SANTA CLAUS INVITES ALL LOVELY CHILDREN TO A CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Biggest Children's Party London Has Ever Seen-All Boys and Girls in Orphanage, Hospitals and Homes-Santa Claus Wants to Meet the Loveliest Child in Western Counties.

THE ADVERTISER'S SEARCH ENDS NEXT WEEK

Santa Claus wants to meet the Loveliest Child. He wants to meet all the Lovely Children who are coming in to The Advertiser these days. So he is going to give a Christmas party and all the Lovely Children will be personally invited to be there. Here is how it happened.

A couple of weeks ago Santa Claus made a visit to London. He in The Advertiser about the search for the Loveliest Child and when he got back home at the North Pole, he and Mrs. Santa Claus talked it over together.

Yesterday The Advertiser got a letter from him. He had sent it down to Cape Farewell, in Greenland, by two of his fastest reindeer and it came the rest of the way by mail. Here is what he said:

"Dear Mr. Advertiser,-

If you are an ordinary man and have an ordinary cold, all the pills, gargles and medicines in the world will not lessen your discomfort. As soon as the germ crawls up your nose or throat you might just as well decide to endure it for two weeks. Time alone will cure.

This is what Dr. H. W. Hill, dean of the Medical Health Institute has discovered after years of experience. It profiteth not a man to indulge in cough drops, tablets or whiskey. The life of a cold "bug," once it invades your body, is a fortnight and nothing less than dynamite will kill it before

Kiwanis Jollies Announce Program For Their Fun Fest

This Year's Show To Be 100 Per Cent Ahead of Previous Effort.

MUSICAL REVUE

With Ken Murray and Sam Amero as Comedy Leads-Big Treat is Promised.

Last night's rehearsal of the Kiwanis minstrels was the most successful yet held. A few Kiwanians who saw the production were agreed that it looked 100 per cent better than last year's show.

Ken Murray and Sam Amero will be the heavyweights this year. Their antics last evening were a "scream." Seventy-five men and women, double the number of 1922, are working every evening to make sure the Jollies will be able to do their stuff without a hitch.

President Bev. Hay announced the program today. The show is called "The Jollies of 1924," a musical comedy minstrel revue, under the direction of the Joe Bren Production Company of Chicago. Book by James Madison. Music and lyrics by Joe Bren. Costumes designed and executed for the Bren Company by New York Costume Company.

Ald. McKay Points Out Judge Warner Receives No Pay

WARM IN COMMENDATION

Members of the Middlesex county council are evidently laboring under a misunderstanding respecting the juvenile court, as Ald. Frank McKay, pointed out today.

As member of the juvenile court committee of the city council (a fi-nancial advisory body to Judge War-ner) Ald. McKay has kept in close contact with the court's affairs since its inauguration. Certain of the county authorities have complained about Judge War-ner's salary and have stated "that they were under the impression that he was receiving no remuneration."

As was stipulated when the court was established. Judge Warner does not receive any salary and will not before December 31 at least. In his estimates for 1924, however, he has made provisions for a salary; $100

And Ald McKay is most emphatic in his contention that the council would be only doing the right thing by granting this sum.

"Judge Warner does not want this money for himself," he explanied, "He has certain other duties to attend to as he is a clergyman with tend to, as he is a clergyman with a large congregation. Mr. Walzack favored the court with a beaming smile when the O. T. A. charge was read to him. He stated he had employed a lawyer, but didn't see him in court. "Your counsel should get up a little earlier in the morning," stated the magistrate, who adjourned the case for a short time in expectation of the young lawyer's appearance. Mr. Graydon employed the interval in conversation with Mrs. Walzack, the upshot being that the minimum pen-alty of $200 and costs was imposed on the prisoner without any evidence being taken in the case.

"I have been talking to your wife," the court informed Walzack. "Your awyer is not here, and you know you have no right to have liquor in place other than a private dwelling. The police are not charging you with selling liquor. I'm going to fine you $200 and costs, and your wife is going out to see if she can get the money to pay your fine."

She returned later with the cash and paid the fine.

EXPECT 21,000,000 TO VOTE IN BRITAIN TOMORROW

BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN CLOSES ALL CONFIDENT

Question as to How Women Will Vote is Puzzling Political Experts.

ROWDIES START FIGHTS

Canadian Press Despatch. London, Dec. 5 .- This is the last day of speech-making and canvassing preparatory to the casting of the ballots in the most puzzling general election of recent years. The energy thrown into the campaign by all parties in the last few days becomes possibly more intense as the drive for votes reaches its close.

About 21,000,000 voters in England, Scotland, Wales and Ulster will go to the polls to choose 564 members of the House of Commons. O. F. White, Liberal candidate in West Derbyshire, died yesterday of pneumonia, and consequently no election will be held in that constituency. Mr. White's Conservative opponent, Lord Hartington, son of the Duke of Dev-onshire, will not need to be renominated for the by-election that is to come later, and will stand against any new candidates who may appear

The political experts still admi that they are baffled by the apparent closeness of the campaign. Plenty of guesses are being made, but all are more or less influenced by partisan predilections and nothing like an un biased, reliable forecast is available. Practically all the prophecies concede the Conservatives more candidates than either the Liberals or the Laborites, but doubt is widely expressed as to whether the number will prove large enough to give Mr. Baldwin's party a majority over the combine

Women's Vote a Puzzler. How the vote of the women will be distributed continues to be one of the most puzzling features of the campaign. Another difficulty in estimating the result is caused by the inability of any one to gauge the probable number of voters of both sexes who will not cast their ballots. It is estimated that about 6,000,000 persons did not vote at the last general election, but the organizers and canvas sers have failed to get an inkling of what will happen tomorrow.

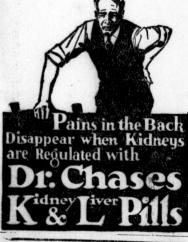

Some observers, perhaps because they are baffled by the absence of definite indications, venture the opinion that there will be some big surprises when the results are made known, some quarters suggesting the possibility of a Labor landslide, although it is difficult to say on what ground this is based.

The way the issues cut across one another as far as the Liberals and Conservatives are concerned, pre-sents for those parties a difficulty from which the Laborites, with their clear-cut aims, are free. The capital levy is anathema to both Liber als and Conservatives, but each party professes to be equally averse to pro tection and free trade respectively. Herbert Asquith, while abating nothing of his hostility toward protection said in an address last evening that bad as protection was, the proposed capital levy would be more fatal. It would multiply hundredfold and undermine Britain's

Holidays With Pay For All City Help, Council Problem

Should all city employees be grant- paid by the hour or day, do not reed annual vacations with pay, ir-respective of their duties, as long as they have at least one year's continuous service to their credit?

This is another chestnut in the city council, again waiting the consideration of the board of works. Engineer Near submitted his report last night, after making inquiries as to the procedure inother cities. It appears from this, however, that Toronto is the only municipality pro-fessing to have encountered success in this venture or in fact having even attempted it.

The engineer's report follows:

"Toronto—Since November, 1919, all employees of a year's standing, whether paid by the hour or by the week, or on salary, have been given two weeks' vacation under certain regulations. Commissioner Harris adds that they experience no particular difficulty in these arrangements and that it is felt that the considera-tion extended by the city is well repaid by the employees, who, by rea-son of the holidays, are better fitted. mentally and physically to perform their duties during the ensuing year." "Ottawa—All of the regular employees or permanent men receive three weeks' vacation with pay each year. Temporary employees, or men most of them."

Dorothy Dix Mothers of Sons Just Can't Be

Shows Work-

Reconciled to the Changed Order of Things When Sons Marry—The New Wife Treats Him as a Strong, Healthy ! ... Not as a Boy To Be Petted and Coddled.

The other day an elderly woman called at the office of the prosecuting attorney of the city in which she lived and complained to him that her son was slowly being starved to death because his bride didn't cook the way she did. And, with tears in her eyes, she begged the prosecutor to take steps to save her son's life. The prosecutor told the distresse woman that the young man would have to make his own complaint. Whereupon the mother wept aloud. "That is just the trouble," wailed. "The poor boy seems to like his wife's cooking, but I know what is good for him. He has a delicate stomach, and should have plain, nutritious dishes, instead of the flub-dubby food she gives him to eat."

This little story from real life is humorous or pathetic as you see it, and you will laugh over it or cry over it according to whether you have married children or not. But in it you will find the very crux of one of the greatest problems in the world. And that is why good, kind, motherly women so often look upon their daughters-in-law with suspicion and believe that the girls their sons married are deliberately trying to ruin them instead of trying to be good wives to them.

It is not with intent and purpose that a woman is antagonistic toward her daughter-in-law, and the two generally maintain merely an armed neutrality when not engaged in open warfare. Far from it. Every nother would prefer to love her son's wife and have her become really another daughter, not only because peace is more pleasant than strife, but because she knows that the only way that she can keep her son is by maintaining a friendly relationship with his wife.

For it is cruelly true that after a man is married, in ninetynine cases out of a hundred, his attitude toward his mother is determined by his wife's. If the wife likes his mother and is of a generous nature, she sees to it that he sends her presents and helps her if she needs help. But if the wife hates her mother-in-law, she weans her husband away from the mother who bore him. She encourages him to neglect her and she raises such a row when he gives mother anything that he never sends her a penny and excuses himself to his own conscience by saying that his first duty is to his wife and children.

Knowing all this, it would seem that mothers would exhaust every resource of diplomacy to get along with her daughters-in-law. But they don't. Simply because they can't. The primitive instinct of the mothers the animal instinct to protect its young-rises up in them and overpowers the sense of expediency and all thoughts of their own safety.

For every mother looks upon her son not only as a sort of archangel, but also as a helpless infant who must be coddled, and protected, and taken care of; and when she sees him married to a perfectly ordinary human woman who not only treats him as a plain man instead of as a demi-god, but who expects this august creature to prefer her above himself, why, it is just too much for

She dons her war paint and rushes to the rescue, regardless of the consequences to herself.

Not only this, but every mother has a carefully cherished legend about each of her children. She endows this child with a poor stomach and she spends hours cooking special dishes for it. She gives that one weak lungs and swathes it in flannels. She attributes nerves to another and walks on eggs to keep from irritating it, and excuses all sorts of bad temper on account of its unfortunate neurotic condition.

So when these children get married mother expects their wives to understudy her and go on spoiling them and cultivating their little idiosyncrasies, and when the wives don't do it, and great big husky men to act like men instead of pampered babies, it is not to be wondered at that mother sheds bitter tears over her poor persecuted darlings and feels like murdening the women whom she regards in the light of arch-fiends.

At every wedding the bridegroom's mother is always in tears. This because she feels that she is not only losing her son, but she is turning him over to the philistines to be despoiled. She is risking not only his happiness, but his life. For what does this foolish young creature, whose brief life has been spent in amusing herself, know about taking care of a

Mother has spent from twenty-five to thirty years catering to him, and she knows just the things that agree with him and the things that upset his digestion, and so she shudders as she thinks of his being left to the tender mercies of a bride who doesn't know a thing about balanced rations and vitamines, and whose bread may be heavy, and who, likely as not feed him on fancy salads and white the salads and who had a salad who had a salad salad who had a salad salad salad who had salad sal

Nor can the ordinary mother prevent herself from begrudging her daughter-in-law every dollar she spends. She just feels so sorry for her poor little boy, who has to work so hard to support a strange woman. And the worst of it all is that her son likes his wife's cooking and enjoys spending money on his wife.

Talk about the human triangle! The one that incloses the greatest tragedy is that which is made of a mother and her son and her daughter-DOROTHY DIX. Copyright, 1923, by Public Ledger Company.

In the morning when she had straightened her room she would stand at the bureau and sometimes look over the programs, espe the little crosses, thinking to herself how fine it would be to go sweeping through a ballroom; to have little crosses on her program.

While the dinner was cooking, she would take two heavy canes, brace herzelf against the wall, practice her steps, saying to herself: "Help me, today—dear Lord—dear, dear Lord—I will—now I just will!"

One afternoon as she stood thus, Clay Andrews came into the room, stood motionless staring at her. "Why—oh, come in, Clay—why, I'm just taking a little promenade."

She saw his lips trembling. She let the canes fall and dropped to her bench at the window.

Attempts of Players to Play on Too Many Teams May Be Curbed.

A concerted effort in secondary schools to restrict school athletes from playing on town teams without permission may be made throughout the "Wossa" area, although not sponsored by the "Wossa" officials. There has been a tendency amongst school officials to find a way out of the difficulty which confronts them as their athletes are whisked off by other teams.

number of intermediates turned up, the feature of the workout.

Apparently the new arena is having its effect in that the candidates last night took their conditioning seriously. A good many of the squad were in fair condition, thanks to basketball games, but there is a big percentage who have a tough and aching time ahead.

Condition has usually been the last resort of London teams. The fetish with London players of the past few seasons has been to let condition come naturally, and with the least effort. This sort of condition ign't very real or very lasting. It's been a sort of superficial condition that didn't stand the gaff.

The fact that players in Kitchener, Stratford, and a host of other hockey centers have been conditioning for months past, and in many instances have never let themselves get out of condition that the case would probably no longer be a student.

The winners while not nearly as strong as they were last season, give promise of developing into a clever machine. Dinsmore and Shaw were their outstanding players while Irvine Bailey, a junior last winter, fought a great lone battle for the Irish. St. Mary's however, showed that they lack a good defence man and are weak at left wing. Lineup:

VILLA CONFIDENT ACROSS TONIGH

Donnie Mack Says He Can Hit As Hard As Cham-

ANKLE IS BETTER

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Dec. 4.—"Pancho Villa."

That is the way he spells his fighting "Pan-cho-veel-yah"-that is the way he pronounces it.

A little flat-faced, Filipino boy—
Leopard of Luzon, the ripping, slashing terror of the mosquito brigade, they call him in the ring—out of the ring a swarthy, beady-eyed youngster of distinctly oriental characteristics. who moves around with the lithe, feline grace of a cougar, but flashes at all times. A wide and merry smile, honest, unassuming and unspoiled, a youngster you can take to instantly. That is Pancho Villa, the colorful little lad from the mid-Pacific Isles, holder of the world's flyweight championship, who arrived here today to step ten rounds—or less—with Donnie "Young" Mack, Toronto's honest little hantam battler, tomorrow night

With Villa were Francisco Villa, sr., his foster-father, a young Filipina of means, who i lipited young Gilledo when he was seven years of age and sent him to school and made him the ver Frank Churchill, the New York shower Frank Churchill, the New York showman, picked up two years ago in Manila, and made a world's champion, and Walter Eckhart, Mr. Churchill's secretary. They put up at the King Edward.

Villa will astonish the fans when he steps in for action. He strips like a refined model of the famous Midget Smith—square headed, bull necked, and with a welterweight's shoulders and arms on a spidery, active pair of legs.

Villa is ideally built for a fighting man of his weight. He must pack a tremendous wallop for a lad of his weight—112½ pounds he scaled at noon—and he had a cool, determined look which improvement the outset look which impresses at the outset. Started in Public School.

"How did you start boxing?" he "When my foster-father here," he said in broken English, pointing to Villa senior, "sent me to public school in Manila the bigger boys used to hurt me and beat me fighting. One day I said, 'Some day I make you obey me.' Then I took up boxing and I did beat all who had beaten me. 'How about your sore ankle?

"It is all right again, though I am wearing an ankle support so I will be taking no chances," he replied. "I'm sorry I had my accident. If I not, I think I would have knocked Carl Tremaine out sure." A Crowd Pleaser

"Villa is a crowd pleaser," said Walter Eckhart, who is with him. He can box and he can slug. If crowd likes boxing he will box. crowd likes boxing he will box. In they like rushing and slugging he will oblige. He likes a rough and ready melee and that is probably what you will see tomorrow night

"My fight with Mack will not go ten rounds if I can help it," said Villa who intimated that the plot of his play was to have his bunch of fives stop suddenly and abruptly—the "suddener and abrupter" the better on the point of his opponent's chin and then sit in the corner while the referee tolled off ten.

Be that as it may—but Mr. Mac-donald's rugged son has eight pounds in weight, height and reach on the little Filipino, and he has plenty of native courage and fighting ability to back up those advantages.

As he says himself, "I don't care whether he is a Filipino or gorila, he has only two hands and two feet and he's got a head and a body to hit. and he's got a head and a body to hit. I guess I can hit just as hard as he can, even if he did win a world's championship. He did not knock out Patsy Wallace, nor did he make a monkey of him and I don't think Wallace would make me look like a case of double amputation.

Football Takes Nineteen Lives

Chicago, Dec. 4. — Nineteen football players were fatally injured during the 1923 season, according to figures compiled here Of the number nine were high school players, five from colleges and universities, and four professional or independent players. Fractured skulls and injured backs caused a majority of the deaths. One player died of strangulation. He was chewing tobacco and strangled when he was tackled, dying on the field.

Southpaw Hurler Quite Willing To Play For New York Giants.

McCARTHY OUITTING?

By JOHN B. FOSTER. New York, Dec. 4 .-- If there is any club that can offer the Brooklyn Nationals sufficient inducement, the services of Ruether, the left-handed pitcher, are rumored procurable. Brooklyn has taken a fancy that looks like a winner, but he doesn't win. His conduct with Brooklyn has been eccentric, particularly been eccentric, particularly last spring, when he loitered around San Antonia, Texas, before reporting to his club for training. No one ever heard what excuse he gave for that but it is certain that he put the New York baseball club, which happened to be there at the time, in an embarrassing position.

Ball players say Ruether has ex pressed the wish to play with New York. But if he is to depart from Brooklyn it is not the wish of owners in that borough that he bot up in Manhattan, though that would fit in nicely with the ambitions of the pitcher who could not hold his position at Cincinnati after he had helped win a championship. However, there are ways of obtaining ball players besides by direct transfer. There might be a trade transfer. There might be a trade around the corner which eventually would land him at the Polo Grounds The Giants need not only right-hand pitchers, but left-hand pitchers, and if they got Ruether they would get a finished article. It seems to be the impression from what McCarthy, president of the Pacific Coast League, had to say in New York—at least, he insists that he is as much president as the other fellow—that he will not continue in office as head of the league, even though he succeeds in proving that there is syndicate baseball in his

If the Pacific Coast League loses McCarthy it will lose the man who made that organization more of an influence in baseball than any individual who ever tried to handle its affairs. McCarthy's insistence that his side of the United States is as apparent in baseball as the eastern side, and his fight against the draft and trade wallops. He does not save anybody. Anybody he can hit he will put away and he will be for stopping Mack short and sweet if he can."

"My first with "the can."

side, and his fight against the draft rule on that basis, was a mighty sound proposition. Any temporary submission to the draft will never gain the Coast League one inch on submission to the draft will never gain the Coast League one inch on its way toward a great organization.

LEVY STILL PURSUES

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Dec. 4 .- Battling Sikl, the singular Senegalese, who achieved pugilistic fame by knocking out Georges Carpentier, provided Broadway with a thrill today with the aid of a quantity of synthetic gin, a wrinkled dress suit and a pair of expensive patent leather shoes. He obviously had made a night of it, and part of the day, when he appeared on Broadway at Forty-Fourth street. He craved attention. So he emitted one of his native war cries. He got attention. The crowd that blocked traffic formed a ring, and the singular one executed as nifty a war dance as ever was trod on the hot sands of his native Senegal. He moved up a block, to Forty-Fifth street, taking his audience and Yankees' Manager Anxious To his performance at each crosstown street until he reached Forty-Eighth. when he was told that the police were on his trail. He disappeared into a taxi cab, bound for the Black Bell Inn, Harlem. It was Siki's first es-cape from his manager in a week. His ast adventure occurred when he fled his training camp with $1,000 which rolled away in a flood of alcohol.

COUNCIL CONCLUDES BUSINESS FOR YEAR

St. Thomas Asked To Annex Territory-Building a Fire Trap.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Dec. 4. - Following sessions of the gas committee, the board of works and the finance committee, the city council held their wind-up meeting for the year to- third.

Fire Chief Henderson reported that the building at 197 Talbot street, with a number of small children liv-ing in it, was a fire trap. Part of the building is used as a junk shop, and there is really no exit from the home. The engineer was instructed to make a report.

A. E. Morley was granted permission to erect combination garages and warehouses at the rear of W. B.

Jennings' store and at the rear of the corner of Queen and Talbot

The plans forwarded by the department for proposed improvements to the postoffice were discussed. The arrangement of setting back the present entrance three feet to clear the sidewalk was approved of. A petition signed by 18 residents on Hughes street, east of the ravine, was read, asking the city to annex that particular section of the township, extending as far as the houses that were represented on the petition. The householders would like to keep their privileges of having live stock and poultry on their premises, contrary to bylaw, and the assess-ment fixed for 10 years at the township rate in return for which they are willing to forego the privileges of sewage, water or gas unless suitabel revenue is to be derived therefrom by the city. It was pointed out that by extending the annexed ter-ritory to include the waterworks property, the taxes saved would compensate the city for their trouble. Aldermen Meehan, Harding and Stokes will make a report.

Chatham Board of Education Has Problem-Surplus in Finances. Special to The Advertiser Chatham, Dec. 4 .-- No solution of the overcrowding conditions in the Collegiate Institute and the Central school has been reached yet. At the meetings of the board of education tonight a report was presented by a special committee, named at a previous session, which pointed) out that the crowded conditions were worst in the two buildings referred to. It was suggested in the report that the Gray - Dort Club rooms might be purchased and used for classes from Queen Mary and Central schools; that industrial and domestic science classes might be taken from the Central and housed in a new building, which would have to be erected on the Central grounds; that commercial, industrial and domestic science classes might be removed from the Collegiate to another building; that the Collegiate building might be used for a public school, and a new combined collegiate and technical school erected or that a new public school building might be ther discussed.

The financial report indicates that the board will likely have a surplus of $24,000 this year. Chairman F. W. James announced that the Collegiate expenditures are about $12,000 less than estimates, while the industrial classes have a margin of $5,000 and the public schools a marne more day available for campaigning, electioneering today reached a climax of intensity. There was a perfect tornado of speeches, manifestos, statements and counter-statements, accusations and counter-accusations on all points calculated to influence the voters on Thursday. The principal figures in the campaign hurried from constituency to constituency making last hour speeches and appeals in behalf of their respective candidates.

The most remarkable in this test of physical endurance are Lloyd George and Winston Churchill, and the most striking exception is Herbert Asquith. who, having a stiff contest to meet. has confined his efforts to his own constituency, Paisley. Somewhat noticeable is that, whether through lack of funds or through but having but a few press organs, the Labor campaign appears to be conducted with less noise and stress than either the Conservative or Liberal cam-paigns, but nevertheless, the Labor leaders all have full confidence that heir party will gain strength in the Rainy days will have no terrors for the proud possessors of the umbrellas which I saw today.

We have traveled a long way from the time when Jonas Hanway was jeered at and mocked for carrying through the streets of Old London the new "portable folding protectors against rain."

The modern descendants of these "protectors" are most acceptable as gifts, and in anticipation of the seasonal demand, our new stock is complete and delightfully varied. You will find them attractively displayed on the Main Floor. There are silk and wool umbrellas with tips and shanks to harmonize or contrast with the handles; and handles of bakelite and amber with the newest modification of the convenient side-strap. Beautiful mountings of gold and silver closely rival the popularity of glowing amber.

A noteworthy feature of the collection is the variety and number of the popular five-dollar umbrella. And for nine dollars you can get the trimmest, daintiest umbrella with a handle of honey-colored amber, topped with sterling silver. It swings from your wrist on a slender hoop of silver.

There are substantial umbrellas of the sturdiness men demand, for five or six dollars-handles of capehorn, malacca, natural wood or buckhorn.

Don't let your Savings Account be your only preparation for a rainy
