LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"Mamma," said Angel, "you are ill and feverish; your face is flushed again, and your eyes are too bright. Never mind them; do not look at them. Let me go home with you."

"Then do not let him know, Angel; the carriage can come back for him," said the unhappy woman.

They left the ball-room together; and when they were in the carriage, Lady Laura wept as though her heart would break.

"Mother," Angela said, lovingly, "the matter is not worth all those tears; it is not indeed."

No daughter could have been more loving, more devoted than Angela. She sent Doris the maid away, saying she would wait upon her mother herself, for she did not care that the servant should witness her ladyship's bitter weeping. She laid the golden head on the white pillow, and sat by her mother's side until she had fallen asleep. Who could tell the love and pain in her heart as she did so? She heard her mother speaking in her sleep, and, bending over her, she caught the words, so full of pathos:

"Oh, Charlie, Charlie, I have had such a terrible dream!"

She drew back again, for she knew that in her dreams her mother's spirit had gone back to the kindly husband who had loved her so well, and who had never caused her one tear.

CHAPTER XXIV.

It was when the reality of her position forced itself upon her that Lady Laura turned to her daughter for love and sympathy. It was when she found her mother's happiness so completely wrecked that Angela devoted her whole time to her.

When Lady Laura came to town, and while she still retained her implicit faith in her husband's love, she looked quite ten years younger than she really was, being bright, blooming, and happy. Now she looked her age—and to a fashionable beauty that meant much. Quite suddenly the exquisite bloom faded, the light seemed to die from the blue eyes, and even the golden sheen of the hair was less bright. There was little wonder that it should be so, for she wept incessantly.

Her life was a martyrdom, and the captain had grown quite callous, quite regardless of all the pain his wife suffered. When she saw him going out in the morning, looking bright and handsome, full of health,

CRAMPS

Miss Marie Rasmussen of Nordland, Kristiansund, Norway, writes as follows:

"I sometimes suffer terrible pain from cramps in the hands and feet, and have found nothing that gives me more relief than Sloan's Liniment. It is certainly a wonderful preparation."

Every day brings added testimony praising the world-famed "pain's enemy."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

strength, and vigor, she would hasten to him. She had a pretty evening's fashion of clasping her hands together and laying them on her husband's breast. At first he had professed to like the graceful action, and would kiss the white hands; now he barely endured it.

"Vance, where are you going?" she would ask; and he could read the anxiety in her pale anguished face.

His answers varied. At one time he would say that he was going to his club, at another that he had an engagement; but she suspected always that he was going to see Gladys Rane.

In like manner, when he returned, she would go to him in the same wistful, anxious tender fashion, and inquire:

"Where have you been, Vance?" And he would tell her that he had been to his club or keeping an engagement. But, when he came home with a sweet, subtle odor of violets about him, and a flower more choice than usual in his button-hole, she knew that he had been to see Gladys Rane.

One morning she was in the drawing-room when he returned home after an absence of two hours. He looked so bright, so gallant, and handsome, that her very heart leaped with joy. She forgot for the moment all her jealousy and unhappiness and went up to him eagerly, love shining in her eyes and in her face.

"How well you look this morning, Vance!" she said, with a smile.

Then she detected the subtle odor of violets, and saw that he wore an exquisite moss-rosebud, so beautiful as to be a rarity, and she knew at once that he had been with Gladys Rane. Swifly, with flashing anger, Lady Laura tore the flower from his breast and flung it away.

"You had that from Gladys Rane!" she cried. "You shall not come home to me wearing her flowers!"

The captain caught her wrist in an iron grasp.

"Never dare to do that again!" he shouted in angry tones.

A low cry of pain came from her white lips, and, recollecting himself the captain loosened his hold.

"I beg your pardon, Laura," he said in a quieter tone. "I did not mean to hurt you; but you—you annoyed me."

"It does not matter," she returned, the face that had flushed with anger now paling with pain. "But you shall not come straight from that woman's presence to mine."

"I am afraid I have hurt your wrist," he said awkwardly, for on the fair, white skin he saw a livid bruise, the mark of the strong, cruel hand that had shown little mercy in its grasp.

He tried to examine it; but she shrank back from him, pale and scared.

"I believe," she gasped, "that you would kill me for the sake of Gladys Rane."

And in his evil heart he knew the words were true; but he merely said:

"I am sorry if I have hurt you, Laura."

Her laugh was not pleasant to hear.

"It does not matter," she repeated. Then she held up the shapely white wrist, with its disfiguring mark. "Look!" she cried. "It was a cruel grasp, hard as iron; but it is as nothing to the hard grasp in which you hold the heart that loves you."

But her words failed to touch him. His dislike to her was increased from her having betrayed him into a cowardly, unmanly action.

"I wish, Laura, that you would be more reasonable," he said. "These scenes are unendurable."

"Put an end to them," she retorted, promptly, "by ceasing to visit Gladys Rane."

"I should not do that, my dear, if they were twice as bad," he declared. "You talk of jealousy as a pain-

Laura; I call it madness."
"Yes," she answered, with a dreamy look in her face, "it is madness, Vance." Then, after a pause, she asked suddenly, "Could I make you jealous of me?"

"I think not," he answered—"nay I am quite sure."

"I wish I could," she continued. "I should like you to feel the pain, the fever, the despair, just once; you would never be so cruel to me again. But you could not be jealous of me, for one must love deeply to be jealous. Still I must ask you one question. Do you not think it needless cruelty to come straight into my presence from hers wearing the very flower that she has given you? Let me place a flower in your coat, Vance."

"What nonsense!" he cried. "I have no patience left. Of all intolerable things upon earth, a jealous woman is the worst!" And the captain strode from the room, banging the door behind him with no gentle hand.

"I would rather never enter the house again than have to submit to such scenes!" he said to himself, as he walked towards his club; and he muttered something between his teeth as he thought of the black bruise on the white, rounded wrist.

Lady Laura stood looking at it long after he had gone. If she retained any faint hope that her husband loved her, or even cared for her, it vanished when she glanced at that cruel mark.

"He would have broken my arm," she said, "to have saved Gladys Rane's flower."

On the carpet, where she had flung it, lay the moss-rosebud. It seemed to her like a living thing—a snake, the venomous fangs of which had already inflicted a wound. Gentle as was Lady Laura by nature, she went to the innocent cause of her present grief and crushed it with her heel.

"She has crushed my heart in the same fashion!" she said, bitterly, as she looked with fierce anger on the trampled flower.

It was seldom that the family sat down to luncheon alone; but on this day no visitors were present, and the first thing that struck Angela was the broad black ribbon bound round her mother's wrist. Never suspecting what it meant, she asked, suddenly, before the servants who were waiting at the table:

"Mamma, what have you done to your wrist?"

There was a moment's awkward silence. The captain's handsome face flushed, and Lady Laura grew pale.

"I hurt it badly this morning, Angela," she answered, at last. "I struck it and bruised it."

"Why did you not send for me?" asked Angela, reproachfully.

"I did not think much of it at the time, dear, and my maid bound it nicely for me."

But that evening, when it was time to dress for Mrs. Hardcastle's reception, Lady Laura found her arm so swollen and painful as to render it impossible for her to go out, and Angela became curious about the injury. When she spoke of it to Doris, the maid, the girl could tell her nothing, although she had her own opinion. She was not in the least deceived by her mistress' story, for the mark of those cruel fingers were plainly visible, and she guessed pretty accurately as to the cause; but she said nothing to Miss Rouden.

Take Law in their Own Hands—Outcome of Shooting Temperance Inspector Theaubault—One Hundred and Fifty Lives Lost When Greek Transport Sank.—Six of Elizabeth Howard's Crew Swept Overboard.

TEMPERANCE INSPECTOR SHOT.
SYDNEY, March 11.—Inspector William Theaubault, aged 48, is thought to be dying to-night in the St. John's Hospital, the first casualty in the flight recently inaugurated to clear up the booze joints in Sydney. He was shot through the abdomen while raiding the premises of Jake Vickers in Sydney Mines last night. Frank Taylor, colored, and John Young, white, are held by the police in connection with the shooting. Public feeling is running so high that the police fear an attempt will be made to lynch the prisoners. Strong guards have been posted at the town lockup and as soon as possible the accused will be removed for shipping to the county jail at Sydney.

CITIZENS TAKE LAW INTO THEIR OWN HANDS.

NORTH SYDNEY, March 11.—Nearly two thousand citizens of Sydney last night took the law into their own hands, practically absconding the Government of the town. A large committee of citizens to administer civic affairs and passed resolutions demanding that Charles Ballard, who was alleged to be the chief of the local police, quit the town within twenty-four hours. The meeting was the direct outcome of the assault last night on J. Theaubault, Nova Scotia's temperance inspector, who lies at the door from wounds received in the discharge of his duty. The meeting held a majority of the Councilors who opposed the recent attempt by temperance inspector Theaubault, the town clerk and a number of prominent citizens. Charles Ballard demanded that the instant removal of the quintette from the Civic Hall. The committee to administer the town is headed by Mayor Nicholas and included the three Councilors who opposed the recent attempt to discharge Theaubault, the town clerk and a number of prominent citizens. Charles Ballard demanded that the instant removal of the quintette from the Civic Hall. The committee to administer the town is headed by Mayor Nicholas and included the three Councilors who opposed the recent attempt to discharge Theaubault, the town clerk and a number of prominent citizens.

IF THE BONE ITES.
Squires says that Fitzgibbon is the bone of contention in the West End. We wonder if the word "bone" was used advisedly by E. A. and with malice aforethought.
MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY.
Doc Campbell is going around patting himself on the back about what he did with regard to "poor relief." Some of it seems to us to be very poor relief indeed. Kind of "rocking the vote" you might say.

SCHOONER LOST.
TURKS ISLAND, March 11.
The British schooner Sceptre, salt laden for Lunenburg, struck a reef off Caicos Island Friday night. The crew were saved but the vessel became a total loss.
ANOTHER PEACE MOVE FAILS.
DUBLIN, Mar. 11.
The Free State Government has definitely rejected the latest and what many observers considered the most promising move for peace in Ireland. Archbishop Hart of Cashel and several other influential friends of the Government in Munster, recently proposed an immediate truce under which the Republicans would dump all their arms under a pledge that they be handed over to which ever party won the next election. It was pointed out there would be an avoidance of a humiliating surrender. Tom Barry, irregular leader, indited a friendly reply to this proposition undertaking to submit it to the Republican army Executive and Dr. McCurtain gave notice in Dail Eireann of a resolution approving the terms. In an intervention, however, Kevin O'Higgins, Minister for Home Affairs, said, "there can be no truce on the basis of the proposals which the Archbishop of Cashel and others have addressed to Barry. There must be complete and unqualified acceptance of the right of the people to decide all issues arising in the policies in the country and as a logical weapons of war must be placed in effective custody and control of the people's representatives."

GENERAL ALLENBY AT HALIFAX.
HALIFAX, Mar. 11.
Reporting the loss of two lifeboats, her maintopmast, mainmast and sternmast, the Newfoundland tern schr. General Allenby, Capt. Edwin Vallis, nearly two months out from Portugal with a cargo of two hundred tons of salt for the West coast of Newfoundland, put into port today. The schooner was supplied a week ago with fresh water by the Canadian Pacific Steamship liner Montcalm.

Not in Politics.
Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—During the past few weeks I have received requests, both verbal and written, from supporters and also from many who were influential and active opponents of mine in the 1919 General Election in the district of Hr. Main, urging me to offer myself as candidate at the approaching General Election. Having decided not to enter the contest I consider it due to the electors who loyally supported myself and colleagues in 1919, as well as those of my opponents who have voluntarily pledged me their support in the event of my seeking election this spring, to know that I am definitely out of the fight for the present. To my supporters I am deeply grateful for the many marks of good will and loyalty shown during the past three years; and to my opponents I wish to say that I have no ill-will and my only regret is that circumstances do not permit me to again cross swords with them in another stich contest.
Yours truly,
J. T. MEANEY.

That Meeting at Wesleyville.
Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir.—In reply to the Unionist who reported to the Advocate that they had a full house at their meeting in Wesleyville, I may say that it was a fire and ten cent concert, intended to attract children, so that the gathering would look large. As some of the meetings are beginning to look small, this concert, which is a new thing, did draw a large number of voters. To make it look bigger and more enthusiastic the Advocate reported the crowd came from Brookfield and Pound Cove. So much, Mr. Editor, for their full house. Thank you for space.
Yours sincerely,
ONE YOU CAN DEPEND UPON.

WERE FLOTTERS AGAINST KING AND STATE.
LONDON, Mar. 11.
The arrests of Irishmen in various parts of the country were made on charges formulated by the Irish Free State and in concert with it, but according to the Daily Mail the plot in which those seized were accused of being concerned was a plot against King and State as well as an attempt to overthrow the Free State Government. The Mail alleges not only Irish rebels but most violent Communists and even Anarchists were implicated. They had been liberally supplied with funds. The Government says the Mail regards the arrests of great importance and another big round up is possible soon.

Digby in Port.
S.S. Digby, Capt. Chambers, D.S.C. arrived in port at 7 p.m. Saturday, after a difficult passage from Halifax. The ship had to contend with ice practically all the way from the Nova Scotia port. The Digby brought 200 bags mail matter, a part cargo, and the following passengers:—D. and Mrs. Bald, Master Baird, Miss L. Crowdy, Mrs. W. H. Herper, W. H. Hollett, J. Kempton, D. S. Kerr, F. H. Peters, J. Tammán, H. Tessier, C. and Mrs. Buckley, P. McLennan, V. McLennan, G. A. O'Brien Rowbottom, J. Seymour, J. Stone, M. Sutton, T. S. Walsh, J. White. The Digby sails for Liverpool to-morrow morning.

Obituary.
We regret to record the passing of Mr. James Jacobs, aged 69 years, of this city. Deceased was well known and up till three years ago carried on a business as boot and shoe repairer. Owing to ill health he retired and went to stay with his daughter in Canada; but after two years he returned much benefited, and up till two weeks ago was in fairly good health, when he contracted lagrippe and passed peacefully away on Saturday last. He leaves a wife, three daughters Mrs. A. H. Streater, Mrs. E. Burton, of this city, and Mrs. Wm. Martin, of Dyden, Ont.; also four grandchildren to mourn the sad loss of a loving husband and father. The funeral took place from his late residence 29 Quirk Viad Road, at 2.30 p.m. to-day.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR WARTS

Produce and Provisions.

Codfish.—The foreign markets show very little improvement in prices this week though the rate of consumption has advanced in Portugal, Spain and Italy. The exports for the week were only 9,692 quintals all from St. John's as follows: By schr. Lucille B. Creaser to Barbados 1,449 qtls. from A. E. Hickman Co. Ltd.; by S. S. Silvia to New York for West Indies 3,140 qtls. from Balne Johnstone Co., G. M. Barr, E. Bidel, Bowring Bros. Ltd., R. F. Goodridge, Harvey & Co., A. E. Hickman, Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., R. M. Fisher, Fisheries Co., and J. Rossiter. By S.S. Rosalind 5,103 qtls. to New York for West Indies from Balne Johnstone Co., Ltd., G. M. Barr, Bowring Bros., Ltd., R. F. Goodridge, T. Hall, Goodridge Export Co., Harvey & Co., A. Hearn, Job Bros., Kennedy & Co., A. H. Murray, James Baird, Tor's Cove Trading Co. and J. J. Rossiter.
Cod Oil.—The demand for cod oil keeps up in the United States. The exports this week to New York and Boston totalled 24,242 gallons by the S.S. Silvia and S.S. Rosalind from Meers, Job Bros. and A. Ebsary. The best price of the year is now being realized as the product of 1922 is getting very scarce.
Codliver Oil.—The demand is still slack and the United States market is quiet. There is a small advance in the price in New York this month, but this is due to scarcity in the catch in two millions ahead it is not likely that codliver oil prices will go very high this year.
Lobsters.—A London correspondent writing to a dealer in St. John's on the lobster market says in part: "There is little question that the prices on your side, owing to the operations of speculators, were last season forced too high, and after the few initial sales made here on a bare market the demand has fallen right away and there are considerable stocks of Newfoundland 1 lb. fats, both in London and Liverpool, for which holders would be willing to accept 160 shillings or less. We also learn that there are fair quantities of Newfoundland pack being held on your side by both Halifax and American operators. If business is to run smoothly during the coming year it is most essential that values should be kept lower. It must be remembered that the spending power of the people of the United Kingdom and throughout Europe is greatly reduced."
Flour.—The markets are somewhat easier this week. Winnipeg wheat quotation is about five cents under Chicago. The big demand from Europe has not yet set in as was expected and there is nothing going on to indicate higher prices. May wheat at Winnipeg holds around 112 as against 117½ in Chicago. In the local market leading brands of flour hold at $9.00 per barrel.
Pork.—The pork market is a little firmer this week in the American market but prices here are not notably different from last week. As beef generally runs in sympathy with pork prices, and is getting strong, it is believed in provision circles, pork will follow before the spring is far advanced. Prices in St. John's to-day are $27.50 Fat Back and S. C. Clear, $31.50 Ham Butt and $26.75 Spare Ribs.
Beef.—Higher prices are ruling for beef this week. The advance is most in evidence on the better grades and all round there is quite a strong tone given to the market since the last days of February. The improved demand that is common to the spring months will, it is prophesied by dealers, increase this strong tendency. Bos Wank is $26.50, Family Special and Boneless $21.00.
Molasses.—Our local market as usual is very quiet at this season, but we hear of several merchants that are anticipating their requirements, preferring to make purchases now rather than take their chances for later on. All accounts point to still higher prices for sugar in the United States market and this will govern the price for molasses at Barbados to a great extent. The schooner "Over the Top" is due here within a week or ten days with the first cargo of new molasses to W. A. Mann and the schooner "Carina" will follow shortly after to Messrs. Monroe & Co. All other orders for molasses have been cancelled for the present. The quality of this year's crop is said to be extra good and that is one of the reasons that shippers are holding for higher prices.
Sugar.—The sugar market had some startling movements the past few weeks. There was one sudden slump downward on raws in New York, but the decline was recovered within a day and at the end of last week the highest point for the season on raws was reached. All now realize that the supplies are short and the prices will likely keep up to present levels if not higher. The local quotation is $12.50.
Peas.—The market is featureless and no radical change one way or the other is anticipated before seeding time, when a firmer tone is expected. The quotations are same as last week, viz.: $4.00 to $4.50 for imported and $2.50 to $4.00 for home-grown stock. There is a large quantity of the latter to come forward from Conception Bay in mid-spring.

OUR THREE GREAT COMMANDERS.
When Bennett cleans off the present Government which will for all time go down in history as "The Incapables," the three great Commanders will again be welcomed to this country, viz. General Peace, General Plenty and General Prosperity.
Watch Bennett Win.

WANTED!
Three men (or hardy, full grown boys) to accept Government nomination in the East End against "The Fighting Trio" Higgins, Fox and Vinicombe. References or previous experience quite unnecessary. THE COAKER-SQUIRES BUNCH.
There were some crooked bunches. And they had a crooked streak. They had a crooked end. Their crooked stuff was sleek.

They're fighting a crooked campaign with a lot of crooked dough! But they'll be in crooked attitude when the voters tell them "GO!"

THE SQUIRES NAVY.
That which made serious inroads into the twelve million dollars which Squires spent during his misadministration of the past three years, was the upkeep of the worst trawlers and Coaker's flagship, the Lobelia, comprising what is known as the Squires Navy. In accordance apparently with the disarmament program of the great nations, the flagship is now at Bowring's Scotchman premises where she is being scuttled for whatever copper and brass she carries. Thus even in their dying days the wrecking crew is determined not to leave anything that might serve as a memento of their four years' of ignominious and incapable government.

Remains Arrive.
BODY OF PATRICK MULCAHEY FORWARDED TO BAY BULLS.
The remains of the young man Patrick Mulcahey, who was accidentally killed at Bermuda on February 19th last, arrived by the Digby on Saturday night and on being landed at the Furness Wharf pier, yesterday forenoon, were put on board S.S. Cabot to be conveyed to the home of the deceased at Bay Bulls. Messrs. P. F. Moore, M.H.A., and Peter J. Cashin, accompanied the corpse on the ship, which left here at 10 a.m. and arrived at Bay Bulls one hour later. In the height of the storm that was raging, the little ship steamed in the harbor with flag at half-mast, all the people of the settlement assembled at the pier. The casket was taken on shore and a large concourse of citizens accompanied it to the home of the heartbroken father and mother. The funeral will take place to-day, when all that is mortal of the promising young man will be laid to rest in the churchyard of Bay Bulls. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the bereaved in their hour of trial and grief.

Radio Telephones.
FOR NORWEGIAN FISHING FLEET
The entire fishing fleet of Norway, numbering more than 14,000 vessels, is to be equipped with radio telephones as soon as the big broadcasting stations now planned are erected. Application for licenses to establish such stations at Christiansburg, Bergen, and Trondheim has been made by the Norwegian Wireless Society, the "Norwegian Marconi Company" and the Norse Telegram Bureau. Listening in sets will be rented to subscribers, but they will remain under the control of the State Department of Telegraphs.

British Trade Prospects are Bright.
LONDON.—Sir Montague Barlow, the Minister of Labor, struck an optimistic note on the prospects of a revival in trade when speaking recently in Birmingham. "I do begin to see a little daylight," he said. "There are indications that we are weathering the storm. Frankly I do not want the process to be too rapid. If it were I would be afraid that it was merely effervescent. Improvement is going on steadily in a manner which makes me hopeful. No one can tell what the effect of certain political changes on the continent may be, but apart from that it seems that we are climbing the hill steadily and, although the way is hard, we shall safely reach the summit." The retailers of England also feel hopeful as to the future. "A state of hope for better things rather than actual fulfillment is virtually the position of trade to-day" is the way the Retailers Association sums up the retailers point of view of the trading outlook. It is added, however, that the optimistic feeling bids fair to be translated into business in the early future.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Monday, March 12, 1923.

DEVELOPMENT OF RESOURCES.

Never a day passes that the Government press has not something to say regarding the attitude of the Opposition toward the Humber Project. All through the piece they represent to their readers in the city and outports that party and press alike are strenuously opposed to the development of the internal resources of the colony. In making such whole cloth fabrications, they err grossly. The hostility which has been shown toward the proposed industry on the Humber is not toward the industry itself, but toward the pledging of Newfoundland's guarantee of principal and interest. The people have been told that the British Government have already given their guarantee for a sum of about Nine Million Dollars to help on this development. But it must be borne in mind that this guarantee has been made with the proviso that all the machinery necessary for the equipment of the plant, be purchased in England. Not one farthing of that guarantee will be spent in Newfoundland. Were the Humber Project to have been floated on the same principle as that of Grand Falls, there would have been no antagonism to it. There is not now to the proposal itself. The objection is to the guarantee of Nine Millions of Dollars, plus interest, by the Colony.

Again and again the people have been told that the putting through of this proposition means employment to thousands of men for all time. The idea, of course, is to hold out the scheme as a vote catcher. Nothing whatever has been made public about the inner contents of the agreement, consequently there is not a solitary person outside those in the Government who actually know, who can form the least idea of just what the Humber Bill consists of. It is all very well to make a big display by using the magic word "Employment," but how often has that same word been misused in order to gain votes for politicians. If the Humber agreement is as good as its advocates say, and if it is going to revolutionize employment in this island, why do not its promoters make known some of the terms, at least. The whole affair, as a speaker at the Star Hall meeting on Thursday night, said, "is shrouded in mystery." And in mystery it will remain until such time as the Prime Minister chooses to withdraw the shroud. The members of the Opposition made it quite clear to their auditors at that meeting that they were not opposed to the Humber development, upon its merits. They rather favored the establishment of a great industry up country, but until they know the exact terms under which it was to be established, they withheld comment pro or con. And that is the position. No man, be he government or opposition, is going to stand in the way of the greater development of the natural resources of our island home, and it is only for effect, and with a desire to deceive the people and discredit, if possible, the Opposition, that the Government press makes such a noise daily. If the Humber project is good, by all means let the people know exactly where they are on it. If it is no good why not make public the whole agreement. No harm can be done either way. But no one is going to take a plunge in the dark on the Humber or any other project, which involves a financial guarantee, pledged out of the funds of the Colony.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

Defending the Education Department and the cost of administration thereof, the Daily Mail says that "the general supervision of our educational affairs is carried out by the Department of Education, headed by Dr. Barnes, who has Dr. V. P. Burke as his Deputy Minister, and the office staff consists of a clerk, a stenographer and a messenger. The full cost of the general administration does not exceed ten thousand dollars." The Estimates of Expenditure passed by the House of Assembly for the year ending June 30, 1923, show the following votes for the Department of Education on account of administrative purposes:—

Minister	$ 4,000.00
Deputy Minister	3,600.00
Accountant	1,700.00
Clerk, Stenographers (4) @ $720	2,880.00
Messenger	460.00
Principal Normal School	3,600.00
Normal School Contingencies	4,000.00
Travelling Expenses	3,000.00
Printing and Stationery	3,600.00
Telegrams, Telephones, etc.	400.00
Summer School	2,000.00
Other Contingencies	500.00
Total	$29,740.00

A long way off the ten thousand dollars, according to the Mail. More like three times that sum, and there are other expenses, which should be added to the general total, such as fuel, light, cleaning, etc. There are also certain votes for the departments of each Superintendent of the various denominational Boards of Education, all of which properly belong to the administration. Anyway readers can take their choice of authorities, the Estimates or the Mail.

VISIT INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

On Monday the 5th through the courtesy of T. V. Hartnett, his Excellency and Lady Allardice, attended by Major Wilderforce-Bell, M.C., and Capt. Goodfellow, were afforded the opportunity of going over the manufacturing plant of the Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., and were much interested in the different processes and the efficient manner in which they were carried out. On Friday the 8th, his Excellency, attended by Major Wilderforce-Bell visited the factory of the Standard Manufacturing Company where he was met by the President, Mr. M. G. Winger. His Excellency was most interested in all that he saw.

Greetings to Old Friends.

The following message was received by the Telegram last night from the S. S. Montcalm, via Loughborough: "Lady Curzon Howe, passing in Montcalm, sends warmest greetings to all old friends." Lady Curzon Howe is the wife of the late Viscount Richard Ashton Curzon-Howe. In 1895 Viscount Curzon-Howe was Commodore of the North Atlantic fleet and visited St. John's in command of the H.M.S. Cordelia.

Bennett Favors Humber Deal.

Interviewed by the Telegram this morning on his attitude towards the Humber Proposition, Mr. Bennett, Leader of the Opposition, made the following statement: "Some of the chief objects of the Opposition Party are: The unrestricted development of the natural resources of Newfoundland, the introduction of capital and the guaranteeing of employment to the thousands now workless. The principle of the development of the Humber has my unqualified support. If my party is elected to power the Humber Project will receive every possible consideration and sympathy and every effort will be made to complete a contract that may with confidence be placed immediately before the Legislature for approval, provided at all times that the present and future interests of the country are reasonably and properly safeguarded."

At the Rock Shed.

SIR MICHAEL CASHIN GIVEN OVATION. A spontaneous demonstration was tendered Sir Michael Cashin at the West End rock sheds on Saturday afternoon. He had gone to the sheds to see one of the men employed there and when it became known that he was in the vicinity, the men all ceased work and gathered around Sir Michael cheered him to the echo. They then prevailed upon Sir Michael to address them, which he did and in a speech of fifteen minutes he told of some of the causes for the conditions in the country to-day and especially in the West End where to-day 700 men or more, the majority of whom are married and have families depending upon them, are forced to accept work in the Government rock sheds. Sir Michael received another ovation when he concluded.

Volunteering for the Fight.

LIBERAL-LABOR PROGRESSIVES AT WORK. Since the monster meeting of the Liberal-Labor Progressive Committee in the Star Hall on Thursday night last, large numbers of men are coming forward offering their services in the fight for clean, honest government. Every night since the initial meeting, Sir Michael Cashin, Messrs. Hunt and Linegar meet the committee at their rooms in the Star Hall. On Saturday night a large gathering of the committee was present, and inspiring addresses were made by the candidates and Messrs. W. J. Higgins and J. T. Phillips.

U. F. Movement.

DELEGATES AT ARNOLD'S COVE. Arnold's Cove, via Come by Chance.—Delegates of the United Fishermen held a meeting at Arnold's Cove last night. It was a great success. The building was packed with voters, and all the voters of the place stood to their feet to support the party that will stand by the U.F. Movement.

Not Correct.

We have been authorized by Messrs. L. Carter and T. J. O'Neill to say that the item published in Saturday's Telegram to the effect that these gentlemen were government candidates for the district of St. John's East, is absolutely without foundation. They have no intention whatever of being identified with politics in the manner represented by the news item in question. We regret having given these gentlemen cause to complain of the statement made, and also regret if it has caused them any embarrassment.

St. Bon's Hockeyists.

SIR PATRICK MCGRATH DINES CHAMPIONS. On Saturday night last Sir Patrick McGrath entertained St. Bonaventure's College hockey team, winners of the Inter-Collegiate Championship this year, for the 8th time in succession. One of Sir Patrick's nephews, Messrs. Claude Fraser is a member of the team, and another, Sydney Fraser, was one of the "spare men." The company, some 18 altogether, including Rev. Bro. O'Connell, of the College staff, of the team, had a very pleasant time, and the young fellows greatly appreciated their host's kindness. Success to the St. Bon's hockey team in the future, as in the past, was lauded and several speeches were made by representatives of the team. The gathering did not disperse until nearly midnight.

S. S. Belvernon called this morning for Halifax and Boston.

How Squires Fostered Trade.

More Broken Promises--Coaker's Discrimination Countenanced.

"Newfoundland is undoubtedly the only country in the world where the only public department in any way connected with trade and commerce is in the hands of a merchant whose business it is to purchase the products of the country at the cheapest figure possible. Such a person is in competition for business with his neighbors and has an opportunity of using his official position and the private information under the control of a Government Department for his own business advancement and financial purposes to the detriment of both the producer and the trade."

The above words of wisdom appeared in that masterpiece of deception, the 1919 Manifesto of Sir Richard Squires, as a preface to the announcement that, if elected, he would organize a Department of Trade and Commerce to remedy all the ills which Newfoundland's trade seems heir to. Once elected to office, however, Premier Squires gave immediate proof of his sincerity by placing the Department of Marine and Fisheries, which in another section of his manifesto he promised to make the most important in the Colony, in the hands of Mr. W. F. Coaker, the managing director of one of our biggest fish exporting and trading companies. The sequel is well known.

SET NORTH AGAINST WEST. Regulations for the exportation and standardization of fish were instituted, and were put into effect under the personal direction of Mr. Coaker, with the natural consequence, that there was apparent discrimination in favor of that section of the country

Albert E. Hickman.

STRENGTHENS THE HANDS OF OPPOSITION LEADER.

An announcement is made by Mr. J. R. Bennett, Leader of the Opposition that Mr. Albert E. Hickman, principal of the firm of A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., has offered to fight a constituency in the Opposition interests in the forthcoming General Election. Mr. Hickman represented the District of Bay de Verde from 1913 to 1919. At the time of the formation of the National Government in 1917 he became a member of the Executive Council under Sir Edward Morris, and subsequently under Sir William Lloyd. When the National Government was upset Mr. Hickman became a member of Sir Michael Cashin's Administration, holding the portfolio of Minister of Militia, until the election when he lost his seat by five votes only. Mr. Hickman besides being one of the largest and most representative exporters of fish in the country is largely interested in local industries, and of several of which he is a director. He is also the President of the Dominion Atlantic Insurance Co. Last year he was President of the Newfoundland Board of Trade. At the annual meeting of that body which comprises practically all the business men of the country, Mr. Hickman's address was considered a masterpiece. That his ideas carry the right ring may be gathered from the following paragraphs in that part of his speech dealing with the financial condition of the country. He says: "It is wrong to blame all of our troubles on the condition of Europe and the great depression following the four year war period. Many of our difficulties are home made. Newfoundland has not lost her wonderful recuperative power; her people are prepared to work, to practice economy, and it is necessary to make sacrifices; but progress cannot be made so long as the cost of living remains so high and the burden of taxation so onerous.

Question Box.

Who is the real leader of the Government, Mr. Coaker or Sir Richard Squires?
Who refused assistance to the Blind, Deaf and Dumb Children of the Colony?
Who, by his taking positions on the Tariff Commission and Military Pension Board pushed aside the one-armed war veteran?
Who voted against the Old Age Pensions for worn-out fishermen?
Who increased their own salaries 500 per cent., and refused a dollar increase to the widows and orphans.

HEARS ADDRESS ON RADIOGRAPHY. The members of the Old Colony Club enjoyed an interesting afternoon Saturday last, when Miss Cullinan, X-Ray operator at the General Hospital, gave a delightful address on radiography. After a treatise preparatory to, and on the accidental discovery of X-Ray by Prof. Von Roentgen followed by a brief account of its invaluable contribution to medicine, Miss Cullinan finished her address by a highly instructive cinematograph exposition of the preparation of X-Ray tubes and then the X-Ray as applied to living bodies in motion. This novel addition to our programme was an appropriate ending to Miss Cullinan's address. Lady Croble made a hearty vote of thanks for this unique entertainment; to which the members present unanimously responded. Mrs. J. B. Urquhart and Miss Herder then served tea.

Magistrate's Court.

Five drunks arrested Saturday night were granted their freedom on making cash deposits. A 38 year old laborer, arrested by the police at the instance of his step-mother for assault, and acting in a disorderly and unbecoming manner in his home, was allowed to go on suspended sentence. The court ordered that the accused must leave the home clear, and lodgings elsewhere, and earn a living for himself. The step-mother who appeared against him, did not wish to have him punished for the charge of assault.

A 38 year old laborer, arrested for being drunk, and secondly for the larceny of five herring valued at 10c, the property of Arthur Parsons, Grocer, was granted his freedom. Accused stated he was too drunk to remember how the herring came in his possession.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days.

On the promise that he would sign the pledge for one year, a well known bootmaker of the West End was discharged.

A 32 year old laborer of Carter's Hill failed to appear on a charge of being disorderly towards his wife in his own home. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

A second hand dealer of Water St. West, summoned for buying stolen goods, a breach of Sub Section F, Section 1 of the Consolidated Statutes, failed to appear, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, March 12.
You will soon be wanting a Spring Tonic if this fine weather lasts. Let us anticipate your wants in that direction by recommending you to get a bottle of McMurdo's Quinine and Iron Tonic, a famous tonic for this part of the year. Quinine and iron mixture is a real tonic. Not only does it increase the appetite, but so strengthens the digestive organs that the whole system gets the benefit of the extra food taken, the patient increases in weight, his nerves become steeper, his (or her) complexion improves, and there is a general feeling of well-being that is a remarkable testimony to the value of the tonic. Price 80c. a bottle.

Personal.

TAKEN SUDDENLY ILL.—Mr. Jacob Bishop, the well-known contractor, was stricken suddenly on to-day at the Custom's Boat House and the services of a doctor had to be summoned. Dr. Templeman responded, and after injecting a stimulant ordered the patient conveyed home for further treatment.

Sealing News.

GRINDSTONE ISLAND REPORTS WHITE COATS. There are no encouraging reports to-day from the fleet prosecuting the Northern Seal Fishery. Messages received last night show that the steamers are at present making little or no progress, the ice being very heavy, and in large sheets. The prospects look much brighter in the Gulf of Grindstone Island reporting the whitecoats at that place on Saturday. The Viking reported her last position as 15 miles East of St. Paul's with the seals some eighty miles distant. Should the weather conditions prove favorable for flying to-day, the sealing owners are expecting that Pilot Baesoen in the "Avro" aeroplane will make a hop-off from the Neptune in search of the Main Patch. The following are the latest reports from the fleet:—

BOUWING BROS.

Viking (Sunday p.m.)—15 miles E. of St. Paul's. Grindstone Island reports whitecoats yesterday. All well.
Ranger (Sunday p.m.)—Made 10 miles N.E. to-day. Made 15 miles S.W. Funks, in large sheet ice, very difficult to get through.
Eagle (Sunday p.m.)—Ice very heavy, making slow progress.
Sagora (Sunday p.m.)—Position 20 miles N.E. half N. of Bonaville, making fair progress; passed seven whitecoats this morning.
Terra Nova (Sunday p.m.)—In open ice, making good headway, but ice very heavy; Ranger leading ship.

JOBS BROS. & CO.

Neptune (Saturday p.m.)—Position 15 miles N.E. Cape Bonaville; ice very heavy, tight as far as can be seen. Eagle 10 miles S.E. Seal and Terra Nova in sight.
Neptune (Sunday p.m.)—Jammed all day, ice very heavy and rafted; Eagle 10 miles south, Terra Nova and Seal in sight.
Vigil (Saturday p.m.)—20 miles N. by E. Cape Bonaville, made poor progress to-day.
Thetis (Sunday p.m.)—10 miles N. E. Cabot Island, making fair progress.

BAINE JOHNSTONE & CO.

Seal (Sunday p.m.)—Jammed. All other ships in sight.
POSTAL TELEGRAPHS. Radio stations report: Seal, Thetis, Eagle, Terra Nova and Sagora report crews on board and well.

Roumanian Bonds.

WILL PAY INTEREST. It is stated that an interest payment on Roumanian Bonds at the rate of 4% will be made shortly. Roughly the interest is due on about one and a half million dollars, so that the three years interest will mean about $80,000. It is understood that the original certificates have been cancelled, and a new issue covering the principal and accrued interest given instead. The payment extends over a period of forty years and it is understood that the interest is guaranteed by a loan which the Roumanian Government raised in England.

Menace of Coakerism

ARTICLE V. The dominating attitude of one who prides himself of the fact that he controls the state has awakened the Newfoundlanders of all ages and classes to a sense of duty. Newfoundland is like Russia, ruled by a tyrant and rancid of a political system, the worst form of Government any country, no matter how despotic it might boast of, can be afflicted with. These happiness, contentment and respectability reigned, he, V. F. Coaker, presided over the scene in a short three months and Trotsky are a no great menace in Russia than W. F. Coaker in Newfoundland. They first succeeded in securing the support of the uneducated and wrote by making false promises and preaching false doctrines; then, by enlisting their opportunities, they succeeded in view of their numerical strength, getting the people as to encourage strife, malice and hatred amongst those who were formerly recognized as peace loving. These political miscreants are captured by such undesirable methods, and the day is fast approaching when the condemnation will force them to renounce power, leaving many who were the day they allowed politics to seek their suffrage and support. Newfoundland likewise regrets the existence of W. F. Coaker, and one day stand in the dock of a well founded charges of incompetence and highbanded political conduct that will reveal disgraceful conduct against fair Terra Nova. The danger will it be for him. "The day is dammed." The guilt of the day is committing to-day will be written in red ink and in his presence he'll see visions of the great people of Newfoundland, harassed by these who unknowingly believed that they supported him. Coaker is the people are astir and are asking pertinent questions. The indignity of the disgust of patriotic citizens creating a rumbling which will force, will evidence the downward demagogues who, at the first opportunity offered bit the hand that supported and made them.

Whishaw Coming Back

MAKE CHARGE OF CAMPAIGN. THAT THE COUNTRY IS FACED WITH. Mr. Whishaw, who exerts such an influence over Mr. Coaker, is coming from Florida where he went only in a few days, to take charge of Mr. Coaker's interests in the campaign. A prominent Coakerite on Saturday, that he was resigning in order to "keep an eye on the ball" and that he carried out his orders in regard to the campaign. This will not surprise people, because during the past few years the country has had no evidence of the influence of Mr. Whishaw wields over Mr. Coaker and Sir Richard Squires, and in which Mr. Whishaw pulls strings behind the scenes in Government circles. Whishaw is the man behind the throne, the man who moves and makes the country carry them out. He is the man who has more influence with the man than anybody else, the man who appointed to the Advisory Board when the Fishery Regulations were on the water with Coaker's authority, and who is more influential than the whole Executive Council came to a show-down. Now Whishaw is coming back to take the campaign for Coaker, and to take the natives of this country by surprise. They are prepared to allow the rule of their country to be dictated by Campbell, from Prince Edward Island, and Mr. Whishaw from Nova Scotia. Isn't it about time that the people of the country showed such an upheaval as will show two and their friends into the interior darkness, and give the people of the country who know the man who controls the country and who are prepared to administer the affairs of the country in the interests of the people of the country. We have come to a pretty pass in Newfoundland to-day when the Squires-Whishaw-Campbell Party can control the rights of the people and if anybody existed only they and those who live upon their backs of Newfoundland, vote against the Squires-Coaker-Collishaw-Campbell Party and vote for BRETHERTON & BETTER TIMES.

Christian Brothers in Newfoundland

B.S. WILL CELEBRATE GOLDEN JUBILEE. The initial movement was made at yesterday's meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society, to arrange for the fitting celebration of the Golden Jubilee arrival in Newfoundland of the Irish Christian Brothers. Two years hence this notable event is due, but as the plans and preparations, necessary to do proper justice to the great occasion, require ample time to be formulated, it is felt a beginning should now be made. Accordingly President Higgins announced at the meeting the desirability of at once initiating the movement, and as the members present heartily agreed with him, the Executive of the Society was empowered to select a representative Committee to give effect to the suggestion. The scope of their functions will be enlarged and announced as all matters bearing on the celebration will come before them, so that when the year 1925 arrives all will be in readiness on a scale commensurate with the occasion. That it will be an event worthy of the illustrious teachers and creditable to the Benevolent Irish Society, none will doubt for all the enthusiasm of the members who are mostly ex-pupils will be injected into the development of the arrangements to accomplish this aim. Fifty years of a record that has earned a eulogy beyond expression, has been that of the great but unassuming teachers dating from the arrival of the first Superior here, Rev. Bro. Holland in 1875, along into the years when he was succeeded in town by Rev. Bros. Flemming, Kennedy, J. E. Ryan and M. C. Ryan. At the present time, with the equally scholarly Rev. M. C. Ahern as Superior, they are still continuing with undiminished zeal their bright and noble deeds of educational accomplishments. Well may the present members of the Benevolent Irish Society feel then that it is only right to make the forthcoming Jubilee one eminently suitable to the historic occasion; one that will mark their appreciation of the brilliant educational record of the Irish Christian Brothers, and one that will perpetuate and cherish the memories of those members of the Society, very few of whom still survive, who, in that far off period of 50 years ago, advocated with success the establishment in this Isle of ours the renowned Brotherhood. The celebration will likely be so comprehensive in its scope as to embrace the participation therein of the thousands of ex-pupils now living whether at home or abroad, who passed through the school of the Irish Christian Brothers in the different periods covering the fifty years, and in this connection it is gratifying to know that quite a number of the "old and original" guard who entered the schools of the Orphan Asylum, now replaced by St. Patrick's Hall, are yet hale and hearty, and with memories still fresh and green of their happy school days, for as Tom Moore exquisitely expressed it:—"Let Fate do her worst, there are relics of joy. Bright dreams of the past which she cannot destroy." And so with the memories of the old school days, under the paternal guidance of the teachers who labored for their welfare, inspire all concerned to register for the forthcoming Golden Jubilee an unqualified success.

St. Patrick's Day

B. I. S. WILL CELEBRATE. A meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society was held yesterday after last Mass when arrangements were completed for the annual celebration of St. Patrick's Day, on Saturday next, 17th inst. The celebration of the day this year will be marked by festivities of unprecedented enthusiasm. In the forenoon the usual parade will be held, with the ranks swelled to a greater extent than ever in honor of the increased status of the Emerald Isle. The three full-brass bands of the city brigades will, as last year, furnish martial and entrancing melodies appropriate to the occasion, and in addition to the usual emblems of the Society, there will be unfurled and displayed in the ranks, the new National flag of the Irish Free State. The Parade will start from St. Patrick's Hall shortly before 10 a.m., attending High Mass at 10.30 in St. Patrick's Church, where Rev. Fr. Kennedy, one of our gifted preachers, will deliver the panegyric on the life and labor of Ireland's Patron Saint. His Excellency the Governor will be called on at Government House and afterwards his Grace the Archbishop will receive the Society at the Aula Maxima, St. Bonaventure's College. In place of the regular Irish theatrical performance on St. Patrick's night, there will be a gala round of enjoyment for the members and their friends, including the ladies, at the Society's Club Rooms.

German Artists Calling for Models

DRESDEN—Such a dearth of living models for artists has developed in Dresden, Munich, and other art centers of Germany, that the government art academy here has taken steps to remedy the situation. In pre-war days one of the sights of Munich and some other cities was the market of models where artists regularly made their selections. It was a gay crowd which assembled, and usually there was a surplus of young women eager to offer their services as models of one kind or another. But times have changed, and in spite of the surplus of women in Germany, models are hard to get. The art academy of Dresden has appealed to the young women to come back to their vocation, and insists that even to the modern artist living models are absolutely necessary. Not only are models essential for painters and sculptors of the human figure, says the academy notice, but young women are required who wear their clothing particularly well, or who have the knack of draping themselves artistically to suit the artist's needs.

London Dog Show Has Record Entry List

LONDON—There was a world's record entry of 6,786 dogs, at this winter's annual show at Agricultural Hall, Islington. They came from all parts of the country, and included enormous Great Danes and Alsatians down to the tiniest Pekinese. King George exhibited some-fine Labrador retrievers and won first prize with one of them. The entries indicate that the breeding and keeping of Alsatians is on the increase, there being over 500 of this breed at comparison with 30 in 1918. Of the terrier class, Sealyhams appear to be most popular, but were run close by Kerry Blues, which have come into favor very quickly since their first appearance at the Oratts show last year. St. Bernards, mastiffs, bloodhounds and other big dogs were numerous, but perhaps the dog which attracted most attention was a long-haired Dachshund, a variety hitherto practically unknown in England.

Retreat for Women

RETREAT FOR WOMEN.—It was announced at the R.C. Cathedral yesterday, that the Annual Retreat for the women and girls of the Parish would begin on Tuesday evening of half past seven o'clock.

MINARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS. MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR PAIN. ING OUT OF HAIL.

Some Famous Fasters of History

Fasting, self-imposed, such as has been practised in some of the prisons in Ireland, is by no means peculiar to modern times or to present political conditions. All through the ages there have been persons who were willing and eager to demonstrate their pascety for doing without food or drink, and as early as the fourteenth century there is a case on record of the "hunger strike" pure and simple. Some of the details of these fastings are so extraordinary and so obviously exaggerated that one cannot help wondering how ever the people of those times could have given them credit; but numerous cases are to be found where careful tests were applied and truly remarkable results vouchered for by reliable witnesses. In 1357 Cecilia, wife of John de Ryegrove, was thrown into Nottingham Prison for the murder of her husband. Whether the lady was guilty or not cannot be ascertained, but she seems to have considered herself ill-used, for on trustworthy authority she remained mute and fasting for a period of forty days, at the end of which time she was released and granted a pardon, her power to abstain from food being considered as a gift from heaven and a sign of her innocence. Another very similar case was that of John Scott, who in 1531, having failed in a law case, abstained, presumably by way of protest, from all meat and drink for thirty days. The King having heard of this and being resolved to test the truth of the report, ordered Scott to be locked up in a cell in Edinburgh Castle with only a small supply of bread and water. After thirty-two days it was found that the bread and water had not been touched, and from the fact that Scott immediately on his release went out and harangued the crowd that was awaiting his appearance he would not seem to have suffered greatly as a result of his ordeal. Later the same man, on being thrown into prison for declaiming against Henry's divorce from Katherine, fasted for a period of fifty days.

Germany Present and Past

PARIS, Mar. 12. Raymond Poincare, Premier of France, in a statement, yesterday, declared Germany's complaint that Ruhr occupation is illegal and in violation of the rights of man, seemed strangely ill-founded, when it is recalled that Germany was ready to do in 1871, had France not paid her war debts to Germany. The Premier added that official documents proved that Germany wished to reinforce her army of occupation in France to a degree necessary to guarantee her rights, and even was ready to resume the war by mobilizing half a million men.

People are Keen to Learn of Ancient Egypt

PITTSBURG. — Douglas Stewart, director of the Museum of the Carnegie Institute, reports the liveliest interest on the part of the public in the life of ancient Egypt. The discoveries in the tomb of Tutankhamun at Luxor have, he says, made the history of 35 centuries ago present day news. Public curiosity has been aroused in a civilization of which most people had never heard, and the visitors are fascinated by the physical mementoes of a long gone race. The largest exhibit in the museum is the remains of a Nile boat of an admiral, buried with him according to the custom of interring the tools of trade with the dead. There is not a nail in the boat. It is fastened together by wooden pins dovetailed into the timbers, and by thongs. It dates from 4000 B.C. 500 years before Tutankhamun's time, or 800 years before Abraham went to Ur of the Chaldees. Even older is one of several kohl pots, made about 5000 B.C., which were used to contain eyelid paint for the Egyptian beauties of the court. It is covered with a very thin layer of pure gold, similar to the gold found in Tutankhamun's tomb by Lord Carnarvon.

Mars the Mysterious

The surface of Mars is comparatively flat, there are no mountains worthy of the name on our neighbouring world; nor are there any large bodies of water on the Martian surface; if there ever were permanent oceans they have long since disappeared. The planet's atmosphere, too, is very rare, "thinner at parts by half," according to Lowell, "than the air upon the summit of the Himalayas"; and its surface pressure, Pickering believes, is likely to lie between one-half and one-tenth of that at the Earth's surface. The Martian atmosphere is much clearer than ours. It is not, however, absolutely cloudless. "Clouds," Pickering wrote in 1914, "are nearly always visible on the disc, but they are not usually reported, because they are difficult to observe. In the polar regions the clouds are sometimes so white as to be with difficulty distinguished from the snow. After they have disappeared at the poles, the ground is often seen to be white with freshly-fallen snow. Sometimes cloud-masses partially conceal a whole hemisphere, and cloudy nights appear to be frequent." During the opposition of 1920, the observers at the Lowell Observatory were impressed by the unusual haziness and cloudiness of the Martian atmosphere. But we may say that Mars is usually a world of blue skies and bright sunshine.

An Ancient Razor

Bronze mirrors appropriately find a place beside the eye paint pots. Nearby a razor of the eighteenth dynasty is seen to be of precisely the same model as the old style razor of to-day, working on a similar handle, and proving that barbers shaved their customers 2500 years ago just as they do to-day. A group of fish hooks of 1580 B.C. constitutes another exhibit where the design has not changed in 35 centuries. The exhibits of ancient Egyptian pottery show that the shapes in use in the Egypt of to-day are exactly those used in Tutankhamun's time. The water pots have the same pointed bottom, necessary to press into the sand to keep them upright. The canbites in the Carnegie Museum are mostly from Tell-el-Amarna, the capital of Pharaoh Ikhnaton, which he built when his refusal to worship other gods than the sun god led him to leave Memphis. Tell-el-Amarna was abandoned on his death and the return of his successor to the ancient worship at Memphis. The site, which is 180 miles south of Cairo, was excavated by the Germans before the war and since then by the Egypt Exploration Fund, to which the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh has contributed.

Mummified Collection

Besides a mummified baby, a number of mummy cases, and several pieces of decorative art in which the designs are colored as in perfect as when they were first painted, the exhibit has mummified cats, several scarabs, one with an inscription from the Book of the Dead, and many smaller antiquities of the different dynasties. Director Stewart has added to the collection on display a copy of a beautiful necklace of the Princess Knoum, which will be of value to designers of jewelry by affording them a true type of ancient Egyptian art, now being sought by modern fashion creators. Besides the exhibit of the adult population, the public school children of the eighth-grades are attending lectures by museum assistants, who find their juvenile auditors, as keenly interested in the pharaohs as they usually are in the exhibits of the American Indians.

With the Erring

One may sympathize with the refractory without siding with them. In many cases they are wrong-headed rather than bad-hearted; and oftener than not there is cause for the contumacy which they manifest. Only those who have sincere pity for the erring can hope to succeed in convincing them that they are in the wrong. Until their dispositions are changed, arguments and threats are worse than useless, serving only to irritate or to exasperate.

SPEAKING OF CATS.

PRAISE be, there are plenty of people in the world who like dogs as well as I do!

How do I know? Because of letters that came to tell me so, in answer to my little talk on dogs.

One Letter Friend, though he seconds my words of praise of the species, reproves me for saying my dog was the sweetest, wisest, and handsomest dog that ever lived. Guess he doesn't know human nature so well as he might or he would know that there never was a dog owner who wasn't perfectly sure of that. He says the little boy next door said (Yes, I do have some little boy readers and I'm terribly proud of the fact.) "Gee, she never saw my dog or she couldn't have said that." Yes I could, but I should have expected to hear him say the same and should have applauded him. I wouldn't give much for a dog owner who didn't think that.

His Frenchie Companion.

This same Letter Friend wants me to say something about the domestic complement of the dog—his frenchie companion and bitterest enemy, the cat.

I like dogs and I like cats. But so as with a difference. You may like someone whom you know does not like you but it won't be the same kind of liking you feel toward someone of whose affection you are assured. I know my dog loves me. I know my cat does not. True, she likes to sit in my lap—that is when it is she and not I who propose it. True, she accepts food from my hands with a condescending graciousness. True, she purrs when I stroke her. But that is because she likes the feeling of being stroked. She would be just as much pleased if a stranger rubbed her fur the right way.

Gets Only Acquaintances.

The dog is a friend. The cat is an acquaintance. An interesting, beautiful, amusing, strokeable acquaintance, perhaps, but only an acquaintance. Faithful is the word that dog nature has attracted to itself out of the language. Would you ever think of calling a cat faithful or of using any other adjective that would suggest devotion on its part?

My Letter Friend says: "It takes a woman to understand a cat, as a rule, while possibly men and boys understand the dog."

I wonder if that is true. Of course we all know that feline and feminine nature are supposed to be akin. But even so, that would not prove that women would understand cats. Understanding ones type is not a universal human capacity by any manner of means. And certainly it would not prove that she would like the cat the better.

Which Likes Which?

My Letter Friend appreciates this fact for he says: "There is something amiss with a man who does not like cats, the same being true of a woman who does not like dogs."

Although this runs somewhat counter to the old idea of a man with a dog at his heels and the old maid with her adored cats I think it is a correct reading. The most ardent cat lovers I have known were men and the most ardent cat haters, women.

Personally, I am, as I said fond of cats, but there is another domestic animal, similar and yet vastly different, which I am infinitely fonder of. And that is kittens. Before you decide my description is foolish go to the library and get Agnes Repplier's fascinating essay on the difference between cats and kittens. You will not only withhold your condemnation but you will have a half hour of great enjoyment as a reward.

Just Folks.

A LITTLE HOUSE.

A little house and the children there,
A little yard and the pantries in it,
And the world outside with its pressing care
Can be shaken off in a happy minute.

Hate may race at my back and shriek,
With its fingers gaunt it may strive
To clutch me.
But let me come to the door I seek,
Then I am safe and it cannot touch me.

Care may drive me and troubles press,
Malice by day may lurk behind me,
But I shut my door to life's bitterness,
There I am safe and it cannot find me.

A little house with its welcome true—
Just keep that free from the touch
Of sorrow,
And the world outside, when the day
Is through,
With its care must wait until to-morrow.

The days of "Yerrah" and "Begorra" are gone. Now it's Ceud-Mile Failte—a hundred thousand welcomes to the Irish "Irish Night" at the College Hall!—mar12,11

A False Standard.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The writer who in the Squires' personal organ signs himself "Fair Deal" displays no more of that virtue his assumed title speaks of than the wolf pack shows towards the snow-impeded deer. His idea of a fair deal is to fell a cultured gentleman by foul attack to make a pedestal on which to raise the golden calf. This "Fair Deal" believes that his patron, Sir. M. G. Winter is so secure in the estimation of the people that he needs no defence, yet he would labor hard to prove the superiority of his patron. He labors hard and brings forth, not a mountain, but a mouse. No body wants to find fault with Mr. Winter for having gathered wealth, which "Fair Deal" says has been gathered honestly, but objection must be raised to the attempt to glorify wealth and the setting up of a false standard of values. The question asked by "Fair Deal" is, which has served his country better, Winter or Robinson? Each one must try to answer for himself according to the standard which guides his mode of thinking. For my part, I stand for the side of culture. He is a more valuable citizen who holds aloft the torch of education and the ideal. The idealist and the man of culture is the guardian of our liberties and he who makes it possible for the money getter to pursue his more or less sordid calling with some security and ease. Suppose nature had made us all after the type of the money getter how long would civilization endure. Money getters are, without disparagement, mere parasites who reap where others sow. They have industry, but even this is the result of a passion strong enough to overcome nature's many handicaps, and we generally know it by the name of greed. Who gave us all those things which delight and solace us, lift us above our surroundings into realms of pure pleasure and guide our footsteps up the slopes to a nobler conception of life? Are they the big provision dealers, or are they the men of science, literature and art, the poets, the painters, the sculptors? What elevation of thought arises from the contemplation of a big warehouse where the Quilps and Scrooges and the Skylocks count over their barrels of pork and gloat over a growing bank account. The man who writes one inspiring column a year is of more real value than an army of Quilps and Scrooges and all that ilk. There is a peculiar inconsistency in the selection of Sir M. G. Winter as a paragon of all the virtues, while at the same time, by the same papers to hold up all other business men as examples of the reactionary in business and the civic virtues. Refinement has made poor strides in this country if the standard of the money-bag is to be adopted.

Yours truly,

March 12th, 1923.

Toopunkankommen.

The reason why the Advocate crowd have developed so rapidly into great statesmen is because their minds are still fresh and vigorous from not having had any thinking to do. They never did any thinking or study so they feel ready now to do any kind of Atlas stunt. But heaven help us if we permit them to use the country to practice upon. They are like the lady who cuts out every "How-to" from the Household Friend and is ever ready to practice her slim-fams on the poor victim who comes her way. They have a "How-to" cure cut out from every quick journal which they are anxious to try out. They never found anything to do from caplin school to caplin school till they light on the rube job of keeping affairs of state from getting tangled up. There was never any wisdom in our political world till those ready-to-wear statesmen like meteors suddenly flashed into the political sky. International problems are easy to those wonderful men, and as for local affairs it is a wonder to watch them juggle with them, keeping four balls in the air at once and a lighted lamp on their nose. Some of those same law-makers would not be elected constable in a Jim Crow town. It is instructive (inverted ratio) to take up the Advocate and to read the stilted nonsense that paper gets off about the why and the wherefore of every subject that engrosses men's minds. A person looks over the bunch and wonders how they ever got together. Some archaologist must have opened by mistake "Toopunkankommen" and they poor fellows taking the disturbance for the dawn of the millennium crept out and got into the Advocate office whence they issue the Toopunk ideas of 2000 B.C. They ought to go back again. They are out of place here. A bas, Toopunkankommen.

By WILL U. B. WISE.

Only a few political "ducks" were found to go to Ferryland or St. John's East for the Squires-Cooker competition. "Abandon hope all ye who enter here" is written in large placards over the entrance to those trips for any candidate with Squires-Cooker tag upon his chest.

Remember this taxpayers that Twenty Million Dollars has been added to the public debt by the Government squanders of the past few years.

It will not be taxes, piercing intolerable as they have been for past three years that will continue to be imposed should Cooker win again. They will rather grow to be spikes and will be super-imposed upon us with a fury that will know no bounds.

Citizens! have you a home of your own, built at the cost of many dollars and that now shelters your family gives you comfort. Destroy St. John's by voting for Cookerism and they will destroy your happy home. Fight against it and you protect that home now and in your old age when you need it most.

Under the sway of Cookerism have had poverty and pessimism, the looming of the Bennett Government upon the political horizon, hope and optimism are discernible.

The name of Monroe has been probably identified with the trade of the Colony. Labor in abundance, decent labor at that, to all classes working people, was ever the desire of the men who bore that name. They never sought to put the people on the rocks and then make people break those rocks to earn enough to live on.

Charlie Hunt is the ideal citizen is easily the most popular man in Newfoundland. He is none of stand-off, swelled head, bristles of politicians that sometimes find power, but a genuine gentleman every way. St. John's West is tremendously fortunate in securing him a candidate.

Councillor Outerbridge is the most popular and most genial member of this was proven by the votes of fellow citizens when he came out on the poll at the Municipal election. As he is one of the sons of Sir J. Outerbridge, a leading director of the firm of Harvey & Co., Ltd., it is readily seen that the interests of the country is considered in favor of the fight to restore the Government once again in Newfoundland.

in 1865, built the fine structure destroyed recently. All through its years of service the church had played a prominent part in the history of Montreal. Thousands of young, eager churchmen were ordained within its sacred precincts, many of them have since risen to high ecclesiastical rank.

RELINQUISHED THE ARMY.

In late years the army and the church again joined hands in the shadow of Trinity walls when Rev. Canon J. M. Almond, director general of chaplain's services of the C.E.F., assumed charge of the church and directed a small but important congregation in the big district which had grown up around the church.

Two years ago the church was to have been sold to the Franciscan order of the Roman Catholic Church, for the sum of $125,000. This transaction, however, was not carried through and the church remained in the hands of its old congregation until, with the growth of the west end of the city and the migration of Protestant church people from central districts, the building was abandoned for a new house of worship in Notre Dame de Grace and it was sold to the Syrian church. The purchase sum is said to have been $100,000. The Syrian authorities had decided to change the name of the church to St. Saviour's, and to dedicate it to St. Saviour's day.

The sorrow of the Roman Catholic church at the serious loss from fire was expressed by Mgr. Gauthier, administrator of the Archdiocese. Rev. Father Simon Nasre, pastor of the church, is expected to confer with Rev. Father Gauthier regarding the action to be taken to replace the church and to care for the congregation which was to have occupied it.—Montreal Daily Star.

Papered Home With Postage Stamps.

Stories have recently been told of Russian homes that have been papered with ruble notes because they cost less than wall paper, but now comes a story of a United States storekeeper, Abraham F. Thomas, of Simon's Town, who after collecting stamps of any and all varieties which he could lay his hands on for seventeen and a half years has papered part of his house with them, working them into the most artistic and graceful designs.

Mr. Thomas worked along quietly at nights. He spent weeks in simply sorting and classifying his stamps according to color. Then still further months were spent in preparing his designs. Now he has the satisfaction of displaying the result of his patience and handiwork to hundreds of sightseers who have heard of his most artistic achievement.

On entering the rooms thus decorated, the general impression is of a somewhat novel design in wall paper, and only a closer examination reveals the fact that over half a million postage stamps have been painstakingly used to secure the pleasing effect.

The stamps used are "the common or garden" variety, but they are many colored. Among them are English Dutch, Colonial, German, American, French, Japanese, Russian, and a few Italian stamps. They have been arranged according to their colors and not according to the country of their origin.

The surface of the walls is covered with a sort of paint enamel and upon a large area of this stamps have been arranged in double-colored squares. Around the lower portion of the walls runs a deep dado made up of three distinct designs. The first and second represent vases containing

The Stag Bay Gold Field.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Among the many blunders committed by the Party of Promises, re Squires et al, probably for its dire results, the Stag Bay gold field fiasco stands paramount. The fish export regulations brought ruin and untold misery to many, and will be remembered for many years to come as one of the greatest tactical blunders of a blundering government, but the Stag Bay blunder probably is, in stupidity and likely results, a greater monument still to the gross incapacity of the Squires Government. Squires was most pronounced in his manifesto as to the need for reforms in the Agricultural and Mining Department, and he promised the country to carry those reforms into effect. The reforms effected in that Department have reduced the office to a bar-room or something like that. It is a bar-room annex at any rate where the law is openly and flagrantly violated every day.

People are asking seriously what Dr. Campbell is receiving a salary for, whether it is for issuing of "scripts" or performing the duties of his office as Minister of Agriculture and Mines? The office has been prostituted while the business of the country has been neglected. Among the many reforms so badly needed is a revision of our mining laws, which to say the least are very peculiar, and, by reason of that peculiarity, are a menace to mining advancement and the cause of severe monetary loss to the public treasury. Of placer mining laws we have none, and a placer claim is equal to a lode mining location, that it is in area half a square mile. This is most unfair, not alone to the miner, but unfair to the country. The most unenlightened people in the world could not have a more stupid law. If the statements made by men connected with this Stag Bay affair be only approximately true, what we are losing can be guessed at, when it is figured out we are granting half mile mining locations for a paltry $10 rental. What it is going to cost this unfortunate country to maintain order in Labrador and to satisfy possible litigation, will be greatly in excess of what revenue we have received from the sale of the territory. It may even involve us in grievous and costly dispute with Canada. The Labrador Boundary is still an unsettled problem and I think the Government acted most unwisely in granting mining claims in a territory under dispute.

In the Ottawa Evening Journal for Feb. 7th, is an interview with Mr. Taylor, in which he is credited with saying that "the Newfoundland Government knows definitely that the Stag Bay region contains a great deal of gold." If Mr. Taylor made such a statement he is guilty of a gross liberty with the Government of this much maligned country. The Newfoundland Government has no such proof, for none of its agents have been in Stag Bay since the reported gold discovery of last fall. Mr. Taylor also says "the entire locality has been carefully surveyed and divided into claims." Again Mr. Taylor is taking unwarranted liberty with the name of this country, and he should be made accountable for his impertinence. That he has no respect for the good faith is hardly to be condemned, but he should be made to remember that the good name of this country is not to be lightly

REWARD OF ACHIEVEMENT.
Then, proud of the finished article, he invited the inspection of his friends, who were enthusiastic in their praise. He there and then decided to tackle the hall which was an altogether bigger task. In the first place the area to be covered was much greater, and in the second the ceiling, high and long, presented many difficulties. Eighteen months were taken up with the preparation and in all two and a half years were spent in completing the work. Mr. Thomas devoted practically the whole of his leisure time to this hobby, and neglected almost every other form of recreation while the work was in progress.

"That ceiling half killed me," he observed. "I sometimes worked for hours and then destroyed all that I had done because it was not symmetrical." Anyhow, the work was finished, and Mr. Thomas has arranged further work of this nature for himself and proposes shortly to commence "papering" another room. As they stand the stamps are unclassified and heterogeneous. The good stands beside the bad, the young beside the old, the sweet beside the foul. Nevertheless, they are an interesting thing long since dead! A halting and wonderful collection. Ghosts of a million courtiers of the past!

THE ANGLICAN CHURCH INMEDIATELY LINKED WITH MILITARY LIFE HERE FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY—HAD JUST BEEN BOUGHT BY SYDIAN CATHOLICS.

ENTERED BY WINDOWS.
Owing to the solid construction of the church doors, the firemen were unable to break them down. They then attacked the leaded glass windows with axes and thus affected an entry.

From the first there was no hope of saving the building. The flames had already eaten their way up the rear walls of the church, along the roof and the pews below, and as far as the tower, where dense volumes of smoke poured out the windows.

At 2 o'clock the church presented an awe-inspiring picture. Set in a field deep in snow, surrounded by ice-covered trees, the interior of the church was brightly lighted by the flames, and stained glass windows were illuminated with a warm red glow. Soon after the tower crashed through the broken roof. After this the firemen continued their efforts to prevent the fire from spreading. The flames were fully controlled at 6.25 a.m.

MILITARY HISTORY.

The Old Trinity church was the property of the Archdiocesan authorities of the Syrian Church of the diocese. It was being redecorated and prepared for the official opening under that body on March 11, St. Saviour's Day.

The history of the church during its 83 years of life, is filled with fine achievements and is closely linked with the military life of Montreal from the early '60s to the beginning of the present century.

The church was first built in 1860, although the congregation had been in existence since 1840, when the original building was on St. Paul street. In those days it was within a stone's throw of the Imperial military barracks, and on Sundays and special occasions the troops marched in their uniforms of many colors to service. It had been erected at the personal expense of Major W. P. Christie, son of General Christie, of the 60th Rifles. The original building was a fine gothic structure. It was essentially the military church of the city.

Later the church came more definitely into history when troops at service were called to mobilize for the Fenian Raid. Rev. Dr. Bancroft was the minister when the congregation

Your Rheumatism—its origin

You would not have rheumatism if your kidneys performed their proper function. Expelling uric acid from your system. Uric acid causes rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and kindred ailments. What you need is GIN PILLS. They act directly on the kidneys—the source of all the trouble. They neutralize the uric acid, relieve the congestion and cause the kidneys to resume their work. Thousands have found quick and permanent relief from rheumatism by using GIN PILLS.

The Labour Situation.

"The Labour News" is a small local publication which makes its appearance once a month. It is a well printed and breezy little journal and well worthy of the cause it espouses. We do not know its politics, though judging from the fact that each of its five pages contains advertisements from the departments controlled by Squires, Campbell, Halfyard, Meaney, and last but not least Hon. W. F. Coaker we judge that it is well patronized by the present government of Incaables. Here is what it has to say on the Labour Situation—

"Some three years or more ago we had a great deal of talk about a Labour Bureau as a Government Department (vide Squires' manifesto). That, like many other things, one hears of at an election time, never comes to anything; and it will never come to anything unless organized labour, deeming such a department necessary, insists on its establishment at the right time and in the right way. True we have what is known by courtesy as an Employment Bureau to-day, but that of course has nothing to do with a Department of Labour. Labour has as much right to a Department of Labour as the fishermen have to a Department of Fisheries or as agriculturists have to a Department of Agriculture. Are these thousands of men (lumbermen, miners, longshoremen, truckmen, stonemasons, coopers, and other skilled and unskilled workers who earn their living by the sweat of their brow) going to remain satisfied to be forever exploited for the benefit of whoever cares to use them only to fling them aside (as Squires and Campbell did, Ed.) when they have served their turn? Not if we know them!" Of course the promise of a Labour Department by Squires was only one of the very many similar promises made by him nearly four years ago when a certain newspaper office was working overtime printing the greatest bunch of bunkum ever foisted on an unsuspecting electorate. But at that Coaker said in the "Advocate" that St. John's labourers were "dirty loafers and drunken bums," so why worry about them. But if Labour was fooled once it does not necessarily imply that it will again, and the best proof of this will be when the country goes to the polls again in May to vote for the only real friends that Labour had, namely, THE OPPOSITION PARTY. WATCH 'EM WIN.

Household Notes.

To clean matting hang on line on a clear day and use hose on both sides. For the crack in the stove use a cement made of ashes, salt and water. Noodles are sometimes fried in peanut oil and drained on blotting paper. If a new broom is dipped into hot water while it is new, it will remain pliable. To increase the quantity of cottage cheese add the beaten white of an egg. When making cranberry sauce add a pinch of salt, and less sugar will be necessary. Onion rings may be dusted with flour, seasoned, fried in deep fat and well drained. Mutton fat is too rank to use in making soup stock. Use the fat from pork or beef.

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes—

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

New Harbor Notes.

As a result of the splendid weather conditions of the last month for the woodsmen, many bulky wood piles are in evidence. The present snowfall will practically put an end to this occupation for the remainder of the season.

Mr. S. J. Pretty, of Dildo, met with a bad accident while in St. John's a short time ago. The hatchway, leading into the basement, and situated in the dining room of the boarding house where he was staying, was carelessly left open by the plumbers who were at work in the basement. Mr. Pretty, on coming in from the frosty air, his eyeglasses became immediately coated by reason of the change in temperature, and just as he was about to take them off, he slipped on the opening and fell to the basement and was taken up in a semi-conscious condition. After an examination it was found several of his ribs were badly fractured. Mr. Pretty's many friends will be glad to know that he is now practically recovered and about his business as usual.

Mr. George Higdon, who went to St. John's to enter the hospital for appendicitis, has been successfully operated on, and is expected home by to-day's (Thursday's) train.

Messrs. A. G. Parrott and Charles Pollett are taking the list of voters from New Harbor to Spreadsagle, inclusive.

Mr. Charles Woodman went to Bay Bull's Arm by last Thursday's train on business in connection with the coming election. The snow storm on the following day gave Mr. Woodman several days in which to renew old acquaintances. He, however, arrived back on Tuesday, having travelled in relays around the bay. The trip was reminiscent to Mr. Woodman of the old days of mail carrying.

Royal Visit to Italy.

King George and Queen Mary will be the guests of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena at the Quirinal Palace during their visit to Rome in the spring. The British monarchs also will pay a visit to Pope Pius. They will be received at the Vatican with royal honors, and Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal secretary of state, will return their call at the residence of the British Minister to the Holy See as the Cardinal, because of relations between the Church and State, cannot go either to the Royal Palace or to the seat of the British Embassy accredited to the King of Italy.

During their visit, King George and Queen Mary will be assigned to the apartment occupied in former times by Emperor William of Germany.

"We are Giving Them Labor."

In this cry Dr. Campbell and Sir Richard Squires take refuge and comfort their souls with the vain delusion that the West End voters are going to vote for them. They think that the voters are under a great compulsion to them, and that they will get all their votes because they gave them work breaking rocks. Now if Sir Richard Squires and Dr. Campbell and the Government they represent, had done their duty to the country three and two years ago, the people, the coopers and the laborers, the longshoremen and the mechanics would not have to break rocks to-day. They would be all working at their former manly and independent avocations. Therefore there is no obligation and no compulsion in the matter. The boot is rather on the other foot and the Government deserves to be punished by the people for bringing about such conditions as obliged them to break rocks. It is not the money of Sir Richard Squires and Dr. Campbell which is paid to the men. It is money from the loans borrowed, which will entail a big burden of interest on the laboring men and their children for ever. There is no merit then due to Messrs. Squires and Campbell and their cry of "We are giving them labor" to enable them to get food, falls to the ground. Any government would see that no citizen would starve, and no matter what government was in power in future no men will be allowed to starve. The people might well reply: If you had stayed where you were, you in your law office and you in your surgery we would not want such labor as this. You allowed Mr. Coaker to ruin our city's industry, our fish handling and our cooping by his fish regulations; you helped him to make a desert of Water Street and the water front and now that you have taken away all our legitimate work and sent us to breaking stone, you make a merit of it by saying you gave us labor. The final answer however, will be given in the ballot boxes and we think it will be a lesson to all future governments to take care not to pride themselves on having done a good thing and having merited the working men's votes, when they deprived them of any way of getting a living besides breaking stones.

WINTER GOING.

WALT MOORE

The days and nights are cold or than days and nights should be, but Winter's growing older, and soon the coop he'll see; he'll q u i t his tragic poses, so let us thaw our noses and think of yellow roses upon a dark green leaf. The thought is most consoling that nothing here can last, when snow and sleet are rolling upon a bitter blast; the wind, with zeal uncanny, slips through each nook and cranny; but cheer up, Gentle Annie is coming, coming fast. There's nothing that's enduring, in time all things are canned; this knowledge should be curing the sores we have on hand; now Winter makes us quiver, he makes us shake and shiver; but Annie will deliver, full soon, the frozen land.

Oh, nothing last forever, all mortal things must fade; Old Time their grip will sever and plant them with his spade; if anything is trying, there is no use in crying; cheer up, it's doubtless dying, its epitaph is made. So when I have the willies upon a snowy day, I think of Easter lilies, and things that bloom in May; while Father Winter figures on springing further rigors, I think of flees and chiggers and bullfrogs far away.

Guarding Against Icebergs.

Ever since the loss of the Titanic the nations using the North Atlantic Ocean have realized the importance of guarding against icebergs. By international agreement the duty of watching for these dangerous wanderers and warning ships by wireless of their whereabouts, has been assigned to the United States, which sends patrol boats to the Newfoundland Banks to watch for icebergs floating south.

Some of the intelligence is collected by the patrol boats themselves, and other information is supplied by ships that pass too and fro. This co-operation, has undoubtedly had the effect of saving many vessels from destruction, and as time passes the service will no doubt become more and more efficient.

When the patrol vessels locate the icebergs they keep in touch with it as it moves southward, and radio messages are sent out daily so any vessel fitted with wireless apparatus can receive warnings of probable position of the icebergs. These American patrols declare as to the number of icebergs in the North Atlantic at certain seasons of the year. Many icebergs reported several times by different vessels, which come across the different positions.

The latest idea is to furnish lookouts on the patrol vessels with orange glasses, through which icebergs can be discerned when with ordinary glasses they are not visible at all.

A delicious way to prepare butter is to slice it thick, rub with mustard and bake in milk.

A PLEA FOR GOOD PLUGS

"A defective sparking plug can be the cause of many and peculiar troubles. It is, therefore, false economy to purchase cheap plugs on the supposition that they are all 'much of a muchness.' It is true that a cheap plug may be perfectly satisfactory for many hundreds of miles; a plug of first-class make, however, for which a fair price is paid, will generally suffice for at least one season's running in an average engine."
The LODGE plug is known not only as a plug of first-class make which will last, but also as one that clearly manifests its superiority in the firing of a petrol engine.

" RIM LAC "

THE LATEST THING IN OPTICAL SCIENCE.
Rim Lac on the edge of a lense greatly improves its appearance, leaving a smooth glossy finish which is most attractive, and prevents chipping of the edge, also cutting out the usual reflection of light from the edge of lenses.
MAY WE SHOW YOU THE ADVANTAGES OF RIM LAC?
