For Her Sake,
The Murder in Ferness Wood.

CHAPTER LV.
Diana, anxious to avert a scene, took her seat by her father's side, saying a few pleasant words to him about the garden.
Her husband rudely interrupted her. "I should like to know, Diana," he began, "why you are late—why you cannot come down to breakfast in time, like other people?"
His voice was loud and harsh, and anger flashed from his eyes. Mr. Cameron looked up in surprise; the ladies appeared distressed; the Marquis de Vere frowned.
"I am sorry for being late," Diana answered, anxious to keep the peace. "It was thoughtless of me, but I forgot how time was passing. I will be more punctual for the future."
No one but herself knew how great was the effort she made to speak humbly and submissively, in the hope of preventing an outburst of her husband's temper. Discipline had taught her much, suffering more. Her pride was dying under the pressure of heavy sorrow. Anything was better than that she should shout at her beloved, the whole family—before those women who had been her foes, before her father and Richard. No one there had ever seen Diana so humble before.
Lord Clanronald muttered angrily. No one heard him plainly; but a hot blush arose to his wife's face. Richard saw that she took no breakfast, and that she was really alarmed.
"I can quite understand," he said to himself, "that this kind of thing would soon break the spirit of any woman. The chances are that Diana takes little enough as to what passes when they are alone, but cannot endure that her friends should be witnesses of such scenes."
In this opinion he was right. Obviously the kindest thing was to distract his attention; and that Richard did by at once speaking to him upon a subject that interested him, an impending swimming match. Lady de Vere was sufficiently content for her share in the storm to come to the rescue. But they all saw how Lord Clanronald's face darkened when he looked at his wife, and they knew by instinct that if he should see her alone, his furious temper would burst upon her again. Richard asked him if he would walk with him as far as the Knoll Farm, where there was a wonderful little spaniel for sale; and when they had gone Diana quickly left the room.

The ladies gathered into a little group and discussed the affair in whispers. They said it was all very well when they surrounded Lady Clanronald and shielded her; but what must it be for her when she was with him alone?
Lady de Vere alone took his lordship's part.
"Diana does not know how to manage him," she declared. "I could have lived with him forever without an angry word."
"I do not like to hear you speak in that manner, Evadne," said Lady Cameron. "You are always so unreasonably prejudiced respecting Lady Clanronald."
"No, I am not," retorted the beautiful marchioness. "I am sorry for her, and you know that I am, mamma; but I say what I have always said, that it is her own fault; and as she has sown so she must reap."
And Lady Cameron never succeeded in bringing her daughter to any other frame of mind.

CHAPTER LVI.
"Anywhere—anywhere out of the world!" thought Diana, as she hastened from the breakfast room, followed by the sympathizing looks of the ladies. "Any fate rather than this—any trouble, any sorrow!"
She could not breathe indoors; the rooms seemed to stifle her. She threw a black-lace shawl over her head and shoulders, and went out on to the terrace, hoping thus to be able to avoid the pitying glances of the ladies, and possibly her father's commiseration.
The sun shone in golden splendor on the terrace, on the statuary and the trees. In the grounds below the laburnum and the lilac mingled sweetly. How fair and sweet the world was, marred only by the sorrows and sins of men!
Diana went to her favorite spot, where the roses climbed, and stood there, quite unconscious how fair a picture she made in her dress of pale blue and her black lace.
A weariness that was akin to despair came over her. She was afraid of the feeling of hatred toward her husband that was growing in her heart. His constant ill-temper, incivility, and indulgence in offensive language to her had embittered her against him. She could see no way of relief but leaving her husband and coming home—coming to live under the sway of Lady Cameron—coming, like a penitent troubled sinner, to the scene of her former pride and glory. She could never endure that; nor could she bear the thought that public attention should be drawn to her misery. Even if she could leave him tomorrow, it would be of no use; she must until death remain his wife.

"If once and for all I could resign myself," she said, "if I could cease to struggle for happiness, if I could forget that there is any other state than this, if I could do as thousands of women in my place would do—take the good and leave the rest—if I could live for fashion, raves, excitement, it would be less miserable for me. Why does my heart yearn for something higher, nobler, better? Why should my soul be filled with yearning when life has nothing more to give me?"
As she stood musing, she heard the sound of carriage wheels; and, looking down the long avenue of chestnuts that led to the house, she saw a closed carriage with luggage on the top. She was but little interested, for visitors came and went at Ferness without having much to do with Diana. The carriage passed and drove into the courtyard. She fancied once or twice that she heard the sound of voices of surprise; but no surprise on earth could now hold any pleasure for her.
Then, after some time, she heard footsteps on the terrace. Surely it was not her husband! She understood his character better than others did; she knew that he would never rest until he had vented his ill-temper upon her. She trembled a little, then drew herself up proudly. "As well now as at any other time; the sooner it is over the better," she thought.
Dear Heaven, what was that? A voice cried "Diana!"—a voice that stirred her every pulse, that made every nerve thrill, that sent a crimson flush to her face, then left it dead, pale—a voice she had never expected to hear on earth again.
"Diana!"
She could not turn round. She was dazed, giddy, bewildered. It was as though a ray of sunlight had fallen at her feet, as though the whole world had suddenly changed for her, as though her wretched life had burst the cruel bonds that had brought her so much unhappiness.
"Diana"—and this time the voice had a caressing tone—"do not let me startle you. Your father told me you were here; will you not let me look at you? Raise your face and speak to me."
"I cannot!" she cried, as she bowed her head on her trembling hands.
"You must," said Sir Leslie. "I did not know you were at Ferness, Diana, or—forgive me for saying so—I should not have come. I would not have distressed either you or myself."
"I am glad to meet you," she said. "It is a pleasure, a gleam of happiness that I did not expect. I am so glad." But her hands trembled. "I have often prayed that I might see you once before I died."
She gasped rather than spoke the words, and he saw the great emotion that they covered.
"Look at me, Diana," he requested, gently. "I have carried the memory of your dear face with me all over the world. It has been with me night and day. I have seen nothing else by light of sun, moon or stars. Now that I am here—and I promise to go away again at once—let me gaze upon the face I love."
Slowly, and almost as one who unveils a ruined shrine, Diana removed her hands from her face and glanced up at him. She saw him start and look for a moment as though suddenly shocked. Then he cried out, as Sir Royal had done before him:

"Diana, what has happened to you?"
For in that pale, sorrowful, beautiful face before him, he saw little trace of the brilliant, proud Diana. He placed his hand beneath her chin and raised the colorless, tear-stained face to the light; then he saw more plainly the ravages that grief and pain had left there—he read more plainly the story of a life of misery without hope.
"My poor Diana!" he said; and she, looking at him, saw tears in his eyes. "Who has done it?" he cried. "Tell me! Do not fear to tell me who has broken your heart, Diana; for, if ever I saw the signs of a broken heart in any woman's face, they are in yours. Who has done it?"
"I have done it myself," she answered, in a low voice. "My own pride and folly have done it."
"There is something more than that, Diana!" he cried. "You look, my dear, as though your heart had been wrung; you look as though the best and brightest part of your life had been crushed out, as though all the light of your beautiful eyes had been dimmed by weeping, as though the bright, fresh, young loveliness that I remember so well had been washed away by bitter tears. Oh, Diana, my dear, lost love, who has caused this?"
She made no answer. From her heart there rose a despairing cry—that before he knew the complete story of her wretched married life she might die—fall on the ground there at his feet, and die! Let shame kill her! She had destroyed the life of this man who loved her, she had ruined her own life, all for the mere gratification of her pride and vengeance. Let shame kill her! But for her own mad folly, this man whose least word thrilled her heart would have been her husband, and she the happiest woman on the face of the earth.
Sir Leslie's dark face flushed with anger and sorrow as he watched her.
"You are but the ghost of yourself, Diana," he said. "You look as though for long years you had been subjected to cruel torture. I can see fear in your eyes—repressed but none the less terrible fear. Who has broken the dauntless spirit as well as the loving heart?"
She flung up her arms with a low cry.
"Hush!" she said. "I cannot bear it! If I am wretched it is my own fault."
"Then you acknowledge that you are miserable? Tell me who makes you so, Diana, tell me who is making you wretched that I may avenge you."
He raised his strong right arm, always ready to defend the weak and punish the wrong-doer, and Diana felt that where that right arm fell there would be little hope. Sir Leslie's usual calmness had deserted him, and strong passion now swayed him.
"You made your own choice, Diana," he said, mournfully. "Heaven only knows why you chose as you did; there seemed to be no earthly excuse for it. But no man shall wrong you while I live!"

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION
Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."
"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles."
"I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. Marie Boyd, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.
Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wishes to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.
If complications arise, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service.

Mexico Holds U.S. Official-Release of Jenkins Refused -- Big Coal Strike Unsettled -- Huge Meteor Plunges Into Lake Michigan -- Bulgaria Has Signed Peace Treaty.

MEXICO HANDS ONE TO UNCLE SAM.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 27. Declaring there is "no legal foundation for the principle of international law," upon which the United States bases its demands for the immediate release of William O. Jenkins, United States' Consular agent at Puebla, the Mexican Government, through Hilario Medila, under secretary of foreign relations, to-night stated it was impossible to accede to the request of the American State Department.

NO CHANGE IN COAL STRIKE SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. All agencies of the Government have failed so far to solve the bituminous coal miners' wage tangle, and from the outlook early to-day the situation is as far from adjustment as it was when the negotiations began.

BULGARIA SIGNS PEACE TREATY.

PARIS, Nov. 27. M. Stamboukowsky, Premier of Bulgaria, signed the treaty of peace between his country and the Allied Powers at Neuilly town hall at ten forty o'clock this morning.

TO STUDY LIQUEUR QUESTION.

LONDON, Nov. 27. A Government Bill to establish commissions in place of the Liqueur

Control Board, which will study the liquor question in all its phases, will be introduced before Christmas.

METEOR CAUSES PANIC.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 27. That a meteor of tremendous size plunged into Lake Michigan last night, causing the earth tremors felt in a dozen southern Michigan cities and sending a pillar of flame hundreds of feet into the air, which was visible for a radius of more than fifty miles, was the theory generally accepted early to-day in explanation of an earth shock which at first was believed to have been caused by a terrific explosion at some industrial plant. From reports from various Michigan, Indiana and Illinois cities, where the blinding flash was visible, it appeared the center of disturbance was near the lower end of Lake Michigan. Residents of Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, South Bend, Grand Haven, and other western Michigan cities, fled from their homes in panic, fearing earthquake. Houses were shaken and the country was illuminated as by bright rays so all enveloping that it was impossible to tell from which direction the flare came.

UNIONIST ELECTED.

LONDON, Nov. 27. Sir Alan Smith, Coalition Unionist, has been returned for South Croydon in the bye-election caused by the resignation of Sir Ian Malcolm.

Colours Bring Customers.

BRIGHT HUES SELL SWEETS AND FANCY CAKES.

The big railway companies are now overhauling all their rolling stock, and not only repairing engines and coaches, but giving them all a fresh coat of paint. There is nothing (a big railway manager once said) which is half so attractive as a newly-painted engine and coaches, and all companies recognize this so much that they make a special point of repainting their stock in bright colours regularly.

The South Western always paints its engines a bright green, the North Western black with red and gold, and the Caledonian railway a deep blue, for example.

In every business it is recognized that colour attracts customers, and those trades dealing in goods naturally colourless always make a point of adding that touch of colour which means so much. Nearly all sweets, for example, are naturally colourless, but a little harmless dye transforms them, and makes them appeal to the eye as well as the taste.

More and more the selling value of colour is being recognized in the big shops, which purposely dress their windows in a special colour scheme because they know it pays. From women's dress to glass and china ware, those that are coloured sell to a far greater extent than those that are white.

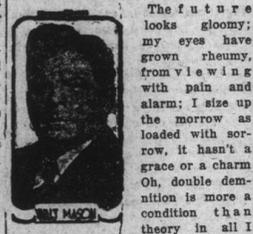

Even grocers will tell you that brown eggs sell more easily than white ones, while cakes always go better if they are coloured heavily with saffron. Cooks in big restaurants use all the colours of the rainbow in preparing their most dainty dishes, for they are well aware that the average diner eats with his eyes as much as he does with his mouth.

Chemists will tell you the same about scents and soaps, clear, bright colours, especially for scents, are absolutely necessary to ensure a good sale. Doctors colour their medicines just because the average patient doesn't think he is getting value for money if he receives a colourless-looking liquid.

Colour, in fact, plays an enormous, though often a forgotten part in our lives.

IN THE DEPTHS.

The future looks gloomy; my eyes have grown rheumy, from viewing with pain and alarm; I size up the morrow as loaded with sorrow, it hasn't a grace or a charm Oh, double demerolion is more a condition than theory in all I behold; our bulwarks are shaking, palladiums breaking—what wonder my tribys are cold? For I'm feeling rummy with cramps in my tummy, from eating too largely of pie; the pains of the colic inside of me frolic, and gladly I'd curl up and die. So and sadly I'm viewing the future and chiding a brag in a desolate way; and no one who hears me, who pauses and hears me, should care seven cents what I say. My message prophetic would be less pathetic if I had no spasm or ache; but gloom is the master of any forecaster who mixed up his pie with his cake. The prophets of evil who aped about weevil when they should be talking of wheat, would doubtless be cheery if they were not weary of pain in their stomachs or feet. The way we are feeling thus governs our speling, our outlook, and all that we do; a seer can't be sunny, for marbles or money, when he is tied up with the flu.

Life in the Navy.

OLD CUSTOMS PASSING AWAY.

The changes from wood to steel, from sail to steam, from carronades to 15-inch breech-loaders, from manual operation to the performance of everything possible by machinery, have almost completely altered naval life.

And in the personal sense also, the Navy which many of our pensioners recollect is quite different from that of to-day. The old sailor of the powdered pig-tail, nondescript clothes, uncertain terms of service, and rough and smooth manner of living, is not recognizable in the smart sailor of to-day, who is more likely than not a highly-skilled mechanic or scientist, a man of parts and intelligence, and who has chosen the sea as a calling and the Navy as a profession.

Even in small things, there are numerous recent and still progressing changes in naval life and manners which correspond to the changes going on ashore. For instance, "Make and mend" is still signalled, but whereas not so very long ago the purpose of the signal was actually for the men to make or repair their clothes, nowadays the order is practically for a half-holiday. Many fleetmen are still expert workers with the sewing-machine and the needle, but the tendency is more and more for uniform to be made by experts instead of by the individual handy man.

So with tobacco. The old style, in which Jack took the raw leaf, banded it up with due seasoning of rum, bound it round with tarry rope yarn, and produced the fragrant "perique" or torpedo-shaped plug of genuine Navy tobacco, has given way to the tin or packet of ready-made smoking mixture or the popular cigarette. Voyages are too short, and the day's timetable is too full, nowadays for valuable hours to be devoted to tobacco manufacture.

Sailor Slang.

Even speech alters. In the old days, when "eight bells" was reported to the captain, he would by custom reply, "Make it so," as if he were a kind of Joshua. Nowadays he contents himself by saying "Thank you for the information."

Naval slang, too, varies greatly from time to time. Men mix more with shore folk, and bring aboard the mannerisms of the modern landsman's speech.

New customs make their appearance sometimes in a rather mysterious way. Thus it is now usual, when the ensign is hoisted in the morning with due ceremonial for officers and men to salute. This is quite a recent innovation, though nobody seems to know quite how, when, or where it was introduced. There seems a military touch about it, as if the custom had been borrowed from the Army.

One feature of naval life that is passing away, and is to be regretfully numbered with the things that are doomed to extinction, is the bosun's pipe. Its shrill note is still heard and with all the old effect, especially on ceremonial occasions, but it no longer remains the great medium for calling men to station or action. It is being steadily replaced by the bugle.

There is no great loss, perhaps, in musical effect, for the bugle is as stirring as the wall of the pipe, but the boatswain's whistle was a peculiarly naval call, while the bugle gives another military touch to ship routine. But the fact is that ships are so big now and so populous that the pipe cannot be properly heard, and something more sonorous has to be employed.

Too Much Pocket Money

A Present-Day Habit that May Spoil a Child's Life.

A boy of ten years of age, whose father was killed in the latter days of the war, is now his mother's idol. The lady is carrying on her small shop as before, and when not at school, that lad helps her to serve. When any money is wanted for household expenses, she tells "Freddie" to take it out of the till.

If he asks to go to the pictures and she says "yes," it is quite the thing for him to get his entrance money from the till. The consequence is that he has absolutely no appreciation of the value of money—nor the real meaning of the word honesty. Sometimes he "lifts" a shilling and says nothing at all about it.

If "Freddie" was the only child in a like position it would be sad enough, but unfortunately many of our modern children are being given far too many "spends."

Cash Usually Causes Trouble.

Where there are a number of children in a neighborhood who play together, the few who are oversupplied with pocket money are generally the ones to lead the others into trouble. Only a few weeks back a mother was going out for the Saturday afternoon and allowed her three children to have a couple of little friends in to keep them company.

After tea, when the games they had played began to pall, the eldest boy and his two (twelve years old) suggested that they took a motor-bus and went out into the country. The cost would be some fivepence each, but since he had plenty of money, that did not trouble him. So off they all set.

When his mother returned after ten at night she was distracted to find that there was no one in the house, and on a neighbor telling her where the children had gone, her worst fears were aroused. Fortunately they arrived home safely but weary and worn out. This was the result of having too much to spend.

Child Expected Silver—Not Coppers.

Another ill-effect is that as they grow older they will regard money as nothing and scoff at work which would bring in anything less than some fancy fabulous sum.

Then, again, the children who do not get as much pocket money become envious and jealous, and perhaps a little grasping.

"Oh, he's got plenty, why shouldn't I take it?" said one little girl when

RAINBOW FLOUR is Wholesome

Rice, in order to make it attractive, has to be coated with Glucose and Talc, by which it gets its fine gloss.

Butter must be yellow to please the purchaser and is therefore frequently colored with yellow dye.

People demand White Flour and consequently Flour is often bleached to remove its natural creamy tint.

RAINBOW FLOUR is Not Bleached

her elder sister reproved her for taking sixpence from a boy companion.

The miserly child who puts every halfpenny in the money-box is an abomination, but he is far less likely to be led into harm than the one who rings more about on luxuries and amusements than some adults earn.

A surplus of cash makes children blasé, too. Recently a girl of seven, the child of working people, was absolutely annoyed because someone gave her threepence. She said she didn't like coppers.

The spending child has its spells of being hard up, and at such times there is a sort of craving to get money any way. That is what leads to so many youths and young girls stealing.

There are too many objections to children being given too much cash, and it is to be hoped older folks will realize this and "go steady" in their generosity to the little ones.

A SPECIAL

Two friends were calling to other a very nice morning. A young girl in a blue dress across a lake under a blue sky. The girl was under a blue sky. The girl was under a blue sky.

Indeed not," said the other. "I put away in my memory the most beautiful moment of my life. I saw the Matterhorn, and we came on the blue mountains.

Every Once in a While.

Every once in a while I get these memories in my mind, and I think up as it were so they get tarnished."

Don't you think that a great expressed thought.

I suppose we all have those books inside our minds which keep the most beautiful moments of our lives. I think we sometimes leave them long without polishing.

Of course, we cannot all have the same experiences as seeing the Matterhorn. But the fact that one has got to seek it that makes an experience.

What Have You in Your Mind?

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A SPECIAL KIND OF MEMORY BOOK.

Two friends of mine were recalling to each other a wonderful afternoon morning in the Rangle region when they saw an arch of gold across a lake as blue as ever the famed lake of Switzerland and under a sky to match, they looked upon the landscape covered with a fresh fall of snow.

"Shall you ever forget it?" said the first.

"Indeed not," said the other. "Why do I put away in my memory book the most beautiful moments. It belongs with the night I saw the new moon over the Matterhorn, and the day we came on the blue marsh.

Every Once in a While.

"Every once in a while I go over these memories in my mind, and not that up as it were so they won't get tarnished."

Don't you think that a gracefully expressed thought.

I suppose we all have those memory books inside our minds where we keep the most beautiful moments, but I think we sometimes leave these too long without polishing.

Of course, we cannot all have as poetic experiences as seeing the new moon over the Matterhorn. But it is not the fact that one has gone far to seek it that makes an experience vivid.

What Have You in Your Memory Book?

In my own memory book a moment when the station bus carried me round the bend, and I saw for the first time that Spring the ocean sparkling in the sun at a little place not fifty miles from the town where I was born, ranks with the moment when the ship in which we sailed the tropic seas weighed anchor at sunset in the exquisitely beautiful harbor of Santa Marta. Neither is any more vivid than the other.

Of course the great moments are not only those in which one saw the beautiful but in which one felt it. "No man can ever forget the visitations of that power to his heart and brain which created all things new, which was the dawn in him of music, poetry and art; which a single tone of one voice could make the heart beat and the most trivial circumstance associated with one form is put in the amber of memory." Unhappy he, whatever the outcome of his love, who has not some such moments as these to remember.

The Moment When One Feels the Beautiful.

And then there are other moments when one feels the beautiful, when one hears wonderful music, or is lifted out of oneself by a great play, or when one suddenly realizes all a dear mother has done for one and feels that abiding sense of tenderness that, like one's apprehension of supernatural beauty, is almost unbearable.

No one should, or rather no one can, be without such a memory book. And no one should fail to open his heart and take out these memories once in a while, and as the lady of the new moon and the Matterhorn puts it, "Polish them up so they won't get tarnished."

Important!

Factory Conditions in Japan.

The average pay of factory girls in Japan is $4.67 a month. The matter of a living wage is a changeable quantity; it varies with nations and localities. In Canada, the country of the comparatively high wage, a person who receives only $4.67 a month—not a day, or a week, but a month—is most surely to be pitied. She is just as much to be pitied in Japan.

While the high cost of living in Japan is very low compared with Canadian experiences in that time, $4.67 a month, together with bad working conditions, strikes an average that threatens alike the economic, physical, moral and spiritual life of the worker.

While the Christian missionaries have helped to better the living conditions of many women in Japan, they have been able to do very little for the 700,000 women and girls who make their living in the big modern factories. There is little opportunity to reach them. They labor twelve hours a day—in some cases sixteen and eighteen, with an hour or two thrown in to clean up after their work is done. Unless the factory owner or employer is a Christian and makes provision for the moral and physical welfare of his workers, little can be done for them.

Out of her $4.67—the average monthly earnings of a woman factory worker—the girl must pay $1.20 a month for food. As that is less than the cost of her food the factory pays the remainder, $1.30 a month. Yet out of this meagre pay the average factory girl sends home fifty cents a month, for she earns more money than almost any other class of woman worker in Japan.

The majority of Japanese factories still run day and night shifts of twelve hours each, with thirty minutes off for dinner and fifteen minutes for rest in the forenoon and afternoon. Holidays are rare and uncertain—two or three in the month at the most. The majority of the factory girls are from fifteen to twenty years old, though often girls from seven to twelve may be found working there. Measures proposed by the Japanese Government to ameliorate the conditions of factory employment have been brought to naught through the refusal of the legislative branch of the Government to pass such measures.

Some of the factories have dormitories in which the girls live. They are carefully kept inside the dormitories, in many cases for fear they are said to be very generous and humane in the treatment of their employees. The terms of employment, wages paid, provision for ill health, for accidents, for long service and old age, rooms for eating, sleeping and recreations, bathing establishments, education for those who need it and public lectures on ethical and religious subjects compare favorably with the best to be found in Canada.

The Christian valuation of womanhood, emphasized by church workers permeating Japan, has helped greatly toward making the factory living and working conditions much better than they were ten and fifteen years ago. Also it has been found that ill treatment of employees does not pay and for business reasons more humanitarian methods have been adopted.

A PLEA FOR THE BOY.

If you've dressed him up on Sunday in his prettiest little shirt, Expect that he will promptly find his way into the dirt. Don't stand aghast and startled if he dares to climb a tree. Or wants to play in places where he never ought to be. It's the nature of the youngster to run wild in search of joy. Were he tame and neat and careful then he wouldn't be a boy.

Don't imagine you can train him so he'll lie to wash his car. Or be a little angel when your company appears. Don't fancy, gentle mother, when he goes to bed at night. That you'll never find the bruises that he's picked up in a fight. And don't give way to sighing when his wilful tricks annoy; If he didn't like to battle then he wouldn't be a boy.

Don't view these different stages as the signs that he is bad. To be all the time in mischief is the nature of the lad. There is fun in getting dirty, and no real boy can see Why clothes are so important—and he's wiser there than we. If he never got in trouble and was careful with each toy And was never wild and heedless, then he wouldn't be a boy.

When you want something in a hurry for tea, go to ELLIS—Head Cheese, Ox Tongue, Boiled Ham, Cooked Corned Beef, Bologna Sausage.

The Poultry Show.

Over two thousand people have visited the Poultry Show since the opening night, and it is expected that before the closing the attendance will be greater than for any previous exhibition. The birds are up to the usual standard, and the Judge, Mr. F. Jackson, of North Sydney, said that the White Orpington class was so good that it was with difficulty he selected the winners. The output exhibits were very good, and it is pleasing to note that Grand Falls has carried off a silver cup in the Barred Rock Class, the winner being Mr. W. K. Chancey. A pair of Imperial Pekin Ducks as large as geese, attracted much attention; they were exhibited by Mr. Norman Fisher of Humbermouth. Harvey & Co. have an exhibition of Poultry and Stock feeds, locally manufactured, which is pronounced to be equal to the imported article, so much advertised. The show closes to-night at 9 o'clock when the prizes will be presented by Lady Harris to the winners.

We wish to make the following corrections in the prize list published yesterday. In the Minorca Class, 1st prize Hen, should be W. R. Butler.

After the White Rock award in yesterday's prize list, should follow Buff Leghorns and White Leghorns, instead of Orpingtons, as printed; the names of winners in this class being correct as given.

In the Rhode Island Reds, Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., winning 3rd and 4th places for Pullet, was omitted.

Rose Comb Reds, S. Emberley, 1st prize Pullet, was omitted.

Ducks should read Pekin pair of ducks, drake 1st, Norman Fisher, Humbermouth.

Duck, 1st, Norman Fisher; Young Drakes, 1st, J. Cowan; 2nd, J. Cowan; 3rd, Miss Bastow.

Young Ducks, 1st, J. Cowan; 2nd, Miss Bastow; 3rd, Miss Calver.

The following are the winners of special prizes awarded at the Poultry Exhibition:

Disorderly Scenes.

At 12 o'clock last night a Sergeant and a policeman had to visit a shop on New Gower St. to investigate some noise there. On the same thoroughfare, a little later, a number of half drunken hooligans had the place in an uproar, and it was stated by a gentleman who witnessed the scene that one of the gang was flourishing a revolver, and had fired several shots from it. A posse of police is what is needed on New Gower St., in order to make it safe for decent people to pass.

Magistrate's Court.

In the civil court this morning a cabman was sued for the value of two acres of "after grass" which the landlord said was worth $25.00. The cabman thought the price rather higher than the grass. Judgment was given for the plaintiff.

A tenant who claims he has an agreement with a previous owner of a house, permitting him to hold it for two years, won his case to-day, the present owner failing to get him ejected. Through some method the law calls for a tenancy of three years' duration to be in writing to make it legal, but for a shorter term, viz. two years, as in the present case, the tenant was not compelled to show his agreement. The Judge in dismissing the case said if the tenant were to ask for a "brief" he should get it for his shrewdness.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Thos. Thorburn of the Land Survey Office, with his son, William are passengers on the steamer Brighton due from Boston in a day or two.

To-day's Messages.

LONDON PREPARING RECEPTION.
LONDON, Nov. 29. The Prince of Wales is assured a big popular reception on his return to London, which is expected to be next Monday. King George has decided that instead of driving direct to Buckingham Palace, the route of the parade will be an extended one in an open carriage from the Victoria Station to Westminster and through Parliament Street, Whitehall, Charing Cross and Pall Mall, so that the people will have ample opportunity of giving the Prince a welcome.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF.
WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 27. Negotiations looking towards the settlement of the nation-wide coal strike were broken off late to-day, and the wage scale committee of miners and operators adjourned sine die. The miners reported that all districts in the United States went into executive session immediately afterwards to decide the union policy towards the strike.

ALMOST THE SAME.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 27. The Belgian Cabinet, under the Premiership of M. Delacroix, comprise all the former ministers, with the exception of Baron De Broqueville, who is succeeded as Minister of the interior by M. Poulet. M. Peeters, Socialist, becomes Minister of Art.

Wesley Annual Sale.

The Ladies' Aid of Wesley Church are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts to further reduce the debt on the church, which is now getting down to small figures. The patronage last night was very large; the fancy work tables were cleared off, the tea table, though replenished many times, gave evidence of supplies running short, and the pantry was like "Mother Hubbard's cupboard"—bare. The entertainment, though short, was very enjoyable. Miss Ina Abbott sang a lovely selection; Miss Lillian Pike assisted her sister, Miss Florence Pike, in a piano duet. It was a brilliant and skilful execution, showing great musical talent in both. Messrs. H. Courtney and S. J. Tucker rendered splendid solos and were loudly encored. Mr. Wylie, an old favorite, recited twice and pleased everybody. Miss Nancy gave a fine exhibition of club swings, and Mr. Peeters, reading the account of "Nora's" visit, a scene and interviewing the "spirit" of Luke Corrigan caused roars of laughter. The total receipts were $735.00, and the best of good will prevailed all around.

END THAT COUGH!

Pepe All ends! Simply dissolve 2 or 3 tablets in your mouth. The fine forest vapors which are thus released are breathed down to the remotest parts of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing the inflamed membrane and bringing quick relief from that irritating and exhausting cough.

Mr. L. B. Brown, of Wilson's Beach, N.B. writes: "For two years I was troubled with a very bad cough. At nights it became worse and I could not sleep. I tried every remedy I had ever heard of, but nothing did me any good until I used Pepe. Even the first few tablets gave me relief. I continued their use, with the result that my cough has entirely disappeared."

These balsamic Pepe are also unequalled for colds, sore throats, bronchitis, asthma, and chest and lung troubles. 50c box, 1 for $1.25. All dealers or Pepe Co., Toronto.

ROWSSELL-MOLLOY.
A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the R.C. Cathedral on Monday, Nov. 24th, at 8 p.m., when Rt. Rev. Mgr. MacDermott, V.G., united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Ethel Molloy, of St. Lawrence, to Mr. Stephen Rowsell, of Marshall Bros., this city. The bride, who was beautifully attired in a gown of blue Georgette crepe with black picture hat, was attended by Miss Cecile Rowell, sister of the groom, and who was attractively attired in a dress of fawn crepe de chene. The groomsmen was Mr. James O'Neill. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the groom's parents, Stewart Avenue, where the health of the newly married couple was fittingly toasted. Both the bride and groom are very popular both in the city and in the bride's native place, and this fact was amply testified by the splendid array of presents received. The groom's present to the bride was a gold wristwatch, to the bridesmaid a gold pendant, and to the groomsmen a gold stick pin. Amongst the presents was a handsome and valuable lounge from the employees of Marshall Bros., with whom Mr. Rowsell is a general favorite. Many telegrams and notes of congratulations were received, and in the good wishes extended the Telegram heartily joins

R. D. Brown, of Deerland, N.F., who was hunting caribou at Hind's Plains, with J. A. Pennell as guide, secured two heads, 25 and 31 pounds respectively. He returned home last week.

J. A. Pennell, who returned a few days ago, after spending about three weeks on Hind's Plains, told Star he saw about 500 caribou during that time, but no big game. Large herds of caribou went west the early part of the season.

At the City Hall.

The weekly meeting of the St. John's Municipal Council was held last night. Mayor Gosling presided, Councillors Mullaly, Ayre and Vincombe were present.

The following matters of business were disposed of:
Bishop and Austin's tender for small homes sewerage was accepted. M. O'Reilly's tender for the plumbing of basements of new houses on Quill Viad Road was accepted.

W. P. Shortall's tender to make uniforms was accepted.
Mr. Percy F. Fearn wrote regarding light on Casey and Monroe Streets, and asked if the Council had decided to "install a light there." The order has already been given to have a light placed.

Application was received from the Newfoundland Highlanders for permission to build an Armoury on the Parade Ground. The matter was deferred for investigation.

J. B. Orr and Co. applied for permission to erect a temporary covering between two buildings at the rear of their business place on Water Street, the covering to be of non-combustible material and removable. Permission could not be granted as it is against the law in regard to buildings on that part of the town.

W. H. Jessop asked permission to install a one horse power machine at his bakery. Referred to the Engineer to investigate.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce made application to erect a building on the vacant lot between S. Milliey's and W. A. Ellis, Water Street. Granted. A half-inch water supply to be allowed in accordance with regulations.

Daniel Ferguson made application to build on corner of Leslie and Warberry streets, and submitted plan. Granted.

Plemon Sackway asked permission to build dwelling on Franklin Avenue. Granted.

Application of James and Bartholomew Spratt to erect dwelling on Pennywell Road, was approved.

Moses Butt asked permission to build forge on Casey Street. Referred to the Engineer for investigation. Plan submitted by Tobias Verge, Franklin Avenue, was approved.

It was decided to widen Linacott's Lane running between Pennywell Road and Freshwater Road on West side of O'Neil's property.

The Engineer reported on work done during the week, also that a ### number of city lights had been out.

The Reid Co. will be written to about the matter.
The Mayor read a letter to the Minister of Finance in reference to obtaining from the Imperial Exchequer such proportion of the Insurance Business Profits Tax as was paid in England, on Nfld. business.

If you intend making Christmas for Xmas Presents, we are now opening another shipment of Cushion Pads in round and oblong shapes; also Baby Pillow Pads, sixty-five cents to a dollar sixty each, at BISHOP, SONS & CO., LTD.

Wedding Bells.

JACOBS—CLEMENS.
A very pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Cathedral on Wednesday, Nov. 28th. Rev. Mons. McDermott officiating, when Mr. Joseph Jacobs was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Mary Clemens, both from the Grey Islands. The bride was handsomely dressed in white silk with hat to match. The bridesmaid was Mr. Michael Clemens, brother of the bride, and Miss Kathleen Gardner as bridesmaid, who was magnificently attired in blue silk with hat to match. After the ceremony was performed, the happy couple drove to the home of the bride's mother, No. 76 Lime Street, where a sumptuous repast was served, and dancing was indulged in until early morning. The bride received a large number of wedding presents. We wish both Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs many years of happiness.

A Clean Up.

Last night the civic board had a very important matter brought to their notice, re Taxes. It appears that an English firm, doing insurance business in this Dominion, claims exemption from the local Business Profits Tax as they pay into the English Exchequer the amount due on any business done in this Dominion. The matter will be taken up with the Home authorities and no doubt the amount due the revenue will be refunded, as the English tax law allows amounts collected in England, but belonging to the Colonies to be transferred.

A Boon to Mothers and Babies.

A Maternity Hospital for St. John's—may not for St. John's exclusively, but for all Newfoundland, because the proposition to be put before the public at to-night's inaugural banquet will be big enough and broad enough to embrace the whole Dominion. There will be nothing parochial about it, but based on the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number, the proposed institution will be of incalculable benefit to the coming mothers and future babies of Newfoundland.

The insistent present day demand is for more adequate maternity facilities, therefore the Hospital, which is going to take shape right away will be for the poor as well as for those in modest circumstances, and for all expectant mothers who care to avail of the expert services which such a hospital staff can give. It will be a place of comfort for mothers and for babies, previous to birth, at birth and after birth. It will benefit all poor mothers and their children who are unable to pay anything at all either in their homes or in other Hospitals for medical and nursing care. In other words, we take it, free treatment, attendance and nursing will be rendered to all whose circumstances will not permit them to incur any large service bills for attendance during the parturient period. And were the Home to be erected, equipped and staffed solely for no other humanitarian purpose, it would well deserve the support of the people at large.

But it is not intended to confine the advantages of such an institution as proposed, to free cases only. Ample provision, in up-to-date and cheerful apartments with the best of attendance, (as in all cases,) will be made for those mothers but who are in a position to make part payment for the care they will receive. Herein will much relief be assured those expectant mothers, who as their time approaches, suffer much from worrying over the inevitable cost of doctors and nurses, and by so troubling, work themselves up a condition which is highly dangerous. As well will there be reservations for mothers who, if they so desire, may enter the Hospital and pay for the actual cost only of their care and attendance. And to those in good circumstances who are able to pay the full hospital charges, there will be always accommodation available. Provision will be made that the wives and children of the men who have served in the Dominion's Naval and Military Forces, will be benefitted, the hospital doors being always open to give them admission.

And so the call has come, a call not to go unheard or unheeded. St. John's needs a Maternity Hospital and St. John's is preparing to put its hands down into its pockets in order to supply the wherewithal to erect, equip and staff this institution. Not for St. John's alone, as we have previously said, but for the dominion at large. The coming child demands first care and should be a first charge on our resources. It is our duty, our paramount duty, to see to it that the child is born amidst the brightest and most cheerful surroundings, ushered into the world with all the care and skill that trained physicians and nurses can give. It is plainly visible ahead of us then into which direction our pathway lies. It is toward the scientific care and preservation of the most valuable asset any country can have—its children.

Highlanders to Build Armoury.

Application to the Municipal Council was made yesterday by the Newfoundland Highlanders for a piece of land on the Parade Ground on which to build a new armoury. The present one on King's Road has grown insufficient and the enlarging brigade requires more spacious quarters. The new one will contain, if the grant of land is made, all the most modern improvements, among which will be swimming baths, gymnasium, and reading rooms. The application is being considered by the Council.

New Bank Building.

Plans of a new building, to be erected in that space of ground between Milley's and Ellis & Co., by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, were submitted and approved at yesterday's meeting of the Municipal Council. This building, which will be somewhat after the style of the present Bank of Nova Scotia, will be an architectural ornament of which the city may feel proud.

Sunday is St. Andrew's Day.

Special services will be held in the Kirk on the coming Sunday—St. Andrew's Day. In the forenoon the Newfoundland Highlanders will parade to church, while in the evening the members of St. Andrew's Society will attend divine service.

A Pleasant Surprise.

Opening the door of his residence, James Street, a day or so ago, Mr. James Boland received a pleasant surprise when he found his son Martin confronting him. Martin, who had been in America for the past four years, had returned unexpectedly on the steamer Monmouth, on which he is an engineer. He has since sailed again for Manchester, having spent a very enjoyable time while here.

"Snow-White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Another crowded house greeted this premier children's performance last night. Throughout the four acts one could not but be impressed with the thoroughness of preparation which helped these girls, fresh from the school-room of the Mercy Convent to put into this little production such finish and an entire lack of affectation not found in most professional productions of a more spectacular nature.

Praise cannot be given individually when the whole cast deserves mention. All are worthy of it. The "star" of the cast, who was also the "star" of the evening (which sometimes does not happen) was Miss Madeline Kavanagh. To her goes the palm. Such an unaffected display of real acting ability, such a wonderful voice, rich and powerful, reveals in an amateur in pantomime, qualities that promise bigger things for her. Beautiful, childishly pleasing, Snow-White will be remembered through Miss Kavanagh. Miss Angela McGrath as the haughty, revengeful Queen showed a real mastery of gesture and expression. Miss McGrath can act; last night emphasized it. And the Prince, debonaire, courteous, just as a prince should be. This part could not otherwise have been played but by Miss Ida Howlett. Miss Howlett looked the part and played it well. Imagination could not have created a more pleasing character than Miss Howlett's really alive personation. And in Miss Agnes Armstrong, the character of Carl the Huntsman found an effective mate.

And then came the dwarfs, grotesque, crabbled and old. Who would know them as little girls from our own city? Real comedy showed here in their make-up and presentation. The audience appreciated this capital part as one of the most really interesting bits of the play. Miss Isabella Warren was the leader of the "little men in red," and for such a young girl showed a real and clever understanding of a different part. Miss Warren is a comedienne of promise. We look to seeing her again.

As a spectacular backing Miss Mollie Kelly comes first in an unusual dance made famous by the great Pavlova. We have not seen Pavlova, but we like Miss Kelly—and so did the audience. And the Hollies, Violets, Roses, Poppies, etc., Nymphs, Birds, Butterflies how we would like to mention them all individually, as would only be their due. And the great object—for Education. Wednesday night's performance, last night's, and to-night's, and the matinee to-morrow will help the Sisters of the Mercy Convent in providing greater facilities for the education of these talented children.

Sale for Ladies.

AT BLUE PUTTEE HALL. The Telegram announces to-day the opening of a big sale of artistic and stylish ladies' and children's goods, which opens at the Blue Puttee Hall, corner of Gower St. and King's Road, at 9 o'clock to-morrow. As will be seen by advertisement, the sale will run for a fortnight, and will continue open until 9 o'clock each night. This morning a representative of this paper had the pleasure of inspecting the stock, and was amazed at the extent and attractiveness of it. The richest of dresses, blouses and costumes are in abundance, and any lady who fails to inspect them, misses the opportunity of a life time. There is also a magnificent display of hats and sweaters, such as might be seen in one of the largest departmental stores in New York. The Blue Puttee Hall will well be worth a visit during the next few days.

C. L. B.

At the regular C.L.B. Parade last night, Lt. Col. R. F. Goodridge was in command and a large number of lads attended. Various exercises were gone through and musketry practice was also indulged in. The following extracts from orders were read. Promotion:—To be Major—Capt. A. R. Anderson, Heart's Content, to date from November 11th, 1919, with seniority next above Major Lindsay. To be Corporal.—To date from November 9, 1919. No. 5122 Lance Corp. A. Feaver. To be C.Q.M.S.—To date from November 11th, 1919. No. 5161 Serge S. Rafford. Appointment:—To be Lance Corp. No. 5191 Pte. Hibbs, J. Co., Bell Island.

Smallpox Patient Escapes.

At four thirty yesterday afternoon a patient of the Signal Hill Smallpox Hospital escaped from the institution and made his way to the residence of his sister. He was recaptured after being out for about a couple of hours and brought back to the Hospital by Sergt. O'Keefe. The man, who is suffering from a bad attack of smallpox, is an imbecile patient of the Insane Asylum.

Saints Have Gala Time.

Some four hundred persons attended the celebration of St. Andrew's Day, held in the C.C.C. Hall last evening by St. Andrew's Society. The programme was: Song:—"The Bonnie Banks O' Loch Lomond," Miss Mitchell. Song:—"Mary" Mr. A. Williams. Song:—"McGregor's Gathering" Miss Langmead. Reading:—Selected, Mrs. J. Baxter. Song:—Selected, Miss Ryan. Song:—"I'm a Scot," Mr. W. Moncrieff Mawer. Song:—Selected, Mrs. F. J. King. Mrs. Gordon Dickie, Mr. W. Moncrieff Mawer were the accompanists. Mr. J. J. McKay, the president for the night, made an excellent address on Scotland. Following the concert supper was served by the ladies of the Auxiliary. Dancing was continued until late this morning. The C.C.C. Band supplied the music. The celebration, which was voted the best held since the inception of the Society, was arranged by a committee comprised of: Messrs. R. G. Ross, R. E. Innes, W. B. Eadie, J. N. Irvine, A. Ross and D. McIntosh.

Steamer on Fire.

Anchored in the stream at the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia, is the Wilson Line steamer, Francisco, Captain Wilkins, bound from New York to Hull with a general cargo, among which a fire is raging in No. 5 hold. Immediately the fire was discovered the ship was headed for Halifax. In the meantime hoses were laid and steam injected into all the holds, thus keeping the conflagration under control until the assistance of the Halifax fire fighters was available. A survey showed that it was possible to keep the blaze confined to number five hold, and to this end efforts are being directed.

Police Court.

A Canadian sailor on the steamer Lake Fogunda was charged with being drunk and disorderly and for assaulting a constable. He was fined $25 or 90 days imprisonment. For loose and disorderly conduct two men were each fined $5 or 10 days imprisonment. The fines were paid in each case.

At the Majestic.

The Majestic Theatre to-night presents the inimitable Tom Moore in the splendid picture, "One of the Finest." Tom Moore needs no introduction to Majestic patrons, as every appearance of his on the screen has resulted in big crowds. In to-night's picture his acting is well up to the standard and will be sure to please everybody. A Burton-Holmes travelogue entitled "The Island of Capri," will also be put on. This is an exceptionally good picture.

"Sailor Chap" Joins In.

Dear Sir:—In reply to 203 British I wish to inform that gentleman that I agree with him in saying that it is as well for Newfoundland to be out of Confederation with regard to our War Gratuity, but apart from that we don't want Confederation. regards the amount I don't think anyone would object to it being under $2000.00. I would be thankful for $990.00.

I see by Saturday's Star that the Australians are receiving $250.00 for every year spent on Active Service. Now our new Prime Minister gave us an understanding during his political campaign that his Government would be as good for the Sailors and Soldiers of Newfoundland as any of the other colonies. Now is the time for us to put his words into action. I know here are a great many people saying, "Oh! the Government is doing great things for our returned men," but let me inform those people that any man who spent four years in the North Sea dodging German mines and torpedoes—not to mention the man who spent four years on the good soaked fields of France—knowing that $420 is not enough to pay them what they went through, and we must not forget that while we were undergoing these hardships the people before mentioned were at home in comfort receiving a fat salary, and were being handed out the sum of the dollar and ten cents per day. Now if one of us returned men is asked for employment the first thing he is asked is, what experience have you had, and if the answer is none, he is told that we cannot be employed.

Now when we want to join up to save our country and protect those people who are refusing us employment to-day, we were not asked what experience we had, had; No, we were not handed down a rifle and bayonet to use it, for your life and our country's freedom depend on it. The way we got down to business in the Army and Navy, and we are certain that if some of our Sailors and Soldiers were handed down a yard stick in one of those dry good stores, or a ham knife in a grocery store, he would use it as well as the bayonet, without having had the experience.

Thanking you for space,
I am, Sir,
Yours sincerely,
SAILOR CHAP.

F. P. U. Convention.

The Eleventh Annual Convention of the Fishermen's Protective Union of Newfoundland at Port Union last night, the best business on the order paper being the delivery of the customary address of the President. The customary members recently elected to the House of Assembly were present at the opening session, presided by the Union members are in a startling majority over the Prime Ministers for having, as undoubtedly all those gentlemen who hold legislative seats and who were in attendance at the initial sitting of the 1919 Convention must be classed as members and supporters of the Union, and will, of course, follow whatever lead Mr. Coker gives.

Catching Trade Pirates.

FIRMS THAT USE FALSE TRADE MARKS.

There is a bitter complaint on the part of some of our manufacturers that knives and other metal goods imported from the United States bear the words "made in Sheffield."

Trade piracy is no new crime. The days of Edward IV, the artificer, who complained that they were greatly impoverished by the multitude of divers wares fetched and brought from beyond the seas, whereof the water part in substance is deceitful.

The King in those days had several powers and Edward's response to the pious complaint was an edict forbidding the importation of foreign manufactured goods.

Some time later a complaint was made to Parliament as to foreign wares falsely described as English. An Act was passed ordering all imported wares to be marked with the name and address of the foreign manufacturer.

It was not, however, until the year 1887 that the importation of all goods bearing the names of British manufacturers was prohibited. But this Act only gave partial protection. Cutlery stamped "Joseph Rodgers & Sons Sheffield" was barred, but "Best Sheffield Steel" could not be objected to. The Act of 1887 was better. Any person selling goods with false trade marks became liable to a year's imprisonment, with forfeiture of all the wares in question.

During the first three months after the Act was passed no fewer than 10,000 and ten thousand packages containing goods falsely marked were seized by our Customs officers.

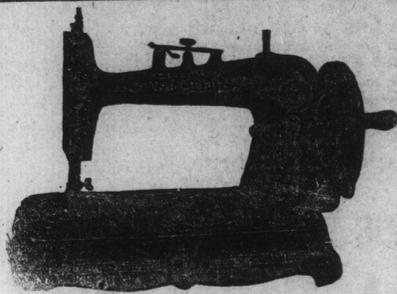

During the following year there were 220,000 detentions, of which the great majority came from Germany.

Neurotic Actress.

BURNS INCENSE TO D'ANNUNZIO'S STATUE—JILTED THE WARRIOR-POET SEVEN YEARS AGO

Paris, Nov. 17.—Another victory dearer to his heart than laurels of glory, must be added to the numerous conquests of Gabriele D'Annunzio. Ida Rubenstein, the Beautiful Russian tragedienne, who jilted Italy's hero in 1912, telling him she was altogether unimpressed by his fame as poet, brilliant sportsman, and man of fashion, is now pining to the seclusion of her apartment in Paris for the return of the poet-warrior.

Outwitting her strict orders that no one should be admitted, a friend called yesterday to convey to the famous actress news of the latest Dalmatian exploit of the Fiume dictator. This friend stumbled into a curious sight: The Russian beauty lay prostrate before a strange altar especially constructed for the adoration of her lost lover.

An entire large room has been transformed into a chapel, in which the central piece of furnishing is a life size statue of the poet, surrounded by photos and portraits of him in every conceivable costume.

Daylight was carefully kept out of the room, which drew its only illumination from pink wax tapers, the tall candlesticks dating from the 15th century, which is the poet's favorite art and furniture period.

Night and day those tapers burn, while incense from a priceless urn slowly sends up its scented fumes towards the impressive marble features of the towering statue gazing down upon the lovelorn woman.

Dressed in a simple white cassock, Ida Rubenstein thus spends her time in her extraordinary chapel, a veritable temple of platonic love erected by her in the heart of "Gay Paris."

Innumerable messages she has sent to D'Annunzio at Fiume, it is said, but all remained unanswered. Now and then, in the last few months, she has interviewed friends of the poet and implored them for every scrap of news about him. They all told her the same thing: Gabriele has set his heart upon the fulfillment of a patriotic duty; his personal feelings are naught to him and will be until his "sacred duty" is done.

So Ida Rubenstein waits in her self chosen seclusion, believing she may thus expiate for her folly seven years ago when she spurned the poet in the most flippant manner she could muster. To Anatole France the poet warrior confided at the time that the "let down" Ida gave him nearly drove him to suicide.

Human Junk Heap Found by Surgeon.

Man Complains of Indigestion—Operation Results in Discovering Nails, Razor Blades, and Chain in Stomach.

Boston, Nov. 18.—Discovery of a human junk heap was announced by officers of the house of correction at Deer Island, recently. Charles W. Buzzell, of Montreal, serving a sentence of one year for forgery, complained of indigestion. A surgical operation resulted in the recovery of two pounds of miscellaneous articles from his stomach. The collection, Dr. L. C. Rockwell said, included parts of a dog chain, two feet long; a safety razor blade nearly whole; a suspender buckle and 179 fragments of pieces of glass, hay, wire staples, nails and screws. Relieved of these substances, Buzzell has almost completely recovered, it is said. The prisoner has been accumulating the collection with suicidal intent, according to Dr. Rockwell, since last December. He had previously made a similar cumulative attempt to end his life, but it was frustrated by an operation performed in New York, he said.

The Export of Codfish.

MINISTER OF MARINE AND FISHERIES EXPLAINS.

In connection with the recent proclamation governing the export of codfish, the following explanatory circular has been issued to the trade by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries:

CIRCULAR TO TRADE—No. 1.

This Circular is issued in order to explain to exporters and others interested in the fish trade, the purposes and intentions of the recent proclamation issued by the Government under the Act known as "Imports and Exports (Restriction) Act 1918."

It is only by the loyal co-operation of the Government, the exporters and the fishermen themselves, that certain abuses which have existed in the trade, greatly to the detriment of the Dominion, for many years past, can be quickly remedied.

I therefore appeal for loyal assistance from all interested in the welfare of Newfoundland in my efforts to take advantage of the present exceptional opportunity to improve things. I ask the indulgence of those exporters, if there are any, who may be temporarily inconvenienced during the period necessary to organize the work of my Department.

The matters which I feel require the most urgent attention are:

1. The prevention or controlling of sales for foreign markets by irresponsible parties not fully informed as to conditions existing in those markets. It is very clear that through ignorance on the part of an exporter, much damage to the interests of the Dominion is often done, by an exporter offering and often selling fish at much lower prices than the conditions abroad warrant. I propose to make arrangements by which this Department will be able to guide such exporters with information which will prevent this unnecessary damage.

The intention is to attempt to regulate our selling prices in accordance with circumstances, not necessarily interfering with present methods and channels of making sales except in certain cases where it is apparent that drastic action is essential. The regulation of these prices will be made with a view to the promoting of consumption by lowering of prices when this is deemed desirable, and the restricting of consumption by raising of prices when it is clear that this can be done advantageously.

2. The protection of buyers abroad who purchase cargoes or parcels of fish on a cash against documents basis against fraudulent or careless shippers, so that Newfoundland fish in the foreign markets will recover from certain discredit attaching to it, as the result of careless shipping in recent years. Owing to the long time it will take to organize a proper inspection of shipment, I propose in the meantime to insist upon the shipper supplying an affidavit as to the quality of fish shipped, so as to ensure that extra care will be taken in selection for shipment. The fact that his export license will be dependent upon the proper conducting of his business and the careful selection of his shipments, should at least make an exporter more careful. I cannot see how any exporter, with good intentions and proper business capacity, can object to such a condition. Much damage has recently been done to the foreign markets by sales of small parcels of fish to New York and Liverpool without provision being made to ascertain the ultimate destination of these parcels and without consideration being given as to the bad effect on certain markets if these parcels are forwarded and placed in competition with big parcels of fish exported direct.

To avoid disappointment to buyers abroad or shippers here, I desire to call shippers' attention to the fact that they should until further notice only make quotations or sales "subject to the issue of a permit from the Government." It will be better still to consult the Department before making any offers.

3. I propose to appoint Mr. George Hawes, of Alicante, than whom there is certainly not available to me (or in my opinion to anyone else) anyone better supplied with information or better qualified to advise as to conditions in the Mediterranean markets, as an adviser to me and my Advisory Board, so that we shall have all the information available. I have satisfied myself that Mr. Hawes has the confidence of at least the larger part of the Newfoundland exporters.

4. In the case of cargoes leaving the Dominion unsold, I propose to ask the shipper to give satisfactory guarantees to show that the consignment will be in capable hands and that the disposal will be made with consideration for the general welfare.

5. In connection with the Italian markets owing to the position raised by the establishment there of a Consorzio, through whom only can fish be imported or sold in Italy, I propose to take the somewhat drastic step of insisting that no sales or consignments for this market shall be made except by the agency of this Department who will employ Mr. George Hawes exclusively to handle the Italian situation until the Consorzio has been disbanded.

6. I am requesting the President of the Board of Trade to appoint a small Committee of Exporters to be available for consultation whenever called upon, with me and my Advisory Board.

7. The proposed licensing of every exporter is merely a measure to enable my Department to exercise control over irresponsible shippers, and to thus use pressure where necessary to prevent such shippers from damaging markets by ill-advised and inconsiderate action. It is my opinion that a substantial license fee should be paid by every exporter and that he should be able to satisfy my Department that he is properly equipped in a business way with premises and staff to conduct his operations.

I feel that it will be generally admitted by the Export Trade and by all who are interested in the welfare of Newfoundland, that it is desirable to endeavour to keep prices abroad at a level which will enable purchasers here to pay the fishermen a fair price over their cost of production, and at the same time yield to the exporter a reasonable average profit. The attainment of this purpose is my object. I feel sure that I shall succeed in attaining it if I have the loyal co-operation of every lover of Newfoundland.

(Signed),

W. F. COAKER,
Minister Marine & Fisheries,
St. John's, Nfld., 27th Nov. 1919.

Men and Money.

A Story With a Purpose.

By NELLIE L. McCLUNG.
(In MacLean's Magazine.)

In August came the war! At first no one believed that a real war had come; the time for that had gone by. It would be settled. The little groups of men who gathered on the street corners were unanimous in predicting that it would all be over by Christmas.

Every day, Billy Brown brought the paper home, when he came for lunch, and it was an excited group that read the war news, and traced on the new war-map, which an enterprising newspaper had sent out, the places mentioned in the reports.

When the neighbors light-heartedly discussed the war, predicting its early and successful ending, Mrs. Brown was silent and absorbed. One awful possibility held her heart in its cruel grip, and darkened her days with fear. They might have to go!

There was no thought of conscription by the State, but there is a more inexorable law than was ever written down in cold type, and it was that law which was now driving the gladness and joy from the heart of many a man and woman.

It is the law of conscience—the conscription of conviction. Sometimes, it comforted and re-assured her to watch the men who walked the streets, the men who were older than her boys, and yet unencumbered with family cares, and apparently idle. Surely they would go before there was a call for boys at school. She tried to think of the thousands and thousands who, all over the British Empire, were hastening, at the call. Hers would not be needed. Indeed, she said to herself, there would not be training schools enough to train those who were offering themselves; there would not be a call for men when there were no facilities for training them.

And besides, it would soon be over! The boys went back to college when the Fall term opened, but their weekend visits had lost all their joyousness. They talked of nothing but the war! Recruiting officers had come to the college, and urged every boy over eighteen to enlist.

"Why don't they go to the bar-rooms and pool-rooms?" Mrs. Brown cried, indignantly. "Why do they not make their speeches to the idle men on the street corners?"

"This isn't a job for pool-room loafers, Stella," said Billy Brown, gravely, "this is going to take the best we have, and I'm afraid—all we have."

This was the first time he had admitted his fear that the war would be a long one, and there was something about his words that fell on her heart like the clay on a coffin.

The thing she feared, had come—Billy had admitted it—But it was like her not to cry out or complain. There was no outward manifestation of the storm which swept over her soul, except that as the days went on, her face seemed to shrink and wither.

The Brown boys enlisted in December, 1914, and went to Montreal for their training.

The morning they left, the station was packed with people. Six other boys went with them, all under twenty-three years of age.

Some of the neighbors said they thought it queer of Mrs. Brown to go to the station. The neighbor who lived in the companion house next door, who had no son to send, was perfectly sure she could not have gone, if it had been her two boys who were going away. She was too sensitive and full of imagination. But some people, she agreed, were not so fine in the grain, and it was well for them.

It was a dull winter morning, with a cloudy, red sunrise, and deep white frost on the trees, when the boys went away. A winter morning before sunrise is always dull and shivery, and does not make for cheerfulness; but there was no voice steadier than Mrs. Brown's, when she said goodbye to her two boys.

Mrs. Wilson did not try to frame any casual word of sympathy as she watched her friend, in deep admiration. At the top of the street they stopped to watch the train as it throbbed its way across the prairie. The smoke wreath lay against the sunrise, and was touched by the first beams that came over the edge of the earth.

"There's nothing more beautiful than smoke!" said Mrs. Wilson, absently.

Mrs. Brown did not hear her. Her eyes were fixed on the disappearing train, and her ears were strained to catch the last echo of its strident whistle.

When it was gone from her view, something like a sob broke from her, but she sat very straight, and her voice was steady when she said, as if to herself—

"It seems right that they should go together."

In the front seat, Mr. Wilson was speaking:—"Brown, I congratulate you with all my heart. It's a wonderful service, to fight for the liberty of the whole world, when a terrible danger threatens it, and you're able to send two men to fight for all of us. I'm not going to tell you I sympathize with you—I don't, I envy you—and I'm very humble, in your presence."

Billy Brown's face was pale and twitching with many emotions, but he made no reply. He probably did not hear what the other man said. There was a little scene being enacted in the dark recesses of his memory, and he saw himself opening the door of his house and calling:

"John Brown!"

From a litter of homemade toys he saw his eldest son, in a blue romper suit, with a tangled head of yellow curls, rise to his feet, and placing his little fat heels together, and lifting one plump pink hand in token of salute, answer:

"Present."

"They have answered the call," he said brokenly. "They have answered!"

I know if it were my case, I couldn't bear to touch a thing. But then—every one isn't like me!"

By her efforts in keeping boarders, Mrs. Brown was able to supply her two boys with many comforts, and she thought that she was able to follow them, with the ministry of her love, comforted her in many a tragic moment, to keep the bitter waters from going over her head, that she sang as she worked, sang—to keep herself from thinking—and her neighbor, hearing her singing, wondered at her lightness of heart. She forgot that people sometimes whistle going past a graveyard, and it isn't because they are lighthearted, but only frightened.

When the first Victory Loan was launched, there were many reasons why Herbert Wilson was made the Chairman of the Committee. He knew the business men; he had time; he had enthusiasm; he was a good speaker; he was a heavy subscriber.

His first address made a great impression.

"I have, unfortunately," he said, "no one to send"—and his voice trembled with deep emotion. "I am one of those, whose life has not been blessed with children—but I will fully, freely, gladly give myself and of my means, to the cause of human liberty!"

To the first loan, he subscribed twenty thousand dollars: His picture was published in the city papers. A large poster hung in the plate-glass window of the drawing-room in the big house!

The war is over now. The Armistice is signed. The nations are explaining! It is this war—a story—a piece of fiction—a romance—I would give it a different ending!

But it is not my story, and I have no option.

It was in August, 1917, when the sweet peas were spilling their perfume all over the garden, and the tomatoes were turning red upon the vines, that the news came!

Mr. and Mrs. Brown had come in from church; and were getting dinner ready, working together as usual. Two S. O. S. boys, working on farms near by, had come home with them for dinner, and to them Mrs. Brown was telling an episode in Tom's life, when he had run away to the swimming pool, and some of the boys had stolen his clothes, and he had to stay hidden in the rushes until it got dark enough for him to make his way home unobserved, and how he had dressed himself in his best suit, and gone out to find the gang who had robbed him.

They were laughing so much, they did not hear the door-bell, and the boy with the telegram came around to the back door.

The telegram regretted to inform them that Private Thomas Brown had been hit by a piece of shell and instantly killed, on August 1st.

The next Sunday, the other telegram came. It regretted to inform them that Private John Brown had been hit by a piece of shell on August 8th, and instantly killed!

In the front window of the small house, still in need of repairs, the scarlet leaves of the Service Flag have been changed to gold. A small woman, whose hair is all gray now, goes softly about her work, often stopping absent-mindedly, as if she were listening for some sound which she does not expect to hear. The springiness has gone from her movements, and the neighbor across the fence says Mrs. Brown is "aging". But she still has a smile when her husband comes home, and to him she often says: "It seems right that they should go together!"

At the desk in the inside office of the implement house, Billy Brown will keep the accounts of the firm. People say he bears up wonderfully well. Sometimes when he is all alone, his shoulders sag a little, and he has been known to talk to himself, generally just a word, a name, "John Brown!" he whispers. . . . and then, away back in the garden of memory, he sees a chubby fist go up; he sees a sudden flash of blue eyes—and a toss of golden curls—and then he hears a childish voice make answer:

"Present!"

"They did not fall," he whispers—"when their country called—they answered."

He is not unhappy, for the past has its pleasures too, as well as the pain.

The assigned pay ceased when boys were killed; and there are pensions paid, for their mother is a widow, neither were they the support of anyone. There came, however, from the Department at Ottawa two typed letters, just alike, expressing polite sorrow!

The Wilsons have enlarged their house again, and Mrs. Wilson has her own car now. Why not? The money which they loaned their grateful country, has been a good investment, pays five and a half per cent. interest, and is free from taxation. Twice a year the cheques come, which speak national gratitude.

For the loan of money, our Nation is very, very grateful. It is only a gift of men, that is forgotten!

Arnold Says He Was Alarmed About His Wife

Doesn't Believe She Would Have Lived If It Hadn't Been For Tanlac.

"I didn't think my wife would be able to live much longer," but now since she has taken Tanlac I have never seen such an improvement in a person in my whole life," said Alexander Arnold recently in speaking of the experience of his wife, Mrs. Emily Arnold, with Tanlac. Mr. Arnold is engaged in the fishing business at Ship Harbor Lake, Nova Scotia, where he and his wife have resided for the past thirty years.

"For about ten years my wife has been troubled with indigestion and a general run-down condition," continued Mr. Arnold, "and each year her health has gradually been getting worse. She ate hardly enough to keep herself alive. Why, I have seen her sit down, take just a few bites and then leave the table, and even then she would complain of cramping pains and at times would have to lie down before she could get relief. Gas formed so bad that it rose up into her chest and around her head, and all the time she went about complain- ing of a heavy, distressing feel- ing. She was troubled with consti- pation and always had to be taking laxatives and she was subject to se- vere headaches. She was so nervous that the least little noise would make her jump and for the sleep she got she might as well have stayed up all night. Why, many a time I don't believe she closed her eyes at all. Last fall she took a sudden turn for the worse, went down from one hun- dred and twenty-four pounds to one hundred and eight pounds and was simply a nervous and physical wreck, and I became alarmed at her condi- tion."

"We had been reading so much in the Halifax papers about Tanlac that we decided to give it a trial. So far my wife has taken only two bottles but they have done her so much good that already she looks and acts like a different woman altogether and is at last on the road to complete re- covery. She has a splendid appetite, never has that distressing feeling and the cramping pains have just about entirely left her. Her constipated condition has been relieved, the head- aches have all gone and her nerves are steady. She sleeps fine at night and is gaining back her lost weight and strength as fast as she can, and just the other day she walk- ed over three miles—the first time she had been able to do that in over two years—and she hardly noticed it at all. The change that has come over my wife in such a short time is just simply remarkable and already she is looking better than she has in the last ten years."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative in Harbor Buffett, by Thos. Wakely & Sons; in Placentia, by James Mur- phy & Son; and in Topsall by J. K. Bursell.

During the week 4 cases of diph- theria and one of smallpox were re- ported in the city. Four residences were disinfected and released from quarantine. At present in hospital are 32 diphtheria, 3 typhoid fever and 15 smallpox patients, while 2 with diph- theria and 2 with scarlet fever are being treated at home.

Let "Danderine"
Save Your Hair.

HURRY! A FEW CENTS STOPS
HAIR FALLING AND DOUBLES ITS BEAUTY.

A little "Danderine" cools, cleanses and makes the feverish, itchy scalp soft and pliable; then this stimu- lating tonic penetrates to the famished hair roots, revitalising and invigorat- ing every hair in the head, thus stop- ping the hair falling out, getting thin, scraggly or fading.

After a few applications of "Dan- derine" you seldom find a fallen hair or a particle of dandruff, besides every hair shows more life, vigor, brightness, color and thickness.

A few cents buys a bottle of de- lightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter.

Fish Oils.

Prices for fish oils have undergone little change. Newfoundland cod is cleaned up, and domestic is very scarce. The position of men-haden is unchanged. Quotations on North- ern are nominal, and Southern is to be had only in limited quantities. Pressers are asking $1 and $1.05 for later, but it is intimated that the price might be shaded. Refined oil is moving in a steady, routine way at current quotations. Whale and sperm the latter, but it is intimated that the Fishing Gazette, Nov. 15.

GOWER ST. CHURCH REACHES ITS OBJECTIVE.

Great interest was taken by every one of the workers at the supper meeting of the campaigners in the Sunday School Room of Gower St. Church in the anticipation of the an- nouncement of the results of the financial canvass. Many doubted whether the objective was not too large, and feared that it would not be reached. When the results were made known, it was seen that the faith of the leader of the movement in the people of the congregation had been well founded. The following is the result of the effort. The returns are not yet complete, as there are yet quite a number of pledges to be hand- ed in. The total amount aimed at was $12,300.00, of which $7,590.00 was for local church expenditure and $4,600.00 for missions. The amounts reported as pledges last evening was $11,564.09, of which $7,547.63 was for local church expenditure and $4,016.36 for mis- sions. When all the pledges are in there is no doubt that the full amounts will be secured for both objects. In an- nouncing the results the organizer pointed out that the canvass had been carried out in two days, when three should have been allowed, consider- ing the large amount of work involved. These amounts came from the pledges of 490 persons. The following is a more detailed report by teams and divisions. The ladies division, Mrs. W. G. Currie, leader, reported a total of $1662.60, from 97 pledges, be- ing $1115.80 for church purposes and $546.80 for missions. The teams in this division ranked as follows: Mrs. J. S. Currie secured 25 pledges, with $296.40 for church and $156.00 for missions, a total of $452.40, winning the division banner. Mrs. L. G. Steven- son came second, with 29 pledges for $443.70, being $330.20 for church and $113.50 for missions. Mrs. A. Soper was next with 22 pledges for $384.50, being $242.20 for church and $142.30 for missions. Mrs. W. Peters' team secured 21 pledges for $382.00, being $247.00 for church and $135.00 for missions. The young ladies' division, Miss A. Horwood, leader, reported 127 pledges for $2034, being $1391.00 for church and $643.00 for missions. This division was the highest ranking di- vision, and won the division award, consisting of a fine oak shield, bear- ing a picture of the church. The re- ports by teams in this division are as follows: Miss Kendall's team, 38 pledges, total, $560.00—$377.50 for church and $182.50 for missions, be- ing the banner team in the division. Miss V. Macpherson's team, 31 pledges total, $535.60—$369.20 church, $166.40 mission. Mrs. A. S. Butler, 27 pledges for $506.80—$347.80 church, $159.00 missions. Miss Adrian's team, 33 pledges for $431.60—$296.40 church, $135.20 missions. The Young Men's Division, Mr. George Peters, leader, reported a total of 106 pledges for $1770.40, being $1232.20 for church and $538.20 for missions. The winning team in this division is that of Mr. F. Parsons, with 39 pledges to their credit for $673.60, being $450.00 for church and $223.60 for missions. The other teams ranked as follows, Mr. R. Hearder, 33 pledges, total, $468.00—$339.00 for church and $129.00 for mis- sions. Mr. T. Soper, 17 pledges for $363.60, being $285.60 for church and $78.00 for missions. Mr. C. Bowden, 17 pledges for $285.20 being $196.60 for church and $88.60 for missions. The Men's Division, Mr. John Leam- on, leader, reported a total of 74 pledges for $1466.48 being $1006.92 for church and $459.56 for missions. The winning team in this division was that of Mr. S. Woods, with 27 pledges for $567.40, being $402.20 church and $165.20 missions. The other teams ranked as follows: Mr. R. W. Cramm, 21 pledges for $409.48, being $296.92 for church and $112.56 for missions. Mr. W. H. Peters, 18 pledges for $354.80, being $225.00 for church and $129.80 missions. Mr. P. H. Hudson, 8 pledges for $134.80, being $82.80 for church and $52.00 for missions. The surprise of the evening came from the "Colts" team of Division E, consisting of young men from 15 to 20 years of age. This team did magnificent work, and won the hearty applause of all the campaigners. They secured 60 pledges for $730.41, being $520.00 for church and $210.41 for missions. The Star worker in this team was Mr. Donald Lewis who got 24 pledges for $223.40. Mr. Lewis was also the star worker of the whole committee of 109. In addition to the above work by teams the Executive of the Campaign reported 26 pledges for $3841.20, be- ing $2211.60 for church and $1629.60 for missions. The whole organization worked with a splendid spirit. There was the utmost good-will in all the healthy rivalry of workers. Too much praise cannot be given to the work of the Executive in planning the cam- paign, and in particular to the tre-less organizer, Mr. Albert Soper, who threw himself whole-heartedly into the work, and conducted it with con- summate tact and skill.

While the financial results of this effort were most gratifying, they were not all of the results, nor per- haps the most valuable. The workers of the church have been brought di- rectly into touch with the congregation in a way that they could not have been without such a campaign. New fami- lies have been discovered. Lapsed members have been reclaimed. Mem- bers have been gained for various church organizations, and the whole church has been stirred to greater ac- tivity and greater usefulness.

Brest, the official port for French war brides, and Liverpool, the em- barkation point for English girls with American soldier husbands, ceased to be the world's largest bride ports November 10th, when the trans- portation service organized for the purpose of bringing them to this country, closed.

Records show that 250 war brides of twenty-three nationalities and 332 babies have arrived in New York since last April.

The work has been carried on un- der the direction of the Y.M.C.A., with the co-operation of the Y.W.C.A. and the Red Cross. Eighty women who had done war work in France were recruited from the three organiza- tions to serve as transport secretar- ies.

American customs, geography, cook- ing and child hygiene have been taught in the "bride camps" at the European ports, from which they sailed, and also on ship board en route to this country.

Maternity Home Drive Commences.

Arrangements are well in hand for the big drive for the Maternity Hospital which starts to-morrow. This evening at the Methodist College Hall the opening banquet takes place, and the workers are looking forward to it with interest. The Captains of the various teams met at Headquarters last evening, and reported satisfactorily. Everything is going with a swing and the indications are that St. John's will contribute as generously to this very laudable work as it has in the past. A number of superintendents of City factories were dined at Woods' Restaurant last night, and were addressed by Mr. Dunbar. All were most enthusiastic and will do their utmost to make the drive highly successful. Factory employees are asked to contribute two per cent. of a month's salary, and it is felt that the great majority will do so gladly.

Sunday next will be observed in City churches as Maternity Hospital Sunday, when special prayers will be offered and sermons preached in keeping with the day.

It is acknowledged by all that no other responsible world wide organization caring for people of all denominations operates at as low a cost as the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army makes a dollar go further than any similar organization in the World. The reason is that its Officers receive the barest living allowances and live lives of real day-to-day, life-long, stripped-to-the-bone sacrifice.

From a purely economical standpoint therefore, it is good business for the Dominion to have the Salvation Army operate such a hospital. The public will get the maximum return for a minimum investment. No large salaries—no profits to anybody—selfless, sacrificial service to suffering humanity. The Salvation Army are experts in the act of making a cheerful happy home away from home. This institution will combine the best features of home and hospital. The best possible site will be secured and the management will be through a non-denominational Board of representative citizens. The hospital will be wide open to every patient who needs its service. The hospital will also be a most valuable adjunct to the Child Welfare movement.

From the names of those behind this campaign, it will be evident that leading men and women, although holding different opinions on other matters, are united in this movement, which is acknowledged by all to be for the common good, and based on proud and successful experience, knowing it to be a safe, economical, and fundamentally sound way of meeting the need.

Obituary.

LOUISA GIBBONS.

On Sunday, Nov. 23rd, the Angel of Death appeared at St. Vincent and brought from this vale of tears to the better land, Louisa, wife of Patrick Gibbons, and daughter of John and the late Bridget St. Croix, aged 53 years. The deceased had been ailing for the past twelve months. Last November she contracted Spanish influenza, which developed into that lingering, dread disease consumption, from which she could not recover. Deceased was of a happy, entertaining and harmonious disposition and her presence would cause good feeling and a ray of sunshine in any company. She leaves to mourn a husband, one daughter, Maud, a father, three brothers, William, Patrick and Alden; three sisters, Mary, Catherine and Nellie; and a host of friends and relatives. Her remains were laid to rest on the 25th inst. in the village cemetery, near her home amidst the friends and scenes that she loved so well. To the afflicted ones, we pray that God will comfort them one and all, and have mercy on the soul of their dear departed.—R.I.P.

St. Vincent, Nov. 24th, 1919.

Nfld. Scotch

Cured Herring.

The Newfoundland Scotch cured herring market has developed no outstanding features during the past week. The tendency to shade prices in an effort to unload before the arrival of the new pack continues, but the volume of business transacted has not been of a startling nature. Large winters are quoted $14 and $16, with mediums listed at $12@14, although inferior stocks are being quoted at almost any price in an effort to save something from the impending crash.—N.Y. Fishing Gazette, Nov. 15.

EXPRESS PASSENGERS.—The following first-class passengers are on the coming express:—Miss M. McDonald, Mrs. R. Atwell, M. Brown, Mrs. P. Wingrove, Miss L. Keefe, T. Power, Miss N. Clarke, M. J. and Mrs. Bennett, Miss B. R. O'Brien, Major Clayton, Kennedy, M. J. and Mrs. Haggerty, R. Bally, D. L. and Mrs. Pike, C. Townsend.

Cold, Cough, Headaches and Pains. Feverish Headaches and Body Pains caused from a cold are soon relieved by taking LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." E. W. GROVE'S signature on the box. 30c.
