No specific recommendation to congress for a ship subsidy law is made. It is recommended that the sternest measures be taken with the Filipinos who follow the path of Insurrection. The need of a cable to the Philippines and Asiatic points is urged.

Satisfaction is expressed at the new canal treaty with Great Britain, which specifically provides that the United States alone shall do the work of building and assume the responsibility of safeguarding the canal, and regulate its neutral use by all nations on terms of equality without the guaranty or interference of any outside nation.

The message re-asserts the Monroe doctrine that there must be no territorial aggrandizement by any European power at the expense of any American power on American soil.

The work of upbuilding the navy, the message says, must be continued, but mo army increase is needed at present. Reference is made to affairs in China, to Cuba and Porto Rice, to the Indians, the Pan-American congress in Mexico, and is entirely without sensational features. It concludes as follows:

"The death of Queen Victoria caused the people of the United States deep and heartfelt sorrow, to which the government gave full expression. When President McKinley died our nation in turn received from every quarter sincere expressions of grief and sympathy, no less sincere. The death of the Empress Dowager Frederick of Germany also aroused the genuine sympathy of the American people and this sympathy was cordially reciprocated by Germany when our president was assasinated. Indeed from every quarter sincere expressions of grief and regard as to touch the hearts of our people. In the midst of our affliction we reverently whatk the Almighty that we are at peace with the nations of mankind; and we firmly intend that our policy shall be such as to continue unbroken these internationa' relations of mutual respect and good will."

Mile in Blinding Snowstorm.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 3.—Alfred Brager and John Halloran, stewards on the schooners King and Brunette, have arrived in Detroit. They tell of their thrilling experiences last Friday, when their boats, in tow of steamer Wetmore, were driven ashore on the rocks of Rabbit Island, two miles below Tobermay light, and 25 members of the crew's boat swam to shore, a distance of over half a mile, in a blinding snow storm. The Wetmore struck a rock and the buckets of her wheel were stripped off, disabling her and throwing her and the two tow barges to the mercy of the waves. The men were ordered to save themselves, and as the yawis from all but the Brunette had been washed overboard, this boat was used to take off a man with a broken leg. Their algoni fire on the sisand after they escaped by swimming was seen by the tug Glucus 36 hours after, and relief arrived Saturday morning, just as the men had begun to build a shelter house on the barren island from the lumber which had washed ashore. CHARLES BROWN HANGED.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Dec. 3.— Charles Brown was hanged at 10.05 today for complicity in the surder of Washington Hunter. He walked to the scaffold without betraying the slightest fear. After a desperate attempt to escape from jail he calmed down completely. Death was almost listantaneous.

Hunter was over 70 years old, and lived with his aged wife at Riverside, N. J. He was a wealthy reliesd farmes. On the night of January & last,
Charles Brown, John Young, Charles Miller and Otto Keller forced an entrance into the old couple's home wife the intention of robbing the pierce.
Hunter resisted, and was busely beaten with an iron boll, the wife secured a revolver, with which the aged farmer defended himself, until his assailants were frightened away.
Mr. Hunter's skull was crushed and he died four days later. Young and keller were arrested in New York, and Jeller turned slater evidence. He is now awaiting sentence. Brown was found in Sing Sing prison, where he was serving a term for burgiary. Gov.
Odell pardomed him in order that he might be brought here for trial on the murder charge. Miller escaped and has not yet been apprehended. Young and Brown were both convicted of murder in the first degree and were to have been hanged together today.
Young, however, secured a stay of execution, through a writ of error.

said to have written about the estimates:

"The estimates submitted to the United States congress amount to the enormous sum of $10,827,888. Hon. Geo. E. Foster is no good. It will be observed that of this sum the largest item, $161,920,131, is for the war department. Foster talks altogether too much. There is also an item of over $100,000,000 for the navy department, so that over two-fifths of the total appropriation is absorbed by the army and navy. Nobody cares what Foster says. This is an enormous expenditure, and is a result of the new imperialistic policy of our neighbors. Hon. Geo. E. Foster should hold his tongue. The necessity for keeping an army of more than 40,000 men in the Philippines is of course a heavy drain on the treasury. Why does not somehody kick Foster? It is also necessary, because of the new expansionist policy, to increase the navy, and millions are small matters when modern battleships are to be built. Is that Foster I hear talking out there? It is possible of course that these estimates may be altered, and the final appropriations be either greater or smaller. Oh, Foster, shut up! Last year the estimates were very considerably reduced. Hang that Foster! There is little Foster doubt George that Foster congress Geo. E. will Foster consider Hon. Geo. E. very Foster seriously George. At all events, Foster is no good."

But they have also a strong advocate in Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister at Washington. It is doubtful if the late Earl Li could talk more cleverly than Minister Wu, who has become a great favorite at the capital. The Geary law expires next May. Despite the arguments of Wu and the influences that may be brought to bear, the measure will no doubt be re-enacted. There may be some modifications, but the national prejudice against wholesale imagration from China is too strong to be overcome.

Competition and Methods Necessary to Meet It.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Sixteen reporters and six British business men gathered yesterday afternoon, in response to the London Chamber of Commerce's general invitation, to hear Seymour Bell, commercial agent of Great Britain in the United States, expound his views on American trade competition. He said that what America wanted from abroad was daily getting smaller, but that Great Britain was being cut out of even this small portion of the market by France and Germany.

Mr. Bell attributed this to Great Britain's backwardness in using labor-saving and automatic machinery. He declared the working classes of Great Britain must be educated up to them and be convinced that their use is essential before Great Britain could compete with America.

Mr. Bell also said there was no doubt that the reciprocity movement in the United States would result in the removal or reduction of many of the duties now enforced. But it would be in the case of articles in which the United States was quite safe from foreign competition.

He said there was a growing need for tea and Scotch whisky in the United States. The statement disclosed the fact that the India and Ceylon tea merchants had entered into a pooling arrangement to promete the sale of their brands in the United States.

As a general rule, insurance rates are higher in those cities which have a volunteer department than in those having paid firemen. The premiums paid for insurance in the United States average 3165,000,000 a year, and a small reduction in the rates charged in localities which are well protected against serious loss by fire more than makes up the additional cost of maintaining paid departments in them.

THE MOON AND THE WEATHER.

Some persons still believe that the weather is controlled, to an important extent, by the influence of the moon or the planets. Long-range weather predictions, based upon this supposed influence, are published, apparently finding a considerable number of believers, or it would not pay to print them. Another experiment of this sort is now being tried in Russia.

During the past year a journal called Climat has been published every two months at St. Petersburg. It is printed in English, German, French and Russian under the editorship of Nicolai Demtschinsky. The earlier numbers were devoted to predictions of the weather for a long time in advance by means of certain deductions based upon the alleged influence of the moon. The application of these articles seems to

DESERTED THEIR BABY.

The Dugan incident in Skysall yard, off Sheffield street, is not yet closed. It will be remembered that some time ago John and Mary Dugan were reported for neglecting to provide for their baby and were given a chance to do better. Last night a couple of police officers visited the house and found the little baby all alone, crying for attention. There was no light, no fire, and the house was as usual in a filthy condition. Upon making further search the officers discovered that Dugan was on a spree, and his wife, who was in the same happy condition, was enjoying herself in Bib. Mahoney's house on Sheffield street.

SMALLPOX IN LONDON.

(London Telegraph, Nov. 21.)

Last night's official statement of the Motropolitan asylums board showed that during the day eighteen cases of smallpox had been notified, anderemoved by ambulance to hospital. At midnight on Tuesday there were 418 patients remaining under treatment.

Dr. W. R. Smith, in an article written for the Journal of State Medicine, which has been republished in pamphlet forum, points out that an examination of the registrar general's returns of the mortality from smallpox, commencing from the year 1838, shows that the disease appeared in London in epidemic form at intervals, which were sometimes as short as two years, and sometimes exceeded five years, until the great epidemic, of 1870-72, when no fewer than 10,671 deaths were recorded. It was at the close of the year 1870 that the first of the Metropolitan Asylums board's hospitals was opened for the reception of small-pox patients. The next epidemic occurred in 1876-78, with 2,655 deaths. During this last epidemic a great change in the method of isolating smallpox patients took place. Up to this time the patients had been treated in hospitals situated in various populous places within the metropolitan area, but in 1884 the Asylums board established their hospital ships at Long Reach, eighteen miles down the River Thames. Only the milder cases were sent away from London te he ships, the severe cases being admitted to the London hospitals. Subsequently the practice was extended to all cases, even the most acute suffering no inconvenieces from the additional journey on the gently-moving ambulance steamboats. Since the end of the epidemic in 1885 no case of smallpox has been treated in any of the board's London hospitals. In the three years 1886-88 only forty-two deaths from smallpox of London tesidents were registered; in 1889 not one; in the following two years, 1899-91, a total of eleven only.

The magistrate appeared to be in the humor for offering advice this morning, for McGione and McCarthy, who were found drunk and lurking in an alley off Sheriff street, were also treated to a short discourse. "You bought a jug of liquor and loafed around nearly all night drinking it. Just look at yourselves this morning. You are pictures. You ought to get names for yourselves. It is a wonder that young fellows like you can't see what you are coming to. What will you be in a few years if you keep on at the same rate? Just think it over and see if you can't at least try to make men of yourselves." The two prisoners were fined eight dollars or two months each.

A GREAT MANDOLINIST.

Bugene Page, who will appear at the York Theatre tomorrow night in the second concert of the Fadette-Hartman course, is acknowledged to be one of the most famous mandolinists of the day. With him comes a strong company of artists, each one of whom is an artist of merit. When the company appeared at Massey Hall, Toronto, recently, before an audience of 2,000 people, the Globe of that city said it was the best organisation of its kind that had ever appeared there.
