"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffat, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that tired feeling."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Two particularly good programs were put on at the local theatre last evening by Mr. Teddie. On Wednesday evening he gave the Pathe News, a Sunshine comedy and a Shirley Mason special. On Saturday a good crowd attended the staging of the feature film "Hungry Hearts", which stars Mr. Helen Ferguson, Rose Rosamond, Bryant Washburn and Olin Leviator. This outfit the synopsis of the play given in last week's Observer, and was a thrilling exposure of the wrongs of the New York life that is given the average indigent Continental European immigrant. The story was a rapid fire combination of humor and pathos and was pregnant throughout with a strong human appeal. A Pathe News completed this bill. Due advertising is given the pictures for the present week. Read it.

AN APPLICATION OF THE EAST

The members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association who went east from the various provinces are indebted to the railways of Canada and to the citizens of the Maritime provinces for this splendid trip and entertainment. Words fail to express our feelings but we shall always listen to the cry of the east with a new appreciation and a new knowledge of conditions as seen with our own eyes.

This lends to the thought that in our reduction system almost no recognition has been given to the importance of travel as an instructor. How much better could the young student understand lessons in geography and history, taught in the classroom, if in addition to these lessons, the places could actually be visited. A trip across Canada for every student would be more sensible than some of the useless lessons over which weeks and weeks are wasted in the school—The Orilla (Ont.) Times.

There was introduced at a banquet given at Summerside, P. E. I. to the C. W. N. A. tourists on their recent trip through the Maritimes, a new flag suggested as a Canadian National flag. He requested that the Nova Scotia people make it public and aid in its adoption.

An exchange says:
A more eloquent address was given by Mr. J. LeRoy Holman, who introduced to the Press a National Memorial Flag, which he wished to have adopted as a memorial to the fallen Canadian soldiers. His idea was that many who could never be present at or participate in general memorials erected and celebrated at central points, could have the flag in their own homes, however remote, and on days such as Armistice Day could unfurl it as a memorial. Mr. Holman had secured a model which he displayed. In the upper corner is the Union Jack and the rest of the flag is composed of blue and white stripes, with a red border enclosing the whole. The nine blue stripes represent the nine provinces of the Dominion. There is a maple leaf and two red poppies in a group, the poppies being a recognition of the words in the poem by Col. McCrea, "In Flanders Fields."

LIVES GRAND FALLS GAVE IN GREAT WORLD WAR

At this time our thoughts go back to the hectic days of nine years ago, when war clouds loomed up blacker and blacker each day and with anxious heart we waited with feverish impatience for news. We wondered what was ahead of us, and now we can look back on the anxious days and nights, the heart-aches, the partings and the burden of constant dread which left us neither day or night during four years. The people who live through war see not the glory of it. That is for the historian to write of for the future generations. We feel a pride in our Empire, which won through against such terrible odds; we are thankful it is over, and we British name still unsullied, and with the old traditions of British courage and fair play firmer than ever, but we must sometimes think of the price we paid in our glorious manhood and our best Canadian blood.

In common with all parts of the Empire, we lost some of our dearest and best, and we think in these days of anniversary of the dear lads who went gallantly off, with smiles on their lips and courage in their hearts, prepared to lay down those precious lives, it need be to make the world safe for their loved ones. Some of them sleep in France and the spot where they rest is sacred ground to us. The first to leave here to enlist for active service was Leo Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell, who joined the 36th Battalion in the fall of 1914, and who after months of service, fell at Courcellette on October 4, 1916. The first Grand Falls boy to pay the price was Edgar West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles West, who was killed on August 27, 1916. When news of the great Canadian triumph at Vimy Ridge came, our joy and pride were saddened when the dread message came that another from among us had made the great sacrifice. This time it was Richard Estey, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Estey, and the whole town was plunged in grief for this young man, who was a great favorite. In June of that year, 1917, Miles W. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dixon, died in hospital in England, after months of suffering from wounds received in France. On August 14, 1917, another

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ontario.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and what I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I kept house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman."

—Mrs. JAMES H. MACPHERSON, 309 Greenwich St., Brantford, Ont.
If you are suffering from a displacement, irregularities, backache, or any other form of female weakness, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Afflictions Peculiar to Women."

of our boys was mortally wounded and died the next day. This was Reid West, son of Mrs. and the late George West, one who had endeared himself to all by his lovable nature. There was a respite and then in August, 1918, Mr. and Mrs. William Firth were notified that their son, Thomas, had been killed in action on the eighth of that month. He was another of our bright, dear boys for whom everyone mourned.

Leo Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradley, came home but we knew he was doomed, and in November, 1921, he died of tuberculosis contracted while on active service. John Paydis, son of Denis Paydis, who sent three sons to France, died during the influenza epidemic of 1918, just before the armistice, he having returned home a short time before. Another source of grief to Charles West, William West, enlisted with the 115th Battalion and died of pneumonia in St. John.

It is all over, but they have left a void which cannot be filled. But let us not forget them nor the cause for which they died. Let us strive to uphold the lofty standards and the noble cause and lend our aid ever in the support of right and justice and let us be above all things loyal to our country and to British traditions.

"If we break faith with those who died they shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders field."

SLASH-BURNING TO BE STOPPED

A strong sentiment in favor of the elimination of spring and summer slash burning has been created by the recent disastrous forest conflagrations in New Brunswick, many of which have been traced to slash burning sources. Residents of many sections of the province, particularly those most seriously affected by forest fires, are demanding greater precautions in the control of slash burning fires.

As an example of this public sentiment which has been aroused, the Resignouche County Council in semi-annual session recently adopted a resolution in support of the elimination of spring and summer burning and asking the Department of Lands and Mines to take steps in this direction. These demands, which are being received from various sources also advocate the supervision of slash burning under qualified persons during periods when the fire hazard is at a minimum in the fall. Forestry officials have long ago advocated such steps stating the sooner or later the elimination of burning during the period mentioned, would become imperative.

When a man tells how he has been unhooked he arouses more curiosity than sympathy.

A man is usually judged by the company he keeps, but it isn't fair to judge a woman that way. Her company is frequently forced upon her.

VARYING IDEAS OF BEAUTY

American "Peaches," Says Wanderer Would Look Like "Lemons" to the Native of Mongolia.

The Wanderer and the Young American were smoking their cigarettes in the congenial silence that in men is a sign of good friendship. They ambled for a few blocks without speaking, until the sight of a girl crossing the street toward them brought a gasp of admiration from the Young American. "Gosh, look at the pippin! Say, isn't she a little beauty?"

The Wanderer gave another puff and then replied: "Well, maybe she is and maybe she isn't."

"What do you mean by maybe she isn't? A blind man could see that she's a beauty. What's the matter with your sight?" the Young American demanded.

Again the Wanderer puffed before he answered: "Well, I didn't say she wasn't. But I've seen so many different notions of beauty that I'm beginning to wonder if there is such a thing at all. For instance, look at her hair, all pulled out at the sides and fluffy round her face. According to American ideas that's pretty. But a Mongolian man or woman would think it perfectly hideous. They think that beauty lies in skinning a woman's hair back just as tight as she can, screwing it into a little tight knot or cutting it off altogether and covering the top of her head with an elaborate edifice of finery. You can pretty nearly judge her position by the number of trinkets she has piled on."

"In other parts of Mongolia the women hang cloth curtains over their ears because they think that beauty forbids allowing their ears to be seen naked. With them, ears are strictly taboo. On the other hand, the natives of some of the South sea islands try to make their ears as large and conspicuous as they can, and the nearer their ear lobes come to touching their shoulders the more beautiful they think they are. They even hang heavy weights on their children's ears to try to stretch them."

"Same way with clothes. If you were to tell a Neanderthal woman that you think that girl has on a good-looking suit she'd probably exclaim in genuine astonishment, 'What, that awful looking thing! Why, it's perfectly flat in front!' Her idea of a good-looking suit is a little short, tight jacket, and a skirt akin tight in the back, with yards and yards of cloth made into a big bunch in the front. The bigger the bunch, the more stylish the suit. Which idea is right?"

"No doubt, too, you think that girl has pretty legs. So do I. Curves and all that. But in one of the African tribes the mothers fasten straight metal bands on their little girls' legs and leave them on until they are grown up. With maternal foresight they want them to have beautiful legs, so straight and thin, just like this stick."

"And after all, who's to decide what beauty is?"

Why Are We White?
The reason why Caucasians are white is very simple as explained by one of the gravest German savants.

Originally all men were black, because they lived on roots and fruits. When they got dispersed more widely, altered conditions very soon modified the color of their skins.

In this way the negroes in America turned into red Indians, because they used bloody meat, which supplied them with a superabundance of hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood.

The Chinese, the Japanese and the Mongolians are yellow because their ancestors made a misuse of milk, which contains chlor, whose dissolving forces is well known.

Now, why are we white? asks Le Petit Journal of Paris. Surely because we eat too much salt, which, as a dissolvent, even surpasses chlor, that turns Asiatics yellow. The day we shall cease to salt our food we shall become black again and have flat noses.

Distilling Rare Metals.
Among the most interesting experiments made with the electric furnace are those reported by M. Moissan, the French chemist. It appears that, with a current of 500 amperes at 110 volts pressure, he in a few minutes distilled from 20 to 50 grams of platinum. The ebullition of the metal took place as quietly as that of water at its boiling point. The metallic drops were collected on a copper tube traversed by a current of cold water. They deposited themselves in the form of cubic crystals and brilliant crystalline sheets. Moissan has, it seems, also distilled the rare metals, osmium, ruthenium, palladium, iridium and rhodium.

Seed.
California is producing 8,000,000 boxes of naval oranges a year. Yet this whole orange industry is said to have sprung from one little ship bagged to a naval orange, that came from Brazil fifty-one years ago.

That original orange tree still stands in the greenhouse of the department of agriculture. See it some time when you are in Washington. It is more interesting than congress—and more important. It is a sermon on growth and possibilities.

The Endless Argument.
"What's the argument?"
"Just a couple of rich guys trying to settle the question whether Florida is a better place to spend the winter than California."
