The Canadians are accustomed to sounds of creamery butter, per pound, or 8 ounces, per week, and the people of Great Britain at present time are confined to 2 ounces per week, per person, and 2 pounds of butter over there includes a preparation of Oleomargarine.

The Parisian Corset Company's justly CELEBRATED CORSETS

The first requisite of a Corset is Style; the second, Comfort; the third, Service. Thousands of satisfied wearers are ready to affirm that P. C. Corsets combine all of these good qualities.

I have a fine range of the above NOTED CORSETS. The last order was placed LAST JULY and the goods are in stock. If you wear Corsets I can save you from 25 to 50 cents per pair. Better buy an extra pair or two at this sale. It will pay you A LARGE DIVIDEND to do so.

THE PARISIAN CORSET COMPANY have written me as under:

"The conviction has been growing that we were daily coming nearer the time when actual shortage will be the predominant feature in the situation. Today it is a FACT! To get goods is, and promises to be increasingly difficult as the season advances, despite our offerings of cash. Activities have taken on the aspect of a scramble for merchandise, so much so that the situation is becoming more and more complex every day, for production is being very perceptibly slowed down, while the inadequate supplies of material, Cotton Fabrics, Steels and Rubber—all war commodities, subject to Government requirements,—and fast advancing costs of all materials contribute to the perplexity of the corset manufacturing problems. This information is given so that you may thoroughly understand the reason for advances on corsets. Our candid advice to you is to book requirements for some time to come. Orders will be accepted contingent upon our ability to obtain deliveries of the materials contracted for. Awaiting the pleasure of serving you further."

Yours very truly,

BAD SCALD

"Such relief I felt when I applied Zam-Buk to a badly scalded hand," writes Mrs. A. Riseley, of 416 Timothy St., Montreal.

"I was standing near the stove when the kettle boiled over on my hand. I applied some ointment which I had in the house, but it did not ease the burning. The skin peeled off and the pain was so bad that I got no sleep for two nights. Then I commenced using Zam-Buk, and the first application gave me wonderful relief. It seemed to cool the burning so that I was able to sleep, and from then the scald began to heal. Zam-Buk grew new skin over the sore place and before long my hand was quite all right again."

Zam-Buk should always be kept in the house for cuts, burns and knocks, and for eczema, ringworm, boils, pimples, blood-poisoning, ulcers and piles. It cannot be equalled. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c box, 3 for $1.25.

Big Potatoes.

To the Editor of the Monitor:

DEAR SIR: I see by your paper that potatoes are an extra crop in some parts of your county. Why, my dear man, talk about potatoes. One man in Digby County told me the other day he had to cut the corners off his potatoes to get them in the barrels. I am growing this year about fifty bushels of Black Shannagoes potatoes from one bushel's planting. They are a great cropper and never rot, and also an extra potato for cooking. If I knew where to leave you a sample in Digby I would like for you to try them and perhaps you might get an item out of this for your paper. Yours in the interest of potatoes.

JOHN A. H. NICHOLS,
Acaciaville, Digby Co., Oct. 14, 1918

Buy Continued Prosperity.

Before our last Victory Loan financial experts were dubious as to the outlook for Canada. She could not borrow abroad. It was necessary that she have a large available capital to finance credits for British and foreign war orders. Canada was thrown on her own resources and appealed to her citizens.

The remarkable over-subscription of the 1917 Victory Loan completely changed the uncertain outlook which prevailed. It gave a new impetus to agriculture, commerce and prosperity. It invigorated our efforts in the war. It allowed our provincial Governments, municipal and other borrowers to finance their requirements at home. In short, it gave another lease of life to the activities of the Dominion.

The Victory Loan of 1918 will accomplish the same purposes. Upon the ready response of the large and small investor, depends the immediate economic future of Canada. Everyone's prosperity is involved.

Prepare to buy continued Prosperity in Victory Bonds.

WOMEN TORTURED!

Suffer Terribly With Corns Because of High Heels, But Why Care Now.

Women wear high heels which buckle up their toes and they suffer terribly from corns. Women then proceed to trim these pests, seeking relief, but they hardly realize the terrible danger from infection, says a Cincinnati authority.

Corns can easily be lifted out with the fingers if you will get from any drug store a quarter of an ounce of a drug called freezone. This is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. You simply apply a few drops directly upon the tender, aching corn or callus. The soreness is relieved at once and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts out without one particle of pain.

This freezone is a sticky substance which dries in a moment. It just shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Tell your wife about this.

Influenza Prescription.

A physician gives this rule for treatment of influenza: "Take the best of care of yourself while you think you are sick and after you think you are well continue the same treatment for several days longer."

SPANISH INFLUENZA RAGES IN CANADA

Thousands of Cases Reported
With Many Deaths.

THOSE WHO ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO IT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"—The Wonderful
Fruit Medicine—Gives the Power To Resist This Disease.

The epidemic of Spanish Influenza
which played such havoc in Europe, has reached this continent. Thousands of cases of the strange malady have appeared and many deaths are already reported; Surgeon-General
Blue of the United States Public Health Service having stated that "Spanish Influenza will probably spread all over the country in six weeks."

Practically every ship which touches our shores from abroad, brings those infected with the disease.

Surgeon-General Blue urges that
"the individual take all the precautions he can against contracting the disease by care and personal hygiene." Plenty of exercise should be taken; the diet should be regulated,
etc.

Spanish Influenza affects most severely elderly persons and others whose powers of resistance are weakened by illness, work or worry, especially those who are "run-down"
or "not feeling up to the mark."

The really great danger from the disease is not so much in the disease itself, as that it often develops into pneumonia.

What everyone needs now is a general tonic like "Fruit-a-tives".
This wonderful fruit medicine is not a germ-killer. It is a body-builder;
a strength-maker; a blood-purifier;
a power in protecting against the ravages of disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing these organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended.
"Fruit-a-tives" keeps the skin active,
and purifies and enriches the blood.
"Fruit-a-tives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion,
insuring food being properly digested
and assimilated.

Everyone can take ordinary precautions, avoid crowded places, and use "Fruit-a-tives" regularly to insure sound digestion, to keep the bowels and kidneys regular and the whole system in the best possible condition. Then we are safe from disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

October Rod and Gun.

Of interest to Canadian sportsmen
is the October issue of Rod and Gun with its hunting stories of deer, moose, bear, etc., in the various Canadian provinces, and its well maintained departments devoted to guns and ammunition, fishing, the trap
line, the kennel, etc.

"Trout fishing in Many Waters," by Louis Rhead is the title of the leading article in the Fishing Notes section. Mr. Rhead being America's foremost angling author. The first article in a series of four to be contributed by Mr. H. C.
Haddox in this number also. Rod and Gun is published by W. J. Taylor Limited, Woodstock, Ont. For further particulars concerning this publication call up A. J. Burns, telephone 36-11, Bridgetown.

Frank Cameron, of Parrsboro, a bank clerk for a time in Middleton, died on Saturday in Charlottetown of Influenza and pneumonia. His brother, Pte. Blair Cameron was killed in action on Sept. 30.

WHERE APPLES GROW

A Pleasant Trip With the Annapolis
Valley Apple King

(From the Middleton Outlook)
On Friday last having a few minutes of business and several hours of leisure in Berwick, I was much indebted to my friend, S. B. Chute for the fact that the time was spent pleasantly and instructively.

VALLEY'S BIGGEST ORCHARD
A hasty run by car through Mr.
Chute's plantation gave an idea of the operations carried on this year in the largest orchard in the Valley.

"A light crop of apples this year,"
said Mr. Chute. "How many barrels does that mean," I asked. "About 6,000."

$5.00 A BARREL

"What did your Crimson Beauties
bring this year?" "Five dollars a barrel," was the reply.

As we passed by a big patch of strawberries I asked, "How much did your strawberries bring?" "Three thousand dollars this year" was the answer.

OVER 60 ACRES OF BEANS

At one point a number of men were digging potatoes and in reply to an enquiry Mr. Chute said he had nearly 40 acres of potatoes and over 60 acres of beans.

Passing large areas of orchard but one or two years out I said; "You surely have not been setting more orchard." "Yes, sure and I am not through yet."

"But do you not get discouraged
over this constant fight with pests?"
Do you not have a new bug, worm or fungus to meet every year?"

"Let them come" was the cheerful reply. "The apple industry in the Annapolis Valley never looked so encouraging as now. With care, common sense and industry there is no trouble to overcome the pests."

TO SET MORE ORCHARD

Passing toward the foot hills of the South Mountain we came to a number of teams at work plowing up recently acquired land. "What is to be planted here" I enquired. "This is where I expect to set apple trees
next spring."

"How many acres?" I asked.

"About 40." "And how many have you already?" "Three hundred acres."

"I want to show you what some of my neighbors are doing" said Mr.
Chute. As we motored along he explained that this stoney, loamy soil of Rockland which was thought to be poorly suited for tillage when broken up and cleared of stone proves to be ideal orchard land.

Passing Charles Bentley's twenty-thousand dollar farm, Mr. Chute pointed out a block of gravenstein trees, which gave $700 worth of apples this year. Next we passed through the expansive and thrifty orchard of Mr.
Margeson which has been giving big yields, but is light this year.

John Buchanan, following his own independent ideas in this as in everything else, is making a success of his large orchard.

$2,000 WORTH OF GRAVENSTEINS

Stopping for a moment at Stanley
Banks' place in South Waterville, Mr.
Chute showed a block of Crimson Beauty trees which picked $1,000 worth
this year and adjoining was a block in which every tree was loaded to capacity with handsome clean Red gravensteins. "There will be $2,000 worth of gravensteins in that block,"
said Mr. Chute.

MONEY IN FOXES

"But all the money here is not made out of apples. This man is making as much as any one in the vicinity" as we stopped at Rood's fox ranch.

On a third of an acre of land Mr.
Rood has 47 silver-black foxes. He is experimenting cautiously in feeding, using a small quantity of meat and thus far has met with good success and has reduced his feed expenditure materially. He was most obliging in showing his black beauties and explaining his method of care and feeding.

As we honked back through South
Waterville and South Berwick, Mr.
Chute gave a bit of history of each farm. This place twenty years ago was worth $2,000 and is now good for five times that. This man does not believe in orchard and his farm is worth the same as it was 25 years ago. This man started with two acre of orchard and a block of rough land, now it is worth $10,000 and he has money out at interest. That land was considered too poor to grow apple trees; the orchard now speaks for itself and the owner has a snug bank account. So ran the comments.

FROM "POVERTY STREET" TO PROSPERITY AVENUE.

"This whole district was formerly known as Poverty street as the sandy soil was thought to be almost worthless." It might now be called "Prosperity Avenue," I thought.

COULD BE DUPLICATED AT MID- DLETON.

"Mr. Chute, you are well acquainted with Middleton and vicinity. Do you think the same enterprise would give the same results there as here."
"No better chance in the Valley than around Middleton especially on the Nictaux side. It is only a matter of going at it," was Mr. Chute's answer as I thanked him and bade him good bye.

WATER AND LIGHT FOR BERWICK

Why a thriving community like Berwick should so long do without water and lights has been a surprise to me. After a conversation with M.
R. Nichol, one of the commissioners
I have a better appreciation of the difficulties the people of Berwick have had to contend with in this matter.

While Middleton was fortunate in having a lake or three lakes on the North Mountain within reach, there is no lake on the North Mountain from which Berwick could establish a gravity water system. The South Mountain has been almost as unkind to Berwick in this regard as the North Mountain.

HAVE MADE A BEGINNING

But recently incorporation of the Town of Berwick for water and lighting has been secured. A waterpower on the South Mountain is in view and it is hoped that from this power can be secured to operate a lighting system. Possibly by boring a water supply can be secured and a pumping system installed and operated by the same power. A boon to Berwick would be the installation of water and light at moderate cost.

ANOTHER BIG WAREHOUSE

A big warehouse is being built at Berwick station for Grahams Limited, beside their fine evaporator building.
J. A. Brown and C. H. Lowell, of Lawrencetown, are in charge of the work.

A fraternal call on Editor Woodworth of the "Register," and my pleasant visit to the prosperous town of Berwick is ended.

ANOTHER HEAVY ADVANCE IN PAPER.

Although newspaper paper has about doubled since the commencement of the war the price has again been advanced at one leap of $12.00 per ton. This with the present freight rate, also nearly double, has given the publishers another blow, from which it is hard to recover. Newspapers everywhere are again advancing in price. Some daily newspapers which were formerly $3.00 per year, increased to $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00, and are now going to $9.00 per year. Nearly all the once-a-week papers are making additional increases. The MONITOR still remains at $1.50 per year, but we are making an extra effort to collect overdue subscriptions and would ask all our readers to kindly remit in advance in order for us to meet the extra expense which has just been again thrown on us at a very short notice. It is only a $1.50 from many of you, but it means a lot on a couple of thousand subscribers.

GERMAN SENDS REPLY

The German note in reply to President Wilson's, pretends to accept his terms for an armistice and denies that atrocities have been committed. The Berlin Government agrees with the President that the military leaders shall arrange an armistice and the terms for the evacuation of occupied territory. She also declares that orders have been given to submarine commanders not to sink passenger steamers. In the meantime the British and American troops continue to force the Germans back at vital points, and pay no heed to peace talk. The strong demand of the American press is that admission of defeat and unconditional surrender is required by Germany.

KILLED IN ACTION

Another Bridgetown Boy Has Paid the Supreme Sacrifice.

A telegram received by his parents, Thursday, announced the sad news that Pte. Cecil Barry Lloyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lloyd, had been killed in action somewhere in France, October 1st.

Pte. Lloyd, who was 34 years of age, had been absent from Bridgetown for 12 years, being a resident of Northampton, Ontario, where he was engaged in gold mining. He enlisted in an Ontario Battalion in February and went across the Atlantic in March. He was published in our last issue an interesting account of his first experience in going over the top.

He was very popular wherever he was known and his death will be greatly mourned by a large circle of friends both in Nova Scotia and Ontario. He was much interested in the good work in which he was engaged and during his short career on the battle field had proved himself a brave and faithful soldier, so willing to give up his life to defend his loved ones at home.

Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers (all in the service) Russell and Victor in England and Percival in France, and three sisters, Mrs. A. O. Morse, of West Somerville, Mass., and the Misses Constance and Fedora at home, all of whom have the deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

The Influenza in Bridgetown.

In an interview with the health officer, Dr. M. E. Armstrong, the MONITOR learns that the influenza in Bridgetown, which has been of a very mild type, compared with other places, is now subsiding in the town, but is quite prevalent in the rural districts. It is thought that the improvement in the town is owing to the prompt closing of the churches, schools, theatres, lodges and other societies, which remain closed until future notice. Action along this line is now being taken in several of the surrounding villages. Few deaths have occurred.

Local Happenings

It is announced that Parliament will be summoned to meet on Jan. 15th. Several letters from France, crowded out of this issue, will appear next week.

The Centredale Red Cross meeting will be at Mrs. Chadwick's Friday, Oct. 25th.

The topic of the sermon at the Lawrencetown Baptist Church next Sunday evening, will be "The first rewarded War."

Mr. S. C. Hall has our thanks for papers from Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. W. S. Tucker for papers from Great Falls, Montana.

We have received a birth notice which is apparently all right but no signature accompanies it and so we cannot publish it.

McKenzie, Crowe & Co.'s larrigan factory at Bridgetown is now running day and night and Sundays to fill government orders for our soldiers.

The ban has now been lifted by the government for gasless Sundays. Last Sunday being the first, together with beautiful weather, the cars were much in evidence throughout the Valley.

We wish to call attention to the MONITOR'S success in selling goods by auction. Ask the local auctioneers which they think is the best advertising medium. Just look at the list of auction ads. in this issue.

Copy for changes of ads. MUST reach us not later than 12 o'clock on Mondays. We cannot take copy for advertisements over the phone and guarantee to set them correct. We must have the advertiser's copy on file. Do not say you did not see this item for you know you did.

A meeting of the Victory Loan committee was held last Saturday night and another last night. Everything is expected to be in readiness to commence work next Monday, Oct. 28th. We trust that Bridgetown and vicinity and Annapolis and Digby counties, as well as the whole province, will "go over the top" next week.

The meanest person we know in Annapolis County is one to whom we were kind enough to send the MONITOR until the bill became four or five dollars and then when we asked him to pay he wants the paper discontinued. He dates the letter, however, October 21, 1919. We believe therefore he is a hundred years behind the times.

Considerable newspaper space is being given up to complaints from preachers. One complaint is, that people, and more particularly returned soldiers, do not go to church; the repetition of the first, that ministers are being insufficiently supported in a financial way, considering the high cost of living.

DEATH OF MR. FRED BEELER.

A Prominent Resident of Lequille Has Passed Away.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. J. Fred Beeler, one of the prominent residents of Lequille, who passed away at an early hour Monday morning, after a short illness of Spanish influenza, followed by pneumonia. ## CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of the Monitor:

DEAR SIR: Next Sunday being the last Sunday in the month, we should, ordinarily, be holding our month's service of United Intercession on the usual evening service. At this time of writing, it looks as if the Bridgetown churches will still be closed and no service held. May 1 therefore, through your columns, and on behalf of the Ministerial Association, ask those who are in the habit of attending the service of United Intercession, next Sunday evening in their own homes to remember the war before the Throne of Grace, at about the time we should be otherwise together in the church.

Of those in the habit of attending the weekly service in St. James church on Friday afternoons, I would ask the same on that afternoon.

I may say that in order to keep faith with our boys, I have taken this service alone in the church each Friday afternoon, since the regulation of the Board of Health came into force.

Truly yours,
ERNEST UNDERWOOD,
The Rectory, Bridgetown, Oct. 22nd, 1918.

MAKE BREATHING EASY.

TUBBY SNOOKS

(By Rifleman Patrick MacGill.)

The ruined village was shaking and quivering with the shock of the bursting shells, and the furious anarchy of war raged over the broken tiles, the shattered houses, and the cobbles streets. Tubby Snooks, his rifle in his hand and his trench helmet well to the back of his head, felt that his last hour had come as he crawled in from the pavement and entered the rickety cafe, the Cafe Moulin Rouge, which at one time had been the premier cafe in the village. Now the roof and the chimneys were gone, a big hole showed in the wall, and the floor of the establishment was littered with rubble.

Tubby Snooks, wounded and weary, crawled into the cafe, a thin stream of blood running over his left temple and a wound in his leg giving him exquisite pain. He had been hit a few minutes before and swept into unconsciousness while his mates stood round him struggling valiantly against the attacking Germans. The enemy were then entering the village, and the British soldiers were endeavoring to hold them back, fighting grimly against overwhelming odds. And Private Snooks was there, one of the bravest, daring as a hero only dares, and fighting with all the grit of a veteran seasoned in a hundred fights. But Tubby Snooks had just passed his nineteenth birthday, and had only recently come out to France and the fighting.

He was using his bayonet in a hand-to-hand combat with a mighty German, a bearded and wrinkled man, who was twice the size of the Cockney. At least it seemed so to Snooks, for the man who holds a bayonet opposite you has the faculty of increasing in proportion as you try to get past his point. This may not be so in reality, but in a fight following many a sleepless night, the mind is apt to see things not altogether normal.

It was a moment when he was on the point of getting the steel home that Snooks fell to the street and passed out of the world of conscious things. After a while he came to, and found the place deserted. He rose to his knees and looked down the long perspective of street where the machine gun bullets were rattling on the cobbles, and the dead were lying in all sorts of queer attitudes. Not a living soul in sight. They had all disappeared as if the very ground had swallowed them. Tubby looked round him, noticed the cafe and crawled into it.

The room in which he found himself, was a large apartment, crowded with stools, chairs, benches, and an old rickety billiard table. All around the articles of furniture, bricks and tiles were scattered and amidst the rubble was an officer of the British army.

Snooks crawled up close to the officer and looked at him, at the tunic saturated with blood, at the crown and stars on the sleeve, and at the pale and drawn face with the blood trickling down his forehead.

"For chap!" said Snooks, in a commiserate voice, and he began to pull the broken tiles and bricks off the colonel's body. The officer was not dead. He breathed deeply, stirring uneasily when Snooks touched him. The boy worked diligently, lifting one brick and then another and unearthing the officer. The Cockney's strength was at a low ebb and his hands were aching. The effort to help the officer was exhausting him and his fatigue was so great that he had to rest at frequent intervals. Now and again his weariness almost overcame him, and he believed that he would not be able to finish his task. But if his vigor was dead his energy was alive, and again he turned to his job in front of him. To give help to the officer was his duty and he must not shirk it. The digging out of the helpless man became an obsession, and the soldier labored frantically, pulling the bricks and tiles apart.

As he worked he could hear the clatter of machine guns on the cobbles and the thunder of the shells flinging the masonry sky-high. At each explosion the little cafe shuddered as if in agony, and the timber of near buildings creaked as if in protest against the demolition of war. It was evident that either British or Germans were in the village, not both. If Germans and British were both there, no shelling would take place, for the gunners of either side would not shell a place which contained their own men. Who was in possession now? Snooks wondered, but he had no time to find an answer to the query. Besides, it did not particularly matter to the boy. War and its phases were very remote from him at that moment. His job was a simple one. It was to liberate the colonel.

Presently the officer moved, groaned and sat up. He fixed a look on Tubby Snooks and lay down again.

"It's all right now, sir," said the boy. "Just have a drop of this and you'll be as right as ninepence in no time."

As he spoke he unloosened his water-bottle from his belt, drew out the cork, and held it to the officer's mouth. The officer's eyes were closed, but when he felt the water trickling round his lips he drank. Then he opened his eyes again.

"Who are you?" he questioned in a weak voice.

"Private Snooks, sir, of the Blank-shires," said the boy. "How are you feeling now, sir?"

"I'm all right," said the colonel.

"And you. Are you hit?"

"Oh, nothing to write home about," said the young man, "but you look a bit pale, sir. I'll try and bind you up a bit, if you've got a dressin' on you."

"You'll find it," said the officer.

"It—"

He did not conclude the sentence. But lay back and closed his eyes.

"He's off again," said the youngster, and sought for the officer's first field dressing. Finding it, he looked for the colonel's wound. He found one, then another. There were three of them; in all, as far as he could see.

The officer had been hit on the brow, in the chest and the leg. And Tubby dressed them all, using the last ounce of his vitality on the job.

He lay down, utterly exhausted, and closed his eyes. His wounds—how many he had got he did not know—were pain him with a fiendish agony which was continually rising to an excruciating pitch, dying away and rising again. After awhile the pain ceased, and a heavy torpor settled on the youth. He felt resigned now.

All that he wanted to do was to rest, rest and not be disturbed. The bullets were rattling along the street outside, sounding as if they had come from an infinite distance. He opened his eyes, took in with a steady glance the opposite wall, the up-ended chairs, the billiard table. He himself, was a good billiard player. When he returned to England again he was going to devote all his spare time to the game. When he returned. . . But he was much too weary to think about such things at the present moment.

All he wanted to do was to sleep.

It was two hours afterwards that the British troops retook the village which they had lost just after Snooks was wounded. The Germans were chased out, and a party of men made a search of the houses, exploring the cellars. Germans might be in hiding there. One party discovered the colonel lying on the floor of the Cafe Moulin Rouge, and the entrance of these men awakened him. He sat up and looked at them.

"Chasing them out of the place?" he enquired.

"Yes, sir," one of the men replied.

"We'll get the stretcher-bearers and they'll carry you out, sir," he added.

The colonel recollected the man who had given him the drink of water two hours earlier.

"There's another man," he said.

"He must be in here. He has been hit. Attend to him before troubling about me."

"Maybe it's the man that's lying on the ground by your side, sir?" one of the party hazarded, as he came over and looked at Tubby Snooks. "If it is it's not much good troubling about him now, sir. He's dead."

When will it end?

Thousands upon thousands, endless thousands, hold their lives cheap as the price of Victorious Peace.

And we—as we watch from afar their heroic efforts—may we be able to say, that the little we at home could do, we have done;

—that in so far as we could support them, lighten their burdens, bring them comforts, we have done it;

—that we have striven unceasingly to shorten their stay in the Hun-made Hell;

—that freely, fervently, unitedly, we have laid our humble offerings alongside their noble sacrifices on the altar of Victory—and Peace.

Another opportunity to lend your individual weight to the blow that will shorten the war comes with the offering of Victory Bonds about to be made. Let not the privilege to do your share find you unprepared.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

October Retrospect

(Experimental Farms Note)

Threshing throughout Canada is in full swing and the final estimates of the crop will soon be available. The yield per acre will vary greatly in the different provinces according as the weather conditions have been favorable or otherwise. In contrast, if the returns from a series of farms in any locality were compared, the yields per acre of these farms would be found to vary much more than the average yield per acre of the various provinces. The reason for this wider diversity is not weather conditions so much as the methods employed in growing the crop and the difference in varieties and seed.

It is absolutely essential if one is desirous of improving their crop yields that they know the exact yield in bushels per acre that their fields return. Gussing will not do. There has been too much guessing about this important question and many have fooled themselves to their own detriment. Many estimate their grain on the basis of the bushels sown. This method is without practical value. For instance, oats sown at the rate of two and a half bushels will give just as large or a larger yield than oats sown at the rate of three or three and a half bushels per acre.

If a field has yielded only fifteen bushels of wheat or twenty bushels of oats, now is the time that the reason for such a low yield should be ascertained. The past season's work should be reviewed while it is still fresh in the mind. The factors that enter into the successful growing of a crop are many and varied and each should receive attention such as, the previous crop, the tillage operations, the treatment of the seed for disease, the rainfall, the variety sown, the quality of the seed, the date of seeding, etc.

Each of these should be considered until you establish in your mind just what factors are responsible for the low yield. This cannot be done intelligently unless one knows exactly what his land has returned in bushels per acre. Just as each man is able to place his finger on the weak spot in his methods during the last season so will his fields respond in bushels of grain the next. Critical retrospect is invaluable in planning the next year's operations.

Record In Concrete Bridge-Building

THE double tracking of the North Toronto Sub-division of the Canadian Pacific Railway between Leaside and North Toronto is now nearing completion, and involves the replacement of bridges (known as 0.9 and 1.8) which heretofore had been trestles constructed of steel. Owing to the high price of steel and the difficulty of procuring it since the war began it was found that reinforced concrete competed successfully against steel.

The bridges were therefore constructed of this material and are a triumph of railway construction work. No. 0.9 being 386 feet long and 50 feet high carrying two tracks and No. 1.8 of similar dimensions but a three track structure. The length of the individual spans and the details of their construction are unprecedented in the engineering world. Previous to this no reinforced concrete beam with a length of more than about 25 feet had been attempted; the spans of these two C. P. R. structures are each from 35 to 37 feet long. These spans have been made possible by the employment of unit construction by which each span was designed as two T beams which, after being manufactured near the work, were laid side by side on the previously built reinforced concrete towers. The towers themselves are really reinforced concrete buildings constructed in the usual manner by means of wooden forms built around a steel reinforcement which was previously assembled and securely wired together. When all was in readiness the concrete was poured by means of long spouts which led in several directions from the main mixing tower. The pouring of the concrete was maintained as continuously as possible until a whole tower was completed. This work was done during the winter at a time when the temperature was below freezing point; it was performed inside of what was virtually a building erected to maintain a suitable temperature around the newly deposited concrete until it was out of danger of being damaged by frost.

These two structures are provided with narrow sidewalks and handrails, which enable trainmen to move conveniently along side-standing trains. The hand rails add considerably to the aesthetic appearance of the structures, which are extremely artistic in appearance and at the same time satisfactory from a general and utilitarian point of view, besides being absolutely permanent. Both are designed to carry the heaviest engines in existence with a considerable margin of safety, and are epoch-making in the art of bridge engineering inasmuch as they have demonstrated that reinforced concrete can take the place of steel for a very large number of permanent bridges. These two structures are so solid that when passing over them on a train one gets the impression that he is on a solid fill instead of a bridge. The method employed in the erection of the reinforced concrete spans is a specially interesting feature of the structures. Each slab, as a unit, weighed 55 tons, which—as the limit load that could be handled by the C. P. R. 100 ton standard wrecking cranes. The crane engaged handled no less than 110 slabs, each 55 tons in weight, or in all something like 6,000 tons, and all this was done without a single mishap to either men or material. Another remarkable feature is that both structures were built without interruption from June, 1917, to July, 1918, which was a shorter period than would have been required to manufacture and erect similar structures in steel. Passenger and freight traffic on the C. P. R. main lines was continued without interruption during the progress of these interesting works.

Y. M. C. A.

The well known correspondent, Mr. W. Beach Thomas, in wiring his descriptive despatches of the recent heavy engagement of the Canadian Corps in France to the Continental Edition of the London Daily Mail, writes as follows:

"One village under considerable shelling and still within reach of machine gun bullets contained a dressing station, and of all things an incinerator, to which large notices directed you. Not far from them was a German notice board. I hear from an officer who visited the spot again a day later that another notice, 'This way to the Y. M. C. A.' was added. A dashing cavalry officer, very much of the old school, possessing a voice that would carry about two miles, begged me with great earnestness to do him one service. Would I mention the Y. M. C. A.? It had provided his men with hot coffee before riding out."

It has since been authoritatively determined that Mr. Thomas, in this despatch was referring to the Canadian Y. M. C. A.

Coming Home For Burial.

A gentleman, who returned from the United States Saturday morning, states that the train on which he travelled, brought ten caskets containing Nova Scotia victims of the scourge. He also states that twenty-five Nova Scotian young ladies, who were professional nurses in the States, succumbed to the disease.

This young man is one of our Highland Brigade going over to England with it in the spring of 1916. He then gave up his Sergeant stripes, reverted to the ranks and has been with the guns for over a year, going through all the heavy battles, writing his young wife and mother such cheery letters, until now he has his first wound. We sincerely sympathize with his family and trust better news reach them by the mail so anxiously awaited.
