King Lobenguela Trapped.

LONDON, Nov. 2 .- A dispatch received to-day says that part of Lobenguela's forces were overtaken by Major Forbes' column last night near Bulawayo. The Matabeles turned on their pursuers, but were deteated Native runners from Fort Victoria con with serious loss.

Native runners from Fort Victoria confirm the report that King Lobenguela has been trapped. He is blocked to the northward by the Tsetze fly country, through which it will be impossible to drive his cattle, and to the southward by the Imperial troops and the forces of the British South Africa Company. The capture of Lobenguela's forces seems probable.

According to late accounts of the battle that occurred on Tuesday the attacking natives numbered 5,000. In the first rush made by the Matabeles they sweet past the British pickets. This brought them within tange of the British guns and a deadly fire was poured into the ranks. In this fight 500 of the Matabeles were killed. The company's forces lost two killed and six It is estimated that 1,000 of the Mata-

Reopening of Parliament. LONDON, Nov. 2. - The opening of Parlis ment to-day attracted little attention Few members were present and the lobb rew members were present and the lobbies of the were virtually empty until afternoon. Mr. Fowler, president of the Local Government of the Board, moved the second reading of the Parish Councils bill. This bill proposes to form in rural parishes having a population of 300 and upwards a council to be annually elected by ballot by men and women having the right to vote. These parish councils are to consist of not less than five nor more than fitteen members, less than five nor more than fitteen members. They are to take over all the existing seconds of the vestries, excepting as resurds church affairs and church charities, and they are to have control of parish roperty, land allotments, roads, water apply, local watering and lighting, and unitation; and they are to have unitation; and they are to have unitation; church affairs and church charities, bey are to have control of parish ty, land allotments, roads, water of the compulsory purchase of the compulsory purchase of land under the sanction of the Local Government Board. In urban districts as well as rural districts the bill abolishes electoral disqualifications on the ground of sex. The administration of the nor law is to ramely under the jurisdiction poor law is to remain under the jurisdiction of the poor law is to remain under the jurisdiction of the boards of guardians as it is now, but the boards are to be elected under the new franchise.

the boards are to be elected under the new franchise.

In making the motion, Mr. Fowler said that the bill dealt with 13,600 rural parishes, of which number 6,000 had populations under 300. As no council would be constituted where the population is under 300 these would require to be grouped. This matter formed one of the difficulties with which the House must grapple. An important question was what effect the bill would have on the Church of England.

Mr. Walter Long (progressive Conservative) congratulated the House on the fact that the bill was not likely to lead to a bitter party controversy, but some amendment to the measure was necessary. The powers given to the parish councils must be curtailed. The areas which would be allowed a council must be enlarged, as the 300 population limit was too small.

Biessed Are the Peace makers.

Blessed Are the Peacemakers.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The annual banquet of the Sheffield cutters was held this evening. Among the conspicuous guests present were Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador. In answering a toast to his health, Mr. Bayard said that he considered the eccasion a most fitting one for references to his father's visit to England as peacemaker between England and the United States, in speaking of the war of 1812. He said: "I have heard that war described as 'the late war', then as 'the war of 1812,' Lately it has had a more gracious title, and has been called 'the last war.' Now I can disclose in this connection by only diplomatic mission. It is that the war of 1812 shall remain our last war. May it only diplomatic mission. It is that the war of 1812 shall remain our last war. May it always be our last war." In closing Mr. Bayard asked all to join him in the hope that the English and American flags would always float in amity. He was cheered loudly as he took his seat. Mr. Bayard is the guest of the Duke of Norfolk.

Draws a Big Crowd in Spite of East Weather—Seund on Problition.

Watersond, Ont., Nov. 2.—In spite of the unfavorable weather a large and enthusiastic gathering filled the opera house to greet Hon. John Charlton on attaining his majority in the public service.

E. C. Carpenter, M.P.P., the representative of North Norfolk, in a short and elequent speech, set forth the happy administration of the Mowat Government.

Hon. John Charlton, amid rounds of applause, kept the attention of the electors for an hour and a half, After reviewing the flagrant acts of the Government, he showed the presperous condition of the country under the partial reciprocity treaty, extending from 1854 to 1866, and the dependence of Canada on the United States as an outlet for her natural products.

deeds, showing the transfer of the prisoner, from old Mr. Luckey to his sons, and the retransfer.

John Luckey, brother of the prisoner, said friendly relations had always existed between the prisoner and his father.

Detective Greer gave evidence as to his connection with the case. The case for the crown is closed.

Several witnesses were heard for the defense, but interest centered in the evidence of the prisoner, who was placed on the stand by his counsel. Luckey told his story of arrest at Ottawa, life in the Contral Prison, etc. He said he smuggled as a control for the money found on him when arrested. We have during the past two months, made such changes and improvements in our methods of manufacture, and in the general appearance of our lamps, that we offer you, with confidence, a lamp that we are assured is now superior to any other in the market.

We have adopted an entirely new method of treating and handling our carbons, and have so improved our methods of inspect-ing and testing throughout each department and process that all inherent defects are eliminated before the lamps are passed for shipment.

It was suggested that the W. C. T. U. of each county should offer a medal to the pupil making the lighest number of marks on this subject at the entrance examinations.

At the close of this report a vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, for the important services he has rendered to the cause of temperance in this connection.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The past year, Mrs. Cavers said, has been one of progress, the number of unions having been largely increased. The Government has given the people an opportunity of declaring their opinion regarding prohibition, and it is the duty of the temperance people to see to it that an answer is made in no uncertain tones. A careful cauvass must be made, the pulpix and the prease must be enlisted, literature must be distributed. United and earmest work must fully occupy the next two months, and amajority larger than that recorded the prease who voted against the prison reform work, including the expendence of the work were referred to, among them the mill and factory department, the prison reform work, including the appointment of prison matrons for the appointment of prison matrons for appointment of prison matrons of the franches to the president for her able work through the president of the care appeal for recewed vigor of work in orga

The progress of the work of distributing leaflets at provincial and county fairs, and in other places, was described by Miss Ella Cosford, London.

The individual character of the flower work prevented the secretary of that committee, Miss Anning, of Picton, from bringing in a special report.

The scientific temperance instruction work furnished materials for an interesting report by Mrs. G. D. Platt, Picton. The new temperance text book issued and the making of the subject compulsory in the public schools have combined to give the knowledge of sound temperance principles among the children.

It was suggested that the W. C. T. U. of each county should offer a medal to the pupil making the highest number of marks on this subject at the entrance examinations.

A GROWD IN THE EVENING.

The big Park Street Methodist Church was well filled when the delegates, membrane and friends of the union met there for their evening session. In the chair was the provincial president, Mrs. J. R. Cavers.

Mrs. Williams, the Dominion president, interested her audience with a sketch of the work of the world's W. C. T. U. and the work of the world's W. C. T. U. and the work of the world's W. C. T. "Win a Crown and wear it," is a very good motto. HEINTZMAN & Co. having worked for and obtained a reputation as first-class piano manufacturers, do not feel that they are called upon to share it with any other firm, who by fallacious argument try to make the public believe that the Fiano they make or sell is "just like THE HEINTZMAN," or that it is THE "Heintzman." The public and intending purchasers especially, are asked to bear in mind that there is only one HEINTZMAN & Co. Piano. Our trade mark is registered, therefore do not be induced to buy a plano unless it bears the good old name of "Heintzman & Co." It is a safe guarantee that the piano bearing it is reliable in every particular. We have some new and beautiful designs in stock at our London Warercoms, "C. P. M. H." 189 Dundas street. Also some excellent bargains in second-hand Planos and Organs by other makers. Inspection invited, terms easy.

-A report from Montreal is to the effect that R. S. White, M. P. for the Conservative hive of Cardwell, will this week be gazetted to the long-vacant position of collector of customs of Montreal. Herculean efforts will be indulged in to defeat, if possible, the McCarthy candidate, who is Dr. Henry, of Orangeville. The Government would sooner lose Ottawa and Winnipeg together than Cardwell.

If these young men would first communicate with the Ontario Minister of Agriculture they would find that they do obtainable:

The population—first, during the revenue tariff decade between 1881 and the "protective" tariff decade between 1881 and the "protective" tariff decade between 1881 and 1891. We give below the official figures for those cities and towns in Western Ontario that were incorporated twenty years ago, and for which returns are obtainable:

Flowd called last night, and at 10:30 was proved and the sample and t not need to pay I cent to be taught how to farm, provided they are willing to learn, and to take pot luck with the farmers and their families. There are hundreds of farmers in this Province who would be willing to teach a young man the art of farming to advantage, and ask nothing in return for board and house room but a fair day's work side by side with themselves.

-In London, Ont., papers are discussing the recent flag incident at the Irish village in the World's Fair, with a view of deciding whether or not it constituted an outrage. The ADVERTISER is inclined to hold that it did not. The flag having been the Union Jack and the ADVERTISER being a Liberal paper may account for this peculiarity of view.—[Montreal Gagatte.]

Truth must be "protected" in Montreal, for it is a very scarce commodity in the Gazette office. The London papers have not discussed the question of whether or the Irish village was an outrage, therefore there is no foundation for the sneer of our Montreal contemporary. What was discussed was whether or not it was a proper thing to denounce "thousands of Irishmen" in Chicago as sympathizing with the who was present, and whose held, but a few roughs participated. WESTERN ONTARIO CITIES AND TOWNS INJURED BY THE

The attempt to bolster up the policy high taxation by means of the so-called ensus of manufacturing industries, for compiling which the enumerators were granted a bonus of so much an industry, has signally falled. Mr. McCarthy's exposure at St. Marys was not required to convince any reasonable man that "protection" has been an injury rather than a help not only to the farming community, but to many manufacturers as well. The enumerators reported that while the population of the stone town of St. Marys increased by 1, the industries were augmented from 64 to 73. That is to say, th more the factories the fewer the employes ! But St. Marys is not alone in this respect. In the ten years, according to the census returns, the population of Ingersoll decreased by 127. Yet the veracious chroniclers of manufactories find an increase of these industries from 86 to 103. In Strathroy the population decreased 501 in the ten years from 1881 to 1891; nevertheless the well-bonused enumerator returns an increase of manufactories from 102 to 132. The population of the town of Kincardine decreased 245 in the same period, but, according to the manufactory branch of the census, the industries were found to have increased over 100 per cent.—from 24 to 50. As in these degenerate days, all sorts of enterprises—from the itinerant seistorm up. ess the well-bonused enumerator returns sorts of enterprises-from the itinerant scissors to grind to the dressmaker who goes out by the day-are dubbed industries, and the finders of them well-bonused for recording their existence, we have a very fair explanation of the anamoly of increased 'factories" while the population has de reased. Our rulers have served no good purpose in thus padding the census. They have put a premium upon a system that, as is here demonstrated, makes a laughing stock of their returns and renders them utterly unreliable as data. A more correct index of the relative progress of the cities and towns of the Dominion is to be found in the returns of the population-first, during the revenue

Far from that being the case, we have here demonstrated that despite the world-wide depression of trade which set in abroad as early as 1873, and that reached Canada in 1875, the cities and towns of Western Canada, almost without exception, made greater progress during outrage, when, on the testimony of Lady the low-tariff period than during a similar of "protection". Suspicion pointed to the tramps as the guilty parties, and Constables Crow and Black brought them to this city. They were remanded by Squire Smyth for eight days. Should the charge of stealing the overcoat and razors not be proven, the tramps will be prosecuted for trespassing on the Grand Trusk property.

—The report that the sudden death of Mr. John Brockest's child was due to strangulation is incorrect. It appears that from infancy she has been a markyr to attacks of asthma, complicated with bronchitis, and on many an occasion within the last year or two her life was in danger from those attacks. On Monday night an unusually severe attack set in, and towards midnight, when her medical attendant was called, he feared that the tax upon her feeble strength would prove too much for hor. Towards morning her heart began to fail her. She gradually grew weaker, until at 10 o'clock, almost imperceptibly, libecame extinct. The exhaustion had rendered her closing hours quiet and peaceful. dered her closing hours quiet and peaceful. Her death, although sorely felt by her bereaved parents and friends, was a happy release from years of distress and suffering.

said Marge, after he and Miss Dinon had chatted several moments, as co-investors, about the property, "but merely to call attention to the irony of fate, it seems odd to me to contrast to-day and a certain day several years ago. Laugh about it, I beg of you, because I call attention to it only for its laughable side. To-day you do me the honor—which I never shall forget—of pressing your hand upon me, although no stranger could distinguish me from one of my workmen. Then, when in a different sense I wanted your hand, and had the temerity to think myself worthy of it, you withheld it."

Miss Dinon did not laugh; she looked off toward the sea and said:

"You were not then as you are to-day."

"I hank you. But if I had been?"

Lucia looked at him soberly and replied: What a question for you, of all men, to ask?"

"Why, 'tis only an old-fashioned form of salutation or adieu," said Phil. "I have your own word for it, don't you remember?" For answer Lucia's eyes looked from beneath their lashes so provokingly that Phil stepped across his seat and hid each under his mustache for a second or two.

CHAPTER XXIX.

GHAPTER XXIX.

As Mrs. Tramlay remarked at an earlier stage of this narrative, June was as late in the season as was fashionable for a wedding. Thanks, however, to a large infusion of the unexpected into the plans of all concerned, Lucia's wedding did not have to be deforred until after June. All the invited guests aronguned it as pretty on efficient is the bind. Lucia's wedding did not have to be deferred until after June. All the invited guests pronounced it as pretty an affair of its kind as the season had known, and the more so because the bride and groom really made a very handsome and noteworthy couple—an occurrence quite as unusual in the city as in the country.

near the altar as possible, her elaborately trimmed Sunday bonnet caught the eyes of every one who entered.

What all Haynten did not know about that wedding, three days later, was not worth knowing; it was a thousand times more satisfactory than the combined reports in the morning papers, all of which Mrs. Manting carried bone with her and picserved between the leaves of her family Bible for the remainder of her days, and every one in the village read them, even Sarah Tweege, who magnanimously waved the apparent slight implied by Phil not having his wodding suit made by her.

Mrs. Hayn, Sr., no longer had to wish in vain for a place in the city where she might sometimes forget the cares and hundrum of farm-house life. The old beach wagon, a quarter of a mile away, crawled up the grassy slope from the long stretch of sand, and Phil stopped, as of old, to let the horse breathe after his harding at the deep sinking wheels.

"What a picture those two people make on the hill yonder, beside that green clump!" said Lucia. "Why, the woman is Agness talking to is some common workman. What a splendid woman she is! She can be as independent as she likes, and no one ever mistakes her meaning. Imagine any other girl of our set standing on a country hillside, chatting with some boor!"

"Boor?" cheed Phil, running a whole gamut of intonations. "Do you know who that boor is? I recognized him at sight; he was in the village as we passed through, but it didn't seem kind to call attention to he looking at them."

"Who is he? Do tell me."

"Who is he? Exclaimed Lucis. "Do turn the wagon away, so we don't seem to be looking at them."

"Consistency, thy name is not woman," asid Phil, after complying with the request, for Lucis was kneeling on the back seat of the wagon and peering through the little window in the diagy old curtain.

"Not to revive any unpleasant memories," said Marge, after he and Miss Dinon had chatted several moments, as co-investors, said Marge, after he and Miss Dinon had chatted several moments, as co-investors."

The Loon the wedding, Agnes Dinon changed her habsand. Before a year passed there was another without any misgivings; she had previously confessed to Lucia, who, in spite of the difference in years, seemed to become her favorite confidante, that she had always admired some things about Mr. Marge, and mired some things about Mr. Marge, and that the business misfortunes which had completed him to become the active manager of the Haynton Bay Improvement Company seemed to supply what had been lacking in his character and manner.

ALL English-speaking people refer to the moon as "she" and the sun as "he;" in Hindoo mythology, however, the "goddess of night" is a male deity, supposed to be for goddess of night is a male deity, supposed to be the son of the patriarch Atri, a young man who was transferred to the realms of space because he was to good to associate with other human beings. The Malays, Siamese and several classes and castes of the Chinese, speak of the moon as the great milk curd or butter ball which arose from the primeval sea of milk when it was churned by the gods to procure the much-prized "beverage of immortality."

Maitland street, yesterday afternoon and laid to rest at Woodland. The cortege was followed to the grave by a large number of sorrowing friends and many members of St. George's Society, of which deceased was an active member. The services were conducted by Rev. Canon Richardson. The pallbearers were: Messrs W. F. Bullen, Wm. Skinner, V. Cronyn, H. Smyth, C. A. Jones and J. Evans.

The Convalescent Home.

For five years the Convalescent Home on York street has been doing a noble work—a work unique and indispensable to the city. The annual meeting was held yesterday afternoon. Ranged about the room were Mrs. Boomer, Mrs. Labatt, Mrs. W. J. Roid, Mrs. Edge, Mrs. Lashbrook, Mrs. Bucke, members of the board; and Mrs. Moncrieff, Miss Smart, Mrs. Foxley, Mrs. Lawrason, Mrs. Magee, Mrs. W. Magee, Mrs. E. Cleghorn, Rev. W. Shortt, Rev. J. A. Murray, visitors. Mrs. Strong, treasurer, and Miss Hamilton, secretary, were also present. The usual monthly report showed that there were six patients in the home at present. A donation of $30 from an anonymous friend through Mrs. Bremner was gratefully acknowledged. The secretary's statement for the year which has just concluded was most encouraging. Twenty-nine patients in all had been admitted for various terms of residence—11 male and 18 female. A large proportion of those who were able willingly paid. The total annumt received in donations was $419 89, all of which were voluntary. The council was thanked for its grant of $100, as was also the Government in increasing its donation to $260 05—an adon these were gratis patients, but some of those who were able willingly paid.
The total amount received in donations was $419 89, all of which were voluntary. The council was thanked for its grant of $100, as was also the Government in increasing its donation to $260 05—an advance of $82 80. The Convalescent Home is now placed upon a firm foundation. It has premises of its ewn and is fully increasing. The advisory services of Mr. is now places of its own and is fully incorporated. The advisory services of Mr.
Gill, the late Sherif Glass and Mr. Flock have been invaluable, and Doctors Niven.
Arnott. Waugh, English, Drake and Hodge have rendered appreciated professional aid. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $235 34. The total cost of maintenance was $791 07. Out of the $2,200 agreed upon as purchase money for the home's property, a fine brick structure, $1,050 has already been paid. The receipts for the year, from all sources, amounted to $1,576 41. The advantages of such an institution as the Convalescent Home cannot readily be estimated, and the grand work which has been accomplished only foreshadows better achievements in the future. the future.

AN ANTIDOTE TO CARE.

[From the Acsdemy.]
Think that the grass upon thy grave is green
Think that thou seest thine own empty chair;
The empty garments thou wast wont to wear;
The empty room where long thy haunt hath betn.

Think that the lane, the meadow and the wood,

And mountain summit feel thy feet no more. All mere blank space where thou thyself hath stood.

A mid this thought-created silence say To the stripped soul, what am I now and where?

Then turn and face the petty narrowing care Mhich has been gnawing thee for many a day
Mhich has been gnawing thee for many a day
And it will die as dies a wailing breeze
Lost in the solemn roar of bounding sess.

Two unknown men went the other night to the residence of James Everingham, Wardsville, called him to the door and immediately began firing. Three shots were fired in rapid succession, one lassing through Mr. Everingham's coat sleeve, but fortunately not injuring him. His escape is mirrolous, as the ruilians were but a few yards away. What their motive was no one can seel. Mr. Everingham has for some years been an efficient county constable, fearing none in the discharge of his duty, and may thereby have gained the ill-will of those would-be assassins.
