PORT WADE

Mr. Wentworth Letteney and son Frank, of Lynn, Mass., have visited friends in the past week, the former having been absent thirty-five years. These gentlemen have made good with Uncle Sam, and many of us would be glad if they would return and make the old home theirs permanently.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold a harvest supper on Wednesday evening this week, 4th. This will be a good time, and readers of THE MONITOR of this issue should jump into the cars and come down. The moon is just right. Supper held with Mrs. Capt. W. Ryper.

Wednesday evening of last week the ladies of the Methodist Church held a harvest supper at the home of Mr. Chas. Parks, with success of a dual nature, a good time and $38.00 in cash.

A harvest sermon was given by Rev. Mr. Thomas at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion by the ladies.

Mrs. Edw. Johns, daughter Elizabeth, Mrs. Robert Burke and little son Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. William Westhaver, went to Boston last week to stay indefinitely.

The Port Wade Lumber Co. has the boiler for the mill on a first class concrete foundation and will now be able to set up the balance of the mill as it is shipped.

Mrs. Vandora White, of the Grand Hotel staff, Yarmouth, is enjoying a much needed rest, with her mother, Mrs. Jane Litch.

Wilfrid Kendall, shipwrecked on the Empress, makes the second wreck he has shared within a few months. Nothing doing down this way about the coming Council election. There should be some whispering done soon.

Miss Vera McGrath, of Digby, spent Sunday here with her mother, Mrs. Mary McGrath. Now for moose hunting. We have them here, usually in twos and threes. Miss May Croscup, teacher, visited Annapolis Royal on Saturday.

OBITUARY

The death took place at her home in West Paradise of Mrs. Charles Daniels in the forty-eighth year of her age, after an illness of about two years. She leaves to mourn their loss, mother, Mrs. Harry Marshall, of Bear River; husband and two daughters, Mrs. Edward Bent and Miss Maud, both of West Paradise. One son, Harold, predeceased her six years ago.

The late Mrs. Daniels, nee Alberta Marshall, was a woman who was most highly esteemed for her fine Christian character and was ever foremost in good work. She enjoyed the esteem and respect of all who knew her and this esteem was amply shown on Tuesday afternoon by the large attendance at her funeral and by the beautiful floral offerings.

MARITIME WEEKLY JOURNALS ORGANIZE

Truro, N. S.—The Maritime Weekly Press Association was formed at a meeting here of twenty publishers, drawn from the three provinces. Officers were elected as follows: President, Don F. Fraser, Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow, N. S.; Vice-Pres. for Nova Scotia, Mrs. P. M. Fielding, Tribune, Windsor; Vice-Pres. for New Brunswick, C. C. Avar, Tribune, Sackville; Vice-Pres. for P. E. Island, Lewis Taylor, Tribune, Summerside; Secretary-Treas., H. B. Anslow, Graphic, Campbellton, N. B.; Executive Committee, the above officers and D. Lawson, Herald, Yarmouth, N. S.; S. L. Lynott, Carleton Sentinel, Woodstock, N. B.; H. S. Anslow, Journal, Windsor, N. S.; George McWilliams, Leader, Newcastle, N. B., and H. E. Arenburg, Progress Enterprise, Lunenburg, N. S.

E. Roy Sayles, of Toronto, Manager of the Canadian Weekly Press Association, who has been touring the Maritime Provinces with A. R. Brennan, of Summerside, President of the Association, addressed the meeting at some length, dwelling on the benefits of organization.

The evening session was devoted largely to plans in connection with the annual meeting of the national association, which it is expected will be held next year at Halifax.

Two Canadian National Railway officials were present.—F. W. Robertson, General Passenger Agent, Moncton, and H. C. McFarlane, District Passenger Agent, Halifax. It was said that there would probably be four hundred more in the party, and that two special trains would be required.

Chairman Fraser said that a visit was planned to Cape Breton and that D. H. McDougall, General Manager of the British Empire Steel Corporation, had assured him that that company would be glad to co-operate toward making the visit to Cape Breton a pleasant one.

President Brennan also said that assurance had been received from prominent men in Halifax that the press party would be well entertained there. The Executive Committee was appointed to map out the itinerary in the Maritime Provinces in collaboration with railway officials.

Manager Sayles, of the National Association, spoke of plans for the 1924 trip. An invitation, he said, had been received from the British Press Union and the British Newspaper Association for a visit to Europe including the battlefields. The idea seemed to appeal to the meeting, for fourteen of the twenty publishers expressed a willingness to go.

MR. AVARD BEELER GETS FIRST MOOSE

Splendid Specimen Secured By Popular Citizen Three Hours After Leaving His Home Here

The honor among local sportsmen of getting the first moose of the season goes to Mr. Avard Beeler who secured his prize in jig time. At 4:30 on Monday morning Mr. Beeler left his home here and proceeding South entered the woods with Messrs. Gordon Beeler and Joseph Gillis. Mr. Gordon Beeler who is probably without a peer in the calling up of this noble game, at once got busy and within a remarkably short space of time his efforts produced results and a fine bull moose came crashing thru the forest to fall a victim to the unerring rifle of Mr. Avard Beeler.

The splendid and quick success of the hunters may be gauged by the fact that by a quarter to eight Monday morning the work of dressing the moose which would weigh in the neighborhood of 500, commenced a little over three hours from the time Mr. Beeler left his home. Where did he shoot the moose? There are several hunters of repute in the woods within comparatively short distances of the spot and their bulletins are being awaited. Such remarkable and quick success as that secured by Mr. Beeler falls very seldom to the lot of hunters for hunting like fishing has its ups and downs, plenty of sport but much uncertainty.

THREE COUNTIES EXHIBITION

A Splendid Exhibit And Good Programs At Annapolis Royal This Week

Everything is set for the Three Counties Exhibition which opens today at Annapolis Royal, continuing for three days, and the delightful weather at present prevailing makes attendance a joy and pleasure.

A fine large and well graduated prize list and a splendid entry list with all the varied attractions usually found at an exhibition of this character should ensure a large attendance from all these counties represented but most especially from Annapolis which as well as the other counties represented has the honor of the exhibition once in three years apart from all the varied items connected with the exhibition it will prove of interest to visitors particularly to those from some distance whose business has not taken them to the old historic town to witness the rebuilt from its baptism of fire. The improvements made and the splendid character of buildings erected in the hurried portion speak volumes for the patriotic efforts of its citizens and for their faith in the future of their town.

During this week all roads lead to Annapolis and the preparations and provisions made by the active management and committees in charge ensure a good and profitable time for all who visit the exhibition and the town.

In our next issue we hope to give a resume of the exhibition and a list of the prize winners.

WEDDING

TROOP—TROOP The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Troop, Belleisle, was the scene of a very interesting event Wednesday, Sept. 27th, when their second daughter, Francis Macetta, became the bride of Mr. Rupert M. Troop, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Troop, of Granville Centre. The parlors were beautifully trimmed with cut flowers, an arch of green and white occupied the corner where the ceremony was performed. At the hour appointed to the strains of the wedding march well rendered by Mrs. Arthur Fash, the bride, wearing a beautiful gown of Ivory duchess satin, with the conventional veil and orange blossoms, entered the room on the arm of her father, looking very charming as she took her place beside the groom. Miss Elizabeth Troop, sister of the bride, gowned in pink silk, acted as bridesmaid. Little Miss Dora Fash and Virginia Troop, sister of the bride, looked very winsome, gowned in blue silk, carrying baskets of cut flowers. Mr. Harry B. Bent ably supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arch Deacon Watson of Granville Ferry.

After congratulations a dainty luncheon was served to about fifty invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Troop left by auto for a trip to Halifax, Yarmouth and points of interest. The bride's traveling suit was navy blue serge. The wedding gifts were many and costly, consisting of silver, china cut glass and linen, also substantial cheques from the parents of both bride and groom. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Troop will reside at Granville Centre where the best wishes of a host of friends will follow them.

You are cordially invited to attend the services of the BRIDGETOWN BAPTIST CHURCH Sunday Services: Public Worship 11 a.m. Church School 12 M. Evening Service 7 p.m. Week Night Services: Prayer Meeting Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Young People's Service Friday 7:30 p.m. (Tuxis, Trail Rangers, Sr. and Jr. C. G. I. T.)

THE SCHOOL NURSE (Canadian Red Cross) The school nurse has already demonstrated the extraordinary value of her services in the health work of the schools. Figures prove that in one prominent part of her work the school nurse bridges the gap between failure and success, or at least between inefficiency and efficiency of the health program. Without the services of the nurse only from 15 to 25 per cent. of the pupils have physical defects corrected. On the other hand, with the aid of the school nurse, from 75 to 90 per cent. of the pupils who need re-medial attention received it.

PARADISE

At Burn Brae on Tuesday evening, the 26th, Mrs. E. G. Morse was hostess to about fifty community guests when she gave a wedding shower to Miss Vera Longley. The large dining room table was generously covered with varied tokens of regard and was prettily decorated in pink and white. The good time spent in the viewing of gifts and the playing of games was followed by the serving of ice cream and cake which brought to a close an evening much appreciated and enjoyed by all.

Recent visitors at the parsonage were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corning, Miss Flora McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, of Yarmouth, also Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fielding; Mr. Brighton Fielding, Mrs. Duncanson and daughter, Miss Evelyn Duncanson, of Wolfville.

Mrs. Charles Covert, we are sorry to report, is still on the sick list. Mr. Charlton, though not suffering, still keeps his bed, while Mr. Gilford Covert and Mr. Rumsey are improving slowly.

Paradise, we believe is in need of but one kind of brightness. Let us hope the longed for illumination which now appears on the horizon as hopeful may materialize. Miss Helen Mason with Master Vere Mason are visiting in Springfield, while Mrs. F. E. Hill is visiting her brother, Mr. Reginald Mason.

Mr. Gordon Starratt left on Tuesday, the 26th, to resume his studies at Acadia College.

Mr. Thompson Brown, of Boston, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Layte.

The late Mr. Chute had been in poor health for some little time back and his decease was not unexpected. His passing removes a life long resident of the town, a quiet unobtrusive citizen who pursued an even tenor of life and held the respect and esteem of those with whom he was associated. He leaves to mourn the loss, three brothers, Jarvis with whom he resided; Oliver, also of Bridgetown, and Fletcher, of Bear River. He was a member of the Bridgetown Baptist Church and a man of retiring disposition but exemplary life. At the time of his death he was sixty-four years of age.

BIG SALT MINE AT FALMOUTH

Mr. O. V. Kennedy While Boring For Oil Goes Through 11 Feet Of Splendid Quality Salt

Mr. O. V. Kennedy, of the firm of Kennedy and Kent, struck an unexpected source of wealth at Falmouth recently while boring for a company of which he is a member when a seam of salt eleven feet in thickness was entered and bored through. The company at the time were boring for oil of which certain amounts had been located in this neighborhood some ten years ago. Boring will be continued with the hope of also striking oil at the greater depth. However whether oil is found or not the company bid fair to establish the presence of a very valuable salt area. The salt is all appearance and test so far made is of unusual purity and rivals that of the famous Malaga mine. It is understood that steps are being taken to actively develop the area.

Dr. W. N. Hutchins, lately pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, the beautiful double ring service being used. The bride was becomingly attired in a white veil with lilies of the Valley. She carried a lovely bouquet of roses and ferns.

The church was artistically decorated for the occasion with ferns and cut flowers, asters, chrysanthemums and sweet alyssum. After the ceremony the large number of guests prepared to the home of the bride's parents when a light luncheon was served.

The bride and groom were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and useful presents from a host of relatives and friends of both parties by whom they are held in high esteem. #### CUPID BUSY IN FAMILY OF CAPT. O. O. W. PARKER

Following close upon the announcement recently of the engagement of Miss Helen Vivian Parker to Otto Dresel, comes the interesting news from New York that Helen Parker's sister, Josephine, second daughter of Captain and Mrs. Parker, became the bride of John W. McLetchie last Saturday.

The wedding was solemnized in the famous "little church around the corner," after which there was a wedding breakfast at the Hotel Holly, Washington Square.

Mrs. McLetchie received her education in San Francisco and is a graduate of the Children's Hospital in that city. She later went East to take a postgraduate course for some time at the operating room at the Methodist Episcopal Hospital of Brooklyn, New York. She is a brilliant and attractive girl of the blond type, and congratulations are being showered on the groom, who is in the commission business in Melrose, Mass., where the newlyweds will reside.

Captain and Mrs. Parker had a visit from their daughter in June and were not surprised at the happy culmination of the romance then whispered to them.

Another daughter of the Parkers, Mrs. W. Parrish, resides in Oakland, her husband being the head of the well known Parrish Draying Company of that city.

Mr. J. O. Sims, the London Fruit Broker, after concluding a very pleasant visit through the Annapolis Valley and returned to England by the S. S. "Empress of Britain" sailing from Quebec, reaching London a few days ahead of the S. S. "South Western Miller" which carried the first consignment of our apples to the London markets. Mr. Sims informs us that it is ten years since he last visited the apple growers of Nova Scotia and is returning to England much impressed by the hearty welcome he has received from his many old friends in the Valley and wishes to thank them all once again through these columns for their very kind hospitality. He informs us that shipping conditions have changed considerably during recent years. Today many growers are again able to ship their own apples. Several small companies of growers have been recently formed; these men have built warehouses at various points on the Valley and now intend packing and shipping their fruit to the Broker in G. B. of their choice. Many of these growers were shippers to Mr. Sims as far back as twenty-six years ago and expressed much pleasure at meeting him prior to the opening of the approaching exporting season.

CORRESPONDENCE

MONITOR, Bridgetown:
Gentlemen:—It is our pleasure to inform you as a motorist that we are putting on the market AN IMPROVED GASOLINE for automobiles and motor boats.

This excellent Gasoline will be the Nova Scotia market beginning about Monday September 11th, and will be known as "IMPERIAL PREMIER GASOLINE". Watch the newspapers for announcement.

The first question asked by the motorist will be, "Why is this Gasoline better?" and we cheerfully make reply:—

It has been specially manufactured at our Imperial Refinery for Gasoline engines to a definite standard for producing Quick Starting, Brisk Acceleration, Cleanliness, Uniformity, Power, Mileage and Economy and it is the result of exhaustive experiments by the most efficient chemists and engineers known to the oil industry.

Our Imperial Gasoline which was made specially for use in gasoline lighting systems and used by some of the motorists on account of its quick starting qualities, has been withdrawn from the market, for the reason that the new Imperial Gasoline will start a gasoline engine even more quickly than Queen, or any other brand of gasoline now available.

The best news follows—we will market this choice and specially made Gasoline at the old Premier PRICE. Look for the Red Ball Sign. Ask for IMPERIAL PREMIER GASOLINE. "Help the Maritime Provinces by buying Gasoline Manufactured in Nova Scotia."

Yours very truly,
IMPERIAL OIL, LIMITED,
S. S. Shafford, Mgr.

MONEY IN APPLES

Mr. Forsyth Smith, the Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner in Great Britain, whose headquarters are in Liverpool, comes once a year to Canada like a few other good things such as Christmas days and birthdays and his coming should be heralded by fruit growers as one of their greatest apostles in the industry since he bears an important annual message. His advocacies should claim the enthusiastic attention of all.

It is a regrettable fact that, in this part of the world where fruit growing is an industry of paramount importance, Mr. Smith's messages should not be more largely attended. There were addresses this year in Kentville, Hantsport, Berwick, Canimac and Kingston. Mr. Smith's mission to the Province is now over and he is on his way back to England having toured since July, Ontario and British Columbia.

The first part of the addresses I attended was commentary upon the Daily Mail Fruit show of last year held at the Crystal Palace, London, which exhibition I had the pleasure of visiting.

Mr. Forsyth Smith very strongly urged the participation of Nova Scotia in the coming show which is being appointed on even a larger and more elaborate scale than last year and up to a time nearly at the end of his stay in the Province it looked as though nothing would be done to gather and send an exhibit but fortunately at the Berwick meeting the matter was taken up and arrangements will be made. The Commissioner felt that Nova Scotia could ill afford not to be represented since the other competitive Provinces are entering.

No one factor previous to the Daily Mail Fruit show of last year advertised British Commonwealth apples on such a scale and to such an extent and the awards resulting from that show were made good use of to further popularize the use of the king of fruits, the apple. There is on foot in England at the present time a scheme of considerable magnitude to advertise principally the apple but it is expected to embrace a good many of the important fruits.

The most important single item on the Commissioner's programme was undoubtedly that concerning grading and packing and the elimination of the number three grade from overseas markets. His message in these regards is by no means a new one and is repeated for the effect it may have and the good it may do towards improvement and progress. I believe that Mr. Smith's sympathies are with us and has our interests at heart. Being himself Nova Scotian I am almost tempted to treat his advocacies in this connection as an appeal, an appeal for the better and the best package.

A second hand pack is at once a second hand article by comparison with the ideal standard, and even if it may be worth financially just as much as a new or just as serviceable a commodity, cannot be expected to return anything but a second hand price.

As a rule employees in a packing room do not realize this, and much less do they care. Therein is the great difficulty. Cannot some incentive be given to labor in the shape of a bonus or percentage on returns as a measure to instigate interest and specialization at this stage of the game? The grower may do all in his power with the help of the up-to-date practices advised by the cultural apostles in our midst, to produce an excellent crop of fruit, but his efforts may be depreciated by the single operation in the cycle, that of poor packing. No grower wishes to send to market a second class commodity for which he receives an unsatisfactory price.

I stood for a few seconds the other day in the packing room of a warehouse in the Annapolis Valley and saw a man take a basket of graded fruit and pour the contents into the bottom of an almost empty barrel from elbow height, like so much liquid! Its enough to make hearts break!

Reputations for local brands can be built to rate the confidence of the market. The trade is always on the lookout for the best stuff and are prepared to pay on its merits. Persons keenly interested in the marketing of fruit would do well if time could be spared, to visit the overseas markets to study the system and see for themselves the fluctuations of values due to imperfect grading and packing. The increased returns resulting from a pre-eminent reputable pack may be counted in dollars per barrel.

It is not generally known that on the arrival of a cargo of apples at a market port, the barrels as they are unloaded are sorted in the dock warehouses into variety, grade and origin. Samples are opened under supervision, by the representatives of the wholesale trade and detailed notes are taken as to the appearance and condition of the contents. This examination takes place before sale and in the case of the auction sales where the wholesalers assemble from a large area of the country to bid and buy from the hammer they know each lot comes along its worth. They do not buy pigs in pecks. It

WHAT CAUSES SO MUCH SICKNESS

Constipation Responsible for 90% of Disease

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Corrects It

It is generally recognized among the medical profession that Constipation or Insufficient Action of The Bowels, produces more disease than any other one cause. Constipation is responsible for at least 90% of the disease in the world today—because Constipation is responsible for the Indigestion and Dyspepsia—the nervousness, Insomnia and Rheumatism—the Eczema and other skin troubles—the Headaches and Backaches.

Why is this? As you know, it is the duty of the bowels to carry off the waste matter in the system. If the bowel muscles are weak or the liver inactive, then this waste matter remains in the body and poisons the blood. As a result, every organ in the body is poisoned by this waste.

"Fruit-a-tives" has been wonderfully successful in relieving Stomach Troubles, Nervous Troubles, Liver Troubles, Kidney Troubles, Skin Troubles and Blood Troubles, because "Fruit-a-tives" positively and emphatically relieves Constipation. "Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Constipation, even though the trouble has been chronic for ten, fifteen and twenty years. Thousands of grateful users proclaim "Fruit-a-tives" the greatest remedy for Constipation that the world has ever known.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

Atlee, a native of Annapolis Royal, has been appointed Halifax, has been appointed gynecologist to the Victoria General Hospital, and also to the post of Professor of Gynecology at Dalhousie University. He was medical officer at St. Mary's Infirmary, in charge of the Women's Surgical Wards. In 1914 Dr. Atlee joined the R.A.M.C., and served at Gallipoli, Egypt and Macedonia. He was awarded the Military Cross in 1915, and twice mentioned in despatches, leaving the army with the rank of Major.

After the war Dr. Atlee spent two years in further post-graduate work in London, specializing in the diseases peculiar to women. He studied under Donney, Blair, Bell and Sir Harold Stiles. Dr. Atlee referred to is a son of Ex-Mayor A. E. Atlee, of Annapolis, and has hosts of friends in the county who are pleased to learn of these recognitions of his ability.—Ed. Monitor.

EUROPEAN CONDITIONS

A recent report of the British Federal Department of Commerce states that the German Merchant Marine has recovered all its pre-war trade routes. This includes the re-establishment of the old German line to Australia which restores "the final link in the great chain of ocean trade routes controlled by Germany in the Spring of 1914."

This is a cold statement of facts facts from an authority which can be neither accused of bias or suspected of propaganda work. Facts of this kind ill accord with the pitiful cry set up in Germany of inability to meet war obligations and make reparation for destruction of property and injury done defenceless peoples during the late war.

France held out that Germany should make reparation. The stories of industrial decay, loss of money and man power must, to a considerable, be discounted heavy as they were. Germany did not experience the fate of France whose finest industrial sections were ruined and whose industries are as yet only partially restored. The war closed with all German industrial establishments practically unharmed by bombs or shells. Germany, of course, must have trade redeveloped to successfully handle the problems with which the nation has to deal, but it was certainly not expected that she should so soon regain control of her old sea routes. Germany, while whining about her inability to make reparation, has been steadily reconstructing and developing her industrial fabric, while she looks on a portion of the world still filled with strife, the aftermath of the war which drenched Europe with blood and untold miseries, the effects of which will endure through many years. The author of her own creating develops her strength industrially and financially, while disension, misery and unrest fill the countries which were pawns in a game of which the stakes were so tremendous. A grim albeit, a whining Germany sits among the ruins calmly studying how the miseries of a warring world can be turned for her own material advantage. The peoples of Europe, still walk around smouldering volcanoes which require all the resources of statesmanship and diplomacy to keep from a state of active irruption which will involve the world again in carnage.

The trouble between Turkey and Greece is one of the cases in point where actual war has been maintained and Turkey apparently silenced for a time, remains what was considered lost. For Greece there is perhaps little sympathy as there is little for Russia. The good work of the latter, the tremendous sacrifices in the late war were of enormous assistance to the Allies, but the aid given then is lost sight of in the perfidy which followed. Turkey has, in the past, maintained herself through disarreement and disension among Christian nations and is still, for the same reason, permitted to inflict barbarities of an almost unexampled nature upon unarmed and defenceless peoples.

Of all the world Britain alone takes any stand against the Turks, and any stand which she does take involves unrest and dissatisfaction among her millions of Mohammedan subjects and thru the whole Mohammedan world. These facts coupled with Christian nation disension permits the Turks to remain but a partially and infrequently curbed blot upon civilization. Britain alone of all the nations will make any active movement for the principles of right and equity without the positive assurances of material advantage. Even in the land of our own Uncle Sam only sporadic protests against barbarities are heard. The United States might have remedied many an injustice had she accepted a mandate for Armenia, but philanthropic work of a National character involving any possibilities of warfare is not a part of her National program. It is difficult for Britain to act alone because of National jealousies and disensions, but it seems that what Britain cannot or will not do, must be forever left undone.

THANKLESS JOB

(Montreal Gazette)

Fuel controllers will have a thankless task during the coming months. The United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington has declared that, whatever efforts miners and operators may make, there will be an acute shortage of anthracite. Naturally the price will be high though this will not be all the direct result of the strike. Since 1913, the Chamber of Commerce says, the labor cost of the annual supply of seventy million tons of anthracite has risen from $113,329,000 to $288,961,000, the labor cost of each ton from $1.59 to $3.50. This means a heavy increase in cost at the mine's mouth. It does not account for the whole of the increased charges the consumer has been paying, and will continue to pay.

OBITUARY

The death of Harriet C. wife of Leo Drury, of Somerville, Mass. took place at the Somerville Hospital on September 4th, 1922. Mrs. Drury was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Willett, of Dorchester, Mass., formerly of Granville Centre, where she lived until fourteen years ago, when the family removed to Massachusetts. She was married just one short year ago. She leaves to mourn, a devoted husband and infant daughter, also her parents, two sisters, Mrs. Philip Devenney, Mrs. Joseph Pickford, all of Dorchester, Mass., and a half brother, Louis Willett, of Eliot, Maine. To all the sorrowing relatives we extend our deepest sympathy.

CLEMENTSPORT

"THE QUEEN OF THE BASIN"

Another three master is loading lumber at the wharf. The coming and going of these vessels make the port look more like old time. So say our sages.

We were mistaken regarding the moose that appears on the C. N. R. Timetables being that shot by Mr. Romans. The cut of that head is on the game laws.

Mrs. John Low left Saturday, 30th Sept., for a few days visit to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Vroom, Middleton. While away Mrs. Low will take in the Exhibition at Annapolis Royal.

Dr. Walter Dickie and Mrs. Dickey called to see their friends at the Rectory on Monday, the 25th Sept., while en route from Kentville to their home in Barton, Digby County.

The Rev. A. W. L. Smith also heard the call and a few hours by the Moose River above the old Trimmer place—gave him nine nice trout—"Au Revolv" speckled beauties until May 1st, 1922.

The moose season is open—and parties have already gone into the woods. On Saturday, 30th inst., Mr. L. Y. Shaw, Mr. John Shaw and Mr. Owen Balcorn, left for Big Lake and the Mississippi hunting grounds. We wish them success.

The campaign for the School for the Blind is not yet complete. Returns are in from Misses Vera Mailman and Vera Hardwick, Upper Clements; Miss Anna Robertson and Miss Florence Potter. The full report will appear next week. If any are not canvassed kindly send your contribution to the Rectory.

Congratulations to the ancient town on its Exhibition. We feel sure of its success, and trust it may hold one annually. Such events are of great educational value to the whole countryside. We hope the Clementsport people will give it their whole-hearted support by attending in large numbers.

The last day of the trout fishing season called forth the veteran angler Capt. Amos Burns, who, accompanied by Mr. Wallace Berry, went to the Back Line brook, where they spent the afternoon of a beautiful Summer's day. We have not yet had any report of their catch but if it is in any proportion to their intentions and vocabulary—it will be a record.

Mr. Warren D. Chase returned from Piantsville, Conn., on Saturday, Sept. 30th. He and Mrs. Chase and family will go back to their home in a few days. We wish them a pleasant Winter and an early return to their Summer residence here. Mr. Chase, since his advent here, has been a most energetic member of the community, investing in property and developing it. He and his wife have made many friends in Clementsport.

Reminiscences Of Bye-Gone Days

(By G. E. DeWitt, M. D.)

Seven decades seems at times to be quite a long period to look back upon, and yet memory recalls many incidents that happened then and many of the men and women with kindly faces lived then, but who are not with us now.

If I were to tell you how old I was seventy years ago you would, by exercising a little mental arithmetic, know my age, but I am not going to tell you. Some people are very sensitive upon the subject. You have doubtless heard the story of the census taker, who, when calling upon an elderly spinster asked of her, her age, she hesitated about giving it. Two or three young women by the name of Hill, lived next door. The spinster asked the census taker if he had called upon the Miss Hill. Yes, he replied, did they give their ages; yes, well said the elderly spinster I am as old as the Hill's.

Seventy years ago the old stage coach rattled up and down the street drawn by four horses and driven by John Pineo and Mason Pineo. Seventy years ago the farmer mowed grass with the old hand scythe, raked hay with the old hand rake and pitched it off the load with the old hand fork.

Drew loads of hay, wood and stone with oxen, ploughed the fields with oxen drawing the plough. Seventy years ago the lights in the houses were from the old tallow dip or candle and the old fluid lamp. Seventy years ago the water used for domestic purposes was drawn from the old well with the old oaken bucket. Seventy years ago there were no screens to the windows and doors of the dwelling. Seventy years ago the doctors raced up and down the Valley on the Mountains, North and South, because of epidemics of typhoid fever administering calomel one day and opium the next to the fever tossed and delirious patients. He did not stop to observe whether or not the sink drain seeped into the well; whether the pig sty and barnstable were saturating the ground with their waste near the well, or whether the house fly had access to the milk in open pans in the pantry. In those days he did not observe these things.

He was there to cure the disease after it had come, not to prevent. Seventy years ago the fever stricken patient with head hot and burning, mouth and throat dry and parched, was not allowed to drink cold water. We have heard of the patient, who, becoming desperate, made up his mind if he had to die he might as well die quenching his thirst. Whereupon he managed to secure a quart of cold water and drank all of it. The doctor hearing of it would rush to the house and ask the attendant "Did the patient drink a quart of cold water?" Yes, "Is he alive? Yes. Then the doctor hastened into the room, felt the patient's pulse, found him resting and perspiring freely. "Did you drink a quart of cold water?" Yes, "My, my, God, what a constitution you have got."

As my memory reverts to the men of seventy years ago and more who were working and planning for Bridgetown and who are not with us now, my thoughts are tinged with sadness.

They were the Thornes, the Ruggles, or, to be more explicit— Stephen S. Thorne, who represented the County of Annapolis, in the Provincial Legislature for thirty years. Stephen Thorne Jr., and James H. Thorne; W. H. Troop, Alexander Troop, J. C. Troop, Thomas Spurr, Edwin Morse, Joseph Wheelock, Geo. Murdock, Samuel Nolley, Robert Fitz Randolph, Thomas James, Richard James, I. B. Bennett, John McCoy, Timothy D. Ruggles, Edward Ruggles, Avery Piper, Col. Pounts, Wm. Y. Foster, Israel Foster, John Kervin, Enoch Dodge, Robert Beth, Hanson Chesley, John Easson, W. H. Chipman, Wm. Morse, Robert Ansley, Edward Eaton.

The Clergymen were the Rev. Dr. James Robertson, of the Episcopal Church, later the Rev. Mr. Campbell, Rev. Mr. Millage and the Rev. H. P. Almon.

Of the Methodist Church, the Rev. Mr. Pickles, Rev. Daniel, the Rev. Wilson and later the Rev. Dr. Hartz.

The Lawyers were, Timothy D. Ruggles, Silas Morse, and James R. Smith. The latter practiced law in the village about twelve years and then removed to Dartmouth. He was the father of the late Henry Smith, a grandson of James R. Smith. Mr. Frederick Fay is one of the worthy citizens of this town. Later the firm of Ruggles & Thorne. They were called the honest lawyers. They seldom lost a case in court for the reason that they would advise a client to settle his case out of court if his chances were against him gaining his suit. The only time I ever heard of Mr. Ruggles getting a thrashing was an incident of which he related himself. Mr. Ruggles was fond of taking exercise on horse back, he was a member of the three days sitting race on a well ground horse which was not but one before being run down the street. One day he drew rein before a farmer's barn where the farmer was thrashing hay seed with the old hand flail. Hello, said Mr. Ruggles. Adolphus, what are you up to today? Adolphus, continuing to beat with his flail, "I am thrashing Timothy," sir. This was the only time I ever heard of Mr. Ruggles getting a thrashing.

The doctors of the village were: Dr. Forsyth, Dr. V. S. Parker, Earlier, Dr. Johnson, Dr. Cochran and Dr. Oakes. The latter, I am told, was on hand when I was born.—Here my memory fails to recall the incident. Later the late Dr. DeBlais, who at one time related to me an amusing incident in his practice. He was called on on yonder South Mountain to see a patient whom he found suffering with a severe cold. After prescribing for the patient, he directed the wife to give him a thorough sponge bath the morning and night, after the sponging to wrap him around with a blanket, and he would call again in a few days. When he called again and met the patient's wife, he asked, "How is Mr. Ramey?" "O doctor, he is stuck stiff and I can't get the sponge off of him." "Why, what has happened?" "Why," she said, "I made a bread sponge and rubbed it all over him and wrapped him in a blanket, and now I can't get the blanket off, it hurts him so." I believe the patient lived, nevertheless.

The school teachers were: Wm. H. Shipley and Thomas Crosskill. Later, George Munro, Wm. Calreck, Marsden Coldwell and the Rev. Alexander Romans. Mr. Shipley taught school for a longer period in Bridgetown than any former or succeeding teacher. He was a familiar figure as he walked from his house, situated on the East side of the Baptist Church, to the school house, where the Court House now stands, with head erect, shoulders back and measured step, ever courteous and kind to whom he met.

It was Mr. Crosskill's hard task to teach me to spell, read, write, grammar, arithmetic, geography and history. Mr. Crosskill was thorough in his methods, never failing to use the rod or ruler on the disobedient and unruly. The pupil would frequently be called to the desk and commanded to hold out his hand, palm upward, and receive one, two, three slaps, as the case merited, with a heavy mahogany ruler. Mr. Crosskill was an excellent pen man. When teaching us to write he would make us sit with pen in hand for several minutes with the hand in the upright position, not upon the side. He would walk around among the pupils and when he observed the hand in a careless position, down would come the ruler upon the knuckles. I can feel the tingling yet.

We were taught to spell, not as they are taught in the schools to spell today, but by pronouncing every syllable and we were commanded to study our lessons out loud. For instance, the word valetudinarian, we would sing out in chorus, va le tu di na ri an. I can hear him in the chorus yet. When he detected a wrong spelling he would point to the pupil to stop and make him correct it.

I cherish the memory of Thomas Crosskill.

The politicians as I remember them who frequently visited the town and Charles Tupper, the Hon. J. C. Troop county were; the Hon. J. W. Johnstone, the Hon. Joseph Howe and Dr. and Avard Longley came into politics later the days when Johnstone and Howe appeared in the town were days of hurrah! You doubtless know what historians say of the Hon. J. W. Johnstone, that he was a man of unflinching integrity. Highly versed in the law of the land, a peerless statesman and a Christian gentleman. The Hon. Joseph, a delightful personality, his face radiating kindness and humor. In conversation with Sir Charles Townsend a few days ago who said he well remembered Howe when he would come into the county of Cumberland. How the people would rejoice. He came into close touch with the people as an orator, said Sir Charles. He was unequaled in Canada in his day. Of broad jest and humor he was unexcelled not excepting Sir John A. MacDonnell. He was a frequent visitor not only in the homes of the rich, but of those in humble circumstances as well.

Sir Charles Tupper, one of the trio of politicians, familiar to the people of the town and county. Before the time he was elected in Cumberland in 1855, a man possessing a magnetic and unique personality, a fighter to the finish who, although he took his political life in his hand framed, introduced and carried to completion the Public School Bill. When the Hon. Joseph Howe was defeated in Cumberland Mr. Howe said to some of his friends when he returned to Halifax "I have been defeated by the future leader of the Conservative party. That venerable and astute statesman and politician recognized the rare qualities of mind and action which characterized Sir Charles Tupper in his political career."

The first time I saw Sir Charles Tupper was in 1856 when he and the Hon. J. W. Johnstone were met here with a large procession. On an Oak tree in front of the home of Benjamin Saunders was erected a flag on which was written the words "May the Conservative Live as Long as the Olden Oak". On another flag put up in the village by a Liberal who had evidently read Tennyson's Brock were the words "The Oak May Come and the Oak May Go, But the Liberals Go on Forever."

I remember the agitation and antagonism caused by the Public School Bill the enforcement of taxation for its support. Meetings were held in the Session's House and prominent men principally Dr. Theodore H. Rand expressed the nature and merits of the bill. Many men and women sat and listened grimly and manifested their disapprobation of the bill. The bill, however, was carried in 1864 and the enforcement for the assessment of property in 1865. Then after the bill had been in force there were several in the village and school district who had not paid their taxes for the support of the schools and declared they would not pay. A young man returning in the Spring of 1868 from Dalhousie College was asked by Joseph Wheelock, the Acting Magistrate, and others, to take upon himself the obligation of Constable for the purpose of collecting the taxes. This young man being possessed with some masculine conceit and the sophistry of a freshman equipped with the necessary documents to attach property raffled forth on horseback to interview the delinquent rate payers. Some of them paid without much demur, others murmured a good deal whereupon, this conceited young Constable would proceed to round up a pair of oxen. When the old farmer would come down with the coin others refused to pay property was attached and taken into custody, advertised and sold at public auction at Thorne's Corner. I do not hear ever after that the act had to be repeated. The tax payers yielding to the inevitable, "The law must be obeyed."

Confederation became the great political topic in 1865, 1866 and 1867, politics waxed hot. The Hon. J. A. Troop and Avard Longley were nominees of their party. Hon. Joseph Howe came and addressed the people. One party said to the other "If you vote for confederation you are selling your birthright for the price of a sheepskin."

On July 1st, 1867, Dominion Day was declared. There was a gay and festive day yet. The Conservatives there were gamblers on the common near where the school house now stands. There was pole vaulting and hammer throwing. Men of brawn were there. Roy and Angus McLellan the champion hammer throwers of Canada, who made their headquarters in Bridgetown, while constructing the Windsor and Annapolis railway, were there. In the early hours of the morning, midnight and day dawn, two of the church bells, the Baptist and Anglican, rang out, "Dominion Day" A gathering of the chief conservatives of the town and outlying districts was held in Victoria Hall. A banquet provided and addresses were made by the chief Conservatives present. When the Free Press was published, the Editor, Angus M. Gidney, said that the two miscreants who committed sacrilege by entering the churches in the early hours of the morning disturbing people in their slumbers, were given a free ticket to the banquet. One of the miscreants was the conceited Constable who collected the overdue school rates. The other was the Editor of the Western News. The Hon. J. C. Troop, in commenting on the banquet in the Free Press, said: "The Bacchanalian revelers at the Belshazzar feast read their doom in the hand writing upon the wall."

While we have referred to the men of 100-or more years ago who were active in making a better Bridgetown, shall we forget to pay tribute to the women also? Had they no part in the culture, improvement and advancement of their sons and daughters, many of whom today are among the inheritors of this pretty town nestled in the heart of the Annapolis Valley, the latter the most beautiful and productive of any of the same area in Canada. While we pay tribute to the men of the past century, shall we not render tribute to our mothers of the period who, although they had no vote to say who shall or shall not sit in the Legislature Halls of the country, or who shall manipulate the Municipal affairs of the county. Yet without naming them as we have the men, they were there all the same—knitting our socks and stockings, toiling at the spinning wheel, teaching

Last Sunday was Rally Day in the Baptist Sunday School. A large number were present and enjoyed a short program of songs, Scripture readings and recitations, after which the various classes took up the study of the first lesson in the series which is to run through the remainder of the year in the Life of Christ.

Some idea of the excellent quality of the 1922 apple crop in this section of the Valley may be obtained from the fact that from 113 barrels of Gravensteins from the orchard of Mr. Cyril Hiltz, 98 barrels packed out No. 1 quality, 8 barrels graded No. 2, four graded domestic and 2 1/2 No. 3. The above results, we believe, constitute a record in quality fruit.—Berwick Register.

The case was put into the hands of Chief Boyd Bishop who located and arrested the disappearing one within 24 hours of the time the theft was committed. The girl at the time of arrest was just outside of Annapolis and was preparing to get into an automobile to journey farther when the Chief arrived on the scene.

History

(Written by Ida M. Marshall)

West Dalhousie is situated thirty miles south-east of Annapolis Royal and was named for Lord Dalhousie who rode through this district on horseback when on his way from Annapolis to Halifax before a road was made.

The first settlement was made by soldiers who had fought in the battle of Waterloo (1815). They were chiefly English, Irish and Scotch. They were granted by the English Government about one hundred and thirty acres each, each soldier receiving also one hundred acres. Besides the land they were given rations for the years and pensions for life time. The grants were given on the 12th of July 1817. Some began to clear and cultivate in 1818.

These people did not find the land cleared and ready for settlement. They were almost discouraged when they found that they had to make a home in the wilderness.

After a site was selected, the houses were built of logs, then the trees had to be cut down and disposed of. The people of these early times had a way of turning work into play by helping each other in what they called a "pling frolic" or "logging line" at which all the men gathered into a neighbours "burnt land", rolled the logs into a heap and burned them to ashes. The carts and wooden implements that were used were chiefly made by hand.

The women carded and spun the wool and wove the yarn into home spun which was used for making the family clothing.

The houses, as I said before, were made of logs and as stoves and furnaces were not thought of just then the kitchen was supplied with a broad open fireplace and an iron crane. The crane was used for hanging on the pots and kettles in which the meals were cooked. Fuel was supplied from the neighboring forests. A large log was placed in the back of the fireplace and in front were the smaller sticks which rested on long narrow stumps or adirons.

There were no matches in these early times to light a fire, and fire was obtained by striking a flint sharply with a bar of steel.

When the fire was once kindled it was seldom allowed to die out. At night a hardwood brand was covered with ashes and by morning this would be burned to a bed of coals. Sometimes the brand used was too small and by morning it would be burned to ashes. Then fire was obtained by striking the flint, or the children were sent to a neighbors to "borrow fire". Tallow candles were used instead of lamps.

When the settlement was first made the only means of travelling was on foot or on horseback, by a narrow path to Annapolis which was the nearest town. But after the land was cleared so that crops could be raised the farm produce was taken there to be sold or exchanged for tea, sugar, flour, etc., in most cases farm produce had to be used in its place. As the travelling increased a road was built so that carts could be used. These were drawn by oxen and later horses were also used. The Dalhousie Road, as it was called, extended from Annapolis to what is now known as Albany, where the Halifax and South Western Railway runs across, a distance of about thirty miles. About three miles above the settlement of Dalhousie West a branch road was built called the Morse Road, so called for a man of the name of Morse who owned land where the road was laid out. This road was extended to Bridgetown and another settlement was made on it.

By 1820 the settlers had made a good start and the number of inhabitants had increased to 350 including 50 women and 188 children.

In 1825 the western end of the Dalhousie Road was changed so as to get rid of some of the hills. Another branch road was also made south of the Dalhousie Road and was named Township Road. Two towns were to be built, one on the Town-

History of West Dalhousie

(Written by Ida M. Marshall.)

West Dalhousie is situated thirteen miles south-east of Annapolis Royal. It was named for Lord Dalhousie who made through this district on horseback when on his way from Annapolis to Halifax before a road was made.

The first settlement was made by soldiers who had fought in the battle of Waterloo (1815). They were chiefly English, Irish and Scotch. There were about fifty soldiers in all and were granted by the English Government one hundred and thirty lots of land, each soldier receiving about one hundred acres. Besides the land they were given rations for three years and pensions for life time. The grants were given on the 12th of July, 1817. Some began to clear and cultivate in 1818.

These people did not find the land cleared and ready for settlement and were almost discouraged when they found that they had to make a home in the wilderness.

After a site was selected, rude houses were built of logs, then the trees had to be cut down and disposed of. The people of these early times had a way of turning work into play by helping each other in what they called a "piling frolic" or "logging line" at which all the men gathered into a neighbours "burnt land", rolled the logs into a heap and burned them to ashes. The carts and wooden implements that were used were chiefly made by hand.

The women carded and spun the wool and wove the yarn into homespun which was used for making the family clothing.

The houses, as I said before, were made of logs and as stoves and furnaces were not thought of just then the kitchen was supplied with a broad open fireplace and an iron crane. The crane was used for hanging the pots and kettles in which the meals were cooked. Fuel was supplied from the neighboring forests. A large log was placed in the back of the fireplace and in front were the smaller sticks which rested on long narrow stones or andirons.

There were no matches in these early times to light a fire, and fire was obtained by striking a flint sharply with a bar of steel.

When the fire was once kindled it was seldom allowed to die out. At night a hardwood brand was covered with ashes and by morning this would be burned to a bed of coals. Sometimes the brand used was too small and by morning it would be burned to ashes. Then fire was obtained by striking the flint, or the children were sent to a neighbors to "borrow fire".

Tallow candles were used instead of lamps.

When the settlement was first made the only means of travelling was on foot or on horseback, by a narrow path to Annapolis which was the nearest town. But after the land was cleared so that crops could be raised the farm produce was taken there to be sold or exchanged for tea, sugar, flour, etc., money was rather scarce so that in most cases farm produce had to be used in its place. As the travelling increased a road was built so that carts could be used. These were drawn by oxen and later horses were also used. The Dalhousie Road, as it was called, extended from Annapolis to what is now known as Albany where the Halifax and South Western Railway runs across a distance of about thirty miles. About three miles above the settlement of Dalhousie West a branch road was built called the "Moose Road", so called for a man of the name of Morse who owned land where the road was laid out. This road was extended to Bridgetown and another settlement was made on it.

By 1820 the settlers had made a good start and the number of inhabitants had increased to 350 including 80 women and 188 children.

In 1827 the western end of the Dalhousie Road was changed so as to get rid of some of the hills. Another branch road was also made south of the Dalhousie Road and was named Township Road. Two towns were to be built, one on the Township Road and another by Lake Clear on the Dalhousie Road. The first one mentioned was to be called Ramsey for the son of Lord Dalhousie and a great many lots of land were given to men who had trades so as to settle the towns; but the plans were never carried out.

The journey to Annapolis was a rather tedious one, but the women folks as well as the men thought nothing of walking there with a basket of eggs or butter to supply the family wants, and to get the mail as the nearest post office was there. No stamps were used then and it cost one shilling to send a letter. They also went to Annapolis to draw their pensions every three months.

One of the soldiers widows, a Mrs. Ingles by name, was walking from Annapolis sometime during the year 1832 and was murdered by a man named Gregory. It seemed that Gregory wanted to hire a horse from her and she refused. This made him very angry and, knowing that she went to Annapolis on a certain day, he went too. On the day home he overtook her and murdered her. Gregory made a confession and was hung. The place where the murder took place is still called the "Ingles Swamp".

The first school house was built of logs and the first teacher was Jas. Aull. He was a free-mason and was given a lot of land in the Township. He received his salary from the English Government and taught until 1831. His successors were paid by the people of the district. They did not board with the same family while they were teaching but "boarded around" as it was called. That is they boarded a while with each family. The length of time depending on the number of children sent to school. Teachers could not always be hired for a year at a time and

The Way To Be Well

Good Health Maintained Through Rich, Red Blood.

There are many men and women who, every few weeks, have spells of weakness, during which time they are little better than invalids; yet at other times they feel very well. Why does their health fluctuate so?

In the case of men worry and over-trained nerves are usually responsible for this state of unfitness and inability to face the anxieties of daily life.

As for women, her back aches, she is dizzy with sick headaches, and often has stabbing pains in the side. The only real health is all-the-year-round health; and the secret of it is good, red blood and plenty of it. One way to keep the blood in good condition is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. There is scarcely a nook or corner in Canada where someone will not be found who will tell you the benefit they have had through the use of these pills. And the reason is that through the improved condition of the blood they strengthen and tone up the nerves of worried, enfeebled men and women, and at the same time have given new vigor to pale, delicate girls and thin weedy boys. The value of these pills in all run down conditions is shown by the statement of Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Walton, N. S., who says:—"When I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a weak, bloodless and nervous condition, suffering from all the depressing symptoms that accompany this run down state of health. I had taken much medicine but it did not do me any good, and as I had a family of small children, I was much discouraged. Then reading about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them, and I can honestly say that I feel these pills have saved me from prolonged misery. My health is now good, and we now keep the pills in the house for use as a family medicine."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ship Road and another by Lake Clear on the Dalhousie Road. The first one mentioned was to be called Ramsey for the son of Lord Dalhousie and a great many lots of land were given to men who had trades so as to settle the towns; but the plans were never carried out.

The first church built was the Episcopal Church in 1837. The first rector was the Rev. E. Gilpin who was also rector of St. Lukes' Church at Annapolis Royal. Before the Church was built the people of Dalhousie attended service at Annapolis whenever it was possible, they also buried their dead there.

The first frame house was built in 1820 which is still standing on the farm of Jane A. Marshall. The boards used in building this house were sawn from timbers by hand. A hole was first dug in the ground and the timber was placed above it. One man got down into the hole while another stood on top of the timber and pulled the saw up and the other pulled it down until a board the length of the timber was sawn off. This process was continued until the required amount of boards were sawn. The laths were also split by hand.

In building the houses birch bark was put between the boards and shingles. Most of the houses only contained two rooms upstairs and two downstairs. Soon after this was built a frame school house to take the place of the old one built of logs. Improvements have been made from time to time.

All Saints' Episcopal Church was built near "Lake Clear" of which the Rev. John Reeks is now rector and West Dalhousie is now included in Rosette Parish. This parish includes "Round Hill", "Moscovelle" and several small settlements.

The dwelling houses are generally better than those usually found in country places. Other churches have been erected at the "Hill", both Baptist and Methodist.

Some of the scenery in West Dalhousie is very beautiful. "Lake Clear" about one half a mile long and wide, is a grand place for trouting, also "North Lake". Besides these there are several large brooks which attract visitors especially during the trouting season. I might also mention "Lake Alma", well known to lovers of both the rod and the gun all over Annapolis County.

The acreage of cultivated land on the farms is not so large as it is in the neighboring Valley, and lumbering is the chief industry.

A Rotary saw mill operated by water power was built near "Lake Clear" in 1915, which takes the place of the old "up and down mill" previously used. Several mills are now operated in other parts of West Dalhousie, both steam and water mills.

For a long time there has been an exodus of people, chiefly the young, from W. Dalhousie, the cause being chiefly the greater attractions that town and city life seems to offer to the young. Many of those people are to be found in Bridgetown, in fact all through the Valley, and also in the Eastern States. Among those well known in Bridgetown are the Andersons, Dadds, Taylors, Durlings, Gillises, Torgies and many others.

SONGS OF A BLUEOSE

O, Love, Do You Remember When—
(By Platonian.)
O, Love, do you remember when,
In those old days of Summer weather,
For getting cares of book and pen
We walked these fields together!

The brooks and trees were full of song,
For Heaven and earth had come together,
And life was sweet, and love was strong,
And it was pleasant weather.

And, Love, do you remember how,
'One night it that glad Summer weather,
We pledged beneath the pines a vow
To walk life's path together?

At twenty-one there's no alloy
In life for two fond hearts together,
Then all the world is full of joy,
And it is pleasant weather.

But, Love, not all our dreams came true
Since first we walked these fields together,
Not always clear the sky and blue,
Not always pleasant weather.

But life is sweeter now than then,
And we can face all kinds of weather,
And love is stronger now than when
We walked these fields together.

For we have learned, as all lives must
That walk life's rugged path together,
That perfect love is perfect trust
In every kind of weather.

So, sweetheart, come again with me,
And we will walk these fields together,
There's music still in brook and tree,
And it is pleasant weather.

SNOW IMPORTED FOR SKI EVENTS

For the first time the Canadian Pacific Railway carried snow as freight when it transported several carloads from Lake Louise to Calgary, where it was needed for the ski jumping in connection with the Winter Carnival.
