kinds of tears for those who slacked their time away. Your boss will say, "Augustus Kelp, when wartime troubles made me yell, and I was needing loyal help, you were not worth three hoots in Hannibal, Mo." And he'll denounce you as a swab, and maybe groom you with a chair, and every place you hunt a job, your slacking record will be there. But if you do your duty now, whatever sort of place you fill, you'll have the laurels on your brow when we have pickled Kaiser Bill.

Mr. Stone interviewed.

This morning, the Telegram representative had the honor of interviewing Mr. J. G. Stone, Minister of Fisheries and Forestry, who returned yesterday from the Fish Conference at Halifax. Mr. Stone treated us very courteously, and the following is a record of the conversation:

Reporter:—How many delegates were present?
Answer:—Well, the attendance varied. Each member attended the session that discussed the subjects in which he was most interested. However, there were about 70 in all.

Reporter:—What places did they represent?
Answer:—Oh, they came from the Maritime Provinces, the States and Newfoundland. They represented the fish business of those countries.

Reporter:—Who was the President of the Conference?
Answer:—Mr. Wilson, late President of the Canadian Fisheries Association.

Reporter:—What kind of a reception did you receive?
Answer:—I received the finest kind of a reception. Everything possible to make us feel at home was done. The members present were all very gentlemanly and courteous.

Reporter:—Did you speak during the Conference?
Answer:—Yes, I spoke on "The Further Propagation of the Fisheries" and also spoke on various subjects as they came up.

Reporter:—Did Mr. Hickman speak?
Answer:—Yes, Mr. Hickman spoke about the same.

Reporter:—Did any of the delegates question you re Newfoundland?
Answer:—Well, outside the Conference, they did. Many asked me about the fish and other industries of the country.

Reporter:—What seemed to be their general impression of Newfoundland?
Answer:—Well, as a matter of fact, a great many of them had never heard that there was such a place as Newfoundland. Those were men who had travelled far away. However, the men being nearer us displayed an intimate knowledge of our country and trade.

Reporter:—What were the subjects discussed in the Conference?
Answer:—The Propagation of the Lobster, Salmon, Cod, Herring and other Fisheries.

Reporter:—What conclusions were reached?
Answer:—Well, the members decided with the determination of furthering the fisheries, and to extend the cold storage business, in order to get the Canadian people to eat more fish, so as to conserve meat.

Strikers Refuse Offer.

Yesterday, a deputation, composed of Mr. P. Bennett, President of the N.L.W.A., Mr. Albert Bennett, of the Port aux Basques branch of the Association and delegates from the Relief Co. employees here, interviewed President H. D. Reid in connection with the strike now on at Port aux Basques. Mr. Reid offered them a rise of 8 cents on the night work, but none on the day work, which would make their pay 22 and 33 cents an hour. This offer was wired on to the strikers, and this morning an answer, stating their decision to refuse it, was received. It is much to be hoped that a satisfactory agreement will soon be reached.

Church Football.

What promises to be an item of unusual interest at the C. of E. Garden Party, at Exton, to-morrow, is the footer game between the junior members of the Methodist and Church of England Churches, respectively. Much interest is centered on the outcome of this game, as both teams are pretty evenly matched, and spectators will be assured an enjoyable hour. The players are as follows:— C. OF E.—E. Rees, E. Reid, W. Newhook, H. Hooker, J. Pearcey, S. McNeil, J. Newhook, J. Newman.

REPP. BROUGHT DOWN. LONDON, Aug. 12. An unofficial report announces that a Zeppelin of the largest and newest type has been brought down off the English East Coast.

PIRATICAL WORK. BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12. Subs raised the fishing fleet on George's Banks Saturday, and the crews of the fishing schooners "Old Time" and "Cruiser" probably were lost when their boats were sunk by gunfire without warning, according to the crew of the fishing schooner "Mary Bennett," which landed here to-night. The "Sennet" was also sunk by gunfire and shells were fired at the boats when they were putting away, the fishermen said.

SET ADRIFT IN DORIES. AN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 12. The number of fishing vessels destroyed by a German sub in its raid on the fleet of George's Banks last Saturday night was nearer a score than the 9 already reported, according to men from one of the vessels brought here to-day. This is the belief of Andrew St. Croix, mate of the schooner Kate Palmer, who says that from the crosstrees of his vessel he saw the sinking of 7 other schooners by bombs, and that before the submarine came into view he had counted 11 other explosions at intervals of 15 minutes and half an hour. According to the mate there were from 15 to 20 sword fishing vessels operating on the Banks, and he believed that the greater number of these were sunk. As each of them carried at least two dories crews, he estimated that at least 40 boat loads of men were set adrift on the Banks as a result of the raid.

ANOTHER SCHOONER SUNK. WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. The coasting steamer Herman Winter reported that a fishing schooner had been sunk on Sunday off the Massachusetts coast. The name of the craft was not given.

SURVIVORS LIVED. WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. Four survivors of the American schooner Katie Palmer, sunk by a German sub Saturday evening, 100 miles east of Nantucket, have landed at New Bedford, the Navy Department was advised to-day.

CONSULS RELEASED. LONDON, Aug. 12. Confirmation has been received from Stockholm by the Foreign Office of the release of Robert E. B. Lockhart, Acting Consul General at Moscow, and the Allied Consul there who had been arrested by the Bolsheviks.

AVIATION REPORT. LONDON, Aug. 12. An official communication dealing with aviation, issued to-night, says: Fifty tons of bombs were dropped by our airmen on Aug. 11th and the following night. The two chief objectives both by day and night were the crossings and certain railway junctions of military importance. Courtyard station and its sidings were heavily bombed by some of our squadrons in broad daylight from a low height, without loss to us. Many direct hits were observed. At night the stations at Porcane and Cambrai were severely attacked with good effect. All our night bombing machines returned safely. Enemy aircraft, flying in large formations, were active on the battlefield. Twenty-nine hostile machines were destroyed in air fighting during the day, and twenty-four others were driven down out of control. Four hostile balloons were shot down in flames. Five of ours are missing. The observation work for our artillery, carried out by airplanes and balloons, was steadily continued. On the night of Aug. 10-11 a Gotha machine was brought down by our anti-thrower fire, in addition to those already reported on the afternoon of the 11th instant. In addition to the bombing previously reported, a few bombs were dropped on the triangle of railways at Hots. On the night of the 11th-12th our machines attacked two hostile airdromes and various ground targets with bombs and machine gun fire. On the day of the 12th one of our squadrons, despite unfavourable weather conditions, successfully attacked 25 air-planes and chemical works at Frankfurt. Bombs were observed well in the centre of the objectives. Large numbers of enemy airplanes attacked and kept up a running fight for about thirty miles. Two enemy airplanes were destroyed. All our machines returned safely. Another of our squadrons attacked the hostile airdrome at Nagman, Altona, with excellent results. This squadron just after crossing the lines met large numbers of enemy ships and at once decided to give battle. As the result of severe fighting four enemy airplanes were destroyed and one other machine was driven down out of control. Two of our machines are mis-

Mrs. Alan Parsons, of St. John's, is in town visiting her friends.

The tug John Green arrived from St. John's yesterday with a three-masted schooner in tow, the latter will be docked here for overhauling.

The s.s. Sagons, on route to Labrador, arrived here yesterday afternoon and sailed for the coast last night. Among the passengers who joined the ship here were Mrs. R. S. Munn and Miss Munn for Labrador, and Mr. A. E. Collis for Twillingate.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Coffin, accompanied by Pte. Chaney and his sister, arrived from St. John's by motor car last week and returned after a few days spent pleasantly with their friends.

The s.s. Othar, with passengers from Bell Island, came in on Saturday evening and returned to the Island yesterday.

The schr. Minnie Mand arrived from north yesterday with a cargo of lumber for her owner, Mr. Ernest Simons.

Tents are erected about town today for the sale of ice cream, etc. The proceeds to go to help swell the sum to be realized at the patriotic concert in Coughlan Hall to-morrow night. No doubt a very pleasant evening will be spent.

Fishermen are still doing well with trawls, and the fish are of a very large size.

The Nfld. Bacon-curing Co. has its business office next to the west of Mr. Simons' shop on Water Street. We learn that building operations will shortly commence on an extensive scale. We wish the company a great measure of success.

"The Kaiser," "The Beast of Berlin," will be shown at the Nickel Theatre in St. Paul's Hall to-night.

Kink in the Back

You bend over and can scarcely get straightened up again. This comes on you so suddenly you can't understand it. This is lumbago. Like backache and rheumatism, it is the result of poisons in the blood. The kidneys are deranged, but the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will soon set them right. The pains and aches will disappear with the poisons when the kidneys do their work properly.

A Change in the Salvation Army's High Command.

COLONEL AND MRS. OTWAY LEAVY, NEWFOUNDLAND.

Colonel and Mrs. Otway, of the Salvation Army, who have been in command of the Army in this country for three years, are leaving us and go to Canada with their headquarters in Toronto.

The Colonel has been connected with the Army, as an officer, for nearly thirty-five years, and has seen service in England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, India and this country.

Most of his service has been as a Commanding Officer on the Field, but he has also done service on the International Headquarters and Training College in London.

They will be farewelling from the Corps of this city, Sunday, August 25th, and will have their last meeting Wednesday, August 28th, at No. 1 Citadel, 208 New Gower Street, when the Colonel will also Commission the Cadets who have passed through the last session of the Salvation Army Training College.

Further particulars will be given later.

Obituary.

It is with much regret that we note the death of Rita, daughter of Edward and Mary Fleming, which occurred at St. Vincent, St. Mary's, Saturday, August 3rd, after an illness of six months duration. Deceased was a bright and promising little girl of fourteen years. She was a pupil of the Convent School and while attending school took sick. She returned to her home in March, where she gradually grew weaker, notwithstanding the tender care, day and night, of her devoted mother and family. Always patient and gentle, she retained these qualities up to her last moments. She leaves to mourn, father, mother, three sisters (one of whom is Sr. M. Gabriel, St. Bridget's College, Littlefield), Sister Fleming, General Hospital, one at home, and three brothers to all of whom the writer extends sincere sympathy.—R.I.P.

The City of Big Things

(By John S. Steele.)

Belfast is a little town of big undertakings. It possesses the biggest plants of their kind in the world in five distinct industries. It has the biggest shipyard. It has the biggest glass factory. It has the biggest paper mill. It has the biggest rope works and the biggest distillery. Pretty good, isn't it, for a city whose population last year was only 417,000?

Most industrial cities have certain natural advantages connected with their famous industries.

Belfast has none of these. It has not an ounce of coal or iron within easy reach, and it has produced a great shipbuilding industry. Four-fifths of the flag used in the great linen industry has to be imported, and all the lace used in its great tobacco factories comes from the southern United States. It has not even a good natural harbor. The town is built on what is locally known as "slob land," which means swamp land, and its harbor would be silted up with mud in a year if it were not dredged regularly at great expense. Yet, in spite of all these disadvantages, it has succeeded, largely by the grit, industry, and determination of its people, in building up industries in which it leads the world.

Harland & Wolff's shipyard is of world-wide fame. Before the war all the White Star liners were built in their yards. So famous was Belfast in its shipbuilding, that it had become a habit for the great German fleet to have a ship built there occasionally, and then take her home and repair her. It is little exaggeration, then, to say that Belfast was responsible not only for many of the great British liners, but also for most of the German liners as well.

But Harland & Wolff do not monopolize the shipbuilding industry in Belfast. Their great yards occupy many acres of land on one side of the Lough, and nearly as many acres on the other. They are covered by the almost equal extensive yards of Workman & Clark.

Close by the biggest shipyard in the world is the biggest tobacco factory. It is the property of Thomas Gallagher & Co., and it is independent of another factory nearly as large. It is also "independent." Between them they paid in duty in normal times between £40,000 and £50,000 every week.

It is a popular error that the North of Ireland has attained its supremacy in the manufacture of linen because it owns its own raw material. This is not the case. The linen trade of the North of Ireland—and that means the trade of Belfast and half a dozen towns which almost may be called towns of Belfast—uses 100,000 tons of flax every year. Of this only 20,000 tons are grown in Ireland.

The Belfast Rope Works are the greatest rope works in the world—perhaps this emphasis on bigness is being tiresome, but it is due to Belfast to emphasize it—and Belfast is also one of the biggest distilleries in the world.

When Belfast's military effort is all a record. Before conscription was adopted in England, exactly half the number of her men of military age enlisted voluntarily, and since the strength of the Ulster division is mainly recruited from Belfast, it has been kept up by voluntary enlistment, although this division endured some of the heaviest losses in the world.

Modern "Wind Jammer"

Some eight years ago the largest sailing ship in the world—the Preussen—was driven ashore near Dover.
For eight years she had made some splendid runs between Germany and Chile, and occasionally she doubled
the Horn four times in the twelve months.

Wise people shook their heads and said that the day of the sailing ship passed with the wreck of the Preussen. Doubtless it would have passed if the war had not come about in 1914. In a flash everything was altered.
Huge steel ships were driven to the bottom in their hundreds, gradually the submarine got the upper hand
and then to make good their losses, Allied and neutral countries started to build sailing ships.

The two difficulties that faced the builders were carrying capacity and speed. America, with her vast resources of petroleum and timber, solved
the first problem. The difficulty of speed was obviated by the introduction of auxiliary motor power.

Now the yards of America and Norway, aye! and the yards of many an English seaport, too, resound to the strokes of mighty hammers as they fatten good oak and ash.

The master stands in the shipyard not with the model but by the vessel itself, that "laughs at all disaster."
Old men in England are once more finding jobs as sailmakers, and the long forgotten "handlers" stores are coming back to their own.

Thirty-two in one month! Such is America's record for building sailing ships. Nor is Norway backward.
She, too, is turning out mighty fivemasted, full-rigged ships with powerful oil-engines. Soon the ports of Britain will be the scene of that "forest of masts" so beloved of writers.

Man Overboard!

The dread cry raised amidships is taken up by those on deck, and reaching the ears of the officer-of-the-watch, causes him to stop suddenly in his stride. Quick and sharp come his orders: "Away lifeboats! Let go the lifebuoys!" He knows well that a man's life depends upon his buoys, and some day it may be his turn.

An electric bell worked from the bridge sends a sentry stationed at dashing to the ship's side to let go the two patent lifebuoys, each fitted with a calcium light which ignites on their reaching the water. At the same time the shrill piping and the hoarse voice of the boat's mate is heard beneath the bridge. On the instant the men of the watch, previously huddled behind the shelter of the lower-bridge screen, spring into activity, and with one accord scramble down the ladders to the upper deck, with the firm intention of being one of those whose privilege it will be to assist in the work of rescue.

The first fourteen clamber up into the cutter and start buckling on the lifebelts, which are always kept ready in case of such an emergency. It being a point of honour with him to be the first, the midshipman of the watch is already there, and the boat's crew being completed, he busies himself in seeing that the boat is all ready for lowering away.

Nothing left to chance.
On the bridge, the captain, having at the first alarm relieved the officer of the watch, skilfully manoeuvres
the ship to a position to windward of the spot where the lifebuoys can with difficulty be seen, so as to offer some slight protection to the boat from wind and sea.

The captain quickly gives an order,
at which the officer of the watch lowers the cutter to within a few feet of the water, and then, choosing the

"Hands Coal Ship."

When Fuel is Taken on a Battleship.
"Hands coal ship!" A brassy-throated bo'sun's mate repeats the commander's order. The men, clad in all manner of light and airy rig
for the occasion, hasten to their stations.

The coiler, with her 5,000 tons of coal from South Wales, is alongside with holds open, her fusely little "donkey-engines" snorting under full pressure of steam, whips rigged, and all in readiness.

Men swarm into the respective holds and commence operations. One ton of coal, in ten bags of two hun-dredweight each, has to come up at every hoist from each of the four holds. To do this means constant shovelling on the part of the men, who, amidst clouds of dust, sweat,
and toil to keep pace with the tireless steam-winch overhead.

A friendly rivalry is maintained between different parts of the ship.
An officer chalks up in each hold what the others are doing. Thus the hoarse voice of the fore-top are ten tons ahead of them. It needs little urging on the part of their officer to wipe off this deficiency.

When Jack Becomes a Nigger.

Work goes on till eight bells, when dinner is piped and quickly disappears, coal-dust included. No one is squeamish here. An ounce or two of "diamond-dust" doesn't affect Jack's healthy appetite one jot. Black as niggers, the men enjoy their "salt horse," "sea pie," or whatever the menu of the day may bring forth, drink their "tot," crack a joke over a pipe ere two bells and the bosun's mate calls them up from their respite.

Refreshed, the men turn to with a vengeance. The hand strikes up, dust-clouds rise thicker than ever,
while the donkey-engines rattle and snort and clank as they whip up load after load from the black depths where Jack toils.

"The last one hundred tons,"
the word goes round. A tusty cheer rises from the Dantean depths of the coiler. More quickly than seems possible, the order goes forth: "Avast heaving!" Bags, shovels, etc., are hoisted and dropped on the warship's decks, the men looking likeimps from the nether regions, tumble aboard their own ship.

Lines are cast off, the coiler slips
away to another ship in the line, while above the good-humoured banter and din rises the pipe of the boat's mate, followed by the welcome call: "General leave for the starboard watch; liberty men to clean!"

Hun Commander Boasted of His Work.

Yarmouth, August 7.—W. Worthen, cook of the Boston schooner Annie M.
Perry, Capt. James Goodwin, which was blown up by a bomb from the German U-boat on Saturday, was in town this morning on route for his home in Boston. Worthen is the first man of the Perry to report to United States Consul Watson, and leave for his home. In an interview he told how the submarine came upon them on Saturday about noon, and when about five miles out fired a shot close on, and the vessel was immediately hoisted to.

When the submarine came up within hailing distance her commander ordered the crew off without any delay, as the vessel was to be destroyed. He also ordered part of the Perry's crew aboard the submarine to whilst some of the Germans went on board the vessel to do their work of destruction.

Before blowing the Perry up, however, she was thoroughly ransacked and all of the provisions, together with her flag and papers, were taken.
The bomb was then placed, and the crew rowed back to the submarine to await her destruction, which was complete. In a very few minutes the U-boat commander then gave the Perry's men their position as thirty-five miles due west from Seal Island,
and at the same time congratulated
Capt. Goodwin on being so near land, stating that he had on previous occasions driven crews into their boats and destroyed their vessels four and five hundred miles out at sea, leaving them to get to land or be rescued
as best they could.

He then left them, and Capt. Goodwin shaped his course for Seal Island, where he landed at daylight Sunday morning, and from there was taken with his crew in a motor boat to Woods Harbor.

Capt. Goodwin, who was quite seriously affected by his experience, is still with several of his men at Woods Harbor, not yet feeling in condition to take the long round about all rail trip that is now necessary to reach Boston.

Poison Gas.

Some Points About a Diabolical Invention.

Gas, the most diabolical horror of modern war, was first employed by the Germans on April 22nd, 1915.
Thousands of Canadians and French coloured troops were choked to death. Professor Nenst, a famous chemist at Berlin University, is said to have first urged the use of poison gas.

Another professor—Haber—was given charge of the gas operations.
He had been experimenting in this direction even before the war started.
His problem was to find a gas easily and cheaply made, and highly poisonous. It had to be transported easily, and it had to be heavier than air, so that it would keep close to the ground.

A Canadian's Idea.
There were few gases that met all these requirements. Haber decided on chlorine, of which vast quantities were available from the German alkali works.

To carry the gas, stout steel cylinders thirty inches long, sixty-eight inches across, were contrived. Forty-five pounds of gas was compressed to a liquid, and stored in each. The total weight of each was ninety pounds.
A siphon device allowed the gas to be emptied into the air in three minutes.

Two pioneer regiments, officered
by chemists, meteorologists, and other scientists, were specially trained to handle gas.

The most favourable wind for gas
is one moving at about eight miles an hour. This carries gas at twice the pace of a man walking quickly.

Before a gas attack, several thou-

Liners Escapes U-Boats.

An Atlantic Port, July 30.—Three transatlantic liners which arrived here yesterday reported having been attacked by German submarines when about 300 miles off the Atlantic coast in latitude 38.35, longitude 70.40.

All three vessels by superior speed escaped undamaged after a running fight which lasted several hours.

The master of another vessel in port said that four days ago wireless calls were caught by his ship coming from a vessel in plain sight asking for assistance, but which, upon closer observation, proved to be a submarine with telescopic masts and was in many respects made up to imitate a sailing vessel in sinking condition.

Sprayers, something like those used for fruit-trees, are used to "kill"
gas lurking in the trenches.

Household Notes.

When old furniture is to be refinished it should be washed with warm soda water.

Apple ice can be made the same as any other fruit ice. A little lemon juice is necessary.

One secret in successful preserving is to have both tops and jars thorowly sterilized.

When stewing dried peaches or apples add a little orange peel. This makes a delicious flavor.

A meat chopper, strong shears and sharp knives are necessary for preparing foods for drying.

When you have too many currants mash them, strain the juice and pour it over sliced bananas.

Cold boiled ham is delicious when cut thin, seasoned with cayenne pepper and broiled two minutes.

When cucumbers are too large to slice satisfactorily to be eaten raw they may be fried or baked.

Fruits and vegetables, immediately after blanching, should be dipped for a minute into very cold water.
