Thirty Societies Amalgamate as Ontario Horticultural Association.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Delegates from horticultural societies throughout the province met in Massey Hall yesterday and formed a provincial society to be known as the Ontario Horticultural Association, its main object being the unification of the work by all societies. Officers were elected and will draft a constitution. About thirty societies were represented.

The officers chosen are: President, W. B. Burrows, St. Catharines; vice-president, Major H. J. Snelgrove, Cobourg; second vice-president, Joseph Barker, Kincardine; secretary-treasurer, H. B. Cowan, Toronto; Directors, R. B. White, Ottawa; R. Woodroffe, Woodstock; C. L. Stevens, Orillia; A. F. Armstrong, Millbrook; Mr. Diamond, Belleville; A. Alexander, Hamilton; H. R. Frankland, Toronto; J. P. Ross, Brantford; R. Mann, Orangeville.

A pomological meeting of fruit growers, horticulturalists and experts and interested was held yesterday under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture. Some of the speakers during the morning and afternoon were W. H. Dempsey, Trenton; Harold Jones, Maitland; Wm. Hilborn, Leamington; G. C. Caston, Craighurst; A. W. Pearse, Freeman; A. E. Sherrington, Walkerton.

At the Vegetable Growers' Association closing sessions there were discussions on fertilizers by Prof. Harcourt, Guelph; Growing Under Glass by J. B. Hilborn, Leamington; Potato Experiments by Prof. Zavitz, Guelph; Injurious Insects and Fungus Diseases, and How to Control Them, by Prof. Lockhead, Guelph; The Cauliflower, by A. McMeas, Brantford; and W. T. Macoun of Ottawa, told of experiments in vegetable growing at the Central Experimental Farm.

CROWN FIGHTS A TEST CASE

On Behalf of Lord's Day Alliance Against Bothwell Oil Magnates

Case to Come Before Judge Houston and Stand as Provincial Precedent

Acting under instructions and on the instigation of the Lord's Day Alliance, the Attorney General, through Crown Attorney Smith, has taken action against the Bothwell oil corporation for infringement of the Lord's Day Act.

The Crown will take the position that the working of the men on Sunday is not necessary and is consequently a violation of the act. The case will come before Judge Houston in the County Court, and the result will be watched with considerable interest, as the judgment is expected to establish a Provincial precedent.

CITIZENS WILL CO-OPERATE

Strong Committee to Work With Macaulay Club on Tecumseh Monument

Will Meet Next Week and Take Project up With Both Governments—Heartily Endorsed

A meeting of the Macaulay Club committee, who have energetically taken up the project of securing the Tecumseh monument for the historic park that bears the red hero's name, was held last evening in the offices of Capt. Fred. Stone. Capt. Stone has been appointed chairman of the committee and H. W. Anderson secretary.

The patriotic enterprise was very heartily taken up by those present, and ways and means were informally discussed.

On motion of Dr. T. K. Holmes and C. E. Beeson, the following gentlemen were appointed to act with the members of the Macaulay Club in furthering the project: David A. Gordon, M. P., Herbert Clements, M. P., Phil. H. Bowyer, M. P., P. P., Archib. B. McCall, M. P., Warden Vester, Mayor Cowan, Sheriff Gemmill, Col. J. B. Rankin, His Honor Judge Downlin, ex-Judge Woods, Chairman W. N. Morley, of the Public School Board, Principal J. Tweedy, of the Collegiate Institute, Principal J. W. Plewes, for the Public Schools, and the officers of any Historical Society. Chairman Stone was empowered to add to the number where necessary.

The full committee will be called together by Capt. Stone on a date next week, when the attendance of Messrs. Bowyer and Gordon will be assured.

Dr. Holmes spoke with great interest on the career of the heroic Indian Chieftain. The doctor's father had met him when a lad of 16 years and his recollection of the occasion was remarkable.

Speaking of the project this morning, Sheriff Gemmill said he should be glad to act with the committee. The claims of Kent to this historic monument were indisputable and he felt the Governments would recognize that fact.

Warden Vester is equally enthusiastic over the enterprise and said he would give all the aid in his power. His Honor Judge Downlin also stated his desire to do all in his power and expressed considerable confidence as to the outcome.

Chairman Morley, of the Public School Board, said that it was a project which would appeal particularly to the schools, and he would be only too glad to assist.

MACAULAY CLUB

The annual meeting of the Macaulay Club for re-organization and the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held at the Crown Attorney's offices, Harrison Hall, next Saturday evening at eight o'clock. A full attendance of the members is specially requested.

NO 8-HOUR DAY THIS

Tariff Commissioners Work 12 Hours on Friday.

Speakers, With Grievances, Were Long-Winded—Cheap Organs and Pianos—Spice Men Told That Canadians Who Adulterate Their Goods Will Be Prosecuted—Tariff on Knitted Goods and Agricultural Implements.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Looking rather tired, perhaps a little reproachful, the Tariff Commissioners left the Board of Trade Council Chambers at ten minutes past twelve this morning. They had been hard at it—putting aside very short intervals for eating—from 10 o'clock in the forenoon yesterday.

The morning session was not remarkably thrilling. The question of the importation of cheap organs and pianos from the United States was yet another item in the indictment against Uncle Sam, against whom speakers asked for redress in the form of stiff enforcement of the anti-dumping clause.

Adulterated Spices. Other parties sought a uniform tariff on spices, to close the doors against the importations of the tons of adulterated spices. Commissioner Brodeur intimated that the Inland Revenue Department contemplated the prosecution of Canadian manufacturers who thus touched up their spices.

The most interesting item of the afternoon was the application concerning three tariff on all knitted goods, a topic that led to a rose-colored picture of the Canadian lass who is better off than her sister the other side of the ocean. The requests of the Massey Harris Co. dealt with the important question of agricultural implements, and led to interesting particulars of a wide-world trade.

The Artists of Canada in the evening made an earnest plea for protection whereby a higher standard of art will prevail in a country offering such possibilities, and whereby the Dominion may not be the dumping ground for all the wretched, spurious dubs from Europe.

THE INSURANCE ENQUIRY.

A Fruitful Week—Gage E. Tarbell's Work For the Policyholders.

New York, Nov. 18.—With the end of the morning session yesterday, the Armstrong Insurance Investigation Committee finished a week that has not been eclipsed since the inquiry began.

Early in the week James Hazen Hyde was examined, and he made charges against E. H. Harriman and Former Governor Odell, who successively appeared and denied Mr. Hyde's statements. Mr. Hyde, on being recalled, reaffirmed his former testimony. Then United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew was heard.

Gage E. Tarbell, second vice-president of the Equitable Society, told of his twenty-five years' connection with the Equitable Society, and his activities in the interest of the policyholders. He started as a solicitor in Greene, N.Y., and later was given a general agency for the southern tier counties, with headquarters at Binghamton.

Opposed Yellow Dog Fund.

He was opposed to moneys being spent for legislative purposes, and thought the policyholders in a body could defeat any legislation inimical to their interests. He said he had tried to interest the New York Life and the Mutual Life Insurance Company in an agreement to appoint a committee to look after such matters, but the officers of the Mutual Life said it was impracticable. Mr. Tarbell knew of no money expended for campaign purposes.

Mr. Tarbell was on the stand when the adjournment was taken until Tuesday.

Buried Under Debris.

Fort William, Nov. 18.—The wreck on the Canadian Northern Railroad at Mattawin was one of the worst on that road this year, and it was miraculous that the trainmen escaped with their lives. The wheels on the pilot of the locomotive had jumped the track, but before Engineer Allan of Winnipeg had time to stop the train the wheels struck something and threw the locomotive over a 15-foot embankment. Five cars of coal followed. The men could not jump, and they were buried under the debris. Fortunately there was no escape of steam or they would have been scalded to death. They crawled out from the pile of debris with but few wounds. With Allan were Fireman Wilson and Brakeman O'Donnell.

Harry Corby's Gift.

Belleville, Nov. 18.—Harry Corby, ex-M. P., yesterday sent letter to Mayor Sulman, offering to present the city with a $10,000 public library if the council would furnish a site and agree to maintain the institution. The matter will come up at the next meeting of the City Council.

Killed by Own Weapon.

Hamilton, Nov. 18.—Robert Gray of Bradwardine was accidentally shot Thursday afternoon. While taking his gun out of the buggy it accidentally went off, the contents almost blowing his head off his body.

Heir to Belgian Throne Dies.

Brussels, Nov. 18.—The Count of Planders, brother of King Leopold, heir to the throne, died at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Death was due to inflammation of the lungs. The count was born in 1837.

SMALLPOX IN CHATHAM TP.

Mild Form of Dreaded Disease Reported from Near Tupperville

Health Officer Professes Ignorance—Authorities Should be Careful

Tupperville, a small village in Chatham Township, has another case of small-pox. This time the disease has come in a mild form and at present no serious fears are entertained from danger of contagion. The cases are all of a mild type and it is expected that in the course of a few weeks they will be fully recovered.

A few months ago small-pox broke out in the family of Archie McArthur, the Chatham Township Clerk. These cases have since recovered and no deaths were reported. A few weeks ago some members of Councilor William George's family were stricken down with the dreaded disease. Mr. George lives on the base line in Chatham Township, about two miles from the village of Tupperville. His home is still quarantined, although the cases are of a mild type and the patients are recovering.

It was thought that the school in that section would have to be closed to prevent contagion, but this was not done and the trustees decided not to take action unless they found the disease was spreading. Dr. Charteris, Medical Health Officer of the Township, when asked by The Planet this afternoon concerning these cases, said he did not know of any cases of small-pox in the Township. If there were any, they had not been reported to him. If Dr. Charteris is correct in this statement this is a serious state of affairs and it behooves him to act at once.

FINE TRIP

City Officials and Their Wives Enjoyed Delightful Electric Run to Burg.

The city officials and their wives were treated to a delightful initial trip to Wallaceburg over the Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie electric railroad yesterday afternoon. There were 63 passengers on the car with President Kipp and General Manager Warburton when it left at two o'clock under the direction of motorman Lee Putnam. The trip was in every way a successful and enjoyable one.

At Wallaceburg the visitors were escorted through the sugar beet and glass works and over the thriving town. The run home was made in a little less than 50 minutes, including stops, and many kind words were extended to the progressive railroad enterprise and its courteous officials.

GOOD MEETING

Victoria Avenue Epworth League Have a Very Successful Friday Evening Session

The Friday evening weekly meeting of the Epworth League, which was held in the Victoria Ave. Methodist Sunday school hall last evening, proved a delightful success. The meeting was largely attended and everyone present spent a most enjoyable evening.

President Lindsay Parrott opened the proceedings with prayer, after which Wesley Parrott read the topic for the evening.

This was followed by a short intermission, which gave all present ample time to get acquainted and to welcome strangers to their meeting. Robert Clements, who presided over the second half, then introduced the following program, which was greatly enjoyed.

Inst. Trio—Misses Beatty, Dyer and Ripley.

Reading—Mrs. Wells. Duett—Mrs. Dyer and Jackson. Accompanist—Miss Pearl Maggs. Shortly after the program the assembly dispersed, and a cordial invitation was extended to all to attend the coming Friday evening.

Pilot Was Over-Cautious.

Quebec, Nov. 18.—The investigation into the cause that led up to the grounding on Wye rocks of the Allan steamer Bavarian commenced yesterday morning, before Hon. Chief Justice Routhier, Lieut. Pennell and Commander Spain. The witnesses were Capt. Phillips, Haines, chief officer. The cause of the accident in their opinion was an error of judgment on the part of the pilot, who thought that he was further north than he really was, and also to his over-caution.

MANY SPLENDID ENTRIES FOR COMING FIELD TRIALS

Interesting History of The International Association— Maple City Canines to Compete—Sportsmen Who Gave Their Services

The first Field Trials held in this vicinity were held at Chatham in 1899, under the auspices of the Canadian Kennel Club. That body, not taking sufficient interest to continue the sport, a number of sportsmen in Michigan and Ontario got together and formed the present club, which they called the International. The club has held field trials annually ever since.

Amongst those who were instrumental in putting the sport on its feet were F. W. Eddy, J. G. Gentry, Armstrong, Harry D. Sheldon, A. W. Beal, F. D. Preston, J. K. Stearns, Hugh W. Dyer, J. B. Field, H. W. Avery, A. A. Davidson, Paul F. Bagley, of Detroit, the late John Davidson, of Munroe, Mich., who frequently acted as judge at the trials; the late Sheriff Mercer, of Chatham, who was president of the club for a number of years; the late Smith, of Stratford, Ont., called the "Father of the Blues," from having imported the first Llewellyn Setters to America; Montague Smith and Dr. Totter, of Forest, Ont.; the late Christopher Robinson, K. C. of Toronto; T. G. Davey, of London; Dr. I. L. Nichols, Thos. Guttridge, W. D. Tristram, Jos. Kime, T. C. Stegman, A. Wells and W. F. Wells, of Chatham; J. B. Dale of Peoria, and Geo. Dale, of Wyoming, Ont.

The first trials were held about six miles above Chatham on the River Thames. The crowd with the dogs were taken to the grounds by boat, but as birds became scarce the club had to move to Mitchell's Bay, where the grounds were very suitable and birds plentiful.

The muddy roads, however, were considered too much of a drawback, particularly to those accustomed to paved streets, so the club made another move this time to the County of Essex. St. John's on the C. P. R. was the place selected, and very good grounds they proved, and the club held successful trials there for a number of years. Birds becoming scarce there also, another move was made, this time to the old grounds of the North American Field Trials Club, which had disbanded.

Ruthven, on the Pere Marquette Railway, in the County of Essex, about 20 miles from Detroit, is now the permanent home of the club. Owing to the past two very severe winters quail have fared badly, and throughout Southern Ontario have been so scarce that the Ontario Government has had an order in council passed prohibiting the shooting of them for the year. The International Club in order to provide birds for their trials imported a number from the South, which were turned out in the vicinity of Ruthven. These were protected by the farmers, who are quite friendly towards the club, and allow them the use of their lands free, and they have scattered out throughout the county and made birds in Essex quite plentiful, so much so that local sportsmen were quite averse to a close season. It is conceded, however, by those best able to judge, that a close season was in the general interest, as outside of Essex birds are very scarce.

Field trial men claim that they are the best friends the birds have as they take their pleasure out of the dog work rather than in the mere killing of birds. Live birds are what a field trial man wants. Once a bird is shot and brought to bag it is of no more use for working a dog on, or if left in the field it may be the source of repeated pleasure in the way of points by his dog. At first a few birds were shot and the retrieving qualities of the setter or pointer, but of late years retrieving has been cut out, as it was found that it impaired the dog's staunchness, and made it hard to get too near his bird before pointing, thereby bringing about a flush, so now no birds are killed at the trials. The International Club is a sort of semi-professional one. Professional hunters are not barred, but the stakes and entry fees are kept low, so that the amateur can try his hand without incurring too much expense.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the International Field Trials Club will begin at Ruthven on Monday, November 20th.

The trials will begin with the members stake, which will be run on Monday. This stake is open only to members of the club and is for all aged dogs, which must be handled by amateurs. Entries are allowed right up to the morning of starting. Two trophies for first and second dogs are donated by the club for this stake.

The Derby stake, which will begin the regular trials on Tuesday, closed with 13 entries—9 English Setters and 4 Pointers. This stake is for Setter and Pointer pups whelped after January 1, 1904. A list with breeding, age and owners is given below.

On the completion of the Derby the "all age" stake will be started. The grounds in Ruthven were stocked last year with quail. There were plenty of birds at last year's trial and reports from the grounds show that they are more plentiful this year.

Mr. Marsh Byers, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has accepted the invitation to judge. The second judge will be Mr. Geo. Merritt, of Chatham.

UNSHRINKABLE
UNDERWEAR

Is made of the finest quality two and three ply Australian wool—much finer than Canadian wool, because grown in a warmer climate.

The more strands there are in a rope the stronger it is, weight for weight. On the same principle, a two or three ply yarn is more durable than a single strand.

Ceetee Underwear will not shrink nor get out of shape, and until worn out retains all the original qualities of wool—soft and elastic.

Your Dealer will re- place any Ceetee garment that shrinks. Made at Galt, Canada, by The C. TURNBULL CO., Limited and sold by all reliable retailers.

Thing! Sometimes It's The Stove

Considerate men want considerate stoves in the home. Every man who owns a poor stove isn't inconsiderate. Sometimes he is thoughtless. This "Ad" is to remind him that "JEWEL" stoves save money on time, fuel and energy. The woman who can't cook a good dinner over this stove ought to be ———. We won't say it.

W. Fullerton left on a business trip to Jeannette's Creek this morning.

Miss K. McCowan is confined to her home on account of serious illness.

Give Us Time Enough to make your Christmas Photos. We will have them taken right now. Westlake's Studio.

Mr. Geo. Cline, of Chatham, leaves on the 23rd for London, England, and intends going via New York. He will be away for two or three months.

Poke Freeman attempted to clean out the bar-room of the Park House last Monday and as a result a summons has been issued and he will appear before Judge Houston next Monday.

Robert Porterfield, of Hamilton, was a Chatham visitor yesterday. W. Jacques, a former Chatham boy, who is now working for the company who are erecting the M. C. R. tunnel at Windsor, spent Wednesday in the city the guest of Con. Shea. Mr. Jacques has not been in Chatham before for the past eight years.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Chatham on Tuesday, when Mr. Thos. Haynes, of Coatsworth, formerly a resident of Norwich for many years, was married to Miss Aggie Hiltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hiltz, Harwich. Rev. Dr. Battsby tied the nuptial knot. Mr. and Mrs. Haynes will enjoy a wedding trip to Port Hope, where they will visit friends of the bride.

Dr. R. V. Bray returned last evening from Toronto, where he has been attending the Charities' convention, which was held in the Normal school building of that place. While at the convention Dr. Bray heard several good addresses on hospital children's aid and prisoner's aid work. Proposals were made towards securing important legislation along these lines. Dr. Bray was elected on the committee of tuberculosis.

Instrumental—Miss Emma Blonide.
Recitation—Miss Perri Taylor.
Duet—Misses Rose and Zeta Delege.

After a short address by Rev. Fr. Lee, the assembly dispersed.

NEW BANK

In our advertising columns will be found the prospectus of the United Empire Bank of Canada, with head office in Toronto. It is being organized by Mr. George P. Reid, who will be the general manager, and who until recently occupied the same position in connection with the Standard Bank. Mr. Reid's standing as a bank manager in Toronto and all over Canada is of the highest class, and everything he has done in this line up to the present has been of a successful character, not only for those who have business with him as clients of the bank, but also successful for the interests of the shareholders of the bank with which he has been identified.

An inspection of the bank returns shows that the business of the Standard was more than doubled during the time that Mr. Reid was general manager, and he left it with its stock quoted at 237.

The United Empire Bank, under the additional legislation that it proposes to secure at the forthcoming session of parliament, will start with an authorized capital of five millions, two millions of which is now offered to the public at par. This, to our mind, is a great improvement on offering stock at a premium, especially in a new bank where there is nothing to represent that premium. Mr. Reid has been able to associate with himself in the promotion of this bank a number of gentlemen prominent in Canada and in the old country, men whose names will at once give stability to the concern and insure public confidence.

The stock books are now open at the address stated in the prospectus.

WOODMEN, ATTENTION!

PROSPECTUS

The Veteran's Sure Cure Medicine Company, Limited

(Incorporated under the Ontario Companies Act)

Head Office - - - Chatham, Ont.

CAPITAL - - - $50,000.00

Divided into 1,000 shares of $50.00 each.

A limited number of shares is now offered to the public at par.

The following gentlemen are the Directors of the Company:

GEO. W. SULMAN, Esq., Wholesale and Retail dealer in Wall Paper and Fancy Goods, Chatham.
GEO. A. WITHERSPOON, Esq., Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Chatham.
CHARLES H. GUNN, Esq., of C. H. Gunn & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists, Chatham.
T. J. DOYLE, Esq., Secretary Treasurer of the Blonde Lumber & Manufacturing Co., Limited, Chatham.
R. L. BRACKIN, Esq., Barrister at Law, Chatham.

The Officers of the Company are:

PRESIDENT - - - G. W. SULMAN
VICE-PRESIDENT - - - O. H. GUNN
SECRETARY-TREASURER - - - R. L. BRACKIN
MANAGER - - - W. K. MERRIFIELD
Mr. R. L. Brackin is the Solicitor for the Company

Those who have for many years known the wonderful merits of the Veteran's Sure Cure, which has been manufactured and sold by its discoverer Mr. W. K. Merrifield will be glad to learn that at last Mr. Merrifield has consented to sell the secret of its manufacture to a Company. The Company is a strong one, comprising as it does, some of the ablest and most successful business men in the City of Chatham, men who are known far and wide for their ability and sound integrity.

Mr. Merrifield who retains a large interest in the Company will personally superintend the manufacture of the medicine with which his name has been connected for so many years.

It is the intention of the Company to spend many thousands of dollars in making known to the world, the virtues of the Veteran's Sure Cure as an unfailing remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Kidney, Blood and Nerve diseases.

The late Senator Fulford is said to have paid $100.00 for the formula for Pink Pills. He died worth five millions. There is no reason why the Veteran's Sure Cure should not achieve just as wonderful results. Some of the most prominent men in this city have for years used the Veteran's Sure Cure and will gladly testify to its miraculous powers. Men like School Trustee W. M. Drader, John Croydon, of the Board of Trade, Detroit, Kenneth Campbell, Chatham, and Frank Fields of the Canada Flour Mills Company, have given signed statements as to what this medicine has done for them. Hundreds in this vicinity, and in fact all over this country keep only the Veteran's Sure Cure in their homes. Thousands of bottles were sold last year but the Company proposes to increase the output a hundred fold.

The premises owned by W. D. Sheldon on Sixth street have been leased and will be fitted up especially for the Company.

It is not necessary to sell a large quantity of stock in order to pay the expenses of establishing a business as is the case with most new Companies, since this Company simply takes over an old established and successful business. The present sale of the Company's product is more than sufficient to meet all expenses, but the Directors deem it advisable to put a limited number of shares on the market in order that those seeking an investment which is certain to yield a big percentage, may have an opportunity of subscribing.

The terms of subscription will be $10.00 per share on allotment, $10.00 per share on the first day of the month immediately following the date of allotment, and $10.00 per share every month thereafter on the first day of the month until the whole amount is paid.

Applications for stock should be made to the Secretary-Treasurer,

R. L. BRACKIN,

Office over Canadian Bank of Commerce, King and Sixth Streets, Chatham, Ont.

BASKET BALL

CHANCE FOR CHATHAM.

Editor of Planet:

Sir,—We have organized a basket ball league composed of eight local teams, and would like to arrange a series of games with some of the Chatham teams. Hoping this will tend to stir up the interest in the game in your city and thanking you for this space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours truly,

Wallaceburg, Nov. 17, 1905.

GRAND CONCERT

There will be a grand musical and dramatic entertainment given in honor of St. Cecilia in St. Joseph's Hall, Cross street, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 22. A most interesting drama, "My Aunt's Heiress," will be played by the members of the Junior Ladies' Aid Society, the principal parts of which are to be taken by Misses Blanche Kelly, Gertrude Prudhomme, Pearl Taylor and Gertrude Dezella. The dramatic talent of these young ladies needs no commendation. Miss Mary Gavin, a soprano of rare excellence, will render some old time melodies, at which she excels. This young artist is a member of the "Troy Choral Club" and of the "Musical Art Society" of Troy, N. Y. Mr. John Charlton, one of Detroit's favorite baritone, and Mr. Joe Leech, choir director in St. Mary's church, London, will also sing. Harold McDonald, of this city, will also sing.

The Good Workmanship Points in Our Coats

This Season We Are Justly Proud Of

POINT NO. 1—The collar sets snug and can never sag away from the neck—due to its hand tailoring

POINT NO. 2—The shoulders are shapely because modelled by hand and keep the entire coat properly balanced.

POINT NO. 3—A full broad chested front, because of liberal allowance of cloth in contrast to the narrow pinched effect in ordinary ready-to-wear coats.

POINT NO. 4—Smooth setting coat fronts, accomplished by hand working and moulding the internal parts to conform to the lines of the body.

...SOCIETY...

Miss Marion Gemmill gave a card party Monday afternoon. It was a very smart affair.

Miss Helen Thomas was the charming hostess at a pretty five o'clock tea on Wednesday.

Miss Mary McKeough gave a luncheon on Tuesday for the guests in town.

Mrs. W. H. Harper gave a card party Monday evening. There were nine tables.

Mrs. M. Houston, Victoria avenue, gave an enjoyable thimble party on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. S. F. Gardiner, William street, gave a thimble party Tuesday afternoon. It was well attended.

Mrs. Henry Dennis and Miss M. Edna Dennis gave a well attended card party Friday afternoon.

Miss Atkinson, of Chatham, is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Douglas Stevens, St. Johns.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Miss Susie Taylor gave a very enjoyable card party on Tuesday evening. There were eight tables and Miss Taylor made a very pleasant hostess.

Mrs. Edwin Bell, Victoria avenue, gave a tea this afternoon in honor of Miss Evelyn Jarvis, of Galt, and Miss Muriel Jarvis, of Toronto, who are visiting her. It was very largely attended and was a most successful affair.

Miss Edith Holmes, King street, gave a very pretty afternoon tea on Monday afternoon. The affair was a most enjoyable one and was largely attended. Those who assisted were Mrs. James Taylor and Misses Susie Taylor, Marion Gemmill, Helen Thomas and Reva Stegmann.

About a dozen of the members of the Macaulay Club were royally entertained at the residence of one of their number, Capt. Fred Stone, Lacroix street, on Thursday evening. The evening was most enjoyably spent in cards and pleasant social intercourse. Everyone voted Mr. Stone a capital entertainer.

Mrs. Donald Douglas, King street, made a very charming hostess during the tea hour on Tuesday afternoon. The event was in honor of her sister, Miss Gould, of Uxbridge, who is visiting her. Those who assisted in receiving and in the tea room were Mesdames Crombie, W. E. Rispin, S. Stephenson, Westman and Innes, and Misses Ada Ross, Isabel Douglas and Nora Stephenson.

The musical affair held at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Rispin Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Christ Church Guild was most successful and very gratifying to the ladies who had its management in hand. The program consisted of many well rendered solos by popular Chatham singers and was most enjoyable indeed. Perhaps the most pleasing features on the program were the violin selections by Mrs. J. E. Higley, of Chatham, in the presence of the near relatives of the bride and groom.

A pretty house wedding took place on Thursday, Nov. 9th, at three o'clock in the afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. P. Bodkin, Camden, when her daughter, Margaret, became the bride of Ernest F. Webster. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. T. L. Armstrong, of St. Matthews church, in which edifice the bride was an active member, the guests sat down to an elegant wedding feast. The maid of honor was Miss Jennie McRobert, niece of the bride, who was sweetly pretty in a white silk gown, carrying an exquisite basket of carnations, maiden hair fern and "mums," in which the wedding ring was placed. A number of friends of the contracting parties were present for the occasion. The bride received a number of useful and pretty presents. All the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Webster wish them a long and happy life of married bliss.

FEAD-DENNIS.

The marriage of Miss Pearl G. Dennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Dennis, 112 Raleigh street, and Mr. L. E. Fead, Standard Bank, Harrison, Ont., took place at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, on Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1905. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Rutledge, pastor of Park street Methodist church. The bride was dressed in white point d'esprit over white Duchess satin, with trimmings of English lace, and wore a crescent of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played very effectively by Miss Inez Eddington. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Fead left on the two o'clock G. T. R. for the east.

SMITH-PAIR.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Phair, Blenheim, Wednesday evening, it being the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Cadilla, to Mr. Henry Smyth, of Huffman's Corners. The bride was becomingly robed in a gown of white silk, trimmed with silk chiffon over lace and carried in her hand a charming bouquet of white carnations, chrysanthemums and maiden hair fern, tied with white silk ribbon. Miss Mary Buck, dressed in white organdie, acted as bridesmaid, while Alfred Phair, brother of the bride, supported the groom. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. E. Higley, of Chatham, in the presence of the near relatives of the bride and groom.

Headaches

When the Head aches and the Tongue is Coated

it is Biliousness or Constipation. Torpid Liver is at the bottom of the trouble. And it takes Fruit-a-tives to make that lazy liver work.
Fresh fruit is fine for these troubles, but one can't eat enough fruit to do much good. The medicinal elements are in too small proportion in the ripe fruits.
A clever Ottawa physician discovered a method by which fruit juices could be combined so that their medicinal action would be increased many times.
Fruit-a-tives are these fruit juices in tablet form. They sweeten and tone the stomach and liver, cure Constipation and remove all blood impurities. One Fruit-a-tives tablet has the same curative effect on liver and bowels as dozens of oranges, apples, figs and prunes. And this action is as gentle as the fruit juices themselves.

"I have been suffering with Torpid Liver and Constipation, and find that Fruit-a-tives are just what my system requires to relieve these complaints. I hope many more sufferers will try them."

NO DOUBT ABOUT ROBT. BOND'S CASE

He Was Cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Doctors said there was no hope for him but he is a Well Man Now.

Mount Brydges, Ont., Nov. 13.—
(Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Bright's Disease completely and permanently has been clearly shown in the case of Mr. Robert Bond, a well known resident of this place.
Mr. Bond does not hesitate to say he owes his life to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My attending physician," Mr.
Bond states, "said I was in the last stages of Bright's Disease and that there was no hope for me. I then commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and no other remedy. I used in all about twenty boxes when my doctor pronounced me quite well.
I have had no return of the trouble since."

Bright's Disease is Kidney Disease in its worst form. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it. They also easily cure milder forms of Kidney Complaint.

FAMOUS SCOTS NOVELIST.

Dr. George Macdonald and His Works
—Lacked First Place in Popularity
But Were Those of Genius.

The death of George Macdonald, one of the most famous Scotsmen of the nineteenth century, for his work ceased long before the present century opened, has recently been told in the news columns. He was novelist, preacher and poet, but it is as novelist that he is known chiefly to the world, and his books, though they lacked the popularity and perhaps some elements of the strength of the so-called Kailyard school, were yet indubitable works of genius. He wrote also the most charming verse in "braid Scots," and his sermons belong to the genuine literature of the pulpit.
He was an Aberdeen-born man, descended from the Macdonalds of Glencoe. He became a Congregational minister and wrote and preached for over forty years, his first book "Within and Without" appearing in 1858.
His literary talent is inherited, in part at least, by his son Ronald, favorably known as a novelist and playwright, while another son is a distinguished London physician.

It does not seem possible that nearly a quarter of a century has passed since the present writer, writes a correspondent, seated in a stiff-backed pew near an open window through which showed a Sunday morning which to Macdonald would have been God made manifest, heard the last of many warnings he was to hear against the man and all his works. He can see to-day the expression on the face of the pastor and the gingerly manner in which he handled the book from which in awe-stricken tone, he read that inscription from the tombstone of David Elginbrod's ancestor:

Here lie I, Martin Elginbrod.
Have mercy on my soul Lord God,
As I was, were I Lord God,
And ye were Martin Elginbrod.

It is impossible to consider any of the works of Macdonald without weighing the purpose of them, in which over and over again, is so plainly expressed the desire to bring men to a full appreciation of the fatherhood of God; to cause them to surrender themselves to the peace, passing understanding. Here, he proclaimed, was the road to the truest happiness that man could pursue. To-day, as the glances over the books anew, the construction appears often to be faulty, the action to lag. Young ladies do not nowadays sit down on sofas beside young gentlemen and ask for proofs of the existence of the Deity.

Moreover, one cannot fail to be struck by the fact that the moment of the delivery of his message, Macdonald rises to his full stature as an artist. Take, for instance, that portrait of "Robert Falconer" which describes the finding by Robert of Jessie Hewson, who had been led astray.

DR. GEORGE MACDONALD.

His hero has climbed a narrow stairway to a poor, barely-furnished room.

In the bed lay a tiny baby, fast asleep. Robert approached to look at the child, for his heart felt very warm to poor Jessie.

"A bonny bairn," he said.
"Isn't he, sir? Think of 'im comin' to me! Nobody can tell the mercy of 't. Fowk think it's a punishment, abur' eh me, it's a merciful one."

Hugh Sutherland, in "David Elginbrod," speaks of David as one who "cared for nothing but God; or, rather, he cared for everything, because it belonged to God." So also was it with Macdonald. A smiling landscape, a docile dog, all and everything the God of love and compassion. Science, which had disturbed other lovers of the Bible, did not disturb him, because it could not destroy the promises which alone he preached. So science might prove nature in some of her moods to be fierce and relentless; it mattered not to one who saw only the vision of faith, reinforced by the vision of the poet of the beautiful and the beneficent. The old battle of faith and reason fought on a new battlefield.

Even to the children he taught the doctrine of faith triumphant, and Robert wrote in "David Elginbrod,"
"All's well—God's in His heaven."
When the north wind has proven to little Diamond that people are mistaken who think that because of her they are cold, she takes him for another trip behind her. And, seeing through a window a woman sorrowing, she causes him to whisper in the ear
of the mourner:

Sure is the summer,
Sure is the sun;
The night and the winter
Are shadows that run.

To-day, when perhaps the message, which he should have delivered in need more than ever, when self-surrender is reckoned as weakness, even by many popular preachers, and peace is incompatible with the strenuous life and the enjoyment of the society of men "who do things," it is pleasant to reflect that, in his own case, at least, he proved the satisfaction of a life nobly spent. Living to the age of eighty-one years, he was honored by his university, and rewarded by his country with a pension for his services to literature. Much of his later life was spent in Italy where nature smiled upon him as he would have England were periods of rejoicing over the success of his eldest son, Greville, a distinguished physician, and one of the leading authorities in Great Britain on diseases of the nose and throat.

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS

The New Method Treatment Cured Him After Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, Etc., all failed.

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I did not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a severe blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints, etc. My breath, itchy skin etc. It was needless for me to say how long it took me to get better after each treatment. It helped me temporarily, but in six months I was as bad as ever." He said a Doctor friend at mine advised me to see Dr. Kennedy & Kerrigan. They agreed to treat me free during my first visit. He made a specialty of diseases and treated the worst cases by the guaranteed method he used. His name was afraid of advertisement, but followed his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I decided the new method Treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks, and I felt perfectly cured. I took one more treatment for insurance. I now recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Brain Diseases.

GEN. BOOTH'S COLONIZATION SCHEME.

While the population of the motherland is badly congested, Canada needs men to till its millions of virgin acres which only need to be tickled with the hoe to laugh with the harvest. General Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, has formulated an immigration scheme which will, if carried out, do a double service—relieve Great Britain of its congested population and provide lands and homes for settlers in countries where an increased population is much desired and needed. Inspired by feelings of loyalty to the empire, General Booth has turned his eyes to Australia and Canada as the countries in which to secure the lands required. Australia has acted in a dog-in-the-manger style and negotiations have been retarded. Now is Canada's opportunity. No better class of settlers could be secured to cultivate the millions of Canada's untitled acres than members of the Salvation Army or those who would be selected and guaranteed by them, as they would possess the two needful qualities, industry and high moral character. Commissioner Coombs, in speaking on this question in Montreal, said that the Salvation Army cared for its immigrants from the time of departure until they were well established. Out of 5,000 sent out to Canada this year only 200 belonged to the Salvation Army, but the need of the people was their recommendation. Many new comers desired to remain in cities, and they had to be sent forward or urged forward by sending forward their baggage. What was required was wise selection of the immigrants, careful training of them, preparation of the land, and increasing vigilance.

SEASONABLE ACCIDENTS.

The weather conditions appropriate to each season are no more sure of coming than are the fatal accidents, many of which might be prevented. The deer shooting season regularly adds to its list of dead, and now that cold weather has come the accidents due to the combination of thin ice and reckless persons are again with us. Western Canada feels the grip of the ice king earlier than does Eastern Canada, and the west already reports its first thin-ice fatality. A little later, when snow covers the land, there will doubtless be the usual sacrifices to coasting and tobogganing. Dangerous hills claim their winter victims year after year, and there is nothing to show that the coming season will be any different in this respect from others. Towards the end of winter comes weakened ice with more fatalities, and in a surprisingly short space of time after the ice is gone the open water claims venturesome bathers. All summer long beautiful lakes and rivers lure bathers to death, and provide speedy punishment for the fool that rocks the boat. A few others are slaughtered off in spring and summer by looking down "unloaded" gun-barrels, or forcing others to do that trick, and, when summer fades, many hunters go forth to the woods, but not all come back alive. Every season has accidents in keeping with weather conditions, and, of course, there are other causes—not to mention sports—which cut off people in the full enjoyment of health.

The sad feature of the accidents to which reference has been made, is that they are usually unnecessary. Some attempt has been made to prevent the terrible slaughter in the hunting grounds, but the other accidents are taken as a matter of course. Something, however, could be done to make these accidents less popular. The fools that point guns and rock boats should be properly punished, and many of the drownings could be prevented by making it compulsory to learn to swim. The coasting accidents are so directly due to lack of care upon the part of participants in this recreation that the prevention of accidents is not under the control of others, and the thin-ice fatalities are sure to happen as long as children are reckless. However, many of the "seasonable" accidents, as well as those likely to occur at all times of the year, could be prevented, and the work should surely commend itself in these days when every danger and abuse has its prevention society.

has been noticed in many quarters and in an effort to give its readers something for their minds to grasp on this topic the Toronto Star says, "There is a little item in the North Bay Times that will assist the reader in getting a grip on the idea. The Times, finding much local annoyance in the fact that C.P.R. train No. 2 has been getting 'in late for the past two or three weeks, explains the reason. It is on account of the downward rush of wheat from the West. These wheat trains commence regular traffic, and 'No. 2 has been known to take a side track and allow six trains laden with wheat to pass her at one time.' A passenger train going north standing on a switch while six long trains laden with wheat on their way south thunder past the little way station in the wilderness—that gives an idea of the immense wheat yield, and of the inadequate facilities for handling it.

Married, by Rev. L. Warner, on the 10th inst., Wm. Fox, Esq., of Raleigh, to Miss Jan, daughter of Mr. William Vooks, of the City of Detroit.

Died, at his residence, Paris, on the 9th inst., Rev. Jas. Spencer, Esq., secretary of the Wesleyan conference.

Died, at the residence of Thomas McCrea, Esq., on the 8th inst., Elizabeth Georgina, only child of W. Allen and Edna S. McCrea.

To annual Fair for Howard and Orford came off on Wednesday, the 7th inst., at Morpeth. The day was a wet one, but on the whole the show was very creditable to all concerned. The first prize for fall wheat was taken by Mr. John Wilson; the first prize for best stallion was taken by Mr. J. Brown; the best Leicester ram was shown by Mr. J. E. McKinley; the first prize for best matched horses was taken by Mr. Samuel Winters.

Among the largest exhibitors at the Kent County Fair in 1893 were Thomas Russell, Stephen White, Silas West, and Henry White, Raleigh; David Wilson, Robert Smith, and Samuel Field, Harwich; Duncan McVicar, of Chatham Township. There were 31 pens of sheep and 17 pens of pigs.

Mr. Thomas R. G. Rutley exhibited a beautiful three year old colt, John Hardy carriage horses, David Walker horses for general purposes, and J. B. Glover draught horses. McGarvin and Robert Smith also exhibited horses. B. Seaman, R. Smith, Wm. Dillon, and Robert Willmore made exhibits in horses.

Among the successful competitors for the best fruit were Thomas English, of Harwich; Rev. Dr. Sandys, of Chatham; Wm. Sandison, Raleigh; John Stein, Dover, and E. Stewart. E. M. Handy's cheese carried off the premium. For hops, P. McCreesh took a prize; for flax, L. L. Arnold took the first, and Wm. Dillon the second prize. Robert Wilson took the prize for the best tobacco.

But what in this class deserves particular mention was the display of furniture by A. Jahnke and R. O. Smith & Co., all of which was really magnificent. Both of these houses exhibited musical instruments, Smith & Seaborn an organ harmonium and a melodian, and A. Jahnke a melodian, all made in Chatham. Albert Jahnke was awarded first prize on the best assortment of furniture and R. O. Smith second.

THE MORPETH RACES.

Horse and foot races were held in Morpeth and a large crowd was in attendance. The ground selected for the races was on Talbot street, from Wilson's corner westward one mile. The judges appointed were, Messrs. M. W. Scott, H. E. Winter, George C. Wood, P. D. Bissell and G. King. For the trotting race the following horses were entered:

Chas. Shaw's G. M., Canadiana Gall.

Alfred Caswell's S. G., White Stockings.

John Bedford's B. G., Young Ethan Allen.

Cephore Oullette's B. G., Princess.

Findlay McGregor's B. G., Lady Blackwood.

Canadiana Gall was played as a favorite, but the race was won by Young Ethan Allen.

For the pacing race the following horses were entered:

Cephore Oullette's G. G., Grey Eagle.

John Northwood's G. G., Crazy Jim.

O. Sheldon's B. G., Stonewall Jackson.

This was won by Grey Eagle in two straight heats.

In the running race four horses were entered, as follows:

D. Winter's bay colt, Dare Devil Dick.

Wickwire's B. M., Sleeping Jane.

A. Bennett's B. M., Creeping Jane.

A. Room's G. M., Orford.

This was won by Creeping Jane.

In order to complete the sports of the day a purse of nearly nine dollars was subscribed for a foot race of 100 yards, best two in three, entrance 50 cents. Four entries were made:

Caleb Wheeler, Chatham.

H. D. Cornwall, Orford.

Nathan Slater, Blenheim.

James N. Smith, Chatham.

The first heat was won by Wheeler, though all his competitors saved their distance, which was five yards from the winning score.

On the second heat three entered, Smith declining to go in. In this heat Wheeler was again successful, Cornwall second, and Slater close on their heels. The purse was accordingly given to Wheeler.

What Sulphur Does

FOR THE HUMAN BODY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the sulphur baths of our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall. It was the usual spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur. In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphate) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used. They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated caruncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

CHIC STYLES.

Corset Cover and Petticoat Combination—Attractive Chemises. Corset cover and long petticoats are often combined in one garment by means of the fashionable princess effect. This style is especially suited to stout figures and is quite essential under some of the new frocks. It generally has two side seams, but not a wrinkle above the waist line in front. beauty are arranged about the low cut neck. The skirt is joined to the corset cover by beading through which ribbon is run. It fits closely over the hips, the circular cut giving the requisite fullness about the feet.

Chemises have been rushed to death, yet the prettiest of the simpler blouses give evidence that the craze is not over. The separate chemises are worn with blouses, but the yoke takes the form of an attached chemise, the blouse folding over it usually being finished with scallops embroidered by hand.

The coquettish now receives in bed with a dainty boudoir cap on her head, which is nothing more than a glorified version of the old time nightcap. Such a cap is pictured in the cut. It is fashioned from book muslin, the mob crown set with a soft rill of lace tied round with a soft silk scarf.

Stunning Suits for Schoolgirls in Empire Style—Push Wraps.

For schoolgirls in the grammar grades coats in three-quarter length cut in the empire style with slight modifications are very good models. A pretty coat of this description has a straight panel back and front, with an arrangement of straps across the side indicating the short waisted effect of the empire. Such a model has bretelle straps on the shoulders and a flat, round collar of velvet trimmed with braids. The sleeves have a good deal of fullness at the shoulder and are brought into the cuff band by a series of tuckings. The small turnover cuffs are round at the upper edges and faced with velvet which has several lines of silk braid upon it. Odd metal buttons trim the straps and fasten the coat in double breasted fashion down the front.

A stunning jacket that will appeal to the schoolgirl is of three-quarter length made of dark green kersey. It is full in box style, with double breasted front. The neck finishes with a small shawl collar trimmed with soutache braid put on in a scalloped design. The turned over cuff is trimmed in the same way, and handsome metal buttons serve as fastenings. There are capacious pockets on each side of the fronts, and the coat is lined throughout with changeable silk. The skirt that accompanies this jacket is a round, plaited model.

Push, velvet and fur wraps are to be much worn this winter for evening. Push is so delightfully warm that it is a wonder it has staid out of fashion so long. Delicate mauve and faint unusual tones of pink are most attractive for this wrap, while blue from palest robin's egg to turquoise is effective.

The evening gown illustrated is of white silk. The skirt has an exquisite border of lilac blossoms worked in natural colored silks. The bodice has a tucker of lace and bretelles of pink velvet caught with choux. The sleeves are of pink velvet and lace.

BROKEN ALABASTER BOX

"SHE HATH DONE WHAT SHE COULD," HIS COMMENDATION.

SELF SACRIFICE NOT WASTED

Christ's Satisfaction of the Woman's Apparently Useless Deed Is Typical of the Master's Attitude Always to Those Who Do What They Can and All They Can — Draw Lessons of Gratitude.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by Frederick B. Jones, at the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 12.—From the incident of the broken alabaster box the preacher in this sermon draws lessons of the gratitude which men should feel for the self-sacrifice of mothers, sisters and wives. The text is Mark xiv., 8, "She hath done what she could."

Some people are like the Dead Sea, submerging the "flowers of the plain." They have no outlets. They would make all the streams of the surrounding hillsides tributaries to their reservoirs. They would gather into their depths the waters from the fountains beneath and from the showers overhead. But, though they take in everything they can, they never have any outflowings. They would never give anything to anybody else unless they were compelled so to do. Their hands are like steel traps. They keep the palms open only as long as they have nothing on them. But as soon as anything touches their skin their open palms fly shut and every finger becomes a vise and every muscle as rigid as a band of steel. Their doctrine is, "What is yours ought to be mine and what is mine is my own." Truly they hang on to everything they can. Their appetites are omnivorous. But, like great stagnant pools, they become stenchful through their immobility. Their love of other people is completely circumscribed by their love of self.

Selfish love has even a more contemptible characteristic than a mere brutal love for self. As a rule, selfish men consider it a personal reflection on themselves if other people are not just as mean and selfish as they are. When any one makes a sacrifice for another they give themselves to fault finding, are always complaining and always trying to depreciate the good which that person has tried to do. If a man like Andrew Carnegie endows a library they raise a protesting voice and cry, "What is the good of giving a pile of books to a lot of workmen who never read? Why does he not give them a loaf of bread instead of a printed page? If a philanthropist offers to give a loaf of bread every midnight to every person who comes for it they say: 'What is the good of feeding a lot of dirty tramps and dead beats? These men ought to be made to work as I have to work.' Thus wherever we turn we find some men, and, alas, they are many with these two miserable characteristics. They refuse to do anything for any one else, and they find fault with all those who are trying to do what these selfish men ought to do.

Some of these carping, selfish, fault-finding critics were in the house of Simon the leper in the time of Christ, as they are in the houses of our modern Bethanys. They were given a seat, and any one who can help it, and they had to see any one else give away a cent. Thus when the woman of my text, to show her love for Christ, entered the dining hall and broke an alabaster box and poured the ointment of spikenard, very precious upon Christ's head they commenced to complain. "Absurd, absurd!" they cried. "That ointment could have been sold for 300 pence and given to the poor. Why all this waste?" Then said Jesus: "Let her alone. She hath wrought a good work on me, for she have the poor with you always, and whenever ye will ye may do them good, but me ye have not always." Then Christ uttered the words of my text, "She hath done what she could." That means to the very best of her power she had shown her true love for Jesus Christ.

Genuine and significant must have been the act of this Woman of my text to have brought forth such an encomium from the Saviour's lips. But Jesus the only being who has had a woman break over his head an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious. Have not some of us been surrounded in our boyhood, in our boyhood, in our young manhood, in our middle age and old age, by just such noble self-sacrificing women, who have for us literally done what they could? Yes, most of us can answer, "We have." We have, we would like to call to recollection some of our obligations, some of the services that we have received from devoted women, who would have laid down their lives if it had been necessary for our welfare. They literally did all they could to bring us to our trust and fullest mental and physical and spiritual development.

Where shall we begin to find these female characters, who have broken for us their alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious? Naturally we start with that sweet face that hovered about our cradle. When we go back to the dim recollections of childhood we remember that mother was always busy. She was either cleaning the parlors, or making the beds, or going out to market, or busy with the weekly clean washing. We never remember her asleep unless she was sick in bed under the doctor's care or unless we crawled under her covers in the early morning when we awoke frightened from dreaming bad dreams. She was always busy.

Turn over the portraits in the family album. "There," you say, "is my first picture. Mother told me it was taken just a short time after I was christened. She made that little dress with her own hands, and she thought so much of that dress that she kept it all her life. After she was dead and we were going through her things I found it. The dress was just as you see it there. She must have thought a good deal of me to put so much work into that dress when she had so much to do. And there is my picture taken just after my first attack of typhoid fever. My, I look sick there, don't I? They tell me she never left my room for six long weeks. The doctors gave me up, but she never did. They say I would have died but for her. And further, they say that it was her devotion to me that broke down her health and made her a lifelong invalid."

Then you turn over another page of the old album, and you say: "Here is my picture when I was a college boy. We were having a hard time financially, and I used to get awfully discouraged but mother was my support. She used to write and keep on writing to me. She never lost heart, no matter how black the clouds were. And when I think of her now I can say that a nobler, purer, better or more self-sacrificing woman than she never lived. All that I am is the result of her sacrifices made in the crises of my early life." "Oh," you say, "I had a good mother. She certainly did for me what she could."

Cannot we all say that our mothers have broken for us the alabaster box of ointment of spikenard, very precious upon our heads, and that they did what they could? Cannot we be as eulogistic of our mothers as Sir Thomas More was of his? When Thomas More was a very little boy his mother went off on a visit. He wrote to her his first letter and ended it thus:

Your absence all but ill endures, And none so ill as Thomas More.

As he grew older and came to great fame he still seemed to feel that he could not do anything unless he had first gone and told her and asked her advice. He wrote every detail of his life to her. He wrote to her almost every day of the week. At her death there were found over 4,000 letters penned to her by her noble son. And one of the last acts which he did before she died was to send one of his books to her with these beautiful words written upon the flyleaf: "For it was the critic of my first infant production that I have transcribed the few little essays that follow. The critic praises from the head—the mother prays from the heart. With one it is a tribute of judgment, with the other it is a gift from the soul." Was not that tribute of England's great statesman to his mother most beautiful? Yet cannot we all give our mothers the same tribute? Was there in our youth any worthy or meritorious act that was not of her suggesting or inspiring?

Is not our position in the world today a tribute to her for what she did for us? A great cave, like the Mammoth cave of Kentucky, has lately been discovered in the mountains of the west. It is a cave of the caverns of the past is ablaze with the lights of maternal self-sacrifice. We see these lights at the cradle; we see them brilliant as the click-bell in the stately college hall and afterward in the savings of our professional and mercantile careers. Wherever we went as long as our mothers were alive, we knew that they were doing for us the best they could. Ah, many and many is the time they broke for us the alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious! Today we lay our garlands of tribute upon the graves of the beloved mothers who cheerfully did for us what they could.

But next to our mothers I would speak of the sweet-faced women who bent over our cradle I would now say a few words in reference to the wives who have stood by us so faithfully and nobly during our struggles of young manhood and middle age and, I hope, will continue so to do in our old age if God will let them live until their hair is whitened and their step becomes infirm. When I look into the past I see how much I might have been if I had had a bad mother. Instead of a good mother. In the same way I shudder as I think of what our lives would have been if our wives had been selfish or lazy or unworthy instead of being the self-sacrificing, devoted women whom God has given us. The older I grow and the more I see of men the more I believe that they are to a great extent, the outgrowth of what their wives have done for them. Every husband, as a rule, appears to me the representative of a wife whom perhaps I have never seen. Victor Hugo reached his seven-fiftieth birthday his friends from all over the world sent to him gifts of flowers. His home was simply deluged with them. Showing one of his rooms filled with flowers to a friend, he turned and said: "Flowers are the language of the people who send them. Now, most of the donors of these flowers I have never seen, and yet from the flowers themselves I can tell who my friends are. That magnificent lily came from a French florist's green-house. The friend who sent me that must have been a well-to-do Parisian. This bunch of herbs could only grow on the Garonne, and that blue star flower can be found nowhere but in Normandy." Thus he went on, giving the history of the different baskets and bouquets and collections of wild flowers which had been sent to him as birthday gifts. As Victor Hugo read the characters of his unseen friends by the language of the flowers, I read the characters of wives by the conduct of their husbands.

Inevitably when you find a conscientious man working for Christ in the church you will find a noble, devoted wife back of that man, who is chiefly responsible for that man's conduct. Of course there are exceptions to all rules, but exceptions have been my experience in this respect that when I find a man joining the church whose wife thinks more of card parties and dances and club meetings and dinners than she does of her prayers and meetings I have but little hope of that man being an active or spiritual church member. I have known many women to stay in the church as faithful, loyal workers in spite of godless husbands, but I have in only two or three instances known a husband to be true to his church vows if he has an indifferent or godless wife. My brother, I believe, that we are to our mothers the human beings who have the most to do with our religious conduct have been our godly, consecrated, Christian wives.

Our wives have broken their alabaster box of ointment of spikenard, very precious upon our family affairs, and have made us as spiritual. But have they not done more than that? Oh, yes. They have literally sacrificed their all for us and submerged their lives in our life. When Benjamin Disraeli, retired from the ministerial bench Queen Victoria wrote to him to devote her favorite Prime Minister to the peerage. He declined at that time the honor for himself, but he practically said this, "Your Majesty, the honor you would confer upon me would gratify me more if conferred on my wife, for all that I have been able to accomplish in English statesmanship is due to her devotion and self-sacrifice." So for the time he remained plain Mr. Disraeli, while his wife bore the burden of Beaconsfield. Not until some years later did he accept the honor urged upon him and take the title of Earl of Beaconsfield.

And here let me state something which has been on my mind for a long time. I have been noticing how tired your wife looks of late. Aye, she is beginning to get that tired look your mother had during her last few years. You have often said to your brothers and sisters since your mother's death, "Oh, if father had only made her hold up a little she would have been with us now!" Yes, perhaps she would. Your mother was one of those "willing horses" who work themselves to death. Your wife is the same kind of a woman. Her alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious which she is now pouring upon you is her life's blood. You had better make her hold up or your children will be like you. About your mother's premature death what you said about your mother's. Yes, we have all had good mothers. We have all had good wives.

But as our minds wander back into the dim past there is another sweet face which arises above the horizon of our memories. Next to the mother and the wife I think this third face belongs to a young girl who has had the most influence in our mental and moral and spiritual development. I allude to that sweet sister who grew up by your side. She was a good girl. You cannot speak of her now without your lips trembling and your eyes being moistened with tears. Oh, you say, "If we were not so far apart how I would love to go and have one of the old chats we used to have!" Truly, she did for you what she could. She naturally did more for you than any of the other children, because you grew up together. You played your games together, you trudged to school together. She was a little older than you and was always looking after you. When you got into trouble you always went first to her. Cannot you hear her gentle voice saying: "Now, brother, you must not do that. Mother would not like you to do it." Though the older sister when she corrected you would always make you angry, she would always make you feel willing to do what you ought to do. Yes, yes, that dear sister has sacrificed a great deal for you. When you were a little she used to give you her pennies. Like the poor widow, she gave you her mite. It was not much intrinsically, but it was not all. When she grew a little older she still continued your friend. She gave to you her whole heart. Aye, it was a sad day for you when she married. Cannot you write to her now and bridge over that awful chasm of separation which has grown older and older, and that you have not seen her for years? Why, for years their lives have been spent in trying to please you. Aye, yes, we have had good mothers, good wives, good sisters and, thank God, good daughters.

But I cannot close without mentioning one other bearer of the alabaster box who has come into your life. She may have been an aunt or a grandmother or, as it was with me, a dear, affectionate Christian woman about sixty years of age. In all probability she came to you in a crisis. You may have gone to her for sympathy, you may have gone to her for spiritual or material help, and she never failed you.

Cannot you see her now? I can. I can remember just how she looked when I first met her. She was the saint of my Chicago church. She was one who always lived to do good. When sickness came into our home she was always there. Our babies were her babies, our troubles were her troubles, our joys were her joys. It was a dark, stormy day, the Good Friday before Easter of 1902, that I last saw her. I had been east visiting my sick father. She came to me to welcome me home. She was always thinking of others, never about herself. It was a biting, tempestuous day, and she caught cold. Pneumonia stabbed her force in the week she was dead, and in two weeks my mother was dead. It seemed as though the sorrow of our home was too great to bear. And yet today, as the memories of those patient, loving Christian women arise before us, where do we find them? Where are they pleading for us to do? Where have they given to us the best they have. Have they not done all this to lead us to that place where we may at last meet and where we shall never part again?

Son, husband, brother, father, friend, thy loved ones are breaking their alabaster boxes of ointment of spikenard very precious over you in the presence of Jesus, their King. Will you not look up and greet their alabaster boxes of ointment of spikenard very precious? Heaven will never be a perfect heaven to them unless they shall meet you there. Will you let their sacrifices lead you to Christ, that in his presence you may dwell with them forever? Aye, their alabaster boxes of ointment of spikenard very precious would not be too costly if by that sacrifice they could win your immortal souls for eternal companionship. In heaven they have done for us all they could to bring about that glorious consummation.

It is unprofitable to keep more sheep than one can properly care for.

EXPERIENCE OF A BIRCH TOWN LADY

Tried in Vain to Cure Her Dyspepsia. Till She Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They Cured Her Completely and Permanently.

Miss Mary Brown, of Birchtown, Shelburne Co., N. S., relates an experience that is of interest to all parts of Canada. These thousands are the people who face a square meal with mingled feelings of pleasure and dread, in other words the victims of Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

"I can say I had Dyspepsia for some time," says Miss Brown. "I tried many medicines but never met with anything to help me till I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

"After taking three boxes I think they have made a perfect cure. And as it is over a year now since I took them I think I can safely say the cure was a permanent one."

If you want to eat three square meals a day and enjoy them use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A GOOD GUESSER.

What qualifications have you for a position in the Weather Bureau? asked the chief of the bureau.

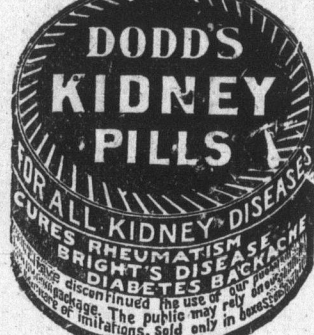

Oh, well, replied the hopeful applicant, I have once easily won the prize in a guessing contest.

NOTHING BUT TROUBLE.

There's heaps of trouble in this world—No use to question why. We only know there is enough. So no one need be shy. For never yet was the demand Quite up to the supply.

It's either love or something else, War, politics or trade, That keeps a fellow's temperature At ninety in the shade. And hands him with his daily bread More trouble, fresh hand made.

He dips into a business deal—A winner, he would swear—Which really seems must hand to him A fortune for his share. But all he ever draws is just A dividend of air.

He meets up with a pretty girl, A queen from top to boot; He opens up his large bazoos And straightway starts to toot, And very soon he's mixed up in A breach of promise suit.

Poor man! He's only born to woe, For troubles lightly sit Upon his doorstep, waiting him To see if they will fit. And all that he can do is groan And make the best of it.

"She is going to start a society for the mental and moral uplift of firm-ands."
"What's the idea of that? Don't they practice the hire life?"

Rough Edged.
"How is she coming with her vocal lessons?"
"She is saving word right along."
"I thought she could find a use for that voice."

Little Slower.
"When he asked her to marry him she told him to jump in the lake."
"Did he do it?"
"No; he joined the football team."

Needed Reform.
Speaking of a case Fourth of July. Why? Not have a sane Halloween? Because? You and me and the north pole, There is a whole Lot of good sense In immediate action. Possibilities in the idea. See? Why not expurgate the free For all right And give us a night Of peace? The police Could not object Nor expect Extra pay For the next day. If we are really grownup, let's put a rough house to rout And cut it out. What say, Little May?

Cool Returns.
"He is in love with the teacher."
"Does she return his affections?"
"Yes, she returns them by the first mail without opening them."

Why, the money is so pretty that she hates to spend it.

A SUCCESSFUL HORSEMAN.

Never allows his horse to suffer pain. He always uses Nerviline, which is noted for curing stiffness, rheumatism, swellings and strains. Nerviline is just as good inside as outside. For cramps, colic, and internal pain it's a perfect marvel. In the good riding stables Nerviline is always used, because it makes better horses and smaller veterinary bills. Twenty-five cents buys a large bottle of Nerviline. Try it.

THAT'S JUST IT.

The Flower Man in Japan.
In Japan when you furnish your house you send for the flower man, who comes and decorates your home with plants. This is always done as a matter of health. The flower man brings his palms, his quince trees, his flowering shrubs and his great spreading oriental flowers and bestows them about the house. If any one is ill he selects the flowers carefully, taking care to get a certain kind of scent, for there are people to whom scents act as a quietur.

THIS MEDICINE IS BREATHED.
That's why it is sure to cure Catarrh. You see it goes direct to the source of the disease—its healing vapors repairs the damage caused by catarrhal inflammation. "Catarrhozone" always cures because it goes into those tiny cells and passages that ordinary remedies can't reach, goes where the disease actually is impossible for "Catarrhozone" to fail. As any doctor will tell you, don't be misled into thinking there is anything as good as Catarrhozone—use it and you'll soon say good-by to catarrh.

Chinese Made the First Paper.
Like a good many other modern industries, that of paper making had its origin with the Chinese. The papyrus of the Greeks and Romans was not paper at all, but simply the piths of the stem of a plant cut into strips, placed side by side and across each other and pressed into a sheet, to which the natural gum of the plant gave a homogeneous character. But the Chinese in very early times made a genuine paper, in its general characteristics, as that produced by the perfected methods and machinery of today—William R. Stewart in Technical World Magazine.

No Gas—No Smoke—No Dust in the
"HECLA" FURNACE.
As the mercury in a thermometer expands with heat and contracts with cold, so does every other metal expand and contract but in different proportions. Steel and iron in a furnace expand and contract, but in different degrees. When the metals are joined by bolts and cement, the expansion and contractions gradually loosen the bolts and cause the cement to drop out, and the openings left allow the dust and gas to escape to the rooms above.
In the HECLA, there are no bolts—no cement. The joints are made by fusing the steel and iron together at white heat—just as a blacksmith welds together the pieces of a horseshoe.
The HECLA FUSED JOINTS are indestructible—as tight after ten years use, as before the first was started.
Send us a rough plan of your house and we will give you an estimate of the cost of installing a HECLA FURNACE. No charge for this.
