GOVERNMENT BULLETIN

Wheat and Barley Are Good-Hay and Clover Relatively the Best Crop of the Season.

The following statement regarding the condition of crops in the Province, based ipon returns of correspondents under date of Aug. 15, has been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture Fall Wheat-Fall wheat may be classed as a good crop, although more shrunken gain is reported than in any of the last two or three years, attributed largely to the dry weather when filling. From several localities come reports of smut in Dawson's Golden Chaff, but only a little rust is complained of. In some of the western and central counties hailstorms did considerable injury to the growing crop in strips and patches, and the other crops also suffered from this cause. But despite these various drawbacks the average yield of fall wheat, as reported, will be high. The straw was of better length than in more recent years, and stood up well, there being much less lodging tha in the case of the spring grains. Several correspondents state that the crop was particularly good on summer fallow. Odd mention only was made of injury from insect pests, such as Hessian fly, white grub, midge and wireworm. Harvesting ranged from the 8th of July to the end of the month. Spring Wheat-This class of wheat is steadily going out of favor in Ontario, and where grown it is confined chiefly to the "goose" variety. The yields per acre vary much, but will give a fair average. generally speaking, although conflicting reports have been received even from the ame localities. The straw was clean and bright, as a rule, but it was rather short, and a considerable portion of it was lodged owing to heavy winds and rains. the publisher of the Havana Post, the While the grain is generally described as only English daily newspaper pubbeing plump and of good average yield, lished in the capital. there are some reports of discoloration; but as most of the barley is fed to live better than the people in the States stock this is not now regarded as a seri- imagine," said Mr. Bradt. The bulk of the returns speak of the heads as being well filled, and the grain as plump, and on the whole the crop will be a satisfactory one. In-

Rainy weather at a critical time was given as the chief cause of injury to the crop. Prospective harvesting was variously placed at from the 1st to the 15th of September. Hay and Clover-This is relatively the best crop of the season, and it would have een even better but for close feeding on old meadows. Most of the cut was housed in good condition. Clover was remarkably free from midge, and as the second crop were everywhere visible among the was looking well when correspondents wrote, the prospects for a good crop of Most of the hay was cut in the first or second week of July, but some late fields had to stand over on account of grain harvesting. Correspondents speak of alfalfa as having made a splendid growth this season. Corn-The corn crop got off to a bad start, the weather turning cold and wet just after planting, rotting some of the also common. For these two reasons there was a great lack of germination, a large building corporation, which he and considerable corn land had to be more or less replanted. Crows, blackbirds and grubs also did injury to the young corn. More recent weather, however, has favor-

Tobacco-While a few promising fields ineven in appearance and yield. early part of the season was unfavorable to growth, and consequently much of the planting had to be done late. There are reports of damage by hail, and grubs and other insects also did injury. However, he crop was picking up with the ad-

Roots-The weather at sowing was rather dry for roots, and turnips especially suffered from the poor germination of seed. A good deal of turnip land had to be resown, and some was finally plowed up. The crop was not looking up to the average as to condition as reports came in. Mangels have done much better than turnips, and are regarded as most promising. The few reports concerning sugar beets are also favorable.

Fruit-"A poor fruit year" summarizes the general situation. It has been an off season with apples especially, more particularly in the case of desirable winter varieties, and the quality of much of the up to the standard. Wet and cold weaher when the young apples were setting s given as the chief cause of the remarkably light yield. Plums have borne unevenly—from poor to good—according to the degree of spraying practiced. Pears are doing better than apples, although not giving a full yield. Peaches will be about an average crop. Cherries were medium grey squirval in yield, and grapes give fair promise. Oct. 15, 1910.

Strawberries suffered from drought when maturing, which prevented best results. Other small fruits are yielding moderbeen in fair condition all season, and were very promising, as correspondents reported. Live stock of all classes have been remarkably free from disease. In most of the beef-raising counties there will be a shortage of steers, and dairy cows are also fewer than in more recent years. Prices for both beef and dairy products have been most encouraging to farmers. Taking the season as a whole, the milk flow has been a good one, for while it went down a little during the ner period it has recovered nicely, and for the time of year is considered to be excellent. The chief handicap to the comfort of cattle has been the presence in large numbers of the horn fly. In some of the St. Lawrence counties several cheese factories are shipping cream to the State of New York, and are also extracting the casein from the skimmilk. Fodder supplies promise to be abundant, and live stock owners will meet the winter with good prospects for the Toronto, August, 1910.

Interesting Statement By Senor Menocal, Manager of the World's Largest Sugar

New York, Aug.29.-Gen. Mario Menocal, defeated Conservative candidate for the presidency of Cuba, was an arrival here vesterday from Havana, or the Saratoga, accompanied by his brother. Serafin G. Menocal, and Senor Menocal is manager of the largest sugar mill in the world, at Chaparra, owned by the Iuban-American Sugar Company. He says Cuba's sugar crop for 1910 will at least equal last year's great yield of 1,850,000 tons. Another arrival on the Saratoga was George M. New York, Aug. 28. - Parades of protest broke out all over the east side Saturday afternoon on receipt of the news that Justice Goff had ruled in the state supreme court that a strike to enforce the closed shop involves a conspiracy in restraint of trade. That number itself is gigantic!

It is true that in London there are study can train the boys and girls to see, mark, learn and inwardly digest the word of nature. There is the great "zoo," and there is always the river, such as it is. But parks are like canned fruit, and limited at best. They do not make the deep and subtle impression in an hour or so that the country or the seaside does when you live there a while day and night.

It may be that a child will grow up as moral and as able under proper teaching in a city ever so large, as in Poets used to make extravagant the people "barricaded evermore within the walls of cities." Kipling, on the other hand, thanks his stars that he was not born "in isles aside-waste headlands of the earth," but in "no mean city," in swarming Bombaynot indeed the most comfortable of modern cities. But while the human tide is at least as inspiring as the unconscious voices of nature, while as useful studies may be made by children in the floor-boards they walk on as in field-mice, the feeling for nature is a very large side of the normal life, and without it men's lives are in so far stunted. An English writer observes that an ordinary knowledge of nature is necessary even to an appreciation of a large part of the Bible.

In our city, happily or unhappily, there are few who do not know the color of a dandelion, as was the case recently with a number of Chicago children asked so simple a question. But even here we find numbers of boys and girls much in need of the outings to "Port." The great lake is one of the largest aspects of nature; the air is pure beside it, and fields of grain reminding the city-dweller of his country cousin's life, enlarge his sympathies and horizon, especially in the impressionable period of childhood.

THE TIBETAN AND OTHERS.

We often think ourselves very adult and advanced in comparison with our simple grandfathers. We travel, not by ox-cart or gypsy-wagon, but by palace car and palace steamer, over vast lengths of land and sea. Where grandfather worked his sixteenhour day with axe and pick, grandmother attending him hand and foot that long and more, we save the hours for the little home travels. week-ends and the like. We prefer travel to travail. Ulysses was nothing to many of us. Besides, he worked his passage, but we loll about and tip stewards. Our delight is to get away from home and see the world preferring any discomfort of sea-sickness or noise to watering and cutting our own lawn. It seems the Orientals are also "waking up." Japanese tourists sometimes flit across the world. The other day a Tibetan's account of his visit to France was published, and French readers are making merry over his childish wonder. Here again we can hold up our heads and feel our status of adult superiority.

The Tibetan, who came over to France as a platform exhibit of Explorer-Lecturer Bacot, saw things as a baby glimpses them, caught the high lights, and caught his breath as they flashed across his dim underthey flashed across his dim underme, madam, but my time is not my own, standing. His narrative, which is You have given me all your symptoms in something like an imaginative boy's letter home, expresses a conviction that there are no poor people in France. Seated before well-dressed audiences, living with his master at the great hotels, he saw nothing of the shadows, nothing but the glitter. Like "wiser" tourists, he did not see even the normal life. "If any other Tibetans come to France, let them bring their best clothes." "In this country I have seen no cereals, but there are great quantities of meat, fruits, and sweets." He tells of lights that light them-a line of little houses tied together The Advertiser is on sale regularly at the following news stands, where subscriptions may be left:

Carries Ten 13.5-Inch Guns - The Largest Dreadnought-Will Be Unsinkable,

Portsmouth, Aug. 29.-H. M. S. Orion, the new Dreadnought, launched at Portsmouth on Saturday, represents Britain's "last word" in battleship construction, marking as she does a new this event have been in progress, and era in heavy gunnery for battleships, just as H. There laid down on Nov. 9 last, and in April were hundreds of masqueraders on the three remaining ships of the design were commenced—the Conqueror. at Elswick; the Thunderer, at Millwall; and the Monarch, at Messrs. Beardmore's works,

It is now established beyond doubt though the secret has been well kept that the Orion will be the first battleship to carry the new and immensely powerful 13.5-inch guns. There will be ten of them, and, to enable her to went there for the purpose of cutting carry the vastly greater weight of gun and gun-mounting, as compared with the 12-inch armament of her predecessors, she is to be Britain's largest Dreadnought, her displacement being 22,500 tons, 2,000 tons more than the Neptune.

> Another remarkable improvement, which has only been made possible by the new disposition of her superstructure, is the placing of all the ten big guns on the centre line of the ship. These monster weapons are contained in five turrets, with the second and fourth so arranged as to allow a head and stern fire of four guns, equal in every respect to the original Dreadnoughts, with the ception that they have a bow fire of six guns. Yet another new departure is that the Orion will have but one mast, situated amidships, of the standard tripod pattern. The placing of fire-control stations on the head of the tripod has been proved by gun experiments, directed against the obsolete battleship Hero, to be unsatisfactory against a well-directed shell fire, and consequently the rangefinders, etc., will be placed in armored steel towers.

> The Orion will have the great length for a battleship of 584 feet, and the placing of the barbettes on the centre line has enabled the beam of the ship to be kept down to 87 feet. Her horsepower will be 27,000, sufficient to give her a speed of 21 knots. She will be practically unsinkable. Her double bottom, in which oil fuel will be carried, will run practically the whole length of the hull, and solid transverse and longitudinal bulkheads are carried up through the decks to such a height that communication from space to space below ships is made by ladder and lift. She will possess three torpedo tubes, from which she can discharge the new 21-inch pedo, which by use of heated air h An unusual but very pleasant inci- an initial speed of 40 knots and ar dent at The Hague tribunal was the effective range of nearly three miles. tribute paid by President Lammasch, No hydraulic gear is being installed. the great jurist, to the reporters of the The normal coal capacity will be 900 Conference. Then I will endeavor to point out the advantages and disadvantages citizens will be able to intelligently follow the discussions on this subject, and to be in a better position to judge of the advisability of accepting one of these new plans, or working out from these systems in use, one that will be adapted to our needs here in Lon-

It is easy to understand the amount of opposition that would be brought forward to keep another system out which would be out of their control, so that there would be many cities trying to emulate the example of Galveston, but were unable to overcome the difficulties. working value. Before all the progress, already noted in Texas had been accomplished, the city of Des Moines, Iowa, was at work upon the problem of municipal reform, but had been repeatedly defeated by those in control and opposed to reform, but the people, though discouraged, fought on, and as Galveston had now pointed the way, establishing what is known as the commission system and demonstrating its remarkable adaptation to that city's condition. Much that was essential was in the charter, but not quite enough for general application. There Des Moines found her cue, and through the interest of some of her public-spirited citizens it was brought before an organization of businessmen called the Commercial Club. Meetings were held, and a standing committee of 200 citizens was named. A subcommittee was appointed to draft a new form of government for the city the council or submitted to the people with the understanding that the Gal-

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—It was the most unkindest cut of all, as Mr. Shakespeare once took occasion to remark. Losing two ball games in one afternoon is bad enough under any circumstance.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—The Athletics defeated St. Louis today by 5 to 1, through good hitting and the poor fielding by the visitors. Bender struck out 11 batsmen. Score:

Incidentally Paull, who started from scratch with Kiviat, was a victim of Kiviat's great running, losing out to the Irish-American A. C. youngster by less than a yard after a gruelling struggle. Kiviat's time was 4:20 2-5, upsetting the track record of 4:22 1-5, made by Paull last Sunday. Considering that the track was heavy from the continued drizzle of the early afternoon this time was about equal to 4:18 on a fast track.

His first appearance in a race was last winter on the ice at Ottawa when he won several races in fast time, and many experts fancied him then. Several picked him to be as good, if not better, than The Eel. No information could be obtained as to Mr. McKenzie's intentions with this fellow, but it is understood that he will stake him down the Grand Circuit. In all probability he will be Canada's hope in the C. of C. stake at Detroit next year.

The defeat of the Y. M. C. A. was largely due to Pitcher Saunders, of the G. T. R.—who had two of his ribs broken in a game of baseball some time agobeing once more back in form. The teams lined up as follows:

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Cotton—A new high record was established for the season in the cotton market today, when August contracts sold at 16.90c, or 36 points above the closing figures of last night, and over 4 points per bale above the low price of yesterday morning. This sensational gain was due to covering by belated shorts. Trading in August will be over at noon on Wednesday, and it was estimated that not more than 3000 or 4000 bales changed hands on the advance of this morning. The advance in August carried the price above the high figures recorded in May and July, and the movement was regarded as a continuation of the bull deal, which began last February. NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Cotton—Futures closed quiet and steady. Closing bids: August, 16.82c; September, 14.27c; October, 13.54c; November, 13.46c; December, 13.46c; January, 13.44c; February, 13.44c; March, 13.50c; May, 13.55c; June, 13.53c; July, 13.52c. Continued from Page One. Progress in Nova Scotia.

"Some witnesses seemed to have the notion that the Federal Government has sent the commission forward as dispensers of lavish gifts in the form of ready-made technical colleges, whose running expenses would be cheerfully paid out of the Dominion treasury. There was absolute unanimity of opinion everywhere as to the great need for more effective measures for industrial and technical education. Thomas Cantley, who had pushed his way up from the mine-pit to the management of the Nova Scotia Coal and Steel Company, is a fine sample of the new type of men who are pleading and planning for better educational conditions for industrial training. "One witness at Glace Bay, an 'overman,' told how he and some pals had met 24 years ago, in evenings, to help each other study on a home-made plan. From this germ has developed system of night schools through which foremen, managers and superintendents of the mines have been trained, and the death rate in the Nova Scotian mines is lower per thousand tons of coal mined than in gold watch and a valise from his ais any other part of the world.

"An illustration of the benefits of lington street. ernment had added three new professors to the staff of the Technical College in Halifax, thus immensely strengthening the hands of Principal Sexton. Tokio, Aug. 28.-The official promulga-Korea by Japan under the name 60 Sen was made at 9 o'clock this grning. There is not the slightest en of jubilation over the annexation. Reports from Seoul say the people there accepted the annexation quietly. _.

The most important paper accompanying the treaty orders the existing Korean export and import customs to remain in at their work, heard the Indians yell, and force for ten years, and foreign vessels are permitted to enter the coast trade for the same period.

The foreign office has issued a state nexation. The newspapers are issuing extra editions giving full accounts of the ceding of Korea to Japan.

A rescript by the Japanese Emperor says that in 1905 Korea was placed under the protectorate of Japan, but that notwithstanding the partial success of the existing government, Korea was unable to preserve order.
