GREAT NEWS.

THOS. CHATTERTON,—Concluded.

But still Canynge's Box was prolific. Ever and anon, came flying forth some piece of local history; the most astounding discoveries of celebrated persons who lived and taught in churches and monasteries, that had for long years been crumbled into dust, were traced to the extraordinary dad and his fertile chest. Mr. Barrett wrote a history of the place and when he lacks historic knowledge the chest is ample Ceremonies headed by mitred bishops, cowed monks, accompanied with torch bearers, to the strains of glorious music are painted in the most glowing pictures of ages long past.
This shrewd man too, by a boy becomes duped.

And where stood the ruins of an old castle he was seen almost dreaming over. Hours he spent in the gray twilight amidst the gloomy walls.

In a few days everyone was spell bound with what appeared on his parchment; the castle was renewed,—of course he said he got it in the CHEST,—towers, of the loftiest and grandest descriptions, arches studded with stars, battlements frowning in majesty,—draw-bridges spanning chasms and moats in such beauty and majesty as never were combined were all pictured by the hand of the marvellous boy.

And the more he dived into the old chest the richer the treasures did he did bring forth. A constellation of genius and art, of poets, painters, sculptors, knights, squires, heralds, all in one array, of illustrious name and lineage were there.
Poets he brought forth by the score and in the mouth of each he put the richest and rarest verse.
And the wise ones of the world with all their boasted knowledge could be played upon by a boy!

His discoveries brought him to the notice of the great ones of the day. Rowley was the favourite bard: he was in everybody's mouth, —such verse was not thought to exist in the language.

He draws forth from the Box, Ella an interlude tragedy. Let us take a stanza for example:—

"Black his hair as winter's night, White his neck as the summers snow, Red his face as the morning light, Cold he lies in the grave below."

Sweet his tongue as the thrush's note, Quick in the dance as thought can be."

This is the work of a boy of twelve, and palmed off on the public as Rowley's poems. Great and immortal, should have been the priest's name had he written them.

Listen to the force and majesty in his Goodwin chorus:—

"Power, with his head aloft into the skies,
His spear a sunbeam, and his shield a star, Like two fierce flaming meteors rolled his eyes, Chafes with his iron feet and sounds to war."

Nothing can be more exquisite than his poetry of nature, more true and vigorous than his description of ancient ceremonies. Sorry are we that space forbids more than a torn line or two here and there.

All these were palmed off upon the public as the works of poets who never wrote them. They were entirely this gifted boy's.
After a time the hawk eyes of Walpole and Johnson discovered the imposition. Most glorious fraud! brilliant forgery! The little word "its" used in the Bible but once, and in Shakespeare three times, stamped his writings as a "fraud." It was at once known the boy was the author. And though genius shone through every line, and though the cynical Johnson admitted it was "wonderful to think what the whelp had written," yet through his poverty and obscurity, never was the helping hand offered, and not till his noble heart had broken with disappointment at the coldness of the literai and aristocratic sneerers was his genius admitted.

While he was yet a boy he wrote to the polite dilettante Horace Walpole, and the latter considered himself honored; but when he came to know that the dazzling genius was but a poor lad of fifteen, the chagrin of the noble knew no bounds. He denied having received or written letters. Even Goldsmith, Gray, Johnson and Burke, too, sneered at him.

He left his native home and went to London. He took his works to the booksellers, and they were thrown into the waste basket—as Mr. Elder did with one of Burns' poems—saying it did not come up to the standard; and this talented boy was without bread.

Never was there a sadder sequel!
Of a dark night when the friendly shelter was closed and none to take him in or give him bread,—those who knew him sneering at him,— this marvellous but ill-fated lad sought rest beyond, alas, by his own hand * * * *

The years rolled over, and the flinty-hearted, thick-headed world saw it had been guilty of the blood of the youth. Then his works were gathered from the waste basket and sold to hungry printers; a marble statue,—cold mockery,— was raised to the injured youth!
Hateful world! His poor smouldering bones and cold ashes they would protect and honor, the living giant they despised!

It is impossible to pass his grave and know his tragic fate without being moved to tears, to see the monument enclosing the "marvellous boy that perished in his pride."

HALLUCINATIONS.

(Fortnightly Review.)

One does not fail to notice, when proper attention is given to the subject, a fact which is full of meaning, viz, that the apparitions which have been seen at different ages were in harmony with the dominant ideas or beliefs of the age. It is not probable that any one could be found at the present day to affirm that he had seen an old woman riding through the air on a broomstick to a witch's meeting, because the belief in witchcraft is well nigh extinct but two or three hundred years ago, when it would have been thought something like blasphemy to doubt the being and doing of witches, persons of good character and veracity might have been found to avouch it solemnly. In like manner apparitions of Satan were not very uncommon in the middle ages to persons, who, like Martin Luther, were in earnest spiritual conflict with him, but there is no instance on record, so far as I know, of such an apparition having ever been seen by an ancient Greek or Roman.
The Satan of the middle ages who gave Luther so much trouble had not then been invented. Spirits, ghosts, then, and all apparitions of the same kind, I was prepared to have pronounced unhesitatingly to have been hallucinations, which would be found on examination to reflect pretty fairly the prevailing ideas of the times concerning the supernatural; but it occurred to me that it might be prudent, before doing that, to consult the article on apparitions in the latest edition of Encyclopedia Britannica, lest perchance I should be outrunning current authority; and I have there discovered, to my no small surprise, that it is still an open question whether invisible inhabitants of the unknown world did not take human or other shapes and become visible men. The writer of the article plainly inclines to the opinion that they do, and that there is more in the matter than science has dreamed of. So also think the Spiritualists.

A TOUCHING SIGHT.—A little bright eyed boy, of four years, arrived at Chicago last week.
Around his neck was a ribbon, to which was attached a card, inscribed: "To the Masonic Fraternity—Forward the Orphan to San Francisco. Howard Association, New Orleans." The child was the last survivor of the family of Henry E. Wilcox, a prominent merchant of New Orleans. His father and mother, and four brothers and sisters, had died of yellow fever.

Our Temperance Orators.

Fredericton in many respects has had taste in other respects her eye for the appropriate is very keen. We have to-day to speak of her choice of temperance orators.

But we have a worse charge than this against Mr. Dow—a charge of using obscene language. As such it sounded to us and that it may be a specimen of Mr. Dow's usual discourse is no earthly justification in our eyes.

But wherefore bring this man here? Was it to talk, or tell wonders? If for the first he is a failure, if for the last reason he has not succeeded. Was he brought here as a temperance orator?

Then there is Rev. Mr. McLeod, who can always hold an audience. He is a speaker of much power and good reasoning ability. His language always tends upwards, never downwards.

And there are many others we could mention, anyone of which, in talking ability, far exceeds Mr. Neal Dow. Mr. Dow can never hope to win people over by picking from a certain class for examples of ruin and slavery to vice.

Fredericton has made a mistake, and Mr. Dow has alienated five times a greater number from the cause than he has gained for it.

HALLOW'EEN.

What associations do not the bare mention of the festival of the vigil of All Saint's Eve call up! Though "new times are come" and "old manners gone" we go back in thought for many long centuries, when every house, no matter how humble, prepared to celebrate the feast.

Inside the great fire roared in the open chimney; a high table stood covered with the first fruits of the earth and the fattest spoils of the chase. The guests were invited in to the large refectory and placed at the groaning table. At its head sat the chief who dealt out the hospitalities. The bowl went round freely—for in those days drunkenness seemed not the bane of mortals—deeds were recounted in chasing the tusked bore. Others thrilled their hearers by reciting deeds done in battle with spear and battle axe.

Further back, even as early as when the peace of England was rudely awakened from its slumber by the drums of Hengist and Horsa on Thanet's Isle, the Irish the first receivers of the Faith, the firmest adherers to it, lit up upon the heights of Tara fires to celebrate their watches.

Among the peasants and princes of Normandy, too, the rites were practised. Away in the far North beyond the white hills of the Laps, wherever christians taught, it was celebrated; in other parts where the sparks of faith had died out the celebration took the form of disgusting rites.

We of the enlightened nineteenth century would be ashamed to do what our forefathers did. But give us, if not the old days, some of the clear old practices.

The Elections.

The next sun shall set and the dark pall of night fall over either daed Rum or breathless Temperance. The vote of the people to-day shall decide, and "Dadi's" ballot shall go for as much as Mr. Frazer's.

We are not going to lecture the people on how they should vote; for we think God gives every man, except an idiot, a little common sense. Let all our electors, that are not idiots, to-day vote in such a way as seems right to them.

The question is claimed to be an important one. Time will probably reveal whether it is or not. Zealots on both sides declare it is one of vital importance. Like jurors listening to a counsels impassioned and eloquent charge, it would be well for people to try and find out the real facts from the cases stated and act accordingly.

Either the death or the renewed life of Mr. Rum in his present dress will take place this evening. May the result, whatever it may be, prove for the good and credit of Fredericton.

Prof. Foster.

The Professor last night seemed either to have borrowed or been inspired with the fire with which Demosthenes roused the blood of sturdy Greeks. He fairly excelled himself. His speech was certainly a powerful one.

Our friends across the border squirm piteously at the thought of forking over that "Fishery Award" next month. They bring in the most trivial matters as an offset against the British claim. The enforcement of the act of the legislature of Newfoundland with respect to Americans fishing on their shores is the cause of a recent pow-wow in Washington. It will amount to nothing.

LE MANNEQUIN.

A QUEER LITTLE STATUE AND THE PRETTY LEGEND CONNECTED WITH IT.

Brussels Letter to Baltimore American. Among the fountains of Brussels there is none that commands such attention of the stranger as this diminutive figure, and there is none that is held in such reverence by the people of Brussels. It is a droll curiosity, while at the same time it is a true picture of innocence and nature. He stands on his pedestal, showing by his countenance that he is oblivious of the fact that he is surrounded by spectators, and that some of them glance at him from behind their fans.

It is the figure of a hearty and robust little boy, about six years of age, standing on a pedestal over a half-circle basin, and as he has been frequently stolen or deposed, an ornamental iron railing incloses both the basin and the statue. But Le Mannequin is an historical character, and he has stood for 400 years in his present position. The first statue was in stone, but 260 years ago it was replaced by the present bronze figure by Duquesnow. There are various legends in connection with it, the best accepted of which is that the son of a distinguished man had been lost for some time, having strayed away. This part of Brussels was then a thicket, and it was on the spot on which the fountain was subsequently erected by his father that he was found, after diligent search, just in the position and in the act which the statue represents. In gratitude for his recovery the fountain was erected, and has stood during all the vicissitudes of war and changes of government. It has been from time immemorial an object of popular affection. On grand holidays it has always been the custom of Le Mannequin to wear a costume, and an officer is regularly appointed and paid by the City Council of Brussels, whose duty is to dress him on these occasions, and to keep him in repair and running order. When Louis XV. captured Brussels in 1747, he wore a large white cockade on his hat. In 1789 he was dressed out in colors of the Brabant revolutionists, and the empire girded him with the French tri-color under Napoleon. The Dutch Government imposed the orange colors upon him. The days of September beheld him dressed in a blouse, and under the present reign, on grand occasions he proudly wears the tunic of the civic guard. This inanimate figure has been the object of several banquets, from which some idea of the sentiment of the people of Brussels in relation to him may be judged. The object of these bequests was to furnish a fund, not only to furnish him with dresses for fetes, but also to keep the fountain in good order, and repair and renew it when necessary. This is the fund which the city administrators and which pays for his chamberlain.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

This is Election Day. The River still rises. ALL HALLOW'EN to-night. FLOCKS of wild geese go north. The Merchant's Bank of Charlottetown is about to resume business. The Marquis of Lorne will sail from England for Canada without an escort. An Ottawa despatch states that, owing to ill health, Senator Campbell will not accept a seat in the Cabinet. PERSONAL.—D. A. Landry, the new French teacher in the Normal School, is in the city. George J. Forbes, Esq., of Kouchnigauac, has been left by a relative in California, a million and a half dollars. THE WEATHER.—Jack Frost holds the stage during the night. Bright Sol smiles and gladdens during the day. It is said that Lady Dufferin intends coming to Canada to spend the winter at Rideau Hall. Ex-President Grant was an eye witness of the attempt on King Alfonso's life by Ansaldo. The Newcastle Advocate has entered on its twelfth volume. We wish it continued prosperity. The biography of the poet Longfellow has been written for the November Scribner, by the poet Stoddard. A night with Edison will be described in Scribner for November, by Mr. W. Bishop, author of "Detmold." PERSONAL.—Rev. W. W. Brewer arrived yesterday from England. Senator Muirhead, of Chatham, was at the Barker yesterday. The new Dominion Government have cancelled some of the appointments made by the McKenzie Cabinet since the elections. A company of the Governor General's Footguards will be permanently stationed at Rideau Hall during the stay of the Marquis of Lorne in Canada. Lord Dufferin has arrived in London. He was welcomed by the Mayor and Aldermen, and presented with the freedom of the city. DUCK SHOOTERS report the lakes and secluded streams teeming with duck. Not many killed. Partridge are unusually plenty. AQUATIC.—Courtney will not accept Tricketts challenge, as he is about to retire. Could not Wallace Ross or Clinch be got in the harness? THE Manhattan Saving's Institution, of New York, was robbed of $2,747.700 on Monday morning, Oct. 27th. No clue to the burglars as yet. Lookout for this evening's edition of the STAR. The latest news Local and General, with result of the City Election will be found in its columns. H. M. S.—"Pert" arrived Monday night, from Newfoundland, to take part in the reception of the Marquis of Lorne. The "Rover" and "Contest" are also due. And now the Morning Chronicle, of Halifax, is grumbling over the large amount of money voted by the city to defray expenses of the Vice-regal reception. SMOKERS BEWARE.—A young man at the Social dance, Tuesday evening, put his pipe in his coat pocket. But that timely assistance arrived a hose should have been in order. Parties almost suffocated. HELD OVER.—Owing to pressure on our columns to-day we are compelled to withhold till our next issue a large amount of interesting matter, among which is a sketch of St. Mary's furniture and Hano Factory. Patience friends. THE R. R. TIMETABLE CHANGE.—The trains leave Fredericton at 6.40 a. m., 9.15 a. m., 3 p. m. The St. John trains are due at 11.55 a. m., 7.55 p. m., and from all western points at 5.30 p. m. For further particulars see advertisement in another column. The Morning Star, is the name of a sprightly tri-weekly paper lately started in Fredericton, N. B., by Mr. Jos. E. Collins. This paper promises to make things lively around Fredericton.—Sunnerside Progress. DECLINED.—Mr. Allen has received a note from Peter Clinch of St. John declining to accept the challenge recently issued. Peter will no doubt be offered an opportunity of displaying his muscle next season, when he will perhaps be better prepared. "The greatest safety lies in fear." Rev. Win. Full, of Boston, will institute a Council of the Royal Arcanum in the Vestry of the Methodist, this Tuesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock. This Institution is of a beneficiary nature, and now numbers about 6,000 members. This will be the fourth Council in New Brunswick, the Order having been established in St. John, Fredericton, and Woodstock.—Moncton Times. A HAUNTED FARM.—According to a correspondent of the St. John "News" there is a farm near Salisbury, N. B., which is haunted by a ghost, in the shape of a man. His ghostly appearance in the daytime; and has conversed with some parties. The "News" reporter promises to interview, not the ghost, but the parties who have interviewed the supernatural visitor. Halifax Reporter. DISCOVERY OF COPPER ORE IN ALBERT COUNTY.—Some fine specimens of Copper Ore have been given us by ex-

Captain Jones, who has just returned from Hillsboro. The veins run through the farm of Geo. Walton, of Martin Head, County St. John, and within about 80 feet of the Bay at high water mark. Men are at present employed in sinking a shaft. Mr. Jones intends sending some sample to England. GOOD ENOUGH.—The New York Clipper, the best authority on boating matters in America, confirms the decision giving by Mr. Seely in the late regatta. Let us hear no more croaking from St. John contemporaries, Clinches or Rosses. Let Dr. DeVeber, too, "lush his solemn croak." Next issue we shall give the article from the Clipper. Mrs. J. BILLOP MAUGER.—This highly talented lady is now in the city. For some months past she has been giving readings through the Dominion—in Quebec, Montreal, cities in Ontario, and of late through the Maritime Provinces. Everywhere she has read the press in eulogy of her talents. Her talents are, we are happy to say, recognized by all. Of late in St. John she has given complete satisfaction, and the press notices there are quite complimentary. Fredericton should take a pride in a lady of such high talent as Mrs. Manger, and testify that pride by one and all asking her to contribute to the programme of wholesome and intellectual amusement by giving some readings during her stay here. It is not her own intention, we regret to learn, to give readings, but we want the citizens to join with us in asking her to favor us. Mrs. Manger is worth listening to. Be her selections from Shakespeare or Coynor, be they sublime or simple, be the emotions complex or commonplace she is alike equal to the task. The voice to accommodate the outward form and the sympathy to feel the inner, the spirit, she possesses richly. We extend to her an invitation to favor our Fredericton people. Election of Officers. At a recent meeting of the Golden Rule Lodge, No. 44, I. O. G. T., held in the Orange Hall on Tuesday evening last, the following officers were elected for the coming term: F. J. McCasland, W. C. T., H. S. Carman, W. V. T., G. W. Schieler, Secretary, W. J. Carville, Financial Secretary, N. Smith, Marshal, M. King, Chaplain, M. Smith, Treasurer, Charles Smith, Guard, James White, Sentinel, Wm. Rosborough, P. W. C. T's. The following has been handed us for publication: BOARD SCHOOL TRUSTEE'S Fredericton, Oct. 31, 1878. "This is to certify that Sophia J. Lloyd, holding a first class Provincial License, has been in our employ for two years, during which time she has had charge of the Sixth Department in Park Barracks School, the duties of which have been of a very onerous character, and were discharged in such a manner as to give entire satisfaction to the Board. "The duties of Principal of the entire building, consisting of five departments, have also during the last term devolved upon Miss Lloyd, who has spared no effort to make her entire work a success. "Her resignation, to take effect on the 1st Nov., was accepted with regret." (Signed) A. F. RANDOLPH, Chairman CHAS. A. SAMPSON, Secretary. St. Mary's Ferry Items. From our own Correspondent. W. Haines Esq., accompanied by his son Alfred Haines, started this morning en route to Woodstock having secured the contract for repairing the bridge across the St. John river at that place. It will no doubt be gratifying to the public, to know that this very important work has been entrusted to the hands of such skillful and experienced workmen as Messrs Haines & Son. Messrs. Dayton & Son will ship to-day, one car load of Potatoes, for the above market. Other and large shipments will follow. Messrs. Van Wart & Bailey will ship during the week three car loads of Potatoes for the American market. The members of the second Advent Church have been favoured with a visit from the Rev. Mr. Hall of Augusta, Me. The Rev. gentleman preached last evening to quite a large congregation in Haines' Hall. Considerable interest is felt in regard to the result of the Permissive Bill. The new heating apparatus lately introduced on the Ferry Steamer, Sarah H., is a complete success. Such attention on the part of the owner, W. Haines, Esq., to the comfort of the travelling public, should meet with encouragement and support. Gibson Matters. LAUDABLE.—All rolling stock used on the N. B. Railway is built and repaired in the company's Machine Shops near the ferry landing. PERSONAL.—Mr. John Allen, the gentlemanly and obliging station agent has the respect and confidence of his subordinates and the public. ACCIDENT.—A little girl, aged seven years, daughter of Mr. Malcolm Brown, had her arm broken on Tuesday, by the butt of a horlless cow. PROFESSIONAL.—Dr. Campbell ministers to the suffering in Gibson. Although but a short time there, it is said that the Dr. is working up a lucrative practice. We presume, like others of the profession, he is praying for a God send in the shape of epidemics or accidents. The horlless cow has been his latest benefactor. The Riviere du Loup hotel is run on strictly temperance principles. The proprietor looked amazed when a STAR reporter called for a glass of lager. Mr. Close, the landlord, is attentive and open-hearted—his disposition differing entirely from his name. CHANGE OF TEACHERS.—Miss Kate Flewelling succeeds Miss McKeen in the Intermediate Department the first of November. Miss F. has a good record as a teacher and will doubtless give entire satisfaction. Keswick Notes. CONCERT.—Our enterprising young ladies and gentlemen, gave a grand concert here on Saturday evening last the 26th inst. So successful was it that it was repeated each time bringing a crowded house. The proceeds $38 were used to repairing the Baptist Meeting House. Much credit is due the parties who had the affair in hand. Some few here speak of going to the lumber woods this winter. St. Stephen Diamonds. (From Our Regular Correspondent.) We have not complimented you before, but now we beg leave to offer our most hearty congratulations, not only on the appearance, but on the contents of your paper. As our eyes wandered over the Editorials, Locals, Correspondences, &c., of the last issue, we felt happy to think that our poor scribbles were so honored as to receive space in your columns. You have our best wishes for your success. We feel sure that St. Stephen will not be backward in stretching forth a helping hand, as we have men, young and old, who can appreciate talent and energy, and who will be only too glad to have their names on your subscription list. We intend shortly to give you a number of names of those whose duty we think it is to subscribe for the STAR. THE WEATHER.—The rain of the past week will be welcomed by mill owners and laborers, as a number of the mills have lately shut down on account of the scarcity of water. A R. I. SCORE.—Friday night's regular train from McAdam was thrown off the track between here and Watt Junction. To what an extent does the hour of danger tend to show the true character, and sometimes the occupation, of the man! A Methodist minister who was on board at the time the accident happened, shouted, "Let us pray," and turned up his eyes; a runner for a firm of music dealers in St. John, began to sing, "Oh, to be nothing," of course his prayer will be, and is now, granted. The cowardly uttered exclamations of terror, while a few muttered curses "Not loud but deep," on the railway company for attempting to run a train on so uneven a track. However, no one was seriously injured, excepting that some got bruised toes or bumped noses in the melee. While attempting to clear away the ruins on Sunday, a laborer named D. Stewart had his leg broken. "Thou shalt keep holy the Sabbath day." SUICIDE.—On the same day, Gorham Marks, tired of this life, and wishing, perhaps, to settle for himself the question of eternal punishment, committed suicide. On Saturday afternoon, Schleyer, the urbane auctioneer a lot of choice apples. Prices ranged from $1.00 to $1.75 per bbl. Public examination of schools began to-day. More of these in our next. St. Stephen, Oct. 28. Fredericton Skating Rink. To the Editor of the Star. SIR.—As the time is fast approaching for the great winter amusement—Skating—several persons are beginning to feel somewhat anxious to know if we are going to have another season's enjoyment at the Skating Rink. Surely the directors will call a meeting soon, and not deprive the citizens of such a vast amount of pleasure when we have such a fine building for the purpose. We cannot see why Fredericton should not open her rink as well as many other places of not half the size or importance. Trusting these few words will be considered by the Directors who could and in former years have afforded a large body of our citizens such a pleasant winter evening's pastime. We remain, Yours, &c., OLD TICKET HOLDERS. We fully endorse the plea of our correspondent. There is no argument whatever against opening the rink. It is at once a fertile source of amusement, an excellent medium for physical exercise. Ten times preferable is it to the dancing club room,—an exercise that all should delight to take part in.—Ed. Letter From Golden Rule. To the Editor of the Morning Star. SIR.—Have we gone mad? Whence this new born zeal? Why this perturbation? Our fathers have been wont to exercise their judgment coolly and deliberately on all matters that affected the public weal. They were men who could not be influenced by interest or swayed by hypocrisy. No man dared to approach them and tell them how to exercise their sacred privilege—how to vote. In those days they had no log to roll or axe to grind. We have all been amused and laughed in our youthful days, when reading the wanderings and eccentricities of Don Quixote, and the mighty deeds of dashing Uncle Toby and his fortifications. We never dreamt, however, that those wild and romantic scenes would be realized in our day. "Truth is stranger than fiction." I am led to these reflections by the fact that my house has been flooded for the last several days with tracts of Yankee Quacks who have healing balm for all the ills to which life is heir. Also, how the mighty have fallen, when we have to send to Maine, or rather Connecticut, the land of wooden nutmegs for men to teach us how to live and how to die. In ancient times, before the world became so awfully wise, there was an old proverb, which said "Good wine requires no bush." Is not this true in many ways? Has mankind lost not only its reason but its senses? Are we henceforth to be led in all our works and in all our ways as mere automatons, by a few self constituted knaves or fools! This is the question to be solved to-day by the honest and independent men,—actuated by no other motive than their love of their fellow man. We boast of our enlightenment and a thousand other things of which our fathers were ignorant. Amidst their blindness they never discovered the necessity of hand-cutting, man's will. Should things go on as they seem to do, we had better have one universal ecumenical meeting of all nations, tribes, and tongues, and then and there invest and authorize some one individual to run this globe of ours until we meet again. The machine is being run now by sections—then we should see through the vacuum of the universal whole. Temperance in all things is as universal and primitive as Christianity itself. Paul taught temperance and was an enthusiast too—only however, for Christ and His Cross. "Would that you were all as I am except these bonds." Old Gamaliel's advice in relation to Christianity is only too applicable in the present case. If this thing is of human invention, leave it alone—it will die. If it is of God you cannot kill it. The last and only question that arises to my mind is this: By what authority do those men preach to others? We should always recognize authority yet the authority that teaches us, ought to be model. Who are those men who have been raised up in these latter days to regenerate the world? Have they any divine commission, or delegated authority? If they have not, are we justified in accepting anything that we hear, provided it please our fancy or caprice for the time being? We are too old to be carried away either by folly, ambition, self interest, or all the other interests that can possibly suggest themselves to man's prolific imagination. Moral suasion is our principle whether right or wrong. By that we purpose to abide, come what may. We would, however, offer one suggestion to both old and young who have disgraced humanity, offended God and degraded themselves by their past life of drunkenness and dissipation—they had better retire to the solitude wilderness of the world for a time, until the exact opposite conduct shall testify that they are sincere and honest in their convictions. The idea of lads who only yesterday were jailbirds mounting the platform and proclaiming to men who have lived a life of honesty morality, and virtue, is enough to make angels weep and devils laugh. Let us teach the world by our example to-day that we are a free, moral and independent people. We can eat and drink all and everything God has given us, and we believe good for our passing wans.
