German Internal Situation Grows More Acute; Franchise Reforms Discussed

Unconfirmed Rumors of Abdication of Kaiser in Favor of Son, Prince Joachim

German Emperor Reported to Have Quit Throne

Abdicated in Favor of His Son Prince Joachim, Say Unconfirmed Rumors From Many Centres; Situation Waxes More Ominous Within the German Empire

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, July 13.—A dispatch to The Morning Post from Amsterdam says that rumors current that Emperor William has abdicated in favor of his son Prince Joachim, are unconfirmed and must be taken with all reserve.

Anzeiger Suspended

Copenhagen, July 14.—The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger has been suppressed indefinitely by the military authorities. The reason is not given, but presumably it is on account of an attack on Austro-Hungary in connection with the statement by Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, who has come out for peace without annexation.

Generals Confer

London, July 14.—A dispatch to The Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen says it is officially reported from Berlin that Field Marshal von Hindenburg, chief of the general staff, and General Ludendorff, who have been summoned to Berlin by Emperor William, arrived in the capital yesterday morning. The Tageblatt learns they had a long conference with the Crown Prince and later were received by the Emperor.

Hollweg's Resignation

Paris, July 14.—The report that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg has resigned is being circulated in Switzerland, according to a Havas dispatch from Basel, which says advices to that effect have reached there from Berlin. The dispatch adds that the report has not been confirmed.

The Situation

Copenhagen, July 14.—According to Berlin newspapers, the Crown Prince, in interviews Thursday with Reichstag party leaders, including Herr David and other Socialists, interested himself chiefly in obtaining from the deputies their views on the person and policy of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor. He quizzed each deputy privately, encouraging all of them to express freely their views on Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. Individual audiences lasted more than half an hour each. The Crown Prince is reported to have said he was doing this in accordance with the wish of Emperor William, who had suggested that he form his own opinion of the chancellor's policy, through interviews with party leaders.

The morning papers appear to have had no intimation of the impending strike of reichstag deputies and the emperor's summons to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, chief of the general staff. They devote their columns to a discussion of the Prussian franchise reforms and the paradox that a crisis originating in the demand for Liberal reforms and the proclamation of a moderate peace program should have made possible the supplanting of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg by Prince von Guelow. Von Guelow by comparison is almost a radical and is an avowed believer in annexationist peace.

The Tageblatt opposes Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's retirement vigorously, while other papers are lukewarm or openly hostile to the present chancellor.

The Socialists' organ, Vorwaerts, assumes that the royal instructions will ensure the passage of the Prussian reform bill in the shape prescribed by the king. Other papers are optimistic. They believe the Conservatives quite capable of disobeying the sovereign and again frustrating reform.

Baron von Zedlitz, the free Conservative leader, says in The Morgenpost, that unless outside circumstances, notably the outcome of the war, affects the decision, it may be assumed that the majorities in both houses of the Prussian parliament will oppose equal suffrage and pass half way measure. He suggests that the government and the reformers will find it advisable to accept a half loaf rather than risk grave internal conflicts with the outcome doubtful.

The Bourse Gazette, National Liberal, says that not even a majority of the party can be counted upon to support equal suffrage in Prussia. The Tageblatt and other papers assume that a thorough reorganization of the house, perhaps by packing it with new peers, is necessary before the equal franchise bill will pass the upper house.

The Conservatives and members of the Clerical Centre party in the diet have started playing for delay and have abandoned their previous demand for a session of the diet before autumn. They profess to believe that it is impossible for the government to submit the bill before October.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

By Courier Leased Wire
Paris, July 14.—Amatole De Monticelli, secretary of sea transport, and merchant marine, a new office which has just been created, has appointed an advisory committee consisting of O. J. Del Plaz, a director of the French steamship line, and M. Philippart, of the Messageries Maritimes, and three other directors of the principal French lines. They will be consulted on all questions concerning the management and chartering of ships and methods for increasing the tonnage.

TRAINING CAMP

By Courier Leased Wire
Wakefield, Mass., July 14.—Canadian army officers, who have seen active service in France, assisted today in the opening of a training camp here for officers of the National Guard in this state not yet in federal service. During the ten days that they are here the officers will be instructed in trench digging, construction of wire entanglements, use of hand grenades, sapping and mining.

Driven to cover through the activities of the police and Federal authorities, the Socialists of Philadelphia, who have been active in opposition to conscription declare that their flight against the national army law will continue with equal zeal, but will be waged by them in secret.

Five thousand New York saloons have abolished the free lunch, cut down beer glasses, and added a nickel to the price of imported drinks.

REPUBLICANS PRESS HARD UPON PEKING

Firing On Chinese Capital Reported To Have Ceased Thursday

NO NEWS FROM CITY

Republicans Reported Gain in In Latest Word Received

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, July 14.—A dispatch to the Times from Peking, dated Thursday says that firing on the capital ceased after nine hours bombardment. The damage is unimportant.

A Tien Tsin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, filed on Thursday, says that "most regrettable fighting" occurred in Peking. Communication between the city and the outer world, except by foreign military means has been suspended temporarily. The last message to reach Tien Tsin indicated hard fighting was proceeding to the advantage of the Republicans.

Republics Restored

Washington, July 14.—The occupation of Peking by the Republican forces, following the surrender at Fung Tai Thursday of the Monarchist army of 10,000 men, indicates the complete restoration of the republic, the Chinese legation here declared today.

Prior to the battle of Fung Tai, the Manchus were urged to lay down their arms, but General Chang Hsun refused. The engagement, starting early Thursday morning, resulted in a decisive victory for the Republican troops, dispatches to the legation announce.

Resignation of Cancellor, Von Bethmann Hollweg, Accepted, According to Wolff Bureau; Roumanian Situation Serious, a Cabinet Crisis Impending There Also

By Courier Leased Wire.

Copenhagen, July 14.—The Wolff News Bureau of Germany, circulates without accepting any responsibility for it, a statement by The Tagelische Rundschau that the resignation of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, has been accepted.

Centrists Support

Copenhagen, July 14.—According to a dispatch from Berlin to The Berlingske Tidende, the new peace formula put forward by the Liberals is being supported by a great part of the Centrist party. All parties have summoned their members to Berlin as soon as possible.

Cabinet Crisis

Jassy, Roumania, July 6.—(Delayed).—A cabinet crisis is confronting the Roumanian Government. Four Conservative ministers have refused further to cooperate with Premier Bratiano and they also demand that two more Conservatives be admitted to the cabinet. They likewise insist that M. Bratiano resign and that Take Jonesou, minister without portfolio, be appointed to succeed him.

Drastic Measures

Berlin, Thursday, July 12.—(via London, July 14)—If the Prussian diet fails to meet conditions set forth in Emperor William's decree for electoral reforms, it is not unlikely drastic measures will be adopted to overcome the obstructionists. The lower chamber might be dissolved. In the case of the House of Lords it would be necessary to augment its membership by a wholesale creation of new peers for the purpose of procuring the desired majority.

French National Fete

Paris, July 14.—France to-day celebrated its national fete with fervor and quiet joy unknown in many years. The Russian revolution makes national fete, they who believe us are the Americans bringing us their meaning of the great epoch which dawned in American in 1776, culminated in France in 1789 in a great revolution whose spirit after over a century is about to have its full fruition in the destruction of the last Bastille of absolutism by the forces of allied democracy.

"It is a pity," says Paul Deschanel, president of the Chamber of deputies, in a message to The Journal, that the Germans cannot see our national fete, they who believe us are the Americans bringing us their meaning of the great epoch which dawned in American in 1776, culminated in France in 1789 in a great revolution whose spirit after over a century is about to have its full fruition in the destruction of the

"In the month of April, notwithstanding magnificent results we did not realize our hopes. Since then a noble leader, who has had nothing but success in this war, a great infantryman, a wise, upright and clear mind has been put at the head of our armies. Already the Russians are fulfilling their pledges and here are the Americans bringing us their powerful support not only in money, airplanes and ships, but in men and munitions.

"America's intervention, while a decisive verdict on the justice of our cause, is a sure guarantee of victory. It makes it more than ever our duty to hold on.

In the detachment guarding the colors of the 106th infantry in today's review, was a white-bearded sergeant, wearing a medal of 1870 and the war cross with several stars and palms. His name is Le Mahtager. He was in the United States in 1870, but returned to fight for his country. Returning to America after the war, he went to Los Angeles, where he made his fortune. He heard the call of duty again in 1914, and left for France with his wife and four daughters. Notwithstanding his sixty-four years, he enlisted, has fought for three years and has been wounded. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant and is understood to be the oldest man in the ranks of the French army.

Paris wept and cheered at the sight of the battle-torn flags brought from the front and carried through the streets to-day. There were 124 of them, each standard of some regiment or battalion remarkable for valor and suffering. With each flag marched 30 men picked from the regiment—men who had been through infernos of endurance and assaults, most of them recovered from wounds, each of them exceptional, among so many brave men for the deeds done. The Cross of the Legion of Honor, the Military Medal or the War Cross swung from ribbons above each flag, for they were flags from regiments and battalions which have been decorated in their entirety. There were extraordinary scenes along every part of the route. The crowds cheered frantically, but thousands of men and women, too deeply moved to raise their voices, gave way to tears.

Reforms a Move Towards Peace

By Courier Leased Wire

New York, July 14.—The Tribune this morning publishes the following cablegram from Arthur S. Draper, under London date:

"The Kaiser's decree ordering the drafting of a bill giving equal franchise to Prussia may mean the settlement of the present political crisis, but further developments are expected.

To-day I obtained the view of Lord Robert Cecil on the German situation.

"I am inclined to agree with those who say it is a chancellor-made crisis," he began. "Probably the people have begun to learn that frightfulness cost dearly, and in order to fight the junkies, etc. advocates of frightfulness, the chancellor enlists the support of Erzberger.

"What has frightfulness cost Germany? I venture to say that her greatest failure has been the submarine. If she had stopped torpedoing I doubt whether the United States would be her enemy now; I doubt whether she would have lost her great markets in South America. No one who knows the submarine figures, fears for a moment that Germany will win the war by the submarine.

"She has sunk ships indiscriminately, neutral and belligerent. She has alienated her friends among the European neutrals to the point where doubt exists whether ten per cent of their population would now support her.

"Her air raids on England make it more difficult for her to come to peace. You know how furious the phlegmatic Englishman has been over the killing of civilians, women and children, how he has been worked up to the point of white heat by this form of frightfulness.

"If the chancellor is a man of intelligence—and he is—he knows all this and probably he wants to find a way out.

"In Lloyd George's Glasgow speech he said that the allies could make a better peace with a democratized Germany and possibly this was taken to heart by Prussian leaders."

A war wedding having a romantic interest above the ordinary took place at Bolton, England, recently, when Corp. Robert Gentles, of the 28th Canadian Infantry Battalion, was married to Miss Lisette Wilson, M.B., Ch.B., Abdn., D.P.H. Cantab., to whose skill and devotion he largely owes his recovery from wounds received in action.

Corporal Gentles is an American of Scottish descent, one of the many in the United States who would not wait for the formal declaration of war on Germany, before actively taking up arms for liberty. His firm, McLaren and Gentles, of New York, is well known not only in America, but to many members of the grain trade in London and Liverpool. The sinking of the Lusitania was the act of barbarism which made neutrality impossible for Mr. Gentles. Within some hours of publication of the news of that murderous outrage his determination was fixed; within a less number of days he had left his business in New York en route for Ottawa; within a week he was in the British khaki, a member of the second overseas Canadian Division, and bound for England.

LONDON EXCITED ABOUT A ROMNEY. Mr. Huntington on American collector brought suit against an art dealer for the return of $100,000 paid for an alleged Romney, supposed to be a portrait of Mrs. Scott Simons and her sister. The trial created unusual interest, particularly the factiousness of Mr. Justice Darling. The picture is here hung in the court.

SECOND TO NONE

What has amazed all impartial spectators of the British fighting man is his imperturbability. Fear? Does he feel fear? One must suppose so since he is human. But it is not apparent in his demeanor. I know an officer who fell wounded in Mametz Wood during the attack on the Somme. He was so overcome with loss of blood that he lay entirely still, unable to move a muscle, unable to utter a sound. Two stretcher-bearers approached him in the course of their business. It was raining shells and raining bullets. They seemed to be unaware of it. They approached him. "Lor, 'ere's an officer," said one.

The other looked down. "No good touchin' 'im," said the other. "E's gone west."

"Seems 'ave got pretty badly 'it," said the first. "Wonder if 'e's really dead?"

They stood by him discussing him for some moments in his hearing as though they might be standing at the corner of a London street, and the bullets whistled all about them. Then they began to move away. In that instant the shock of the officer's voice and he succeeded in crying out. They turned back. "There you are," said the first. "E ain't dead after all. I thought 'he warn't'."

"Well, 'e did look stiff," rejoined his colleague. "You can't always tell though. I remember 'ow once at Loos. He enlarged on reminiscences of a previous battle while they lifted their helpless burden on a stretcher. It was all as commonplace and matter-of-fact as possible, but there was never a slip in their trained efficiency, their kindness and care. And all around them raged the

At Port Dover, twenty-seven wrote. The list includes both the village and rural candidates: Annie Holden, (hon.) Janet Lowe, Albert McBride, Mary McBride, Alice Miller, Lloyd Murray, Stanley Murray, Margaret Sidway, Melissa Tupper, Ivan Walleck, Hazel M. Ward. Chief Ganning got a hurry up call yesterday while home for dinner. He got near the scene of trouble in time to see an automobile moving off from Metcalf street in the vicinity of the rectory and by a shortcut got down Talbot to Stanley in time to take the number and follow the car to the Overland garage, where he found the fenders on one side damaged and one of the two occupants, said to be a drug traveller working out of Hamilton suffering from a slight abrasion on the forehead and other apparently temporary infirmity. The other was a young Simconian who saw the man alone in the car and got in to pilot it back to the garage. As the stranger was not disposed to leave the car, Mr. Crath undertook to vouch for his appearance when required. At ten o'clock he was still sitting in the car and the chief was looking for Magistrate Gunton who had just arrived from Toronto and had possibly gone down to his Port Ryerse cottage.

Press Photographs John Smith of Port Rowan was in town last evening. Sergt. Bennett, returned soldier, of the 20th, left yesterday afternoon for Quebec, to commence his duties on a Government job. Mrs. Gunton, Sr., and Miss Gunton, Talbot Street, have joined the Simcoe population at Port Ryerse. George Pepper, of Simcoe Lodge, No. 1983, was the tallest man in the Dover procession on Thursday, and his niece, a Lady True Blue, of Bridgeburg, who walked with him, was the shortest in the line. Progress for several weeks, is now nearing completion.

A Night for Oddfellows Open installation of the local Oddfellows and Rebecka lodges was held

THE SITUATION.

There is no holding back the rejuvenated Russians. They are simply sweeping over the Austro-German defences and have captured many more important positions and villages. The fact that many Germans are reported as among the Austrian troops taken, shows that they have been rushed forward to help strengthen the latter, but evidently to not much avail.

The rumor is current in London that the Kaiser is now casting about for the purpose of offering easier peace terms than previously. He does not yet seem to realize that the demands of the Allies will have to be met in full even if the struggle is prolonged for years.

There is to be an enquiry into the unfortunate blowing up of the British battleship Vanguard. Whether the internal explosion was caused by accident or the result of an enemy act remains to be demonstrated.

Complete details show that the British troops who were trapped on the Belgian dunes, fought to the last gasp before surrender, and left the Flanders sands dyed with their blood.

THE CONSCRIPTION ACT

The Military Service Bill which is likely to obtain its third reading in the Dominion House next week, is a drastic measure, and Sir Robert Borden has more than once given the intimation that it will be thoroughly enforced. This is as it should be.

These stern times do not call for latitude and there has been altogether too much of it allowed thus far, especially in Quebec.

Not only must the men in all the classes named do military service when called upon or suffer the consequences, but, in addition civilians will also come under the drastic provisions. Any one who attempts to impede in any way the operation of the measure will be adjudged as having committed a criminal act. Any person who writes a letter or article for publication which is calculated to bring into disrepute the operation of the selective measure will be liable to a like penalty.

Outside of hiding God speed to thousands of departing volunteers, and the saddened homes of those mourning for loved ones who have met the death of heroes at the front, the people of this Dominion have not been brought face to face with the hard realities of the struggle. Those of us remaining at home have gone our respective ways much as usual, with peace reigning in a land untouched by the terrible ravages of conflict.

The time has come when the truth must be pressed home of the call for greater self-sacrifice and the grim need for more intense participation. In every direction this feeling must prevail and be held possible strength in the matter of men, and produce and financial aid.

The Selective Conscription Act is only one step in what must become a general and thoroughly well enforced plan of all round help.

The war is ours just as much as that of England, and France, and Belgium, and all the rest of the Allies, and that truth must be grasped to a very much greater extent than has thus far been the case.

FOOD CONTROL

The urging of food control by Mr. W. F. Cocksutt, M.P., in the Dominion House some two years ago, and again early this session, have been fully vindicated by the report of Mr. W. F. O'Connor, the cost of living Commissioner.

The lesson brought home with renewed emphasis is that of government control, and the sooner it is inaugurated the better.

R. K. Bickford, a prominent Buffalo Mason, dropped dead while motoring his wife, and a party of friends home from the Automobile Club.

Lord Northcliffe was given a luncheon in New York by the Overseas Club, of which he is founder. He announced that the club has raised over $2,000,000 for patriotic purposes.

FRENCH CANADIANS SQUEAL

The French Canadian papers do not like the rigid scope of the Conscription Bill.

"In what country are we living?" asks Le Canada editorially. "Are the Grand Dukes of the Russian oligarchy set up at Ottawa? When shall we have Cossacks, the knout, and Siberia?"

"If we had elections this fall, according to the new sections which they propose to add to the law, it would be forbidden to discuss conscription either in the press or at meetings."

La Liberté heads its editorial "Tyrants or Fools." Folly reigns sovereign at Ottawa," it says. "That is the only plausible excuse we can find. The Hon. Mr. Meighen, Solicitor-General, has revealed himself a worthy rival of the Kaiser. He would put everyone in prison, gag all speakers, muzzle the Canadian press, abolish the writ of habeas, etc. He has completely lost his head, poor man."

As a matter of fact there is no portion of the Dominion in which a strict enforcement of the Act is more needed than among the French Canadians.

A large number of them have been traitorous in their talk and in their actions, and it is high time to bring them to task.

There is to be an enquiry into the unfortunate blowing up of the British battleship Vanguard. Whether the internal explosion was caused by accident or the result of an enemy act remains to be demonstrated.

Up To You Notwithstanding the tremendous sale of Red Rose Tea there are still some who have not yet tasted its distinctive flavor and rich strength. Are you one of them? If so, why not try it? In sealed packages only.

THE WAR SPIRIT The martial spirit's in the air and across men's blood a-bubbling; I run across it everywhere; for glory we are spilling. We walk with military stride, becoming to the jingo, and talking army lingo. The grocer's humming war-like tunes, such airs as "Yankee Doodle," as he wraps up his boneless prunes, to gain a little booty. The plumber's thinking as he plumbs, of war, and he is singing, "Oh see the conquering hero comes, Red Bill's Angora brings." The chef in Gill's Angora brings, while he stirs up the gravy, the story of the golden feats of heroes of our navy. The lawyer drops the points of law he's scheduled to unravel, and tells how his forefathers saw the Hessians scratching gravel. The pastor takes a martial text, a text that treats of battling, and tells how he'll be sorely vexed if he can't wield a broadsword, and he moulds his gaiting. The baker, as he moulds his bread, in fancy predetermines what he will do with all his dead, when he has met the Germans. Peace always was a dream of mine, to which I still am partial, and yet 'tis thrills my ancient spine to see the boys so martial.

SOME STORM

City officials and others who happened to be in the city hall this morning when the thunder shower was at its height were apprehensive of the welfare of the venerable pile. A furious cloudburst shook the building until it trembled with fear, apparently believing that its day of judgment had finally arrived. Mr. Alfred Gammon, of Plattsville, 90 years of age, is on a visit to his brother-in-law, Mr. William Davies, William Street, this city. Mr. Gammon came to Brantford in 1842. At that time there was not a brick building on Colborne Street. The Cocksfoot store was then a small frame building. He worked with Mr. Sheppard a farmer, in West Brantford, for two and a half years, and then went to learn the carriage making with Alva Townsend, of Mount Pleasant. He lived there 11 years, then went to the Township of Bienheim and started a blacksmith shop at Pears Corners, and of late years has been living retired in the village of Plattsville. The members of the Semi-Centennial Association expect that the Board of Works would co-operate and assist in making the event a success, especially when the $500 grant made by the city council was returned.

NO COBERT

The stillness of the grave itself pervaded the solemn court room at the police station this morning, the rainy weather having apparently dampened the enthusiasm of the "crooked" gentry of the city.

THE MARKET

Vegetables were much more in prominence on the market this morning than last week, white strawberries, of a good quality, but sparse in quantity, remained stationary in price. The first cherries of the season were offered for sale, mostly by the box, selling for ten cents. There was no change in the selling price of dairy products or meats. New potatoes made their debut this morning, the owners reluctantly disposing of them for seventy-five cents a peck. As a result of their invasion, the old variety lost some of its popularity with a consequent lowering of price.

MR. FLAVELLE WIRES THE PREMIER.

The following telegram has been sent by the president of the William Davies Limited to Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister for Canada with respect to a statement published by the department of labor concerning the business of the Wm. Davies Co. Ltd. "Sir Robert Borden P. C., K.C.M.G., Prime Minister, Ottawa. The statements given to the press by the department of labor, and which appear in the morning papers covering the business of the William Davies Co., are grotesquely untrue, both in the mass and in detail. They evidence a curious admixture of ignorance and malice. I deeply regret the injustice of this attack, I regret it naturally on personal grounds, but even more on public grounds. Bitterness and anger and suspicion are being stirred up against public men, against labor and capital and corporations which, in many instances have a better support than flippant impudence and ignorance. The pity of it in this case is that an authoritative statement was available and was not consulted. The department of finance is furnished with a balance sheet and the profit and loss sheet annually of each firm in Canada given under the provision of the business tax measure. The statement of the William Davies Company is and must continue to be furnished to the department of finance, and the statements are not only audited on behalf of the accountant but are verified by the accountant of the department of finance and are final in authority. The department of labor could have procured such further information as they might have desired by application to the general manager of the company and could thus have avoided the grave injustice of an attack based upon absurdly untrue statements. During the entire war the William Davies Company has sought for no special advantage or profit other than could be secured through diligence and attention to its business. If much volume of business has been secured in contrast to other it has been secured in open competition free from combination or arrangement or understanding with other packers. Our firm has made the offer to the imperial authorities at different periods since the outbreak of war to operate to its capacity in bacon products, canned meats, products and pork and bean product, on a cost and percentage basis, but each time the offer was declined, first for bacon and later for canned meats and pork and beans. The imperial authorities expressed the desire to purchase in the open market. All army purchases of bacon are made in London. All army purchases of canned meats and pork and beans are made in Canada. Both are made in open and untrammelled competition with the world, during the period of the war is confined to the United States, the Argentine, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. If it is wrong to secure a share of this and other business under these competitive conditions, the company has been guilty of such wrong and of no other. As this statement was issued by the department of labor, I ask you to take such steps as you may think necessary whereby the truthfulness or untruthfulness of these statements can be established."

PUTTING A SALMON RIVER ON THE MAP

SEVEN BEAUTIES FROM ONE POOL. READING FROM RIGHT TO LEFT: MAXMILLIAN FOSTER, W. O. M'GEEHAN, JACK LAIT, GRANTLAND RICE. MAXMILLIAN FOSTER HAS HIS HANDS FULL.

THE map referred to is a map of some importance, for salmon is the big game of the fisherman, and brings in search of it sportsmen from all over the world with big two-handed rods and large noisy reels and (what Canada much desires) a Canadian woods for over fifty years, and A. O. Seymour, General Tourist Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, an ardent fisherman.

When they arrived at Fredericton, all the local fishermen were peevish. "If there are salmon in the Cains," they said, "you have come at the wrong time. They went out with the ice and are now at sea. Better go home and come back in a month." It was cold and raining, the worst kind of weather for flyfishing, but nothing daunted, they set out.

With eight fishermen, one movie camera operator from the Esanay Company of Chicago, and nine guides, the fleet started out near the head of the Cains River, fishing in the pools as they went down. The first day they struck only trout, but from the sec-

BILL JAMES KEPT RED SOX GUESSING

Detroit Won 1-0, Holding Boston To One Hit Yesterday

Detroit, July 14.—James shut out Detroit yesterday, holding them to one hit, and Detroit won, 1 to 0. The only hit made by the visitors was a single by Lewis in the seventh. Leonard also pitched fine ball, but in the ninth Cobb hit the first ball pitched to right for three bases and scored on Hooper's wild throw. Bush's fielding was the score: Boston 00000000—0 1 Detroit 00000001—1 4 2 Leonard and Agney; James and Stanga.

Sisler's Bat Enough St. Louis, July 14.—Sisler's hard hitting enabled St. Louis yesterday to win from Philadelphia, 2 to 1. In the fourth, after Austin and Sloane had singled, Sisler drove in Austin with a double. In the sixth Sloan was safe when Grover fumbled his grounder and scored on Sisler's second double. The score: Philadelphia 00000010—1 6 4 St. Louis 00010100—2 7 1 Bush and Shang; Meyer, Davenport and Severid.

Unusual Play at Plate Chicago, July 14.—An unusual play in the 11th inning gave New York a 6-to-5 victory over Chicago yesterday. After one man was out Peckinpah singled and took second on a sacrifice. Pipp then singled to center and Peckinpah started home. Pelsch's throw to the plate was perfect and, as Peckinpah slid, Schalk dropped upon him and also dropped the ball. Schalk, while sitting on the New Yorker, recovered the ball and touched Peckinpah out. Peckinpah was trapped a foot from the base, but Empire Evans ruled him safe, claiming that Schalk held him while he was recovering the ball. The score: New York 01000130001—6 14 3 Chicago 40000100000—5 8 3 Caldwell, Love, Cullop, A. Russell and Nunamaker; Williams, Feber and Schalk.

PAULINE JOHNSON—TEKAHION-WAKE. An Appreciation E. Pauline Johnson was the daughter of Chief George H. M. Johnson, head chief of the Six Nations Indians from Brantford, Canada. She was, therefore, good blood in her veins; the "blood royal" of the Mohawks and the "red blood" of her English mother;—from the former she inherited the absorbing love of outdoor life; from the latter the poetic gifts that have made her famous as an interpreter of nature.

MENTION TO MOTORISTS

Thousands of motorists each season are having their first experience in the operating of sliding gear transmissions. Changing gears is a matter of some little difficulty in the beginning at least, and it is a fact never learn to shift gears quietly and to the best advantage.

There are a few difficulties which the inexperienced driver should be warned against, among which are the following: Attempting to shift from one gear to another without first throwing out the clutch. An expert may be able to do this without noise or disastrous results, but, in general, it should never be attempted.

Trying to engage the reverse gear without first allowing the car to come to a full stop.

Attempting to change from neutral to low gear with the car at rest and the engine running "on fast."

Among other "don'ts" for the unskilled operator of sliding gears are these: Don't fail to know exactly where the "reverse" position of the great shift is, and don't fall scrupulously into this position so long as the car is moving forward.

Don't try to shift from a higher gear to a lower gear without letting the car speed slacken somewhat before so doing.

Don't try to change from high gear to low without letting the car nearly stop.

Don't fail to speed up the car somewhat before changing from a lower to a higher gear.

The following of these few suggestions will eliminate much unnecessary noise and wear and tear.

Transmissions as built to-day, are extremely rugged, but, nevertheless, mishandling such as the driver here warned against may chip the teeth of the gears or even cause the breakage of shafts and other parts.

It always should be remembered that two gears cannot be forced into engagement quickly and easily unless they are running at somewhat near the same speed. This is an important point in gear-shifting.

Organization of Resources Committee. We must get 500 Volunteer Harvest Helpers this week. Three months ago—when famine and world hunger became a possibility we said to Ontario farmers YOU MUST PRODUCE MORE FOOD. The farmers have produced more food—and now call upon town and city men to help them to harvest it. Five hundred men are wanted now. More men will be needed later. But we must have five hundred men at once for from two to six weeks or for the balance of the season. Good wages paid. Consequently we urge employers to release men temporarily for this work, and keep their jobs open for them. And we call upon all men, who can, to help gather the harvest. The food crops must be taken off the ground. You need them as much as our own soldiers and Allies in Europe. Many men will Volunteer to do it instead of taking a vacation this year—will you? If so, offer yourself now. Register in person or by mail at the Local Bureau—they will give you all particulars.

"North of the Dniester, in the region of Halicz, says the war office statement, the Russians captured important heights and drove the enemy back to northeast of Ehlus, occupying two villages.

"The engagement on the Honika River (northwest of Halicz), continued to develop on Thursday. Our troops crossed to the left bank of the river confluence and captured heights on the line of the River Dniester-Bukazowiec-Bludniki. After a stubborn battle the enemy was driven back from the heights to the northwest of Ehlus. We occupied the villages of Studzianka and Podhorki.

"In the region of Kalusz a Bohemian cavalry attack, captured four heavy guns. Southwest of Kalusz, on the Landstrub Lazniay-Krasne front our troops engaged in battle with the enemy, who were protecting the crossings of the River Lomni on the route to Roemilov and Polina. The heavy down-pour caused part of the southern approach of the main street bridge to cave in on Monday night. British War Vessel Vanguard Sinks—Two of Crew Only Survive

London, July 14.—The British battleship Vanguard blew up and sank on July 9, says an official statement issued last night by the British admiralty. An internal explosion while the ship was at anchor caused the disaster to the Vanguard. Only three men of those on board survived, and one of them has died since. Twenty-four officers and 71 men, however, were not on board at the time of the explosion.

The official statement reads: "H. M. S. Vanguard, Capt. James D. Dick, blew up while at anchor on the night of July 9, as the result of an internal explosion.

"The ship sank immediately, and there were only three survivors among those aboard ship at the time of the disaster. There were, however, 24 officers and 71 men not on board at the time, thus bringing the total number of survivors to 97.

"A full inquiry has been ordered." The British battleship Vanguard displaced 19,250 tons, and her complement before the war was 870 men. The Vanguard belonged to the St. Vincent class of dreadnaughts and was launched in March, 1909. The Vanguard was 536 feet long, with a beam of 34 feet and a draft of 27 feet. Her armament consisted of ten 12-inch guns, eighteen 4-inch guns and four 3-pounders, in addition to three torpedo tubes.

HOW MOTOR CAR SERVES FARMER

Automobile Playing A Big Part In Rural Life Of Nation Today

Used rightly, the automobile is a fine thing on the farm. It cannot be used for the same purpose as a Clydesdale horse, a milch cow or a fat pig, and it will not bring in a revenue in just the same way, but it, has however, a place to fill, and if used with the same judgment that one would expect to exercise with the other farm equipment in order to secure a reasonable income, it will fill that place just as well as any one of the others.

No doubt many people have the idea that the auto on the farm serves no purpose other than a plaything. This is not the correct view of the modern car. It bears about the same relation to the general farm management and operations that the telephone bears to the home and who for a moment would think of doing away with that great convenience? Certainly not the one who has been in touch with it and who knows and can appreciate its many phases of usefulness. So is it with the car. It is the quick-message work, or the speed-up job where the auto comes in to do its part in the farm economy.

There are always more or less light jobs to do which, in order to accomplish successfully or to work out at a profit, must be done quickly. For instance, a five-mile trip must suddenly be undertaken. The teams are away or at work and would be too slow anyway. What can be done? No way to go. But wait. What about the auto? And almost before you could think about hitching up a horse the car is half-way toward the end of the journey. The auto has saved the situation.

Again, the binder breaks down on a busy day—no repairers less than ten miles away; no more work for half a day. But, hold on, the auto! The horses are tied to the fence; a speed-up trip is made to the agent, and the binder is again running at full speed within an hour. Ah, wonderful! Who says the car is only a plaything?

LADIES' SPORT COAT.

By Anabel Worthington.

Every one will be wearing sport coats this season—some quite elaborate models, but for the most part, the plainest styles will be popular. These simply cut coats depend largely upon the bright colors to make them attractive. The design shown in No. 8327 is one of the best that have been brought out this season, for it has good lines, is easy to make and has the latest style features, such as the pointed collar, which is convertible, and the pockets, which stand out from the coat, giving the new barrel silhouette. A narrow belt of the material slips under the pockets, and one end is thrown over the other in front. A good suggestion is to line the pockets with the material used for the collar, of a contrasting color to that of the coat. Wool jersey, wool Velour, corduroy or any of the sport cloths are suitable.

The sport coat pattern, No. 8327, is cut in five sizes—34 to 42 inches bust measure. The 36-inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 23-inch material, with 1/4 yard 30-inch contrasting goods. To obtain this pattern send 10 cent to the office of this publication.

Do Without Your Phone

D ID YOU EVER THINK what this world would be like without any telephones at all? Of course we should get along after a fashion but what a tremendous nuisance it would be! Before the invention of the telephone, business was a very different matter from what it is today. But no one wishes to return to outworn customs, nor could we if we wished, any more than the butterfly could return to its chrysalis state. The great fundamental law of Progress sweeps us along, no matter how much we may seem to resist. And that's what has brought the Automatic Telephone into being which presents an IMPROVED telephone with all the inconveniences of the old system eliminated. "Privacy," "Speed" and "efficiency" are the three words which describe it most aptly but to these we would add "economy," a significant word at this time.

THE WORLD OF LABOR

Gleaned From the Exchanges and Other Sources A Budget of News for Those Interested in Labor

State Labor Commissioner Woodman has revoked the license of an employment agency in Houston, Texas, which was found guilty of sending workers to places where no demand for labor existed.

Electrical workers in Detroit, Mich., on strike to raise wages, are meeting with success, a majority of employers having agreed to the new rates, which increase wages from 50 cents to $1.25 a day.

Stove Mounters' Union, No. 61, of Newark, Cal., secured an agreement with the James Graham Manufacturing Company. Day rates are advanced to 49 cents an hour, and piece prices are raised 10 per cent.

It is stated that the Carnation Milk Products Co., of Kent, Wash., is employing 400 strike breakers to replace 180 workers forced on strike because of low wages. The company paid as low as 14 cents an hour.

After a short strike, plumbers' laborers in St. Louis, Mo., raised wages to $3.75 a day and secured an agreement with the Master Plumbers' Association. Time and one-half rates will be paid for Saturday afternoon work.

The 2 platoon system for St. Paul's municipal firemen has been adopted. These employees were recently organized and are affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Organized machinists have asked contract shops in Bridgeport, Conn., to raise wages 15 per cent, on account of continuous increase in living expenses.

Machinists employed by the Nickel Plate Railroad in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Stoney Island, Chicago, have raised wages 4 and 4 1-2 cents an hour, respectively.

Organized sheet metal workers in Portland, Ore., have won their strike for increased wages and better working conditions. A union shop agreement has been secured.

The Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Union of Tacoma, Wash., has secured a union shop agreement with employers. Wages are increased 50 cents a day, and the working day is reduced to 10 hours.

The International Brotherhood of Papermakers is strong in Thorold. The larger number of its members are employed at the Ontario Mill, which now has a plant which with recent additions cost two million dollars.

Wentworth, Ont., became a city on Dominion Day. Ten years ago this bustling industrial centre was hardly known it was entirely of the labor map, but since then it has made such rapid headway that it is now styled the Birmingham of Canada. Big factories, workshops have been established the population has grown rapidly, a strong labor movement is being built up, and it is a live labor party that is making splendid progress and will be a factor hereafter in the political field.

The fight of the custom tailors in Montreal is still on, and the bosses profess to wonder why the union is keeping up the fight. They are liable to find out if they do not settle up before the fall season sets in. The tailors propose to fight things-out to a finish; they have already won the best shops and are satisfied if the rest of the boys and girls who are out stand pat the master tailors must come over. The bosses are apparently beginning to realize that it is a blue outlook for their business. In other words, it looks as though the union has them where their hair is long with a down-hill pull.

St. John (N.B.) labor is making steady headway; it was never before in as good shape as it is to-day; the different local organizations are all adding to their members, and the central labor body is a live institution. The international unions now have all the call, and the movement has grown to be an influence that even the politicians have come to realize must be treated with a whole lot more consideration than has been accorded to it in the past. In another illustration of the fact that if you want anything you have got to organize and assert yourself. It's the way you do things that brings results.

London cigarmakers are supporting a baseball team, the Blue Labels, which is putting up a great game. The team is managed by Ernie Dinmore, of Canadian League fame, and the veteran Jo Jo Keenan is on its lineup. In a recent contest with the Chatham team they took its count by the score of 6 to 5. The Chatham team is managed by C. Brundage, who played first base for the Brantford Canadian League club. The Chathamites made all their five runs in the first three innings, holding the Blue Labels useless; then the latter tightened up and blanketed their opponents in the last six innings, came from behind and pounded out six runs, with 15 base hits to their credit, and pulled in the game.

Boilermakers announce that the Great Northern Railroad shops in St. Paul, Minn., are 96 per cent organized.

As a result of thorough organization, the Horseshoers in Hamilton, O., have raised their wage rates $3 a week.

Every iron foundry in Jackson, Mich., but one, has signed the $4.50 a day agreement of the Iron Moulders' Union.

Organized metal polishers employed at several large plants in Hamilton, O., have raised wages 5 cents an hour.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters has organized a local ship caulkers in Baltimore, Md. Over 100 workers have enrolled.

Workers employed at the Linton cold storage and ice plant, Linton, Ind., have raised wages $5 a month after a three day strike.

Machinists employed at the Vulcan Iron Works, St. Louis, Mo., have secured average wage increases of 6 cents an hour and the 8 hour day.

At a hearing before the public service commission it was shown that the New York Edison Company has piled up a surplus of $59,193,705 in 16 years.

The Papermakers' Union of Thorold, Ont., which is one of the strongest labor organizations in Welland County at a bumper meeting recently gave a big reception to speakers who addressed them on behalf of the newly formed labor party. They were given a great reception and the boys are all in line and will get right into the game. A. W. Mance, of the Industrial Banner, spoke on the necessity of supporting the labor press, the result was that a motion was passed to subscribe to have the Banner sent to all its members and that the union assist the new labor party to the fullest possible extent. The speakers were also asked to arrange to visit them again and were promised if they did so all expenses would be paid and hall provided and a guarantee given for a full-up house.

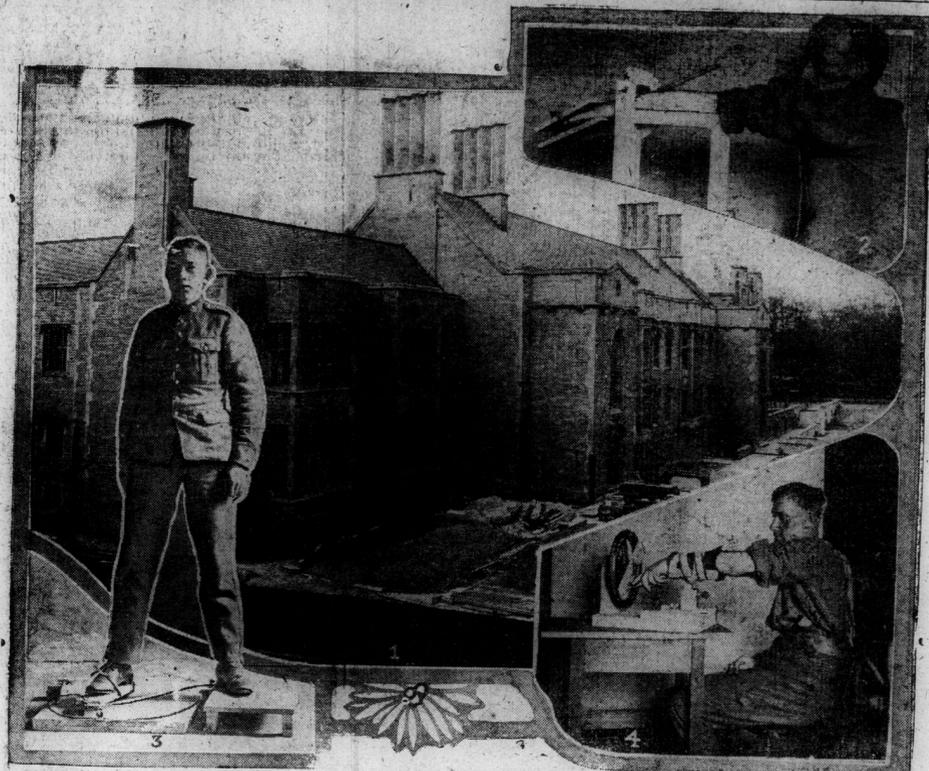

About 1,200 shipwrights, joiners, caulkers, and boat builders are benefited by the new wage scale which was negotiated by the San Francisco maritime bay district council of carpenters. Former rates of $4.75 for new work and $5.50 for old work are increased to $5 and $6 respectively for an eight-hour day.

The new child labor passed by the Texas state legislature, is now in effect. No firm or corporation or their agents, shall employ any child under 15 to labor in or about any factory, mill, workshop, laundry, theatre or other place of amusement or in messenger service in towns of more than 15,000 population.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad shop federation has secured the eight-hour day for all journeymen, apprentices and helpers, and practically all others in the motive power and car departments, excepting seven-day men in the latter department. The federation is now discussing rates with the railroad management.

Paris, Thursday, July 12.—Three French merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons, and one under that size were sunk in the week ended July 8 by mines or submarines the admiralty announced. The following official announcement was made: "Three French merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons, and one under that size, were sunk in the week ended July 8 by mines or submarines. Nine merchantmen were attacked unsuccessfully. "In the same period, 1,067 ships entered and 1,009 left French ports. French patrolling seaplanes attached to naval air depots made 2,627 flights.

French patrol boats in the Atlantic on July 1, towed into port a large steamer which had been submerged and abandoned by the crew. A steamer which had been run ashore near Yeu Islands to escape a submarine was refloated on July 6, and taken to port on the same day. Another steamer which was ashore in the same vicinity and was considered a total loss, was towed off and brought to port.

DRESS REFORM

(By Helen Holmes.)

The trouble with dress reform as a crusade is that it lends itself to the absurdities of a few cranks who advertise themselves by wearing grotesque things and who render the movement unpopular by their inane utterances. To my mind dress reform is already an accomplished fact. Surely nothing could be more sensible than the short skirt of the present mode, which only a few years ago would have caused our mothers to elevate their hands in horror. Yet nobody, outside a few negligible busybodies, finds fault with the short skirt now-a-days. Then there is the sensible riding habit for women, the tall boots, breeches, long coat and derby or silk hat. Certainly this costume is a great and sensible improvement over the quite recent and still occasionally encountered long riding skirt that pre-supposed use of the side-saddle.

There are mighty few side-saddles in use by women to-day in the larger cities of the United States. New York and Chicago women who ride wear the modern costume and ride comfortably and safely astride, as nature intended they should. Then think of the petticoats women used to wear—great bunches of clothing designed to keep them warm ostensibly, but which were more effective in gathering disease germs and in making the wearer look a fright. How many women to-day wear more than one extra skirt?

The fact is, so far as dress reform may be concerned, that every woman should be her own reformer. When we develop in this country the individuality of style that characterizes French women's dress, we shall understand that one style cannot be cut to suit a hundred different types of women. That is the trouble with dress now. We all try to hang the same models on ourselves, and not all of us suit the models. In the sense of cultivating individuality in style and selection, I am decidedly in favor of dress reform.

Sporting Comment

Covaleskie Looks Good.
(By H. C. Hamilton.)
Shining brightly in the heroic effort of the Cleveland Indians to head off the Red Sox and White Sox in their efforts to carry away the American league pennant stands Stanley Covaleskie.

Covaleskie is pitching perhaps the most remarkable ball of any pitcher in the American league, not even excepting the brilliant staff of the Red Sox or the predominant work of some other beauty.

Appearing in twenty-four games this year, Covaleskie has won no less than seven of them by shutouts. With the season half over he already has stepped over the half-way mark compared with the number of innings he worked last year. This year he has faced opposing batsmen in 171 1-3 innings and has allowed fifty runs. He has been touched for 119 hits.

On one occasion he held Chicago to two hits, winning his game 1-0. Three times he has twirled three-hit games, St. Louis suffering twice and the Tigers once. His only extra-inning combat was a ten-inning affair, in which he was a 1-0 victor over Detroit on May 29. New York and St. Louis share the honors of having hammered this star most lustily, each team having batted out nine hits in a single game.

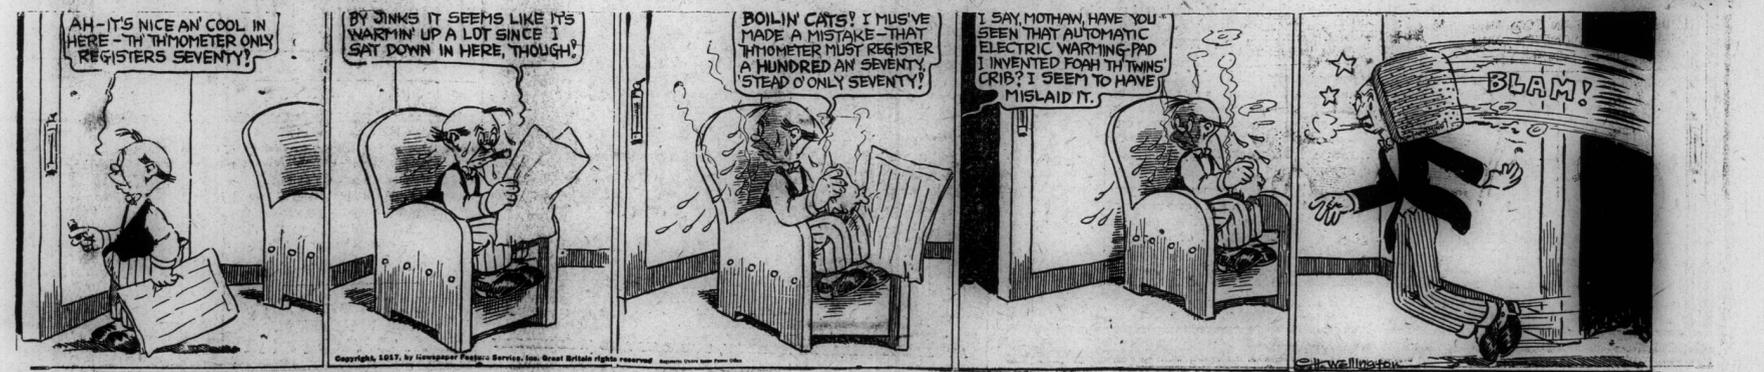

Covaleskie stands an excellent chance of equaling or bettering the shutout record hung up a year ago by Grover Alexander. He has almost reached the half-way mark now. His best pitching should come with continued hot weather. It is by his efforts, mainly, that Lee Fohl is able to obtain a gait with the leaders. Without him the Indians would present a much weakened front.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

"THE JAGUAR'S CLAWS."
In one of the most unusual of the many startling photodramas in which he has appeared, Sessue Hayakawa, the noted Japanese actor will be seen at the Brant on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Lasky-Paramount production, "The Jaguar's Claws," by Beatrice C. de Mille and Leighton Osmun from an adaptation by Roswell Dague of William M. C. Coy's story.

Hayakawa has been seen as a Japanese, a Chinese, Hawaiian, East Indian and American Indian and now for the first time is to be seen as a Mexican—a cruel, merciless bandit who with his band of followers, whom he rules by fear, terrorizes a certain portion of northern Mexico.

As the bandit he captures two American girls and the young American oil field manager, who is the bridegroom of one of the girls and the brother of the other one. Having the three in his power, El Jaguar gives the man the right to take one of the girls into safety, but the other must remain with him. The young American is at a loss what to do, whether to leave his young sister to the mercy of the bandit, or his bride of a few days.

How the problem is solved is brought about in a most startling and unusual manner. Needless to say a play of this unusual theme, with Sessue Hayakawa as the bandit abounds in gripping incidents. The major portion of the picture was filmed in the actual locality in which the scenes of the story are laid, the Lasky Company having received permission from the Mexican commander, who was at that time in charge to spend several days in the interior. But they nearly caused a breach in neutrality by bringing a hundred cowboys over the border to take part in the raid on a Mexican town. The Lasky Company had rented the town for the day from the local Jefe, or mayor, who had failed to notify all the residents; consequently when the Americans swooped down through the streets, firing revolvers, great confusion ensued, but fortunately no serious damage was done. In the supporting cast are Tom Moore, Marjorie Daw, Tom Foman, Mabel Van Buren, Lucien Littlefield, and Horace B. Carpenter. The production was made for the Lasky Company under the direction of Marshall Neilan.

"THE NEGLECTED WIFE."
Literally, millions of people have read the stories of domestic life, which Mabel Herbert Erner has been contributing to the press of the country for several years past. They have been so intimate that they have won a warm place for themselves in the affections of countless readers. Realizing their popularity, Pathe has visualized Mrs. Erner's work in motion pictures. The result is the photoplay serial, "The Neglected Wife." The scenario was developed by Will M. Ritchey.

The leading parts are played by Ruth Roland and Roland Bottomley supported by a cast which includes Corenee Grant, Phila McCullough, Daniel Giffether, Mollie McGinnell and many other well-known players. The production was made under the direction of William Bertram.

"GIVING BECKY A CHANCE."
Charming Vivian Martin, the Moroseo-Paramount star who recently scored such a success in "The Spirit of Romance," and "The Girl at Home," will be seen at the Brant on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Lasky-Paramount production, "Giving Becky a Chance."

Formerly a charming star of the speaking stage, Vivian Martin has added fresh leaves to her laurel wreath with every appearance on the screen. Possessed of unusual piquancy and charm, full of life and vitality, she is the photodrama's best exponent of vivacious American girlhood.

In "Giving Becky a Chance," Vivian Martin has an opportunity to run her entire scale of dramatic emotions from the lightest light comedy to heavy, gripping tragedy. The story is that of a young girl, the daughter of the general store keeper in a small country town. So that their daughter may enjoy the best advantages, her parents send her to a boarding school. There, thrown in with a number of wealthy girls, Becky thoughtlessly poses as a wealthy heiress. How, through her mother's illness, her deception is found out by the man she loves and how, as a clever cabaret dancer, she finally saves her father from bankruptcy, and wins back her sweet heart, is brought about in a most charming and delightful manner.

That Miss Martin is an accomplished and graceful dancer, was unknown to her many friends until the production of this picture. The director had prepared to make these scenes mere incidents, but when Miss Martin astonished them all with her grace, he promptly made them an important feature.

The cast supporting Vivian Martin is one of unusual excellence and includes such prominent players as Jack Holt, Alice Knowlan, P. H. Sasso, and Jack Richardson.

THE CAMERA EYE.
William Christy Cabanne's method of adopting and directing "The Great Secret," forms an interesting piece of motion picture history. It is a story of a director with a "Camera Eye."

"THE ROSARY"
At the Grand Opera House First Half of Next Week.

Most directors refer constantly to written notes on the work in hand, but not so with Cabanne, who carries in his mind every detail of the serial plot. So accurate and active in his memory that he never refers to written notes when scenes are being taken. In the making of one of the scenes of "The Great Secret" an actor who has a prominent part stepped before the camera.

"Hold on," said Cabanne, "when you were in this scene yesterday you wore a gold ring on the third finger of your right hand. The ring isn't there to-day." The actor apologized, went to his dressing room and got the ring. Afterward he complimented Cabanne on his keen powers of observation.

"Oh, don't talk about that," smiled the director, who once was chief of staff for D. W. Griffith, "it's part of my job. Come on, everybody, let's sing a song and then make ready for the next scene." And everybody sang. And that's one reason why there is so much good acting and "pep" in each chapter of "The Great Secret."

THE VAMPING INSTINCT
Louise Fazenda, the famous Keystone comedienne, says she is tired of being funny, and has ordered a vampire gown to show the boss that she really can be an emotional actress.

COMPULSORY TEARS.
Here's a funny mixture of tragedy and comedy. On the one hand, the Franklin brothers, clever young makers of photoplays of child life, adoring children, gentle and soft-spoken. On the other, six lovable Triangle youngsters, all in gay mood and all devoted admirers of the two directors.

Then the dire necessity—the six children must be made to cry—simultaneously, and not pretend, but really cry, with real, wet tears and a breaking heart. For their little school teacher was going away, and they would never see her any more. "The Little Schoolma'am" was Dor-play will be seen at the Rex Theatre beginning Monday. But this story is about how the Franklins tried to make six children cry for the picture—and succeeded.

Each of the six children were isolated. Together the task was impossible. Then the brothers took them, one by one, and very quietly began to talk. They talked very earnestly about all the artistic failings of the poor children that they make good and their duty to the studio—Heaven knows what they did not talk about! They say they don't remember themselves. But they do remember that it was an appalling ordeal.

"One by one we got them started," said Brother Chet afterward. "The most impressionable and imaginative was the youngest, Francis Carpenter. I talked to him for a straight hour and a half, and finally I had to threaten to have him reduced from 'stock' to 'extra.' This is the final studio disgrace, and the tears came.

"They were all weeping their eyes out at last. We rushed them to their positions, and for more than an hour we kept them bawling while we shot scene after scene. It seemed like cruelty, but it would have been stiffer still to have had to go through it all again. And, thank Heaven, we got everything with tears in it that the play required.

"But I assure you we felt like the fond parent of toddlers with his comforting assurance; it hurts me more than it does you! In this case it was horribly true.

"Still, we caught some wonderful stuff."

CANADIAN SOLDIER'S LETTER
Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Have Kept Him Fit Through Two Years

Sapper A. Hartley, of the A Company, Canadian Engineers, whose home address is 906, Trafalgar street, London, Ontario, is one of many who have written in praise of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. He says: "As a constant user of Dr. Cassell's Tablets, I would like to add my testimony to their value. I used them when I was in the South African War, and, finding the benefit of them there, have taken them since whenever I felt rundown. I always recommend them, for I know that they do all that is claimed for them. In my opinion they are the best tonic anyone can take for loss of appetite, poorness of the blood, or general weakness of the system."

A free sample of Dr. Cassell's Tablets will be sent to you on receipt of 5 cents for mailing and packing. Address: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., 10 McCaul St., Toronto.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Changes in grocery lines have again been quite generally in the upward direction. One exception to the general tendency was in the case of tapioca, in which a slightly lower price was quoted in at least one instance.

Cut and plug tobaccos have made advances ranging from 1c. to 30c. per pound in some instances. Corn-starch and laundry starch have been increased one-quarter cent per lb. Some lines of soap and washing powders have been moved to higher levels. Certain brands of chewing gum are also quoted higher.

Butter and eggs were in strong market and advances were recorded in these commodities contrary to the expectations of some in the trade. There has been a better export inquiry for both of these commodities and prices exhibited strength in consequence. Cable despatches state that Denmark butter has been shut out of the English market and this resulted in a demand to Canada. Live hogs were in slightly firmer market and prices were somewhat higher.

Prices on canned salmon and canned peas having not yet been named. It is anticipated they will be some what later on sale—this season than usual, due to labor difficulties at the Coast. New crop prices have been named on asparagus, sliced pine apple, spinach, rhubarb, preserved strawberries are expected to be in short crop this year. The heaviest producing period is now under way for this fruit and berries are reaching the market in fair quantities.

The market for Manitoba flour held steady during the week, but millers were in an uncertain state of mind over the probable action of the food controller. Mills are not making sales for any distant delivery dates under present conditions. Flour demand has improved considerably during the week, as quite a bit of Canadian flour is going into the United States. Rolled oats and corn products are in firm market. For former there is an excellent export demand, although the domestic consumption is falling somewhat. Prices on corn products are exhibiting strength, due to the inability of millers to get supplies of corn. There is practically no corn being offered for sale at the present time. Millfeeds are all in better demand than they have been for some weeks past, particularly so in the case of bran. Quantities of millfeeds are being shipped into the United States.

Sugar advanced 15c per hundred. Raw sugar in the New York market gave signs of a slightly easier tendency. There has been a fairly good demand for Canadian refined sugar recently under the stimulus of strawberry preserving time. Business in grocery lines continues quiet.

EXTRAVAGANT LIVING WRONG
People of Canada Must Unite To Stop Waste—Encourage Thrift

Canada is living too extravagantly. Despite the war experiences of France and Great Britain, despite the growing seriousness of the Canadian situation, waste and luxury are still common in the Dominion. Millions of dollars are being spent on unessentials that should be devoted to war work. War has brought an artificial prosperity which is blinding the eyes of many to the true fact that the Dominion is spending money at an unprecedented rate and that the resources of the country are under serious strain. The situation must be corrected, if the strain is to be endured. Waste and extravagance to-day are crimes against the men in the firing line. Their sacrifice demands sacrifice at home. There must be conservation of resources and united effort towards thrift and economy. Practical experience in industrial life has taught that there are few "waste" products that cannot be utilized. War has proven the truth of that teaching. Eliminate waste, practise thrift and invest your savings in War Savings Certificates.

Help Canada Maintain Her Financial Freedom!
Do Your Share towards Financing the War with Canadian Savings Rather than with Outside Capital.

THE problem of meeting the enormous cost of this war is twofold. Not only must Canada get the money—most of it, of course, as loans—but she must get as much of it as possible here in Canada.

We can carry the war-debt if the bulk of the interest goes to Canadians, and so is used again in the country's development. But it will be a serious matter for us if a large proportion of the interest has to be sent outside the Dominion.

For the sake of our own and our children's future this drain on our resources must be avoided! Canada's financial freedom can and must be maintained! An average saving of 15 cents a day, invested by each man, woman and child in Canada in War Savings Certificates, would enable us to carry the whole cost of the war. To approach this average, hard work, thrift, self-denial and sacrifice are required of every citizen.

For each $21.50 you lend the Government now, you will receive $25.00 in three years—or you can get your money back at any time. Certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $50 and $100, and may be purchased at any Bank or Money Order Post Office.

Motor travel in the Canadian Pacific Both these sections of the new road lie in the Banff Park and were paid for the Canadian Government withdraw the regulations forbidding automobile traffic within the confines of the National Park at Banff and here put large numbers of Austrian prisoners to work upon an automobile road from Banff to Lake Louise. This in conjunction with the other road under construction from Banff on the Vermilion Pass to Windermere in the Upper Columbia Valley will render accessible some of the finest scenes in Canada which hitherto was reached only by pony service. A highway built specially for travel by motorcar through 100 miles of wholly unsettled country and over a route chosen with primary regard for scenic beauty—these are the features of the Banff-Windermere road now nearing completion in the Rocky Mountains of Alberta and British Columbia, just south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and to be known as the Highway of the Great Divide. The project has received widespread attention because of the demand by the large number of visitors who annually spend their holidays in the tourist resorts between Banff and Field for a first class motor highway linking these points together and extending about 65 miles in a south-westerly direction through two ranges of the Rockies to the Windermere valley which is assuming importance as a tourist center. In addition to scenic attractions the new road shortens the distance from Banff to the Windermere district from 170 to 103 miles and makes readily accessible a region only slightly known and in no way developed. Considerable sums have been spent by the Canadian Pacific Railway in improving the trails and roads in the Rocky Mountain Park, as it is believed that the successful handling of large numbers of tourists in a mountainous country is not possible unless access to surrounding territory is easy to the majority of such visitors. The railroad company was therefore willing to contribute to the cost of the Banff-Windermere road, and joint financial backing was arranged between the Dominion and Provincial Governments and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Locating engineers were first in the field in 1910 and, after running lines over several alternative routes, selected one which crossed Sinclair and Vermilion passes, at elevations of 4860 and 5284 ft. respectively. The elevation at Banff is 4500 ft. The choice was based on a consideration of lowest grades, best scenic advantages, and least cost of construction and maintenance. From Banff to Windermere the new route divides itself naturally into four divisions of unequal length. The first, an 18-mile stretch from Banff to Castle, was located and partially constructed in 1912. The second natural division, 11 miles long, reaches from Castle to the British Columbia boundary line and was located late in 1912. Five preliminary lines were run out before an entirely satisfactory route was secured.

Crossing the Great Divide, the road drops down through very fine scenes from the Vermilion Point Fields to the Kootenay River where there is a gap of about seventeen miles to be constructed to link up with the road coming north from the Columbia River through the Sinclair Canyon. The photograph illustrates the Red Gates in the Sinclair Canyon, an immense cliff stained in iron oxide well known in Indian legend.

PHILADELPHIA FANS ARE STILL HOPEFUL WITH REGARD TO TEAM

Philadelphia, July 14.—Ever since the Phillies have been a one-two ball club, that is, ever since Pat Moran has had the club, there are periods during which the team bats are mainly used for knocking easy grounders or what is technically known as pop-ups. As the line-up stands to-day, there is not a weak hitter in it, but the best hitters have had spells and when they all get their bad spells at once, it's a tough time for those who take their baseball seriously.

It sums up the fielding and it lessens the confidence of the pitchers. Right now, the Phils are under the spell of this mysterious malady in its worst stages. When the tail-end Pirates can come along and grab two games, with a football coach managing the team and ordering double-squeeze plays with break-leg slides in the ninth inning of a ball game in which his team is piling up a four run lead, there is certainly something the matter with the old Phils.

The thing to remember is that all through 1915 and 1916 the Phils have had these spells. Just now it seems like a disastrous thing, with the Giants fading away in the dim distance and the St. Louis Cardinals blowing their hot breaths on the local heels. But in 1915 the Phils won the flag, and last year were kept away from it only by injury to Bancroft. This is the first slump of the season for them, and quite probably they will come out of it early next week with a resounding wallop that will be heard as far away as the polo grounds.

Of course, this year they have the gentle Giants to compete with, a team built up of stars from various other teams in the league, a team of savage hitters who are getting the benefit of pretty fine pitching from a staff that looked very weak when the season started.

Right now the Giants look like the one best thing in sight. The Cards have been coming with a rush recently, with their heavy hitters, Hornsby, Cruise and Co., burning up the west. But the Giants pelted them three times in succession, and their stock is running low. Of the western teams, they looked to have the best chance of tripping up McGraw's merry men. Cincinnati is on the crest of a winning streak and may do something to the Polo Grounders, but little can be hoped for from the Cubs or Pirates.

Last time the west moved east Frank Miller, who pitched against the Phils Saturday, turned in a shut-out victory over the Giants, and he is confident he can do it again. Manager Mitchell's Cubs have hit the slides and outside of old Al Demaree and Phil Douglash, he has nobody he can send in with much chance of stopping the bombardment of Burns, Kauff, Zimmerman, Robertson and Fletcher. It looks like a great two weeks for the aggravating Giants.

"Breaks" Against Phillies. Everything has broken bad for the Phils. The umpires were pretty fair to them when they were winning, but now that the breaks are cracking against them it seems the ump are following the lead of old man Fortune. Stuck was called out on strikes at the hottest point of Saturday's seventh inning rally, and the third strike looked to be a good three inches away from the outside corner of the plate. All the decisions in the Boston series seemed to be in favor of the wild braves.

Just about this time in 1914 the said Braves began their historic spurt, and there were signs of the same when they were here, in the pitching of Dick Rudolph, Lefty Tyler, and Don Carlos. Pat Ragan, Baidy Dick certainly had everything in that Fourth of July A. M. combat, and although the Phils beat him with their big seventh, they have a couple of breaks to be thankful for. Dick weakened just a trifle, but Cravath's drive which hit the fence pretty low down and just inside the foul line, was the sort of hit that a Dick Merrivell thriller could be written around. Then Whitford lifted a very lucky fly into a spot in right field where nobody could get at it. Evers with all his limbs working in their Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance condition would probably have speared it. As it was, he missed by a couple of inches.

There was nothing fluky about the hits by Nishoff and Killifer, but the blows by Gavy and Durham gave were the ones that set the rally running.

FOR MILDLY AND MILDLY MOTORING

Sensible Clothes Worth Considering, What a Little Thought Will Bring

Clothing for motorists is becoming a great problem. Many now own cars who months ago only dreamed of them. The majority of automobile owners run their own cars, in other words, have no chauffeurs and naturally they have to take care of the minor repairs. Breakdowns are liable to happen at any time or in any place. Who knows when he will have to "get out and get under"? Of course no one wants to do the "dirty" work of automobile in his best or "dress up" clothes. He should be prepared. His duster should be in a handy place, and if he is used to wearing a washable cap ready to change. Such a hat or cap made of fabricoid is very serviceable. The material is able to stand all kinds of usage, and being waterproof can be easily washed and kept in presentable condition.

Another article that helps a great deal toward anyone's appearance is a collar. This may seem like a small detail, but nevertheless is a fact. A dirty collar is unsightly. Many times an autoist has to wear one because he has unexpectedly do a repair job and in doing it soils his collar. Not to continue on his journey with an undesirable soiled collar. This is not very pleasing to the onlooker's eye or the wearer's feeling. Cleanable collars are now being extensively worn, to avoid such cases as well as to save money.

High grade cleanable collars look exactly like ordinary collars, same style, same color, and their color does not change. They are made of the usual collar fabric, but the surface is treated with a sponge cleanable instantly with a sponge and damp cloth. If you are along a road and have no sponge or cloth, they can be cleaned with spring brook or kerchief or fingers. Naturally such methods of cleaning saves laundry bills as well as collar cost, as cleanable out last linen or cotton ones by many days.

FAT PROFITS IN BACON BUSINESS SAYS O'CONNOR

Investigating Commissioner Makes Charges Against Packing Companies

ACTION MAY FOLLOW

Matthews Blackwell And William Davies Businesses Named

By Courier Leased Wire
Ottawa, July 14.—It is considered highly probable to-day that parliament will take action on the report of Investigating Commissioner O'Connor, revealing enormous profits on the bacon business of the William Davies Company and Matthews-Blackwell, Limited. The document is not yet being tabled by the Minister of Labor, and is consequently not officially before the House. In addition to the bacon transaction, the P. Burns Company of Western Canada is found to have made a profit of ten cents per pound on 200,000 pounds of butter. A total of 108 companies were investigated, but the others came out with a clean sheet.

Mr. O'Connor observes in his report that the big companies work on business, not patriotic lines. If there has been any patriotism, it has been the consumer, he says.

"Hitherto all the honors have gone to the purveyors," the consumer alone have suffered, while the purveyor has seen himself well and contentedly paid."

Referring to the Burns profit on butter, the commissioner says the firm "had an opportunity of sharing a good thing with the public and missed it."

"They bought at 9 cents under current retail price, and sold at a cent above it. While the transaction was not illegal, the commissioner says, and that the same thing applies to the bacon business. Asking whether it is a reasonable way of doing business, he answers, "mine may be as a voice crying in the wilderness, but I have to register in the negative."

Sir Joseph Flavelle, head of the Davies Company and chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board, is at his summer home in Lindsay.

According to the Commissioner, the William Davies Company in 1916 took a profit of 5.05 cents per pound on 97,000,000 pounds of bacon, mostly exported, and Matthews-Blackwell Limited, 3.58 cents on 22,500,000 pounds. In the former case, the profit amounted to about $4,925,500, and in the latter about $1,513,000. The average profit margin on bacon of all "old" storage houses in Canada for the year was 4.55 cents per pound. With the Davies profit subtracted, the average would have been 3.3. The Davies profit in 1915 was 3.67, and the Commissioner wants to know what figure would not have been sufficient in 1916.

SPEED VERY EXPENSIVE

Fast Driving Dangerous And Objectionable for Many Reasons

TAKE THEM TO HEART

Provides For Wear A nd Strain on Car and Motorist Alike

"Speed is expensive" is the way automobile people translate "Haste makes waste" of the copybook. There never was a truer thing said. If ever anybody is found to be extravagant and discomfort it is driving an automobile too fast.

A catalogue of reasons why it is expensive, dangerous and inconsiderate to speed is given by "Farm and Fireside" as follows:

Tires last about twice as long on a car that is driven at fifteen miles an hour as upon cars driven at thirty miles an hour. Speeding generates heat, which is an enemy to rubber.

Driving a car around a sharp corner at 25 miles an hour does more damage to the tires than 200 miles of straight road work. Excessive side pressure on tires may pinch the tubes, and it always strains the side walls of the casings.

High speeds are likely to cause skidding, and breakage of springs and steering gear, any of which are dangerous when speeding.

In proportion to the mileage obtained high speeds require more gasoline and oil than a moderate rate of travelling.

Driving a car at excessive speed, especially over rough roads, subjects the bearings to enormous strain.

High speed may cause crystallization of rapidly moving metal parts that are subject to strain, and these may break at any time without warning.

High speeds interfere with the accuracy of steering as is shown by the number of reckless drivers who have gone over banks and into ditches, especially on curves.

It is a strain on the eyes and the nerves of the driver and also of the other passengers in the car.

Finally, it is a menace to the pleasure and safety of others who use the road.

The majority of modern motor cars develop maximum efficiency with lowest expense at speeds ranging from 15 to 25 miles an hour, depending on the make of car and condition of the road.

BULGARIA AN OPIUM CENTRE

Now Feeling Pinch of Allied Blockade and May Drop Trade

Rotterdam, Netherlands, July 14. (Correspondence)—Since the occupation of the Bulgarian provinces of Macedonia, Bulgaria has become one of the principal opium-growing countries, writes the Balkan correspondent of the Nieuwe Rotterdam Courant.

Before the Balkan wars Turkey was the leading opium country in the Levant, and Smyrna the principal market for that article. But Bulgaria has now become a formidable competitor of Asia Minor, both as regards quality and quantity. The opium grows in the environs of Usku and in the Tikhesh, along the Vardar River. It is richer in alkaloids than the best qualities from Anatolia.

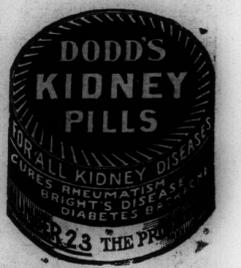

In ordinary times the opium from the Levant is exported to the Far East largely via Holland and Britain.

Further, Germany chiefly draws on Bulgaria for the opium her chemical industry requires for the preparation of morphine, cocaine, etc., and Bulgarian opium thus is distributed over the entire world by Germany's agency. As the prices obtained for opium, particularly for that exported to the Far East, were comparatively high and very remunerative, the cultivation of the poppy proved in every way profitable and was continually extending in the regions along the Vardar suitable for its growth, especially in the Strumnitza and Melnik districts.

About 242,000 pounds of opium was harvested last year in the provinces under Bulgarian administration but this quantity can easily be doubled. Now that the war, and the Allies' blockade, has made export overseas to the Far East impossible, and there is consequently for the moment a much smaller demand, a part of the fields destined for poppy cultivation this year is being used for the cultivation of the much-needed grain and beans. Much more land still is devoted to the poppy than the expected opium demand requires, however, this being on account of the poppy seed. Under present circumstances the oil to be won from this seed has made it of great importance such oil being extremely useful not only for industrial purposes, but also for human food. Last year 500 railroad freight-car loads of poppy-seed were exported to the Central European countries.

In Bulgaria itself the winning of the oil is still done in a very clumsy manner, whereby a great part of the oil is lost. Plans have now been set on foot for the erection on the spot of crushing mills equipped on the most modern lines.

A fair Parisian Midnettes gallyn lifted to the wall the Chamber of Deputies and held there by a French soldier while presenting the plea of thousands of her co-workers, striking for an increase in pay owing to the increase in the cost of living. Five thousand of them walked out. Woman tailors, glove makers and even bank clerks took part.

 He refused the detective's company and went out. Menzies did not rejoin Hallett and Royal, but, reclining with one elbow on the counter, smoked stolidly and thoughtfully till his return. Pickens was back within half an hour. He took a dirty scrap of paper from his waistcoat pocket and passed it to the detective.

 "There y' are," he said. "I wrote it dahn to make sure. It's a little general shop kept by a Chink—Sing Loo. All you've got to do is to knock at the side door and ask if they can oblige you with a bottle of lime juice and a pipe of shag. That's the pass-word. Where's that tinner?"
 Menzies put the money into his hand and moved swiftly to where Hallett and Royal awaited him. In a little they were out in the by now almost deserted street. The chief inspector set the pace and they moved at a swift walk. No one spoke for a while. Once Menzies stopped a policeman with an enquiry as to direction, and five minutes later they entered a short street bounded on one side by a high blank factory wall and on the other by a few small shuttered shops.
 "That's the joint," said Menzies in a low voice, keeping his head straight in front of him. "Mark it ten minutes did Menzies speak again. Royal thrust a bulldog revolver into his hands. "You got one, Hallett?"
 "Not here," said Jimmie.
 "You take this, then. I wouldn't know how to hit anything with it anyhow." He halted and shook a warning forefinger. "Don't get using it unless you've got to. I want Ling alive. Now, Royal, you'll have to hang about and use your own discretion once we're in—hello! What the blazes is a taxi doing in this quarter at this time of night?"
 A taxicab had whizzed by them in the direction from which they had come. It is not a mode of conveyance largely favored by the inhabitants of the back streets of Shadwell, even of the morning it is probably as rare as an aeroplane.
 As though the same thought had simultaneously occurred to each of them, the three raced after the retreating vehicle. It was, of course, a hopeless chase, but there are moments when men do not stop to reason. Menzies was the first to pull up.
 "Take it steady, boys," he said. "We're only wasting breath. The thing's a mile away by now."
 "Likely enough it's nothing to do with us," said Royal optimistically.
 "I've got a sort of feeling that it had all the same. Well, I'll be Stop it!"
 They spread across the road, Royal flashing an electric torch as he moved. The three bawled fiercely to the driver. For a moment he slackened speed, as though about to stop. Then, as if he had changed his mind, the vehicle leaped swiftly forward.
 Jimmie had a scant five seconds of time in which to make up his mind. His hand closed on the revolver, and it occurred to him that there was only one thing to do. The driver, the car was within a yard of him when he leaped aside and pulled the trigger. With a shivering rattle the vehicle stopped. Menzies was at the driver's side in an instant.
 "Why didn't you stop when you were ordered?" he demanded in a blaze of wrath. "What's your number?"
 "Why should I stop? Who are you? What business is it of yours, anyway? If you've smashed my radiator—" The man's voice was less

"It's not how much we have but how much we enjoy that makes happiness."—Spurgeon.
 We were talking about a woman the other day the keynote of whose life seems to be restless discontent. "She doesn't have everything she wants, of course," said Molly, "but she has more than most of us."
 She Seems To Get the Least Possible Happiness.
 "I think," said the lady-who-always-gets-somehow, "that the trouble is that she just isn't efficient about happiness. She seems to get the least happiness instead of the most out of the circumstances of her life."
 Of how many people that is true! We see them all about us—or even nearer home than that.
 There are so many ways that one can get happiness if one is happy-ness efficient and so many ways one can miss it if one is inefficient.
 People Who Make Hard Work of Living.
 There's the people who miss happiness because they make such hard work of living—the woman who is forever winding and unwinding the red tape of domestic affairs, the man who is always worrying and scolding and blaming. People like that not only miss much happiness themselves but they make the people about them unhappy and this reacts on them and makes their chances of happiness still less.
 And then there's the people who confuse happiness and pleasure and certain than his words.
 "We're police officers," said Menzies curtly. "Why—what's the matter, Royal?"
 Royal had opened the door, and his cry now interrupted his chief. Menzies dropped back to him and followed the segment of the taxicab from the sergeant's pocket lamp to the interior of the cab. It fell full on the white, lifeless face of a woman leaning huddled up in one of the corners. He gave an ejaculation of surprise. The driver had descended from his seat and was now peering over the shoulders of the three.
 "Good Gawn!" he exclaimed.
 "She's fainted."
 "She's dead," said Menzies.
 He wheeled and his strong fingers bit deep into the driver's shoulder. "Where did you get her?" he demanded. "Speak the truth or I'll shake it out of you!"
 The man gazed helplessly up at him. "Strike me lucky, guvnor, I don't know nothing about it," he declared. "She was alive two minutes ago. There was a bloke with her. Where's he gone?"
 Jimmie felt an eerie sensation along his scalp. He had gazed at the dead face, ghastly in the rays of the pocket torch which picked it out against the darkness of the upholstery, and, like the others, he had recognized at once the features of Gwennie Lyne.
 He had expected, he knew not what, when he peered into the cab—perhaps Ling himself, certainly not that grim, dead face with the staring eyes. He shuddered.
 "Tell us all about it—quick," ordered Menzies. "We've no time to waste. Come on out with it." He shook the man fiercely. "Everything you know about it and get to the point."
 "I don't know anything about it," repeated the man again. "As called by telephone from the cab rank in Aldgate—told how to get here and everything."
 "Get where?" The question was snapped out like a pistol shot.
 "Why, to that Chinaman's place—'Sing Loo'?"
 "Yes. That's the name. There was a couple of fares there they said wanted to get Shepherd's Bush. So I came along here. Seems like they were waiting for me because directly I touched the bell the door opened, and there was a tall bloke and her." He jerked his head towards the cab. "The bloke had his arm round her and she walked with him to the cab. He helped her in and then came round to me."
 "The lady isn't very well, driver," he says. I'm a doctor, and I'm going with her to a specialist at Shepherd's Bush. Drive easy, because I don't want her jolted more than can be helped. With that he gets into the cab—at least the door slams just as if he had—and I drive off. That's all I know about it, guvnor, so 'elp me."
 "You didn't know she had been stabbed?"
 He shook his head dumbly. Menzies released his grip.
 "Royal, you'll have to handle this for the time. Go to the nearest doctor first and have her examined. Come along, Hallett."
 He caught hold of Jimmie's elbow and without another look at the cab and its grim burden started forward.
 "It looks to me," he said in a low voice as though he was talking to himself, "that we're only just in time. Ling has struck me bag somehow. He must have intended to lie up, just as said, and Gwennie and he have quarrelled. If he'd meant to lay her out he'd have done it when it was less awkward for him self. As it is, he was pushed to get the body away, or he wouldn't have sent for a taxi and left a trail right back to this joint. He means to escape quick, and that cab would have some, in the ordinary way, to the other end of London before we were on to it."
 "You think we'll get him this time?"
 "It's he or I for it now," said Menzies grimly. "Here we are." He pressed the little electric button at the side door.

EFFICIENT IN HAPPINESS.
 chase pleasure so hard that they miss happiness.
 And the people who get into such deep narrow ruts that they miss the road to happiness.
 And those who miss happiness because they abuse and impair their health. Health is one of the organs with which we fight our happiness.
 When one is unhealthy as it is to enjoy food with an upset stomach.
 People Who Haven't Much Capacity For Happiness.
 And there are the people so self-centered, so lacking in broad sympathies, so undeveloped mentally that they haven't any large capacity for happiness. "A small glass and a large one may be equally full but the small one holds more than the large."
 Of course circumstances do have much to do with happiness. It would be cant to deny that. It is hard if not impossible to be happy under certain circumstances, under grinding, harassing poverty, under recent bereavement, under remorse.
 But in the daily circumstances of the average man or woman, happiness is possible. And how much happiness depends upon one's efficiency in manufacturing it just as much as upon circumstances.
 In the words of Samuel Johnson: "The fountain of contentment must spring up in the mind; and he who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but his own disposition will waste his life in fruitless efforts."

LADIES' SLIP-ON OVERDRESS.
 By Anabel Worthington.

The jumper dress idea in girls' clothes has proven its practicability so successfully that it has been borrowed for the grown-ups. It is especially practical for the summer time, because the gump or underwaist may be changed frequently, making it unnecessary to launder the whole dress so often. No. 8357 is very easy to make, as it is in one piece from the shoulder to hem. The armholes are cut quite deep, to allow plenty of room for the underwaist. The long, narrow collar outlines the deep V-shape of the neck. The large side pockets are fastened onto the belt and are trimmed with large self-covered buttons. Linen, pongee, shantung, gabardine and poplin are suitable for this dress.
 The dress pattern, No. 8357, is cut in sizes 38 to 44 inches bust measure. Width at the lower edge of skirt is 2 3/4 yards. The 38 inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, or 3 3/4 yards of 54 inch.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silvest

LITTLE LADY ANE GREY.
 Lady Jane Grey sat in the corner in a heap, her frowzy head over in her lap, a most sorrowful dolly. Her great rag heart was almost broken, for her little mistress had a new joy—a lovely dolly with beautiful yellow curls and big blue eyes. She was dressed in a lovely pink dress all trimmed with laces, and Lady Jane Grey had never looked like that even when she was new, for Lady Jane Grey was only a rag doll.
 Of course, all the other toys felt sorry for her. She had been there to welcome them as they in turn came to the nursery to live, for Lady Jane Grey was Mistress Nell's first dolly.
 "That's the way when you get old or broken," said Woolly Dog, as he stood on three legs, "you're soon forgotten for the new toys."
 "I don't agree with you," purred Gingham Cat, as he lay in the chair, one ear lost and part of his beautiful raily-colored tail gone. "Don't you fret, Mistress Nell will soon tire of that pink and white fairy."
 "Well, she can never wash her face like she scrubs mine," said Celoid Dollie, as he bobbed up and down in the tin tub where Mistress Nell had left him. But nothing they could say seemed to comfort Lady Jane Grey.
 "I can't blame her. The new dolly is beautiful, and I'm ugly. My hair is made of twists of yarn, and my eyes are black shoe buttons, while her hair is real, soft, yellow curls, and her eyes are beautiful blue glass. Only I'm so sorry, for I've tried to be a good doll to Mistress Nell, and I love her very dearly," sobbed Lady Jane Grey, as only a rag doll with shoe button eyes can sob.
 Woolly Dog curled up at her feet and the cat sat in the chair and purred in sympathy, for they all loved the rag doll.
 When night came the door softly opened. Two little arms gathered Lady Jane Grey and held her close. Two warm lips kissed the faded rag face.
 Lady Jane Grey was carried away and tucked in beside Mistress Nell in a nice, clean, white bed, where she stayed all night folded close to her little mistress's heart as she wandered through the land of dreams.
 When morning came Lady Jane Grey was kissed and set back in the nursery while the beautiful new dolly was taken for a ride in the park.
 "Yes, and I felt two big tears on my cheek when she kissed me," said Lady Jane Grey to her companions.
 Lady Jane Grey never worried again about the new dolly filling her place in Mistress Nell's heart. True, she never was taken out in the little white buggy, like the beautiful dolly, but when night came two little arms carried her away, and all through the long dark hours Lady Jane Grey nestled close to Mistress Nell's heart, and Lady Jane Grey was happy.

SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

ALBERT VARNER
Buckingham, Que., May 8th, 1915.

For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to Boston and wrote to a specialist in several doctors without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-tives". I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-tives", and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach, I say take "Fruit-a-tives", and you will get well.

"We Did Our Best, Received the Best" Says Balfour of Trip to America

By Courier Leased Wire
London, July 13.—"We did our best and received the best," said Foreign Secretary Balfour in referring in an address to-day, to the British mission visit to the United States. "Never was a mission so kindly treated by those to whom it was sent, never was hospitality offered more graciously or with a freer hand, never was a mission from one country to another more cordial."

"The results of the mission were good because the great people of the United States realized that the mission was symbolic of a great new departure in the history of the world. They knew it instinctively. They were able to grasp what it all meant, not only for the present, but for the future of the world. They saw what German militarism meant with clear vision and entered the war with an unselfish motive. I rejoice that we have with us such a country as the United States, such a statesman as President Wilson. They are as far removed from militaristic faith in unmeaning formulae as from the domination of another. They cherish the same great ideals as we, which are our very own."

Mr. Balfour paid a tribute to the memory of the late Joseph H. Choate of New York, who, he said, was "taken away at a moment when a new and happy spirit brooded over our common destinies."

In the audience were Ambassador Page, the Japanese, Italian and Portuguese ambassadors, the Roumanian and Serbian ministers, the Earl of Derby, secretary for war; Lord Robert Cecil, minister of blockade; Baron Rindfleisch, food controller, and members of the Balfour mission. Attached to the official program was a printed slip saying:

"Should the proceedings be interrupted by the approach of hostile aircraft, whereby simple notice will be given, it is suggested that the guests adjourn to the crypt beneath the Guild Hall."

The new foreign secretary, Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, is a strong hand with considerable diplomatic experience, and is regarded as the neutral attitude stoff, and unmarried.

To Speak on Thursday

Copenhagen, July 16.—Dr. Georg Michaelis, the new chancellor, will deliver his maiden speech in the Reichstag Thursday. The address will be on the subject of the German position in the war.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, who were summoned to Berlin by Emperor William, are continuing their conferences with party leaders. Dr. Michaelis is participating in them.

Representatives of the Berlin press were received Saturday by General Ludendorff, who discussed the military situation. He said the situation on all fronts was favorable.

The German government has adopted a program of protest against the proposed peace action of the reichstag majority, declaring the adoption of the majority program would result in the indefinite continuance of the war and the political and economic ruin of the Germans.

Dr. Michaelis is the father of a family of a size encouraged by Emperor William. He had six children, but one son has been killed in the war. Two daughters are engaged in public welfare work and the third daughter is in charge of a soldiers' convalescent home.

Adhere to Terms

Amsterdam, July 16.—According to the Berliner Tageblatt, reichstag party leaders, after they had been received by Field Marshal Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, held a conference in the reichstag buildings and decided to maintain the terms of peace resolutions agreed on before the interview.

A Scrap of Paper

Paris, July 16.—The Paris press hails the retirement of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg from the German chancellorship with varying degrees of satisfaction. Some of the comment is in a jubilant tone, while other editors treat the event soberly. All, however, are agreed that it indicates a crisis in Germany of unprecedented importance.

As might be expected, the phrase "scrap of paper" frequently crops up in the comment, and some of the journals trace the chancellor's downfall back to that early in the war utterance of his. The Petit Parisien is one of the newspapers that is not

RAILWAYS AID WILSON

Washington, July 13.—An embargo effective immediately against all shipments intended for export of commodities named in President Wilson's recent export proclamation, except when bill of lading is presented by a bonded carrier, authorized, furnished, or authorized by the export council at Washington, was ordered to-day by the American Railway Association's commission on car service.

The notice to all railroads follows: "Pursuant to the proclamation of the president of the United States, dated July 9, barring certain exports except under federal license, railroads are directed to place telegraphic embargo effective immediately against all shipments of coal, coke, seed grain, flour and meal therefrom; fodder, meat and fats, fuel oils, kerosene, gasoline, pig iron, steel billets, shipplates (structural shapes), scrap iron and steel, frame manganese fertilizers, arms, ammunition, explosives, consigned, or consigned to be reconsigned or intended for export, except when bill of lading presented with federal license number furnished, or authorized by export council at Washington and according to announcement of department of commerce, together with permit number authorized by the port director."

"All port lines should immediately inaugurate permit system covering all export traffic."

"Arrangements have been made under which all shipments consigned to points in Canada can go forward as heretofore, special licenses covering same having been issued through the customs service. It is suggested that port lines protect against accumulations at ports by placing such embargo as necessary against cars in transit."

One of the contestants was Albert G. Spalding, Jr., an adopted son, who was killed last year while fighting in the French army. He left a will which provided that any interest he might have in the estate should go to Keith Spalding. By the terms of the settlement, according to attorney for Keith Spalding, the latter will "control the firm known as Spalding Brothers of Chicago, New York and London, with branches in many other cities."

MURDERER EXECUTED.
Ossining, New York, July 13.—Arthur Walton, alias John Lind, was executed at Sing Sing prison last night at a late hour, for the murder in New York in September 1914, of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, wife of Mrs. Elizabeth Walton, who was 24 years of age, was one of three men who O. Tallas, a servant in Mrs. Nichols' household, admitted to the house for the purpose of robbery. Walton and his companions bound Tallas after he had admitted them and then strangled Mrs. Nichols and robbed her of her jewelry.

RECENT DISCOVERY OF ETHER COMPOUND
That Drives Up Corns so They Lift Out.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing the recent discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

A quarter of an ounce costs very little at any pharmacy, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining skin.

You apply just a few drops on thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

CAMBRIDGE TODAY A MILITARY TOWN

Cambridge, England, July 14.—(Associated Press.)—Cambridge is recovering its old pre-war activity, but in an entirely different way. Where the streets formerly were filled with devil-may-care students they are now full of clad men hurrying to and fro on military errands. Sharp words of command at every gateway replace the vague mysterious noises by which the students conveyed information to their friends.

While the army, in the early days of the war virtually emptied the University town, it has now, three years after, filled it with men of all ages who are making the colleges their own for some months, studying for the army, working in lecture rooms on military problems while the playing fields are given over to their drills.

Men students are scarce these days and the final batch of applicants for entrance shows a record of only one hundred as having passed the examinations, virtually all of whom are unfit for military service, against 970 in 1911 and 826 in 1915.

Women have had a successful year, scoring 166 passes.
