Hattie LeBlanc Arraigned For Trial

Cape Breton Girl, Who Could Not Speak English at the Time of Glover Trial has Made Good Use of Time in Jail.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 28.—Miss Hattie LeBlanc, a Cape Breton girl still in her teens, looked into the faces today of the 12 men who will decide whether she is guilty of the murder of Clarence F. Glover, the Waltham Laundryman, a little more than a year ago. The girl, only a few years out of her short dresses and who did not understand a word of English at the time of the murder, has made good use of her year in the grim jail across the street from the court house, and today she conversed freely with the motherly police matron and the two orderly bailiffs as they sat by her side during the opening hours of the trial and the drawing of a jury. She was not placed in the prisoner's cage, for her strength is scarcely enough to enable her to walk across from the prison, much less to wrestle with a couple of the big court officers. No evidence was offered in court today, but the jury was taken out to Waltham, where the 12 men filed silently through the laundry where Glover said he was shot, then up to the little cottage hospital to which he dragged himself for aid and to die. Then the jury went to the Glover home, where Hattie LeBlanc was a servant and where she was found three days after the murder, hiding under a bed. It was only a few miles out to Waltham, but as the jury box was not filled until afternoon, Judge Bond decided to postpone the government's case until tomorrow.

HOME RULE PLEDGE HAS BEEN GIVEN REDMOND BY PREMIER

Irish Leader's Cable to Australia Lends Color to This Report O'Connor Claims Support of All Canadian Ministers.

London, Nov. 26.—Some light has at last been thrown on the nature of the compact between the Liberal government and the Nationalist party. John Redmond in a message to the Irish people in Australia, says: "Victory means for Ireland immediate home rule." This is taken as an indication not only that the Liberal leaders are standing by their pledges on the Irish question, but that Premier Asquith has promised Mr. Redmond, in return for the Nationalists' support that the Liberals, if returned to power at the coming election, will introduce a home rule bill at the earliest possible opportunity after the veto power of the House of Lords has been swept away. At a meeting of the United Irish League, T. P. O'Connor challenged the Tories to produce a single prime minister or cabinet minister in the Canadian provinces who does not believe the honor and safety of the British Empire demand the concession of home rule.

Big Seal Put Up a Diff Fight

Took Charge of Boat at Mouth of Richibucto River and Made Things Lively

Richibucto, Kent Co., Nov. 24.—While sitting in the cabin of their boat Saturday afternoon, near the mouth of the Richibucto river, says The Review, Daniel O'Leary and James Curwen were somewhat startled by a sudden and violent rocking of the craft and the strange antics of a new comer, which proved to be a very large seal which had jumped, or perhaps as they put it down, flown into the boat. The men admit that their nerves were strained for a few minutes by the unexpected addition to their number and the merry stunts that were indulged by the new comer. With an oar and a piece of board the boatmen took a hand in the proceedings and before they got through all the available clubs were broken up and they were compelled to take the tiller to conquer the phocoid. The marine prisoner put up a terrific battle and made several savage snaps at its captors who were compelled to move cautiously and lively to keep clear of its attacks. Seals are very seldom seen in these waters and the capture of one, in the river, is a very rare occurrence.

BRITAIN TO HAVE SECOND GENERAL ELECTION THIS YEAR

Liberals, Irish and Socialists Still United Against Domination by House of Lords.

London, Nov. 28.—Dissolution was pronounced, to-day and general election will be on at once. At present the Liberals are not contesting sixty-one seats, the most whereof are home counties. The Unionists are not fighting in thirty-eight. There were ten uncontested in January. There are twenty-three three-cornered fights as against forty-nine; there are fifty-seven Labour candidates, as against seventy-eight in January. The Redmondites held a big meeting in Cork last night. Afterwards they endeavored to march in procession through the O'Brien quarter. The police intervened and as a result eighty heads are undergoing repairs in the neighboring hospitals. The election address of Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, is a brief document. It declares that the Unionist programme of legislation is practically the same as at the general election, and asserts that behind the single chamber conspiracy lurks Socialism and home rule. It is because both Nationalist and Socialists are aware that their darling projects are not in harmony with the considered will of the people," says Mr. Balfour, "that they press for the abolition of the only constitutional safeguard which will prevail. The opposition leader also alludes with the greatest brevity to the alternative scheme for the reform of the house of lords which Lord Lansdowne proposed."

FOUND BUNDLE OF BANK BILLS UNDER A FIREPLACE

More Than $6,000 in Package—Child's Discovery May Clear up Robbery.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—A bundle of new Traders Bank bills amounting to upward of $6,000 was found by accident on Thursday evening by a child of a resident of Ward 4, hidden under a fireplace in the house. It is thought that the bills are the same as those which disappeared a few months ago en route from Ottawa to Toronto, and the discovery, it is believed, will disclose the one who stole them. The man in whose house the money was found has just recently moved in, and an endeavor will be made to local the former resident.

MOVE FOR DISMISSAL OF SIR FRED'S SUIT

Socialist Editor Applies to Have Action for Libel Brought by Minister of Militia Taken off Docket.

Sweetsburg, Que., Nov. 21.—With the November session of the circuit and superior court held here, W. U. Cotton, Socialist editor of Cotton's Weekly, against whom Sir Frederick Borden has entered an action for $10,000 for an alleged libel, published during the last elections, made motion to have the case dismissed on the ground that no unusual proceedings had been made during the past two years. The matter will come before the court at the December sitting.

CHATHAM PULP MILL TO CLOSE

Will Throw 250 Men Out of Employment, With Loss in Wages of $3,500 Fortnightly.

Chatham, N. B., Nov. 28.—It is announced here this evening that the Mitamichi Pulp & Paper Company's mill will close down tomorrow until further notice. The closing of the mill is a very serious matter for the town, as it has been the only mill to run during the winter months in previous years, and as some 250 hands are employed there the stopping of work will be severely felt not only by the men themselves but by the storekeepers in the town. Recently the company was in arrears with the men's wages for some ten weeks, but this was paid off a week or two ago, and it was hoped that the company would be able to go on again without further difficulty, as the pay roll amounted to something like $3,500 a fortnight.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN AGAINST BOURASSA

Hon. L. P. Brodeur Leads Speakers at St. John's Meeting.

St. John's, Que., Nov. 26.—A definite opening was today given by the government to a campaign throughout this province to oppose the Bourassa anti-naval propaganda. Hon. L. P. Brodeur, was the chief speaker, and made a fighting speech in which he declared that he had prepared most of the naval bill and regarded it as the best and most important measure presented to parliament during the Laurier regime. He declared that there were three policies before the country: the direct contribution idea of the Conservatives, the do-nothing policy of the Bourassites, and the project of giving the Dominion a navy of its own as provided by the government measures. This, he said, meant that the ships would be built in the Dominion and controlled by the Canadian government. There were about 1500 people at the meeting and although there was a little heckling the speakers were all well received.

WHAT THE LOCAL PAPER SAID

The late Hon. David Davis once said: "Each year every local paper gives from $100 to $5,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The local editor in proportion to his means, does more for his own town than any other ten men, and in fairness man with man, he ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writings; but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliant or crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more benefit to a community than a preacher or a teacher. Understand us now, we don't mean morally or intellectually but financially and yet in the moral question you will find the majority of local papers are on the right side of the question. Today the editors of local papers do the most work for the least money of any men on earth. Subscribe for your local paper, not as a charity but as an investment." —Richibucto Review.

CONNEL FOUNDRY AT WOODSTOCK BURNED DOWN

Insured for $21,000, But Loss Will Exceed This by Thousands.

Woodstock, N. B., Nov. 26.—Connell's foundry, one of the most important industries of the town, was destroyed by fire this evening. Insurance is held for $21,000, but the estimated loss will exceed this by some thousands. The flames originated in the boiler room and spread to the neat, pattern and mending departments. The destruction of the foundry will be a setback to the lumber industry in this section, as the firm supplied machinery for practically all the local mills.

PLASTER ROCK MAN MISSING SINCE SATURDAY

Fraser Bishop Went Hunting and Hasn't Been Seen Since.

Hartland, N. B., Nov. 28.—On Saturday Fraser Bishop of Plaster Rock, who has a contract for building an immense Transcontinental Railway water tank here, left his home with a rifle to look for game in the woods. He has not returned and today Chief of Police Foster organized a posse to search. Mr. Bishop is a prominent man in the locality. It is feared disaster has befallen him.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 28.—In the criminal court today, Jose De Campa, Britt Russell and J. E. Bartium, strike leaders recently convicted of conspiracy to prevent by force striking cigar makers from going to work in the local factories, were sentenced to a year in jail each. Notice of appeal was given. The do-

FIREMEN HELD AN ENJOYABLE DANCE

That the Newcastle Fire Company can afford the young and old an enjoyable evening was clearly demonstrated at the Town Hall Wednesday evening when over a hundred couples assembled for the annual dance of the department. The affair was a magnificent success. Chief Dickison and his men appeared in their natty uniforms while the elaborate decorations so prominent at the recent private dance, remained by arrangement with Mr. McCurdy. The program was an exceptionally fine one, and Mr. James Stables made a capable floor manager. McEachern's orchestra rendered the music which was a feature of the evening. Upwards of twenty dances were carried out the affair breaking up about 3.15 a. m. There were numerous visitors from outside points. The firemen are to be commended on the success of the affair. A delightful luncheon was served about 12 o'clock.

The Tenderfoot

It was one of those days when a man who had been on his feet for forty years, and who was that it didn't matter what the feet were made of, was fed. The questions of digestion and nutrition had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" who has to think of an experiment with a cow. For many a year he has self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might as well eat anything for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition is retarded and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

at last. "Would you care to keep it? It is of no value to me."

"Thanks! I will keep it."

"I've changed my mind," she said inconsequently, stuffing the fabric in her gauntlet. "You have something else in that pocketbook that I should very much like to possess."

"It can't be that Bank of England—"

"No, no! You wrapped it in a bit of paper last week and placed it there for safe keeping."

"You mean the bullet?"

"Yes, I should like it to show to my friends, you know, when I tell them how near you were to being shot." Without a word he gave her the bullet that had dropped at his feet on that first day at the chateau.

"Thank you. Oh, isn't it a horrid thing! Just to think, it might have struck you!" She shuddered.

He was about to answer in his dejection when a sharp turn in the road brought them in view of the chateau. Not a hundred yards ahead of them two persons were riding slowly, untended, very much occupied in themselves. Their backs were turned toward Chase and the princess, but it was an easy matter to recognize them. The glance which shot from the princess to Chase found a peculiar smile disappearing from his lips.

"I know what you are thinking," she cried impulsively. "You are wrong—very wrong, Mr. Chase. Lady Deppingham is a born coquette—a born trifler. It is ridiculous to think that she can be seriously engaged in a—"

"It isn't that, princess," he interrupted, a dark look in his eyes. "I was merely wondering whether dear little Mrs. Browne is as happy as she might be."

Genevra was silent for a moment.

"I had not thought of that," she said soborly.

the sunsets you would not be so hard on me. I wouldn't take Drusilla's husband away from her for the world. I wouldn't even look at him if he were not on the barren island too. I've read novels in which a man and woman have been wrecked on a desert island and lived there for months, even years, in an atmosphere of righteousness. My dear, those novelists are ninnyes. Nobody could be so good as all that without getting wings. I'm tired of men and angels. That's why I want you for awhile. You've got no wings, Geneva, but it's of no consequence, as you have no one to fly away from."

"Or to, you might add," laughed Genevra.

"That's very American, you've been talking to Miss Pelham. She's always adding things. By the way, Mr. Chase sees quite a lot of her. She types for him. I fancy she's trying to choose between him and Mr. Saunders. If you were she, dear, which would you choose?"

"Saunders," said Genevra promptly. "But if I were myself I'd choose Mr. Chase."

"Speaking of angels, he must have wings a yard long. He has been chosen by an entire harem, and he flies from them as if pursued by the devil. I imagine, however, that he'd be rather dangerous if his wings were to get out of order unexpectedly. But he's nice, isn't he?"

The princess nodded her head tolerantly.

Her ladyship went on: "I don't want to walk, after all. Let us sit here in the corridor and count the prisms in the chandeliers. It's such fun. I've done it often. Mr. Britt has advanced a new theory. We are to indulge in double barreled divorce proceedings. As soon as they are over Mr. Browne and I are to marry. Then we are to hurry up and get another divorce. Then we marry our own husband and wife all over again. Isn't it exciting? Only, of course, it isn't going to happen. It would be so frightfully improper—shocking, don't you know. You see, I should go on living with my divorced husband even after I was married to Bobby. I'd be obliged to do that in order to give Bobby grounds for a divorce as soon as the estate is settled. But Deppy has put his foot down hard. He says he had trouble enough getting me to marry him the first time. He won't go through it again. Of course it's utter nonsense!"

"A little nonsense now and then is"—began the princess and paused amiably.

"Is Mr. Chase to stay for lunch?" asked Lady Agnes irreverently.

"How should I know? I am not his hostess."

"Hoity toity! I've never known you to look like that before. A little dash of red sets your cheeks off"—But Genevra threw up her hands in despair and started toward the stairway, her chin tilted high. Lady Agnes, laughing softly, followed. "It's too bad she's down to marry that horrid little brat," she said to herself, with a sudden wistful glance at the proud, vibrant, lovable creature ahead. "She deserves a better fate than that."

Genevra waited for her at the head of the stairway.

"Agnes, I'd like you to promise that you will keep your avaricious claws off Mrs. Browne's husband," she said seriously.

"I'll try, my dear," said Lady Agnes meekly.

When they reached the garden they found Deppingham smoking furiously and quite alone. Chase had left some time before to give warning to the English bank that trouble might be expected. The shadow of disappointment that flitted across Genevra's face was not observed by the others. Bobby Browne and his wife were off strolling in the lower end of the park.

"Poor old Deppy!" cried his wife. "I've made up my mind to be exceedingly nice to you for a whole day."

"I suppose I ought to beat you," he said slowly.

A dark, saturnine face appeared.

"It was stuck under my door by Bromley, who said that Miss Pelham gave it to her. Miss Pelham referred me to Mr. Britt, and Mr. Britt urged me to keep the letter for future reference. I think he said it could be used as Exhibit A. Then he advised me to beat you only in the presence of witnesses."

"The whole household must be going mad," cried Genevra, with a laugh.

"Oh, if something only would happen!" exclaimed her ladyship. "A riot, a massacre—anything! It all sounds like a farce to you, Geneva, but you haven't been here for five months, as you have."

As they moved away from the vine covered nook in the garden a hand parted the leaves in the balcony above, and the dark, saturnine face of a trusted servant appeared behind it. This secret espionage had been going on for days in the chateau. Scarcely a move was made or a word spoken by the white people that escaped the attention of the swarthy spy. And, curious if enough, these spies were no longer reporting their discoveries to Hollingsworth Chase.

The days passed. Hollingsworth Chase now realized that he no longer had authority over the natives. Rasula made the reports for the islanders and took charge of the statements from the bank.

Every morning Chase rode boldly into the town, translated what business he could, talked with the thoroughly disturbed bankers and then defiantly made his way to the chateau. He was in love with the princess—desperately in love. He understood perfectly—for he was a man of the world and cosmopolitan—that nothing could come of it. She was a princess, and she was not in a story book; she could not marry him.

So far as Geneva was concerned, on her part it could mean no more than a diversion, a condescension to coquetry, a simple flirtation; it meant the passing of a few days, the killing of time, the pleasure of gentle conquest, and then—forgetfulness. All this he knew.

At first she revolted against the court he so plainly paid to her in these last few days. It was bold, conscienceless, impudent. She avoided him; she treated him to a short season of disdain; she did all in her power to rebuke his effrontery—and then in the end she decided to give him as good as he sent in this brief battle of folly. It mattered little who came off with the fewest scars, for in a fortnight or two they would go their separate ways, no better, no worse, for the conflict. And, after all, it was very dull in these last days, and he was very attractive as they were, very gallant and, above all, very sensible.

They rode together in the park every morning, keeping well out of range of marksmen in the hills. Their conflict was with the eyes, the tone of the voice, the intervals of silence; no touch of the hand, nothing except the strategies of eyes.

What did it matter if a few dead impulses, a few crippled ideals, a few blasted hopes were left strewn upon the battlefield at the end of the fortnight? What did anything matter so long as Prince Karl of Brabatz was not there?

One night toward the end of the week of alternating encounters the vulnerable spot in the man's armor of Geneva stood upon the verge of being missed by the gauging dagger.

She was sitting on a bench in the park, looking out at the stars in the dark sky, when she saw a man in a dark suit and a hat who was the last thing she wanted to see. He had missed her, she thought, but she had not missed him. She had not missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him.

She missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him. She had not missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him.

She missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him. She had not missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him.

She missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him. She had not missed him, she thought, but she had not missed him.

She turned her gaze away from the twinkling light in the hills, a queer, guilty smile on her lips.

Across the garden from where she was flaying herself bitterly Lady Deppingham's husband was saying in low, agitated tones to Bobby Browne's wife: "Now, see here, Drusilla, I'm not saying that our—that is, Lady Deppingham and Bobby—are accountable for what has happened, but that doesn't make it any more pleasant. It's of little consequence who is trying to poison us, don't you know, and all that. They wouldn't do it, I'm sure, but somebody is! That's what I mean, d'ye see? Lady Dep?"

"I know my husband wouldn't—couldn't do such a thing, Lord Deppingham came from Drusilla's still lips almost as a moan. She was very miserable.

"Of course not, my dear Drusilla," he protested nervously. Then suddenly, as his eye caught what he considered a suspicious movement of Bobby's hand as he played a card close to Lady Deppingham's fingers: "Deduce, I—I'd rather he wouldn't! But I beg your pardon, Drusilla! It's all perfectly innocent."

"Of course it's innocent!" whispered Drusilla fiercely.

"It's utter nonsense for us to suspect them of—Pray don't be so upset, Drusilla. It's all right."

"If you think I am worrying over your wife's harmless affair with my husband you are very much mistaken."

Deppingham was silent for a long time.

"I don't sleep at all these nights," he said at last miserably. She could not feel sorry for him. She could only feel for herself and her sleepless nights. "Drusilla, do—do you think they want to get rid of us? We're the obstacles, you know. We can't help it, but we are. Somebody put that pill in my tea today. It must have been a servant. It couldn't have been—"

"My husband, sir?"

"No, my wife. You know, Drusilla, she's not that sort. She has a horror of death and—"

"He stopped and wiped his brow pathetically.

"If the servants are trying to poison any of us, Lord Deppingham, it is reasonable to suspect that your wife and my husband are the ones they want to dispose of, not you and me. I don't believe it was poison you found in your tea, but if it was it was intended for one of the heirs."

"Well, there's some consolation in that," said Deppy, smiling for the first time.

The sharp rattle of firearms in the distance brought a sudden stop to his lugubrious reflections. Five, a dozen, a score of shots were heard. The blood turned cold in the veins of every one in the garden; faces blanched suddenly, and all voices were hushed. A form of paralysis seized and held them for a full minute.

Then the voice of Britt broke coldly over the tense, still air: "Good God! Look! It is the bungalow!"

A bright glow lighted the dark mountain side; a wild red painted the trees; the smell of burning wood came down with the breeze. Two or three sporadic shots were borne to the ears of those who looked toward the blazing bungalow.

"They've killed Chase!" burst from the stiff lips of Bobby Browne.

CHAPTER XVII
CHASE COMES FROM THE CLOUDS.

FOR many minutes the watchers in the chateau stared at the burning bungalow, fascinated, petrified. Through the mind of each man ran the sudden, sharp dread that Chase had met death at the hands of his enemies.

Genevra felt her heart turn cold. Then something seemed to clutch her by the throat and choke the breath out of her body. Through her brain went the recollection of his last words to her that afternoon, "They'll find me ready if they come for trouble." She wondered if he had been ready for them or if they had surprised him! She had heard the shots. Chase could not have fired them all. Was he now lying dead in that blazing—

"She screamed aloud with the thought of it.

"Can't something be done?" she cried again and again, without taking her gaze from the doomed bungalow. She turned fiercely upon Bobby Browne,

Seventy Nine Years Young

"Fruit-a-tives" Keeps Health Perfect

WILLIAM PARSONS, Esq.

Obstinate Constipation, Paralysis of the Bowels and Stricture of the Bowels can never be cured by common purgatives, salts, senna, "liver pills" and oil have positively no action on the liver. They do not increase the secretion of Bile, which nature provides to move the bowels. They merely irritate the membranes lining the intestines. One may as well try to cure a headache by pounding one's head against a stone wall, as to try to cure Constipation with common purgatives. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only true liver stimulant. "Fruit-a-tives" is fruit juices and nerve tonics, and will always restore the liver to its proper condition and cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation.

the countryman. "Afterward she recalled that he stood staring as she had stared, Lady Deppingham clasping his arm with both of her hands. The glance also took in the face of Deppingham. He was looking at his wife, and his eyes were wide and glassy, but not with terror. "It may not be too late!" again cried the princess. "There are enough of us here to make an effort, no matter how futile. He may be alive and trapped up—"

"You're right!" shouted Browne. "He's not the kind to go down with the first rush. We must go to him. We can get there in ten minutes. Britt! Where are the guns? Are you with us, Deppingham?"

He did not wait for an answer, but dashed out of the garden and down the steps, calling to his wife to follow.

"Stop!" shouted Deppingham. "We are not here to help Chase. If they have turned against Chase, they are also ready for us. I'm not a coward, Browne. We're needed here, that's all. It's too late to help Chase. They've got him, poor devil! Everybody inside! Get to the guns if possible and cut off the servants' quarters. We must not let them surprise us. Follow me!"

There was wisdom in what he said, and Browne was not slow to see it clearly. With a single penetrating glance at Genevra's despairing face, he shook his head gloomily and turned to follow Deppingham, who was hurrying off through the corridor with her ladyship.

"Come," he called, and the princess, feeling Drusilla's hand grasping her arm, gave one helpless look at the fire and hastened to obey.

In the grand hallway they came upon Britt and Saunders, white faced and excited. The white servants were clattering down the stairways, filled with alarm, but there was not one of the native attendants in sight. This was ominous enough in itself. The sound of a violent struggle in the lower corridor came to their ears. Loud voices, blows, a single shot, the rushing of feet, the panting of men in fierce combat—and then, even as the whites turned to retreat up the stairway, a crowd of men surged up the stairs from below, headed by Ballo, the major domo.

"Stop, excellencies!" he shouted again and again. Bobby Browne and Deppingham were covering the retreat, prepared to fight to the end for their women although unarmed. It was the American who first realized that Ballo was not heading an attack upon them. Ballo and a score of his men had refused to join the stablennen and gardeners in the plot to assassinate the white people. As a last resort the conspirators contrived to stuff into the chateau, hoping to fall upon their victims before Ballo could interpose. The major domo, however, with the wily sagacity of his race, anticipated the move. The two forces met in the south hall after the plotters had effected an entrance from the garden.

The struggle was brief, for the conspirators were outnumbered and surprised. They were even now lying bound, bound and helpless, awaiting the disposition of their intended victims.

"It is not because we love you, excellencies," explained Ballo, with a sudden fierce look in his eyes, "but because Allah has willed that we should serve you faithfully. We are your dogs. Therefore we fight for you. It is a vile dog which bites its master."

Browne, with the readiness of the average American, again assumed command of the situation. He gave instructions that the prisoners, seven in number, be confined in the dungeon, temporarily at least.

"There will be no other attack on us tonight," said Browne, rejoining the women after his interview with Ballo. "It has passed fire for the present, but they will try to get at us sooner or later from the outside. Britt, will you

THE BURNING OF THE BUNGALOW.

HE went in and had tiffin with them in the hanging garden. Deppingham was surly and preoccupied. Drusilla Browne was unusually vivacious. At best she was not volatile; her greatest accomplishment lay in the ability to appreciate what others had to say.

Her husband, aside from a natural anxiety, was the same blithe optimist as ever. He showed no sign of restraint, no evidence of compunction. Chase found himself secretly speculating on the state of affairs. Were the two heirs working out a preconceived plan, or were they, after all, playing with the fires of spring?

Immediately after tiffin Genevra carried Lady Deppingham off to her room. When they came forth for a proposed stroll in the grounds Lady Agnes was looking very meek and tearful, while the princess had about her the air of one who has conquered by gentleness.

"It has been so appallingly dull, Geneva, don't you understand? That's why. Besides, it isn't necessary for her to be so horrid about it. She—"

"She isn't horrid about it, dear. She's most self sacrificing."

"Rubbish! She talks about the Puritans and all that sort of thing. I know what she means. But there's no use talking about it. I'll do as you say—command. I mean, I'll try to be a prude. Heaven alone knows what a prude I am. I don't. All this tommyrot about Bobby and me wouldn't exist if that wretched Chase man had been a little more affable. He never noticed us until you came. A wife to snoop after him and—why, a dear, he would have been ideal."

"It's all very nice, yes, but you forget your husband," said Genevra, with a tolerant smile.

"Genevra," said Agnes solemnly. "If I had been a barren island for five years, I should have been with you."

Standard Topographical Map of Canada

The Department of the Interior has just issued a new map of Prince Edward Island comprising sheet No. 14 of the Standard Topographical Map of Canada. This map covers not only the whole of the Island but parts of the counties of Kent and Westmorland in New Brunswick and parts of the counties of Cumberland, Colchester, Pictou, Antigonish and Inverness in Nova Scotia.

The map is of a convenient size—about 3 feet square and is on the comparatively large scale of 3.95 miles to the inch. It shows all surveys to date, post offices, stations on the railway, highways and roads and all other available information within the territory covered.

A series of these maps is being issued by the Chief Geographer of the Department of the Interior. Maps are being prepared in detail of the most important districts of the Dominion and the intention is to combine them as has been now done in the case of Prince Edward Island into large and complete maps of each of the provinces of Canada when all are finished. In the meantime, copies of the map of each district are being issued for the convenience of the public as soon as the individual plates are completed. The following sheets have been published covering portions of Nova Scotia on the same scale as the map of Prince Edward Island: The Cape Breton sheet—(comprising Cape Breton and part of the counties of Antigonish and Guysborough). The Truro sheet comprising Pictou and parts of the counties of Antigonish, Guysborough, Halifax, Colchester, Cumberland and Hants.

The Halifax, Yarmouth and Moncton sheets covering the remainder of the province and part of New Brunswick, the St. John sheet on the smaller scale of 7.95 miles to the inch was published in 1905; the south eastern part of the counties of Kent, Westmorland and Albert not being shown but a new and up-to-date map covering the entire province is under preparation.

It will be interesting to the public to know that single copies of any one of the published sheets of the Standard Topographical Map may be obtained free on application to the Chief Geographer of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

ROGERSVILLE MAN HAS SMALLPOX

Suspects Arrived Here Last Week And Were Quarantined.

The Campbellton Board of Health has been alert and is endeavoring to keep out a small pox epidemic. In Northumberland and Kent counties there are a large number of cases, so that it is no easy matter to watch suspects coming here, more especially as there are hundreds of men coming to Rogersville to work or going up river to the lumber camps.

Last week two men named LeBlanc arrived here from Rogersville and the Board of Health deemed it advisable to place them in quarantine and the wisdom of this course was shown as one of the men has already well developed smallpox. They are confined in the isolation hospital and are being cared for by the town Board of Health. These men were brought here by the I. C. R. to work at the new roundhouse and it is the opinion of town officials that the I. C. R. should foot the bills for the case.

P. E. I. WHISKEY CHEAP

The high price of lambs and the low price of whiskey at Tignish were responsible for a fracas that occurred in that village on Thursday last. A number of the farmers in the surrounding district were in the village delivering and paid for their lambs. The sales were so satisfactory that some of them undertook to celebrate the occasion. One man went so far as to break some glass in the windows of the local drugstore, which having been accomplished to his own satisfaction, he proceeded to make some alterations in the store of John McLellan. Mr. McLellan objected and undertook to put him out but the undertaking ended in disaster. Mr. McLellan was severely beaten and was obliged to call in medical aid to undo the work of the celebrant. A warrant has been issued and the local constables are said to be looking for the culprit.—Island Farmer.

POLITICAL ASSYLUM IN CANADA.

A short time ago, a Russian revolutionist named Fedorenko, who had killed two officers to avoid capture and had escaped via Buenos Ayres to Canada, was arrested in Winnipeg on complaint of the Russian government and is still in prison there awaiting extradition. But, as Fedorenko's offense appears to have been purely political, a great out cry is being raised from one end of Canada to the other against him being handed over for torture and death to the infamous government of Russia, against whom for years the more courageous and intelligent of its downtrodden subjects have been in chronic revolt. Mass meetings in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, presided over by the Mayors of those cities; the legislature of Alberta by unanimous vote; and meetings in many smaller places, have demanded from the Minister of Justice the most searching investigation before a refugee shall be handed over to the tender mercies of Russia. Not only the revolutionary and radical press of Canada but such politically orthodox and powerful organs as The Toronto Globe are intervening in behalf of justice for Fedorenko and the preservation of the right of political assylum in this country as inviolate as it has long been in the British Isles. Last year the governments of Russia and Mexico made desperate efforts to secure the extradition of a number of political offenders from the United States but, after great popular agitation and financial sacrifice in favor of the defendants, completely failed. Our Minister of Justice should see that the legal machinery of this country is not used to do the dirty work of the barbarous authorities of Russia.

FARMERS FEELING THEIR POWER.

Saskatchewan farmers are waking to a realization of the great powers which the ballot and co-operation put into their hands. At a meeting of local grain growers with the Central Executive at Saskatoon on the 16th instant E. A. Partridge of Sinaluta and others described the inauguration of commercial co-operation at Sinaluta, it being the intention of the farmers to cover the province with co-operative stores. The members from Saskatchewan at Ottawa were instructed to see to it that the grain growers' attitude on the public ownership and operation of the H. B. Railway, cold storage elevators and other questions, be taken up as early as possible and legislated upon. It was decided that the delegates to Ottawa should see the members of their constituencies and have them declare themselves in the house on these topics and that IN FUTURE ELECTIONS THE GRAIN GROWERS VOTE ONLY FOR THOSE MEN WHOM THEY COULD RELY UPON TO UPHOLD THE WESTERN FARMERS' VIEWS AT OTTAWA. As the leader of the government had stated, that he was opposed to the government ownership and operation of the H. B. Railroad, Mr. Partridge thought that a co-operative farmers' company should be formed to secure a charter and build and operate the road. 500 men, farmers, might put up ten dollars each, when articles of incorporation could be drawn and application could be made for a charter. This idea caught the audience so thoroughly that a motion was passed unanimously endorsing the scheme.

MRS. ELIZA BEAMAN

Mrs. Eliza Beaman, wife of Rev. G. H. Beaman of Montreal, passed away on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Susan Fullerton, of Albert N. B. She was the only daughter of the late Jas. W. Fullerton. She leaves to mourn besides a bereaved husband and aged mother 5 brothers and many friends in various parts of Canada and the United States. She was subject to heart failure for several years but 9 months ago was forced to her bed where she remained until death. She was only 33 years of age and an earnest cheerful christian worker and her demise causes regret on every hand. Mr. and Mrs. Beaman had many friends on the Miramichi, having conducted revival meetings at Newcastle, Whitneyville, Littleton and Derby. A year ago they moved to Montreal where Mr. Beaman is now preaching.

DR. CRIPPEN PAID TRIBUTE TO LENEVE

Says She Loved Him as Few Women Love; Declares he was Wrongly Convicted.

London, Nov. 26—Lloyd's News today publishes a three column statement from the late Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, which the paper received through Miss Leneve.

In this letter Crippen reaffirms most solemnly that he was wrongly convicted and expresses the belief that facts are yet to come out which will prove his innocence. The letter rebuts in great detail the evidence as to the identification of the remains found in the cellar of the house on Hilldrop Crescent.

It says his conviction was a judicial error, created chiefly by prejudice, which had been built up in the public mind by the sensational story of his flight and capture.

The letter winds up with a warm tribute to Miss Leneve, "who," it says, "has loved me as few women love men: My last prayer will be that God may protect her and allow her to join me in eternity."

"I BELIEVE IT TO BE THE MOST EFFECTIVE REMEDY FOR THE STOMACH AND NERVES IN THE MARKET," is what Anne Patterson, of Sackville, N. B., says of South American Nerve, for, she says, La Grippe and the complications which followed it left her next to dead with indigestion, Dyspepsia and General Nervous Shattering. It cured her. The Tenderfoot
It was one of these experimental farmers who put spectacles on his cow and red her eyes. It was that it didn't matter what the cow ate was fed. The questions of digestion and nutrition not entered into his calculations.
It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that will do an experiment with a cow. How many a farmer has self regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might as well be blind as to the results of his actions. The cow grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the equivalent thereof.
To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.
In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.
Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

CAMPBELLTON IS ENCOURAGED

All Brick Buildings on Water Street Gives New Town Solid Appearance.

The St. John Standard's Campbellton correspondent sends that paper the following accurate statement of conditions here.

"Campbellton, Nov. 15.—In looking over the town one can scarcely realize that only four months have elapsed since the disastrous fire of July 11th, so great has been the progress made in rebuilding. All along Water street solid business blocks are in course of erection, some of them quite handsome and imposing, while throughout the length and breadth of the town dwellings of all kinds are springing up as if by magic. On the whole the classes of dwellings being erected are more modern in every respect than those destroyed by the fire. Up till a few weeks ago the weather was favorable for rebuilding, but since then there has been a great deal of rain, making it very disagreeable for all concerned.

Contractors have been at a disadvantage from the start owing to the insufficiency of skilled labor as well as the difficulty in procuring lumber to keep up the demand. Many times during the summer for instance, there was not a matched board to be had in the town at any price, even with the surplus stocks of factories and mills all over the country being drawn upon continually. Wages and prices for lumber have, as a consequence, advanced considerably. Bricklayers are being paid from $1 to $5 per day, carpenters, $2.50 to $4. In spite of the unusual conditions prevailing, the amount of work that has been done is almost astonishing. It is perhaps more perceptible to the outsider, who drops in for a day or two, and in fact, many travellers have expressed their amazement on different occasions.

SLOWEST IN WATER STREET. Perhaps the part of the town that will be slowest in re-building is Water street, owing to the new fire district regulations, which will not allow of anything but a solid fireproof construction on that street. But those who have found fault with the new regulations and said that they sounded the death knell of the town's future prospects from a business standpoint have an incontrovertible denial in the fact that so many fine business blocks are already rapidly nearing completion and that there are many more in contemplation for next year. In fact with one or two exceptions, every business man is planning for a bigger business than ever.

The delay of the Dominion government in dealing with the matter of interest charges on the town's bonded debt, has undoubtedly had its effect on rebuilding operations to a large extent, but now that there is some assurance that the town will be relieved from this burden for a period of years, at least it will certainly be a great stimulus in building operations next season.

The number of buildings under construction has been variously estimated from three to five hundred, but in talking with the building inspector, some time ago, he placed the number at about 500. Perhaps a list of those on Water street will be of interest:

- Loumbury Company, large three storey brick building containing offices and warehouses for themselves as well as a store and offices for rental. Leon Cantin, two storey brick building with two stores. John I. Gray, three storey brick hotel and restaurant. McRae Bros, three storey brick and stone building, 60x90 feet, with two stores and dwelling. Edw. Sullivan, large brick office, residence and warehouse. J. R. McKenzie, two storey brick and concrete store and residence. H. A. Marquis, two storey brick and concrete store. Bank of Nova Scotia, three storey brick and stone building. A. McG. McDonald, two storey brick and concrete building for two stores and offices. Bank of New Brunswick, pressed brick with handsome stone front. Geo. Vermette, large three storey, brick building, with two story ell, for store, bakery and residence, and suite of offices for rental. Dr. L. G. Pinaut, fine two storey brick residence and office. Miss Godfrey, two storey brick store and dwelling. Joseph Boudreau, two storey brick store and dwelling. W. H. Wallace, fine concrete residence. Dr. A. Martin, two storey brick residence and office. E. David, two storey brick residence and store.

Besides these there are—Wood-working factories of J. & D. A. Harquail; foundry and machine shops of McLennan; foundry and machine works and Duncan Foundry; Jones & Schofield, large brick warehouse and office; Shives Lumber Company, large shingle and tie mill which will have 20 machines.

NEW I. C. R. BUILDINGS.

The work on the new I. C. R. shops and roundhouse is progressing rapidly. The walls of the structure were completed some time ago, and the roof is now being put on. A large force of men have been kept on the job since the start under the supervision of Mr. Burnes, and good work has been accomplished in a quick time. There will be accommodation for 28 engines in the roundhouse and the offices and shops in connection will be up-to-date in every particular.

Messrs. Harquail have about completed their contract of building forty houses for the relief committee and nearly every family in town has been provided with winter quarters. There are a number of tents still occupied, however, by laborers and others who have found it impossible to get lodging in more suitable quarters.

No new cases of typhoid have developed for some time and it is thought there is no more danger of the spread of that disease. Although some alarming reports were sent abroad about this matter, there was really no ground for them, there being no more than forty or fifty cases altogether, which could hardly be avoided under existing conditions.

CANADIAN MAGAZINE FOR NOVEMBER.

The significance of the co-operative movement among farmers in Western Canada is strikingly shown in an article by George Fisher Chipman in the November Canadian Magazine, entitled "The Voice From the Soil." According to Mr. Chipman, Western farmers are now in a position practically dictate to the Government. Another noteworthy contribution to this number is a chapter, entitled "My Early Connection with London Journalism," which is taken from the Reminiscences of Goldwin Smith soon to be published. Mr. Newton MacTavish gives a sprightly account of the visit of 169 school-teachers of Manitoba to Great Britain, and James Cooke Mills has a fine article on the new tunnel under the Detroit river.

"The Golden Nickel Play" is another article by Harold ... on the romantic aspects of British Columbia mining. These articles are well illustrated. "The Settlement in South Africa," by Hon. Lionel Curtis, is a splendid article summing up the situation in the new British Dominion.

There are also short stories by Clare Giffin, Fred M. White, and Tessie M. Scott, with poems by Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, May Austin Low, Theodore Roberts, and Margaret O'Grady.

NEW BRUNSWICKER WAS MURDERED

Brian Cogger, the Victim—Two Brothers Are Living in St. John.

Rev. E. J. Byrne, on Sunday last in the Sacred Heart Church, Norton, requested the prayers of the congregation for the repose of the soul of Brian Cogger, a former resident of that place, word of whose sad and untimely death reached there.

Some twenty-one years ago Mr. Cogger left his native village, and going to Washington State engaged in the lumbering business, and by work and energy amassed quite a fortune having, it is said, an income of about fifteen thousand a year. A short time ago, leaving his home town, Colpit, Jefferson county, he went to Seattle, to transact some business, and getting through, he was on the return trip. Arriving at the Ferry he informed his wife that he was to meet a certain man on that day, and almost forgotten. He advised her to continue home and that he would return to fix up the little transaction and would follow her the next day.

Not arriving as he had promised, the wife grew anxious, as she had a premonition in the night that he had met with some foul play. She notified the police, and, after a diligent search of five days, his mutilated corpse was found under an old shed, with his throat cut from ear to ear. It is presumed that he was cruelly murdered for his money, as he was known to have entered the bank the day of his visit to Seattle. Neither money nor a gold watch that he had always carried were found on him. So far the police have not discovered the murderers.

Brian Cogger formerly carried on a general merchandise business at Norton in partnership with his brother, Thomas, who now runs a grocery store on Rockland Road, St. John. Patrick Cogger, a farmer, of Norton, is a brother of the murdered man, and so is John Cogger, a storekeeper on Haymarket Square.

Brian Cogger was about 52 years old, and when he left New Brunswick was unmarried. His wife belonged to the State of Washington. St. John relatives had no special news of the sad occurrence.

MAN CHARGED WITH STEALING $90 IN CAMPBELLTON ARRESTED HERE

A man answering to the name of Frederick Murphy, and claiming Halifax as his home, was Saturday morning arrested at the I. C. R. station on the arrival of No. 31, by Chief Rideout, and locked up in the Moncton police station, charged with the theft of $90 in Campbellton.

On Wednesday last Chief Rideout was in receipt of a telephone message from Chief Hughes of Campbellton, asking to have a sharp lookout kept for Murphy. Apart from 'phoning a good description of the man, Chief Hughes gave no further information as to when or from who the money had been stolen.

When No. 34 arrived in Moncton Saturday morning Chief Rideout was at the depot, and from the description given, located his man in the second class car, lying down, and placed him under arrest. When brought to the police station and searched $34.15 was found on his person. He admitted that Frederick Murphy was his name and this was substantiated, when letters, bearing such, were found in his pockets. When arrested Murphy was somewhat intoxicated, and in the car was reticent and refused to talk. He admitted later, however, his name, where he claimed to belong, said he was about 25 years of age, and that he had been drunk up north for the last couple of weeks.

Chief Rideout acquainted Chief Hughes of the arrest, and obtained the information that the money had been stolen from Connell's restaurant in Campbellton.

Saturday afternoon Chief Seely of Dalhousie, arrived in the city with a warrant issued by police magistrate Matheson of Campbellton, and will leave this morning with the prisoner for Campbellton. Chief Seely recognized in the prisoner the man Murphy who is wanted for the theft in the north shore town.

For Health and Economy Eat more Bread

TEN cents will feed an ordinary family a day on first class bread. This does not mean ordinary bread. For there is an important difference between ordinary bread and first class bread. It isn't a difference of looks or methods of making or baking. It is a difference of nutrition, food value, healthfulness. And this food value depends on the flour used. For there is a wide difference between flours.

If all flour were the best flour, then all bread, properly made, would be good bread. But all flour is not first class because all wheat is not first class. Wheat, you know, varies in quality almost as much as apples or potatoes; there are as many different grades of wheat as there are grades of butter—or wool.

And every difference in grade represents an actual difference in nourishing value, food elements, wholesomeness. Flour made from a low grade of wheat is by no means so healthful as flour made from high grade wheat. Now the wheat that goes into Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour is of the very highest grade. It contains the highest possible percentage of nutritive value. The makers of "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" maintain expensive laboratories and baking departments where skilled men scientifically analyse each day's milling. None but the very best Red Fife wheat—rich in nutrition and healthfulness—can pass. For this reason bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR contains the maximum of food value and furnishes the maximum of energy and strength. And for the same reason "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" makes the finest pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, rolls, and pastry of all kinds. It is the one flour that a housewife should use in order to have her household baking strictly first class.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook" with 125 pages of Recipes that have been tried and tested will be sent free to your address if you mention the name of your dealer. The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Limited.

OPPOSES RECIPROCITY

SIR G. W. ROSS THINKS CANADA SHOULD NOT BE TIED UP.

Former Premier of Ontario In Historic Address Before the Toronto Board of Trade Gives His Reasons For Maintaining the Present Tariff—Phenomenal Growth of Industries Would End.

In a speech eloquent, logical and comprehensive, Sir Geo. W. Ross discussed the question of reciprocity before a largely attended meeting of the Board of Trade in Toronto recently. "The negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with the United States," he said, "has been a somewhat familiar subject to Canadians for two generations. Ever since the repeal of the treaty of 1854, over forty years ago, it has been frequently discussed on both sides of the line."

After discussing the political effect on Canada of reciprocity, Sir George took up the economic problem. He said:

A Poor Bargain.
"But, assuming that bona fide proposals for reciprocity are to be submitted, let me mention a few considerations that require the most careful attention."
(1) We must not forget that the mere exchange of certain articles may involve a great deal more than appears on the surface. For example—to abolish the duty on wheat on both sides of the line looks fair, but to accept an offer of that kind pure and simple would, in my opinion, be a poor bargain for Canada. I believe that the longer the American tariff of 25 cents a bushel on Canadian wheat is maintained the better for us. Canadian wheat has now a distinct place in the British market. If the market of the United States were freely opened it would be impossible to maintain its identity in passing through American elevators, and Canada would be the loser to the extent of any reduction in price.

"A similar observation will apply to flour. Manitoba flour usually brings a higher price on Mark Lane than any American brand. Who could vouch for the genuineness of this brand if American wheat moved freely across the border? The poorer qualities on the south side of the line would be fortified by the products of Canadian mills, and the better qualities on the north side would be deteriorated by mixture from the south. Such an interchange would be throwing away all the advantages we possess from the great wheat belt of Manitoba and the west.

Canadian Cheese Pre-eminent.

"In the same way Canadian cheese, after years of experiment and large expenditure of money, has driven American cheese out of the British market. How could this pre-eminence be preserved if Canadian cheese passed through the hands of American shippers over the border? We have, therefore, to consider not the first profit, if profit there be, but the ultimate effect upon an industry which yields us annually about $30,000,000. The advance of a few cents in price in exceptional conditions of the market should not dominate the general effect on the large aspect of the question and the business interests of all the cheese factories of Canada.

The question of our lumbering industry has also its future aspect.

No doubt the admission of lumber into the American market free of duty would enhance the value of lumber and probably the value of all standing marketable timber in Canada. But the personal interests of the lumbermen are not to be alone considered. One of the greatest questions now before the people of Canada is how to conserve their forests. Mr. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the Commission of Natural Resources, speaking before the Empire Club on the 20th inst., said: "At the end of twenty years the United States would have no timber for sale in the ordinary way. In Canada the supply was large, but if the supply in the United States ran out, the supply in Canada would last the United States for only seven years. The time must come, however, when the people of Canada would demand legislation prohibiting the export of marketable timber." This is the national view, and the only view which will do justice to Canadian interests. Can this view be maintained under a treaty?

"In 1866, when the old treaty was repealed, we were poor in banking capital, in skilled labor, in agriculture and in manufactures. A treaty then, would have afforded some relief. To-day conditions are different—different because the repeal of the treaty removed every prop on which we had formerly leaned, and the true temper of the Anglo-Saxon spirit was needed to sustain it. Think of a country in the world affords a better illustration of public spirit than Canada when the United States in 1866 flung our poverty in our faces and told us that our only choice was starvation or annexation. It is not that the fabled wrestler Antaeus, whom Hercules sought to crush, sprang to his feet whenever his shoulders touched the earth. We touched the earth in 1866; but, like Antaeus, we sprang to our feet, and by our unaided strength we have made the name of Canada great among the nations of the world, and so Hercules now wonders if it would not be better for him to pour a libation at our feet than wrestle with us in the commercial amphitheatre of this country.

Growth of Manufactures.

"Nor does it appear to me to be necessary that we should worry ourselves much over reciprocity in manufactures. The secretary of the Manufacturers' Association said that only three per cent. of the imports of the United States from Canada consisted of manufactured goods. If the Americans want more of the excellent products of our factories let them reduce their tariff, and I have no doubt many of them will be glad to wear our cotton and our woollen goods. But even in spite of our exclusion from the United States our factories have prospered.

United States as a Market.

"But suppose the markets of the United States were thrown open to us, would that not greatly enhance our prosperity? The United States lie along our border for 4,000 miles, with a population of ninety millions. If you have anything to sell, there is an unlimited market for us—why not let us enjoy it? This is a fascinating picture, but there is another side to it. The boundary is just as long for the Americans as for the Canadians, and a reciprocity treaty that opened one side of the line would also open the other. While our seven millions were getting into the American markets with our merchandise the American ninety millions were getting into Canada, and the home market, always the best, where not glutted with goods, would be rendered practically valueless. The fruit-grower would find American fruit in the market before him, and everywhere so abundant that his trade would be ruined. The flour merchant, the seed merchant, the dealer in provisions, such as bacon, butter and cheese, would be similarly situated, and any occasional sale that he could make in the United States would be poor compensation for the losses incurred on account of the surfeit of the home market by American goods.

"But in a still larger sense Canadians would stand to lose from the opening of the American markets, and that is very clearly put by Senator Beveridge in a speech recently delivered on reciprocity. He says: 'There must be reciprocity with Canada. Our tariff on the rest of the world does not apply to our northern neighbor. That policy already has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian border, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil, employing Canadian workmen to supply trade. That capital should be kept at home to employ American workmen to supply Canadian demand.'

"Here we have another statement, this time from a distinguished Senator, as to the effect of our present commercial relations with the United States which President Taft is so anxious to change. Senator Beveridge says: 'The American tariff has driven American manufacturers across the Canadian border, built vast plants with American capital on Canadian soil, and so on. Well, suppose it has, and we are told that American capital to the extent of $225,000,000 has been invested in Canada is that a condition that we should seek to change? If the Americans change it of their own motion we cannot help it, but surely we should not encourage negotiations which would prevent the investment of capital from any quarter in Canada. If there is anything we need it is capital for our industries and farms and mines and factories. But notice another observation of the distinguished Senator. He says: 'That capital should be kept at home to employ American workmen to supply Canadian demand.' Well, let me tell Senator Beveridge that some time ago we allowed American workmen to supply Canadian demand, but if he ever hopes that this will happen again, then I very much mistake the Canadian sentiment of to-day. Americans now supply us with about $80,000,000 of manufactured goods. Even that is too much, but to increase it as Senator Beveridge proposes would be treason to Canadian industries, the very thought of which makes one shrink from the consequences.

Relations With Mother Country.

"Next let us consider the effect which reciprocity might have upon our business relations with the mother country. I leave out of consideration the presumption of many Americans that better trade relations with the United States might lead to political union. If the United States supplied the only market available for Canadians a treaty might have some political effect. But we are not dependent upon the United States in any sense for our markets, and if we make a treaty it is to be assumed that we will give a quid pro quo for any favors we receive. Canadians surely would not be bribed by privileges for which they paid. But if trade and loyalty are to be considered together it is the mother country that has the first claim upon us. In the face of a duty of 23.7 per cent. on all the goods we sell to her she allows free access to her market, while the Americans exact a duty of forty-two per cent. for a similar privilege. The British market is also a steady market and not subjected to the fluctuations of the Chicago Corn Exchange or to the manipulation of speculators. It is not liable to be closed against us by the expiration of any treaty or by the manipulation of any trust. So long as the British Empire endures we may expect the British market to be accessible to us. If we have any favors to bestow that is the market with the strongest claim, or if we anticipate any favors, such as a preference over foreign traders, it is in the British market that these favors are most likely to be obtained; we certainly would not look for them in the markets of the United States. One thing is certain, we cannot have reciprocity in wheat and British preference at the same time.

What British Capital is Doing.

"Then, again, the British market has always been our base of supplies for every large national and industrial undertaking. It was with British capital that we built our railways and dug our canals. Nearly every large municipal work in Canada was carried out by loans in London. British capital is now building two transcontinental railways. It lights our streets, lays down our sewers, builds our waterworks and carries us from continent to continent. In the last five years, according to The Monetary Times, the sum of $695,453,856 has been invested in Canada, of which $97,500,000 has been invested in enterprises for the development of the country. Mr. Parish, an eminent London authority on finance, says that Canada has absorbed £200,000,000 of British capital.

In considering further investments would the capitalists be more likely to decide for Canada if our trade were directed to the United States? For that is what reciprocity means. Just now the current is with us. If we proceed with the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal and the Hudson Bay Railway and the enlargement of the Welland Canal, not to say a variety of smaller enterprises, we will need two or three hundred millions in the next few years. Where are they to come from? Certainly not from the United States. Capital is sensitive. Let us not give to it a jolt in this important stage of national development.

Effects on National Autonomy.

"Reciprocity would not help our national autonomy. A treaty means an obligation, and an obligation is subject to interpretation. The Washington Treaty contained several obligations. One was the free admission of fish into the United States. Interpreted, it still meant fresh fish, but not the packages in which they were put up. The Washington treaty allowed the use of certain American canals in exchange for the free use of Canadian canals. Interpreted it meant that the vessels or barges could pass only if they were unloaded when they entered American territory. Under a reciprocity treaty the two countries will no doubt undertake certain obligations which, possibly, when they come to be interpreted near and dear, what either party understood them to mean. But the obligation will continue during the life of the treaty, to the annoyance of one or both parties.

"For my part I do not want to see any act of the Canadian people subject to interpretation at Washington. Only once in 100 years did we get full justice in the interpretation of treaties affecting Canada, and that was before The Hague Tribunal a month ago. Our tariff act is now interpreted at Ottawa, and any complaint from the United States authorities where else is settled by Canadian officers. Right or wrong we are our own masters. This would not be the case under a treaty, but that would mean irritation and possibly international good-will. And now where does my argument lead? Evidently to this conclusion: that Canada does not stand in any great need of a reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Leave Well Alone.

"Let us not want to be better unless we are sure of the effects of the medicine. We are free from entanglements with the United States. We cannot be embarrassed by any amendments we make in our tariff, or if we are we can alter it ourselves. A treaty we cannot alter. We have taken the duty off binder twine and barbed wire and corn, and we have given the Americans a free list of goods under which they sold us last year $79,471,000 worth of merchandise on which there was no duty. If they are anxious for better trade relations with Canada, let them negotiate through their own Congress at Washington, and reduce their tariff as it may suit them, and let us reciprocate if we deem it expedient, through the Parliament of Canada.

"There is the first move on the commercial chessboard. We have Great Britain a preference without any treaty or even negotiations; why should we treat the Americans with greater formality? At the same time, let us receive their representatives with the utmost courtesy. They have proposals to make, we want to know what they are. They should be made as openly as if they were submitted to Parliament. Public opinion should be heard upon them, and there the matter should rest until the United States Congress had given its sanction and approval to the action of its representatives. It would then be the duty of the Parliament to take similar action if in the public interest so to do—only in this way can we preserve perfect freedom from the possible entanglements of a treaty which, no matter how carefully drafted, is liable to be misunderstood and misinterpreted.

"An adjustment of the trade relations between the two countries by the independent legislation of both rather than by treaty is the only safe course, as it affords publicity in the first instance and admits of perfect freedom of action thereafter. In the meantime let Canada continue to sell her merchandise wherever she finds a market, and trusting in that Providence which has always filled her barns with plenty and made her merchants princes in the land, let her not hazard her trade or her independence for expectations that may never be realized, nor place herself under obligations that might interfere with the fullest development of her industrial prosperity in the years to come."

A very pleasing feature was the presentation to Miss Ingram of a very handsome cut glass bottle filled with perfume, accompanied by a beautiful souvenir tablet containing the names of all the 27 members of the society.
