FUSION WITH GERMANY

Vienna, Jan. 17.—Aside from the demand for the right of collective bargaining there has been a further manifestation of the ever-increasing agitation for fusion with Germany, in the opinion of foreign observers in Vienna. This movement has been markedly recrudescing lately, numerous public meetings being held and there being much discussion of the situation in the newspapers. Another factor which is acting as propaganda for the fusion idea is the failure of the so-called Goode plan for reparations and of the big powers to renounce the country and rehabilitate industry.

Meantime, as the value of the crown decreases, prices are on the increase. Clothing and other necessaries are utterly beyond the reach of the masses. The rates of the unemployed are supplemented daily, while the presses continue their enormous output of paper money, which day by day becomes more worthless. The words of an allied diplomat here the situation today is on a hair-trigger and over all hangs the threat of the working men to turn things into their own hands on Jan. 20.

EXPLOSION CAUSES DUNDAS ST. FIRE

Occupants of Building Rush to Icy Street in Night Clothes.

Occupants of the building at 868 East Dundas street were early this morning driven to the icy streets in deathly, and were forced to seek shelter with neighbors when fire broke out on the top storey of the building. The fire was caused by a coal oil stove exploding, and the total damage to the building and contents was $1,400. The top floor is occupied by Sir William Walton. Loss to the contents on this flat was $200. The contents of the floor below, occupied by a Mrs. Thompson, a war widow, suffered to the extent of $200 by the fire.

Winnipeg Thinks Crerar and Fol- lowers Will Call for More Speed.

Winnipeg, Jan. 17.—There are signs here that when Hon. DRASTIC STEPS IN CORK IF DISORDERS CONTINUE

London, Jan. 17.—In a letter to the deputy mayor of Cork, relative to the request to remove martial law, Major-General Sir Edward Strickland, the British commander in Munster, says the present state of affairs in Cork cannot be allowed to continue, and that he "will be compelled to take such drastic measures as may seem necessary to make the lives of the crown forces secure from assassinations and cowardly attacks," says The Daily News. The latter adds, however, that General Strickland will be ready to give all possible consideration to the request if he sees signs that the inhabitants are willing to assist him.

Cattle Embargo Remains Pending Expert Advice

London, Jan. 17.—The ministry of agriculture has issued a report on Lord Lee's reply to the deputation which recently urged removal of the embargo on the importation of Canadian stock cattle. Lord Lee said that altho the ministry, of which he is president, endorsed Canada's clean bill of health, other countries were concerned besides Canada, and if legislation to this effect were passed, it would be impossible to limit its application to Canada.

SOLUTION IN SIGHT OF HOLLAND MURDER

Say Montreal Police Chief Holds Special Information in Reserve.

Montreal, Jan. 17.—(Can. Press.)—It is believed that Chief of Detectives LePage holds the solution of the murder of Wm. A. Holland, manager of the stock brokerage firm of MacDoughall Bros., who was shot and killed last Friday here, and that he will divulge its nature until the accused, Major R. M. Griffith, is brought to trial at the next term of the court of king's bench. This is the statement made today by a man in close touch with events that preceded the actual shooting.

RECREATIONS CURTAILED; YOUTH ENDS HIS LIFE

Leominster, Mass., Jan. 17.—Curtailed of his recreations, and the effect upon his unhappy mind of the sight of rope dangling from a beam were advanced today as possible explanations of the suicide of Oliver Carter Chaney, a high-school boy of 18 years whose body was found yesterday hanging in the attic of a deserted farmhouse. The boy disappeared Saturday afternoon. Companions of young Chaney said he had been greatly disturbed because he had been forbidden to skate or to attend a basketball game.

GOVERNMENT SEEKING NEW MEANS OF REVENUE

Federal House May Re-impose Canal Tolls—Supplemen- tary Revenue Methods Must Be Discovered—New Cana- dian Tariff May Contain Reciprocal Trade Proposals.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—(Special.)—In seeking new sources of revenue the government may reimpose canal tolls, abolished many years ago. This was indicated in the reply of the finance minister to the North Bay delegation, seeking the construction of the French River section of the Georgian Bay canal.

While the tariff will be the main subject before parliament at the coming session, the government in conjunction with its revision must also revise its other taxation proposals. The luxury tax is abolished; the business profits tax is going; and there remains but customs, excise, income and sales taxes. It is doubtful if the requisite four hundred million dollars annually can be obtained from these sources and supplementary revenue methods must be discovered and adopted.

FADS AND FRILLS DEFEAT SAVE TWO NEW SCHOOLS

World's Disclosures of Tabulated Cost of Proposed Building Expenditures Were Very Timely, Chief Inspector States —Task of Board of Control in Considering New Esti- mates.

Up to date the completion of 38 class-rooms in one building season have been the limit attained.

Chief Inspector R. H. Cowley of the board of education public schools section, said yesterday that The World's disclosures of the tabulated cost of the proposed building expenditures "was very timely."

With respect to the chief inspector's own little list of sites and buildings which are vacant and available, Mr. Cowley smiled and pointed out that it contained more than double the additional class-rooms which the board's building department had ever been able to construct in one year. So far as construction is concerned, it may therefore be regarded as a two-year program. As approved, the schedule calls for sixty new class-rooms.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 18

A Consolidated Street Car System First.

Notwithstanding all the writing in the evening papers about widening Yonge street and converging Church and Teraulay streets on upper Yonge street, the main and immediate problem is to get the Toronto Railway franchise at the earliest date possible, having regard to paying for it only what it is worth; and then coupling it up with the municipal lines and the radials within the city into one consolidated system at a single fare with a universal transfer at a moderate fare. And these tracks can remain just where they are until wider streets, new pavements, sewer channels and other things can be provided. It is a consolidated system that Toronto wants first.

The Political Highway.

Where is Premier Drury and the head men in the U. F. O. to get off at? Mr. Drury can't be blamed for trying to broaden the policy and the support of his government. It looks as if the Farmers wanted to narrow its range.

Why Shouldn't We Retaliate?

These are sad days for the free traders and the low tariff men. They find themselves losing their slogan of "wider markets." For years they have pictured Uncle Sam as a kind-hearted relative anxious to help us in every way, but prevented from giving full effect to his benevolent intentions by the churlish attitude of the Ottawa government. They had some little foundation for their argument in the fact that certain tariff reductions were made by the Underwood act of 1913 which gave freer access to the American market to wool, hides, grain, cattle and hogs. They persuaded themselves that we could greatly increase our exports to the United States by increasing our imports from that country. They confidently predicted that some measure of tariff reduction by Canada would bring about sweeping tariff reductions by the United States.

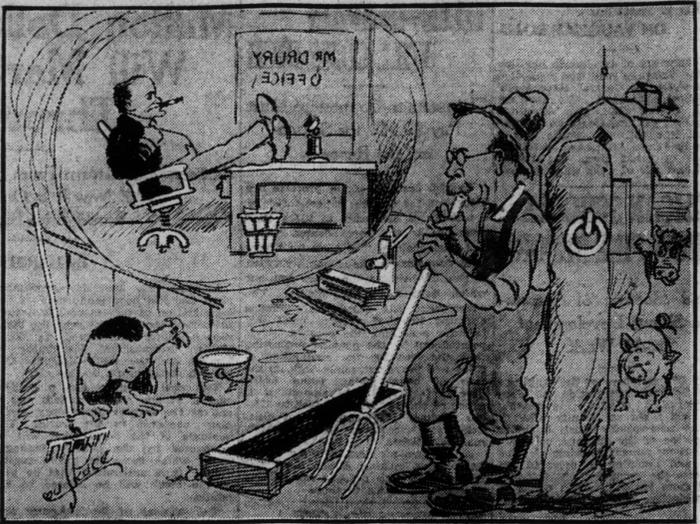

Now their milk is turning sour overnight. The United States is bent upon re-establishing a policy of high protection. The demand for protection comes even more insistently from the farmers than it does from the manufacturers. Indeed, the manufacturers show some alarm at the zeal of their new-found allies, and we have the amusing spectacle of Pennsylvania lagging behind North Dakota in the demand for a prohibitory tariff. Our neighbors, after brief experience with a low tariff, are now eager to erect the highest tariff ever constructed on the American continent.

An ordinary tariff is an ordinary matter of business. Every country raises money in that way, and nearly every country uses a tariff to protect its farmers, and manufacturers from undue foreign competition. There is no sentiment involved except the national sentiment. The obstruction to trade is merely incidental. Such a tariff is a shield, not a sword. But suppose a tariff be discriminatory against some particular country; or suppose under guise of tariff legislation imports from some other country are prohibited.

What is a nation to say when a neighboring nation says to her in effect: "We will buy nothing from you no matter how much we need it, no matter how low the quality or how low the price. We will consume nothing that is not grown or made in our own country, except coffee, silk and a few other things you cannot possibly furnish."

The obvious and natural reply would be a short sentence of three words, all of them of one syllable. It is a sentence too often used, because sometimes unduly emphatic. It tells the party of the second part in the briefest possible way to the place where no one complains about the cost of coal. Implementing this verbal reply the country aggrieved might very well say to its unneighborly neighbor: "You don't have to buy our goods and we don't have to buy yours. You can penalize our farmers and we can penalize your manufacturers. You can get along without us. We can get along without you."

A tariff war, a policy of non-intercourse, would be most undesirable between Canada and the United States. It would hurt Canada more; it would hurt the United States more. The United States is clearly the aggressor because Canada was buying

J. J. MORRISON: The hull trouble with Ed. Drury is he's gettin' too darn citified.

U. F. O. EXECUTIVE MAY CALL HALT ON DRURY

President Burnaby Stands With Secretary Morrison in Strong Opposition to Development of a People's Party, as Proposed by Premier—Drury Also Has Determined Backers.

Whether Premier Drury has the support of a majority of the members of the executive of the United Farmers of Ontario in his plan to develop a People's Party, is a question that will be determined at a meeting of that body tomorrow. In view of the attitude of criticism taken by Secretary J. J. Morrison on the issue is creating widespread interest.

It was made clear yesterday that Mr. Morrison has a strong support in President Burnaby of the U.F.O. Mr. Burnaby said:

"The premier has no right to speak for the U.F.O. without knowing the opinion of the U.F.O. His action in speaking at the meeting of the U.F.O. yesterday looked to me like autocracy rather than democracy. My objection to the premier's policy is that in throwing open the door to other interests the U.F.O. are in danger of being contaminated and of thus losing their purity of motive."

Speaking of Premier Drury's proposal of a people's party, Mr. Morrison said: "I think it is impracticable. There are so many economic differences that would come up in such an organization, that there would not be sufficient harmony to enable it to function properly. It is not natural for men to forget on what side their bread is buttered, and they vote that way."

But, on the other hand, Mr. Morrison emphatically denied that he favored a "class" government. He saw no reason why doctors and lawyers should not use their professional organizations to elect direct representatives of their class to parliament.

Drury's Illusion. "Mr. Drury is evidently laboring under a misapprehension. He does not see that his business is to help the support of the farmers and make all the other friends in the other classes that he can, it would appear to him that he is the sole benefactor of the farmers, and that, to give him a free hand, the farmers should give up their political and their political attainments and the means which they have organized of influencing the public administration. That I think they will not do."

"It should not be remembered that the sole power of saying what the organized farmers will or will not do rests with the delegates in general convention assemblies. Their struggle to establish democracy in their organization is a reflection of what they would establish in government. Sir Thomas White has said that the war debt would have to be paid from the top six inches of the soil. Are not for ambassadorial jobs such as exist in London, say, or Washington?"

A United States weather sharp is predicting mild winters for a term of years. Just at this moment we are even more partial to mild winters than we have been at any time since last March.

One-fifth of Moscow's population is in prison, but the popular Soviet government is too kind-hearted to keep them there long and has arranged for sixty to eighty executions a day to help out the situation. Keeping on at that rate Moscow will soon be unanimous in its support of Bolshevism.

Remarked in Passing. After a careful reading of that gentleman's recent utterances, one is forced to the opinion that Mr. M. M. MacBride, M.L.A., does not like Mr. Drury.

The question naturally arises towards what body of political opinion is Mr. Drury turning his eyes now that he is looking to take other than farmers into his political fold.

J. J. Morrison's direct appeal for class government is at least going to show which is the stronger, the government of this province or the extreme party men who gave it a start.

The Toronto World's Weekly Novel THE RED SEAL

By NATALIE SUMNER LINCOLN. (Copyright by Appleton & Co., and Frank A. Munsey.)

"I have no further questions, Miss McIntyre," he said, and turned to the morgue master. "But the door did not include married people," she explained. "It was a warm night and Colonel McIntyre asked Mr. Benjamin Clymer, who was dining with him, and me, to go for a motor ride, leaving Barbara at the Grosvenor on route. We did so, returning to the house about eleven o'clock, and sat talking until about midnight in the reception room, then Colonel McIntyre drove Mr. Clymer home, and I went to my room."

"When were you in the reception room, Mrs. Brewster?" Penfield paused and studied his notes a second—"did you observe if the window was open or closed?"
"It was not open when we entered," she responded. "But the air in the room was stuffy and at my request Mr. McIntyre raised the window."

"Did he close it later?"
"Yes, he closed it later," she answered. "I really do not recall," she admitted finally. "Just one more question. Did you see the dogs on Monday night?"
"Yes, I heard them scratching at the door leading to the basement as I went upstairs, and so I turned around and went down into the basement."

"Were you aware of the dog's presence in the house?"
"Apparently not, or they would have aroused the household," she said. "I cannot answer that question, though, because I was not at home."

"Where are the dogs kept?"
"In the garage in the daytime," she answered. "At night they are kept in the kennel, which is in the rear of the house. I have never seen them on the dogs."

"Did you see them on your return from the garage?"
"I recall hearing our butler, Grimes, say that he found the dogs in the cellar. Mr. Turnbull's shocking death put all else out of my mind. I never once thought of the dogs."

"Were you disturbed by a burglar's entrance on Monday night?"
"I never saw any burglar," she said. "I was in the reception room, Mr. Clymer opened the window. Did you close it?"
"I do not remember doing so," he stated finally.

Penfield removed his eye-glasses and polished them on his silk handkerchief. "I have no further questions to ask, Colonel McIntyre," he said. "I am a burglar's enemy," he said. "I am a burglar's enemy," he said. "I am a burglar's enemy," he said.

CHAPTER IX.
"B-b-b!"
PENFIELD consulted a list of names. "Call Grimes, the McIntyre butler," he said. "Grimes, small and thin, with the stolid countenance of the well-trained servant, was exceedingly short in his replies to the coroner. Grimes, what occurred in that house between midnight Monday and five o'clock?"
"I haven't much to tell," was the grumpy response. "I went upstairs about half-past seven and got down the next morning at the usual hour, seven o'clock."

COULD NOT LEAVE HOUSE FOR WEEKS

Toronto Woman Spent Most of Her Time in Bed—Tanlac Restores Her.

"Nobody will ever know how much I suffered until I tried Tanlac and I do say it is the best medicine I ever know of," said Miss Helen Parr, who lives at 7 Matilda street, Toronto.

"I was in a distressingly weak and run-down condition as a result of stomach trouble from which I had suffered for two years. I had lost my appetite and ate only enough to keep my body from starving and was so nervous I could not sleep well at night, and in the morning felt so tired I could scarcely drag myself out of bed."

"I'll never forget the debt of gratitude I owe a friend who told me about Tanlac. This medicine has made such a complete change in me that I can now do nearly all the things I used to do. Before I finished the first bottle I felt a wonderful improvement, and as I kept taking it all the old strength came back to me. I gained my appetite, have gained in weight, sleep like a child and in the morning feel bright and cheerful. Since Tanlac built me up I have shown off that old gold that hung on so long, and in fact I have nothing left of the old troubles except the memory of them."

"Tanlac is truly wonderful medicine." Tanlac is sold in Toronto by Turnbull Drug Stores, and by an established agency in every town.

"Judging superficially I made no thorough examination," Stone explained philosophically. "I should say that Mr. Turnbull died from an acute attack of angina pectoris."

"What exactly is your opinion, doctor?" questioned Penfield.
"There was a distinct and noticeable rise in the pulse rate when he died, and I concluded that he had some heart trouble and was probably suffering from an acute attack of angina pectoris."

"I noticed his rapid pulse," Grant said. "I noticed his rapid pulse," Grant said. "I noticed his rapid pulse," Grant said.

"The chemist also told me that"—the detective spoke with an impressive seriousness. "Judging from the number of particles adhering to the linen, more than one capsule had been crushed by Turnbull. Here is the handkerchief," and he laid it on the table with great care.

"I noted," said the coroner, turning to Detective Ferguson, "that this is a woman's handkerchief."

"Penfield ran his fingers thru his gray hair and looked to the morgue master and beckoned to the coroner. "Ask Miss Barbara McIntyre to return."

WILL CLOSE SECTION OF BLOOR STREET

City Has Four-Year-Old Agreement With Home Smith Relating Thereto.

The city has already given consent to the closing of Bloor street, from Jane street to the Humber River, as proposed by the township of York, and the opening of a new street, digressing a short distance south of the old Bloor street allowance and crossing Bloor near the river bank. The new street affords a better grade, to the bank of the Humber and to a high level bridge, which it is expected will shortly be constructed over the river in a northerly direction. Land for the new street, which will be 100 feet wide, will be given free by Home Smith.

New subdivision plans of the Home Smith property in the vicinity of Bloor and the Humber were accepted by the city council in March last and some amendments in May last. This approval of the subdivision and the digression of Bloor street carries out an agreement between the city and Mr. Smith, made in July, 1918.

WELL-KNOWN TORONTO MAN DIES IN FLORIDA

In the death of E. R. Davis of 270 St. Clarence avenue, Toronto loses a notable figure. Mr. Davis, who was in poor health when he left Toronto for Florida, died of bronchial pneumonia, which caused his death.

Born on a farm near Belleville, and educated in the Ontario public and high schools, Mr. Davis early in life went to seek his fortune in the United States. He made his first start in Tully, N. Y., about twenty miles from Syracuse, where he learned the printing business in the office of the Tully Times, later becoming proprietor of the paper. About thirteen years ago he returned to his mother land, making his home in Toronto, where he married Miss Sarah Farr, daughter of Joseph Farr, one of the oldest residents of West Toronto. For some years the late Mr. Davis and his wife spent their winters at Palatka, Florida, but latterly they made Orlando their home. Mr. Davis was a member of the Masonic order and a Methodist in religion. He is survived only by his wife, who will remain in Orlando until spring, when the body will be taken to Tully for burial.

Mr. Davis was particularly well known among Toronto winter visitors to Florida.

SIR MARTIN HARVEY RECALLS OLD TIMES

Eminent Actor Also Pays Tribute to Part of Canada in the War.

Canada's ability in the great war, her sacrifices and suffering, her devotion to the cause of the British Empire, and her contribution to the war effort, were the subjects of a speech made by Sir Martin Harvey, the eminent English actor, in his address before the Canadian Club yesterday.

"The great war, he said, brought out the best in the empire and cemented dominions were in a position to stand a great empire that stood for justice and right. There was a great future before Britain and her dominions."

"In revisiting Canada after seven years' absence," said Sir Martin, "I cannot help but think of things as they were before the war and as they are now. What impressed me was your kindly hospitality and the ubiquitous prevalence of Canadian oils and goods."

"Our defenses were in peril many times during the great war," he added, "and many were the children who were born during the great war. It was a heroic period in our history, and we are proud of the part that we played in it."

"I hope to God, gentlemen," said Sir Martin, "none of us has ever given a young soldier reason for such bitterness."

More experience was essential, he thought, in the dealings between employer and employee. The time had passed when the workman's life was looked down upon. We had to pull together, in Flanders, for a millionaires' stool shoulder to shoulder in a common cause, and it was necessary for us to retain that spirit in these times of peace and reconstruction.

SIR WILLIAM GAGE IS LAID TO REST

Many Notable Tributes Paid at Funeral of Toronto's Great Citizen.

The funeral of the late Sir William Gage took place yesterday afternoon amid many manifestations of sorrow and regret, the esteem in which he was held in life being strikingly evidenced in his death.

The chief mourners were: H. H. Love and Tom Givens, sons-in-law, and Albert Gage, brother, and Herbert Gage, nephew.

Lady Gage and the other lady members of the family were not present, having taken part in the private funeral service conducted by the Rev. Dr. Tovell, Sunday night.

During the service, Rev. Dr. Tovell, who had been closely associated with Sir William for many years, delivered an impressive address.

In feeling terms he spoke of the very great sorrow which had fallen on the community by the death of a dearly loved citizen, and said he felt relieved of the necessity of repeating the story of Sir William's life as a great business and pioneer philanthropist, who had been so fully and faithfully presented through the public press already.

There were numerous beautiful tributes. Apart from the magnificent wreaths from members of the family, mayor and corporation of Toronto, the Imperial Bank, directors of the Chartered and Trust Company, Musgrave, Hospital, staff of the Gage Institute, governors and executive committee of the Toronto branch of the Victoria Order of Nurses, patients of Muskoka Free Hospital, Canadian Tuberculosis Association, the Prevention of Tuberculosis, Paper Trade Association, board of management of the Samaritan Club, employees of the Gage Institute, staff of the National Sanatorium and Toronto Hospital, staff and employees of the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium, Sir William's personal friends, the management of the T. Eaton Company, nurses staff of the Toronto Free Hospital and many others.

The annual convention of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance will be held in Massey Hall, February 22-24. The official call to the convention is as follows:

This is a challenge and an appeal, as well as marvelous possibilities for human betterment, in these great tasks which face temperance workers of Ontario in the immediate future. (1) To win decisively in the approaching campaign to prohibit liquor; (2) to continue education and propaganda work in order to establish and improve our laws; (3) to maintain organized effort to secure effective law enforcement; (4) to actively press for complete nationwide prohibition; (5) to take the full part Canada should play in the great world prohibition movement.

The convention program will have special reference to the vote upon the question of the forthcoming referendum forbidding the importation of liquor, but other subjects to be discussed are: "Rum-running," "near beer," "Dominion prohibition," "government control," "industrial alcohol," "administration of the law" and "scientific temperance."

This Sir Martin is one of the great actors of the English-speaking world beyond dispute, and the role of David Garrick has long been one of the most difficult in the repertoire of any actor.

PUBLIC CHALLENGE BY CHIROPRACTORS

Will Go to Full Extent of Law If Satisfaction Is Not Obtained.

"We are determined to see this thing thru to a finish," said Dr. F. H. Secord, president of the Ontario Association of Chiropractors, in a statement last night.

"If there is any truth in the statement made by Dr. Alkins to Dr. McCullough, it should be extremely easy for them to make public the details," Dr. Secord referred to the telegram sent by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, provincial officer of health for Ontario to The Vancouver Daily Sun, when requested by that paper to issue a statement regarding the status of the chiropractic profession in Ontario.

The telegram referred to by Dr. Secord reads as follows: "Chiropractors have no legal standing in Ontario. Recently a chiropractor was fined for giving an anaesthetic to a child and removing adenoids with his finger nails. The child nearly died from the blood-poisoning. They are frequently fined for issuing whiskey prescriptions."

"When Dr. McCullough told me that his authority for the statement was Dr. Alkins I immediately phoned him and asked him where he got the facts," said Dr. Secord, "but he merely stated that I had no right to interrogate him, and he refused absolutely to confirm or deny the charges."

"If discretion is the better part of pleasant necessity for us to go to the full extent of the law to obtain satisfaction in this matter, because we are determined to let the public see to what lengths we will go to defeat legitimate competition."

LEWISZKI PLEASURES LARGE AUDIENCE

Famous Pianist Gives Splendid Performance of an Interesting Program.

Mitsch Lewitzki gave an evening of undiluted enjoyment to a good-sized audience at Massey Hall last night, when he played a program of three groups, each of which introduced a new atmosphere and fresh opportunity for revealing the versatility of his unusual talent as a pianist.

Altho young in years, Lewitzki's playing among the outstanding musicians of his time, and the finished performance of last night made an undoubted fact in the consciousness of his audience. Lewitzki is essentially an intellectual player, whose hands, even in their most rapid movements, seem to be governed by a direct message from the mind of their master, conveying the idea that perfect work on the piano is as much a science as an art.

In his first group, the Sonata A Major (first movement), Scarlatti, was the opening, which was played with refinement and restraint. The Gluck-Strakosky gavotte was an unusually graceful performance, with fine phrasing and pauses, as was the waltz by Scherzo and Presto.

The Sonata G Minor, Schumann, was introduced with fine virtuosity by the Allegro con brio, followed by the Andantino, in which a strong religious atmosphere prevailed. The Scherzo and Presto being given brilliant exposition. The second group revealed the player as a symphonic pianist, with a strong sense of Chopin. In the Nocturne G Minor, which followed the Fantasia F Minor, a peculiar resonance of the notes was a delightful quality. The Waltz G flat was played with poetic feeling, and the Scherzo C major minor was a brilliant ending. Round after round of applause followed, the artist having to appear five times in the course of his performance.

before his audience was in any wise satisfied to subside. A descriptive number of the "Trolls on Trains" by Tachalowsky, opened the last group, bringing with it the clear color of a Russian night, the trot of bells, rings of bells and the song of drivers in a happy mood. The waltz by Scherzo and Presto was a number in which moods seemed to mingle in an unusual way, giving a decidedly different atmosphere to the Campanella. Paganini-Liszt, which closed the program, was an outstanding piece of work, in which the melody of silver bells played in many moods, and ending in a perfect riot and delirium of joyous symphonies, left the listeners with a delightful sensation and the knowledge that he had been privileged to hear an exceptionally brilliant performance.

Lewitzki will be welcome at all times to Toronto, whose music-lovers are again indebted to Mr. J. E. Stoklosa, under whose management the recital was given.
