CHAPTER XIV.
"Yes—yes!" groaned the earl. "Leave me now, Collins—Arthur—I agree to everything for the sake of my child!"

The steward passed out with a happy smile upon his face, and Lord Howard sat with his head resting on the table before him, incapable of motion, thought, or speech. He was, physically and mentally, in a state of chaos.

Lady Gladys Howard received a love letter from Sir Charles Hastings the next morning. She had been expecting it since the moment he had left her, and had counted the hours until the post bag would arrive on this glad Saturday morning. He had told her that he would write immediately he reached home, both to herself and to the earl, and now she sat in her own bright, little morning-room, the love letter in her hands—the first love letter she had ever received from any man—a happy light in her eyes, and an impatient ring in her tones, when she told her maid, Mademoiselle Lamartine, for the third time, that she wished to be alone for half-an-hour. She could not bear even to open the precious missive in the presence of another, and she had suffered the tortures of Tantalus since the earl had handed the letter to her at the breakfast-table—nearly half-an-hour earlier!

At last Mademoiselle Lamartine's seemingly interminable task of arranging a skein of silk came to an end, and she went away. When the door closed, Gladys sprang up and turned the key. Then she drew her lover's first letter from the bosom of her dress, a happy thrill fluttering through her whole being, and after pressing one fond but silent kiss on the dear handwriting, she dropped into an armchair, and took the precious missive from its covering.

With burning cheeks and parted lips, she read her first love letter:

My Darling Gladys—I am at home again, and seem to have left the sunshine behind me. An hour after my arrival I wanted to come back to you. I never before realized what a dull place this world is without you. I think that is usual for people who are in love to drop into poetry. I have heard so, and have smiled at the folly. If folly it be, I am now guilty of it. I do not mean that I am attempting the indiscretion of writing poetry myself, but I find all the love songs that I ever thought worthy of remembering, coming back to my mind like happy echoes. This must be a sign that I am very deeply in love indeed.

"Though the bard to purer fame may soar,
When wild youth's past,
Though he win the wise who frowned before,
To smile at last;
He'll never meet a joy so sweet
In all his noon of fame,
As when first he sung to woman's ear
His soul-felt flame.
And, at every close, she blushed to hear
The one loved name!"

I shall never more meet a joy so sweet, Gladys, and it seems too beautiful to be true. Heaven and myself only know how much I love you, darling. I shall write a few lines to Lord Howard, and then for a busy week. I am going direct to Birmingham, to consult with my lawyers upon a matter of vital importance to us. Then I shall come back to you, dear, and then—the fullness of a perfect joy—or misery!

Yours till death,
CHARLES HASTINGS.

Lady Gladys did not feel altogether satisfied with this letter. There was too much—or too little. What did her lover mean by the "fullness of a perfect joy—or misery?" Why should there be misery? Why should there be a single doubt? If he was doubtful of the earl's decision, it was a needless, a foolish doubt. The earl would never interfere in her choice of a lover, he had told her so, and she knew that he meant it. She locked her first love letter safely away, after folding inside it the faded pages that Sir Charles had given her at the flower bazaar. Then she went out into the morning sunshine to tread the ways that she and her lover had walked together; to recall every word that he had uttered, and to think of the happiness of being loved. One little week, and he would be with her again. One week and the whole world might know that he was her lover. No stolen meetings—no doubts. One unbroken world of delights before them.

She had not been out long when her father passed within a few yards of her. He did not speak to her—he did not see her. His head was bent—his hands were folded behind him, and his whole attitude was suggestive of despair.

Gladys stared at him in wonderment. Could Sir Charles Hastings' letter have caused him this grief? This was her first thought, and a hand of iron, cold as ice, heavy and merciless, seemed to clutch at her heart.

The earl was walking along the banks of the lake, his eyes bent to the ground, seeing nothing of the beauty around him. The great white lilies, with their hearts of gold, nodding drowsily amid the green grass, were passed unheeded. The soft summer wind sounded like a moan of pain in his ears. His thoughts were on the past twenty long years ago, and as he passed from Gladys's sight, he uttered a groan that caused her face to blanch with a nameless dread.

She went indoors in search of Lady Marcia. She would learn from her aunt what Sir Charles had written.

Lady Marcia was in the library, busy with her accounts. She had absolute charge of the household exchequer for many years, and prided herself upon keeping the accounts in order. She greeted Gladys with a mischievous smile, but was at once concerned upon observing her white face and anxious eyes.

"Did your first love letter contain good news?" she asked. "Ah, you cannot deceive the eyes of one who loved once as you love now, darling!" "How did you know that Charles had written, auntie?" the girl said, blushing.

"How do I know? I saw you take three letters, and one of them was hurriedly hidden away. I have done the same thing myself." Lady Marcia laughed, then her eyes grew misty, and she sighed. "But you have not told me your trouble, darling."

"It is about papa; he has gone toward the park, looking simply wretched. He passed within a few yards of me, and did not look up once. I know that Sir Charles has written to him, auntie, and I feared that the letter has troubled him, perhaps. Was I silly? But he has not looked happy since his hurried visit to the city. I don't know why I should connect myself with his changed manner, but I do."

"Then you are worrying yourself needlessly, darling," Lady Marcia replied, soothingly. "The earl has only spoken a few words to me this morning, but I know that his trouble is with Collins, the steward. Our confidence in Collins has been dispensed. He has been systematically robbing us for years, and the earl is dreadfully shocked."

Gladys looked a little bewildered. She had always considered the steward to be above reproach—a strangely preoccupied man, but an honorable gentleman in all things. He had never failed to treat her with the greatest of consideration and respect, and she could not remember that his manner had ever been marked by the usual servility that is affected by servants.

"I am surprised and sorry," she confessed. "I have regarded Collins as quite a superior steward." "He will have to go, of course," Lady Marcia observed; "but the earl will not punish him further." She was silent for a few moments, then she added: "I wonder why he did not speak about Sir Charles' letter this morning. He can have no possible objection to him. I have known the family for twenty years or more, and the only fault that the young man has is brooding over a charge made against his father."

Gladys was instantly interested, and her face brightened with eagerness.

Proceedings at the Synod

FRIDAY, June 30.
AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House met at 3:30 p.m., the Lord Bishop presiding, who read the opening prayers.

The Minutes of the previous Session were read and approved. Pursuant to notice, Rev. Dr. Facey moved for the appointment of a Standing Committee to consider certain recommendations brought in by the Select Committee of the last Synod in relation to Finances, and to report to the next Session of the Synod. On being duly seconded, the House agreed.

The following Committee was appointed, viz.—Rev. Canon Smart, Rev. A. E. Tulk, B.A., R.D. (convenor), Rev. H. W. Facey, B.A., L. Th., Rev. A. B. Stirling, Rev. J. Brinton, Geo. House, Esq., A.A., F. C. Grant, Esq., R. G. MacDonald, Esq., C. E. Hunt, Esq., with power to add to their number.

Mr. I. J. Samson asked for the permission of the House to withdraw his notice for the appointment of the Committee of which he had given notice yesterday. The House gave permission.

His Lordship the Bishop appointed the following members to serve on the Diocesan Board of Missions, viz.—Rev. Canon Smart, Rev. E. C. Earp, B.A., Rev. W. R. J. Higgett, L. Th., with power to add to their numbers. Rev. Canon Smart presented the Report of the Diocesan Board of Missions, and moved for its adoption. On being seconded, the House agreed.

The Report stated amongst other things that from sources other than the Home and Foreign-Mission Fund, the sum of $11,985.00 had been raised during the Biennial period for Missionary purposes. The Board has continued to support the Rev. Ives Stocker, our own Missionary in China, whose visit last year, accompanied by his wife, evoked the utmost enthusiasm. Many of our people came under their influence, and were attracted by their personality. The outstanding feature of the visit was the memorable united offering service in the Cathedral of the Sunday School children of the Parishes in St. John's. The Bishop's Banner has been awarded this year to St. Mary's School, Heart's Content, whose offering amounted to $404.00, a per capita offering of $3.20.

The Board in conclusion asked for the adoption of the following resolutions, which they embodied in their report, viz:

1. "That immediate steps be taken to organize a Woman's Auxiliary Missionary organization for the Diocese, either by using the present Church of England Women's Association as a basis, or by forming a separate missionary organization along the lines of the Canadian Church Women's Auxiliary."

2. "That we endorse the resolution passed at the last Synod for the appointment of a Field Secretary for the Diocese, and that this officer shall, if the Executive Committee so desire, be available for work in connection with carrying out the budget scheme."

Pursuant to notice Rev. Canon Bolt moved and it was duly seconded that the Rules of Order be suspended for the remainder of the Session. Agreed.

Pursuant to notice Rev. H. W. Facey moved the following Resolutions, which were duly seconded, in relation to appointment to livings, and in regard to the Budget System of Finance, viz:

1. "That it be a recommendation to the Executive Committee with regard to appointments during the next two years that in Parishes where the minimum salary cannot be maintained that the Bishop and the Executive do exercise the powers of the Constitution, viz:

1. "After investigation to alter the Boundaries of Parishes to include two spheres of work, and be satisfied that the people are willing and able to raise the minimum salary before permission to elect a Parish Priest be given."

2. "That in other Parishes which fall to raise the minimum salary, a sympathetic investigation be carried out under the constitution to ascertain whether each Parish can raise the necessary funds to maintain its parochial status, and that if such an investigation finds that the minimum salary cannot be raised, that a Priest in charge be appointed under the Diocesan Mission Fund for the time being."

II. "That it be a recommendation to the Bishop that Canon Smart be appointed for one year to act in the capacity of Field Secretary, especially with a view to inducing our people to raise the necessary funds for the adequate support of the Church in the Diocese."

The resolutions were debated until the closing hour, when the debate was adjourned.

NIGHT SESSION.
The House resumed at 8 o'clock. Sir W. H. Horwood asked that he be relieved from serving on the Standing Committee in respect to the Canadian Church Invitation. The request was acceded to.

Rev. A. E. Tulk also asked that he be relieved from serving on that Committee. Acceded to.

The House resumed the debate on the resolutions submitted by Rev. H. W. Facey, introduced in the afternoon session.

The debate continued until 10 o'clock, when on division the resolutions were adopted.

Pursuant to notice Dr. Blackall moved his resolution in regard to the work of the Lay Readers in this Diocese.

"That the Synod place on record its appreciation of the valuable services rendered to the Church by the Lay Readers, and wishes them happiness and blessing in their work."

"That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Lay Readers by the Secretary-Treasurer of the Synod."

On being seconded the House unanimously agreed.

Dr. Blackall asked leave to withdraw his notice of question given yesterday. Leave was granted.

Rev. Canon Bayly also asked leave to withdraw his notice of question given yesterday. Leave was granted.

Rev. W. R. J. Higgett moved the following resolution which was duly seconded:—

"That the Executive Committee be asked to take some steps to submit a proposal to the next Synod with a view to simplify procedure and to give the financial business of the Synod precedence on the Order Paper." The motion was unanimously adopted.

On motion, duly seconded, Messrs. J. J. Long and W. S. Monroe were elected as official auditors during the next two years.

His Lordship the Bishop gave his assent to amendments to the following Chapters, viz.—Chapter I, VII, XXIII, and XXIV, which have been passed during the Session.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the thanks of the Synod be tendered to his Excellency the Governor for the hospitable entertainment extended to the members of the Synod at the "At Home" at Government House on Saturday last.

Rev. C. Pittman moved and it was duly seconded and carried, by acclamation that a very hearty vote of thanks be accorded to the Lord Bishop of the Diocese for the very able manner in which he has presided over this Session of the Synod.

Rev. C. Wood proposed and it was duly seconded that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the Ladies of St. John's for the very kind and hospitable manner in which the Clergy have been entertained while in the city, and to the Committee of Ladies who made the arrangements. Carried by acclamation.

Rev. H. Y. Whitehouse moved and it was seconded that the thanks of the Synod be accorded to the various women's and girls' organizations of the Church for their loyal and faithful work on her behalf. Carried by acclamation.

Rev. J. Hewitt moved and it was seconded that the thanks of the Synod be accorded to the Executive Committee of the Synod, for their unselfish and devoted labours. Carried by acclamation.

Rev. J. R. Davies moved and it was duly seconded that the thanks and the Central European barbarians. In 1914 when the same barbarians attacked, the infant had grown to manhood, and was able to fight its own battles.

But our Church besides leading the way in defence of Christian civilization does more, she teaches us that it is our duty to defend our country and when necessary to give our lives for it.

The country called our sailors and soldiers "heroes" for answering their call, but that is the last honor they would seek for themselves.

Today is the "All-Souls' Day" of our sailors and soldiers and the privilege of honoring them has fallen on my unworthy shoulders.

I knew those men. I knew them as boys. We played together on the playgrounds of this city.

There is a famous picture of a battle scene. It is the picture of a thin red line of broken, wounded soldiers. Here there is a bandage on the forehead, here an arm carried in a sling; here a soldier leaning on his musket, or the friendly shoulder of a comrade.

"Greater love than this hath no man." It is the example of Christ Himself as he hung on the cross. We had that Cross in our midst, down through the centuries, by the world, was beginning to pass it by without learning the lesson which it taught.

marriage of progress is like the onward march of the besieging army into a fortress whose walls have been breached. Men fell in hundreds and in thousands.

They were called away in the fullness of youth. We will always think of them in their youthful splendour as the comrades that never grow old.

"Sons of our land, let this of you be said That you who live, are worthy of your dead. They gave their lives, that you who live may reap A nobler harvest ere you fall asleep."

The sermon at the Kirk was delivered by Rev. R. J. Power, M.A., who took as his text "Be not as the Hypocrites." The preacher's subject was "Camouflaged" which he likened to Hypocrisy.

British Society Ceremony. MURAL TABLE UNVEILED.

Saturday last, July 1st, the anniversary of a day of sacrifice for the Newfoundland Regiment, was chosen by the Newfoundland British Society for the unveiling of a tablet to perpetuate the names and memories of those of the Society who took part on that great occasion.

At the conclusion of the service the Councillor Dowden proposed, Mayor Cook seconded and Mr. H. R. Cook had prepared and read the inscription on the tablet.

In the Realms of Sport. breaking up the Irish attacks and his efforts were continuously applauded.

Despite the fact that the store were open, a thronged grandstand and crowded sidelines of excited spectators saw the Cadets divide honours with the B. I. S. the 1920-21 champions, on Friday evening. The ground was spiced, the ball greasy, and a strong southwest breeze, yet it speaks well for both 11's that despite these handicaps an exceedingly clever game was the result of the clash.

Breaking away, the Irish forwards took the ball west, and Brien's try resulted in a corner. Allowing too much for the wind, Constantine's kick-off went behind. Then the Cadets took charge of affairs and for five minutes they belaboured the Irish defence unmercifully.

The normal route will now be operated instantly from St. John's via Port aux Basques to Canso, Nova Scotia, with an alternative route by Commercial Cables from St. John's direct to New York, in case of interruption to the Newfoundland lines or Port aux Basques cable.

On Saturday morning the Kildrillo preliminaries for the Sir R. A. Squires Cup were played. In the opening clash between the B. I. S. and Wanderers the former were the victors by a score of 4 to 2, all the Irish runs being made in the first inning after two men were down. Donnelly and Regan started for Andy Clowry's gang, but after the first inning were replaced by Churchill and Thomas. The latter battery did great work and no harp got as far as second after they went in. The Wanderers' two runs were scored in the fourth.

FROM INFANCY TO LIFE'S SUNSET TANLAC BRINGS HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Nature's Blessings Are Open to All, and It Seems Inexcusable for Anyone to Remain a Miserable Weakling When This Great Medicine Is Restoring Vim, Vigor and Abundant Vitality to Hundreds All Around Them Every Day.

The foundation of health is laid during the early years of life.

From the tiny totter with foot hesitantly placed upon the bottom-most step, to the venerable grandfather at the top of Life's stairway, Tanlac is praised by all for the vim, vigor and abundant vital energy with which it blesses each step.

The earlier in life that one begins the use of Tanlac, the better equipped will that person be to cope with the vicissitudes of this existence. By preparing the digestive system of the youngster, Tanlac smooths the path and insures health and strength through all the years ahead. We cannot forget that the foundation for good health in our advanced years is laid during the early years of life.

How sad it is to see men and women by the thousands going through life with less than half of the vigorous health, strength and capacity for the enjoyment that is their birthright. And how much sadder it is to know that all their sufferings and lack of happiness are due to their own failure to take advantage of the blessings that Nature offers to all.

When one looks upon a weak, worn out, faded, demoralized man or woman and reflects that all this may be readily and satisfactorily changed merely by the use of Tanlac, if only that poor mortal knew it, one feels like spreading the message of hope and joy that Tanlac brings in the sharpest and clearest handwriting that none may overlook!

Are YOU as strong and healthy as you should be? Have you that abundant vital energy that enables you to laugh at disease and to overcome the ever-present obstacles in the path of your happiness? Does your food give up to you its rich stores of vitality, or does it pass through your digestive system without supplying you with much beyond the poisons formed through its decomposition?

Take this under your serious consideration, and answer these questions for yourself.

Then, if the answers are unsatisfactory, go to any druggist and purchase a bottle of Tanlac, and you, too, may become strong and healthy with the energy and vitality to accomplish your desires, just as so many thousands of others have. Take this under your serious consideration, and answer these questions for yourself. Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Ireland's Eye—My bump of curiosity that was fairly prominent in my younger days, has been developed by frequent use as I have grown older. The name by which a place is known has always interested me, and I have not been able to dismiss the subject from my thoughts, till I have found if possible, the meaning and the history of the name. For some time past I have been trying to find the reason why Ireland's Eye received its name; the date, and by whom the name was given. I have been told that it is not Ireland's Eye at all, but "Highlands High," as suggested by the highlands of the coast line. I don't think, however, that there is any doubt about the name Ireland's Eye. I find it referred to by that name in the Church Register of 1802, when a child of Thomas and Patience Verge, of Ireland's Eye, was baptized and named John. The date of this baptism, does not necessarily synchronize with that of the giving of the name to the island; and I mention it merely to show that it was known as Ireland's Eye 120 years ago. It is quite possible that the name is many years older than that. Who can give me some definite information on the subject?

English Harbor is referred to in the old Church Registers as far back as 1758. Rider's Harbor and Salmon Cove as far back as 1768. Bonaventure (Bonaventura) back to 1771. Fox Island 1768, Cuckhold's Cove 1786.

Some Burials of Long Ago.

1805—Charles Hodder, planter at Ireland's Eye.

1815—Thomas Verge, Sr., of Ireland's Eye, aged 62 years.

1765—Two Roman Catholic strangers.

1766—A Roman Catholic stranger.

1775—William Deyer, a Roman Catholic.

1775—William Kirby, a Roman Catholic.

1776—William Sweet, a Roman Catholic.

1776—Thomas Archer, a Roman Catholic.

1781—Dennis Griffin, a Roman Catholic.

1807—John Moroney, Private in the N. S. Fencibles, drowned.

1816—John Meagher (cooper) a long resident of this harbor, drowned near Mr. Slade's wharf.

The Lesters are referred to in the old Church Registers as doing business in Trinity till 1804. The name of a George Garland appears as their successor in 1810. James Pointer Garland in 1813. (He was married here in 1813) John Bingley Garland was here in 1836, though his name is not in the Church Register. There must have been two George Garlands, as the one referred to on the Mural Tablet in the Mortuary Chapel died in 1838, aged 40 years.

Wedding Bells—160 Years Ago.

1768—Married, John Allen and Mary Power, both from Ireland.

1774—Married, Stephen Hookey, of Christ Church, Hants, and Sarah Ivamy, daughter of John and Patience Ivamy, at Bonaventure. (N.B.—This is the Stephen Hookey whose headstone I dug up a few weeks ago.)

When Mr. Whitfield Bannister, of Trinity East, was troutling at Salmon Cove a year ago—in addition to the big trout, that he lost, he also lost his gold watch, and not knowing just in what part of the woods it had got from his pocket, he took his loss to a man, and bought another watch. During a tramp around the same pond on the King's official Birthday, this year, Mr. Walter White, of the Royal Bank found the watch in a clump of trees. The hands were rusty, but in other respects it was all right, and it has now been restored to its owner, after a year's outing in the woods.

A neat and Christian like monument has just been erected in St. Paul's Cemetery in loving memory of Charles Morris and his children. Mr. Morris died in the hospital at St. Anthony some three years ago, and his boy Frank, died in the Great War, that others might live. R.I.P.

Mr. Joseph Morris's premises has been a busy place day and night during the past week or two. In getting fish ready for market the men have taken advantage of every hour of sunshine and good air, and in their busy activities, they reminded us of the busy days of jong ago. A cargo of fish in casks and boxes; and herring in barrels will be made up for the Barbados market. We wish them good success.

Trinity is beginning to look its best again—and that means a good deal in Nature's beauty line. Within a few weeks, and during several weeks after that—if the weather man is kind to us—Trinity will be worth living in. Trinitarians abroad should endeavor to come home again for a week or two: climb Gun Hill and "view the landscape o'er"; motor to Kicky's or Trouty, or Salmon Cove for a day's trouting; boil the kettle six times a day; swim in God's Cove; picnic on God's Cove Plain; go to Church on Sundays; and in a dozen other ways realize that—although many things have changed—you are home again, that there is only one Trinity, and then go back to work like the giants refreshed. We shall be glad to have our old visitors, too; glad for their sakes as well as for our own. Nor shall we be less glad to welcome strangers to historic and beautiful Trinity, knowing that after a visit they will say: "I have been there and still would go, etc."

TRINITY.

Some of the most interesting literature that dealt with the doings of Trinity during the past two hundred years, were the Letter-books of Lester, Garland and Brookling during the years of their business activities. Those letters would be of priceless value to the writer of history in these days; as they would also be deeply interesting to the general public. I could promise my readers a goodly number of interesting week-end articles, if I had access to those manuscripts. They, however, were never intended for the public gaze, and I have always understood that they were all put together many years ago, and weighted with iron lead, and then taken out to sea, on one of the homeward bound vessels, and sunk.

It was altogether different in respect of the Letter-books of Slade, and Slade and Kelson, that were not treated with disrespect, and care, and they were left in the office when the premises passed by sale into other hands; and when the office was finally closed, those books were left there, still uncared for. Then as the building went to decay, they fell through the office floor, and were found saturated with sea-water on the beach below.

I found the majority of them in charge of Doctor Arthur White, when I came home on vacation one summer, and at his request I dried them and then published them in the Trinity Enterprise. Since that time they have gone into other hands, and they were published a second time, and given a wider circulation in the Evening Telegram by Mr. Shortle. I frequently hear them referred to by people who read them in these papers, and all agree that they contain information about the doings of those years, such as no other publication to date has done.

One is reminded of the interesting contents of the Lester-Garland-Brookling manuscripts by incidental references in the Church Registers, to times tragic and otherwise, that happened during the years of their regime. For instance, in 1816 I find the following four consecutive entries in the Burial Register:

May 9th—"Interred Edward White, a youngster belonging to Mr. George Garland, who arrived here on the 3rd inst., in the 'Nelson', aged 19 years."

May 17th—"Interred James Garland, a youngster belonging to Mr. Geo. Garland, who arrived here on the 3rd inst., in the 'Nelson', aged 17 years."

May 21st—"Interred James Baker, a youngster who arrived in the 'Nelson' on the 3rd inst., aged 22 years."

May 28th—"Interred Charles Birch, a youngster who arrived in the 'Nelson' on the 3rd inst., belonging to Mr. Geo. Garland, aged 16 years."

Here—in the old Church Register—we have the barest outlines of what were occurrences far beyond the ordinary, and with a thread of sadness running through them, the interesting details of which would be found only in the letter-report from Trinity to headquarters in Pook. I may remember that those young men who crossed the ocean to die in a strange land, were not necessarily outcasts or without friends in the mother-land. The fact that they are referred to as "youngsters" does not imply that, when they were buried, they were summarily dismissed from the thoughts and love of everybody. There were often a halo of romance associated with those boys and young men, who, catalogued as "youngsters" had come out to Newfoundland to seek their fortune, and whose present and future were carefully followed by a mother's love and prayers. Doubtless there were some tares amongst the wheat, but the old fashioned, God-fearing, right living men that so many of those "youngsters" developed into, represented wheat of sterling worth—which clearly indicated early fundamental teaching in religious truths, such as in nine cases out of ten, was imparted by a mother.

I realize that in a sense I am digressing, but I do so (not so much to fill up space as) to supply the facts that some of the details in those old Letter-books would give us, and thus, in those far-away years, as I look back through the corridors of time—to pay a deserving tribute of praise to the old people, who brought out from Devonshire, Dorset, or Hampshire, an honoured name, and together with other good things—passed it on to us. May God be good to them, and help us to live as those who are additionally responsible for the revelations of the past two hundred years.

A Few Baptisms of Long Ago.

1776—A son and daughter of Wm. and Susannah Froude, named William and Judith—at Bay of Herbs (Bay de Verde).

1767—At Old Perlican, a son to

Answers to Correspondents.

Anglican.—From 1750 (and probably many years before that date) down to the year (Circa) 1828 the only spiritual ministrations to the people of Trinity were those of the Church of England. The greater number of the Irish youngsters were Roman Catholics; but the Church of England shepherded them all. They were all married, their children baptised, and they and theirs were led to rest in the old Church-yard, with the same Christian burial that the Church gave to her own children. Every marriage, and baptism, and burial, is carefully entered in the Registers of the Church; and whilst only in connection with the burial of some are the words "Roman Catholic" added (see burials mentioned in this issue) yet the names of many of those in the Baptismal and Marriage Registers clearly indicate that they were Roman Catholics. In the year 1828 permission was given by the clergy and vestry of St. Paul's, to the Roman Catholics, and Wesleyans, to occupy at the burial of their own people in the Church-yard till each had provided a cemetery for their own use. All this is mentioned simply as a matter of history.

NOT SO VITAL.

Nobody ever thinks as much about your appearance as you do yourself.

No small defect ever looks so bad to anyone else as it does to the person upon whose countenance it appears.

The young girl who looks in the glass and sees that she has a sty or a cold sore coming, sees it as a mountainous affair. When she enters a room she feels sure that everyone else in the room sees that defect immediately and she becomes painfully conscious of it. As a matter of fact, half the people in the room don't notice it at all unless she draws attention to it by some gesture, and those who do notice it do not give it a second thought.

No scar is ever half so large in the eye of the beholder as it is in the mind of the possessor.

A man told me an interesting thing the other day:

Men and Their Haircuts.

"I used to make the greatest fuss about having my hair cut," he said. "If I couldn't get it cut just when I wanted to I felt as if I were a terrible looking object. I stood in front of the glass and fussed with it and fumed over it and thought I looked like a long-haired actor or poet and suspected people were laughing at me behind my back. And then when I did get it cut, half the time I thought the barber was trying to make me look as bad as he could. "But I'm cured now. I realize that no one cares so much about my hair cuts as I do myself."

"What cured me? Well I heard other men making a fuss because they needed hair cuts, when so far as I could see they looked all right. And then I heard them fussing after they got it cut about a bum hair cut when I couldn't see anything wrong about it."

No One Else Worried.

"That fixed me. I quit thinking everyone was worrying as to whether my hair was a sixteenth of an inch too long or not."

Nobody ever thinks as much about your personal appearance as you do yourself.

That goes for men and women alike.

Keep yourself neat and well groomed. Look as well as you can. Be ready to smile and say a gracious friendly word, and you will look well to people even if your hair is an eighth of an inch too long or your right eye is indulging in a sty.

Household Notes.

In hot weather it is a good plan to beat the mayonnaise in the upper part of the double boiler, filling the lower part with cracked ice and brine.

If your oven falls you while baking, take off a hot front lid and set it underneath your pan. Set the tea kettle over the hole while using the lid.

If the edges of your rugs curl, dampen them thoroughly on the under side, lay smooth boards on top and leave until the edges are perfectly dry.

When vegetables are very plentiful, it is a good idea to prepare them as for the vegetable soup and can them. In winter just add them to the meat stock.

The Fate of the American Confederacy.

The battle fought at Gettysburg on July 1, 2, and 3, 1863, between the Federal troops under General Meade, and the Southern troops under General Robert Lee, taken together with the surrender of Vicksburg, to General Grant on July 4, was decisive of the fate of the Southern Confederacy. Chance brought on the terrible struggle, when on July 1, bodies of the Federal cavalry, advancing on Gettysburg, got into action with part of the Confederate army, supports came up on both sides, and by degrees the combat with which the day began swelled into a battle. General Reynolds drove the Federals against Round Top Hill, being unavailing, and both armies bivouacked on the field. Until the afternoon of the third day there was only firing throughout the outposts, but about one o'clock Lee opened fire with more than a hundred guns on the Federals, and between three and four o'clock ordered Longstreet's corps, with Pickett's Virginia leading, to charge and carry Cemetery Hill. Under a heavy fire the gallant Southerners came on, and pushing back the Federal line, were soon upon the guns, bayoneting the gunners, and waving their flags over the guns. They had, however, exposed themselves to the enfilading fire of the Federal guns on the Western Slopes, and a storm of grape and canister tore its way down their lines, which reeled back in fragments. The Federals thereupon charged forward, sweeping back the disjointed line, and the battle was over. Meade reported his loss at 16,000 killed and wounded, and 6,000 missing; while Lee's loss was estimated at 18,000 killed and wounded, and 10,000 prisoners. Lee held his ground on the fourth and did not commence his retreat till the fifth, while Meade judged it wiser not to assume the offensive.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

WALT MASON.

"My nose is red," the good man said, "although I drink no liquor; and when I rise to preach to guys, they look at me and snicker. My beard is pink, but not from drink; it comes from scarlet fever; I sip no drops distilled from hops, for drink is a deceiver. No beer or wine will turn my nose red, no gin my breath will tarnish. I'd rather die than lap up rye or other coffin varnish. And so I feel a helpful spirit from one who does no drinking might lead the boys from liquid joys, and set them all a-thinking. But when I rise to urge, advise, instill a lesson slowly, my crimson beard brings forth a shriek of merriment unholy. And none will hark when I embark in truthful explanations; men cry, 'Jocose, 'Go, bleach your nose, and 'cease your wild libations.' How fearful 'tis, how fierce, ere while this outward show of evil! How often wheat is good to eat, that we think spoiled by yeast! We should not judge, with cries of 'Fudge!' the man who would uplift us, who's truly good, who bravely would from sinful courses shift us. Although his beard is wild and weird, although his pants are bagging, he yet may spring some goodly thing to keep our souls from sagging."

Blondin's Niagara Performance.

In the early part of July, 1860, Blondin, the famous tightrope walker, performed the remarkable feat of walking across the Niagara Falls with a man on his back. Nearly five months were spent in making the rope, which was three inches in diameter and two thousand feet long. It was then placed in position with guy-ropes, and every precaution taken for safety. Everything being ready, a man, Col. Chad by name, took his place on Blondin's back, and they started to cross the rope. Below them, two hundred and fifty feet, roared the river, ready to claim them should Blondin make one slip. Suddenly the great rope before them began to swing alarmingly, and it was afterwards ascertained that it had been swaying fully forty feet in the centre. Still moving steadily, Blondin never faltered. When they had gone about ten feet on the middle span, someone on the American side pulled the guy-line (supposed to be the action of one who had wagered against the feat being accomplished); Blondin stopped, and his pole went from side to side in a vain effort to secure his balance, and, failing to do so, he started to run across the horrible span, and in safety reached the point where the guy-rope came from the American shore. Then, to steady himself, Blondin put his foot on the guy-rope and tried to stop, but the guy snapped, and with a dash of speed he ran swiftly twenty or thirty feet further. The perspiration now stood on his neck and shoulders in great beads, as he marvellously regained his balance, and passed on to the American shore amid the exciting cheers from a hundred thousand throats.

Just Rolled

It's a good idea, said he to me, in dealing with your fellow men, To realize that dull or wise, they may be troubled now and then; I don't suppose the stranger knows just how 'I'm feeling when we meet.

An' I have days my temper strays an' I can't keep my nature sweet.

Now gettin' on with Jim or John would not be difficult to do If every day they cross our way the story of their life we know; If we could know if pain or woe was troubling them, it seems to me, Then you an' I would know just why they weren't just what they ought to be.

So when I meet along the street some irritable chap, I say Perhaps he's ill, or graver still, perhaps some grief has come his way His temper's bad, but if I had to bear his pain the whole day through I can't deny the fact that I would be a bit cantankerous, too.

An' so I say from day to day in dealing with your fellowmen, It's always wise to realize they may be troubled now and then; Both pain and woe all men must know, good nature is a gift sublime, But none on earth can keep his mirth and be good natured all the time.

Yarmouth, N.S., March 24, 1921.

The Secretary of the Yarmouth Athletic Association, who were the champions for 1920 of the South Shore League and Western Nova Scotia Base Ball, states that during the summer the boys used MINARD'S LINIMENT with very beneficial results, for sore muscles, bruises and sprains. It is considered by the players the best white liniment on the market. Every team should be supplied with this celebrated remedy.

A Fearful Tragedy in Ireland.

The terrible assassinations which have lately taken place in Ireland, brings to mind the tragedy which occurred at Carrickshock on July 2, 1851. A number of writs against defaulters had been issued by the Court of Exchequer, and entrusted to the care of process servers, who, guarded by a strong body of police, proceeded on their mission with secrecy and dispatch. Bonfires along the surrounding hills, however, and shrill whistles soon showed that the people were not unprepared for their visitors. The yeomanry of police rushed on boldly when suddenly an immense assemblage of peasantry, armed with scythes and pitchforks, poured down upon them, and they were summoned to surrender the process servers to popular vengeance. On their refusal, a terrible hand-to-hand struggle ensued, and in the course of a few moments, eighteen of the police, including the commanding officer and his son, only ten years of age, were slaughtered, the pony that the boy rode being stabbed to death. The remainder of the party fled, marking the course of their retreat by the blood that trickled from their wounds. One of the country lads, who was only about thirteen years of age, went from one to another of the prostrate police and finding that five of them still breathed, made an end of them with his scythe. A coroner's jury pronounced the terrible deed as "wilful murder" against some persons unknown. Although this outrage happened 70 years ago, the country has always been in a state of turmoil and insurrection, and successive British Governments have been unable to solve the political problem.

"This Typewriting Gets on My Nerves"

"I WONDER if I am getting nervous. There must certainly be something wrong with me, for I am so tired in the mornings and do not seem to have the energy to transcribe the bunch of letters which I get every day.

"Of course, I have been working harder than usual to make up for those who have been away sick. Then I have been helping more at home while mother was sick. I suppose it all helps to tire one out and exhaust the system."

"But what was that I was reading about? Dr. Chase's Nerve Food? Building up the nerves? Perhaps that is what I need. There was something about worry and anxiety breaking down the nervous system, and I've surely had my share of worry."

"That may account for my headaches and sleeplessness, as well as for the tired feelings which I have all the time. Well, I am going to get some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food today and give it a try-out."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so gentle in action and yet so potent as a restorative that it is a great favorite with women of all ages. It seems to be admirably suited to the needs of their delicate nervous systems, and on this account it has come to be universally used as a means of restoring vigor and energy to a run-down, nervous system.

The healthful color and appearance of people who have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—the elasticity and vivacity of their movements—is the best evidence of the benefits they have attained.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Friday's Trade Review.)

Codfish—The exports for the week amounted to approximately 30,000 qtls. all from St. John's. The Cecil Jr. took 3,428 qtls. from Bowring Bros. for Bahia; the Herbert Warren 5,714 qtls. from Jas. Baird, Ltd. for Pernambuco, and the Helen Juan 500 cases or about 2,000 quintals from Moore Export Co. for Trinidad. Over 5,000 qtls. of cask fish was shipped by the Rosalind, mostly for West Indies.

The Faustina is completing a cargo at Burgeo from Clements Bros. for Oporto, the Russell L. Zinck has cleared for West Indies with 2,000 qtls., and the Humorist is loading here.

Stocks in Oporto have been reduced the past week from 26,225 qtls. to 20,000 qtls. with no new arrivals, but the consumption which last week was up to 5,357 qtls. is now down to 4,557 qtls. The Norwegian catch to date is 8,900,000 ahead of the figures of last year at this time.

Cod Oil—There has been no change in any direction in cod oil since last week's advance, and the figure then prevailing, $90.00 per ton, still holds. With the shipment of practically the last of the cod oil to market, there have been no sales, but the outlook for fall demand has not brightened and no advance can be looked for this season.

Lobsters—The demand for this article is still good both in the English and American markets. The present price is $24.00 per case and an even better figure than this may be obtained before the end of the season. A great deal depends on the pack and it is essential that the greatest care be observed in this if the market is to justify its present healthy outlook.

Flour—This market has considerably strengthened the past week. Cash wheat in Canada has advanced but option markets are about the same. Crop news indicates the possibility of some decline in condition during next month. Imports to date are well in excess of 150,000 barrels and only very little buying activity is apparent in the local market. Sales of wheat for export are still large and the new wheat will be in big demand as soon as it is on the market with the probability of somewhat higher prices than at present prevail. The week has seen no changes in local quotations, leading brands are still selling wholesale at $9.50 and other grades from $9.20 to $9.50.

Pork—A much stronger tendency marked the opening of the pork market this week, and prices are expected to remain firm during the buying season. There are no large stocks held locally, but the demand for the present will be met by small shipments brought by the Rosalind to some dealers. The recent advance has been reflected to some small extent in local prices. Ham Butt having advanced during the week fifty cents per barrel. This brand is now selling at $30.00 whilst Fat Back is a more popular purchase at $29.00. A reduction of $3.00 per barrel has been made in the price of Grocers' Family Meats which is now quoted at $39.00.

Beef—This market is still weak and boneless beef can be bought at much more attractive prices. There is still little buying activity and present quotations by local dealers are below last year's, except in the case of Bos Flank and Family Special, which are selling wholesale at $23.00 and $20.50 respectively. A reduction of one dollar per barrel has been made in the price of New York boneless, which is quoted at $18.00 and a reduction of fifty cents in Morris Boneless which is offering locally at $17.50.

Molasses—Molasses is even stronger than was anticipated last week. Fancy has advanced 7 1/2 cents per gallon and practically all Choice has been sold. Two cargoes arrived from Barbados during the week, the schooner Ena A. Moulton bringing the equivalent of 420 puncheons and the Jean Dundonald 500 puncheons.

Fancy is now being quoted locally wholesale at 80 cents per gallon as against 72 cents, the former price, while Choice has advanced to 70 cents. Sugar—Prices of sugar to arrive will be in excess of present quotations. Raw sugar advanced a quarter of a cent last week but has since dropped one tenth. The markets have been considerably excited recently and advances of at least one cent per pound are predicted by some authorities. Owing to fortunate purchases earlier in the season local dealers are enabled to keep the wholesale price at little above cost of replacement. Prices to arrive will be about 25 cents over present quotations. A small shipment of sugar was brought in this week by the Sable I. Granulated is still selling at $11.00.

Potatoes—Imports of Island potatoes have been above the average since last report and the market is holding firm. Over 6,000 sacks came in from Charlottetown by the Canadian Sapper and are selling at $3.20 per barrel. Practically all the local demand is being entirely supplied by the imported article of which there are now very large stocks on hand.

Oats—Oats are a little stronger than the previous week, but present stocks of mixed are being sold at a good profit at $3.80. White oats are quoted at $4.00, but there is very little in stock just now. Only a limited shipment arrived by the Canadian Sapper, but the Manoa has a large quantity from Charlottetown which will meet the local demand for some time.

Hay—Hay is still weak and the limited demand is now being entirely supplied by the imported article, of which there are still fairly large shipments coming in by P.E.I. boats. There is no local hay offering and local quotations are keeping up at $12.00, although it is expected present imports will be sold at a reduction. The indications all point to cheaper hay this season. The local crop prospects are very good.

"Midsummer Madness" at the Nickel.

SHOWS SIGNIFICANT ADVANCE OF THE SCREEN.

To-night's big attraction at the Nickel is William DeMille's greatest screen triumph, "Midsummer Madness." The story is entirely different from anything yet seen on a local screen. The whole thing might have happened—has happened—in real life; but the individuality DeMille has given to every character in this double triangle and the perfect skill with which he has made events proceed naturally and with steadily growing dramatic power are the chief reasons for the picture's success—and also Com. Hamilton's writing the director saying that "Midsummer Madness" is the most utterly satisfying, beautiful and human thing, all alive and throbbing, that has ever been created for the screen. "Midsummer Madness" is the very kind of photography that the local movie fan is sure to appreciate. The cast includes Conrad Nagel, Jack Holt, Betty Francisco, Claire McDowell and the dainty Lila Lee.

Personal.

S.S. Silvia Arrives.

NEW RED CROSS LINER A SPLENDID BOAT.

With all flags flying S.S. Silvia arrived in port at 3 p.m. yesterday, and berthed at the Furness Wharf pier. Hundreds of people assembled at the wharf to view the new addition to the Red Cross Line. The Silvia left the Clyde at noon Wednesday, but shortly after leaving port met very stormy weather, and was obliged to shelter at Lough Swilly, Ireland. Head winds marked practically the whole voyage and only three quarter speed could be made; yet despite adverse conditions the Silvia proved a very comfortable sea boat. The following passengers arrived by the ship:—Sir E. R. Bowring, Mrs. I. J. McGowan, Mrs. J. Munn, Lt.-Col. J. H. Riley, Lt.-Col. A. Bernard, Capt. Keegan, Mrs. Keegan, child and maid, Mrs. F. A. Kenny and child, Mrs. J. H. Campbell, Mr. J. Campbell, Mrs. A. Browning, Mr. E. R. Clouston, Mr. H. B. Goodridge, Lord Morris, Hon. M. Morris, Mr. John Fenman, Mr. H. Withall, Mr. S. Moore, Mr. F. H. Jones, Miss L. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Harnshaw; Second Class, Mr. J. Walsh, F. A. Parsons, Mr. and Master Butt. The Silvia will ply on the St. John's, Halifax, and New York route in conjunction with S.S. Rosalind. In appointments, the ship is all that is desired. She has accommodation for 160 first class passengers in her 44 staterooms, and 3 Cabins de Luxe. There is also accommodation for about 80 second class passengers. From the promenade deck, entrance is made to the card room, panelled in light oak with furniture upholstered in red leather. The floor covering are of inlaid rubber. Adjoining this room, with its cosy alcoves, is a convenient place to wash. A music room is also situated on the promenade deck and immediately above the saloon. The entrance is through a specially designed lobby. Equipped in magnificent style, with mahogany furniture, handwoven carpets, and beautifully paneled walls and ceiling, this portion of the ship is second only to the saloon. The latter has a seating capacity for 80. It is furnished in mahogany, upholstered in blue plush; the walls and ceiling are in white and panelled. The carpet has a blue ground and the port windows are draped with blue silk curtains. The tone is pleasing and effective. The staterooms are in keeping with the rest of the ship and are fitted with two berths such of which can be adjusted to accommodate 4 persons. Each room has a linen closet and double washstands. They are painted white, and blue carpeted. The Silvia was formerly the Russian ship Orsi, built at Danzig in 1909. She is 3462 tons gross, and 1922 net.

A Dainty, Simple Dress.
Pattern 3267 was used for this design. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size will require 3¼ yards of 40 inch material. Lawn, batiste, voile, dimity, dotted Swiss, crepe, wash silk, gingham and chambray could be used for this. As here shown white organdie was used, with self frills, and outline embroidery for decoration.

A Dainty Dress for Mother's Girl.
Pattern 3660 is here charmingly portrayed. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 10 requires 3¼ yards of 38 inch material. Dotted Swiss, organdie, crepe, crepe de chine, founcing, embroidered voile, poplin, silk, gingham, percale and linen are attractive for this model. The plastron may be omitted. The sleeve may be in "short" or wrist length. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

A Stylish Frock for the Growing Girl.
4019. The graceful fullness of the drapery and the "tie on" effect are popular features of this model. It is nice for crepe, and also for voile. Ribbon, hemstitching or a picot edge would serve well for decoration.

A Simple Dress for a Small Child.
Pattern 3393 developed this attractive model. It is cut in 5 Sizes: 6 months, 1 year, 2, 3, and 4 years. Chambray, lawn, calico, challie, linen, crash, voile, silk, serge and mixture, also gingham, and poplin are nice for a dress of this kind. As illustrated, blue chambray was used, with trimming of white Indian head, finished with blanket stitching.

A Comfortable Flay Frock.
4631. The good features of this style are readily apparent. It may be attractively developed in percale with trimmings of a contrasting color, or in chambray, pongee or crepe.

A Dainty Comfortable Frock.
3980. In dotted Swiss, challie, chintz or cretonne this style is ever attractive. The development is simple, and the dress will launder easily. Comfortable pockets are inserted under dainty flaps.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 1, 2, 3, and 5 years. A 3 year size will require 1½ yard of 36 inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

NOTE—Owing to the continual advance in price of paper, wages, etc., we are compelled to advance the price of patterns to 15c. each.

French Ship Towed to Port.
WILL REQUIRE CONSIDERABLE REPAIRS.

The French barq. Vinna, 33 days out from Oporto, bound to St. Pierre with a cargo of salt, was towed to port yesterday morning in a somewhat damaged condition by the tug John Green. The vessel has her foremast sprung and will require considerable repairs. A message to Hon. Tasker Cook, French Consul, received on Friday night, intimated that a French barquentine was in distress off Portugal Cove and was asking for assistance. The tug John Green was dispatched, and located the vessel about a quarter of a mile off land.

Premier Missing.
LAST HEARD OF AT GRAND FALLS.

The Prime Minister of Newfoundland is missing. Since he left for Grand Falls on Tuesday night nothing has been heard of him, but it is believed that he joined yesterday's express en route to England, via Canada. Enquiries at his office this morning revealed no news of his whereabouts. Hon. W. R. Warren, approached this morning, said he thought Sir Richard was at Grand Falls, but was not sure that he is still there. Sir Richard Squires, Hon. W. F. Coaker, Hon. Dr. Campbell and Major Jennings left for Grand Falls in a private car attached to a freight on Friday night. No reward will be paid for information as to their whereabouts.

Short of Flour.
DESTITUTION AT RIGOLET.

Destitution is reported at Rigolet by S.S. Ranger, which reached port yesterday from the Labrador. When the ship arrived there, her provision cargo had to be immediately discharged as the people were on their last pan of flour. Conditions at Cartwright were not so bad. This has been a very good season for fur on the Labrador, and the trappers did very well. The people of Labrador are anxious to buy cats and made an offer of $25 for the Ranger's tabby. There seems to be every likelihood of the formation of a cat ranch to supply the Labrador, if this price is maintained. The Ranger also reports having picked up a motor boat five miles off Grates Cove, containing two men, William and Thomas Smith. The boat had developed engine trouble and was drifting to sea. The men were on their way here to go fishing. They were bound from Trinity Bay.

Held Over.
A communication from Mr. C. J. Fox, Barrister and Solicitor, addressed to the Evening Advocate Publishing Co., re a letter appearing in the columns of that newspaper on Friday last, relative to the Susu Steamship Co. is, with a variety of other local matter unavoidably held over until to-morrow.

Shipping Notes.
S. S. Nord King, cleared and sailed from Bell Island on Saturday with iron ore for Sydney.
S.S. Silvius sails at noon on Thursday for Halifax and New York. The ship will commence her fortnightly summer schedule beginning at New York, July 23rd. Owing to the Roseland being at the regular Red Cross Pier the Silvia will sail from the lower premises, formerly Shea & Co's.
Schr. Natalie Nelson, three days from St. Pierre, arrived in port Saturday in ballast.
Schr. Lucille B. Crosser sailed last week from Trinity for Barbados, with a cargo of fish and herring shipped by Joseph Morris.
S.S. Kentworth sailed yesterday from Botwood, for London taking 5,200 tons paper from the A.N.D. Co.
S.S. Bethlehem arrived at Botwood yesterday from Sydney, coal laden to the A.N.D. Company.
Schr. Margaret Ryan and Jas. O'Neill have cleared from Labrador for Sydney in ballast.
