"Tell Him I Loathe Him."

CHAPTER XX.
A LOVE TRAGEDY.

"WHAT is the use of all that?" inquired Loyd-Mostyn easily. "If you wanted so much to do that, why did not you do it on the day that you married my cousin, Miss Virginia Beaufort?"

A quiver passed over Bebe like that which marks the reins of a terrified horse. She almost sprang from Chapman's arms, her face turned in the direction of his accuser. Her blind eyes seemed struggling violently beneath their veil.

"The day he married Miss Virginia Beaufort!" she repeated, like a faint echo that some intervening hill has given a tone like sobbing. "Is it impossible that he has not told you that?" questioned Loyd-Mostyn. "I fancied that would be the subject nearest his heart for future boasting. It was romantic enough to have formed the basis for any novel. I suppose you can laugh now with the rest of us at the violence and insanity of your infatuation, eh, Childes?"

But something, he knew not what, in Bebe's manner seemed to have attracted Chapman even from the old enemy. He was silent, watching the girl with peculiar unrest.

"Oh, I see!" continued Loyd-Mostyn, breaking the intense silence that followed his speech. "You have not overcome it. Then why in the name of all that is wonderful have you ruined this young girl's life as you have? You claimed that I wronged you before. You claimed that I tempted you to deceive Virginia Beaufort into the marriage that spoiled her life. May I ask you tempted you to deceive this young girl into believing herself your wife, when you know that you have one already?"

"You—lie!" exclaimed Chapman, so hoarsely that one would have found it difficult to recognize his voice. "And for that lie—"

"Oh, come!" interrupted Loyd-Mostyn carelessly. "Do you mean to assert there never was a marriage? I can assure you, madam, upon the word of an eye-witness that he did marry Miss Virginia Beaufort, and that to-day she is his wife."

Because of the insinuation against Bebe, Chapman sprang by her and clasped his fingers about the throat of the man.

The girl rushed frantically forward, but before she could reach them Loyd-Mostyn was forced to his knees.

A scream so shrill that it seemed to echo and re-echo through every portion of the aged forest fell from the girl's lips.

It was quickly, almost instantaneously, answered by Charlie Quintard, accompanied by his fiancée.

With a smothered exclamation, Quintard threw himself between the two men.

It is impossible to say what might not have been the result of the encounter but for his timely interference.

SELF CURE NO FICTION! MARVEL UPON MARVEL! NO SUFFERER NEED NOW DESPAIR. Without running a doctor's bill or falling into the deep ditch of quackery, may safely, speedily and economically cure himself without the knowledge of a second party. By the introduction of THE NEW FRIEND'S REMEDY

THERAPION complete revolution has been wrought in the department of medical science, while thousands have been restored to health and happiness, who for years periodically had been merely dragging out a miserable existence.

THERAPION No. 1—A Sovereign Remedy for diseases depending upon blood, the use of which does irreparable harm by being the foundation of all structure and other chronic diseases.

THERAPION No. 2—A Sovereign Remedy for primary and secondary skin eruptions, skin diseases, rashes and swellings of the joints, and all those complaints which mercury and arsenicals are popularly but erroneously supposed to cure. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood and thoroughly eliminates all toxic matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3—A Sovereign Remedy for diseases of the respiratory system, influenza, pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, and all disorders resulting from disintegration, early recovery, which the faculty to perspire strongly ignore, because so important to cure or even relieve.

THERAPION is sold by all Chemists and Druggists. In order to state which of the three is required, observe that the word "THERAPION" appears on British Government Stamp in white letters on a red ground affixed to every package by order of His Majesty's Hon. Commissioners, and without which it is a forgery.

THERAPION may now also be obtained in Druggists' (Tasteless) form.

With whitened cheeks Miss Beaufort watched until he had succeeded in throwing Loyd-Mostyn backward; then with an exclamation of horror recognized Chapman.

"You!" she cried, her voice quivering with irrefragable excitement. "What does it all mean? My God!"

The ejaculation was called for by recognizing Chapman's assailant. She staggered and caught herself by the trunk of a tree.

Loyd-Mostyn had already recovered his perfect self-possession. A smile of bitterest scorn played about his mouth.

"This is a pleasure that I did not anticipate," he said slyly. "I was not aware that you were in the same country with this gentleman, Miss Virginia, but I suppose your infatuation still exists. Perhaps you may be willing to do that young lady a service by admitting that the gentleman from whose murderous assault your friend has delivered me is your husband."

The look upon the lovely face was frightful.

Chapman stood as a man does who is condemned to death, knowing that release is impossible. In that hour he would have sacrificed his life for the foolish privilege of concealing his identity from her.

A gasping sigh escaped him, heard and understood to a very limited extent by Loyd-Mostyn.

"What is it you mean?" demanded Miss Beaufort, some horrible fear seeming to be tugging at her heart.

"Is it possible that even as I did, you have failed to recognize in Edwin Chapman the man whom you married—Erle Devereux Childes?"

Bebe was listening with an intent that was painful, but she seemed to have been forgotten. No one noticed the curious stare in the blind eyes, no one saw the tightly clenched fingers that were making great gushes in the tender flesh of the other hand, no one observed the short, gasping breath that she seemed trying to suppress in order to hear all the more distinctly.

It was Virginia whom they were watching, Virginia whom they saw spring forward and lay her hand upon Chapman's arm.

"Tell me that it is not true!" she cried hoarsely. "Tell me that you are not Erle Devereux! I cannot, will not believe it! Speak to me! Is it true?"

"God help me, it is!" he answered bitterly, turning aside as though that could deafen her to his groan.

A silence fell upon them, broken by a voice that contained the note of death.

It was Bebe! Slowly she had groped her way to the side of Miss Beaufort, the small hand placed upon her arm, the white, set face was lifted, and in a voice that no words could describe she whispered:

"Tell me, is what that man said the truth?"

And Miss Beaufort, without looking at the face that might have told it so much of its wearer's mental struggle, without intending to do the hideous thing that she did, answered: "Yes! Heaven help us all, it is true!"

With a laugh that told them all the truth, Bebe threw up her arms and flung herself face downward among the heather.

CHAPTER XXI.
The Flight of Bebe.

With a smothered sob, Chapman knelt reverently beside the form of his prostrate wife. His whole being was quivering with conflicting emotions, but, as he lifted that ghastly, strangely changed face to his own, he forgot all but pity for the blind girl whose sweet, pure life had been so suddenly broken.

The hatred in his heart against Loyd-Mostyn was even forgotten in his hideous fear for her. She shivered as if under the influence of intense cold, while the terrible laugh was frozen to silence upon her lips.

"Bebe," he whispered, "speak to me, little one. Tell me that you know all this wretched story before from your father!"

A Practical Outfit for the Busy Woman.

The busy-housewife will not fail to recognize in the accompanying illustration, a most attractive and practical outfit, consisting of apron, cap and sleeves. It will afford protection to the daintiest gown, and will leave the hair neat and tidy even after a busy morning's work. The front is cut in Princess style, and fits close to the figure, and a prettily shaped bib extends out over the shoulders in a manner very becoming. Figured percale was used for the making, but gingham, linen and Holland are suggested. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes. Small, Medium and Large. The medium size will require 4 1/2 yds. of 36 inch material for the apron with 1 1/2 yd. extra for the cap and sleeves. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

8713. A New and Attractive Mode for the Little Girl.

The pretty little over dress here illustrated can be most attractively reproduced in white or colored pique, which is as suitable for wear in winter as well as summer. The surplice front and short sleeves finished in buttonholed scallops, render the mode very dressy, but any other mode of decoration may be adopted, such as insertion or edging. The blouse waist is in kimono style the front and back being cut in one piece. A belt of the material encircles the waist, or of leather may be used. For a girl of 8 years 2 1/2 yds. of 36 inch material will be required for the making. Sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 years. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in stamps or silver.

For the first time the blindness of the sweet eyes became apparent to all. It seemed to strike Chapman with a peculiar force that was uncanny. He shrank away from her with a low, quickly suppressed exclamation. "My father—my father!" she moaned, closing her eyes wearily. "Poor Edwin! poor Bebe!"

Badly Hurt In Thresher

Blood poison set in—Great suffering—Cure effected by DR. A. W. CHASE'S OINTMENT. Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont. writes:—"I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain, my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the prongs of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal one place and break out at another and kept on this way for three months. "Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since." "Wherever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Ed. Mansson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy Dr. Chase's Recipes.

Helplessly Chapman gazed upward, his eyes meeting the sympathetic ones of Charlie Quintard, who stepped forward and placed his hand upon the shoulder of his old friend.

"You'd better take her home and send for a doctor, Chapman!" he exclaimed huskily. "Don't be frightened, old fellow. She is suffering only from the effects of the shock. Let me help you to get her home."

Mechanically Chapman acceded to the proposition, his own face scarcely less lined and ghastly than the intense one that rested upon his bosom.

Virginia Beaufort, meanwhile, was forgotten, save by Quintard.

Very silently, with fixed, glassy eyes, she was watching Chapman, watching him with parted lips and bated breath, forgetful of Quintard, Loyd-Mostyn, and even Bebe, remembering only what she had lost by her own mad folly, her stubborn pride.

It would have been difficult to understand her emotions from the expression of her set, cold face, but her hands were clasped above her wild beating heart, as if to force it into subjection!

She became conscious only when she felt the touch of Quintard's hand upon her arm, and glanced up at him with a shuddering start.

"We are going to get her home, Chapman and I," he said gently. "Will you come?"

Tim Shannahan on the Industrial Exhibition. He Suggests a Holiday.

I see we're going to have an Industrial Exhibition on the last of October, said Mrs. Tucker, as she laid down the Telegram, and also an Agricultural Show. We must be on hand, Tim, and take these in.

"Do you know," says she, "I was thinking what a strange people we are. We find it no trouble to close for a sham battle, but we're too busy to shut up shop to see these Exhibitions. They tell me all the factory hands are going to get a half holiday, and they tell me, mind you, they are going to be paid for it."

"That's wonderful," said Delaney, as he gave one of his haw-haws. "They're breaking their hearts, sure enough, and the workmen out to put a 'notch in the beam' for 'tis the only holiday ever they got paid for in their lives."

"Don't be 'cross-aeing," said Mrs. Tucker. "Take all the good things that are coming your way and don't be throwing obstacles in the road. We should have a close up day all round for this Exhibition, and the clerks and the lady assistants should get a chance to see the show. What humour is a man in to go to an exhibition after working till half-past nine? Why I was over to Harbor Grace this summer when their Exhibition was on, and every shop in the town was closed up black. Harbor Graceans are a long way ahead of us in this respect. They can close up over there at a moment's notice, and the people of that town are no small potatoes in the way of business, and don't you forget it. If we are going to boom our industries we must get people interested, and the only way we can do that is to get all the people to visit the Exhibition and give them a chance of seeing what is made in the country. It's no use having the employees of the factories looking at their own work, what we want is to interest those on the outside. Get all the outport people to come to the show. Shut down business on the wharves and in the stores for one half day at least. It will give the out-harbor man and the city man a chance to meet and talk the matter over, and I'm sure 'twill be the means of boosting trade. Get all the school children to visit the Exhibition and give them an early impression of what can be done in their own country. We are only waking up to the fact that we have valuable industries in the country, and 'tis only now we are learning to have a good word for ourselves. If, then, we allow the Exhibition to go off without giving the shop-hands a chance to see it, it will have a bad effect on the success of the enterprise. The enthusiasm of the clerks should be aroused for it lies in their hands to push the sales of the home-made articles."

"We should have plenty music," said Mrs. Tucker, "for those Exhibitions are inclined to become monotonous. Looking at boots and twine, soap and cans of paint, is tiresome work if not enlivened with the strains of the 'Banks of Newfoundland' now and again. Not all 'Banks of Newfoundland,' you know, an odd dab at it, just to show we're getting fond of our country. One band is not enough, they take too long a spell between the tunes. Give us two bands, so as one can begin when the other knocks off, and have them play good old-fashioned airs like we used to hear from Johnny Bennett."

And that's true, What's wrong with getting Bennett's Band, the people love the strains from Bennett's cornet.

A few good talkers telling us about the different industries would enliven things up a bit also, providing, of course, he would know when to knock off and not give us any big long figures to wrestle with.

For don't you for goodness sake, don't trot out a politician who will cry over the industries, they have been warty over for many years; now let us enliven them a bit and bring them into real life.

TIM SHANNAHAN.

The Evening Chit-Chat
 BY MOTH CALVERT

"What! dull, when you do not know what gives its loveliness of form to the lily, depth of color to the violet, its fragrance to the rose, when you do not know in what consists the venom of the adder any more than you can imitate the glad movements of the dove."
 "What! dull, when earth, air and water are all alike mysteries to you, and when as you stretch out your hand you do not touch anything the properties of which you have mastered, while all the time nature is inviting you to talk earnestly with her, to understand her, to subdue her and to be blessed by her! Go away, man; learn something, understand something, and let her hear no more of your dullness!"
 —Sir Arthur Helps.

I was reminded of that quotation the other day when, while waiting in an intelligence office to interview a prospective maid, I drifted into conversation with the woman beside me. She was a fine looking woman, evidently about sixty if you judged from her casual mention of married children, and numerous grandchildren, but not a day over fifty if you judged from her fresh, cheerful appearance and her alert manner.

The thing that impressed me about her and reminded me of the quotation was what she said when I asked her if she had been waiting long. She consulted her watch, and appeared surprised. "Why, it's about an hour," she said, "but it doesn't seem half so long. Most of my friends think that hunting up a maid is the worst bore in the world, but do you know, if I'm not too busy, I actually enjoy sitting in an intelligence office. It's so interesting to study the people who come in. Why, it's really as good as a matinee to me."

At ninety, if she lives—and I hope she does, for the world needs more like her—that woman will be happy, and still a good companion, both for herself and other people.

Sir Arthur says there are so many tantalizing, "defeat" mysteries, so many invitations to thought and speculation in nature; that no one has a right to be dull.

Seems to me there are even more delightful mysteries, even more alluring invitations to thought and speculation in the world of men and women about one.

The reason that woman looked fifty instead of sixty was undoubtedly because she had accepted those invitations and had been too busy and too interested to grow old.

An intelligence office, a trolley car, a shop, a hotel lobby, a business office—all these can be as absorbing as a drama or as tedious as a dictionary. It just depends on you.

Which will you have them?

Household Notes.

Satin-faced fabrics are used for dressy lines and poplins promise to be very popular not only for handsome tailored suits, but for long coats and rich costumes.

Some of the new bows for wear with Dutch and other collars are of red, green, black or blue surah, edged with Persian flowered material or tipped with it.

Porcelain and china beads of all kinds are used, and white is preferred. Cut steel ones are in higher favor; so are small pearls and rhinestones. The latter are called crystals.

The new fashion of fastening coat sleeves is by link buttons such as are used in a man's shirt. They are not of gold or silver, but made to match the buttons used in front.

The daintily-dotted veil, even the veil with good-sized chevron dots, is a tasteful and becoming accessory, and one may expect it in pretty designs during the coming season.

Velvet evening gowns are strong favorites and show rich incrustations of the popular trimmings and laces; those for street wear are garnished with fur or handsome braids.

Regarding material for hats, velvet has first call; then follow moire, satin, corded silk, hat plush, beaver; Persian effects in silk, satin and cloth-of-gold; various furs and plushes.

Several varieties in square mesh veillings are shown. Some of them are strong in effect, others are of the flit style, with the designs in orthodox figures, such as one seen in flit laces.

While the present moment shows much Persian lace, silk, satin, etc., in some lines of neckwear, the strong feature of many of the winter styles will be black-and-white combination effects.

Whether alone or in combination with other furs or dressy fabrics, seal, sable, ermine, moleskin, fox, skunk, opussum and good grades of pony and caracul are first favorites in the fur trade.

Shadow effects are seen in some of the new veillings, and these, as well as the simple mesh-ones, are to be had in extra widths, so that one may surely have a veil wide enough for the broad-brimmed hat.

The fashion for cut steel in every form is remarkable, and it vies with the use of porcelain, which is saying much. Some houses use the latter on almost every afternoon and evening gown they make.

One of the latest auto scarfs is of bordered and striped gauze in all colors. It is absolutely impervious to moisture. Pour a glass of water on it, and, though held horizontally, not a drop will pass through.

There is a wide return of the old-fashioned sailor collar with its long, square back and narrow fronts. It is put on coats and gowns, on wraps of every variety, and used separately in sheer fabrics on blouses.

Long pelerines and coats and cloaks and wraps of various furs will be in use for evening wear more than for street; for the latter it is expected that the short coat or jacket from 22 to 36 inches long will have a vogue.

Plain and embroidered collars are still holding their own in regular and low-neck shapes, and it is expected that they will be largely worn throughout the winter with both plain tailored tub and silk and wool waists, and with some of the fancier high-neck styles.

If the face and head can endure a perfect or modified Greek style of coiffure, this is the one to select, with soft bands of ribbon, metal, a drapery of satin, ribbon, etc., knotted on the side, held by flowers, a simple knot, etc. A black velvet ribbon is the simplest bandeau worn.

The latest jabots are more or less lat in effect, ending in sharp points or square or rounded ends, according to the length. The serrated or saw-tooth outline is attractive in jabots of all lengths, as it assists in carrying out the long line now necessary to the fashionable figure.

Discovery of Germ Of Deadly Disease.

Cause of Infantile Paralysis Found by Dean of Medical School of Pennsylvania University.
 PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—The discovery of a germ which probably causes infantile paralysis was announced to-night at a special meeting of the College of Physicians held here to discuss that disease.
 Dr. Allan J. Smith, dean of the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, and director of the school of Tropical Diseases, recently named in that institution, declared that in the blood of sufferers from the disease had been found a protozoa, or low form of animal life, which he thinks may prove to be the germ which causes the disease.
 It resembled the germ which causes sleeping sickness, and in his opinion is carried from one victim to another by insects.
 Dr. Chas. K. Mills and other well-known physicians corroborated Dr. Smith in his opinion.

Northern Notes.

It is not true that the N. & N. C. Col. mine at Sleepy Cove, Twillingate, is closed, but on the contrary we learn from some of our northern friends that fifty or more men are still working on the property, developing a fairly good seam of copper ore. We are told also that another mining property on North Island, Twillingate, where copper has been found, will be opened in the near future. Mr. Hodder, the manager, is, we understand, away to Pittsburgh, Pa., U.S.A., at present on business, but will shortly return to Newfoundland for the winter.
 It is rumored that a weekly newspaper will be started in one of the northern districts before long.

Public Sympathy.

The sympathy of the whole community will go out to the widows, orphans, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters left desolate in mourning the loss of those brave sailors who met a watery grave when the ill-fated Regulus met her last and worst misadventure. Words fail to convey the heart-pangs and sorrows which afflict the bereaved ones to-day. Nineteen souls all told have found a watery grave, twelve of whom belong to Newfoundland. Among them Capt. Taylor has spent a life-time in the service of Harveys and Rolds. The last time we saw his genial and kind face was in the harbor at Botwood, when he was piloting Lord Northcliffe's yacht with Earl Grey and party on board. Then again there was Capt. McNeil, the chief mate, and engineers Peniston and Knight, and the others. To the bereaved ones the hearts of all must go out in this sad hour of trial.

Penalty of Death.

The fact that the jury were out only thirty minutes makes it clear that they had no difficulty in coming to a unanimous verdict of guilty against Crispin. Few if any will dispute the opinion of the Lord Chief Justice of England as to the brutality of the murder, and the callous conduct of the murderer in the disposal of the remains. The advice of the Chief Justice to the convicted Crispin not to entertain any hope to escape the consequence of his crime, was an intimation to Crispin that he should not advise the Home Secretary to remit the death penalty. There is then little or no hope of a reprieve. The circumstances of the crime were so ghastly cruel and inhuman that there is no room for any mitigation of the sentence, when once the certainty of guilt is established. If the judge is satisfied as were the jury that no mistake has been made, and apparently he is, there could be no justification whatever for a reprieve. The death penalty for such a horrible crime is the only fit punishment.

A MARINE HORROR.

The Regulus is Swept on the Rocks at Shoal Bay, Near Petty Harbor, and Her Crew of 19 Lost.

At 2 p.m. yesterday, when A. J. Harvey, Esq., was at luncheon at his residence, King's Bridge Road, he received through the Anglo-American Telegraph Office, whose officials for the sake of expedition phoned it, the following telegram from Capt. J. D. Taylor of the s.s. Regulus:

"We are lying off Bay Bulls with tail shaft broken. Send assistance. Ship 3 1/2 miles N.W. by W. of Bay Bulls North Head."

On getting the wire Mr. Harvey was surprised that such an accident should have occurred to the ship, as while at New York she was thoroughly surveyed by Lloyd's and was given a new tail shaft and stern bush. How the shaft could have broken mystified the owner, and the only theory that could hold with him was that there must have been some flaw in the forging which was undiscovered and gave out in the heavy sea which ran yesterday as a result of the S. E. storm which raged. Immediately Mr. Harvey got the message he got Mr. R. G. Rendell on the telephone, communicated briefly the report he had received, and asked him to send forward the tugs John Greene and Ingraham as quickly as possible. Mr. Harvey telegraphed him of the Adventure, which was at Bell Island, having left here Saturday forenoon to load ore, but he realized that it would take her four hours to be on the scene and knew that the tugs could reach there long before her, and therefore requisitioned by the report he had received, the position of the ship the John Greene left here in about 15 minutes after the requisition orders, quickly followed by the D. P. Ingraham. Mr. Rendell went in the John Greene to personally, if necessary, supervise the work of rescuing the ship. When the tugs left here the weather was very thick with a S. E. wind blowing and rapidly increasing in force. The John Greene came up with the Regulus at 8:30 p.m. and found her anchored off the Head. Mr. Harvey thinks she had both her anchors out as when it was determined to hoist, then and take a tow from the tug it took an hour and a half to catch them. While the anchor was being raised and after intervals and for a while heard the answering blasts from the Regulus, but suddenly these ceased and the tug's crew feared that the worst had occurred. The John Greene continued cruising up and down the coast all night in the hope either of discovering the ship or picking up the crew. The tugs taken to the boats, but no tidings of ship or men were had. In the meantime the Ingraham, which saw no sign of the ship, arrived back here at midnight. She left again at midnight, went out and returned at 3 a.m., having seen nothing of the Regulus or the other tug. The men on the John Greene after daylight were started to see the Regulus ashore at Shoal Bay, near Petty Harbor, where a mountainous sea was running over the hull, which was being demolished quickly. There were no traces of boats or men to be seen. It is believed that the ship went ashore suddenly that the men had not time to launch a boat and all were swept overboard. The Regulus was which pounded on board and were quickly drowned. At daylight Mr. Harvey communicated with Capt. Taylor, believing that the ship might have been well off to sea if the tugs had her and would enter port during the morning. He also believed that the wind was off shore during the night and that the vessel would make port under her own sail. They evidently must have referred to the wind which blew from the S.W. this morning, as last night the wind blew from the S.E. right on the shore. A schooner which was passing the Regulus at 2 p.m. yesterday, bound to St. John's, received Capt. Taylor's message and the ship's company ran into Bay Bulls and delivering it at the office resumed her run to port. When the accident occurred to the Regulus the John Greene was in a perilous position and if a mishap had occurred to her machinery she also would have gone ashore and not being a profitable boat to be saved. The action of the Anglo-American Telegraph Office in telephoning the contents of the message received from Capt. Taylor and Harvey is to be commended, for valuable time would have been lost had it been transmitted in the ordinary way. The Regulus passed this port at 8:30 a.m. yesterday bound to Sydney in ballast for a cargo of coal. She was to have taken a cargo of ore from Bell Island to Sydney, but the N. S. S. Co. telegraphed Mr. Harvey Saturday asking him to send the Adventure with the ore to Sydney. The Regulus has been a number of years in the possession of Messrs. Harvey & Co. and was for a number of years the property of the company. About three years ago, however, her luck changed, as she has had in that time several serious accidents. She was struck by a iceberg off the Southern Shore and narrowly escaped foundering, and also when she collided with the Karema off New York during the past summer. The loss of 19 men, the crew of the ship, is an appalling calamity and the crew members of the vessel, A. J. Harvey & Co. are deeply affected by it. The material loss to the company is a large one, as the ship on her last voyage carried several children residing on Cabot Island Friday to see them, and rejoined his ship Saturday. He was commander of the ship for some time several years ago and was again appointed her master after she was repaired in New York, from which port he brought her down to Bell Island. Capt. Taylor, who also commanded the Virginia Lake, formerly the Conscript, on the northern coast, was on board the Regulus at the time of the accident by the R. N. Co. engineer. The mate of the ship was Malcolm McNeil, son of a widowed mother, and leaves two brothers to mourn him. He was quite a young man and a local vessel since the Greenlands came in here 13 years ago, reporting the loss of 48 men, or since the disappearance some years later of the s.s. Lancer with 22 souls on board.

The Regulus Disaster.

The Stories of Capt. Roberts, Capt. Rose, and Mr. R. G. Rendell. The tug John Greene, Capt. Roberts, went out shortly after 2 p.m. yesterday. Mr. R. G. Rendell went in her to do whatever he could in the way of helping. Mr. Rendell had an experience that he will never forget. He did not interfere with Capt. Roberts in any way in regard to what he should do, but left everything to his discretion. The tug got up off Bay Bulls at night and then the weather set in thick and heavy with rain and fog, a gale of wind and heavy sea. It was impossible to see any distance ahead so thick was the weather. The tug kept on cruising around up and down the shore, and Capt. Roberts was about giving up the idea of ever getting a sight of the Regulus. He consulted Mr. Rendell who suggested that they keep on the search for her. Finally at about 8:30 they saw the lights of the Regulus. She was at anchor off the North Head of Bay Bulls. The John Green worked up close to the Regulus at great risk and gave her a sight of the Regulus. She was slowly ahead in the teeth of the gale and kept dodging to windward till such time as the Regulus would have her anchors up. Whatever was wrong on board the latter steamer caused a delay of an hour and a half. They were either trying to get up the anchor or to unshackle it. In any case the delay was most disastrous. The storm was increasing all the time and the sea was running mountains high, and it is likely that by the time the tug started to tow the Regulus ahead they had drifted within a short distance of the shore. Certainly they were not three miles or even two miles off when the tug started to go ahead. Progress was very slow and the sea swept the deck of the John Green. After towing for an hour and a half the big line burst. They were then near the Southern Head of Petty Harbor, and if the line had held on for ten minutes longer the tug would have brought the Regulus into Petty Harbor Bay and there would probably be no such disaster to chronicle to-day. Capt. Roberts says he observed the lights of the Regulus for five minutes and then they all suddenly disappeared. They were towing on a E. by E. course and just south of Petty Harbor Motion when the line parted. The John Green was then put about head to wind in order to have the line hauler with a view to making another attempt as quickly as possible to get out of the Regulus. Capt. Roberts says that the Regulus was in the land and that no time was to be lost. It took a quarter of an hour to get in the line. A blow from the Regulus to the John Green a few minutes before this was the signal that they were in sight of land which proved to be the Southern Head of Petty Harbor. The crew of the tug also heard the Regulus's crew about out that the end was close by. Their ship being higher out of the water, enabled them to see it first. Before the line had been half hauled in the lights of the Regulus had disappeared. Not a sound was heard after that. Asked whether they may not have taken to the boats, Capt. Roberts said that there was very little chance of that, for she must have struck on the shoals and the bottom went out of her. The cliff here is steep and thought there would be no possibility of landing. It is likely that when she filled the decks were swept by the heavy seas and none of the crew would have a chance to save their lives. The John Green was herself in danger of being swamped. The sea swept her decks again and again and for twenty minutes when steaming out to the eastward she was under water. After getting a safe distance from the shore and consulting with Mr. R. G. Rendell, Capt. Roberts decided to stay out till daylight to cruise around and endeavour to find out what had become of the Regulus. They then ran south towards Bay Bulls and then turned north and came towards Petty Harbor again. When daylight broke they saw pieces of wreckage, viz. a derrick, an ice box, a hatch, the bottom of a white painted boat and a lot of small wreckage.

Collided With Schooner

We learn by the Fogota that the Prospero while going north on last Thursday collided with one of Blackwood's schooners off Wesleyville. There was a stiff breeze blowing and the schooner slightly lead, when she suddenly "stuffed" and fell right across the ship's bows. Before the ship's speed could be checked she collided with the schooner, carrying away her bowsprit and doing fully $200 worth of damage. The craft, which was bound north for lumber, was towed back for repairs.

It is pleasant to use, also, and does away with the necessity of sniffing liquids up the nose. On the whole, it is one of the most successful remedies for catarrh. Price 50c. ### Collided With Schooner

We learn by the Fogota that the Prospero while going north on last Thursday collided with one of Blackwood's schooners off Wesleyville. There was a stiff breeze blowing and the schooner slightly lead, when she suddenly "stuffed" and fell right across the ship's bows. Before the ship's speed could be checked she collided with the schooner, carrying away her bowsprit and doing fully $200 worth of damage. The craft, which was bound north for lumber, was towed back for repairs.

MONDAY, Oct. 24, 1910. Dr. Mazzer's English Cure has given remarkable results in many cases of cold in the head, catarrh, sore nose, etc., and is of special value in damp weather; for it keeps the membranes of the nasal passages in a healthy state, and prevents irritation. It is pleasant to use, also, and does away with the necessity of sniffing liquids up the nose. On the whole, it is one of the most successful remedies for catarrh. Price 50c. ## AN APPEAL.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The most serious question which can occupy the minds of the citizens of any town is that of the death rate; it is precisely this question which seems never to give the least concern to the people of St. John's. Year in and year out scores—perhaps hundreds—of the inhabitants of this town meet untimely deaths from diseases which are readily preventable, and this lamentable circumstance troubles the minds and the consciences of no one. I say preventable disease! Of all the towns I know this town of St. John's should be the freest from putrid and dirt-borne disease; of all the towns I know it is the most plague-stricken. Our death-rate would not greatly discredit a settlement on the pestiferous coast of Guinea. And it all comes from the one cause, DIRT. Nature has done her best for us; air, ocean and land have entered into a conspiracy to afford us a situation unequalled in the New World for the wholesome so many of our people. Let us, therefore, abandon all fear of the bugbear which alarmists have conjured from out the waters of Twenty Mile Pond, and reserve our just fear for the accumulations of dirt.

Which Breed Pestilence
at every corner and spread it in every street of the town. If the lives of our fellow citizens are to be saved from wanton destruction, let us take the only reasonable step which is before us, and CLEAN THE TOWN. No other remedy but this is open to us; if we refuse to adopt this remedy we sin against light and against knowledge. And that is the deadly sin. I said just now that Nature had done its best for us by offering to us a home on a site which made health the inherited right of all its inhabitants. Nature has done even more than this for us, for She has time and again come to our rescue and preserved us from the condemnation which our wanton neglect of Her laws provoked. When the accumulations of our filth have corrupted and bred the seeds of pestilence amongst us the beneficent rain-storms have come and swept them away. And we have taken the likeliest advantage always of this kindness and long-suffering of Providence, and impudently trusted that the Divine mercy which spared us once and again

Uprising of a Hardy Race.
And yet we have seen times when our children died like sheep with the scythe, and we never see the season when many, many lives are not lost through diseases which are solely born of the insanitary conditions under which we live. And hitherto we have done nothing to avert the wrath we have provoked; while even now when public spirit has at length been roused to awaken from its apathy, we content ourselves by contemplating in the future a course of action which must in its very nature be futile. I do not time for us to recognise an avow the truth which has been pressing itself upon our attention during a long course of years past, that all our evils arise from the

The Punishment of Our Sins
would continue for ever to spare us and save us while we remained unrepentant and unformed. So long as we remained in ignorance of the deadly sin we were committing against our neighbours and ourselves in allowing filth to accumulate and breed corruption in our midst we might plead ignorance in mitigation and blamelessly trust that the deliverance which had come to ourselves and our fathers in times past might be relied in for times to come. But we are more enlightened now, we know the natural consequences of our acts, and Providence has never offered the promise of continued protection and favour to those who sin against the light of reason and knowledge. We know our duty now, and if we neglect it at our peril. We have for years been breeding our own corruption, and if worse things have not befallen us that we deserved, let us be humbly grateful. And let us offer the first fruits of repentance by making instant amendment. Gentlemen of the Municipal Council, will you make an effort to CLEAN THE TOWN?

Prevalence of Dirt
everywhere in the town. That all sorts of infectious diseases are continually arising amongst us and continually leaving their toll of death from our fellow citizens, is denied by nobody. The diseases which so cruelly afflict us produce these diseases appeal to our senses of sight and smell wherever we walk, and nevertheless in our pride and obstinacy we refuse to admit the undeniable truth and profess to see the source of our danger in the very place whence we derive what immunity from pestilence we possess. Disease, I say, is life amongst us, some of it we may trace to the tanks whose demerits I have recently celebrated, none of it has ever been traced to the waters of Windsor Lake, and none of it is ever likely to be traced there if we adopt the most simple precautions against waste and pollution from the accumulation of sediment in the Pond. Where then must we seek the sources of the disease which we know to exist? Nowhere else than in the drains, sewers, puddles, cesspools, gullies, garbage heaps.

Sentenced to Death.

Special to Evening Telegram.

DOSEON, Oct. 22. Dr. Hawley H. Crippen was today found guilty of having murdered his wife, known on the stage as Belle Elmore. The case was given to the jury at 2:07 o'clock this afternoon and the deliberations were brief. The jury was out just 30 minutes. When the Court resumed this morning Richard Muir made the closing speech for the prosecution. He declared that the Crown had proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the body found in the cellar of the Crippen home was that of the doctor's wife. No one else, he said, had a chance to murder the woman and bury the body as it was found to have been buried. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone immediately began his summing up of the case. The Justice described Crippen as an extraordinary man, whether guilty or innocent. If guilty he had covered up a ghastly crime in a ghastly way and it was carried out in a most brutal and callous manner. If he was innocent it was impossible to fathom his mind, as he was "absolutely indifferent to the charge of murder. He had taken no steps whatever to prove his innocence." Crippen, the Chief Justice declared, undoubtedly was a "bad" and lived an immoral life. He added that the jury could not convict the defendant on that score. It must be quite convinced that the human parts found were from the body of Belle Elmore, and that he death was caused by a willful act of the prisoner. The trial moved quickly. It opened at 10:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning and before lunch hour the indictment was read, the prisoner's plea taken, the jury drawn, the opening address of the prosecution made and two witnesses examined. The case was considered of so much importance that Lord Chief Justice Alverstone presided. Crippen's chief counsel was Alfred Tobin, a distinguished barrister of London. Richard Muir led the prosecution. The Crown based its case on the identification of the body found in the Crippen home as that of the physician's wife, the fact that hyocisin was found in the kidney, and it had been proved that Crippen had purchased such a poison shortly before his wife disappeared. A motive was found in the unhappy life of the Crippens, and the doctor's infatuation for Ethel Clara Le Neve. As Crippen has been convicted, Miss Le Neve will now be placed on trial as an accessory after the fact in the murder of Belle Elmore. The defence rested its hopes on the belief that the prosecution could not identify the body as that of Crippen's wife. The Lord Chief Justice charged the jury that they must be convinced of the identification beyond a reasonable doubt. As he concluded the jury retired. The jurors were out only 30 minutes. When they returned and reported that they had found Dr. Crippen guilty of the murder of his wife, Crippen thereupon was sentenced to death.

JACKMAN'S MILLINERY.

Have You Seen Our Millinery?

On all sides they have excited the most favorable comment. Women who know are attracted by their style character. Six years ago we opened our Millinery Rooms. Our patrons then said it was "a good move," and we were grateful for their appreciation, and determined to hold that appreciation throughout each recurring season. So far we think we can say, without vain boasting, that we have done this. At least, we have spared no effort to win the approval of our customers.

We have just stepped beyond the threshold of our TWELFTH opening, and the result is eminently gratifying.

Still Fishing Though 90.

The many in the city who know old Mr. Griffin, of Hamilton Street, are often heard to exclaim that "he is a wonderful man." Well they might. Mr. Griffin will be 90 years of age on the last day of the present month and yet seems to be possessed of the vigor of men not half his age. Each winter, for over 60 years, Mr. Griffin has gone away in the interior spending the months alone at his avocation of trapping and furring, and many a thrilling story of adventure he can relate while in the wilds. The past summer he fished at Brigus South, going alone each day to the ground in his little boat which he propelled cross-handed. He has done well, and during the summer of 1909, in the same place, he caught fish enough to yield him over $200. Mr. Griffin is a man of much energy, good constitution and iron nerve, and old as he is his faculties are in no way impaired. A few years ago when the big railway ### bridge over the Terra Nova River was swept away by ice, Mr. Griffin who was coming from the country after a winter's furring crossed the tottering structure which went with a crash a few moments after he had reached the firm firma.

Might Have Choked.

Just before 11 o'clock Saturday night a man told Constables Churchill and Flaherty that a drunk was lying in the drain on George's Street near Mr. S. Peet's forge. The men on going to the place indicated found an unfortunate who if left there might have smothered. He was in a stupor from liquor, and from the manner in which he lay his collar had him almost choked. The officers, relieved the pressure of this, and he was taken to the police station and looked after.

The Argyle arrived at Placentia at 5 p.m. yesterday and sailed to-day for the west.

C. M. B. C. Meeting.

ADDRESS BY DR. GRENFELL.

There was a very large gathering at the C. M. Bible Class yesterday, extra seats had to be provided, in the Synod Hall. The hymns were sung and prayers said with great fervor. The chairman referred to the sudden death of Mr. R. Marshall, a staunch member of the C. M. B. C., whose funeral took place yesterday, whereas last Sunday he was in good health and active amongst the members. Dr. Grenfell also delivered a short address and said that it afforded him great pleasure to be once more amongst them. He exhorted each man to be a worker and to help to put down the drink traffic which is doing so much evil amongst the community. He made an allusion to the hospital at St. Anthony, and the number of patients that are there. The number to be fed on one occasion was 90. Dr. Grenfell promised to deliver a prepared lecture in the city very soon. Rev. Mr. Bell tendered a vote of thanks to Dr. Grenfell.

A prompt cure awaits every man or woman who takes Pape's Diuretic for a lame back or kidney or bladder trouble.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or feel a dull, constant back ache or the urine is thick, cloudy, offensive or full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin taking Pape's Diuretic as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy at any price made anywhere else, in the world which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure.

Pape's Diuretic acts directly upon the kidneys, bladder and entire urinary system; cleanses, vitalizes and regulates these organs, ducts and glands and completes the cure within a few days.

St. Michael's Enlarged.

The new church to St. Michael's Anglican Church was opened for Divine Service for the first time yesterday forenoon, when a large congregation was present. Rev. J. Brinton conducted the services, and the people who attended were delighted with this addition to the edifice. It will seat fully 200 persons. Mr. Jacob Bishop was the contractor, and Mr. T. J. Pope supervised the work for the church authorities. The interior will not be finished for at least three weeks, and when painted and decorated it will present a very handsome and artistic appearance. The furniture for the church choir and stalls will be of oak, after the Roman style, and is being turned out at Pope's Furniture Factory. Altogether the good people of St. Michael's deserve congratulation on the possession of such a handsome church.

Caused A Sensation.

When the Ocean Ranger arrived here yesterday from Scotland she had all her flags flying as she entered the Narrows, and in passing H.M.S. Brilliant observed the usual marine courtesy of dipping the Union Jack, which flew at her mizzen top. Later it was seen that this flag was at half mast, and those who witnessed the occurrence thought that some accident had occurred on board, such as a sudden death. Mr. N. Ready of the day boat went out and found that the flag was left at half mast through the forgetfulness of the man who dipped it to the cruiser.

He had an excellent memory, could detail many stirring events of past years, and had all his faculties unimpaired up to a few weeks before his demise.

Shipwrecked Men Arrive.

Capt. Ermundsen and Mate R. Carlsson, of the ill-fated Danish schooner Kronen, which was lost a couple of weeks ago at Bonavista harbor, arrived here by the Fogota yesterday and will leave for home by the first steamer sailing for Europe. Both men pay a meed of praise to the brave men of Bonavista who, regardless of the danger to themselves, braved the storm and rescued the crew of the Kronen, who could not have escaped with their lives had not these hardy fishermen extended them succor.

For The Exhibition.

The Fogota yesterday brought up from Change Islands a large number of samples of potatoes, turnips, cabbages, beets and poultry of different kinds for the Agricultural Exhibition. Six large pine logs cut at Gander Bay by the Horwood Lumber Co. were also brought along. They were cut in the interior on the company's property and are from 17 to 24 inches in diameter. Some of them are dressed and others were brought along just as they were cut down. They will serve to show the capabilities of Newfoundland as a lumbering country. All this material will make an interesting and creditable exhibition.

The Fogota Here.

The s.s. Fogota, Capt. Baxter Barbour, arrived here at 2 p.m. yesterday from Fogota District. The ship left here on Tuesday last and had fine weather until Thursday, when she encountered a hurricane of wind from the northward with a heavy fog. Sprays were running in over the ship constantly and it took her four hours to get from Fogota to Change Islands, which under ordinary circumstances would be done in an hour. She arrived at Change Islands at 6 a.m. Friday and left coming south at 10 a.m. and had fine weather up to yesterday morning, when she encountered fog and rain. She brought along 300 packages of fish, oil, etc., made all ports of call and had 100 passengers for the round trip. Her passengers for this port were: Thos. Wellon, Miss M. Wellon, Rev. G. French, Mrs. French and family, Miss M. I. Hicks, J. R. Whiteway, Mrs. Edgar Hann, Miss C. White, Mrs. N. Vivian, Capt. Jacob Winsor, Capt. Edwin Kean, Mrs. Edwin Kean, Miss M. I. He was brought on here to-day by Sergt. Noseworthy and arrived on the Bruce express. Capt. Butt, the skipper of the schooner, also came along here to give evidence in the case against Buckle and Owens. Buckle was admitted to bail on Saturday afternoon giving his own sureties in the sum of $1,000 and the bonds of two others for $500 each. Further proceedings will be taken in the matter Wednesday.

For The Tinsmiths.

Saturday night a large number of the Longshoremen's Union engaged in a card tourney for the benefit of the striking tinsmiths and a goodly sum was realized for the men as a result. One of the proprietors of a store who recently employed two of the men at the rate asked for by them has so much work to do that he will shortly employ two others. Another has gone to work pipe fitting with a plumber, and one of the men left for Grand Falls by Thursday's express, so that there will be left only ten still on strike. The members of the other city Unions intending standing by them till the strike is ended.

Potato Culture

Valuable Hints from Dr. McPhail

LETTER FROM EXPERT TO THE PREMIER

The following letter from Dr. Andrew MacPhail to Sir Edward Morris will be read with general interest, whilst the directions appended cannot fail to prove of lasting benefit to farmers and fishermen-farmers right through the Island:—
DR. MCPHAIL TO PREMIER MORRIS
Dear Sir Edward Morris:

I think it proper to reduce to writing the impression which was made upon my mind during my recent visit to Newfoundland, by the conditions which exist there for the successful growing of potatoes.

In a word I should say that, in my opinion, the conditions are not essentially dissimilar from those in Prince Edward Island, except that the area available in Newfoundland is proportionately smaller.

In many respects Newfoundland has superior advantages. The pest of potato bug is unknown. There is a remarkable absence of early and late blight. There is such an abundance of fertilizer ready at hand as I have never seen in any country. Potatoes are really a product of the garden, rather than of the farm. All gardens must be prepared by labour, whilst farms may be used in their more natural conditions.

To grow potatoes, a garden must be prepared, and it may be used year after year for that purpose. The essential for a garden is fertilizer and humus, and Newfoundland possesses that in abundance. There is fish refuse and sea grass; and peat bog for composting them together. I venture to offer the opinion that if these three elements were brought into service diligently and intelligently for five years, Newfoundland would be exporting potatoes and other vegetables instead of importing them.

I send with this, two detailed statements of a method for growing potatoes. The first is marked No. I, and is intended for growers on a small scale. The second, No. II, is more elaborate, and may be followed by persons whose business is farming rather than fishing. Bulletin No. 49, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will be found most useful to both classes. This method will, I think, suit the local conditions, and if followed for a few years will, I believe, enable your fellow countrymen to supply at least all the potatoes required for home consumption.

In farming, more than in any other occupation, experience is necessary. I would suggest that you send a young man to my place at Orwell next summer, where we will offer him every facility for watching a careful and extensive experiment. He should remain from May 24th to September 10th. He could obtain board in the community for five dollars a week and there would be no other expense. In one season he could learn all that is to be known, if he were really interested. Upon his return he might visit every section of Newfoundland, and set out illustration patches with the assistance of local residents. I know of no way in which a man could serve his country better.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) ANDREW MCPHAIL.

NO. I. DIRECTIONS FOR GROWING POTATOES.

(For Gardens.)
1. This box contains seventy-five pounds of potatoes, enough to plant one sixteenth of an acre, or 12 rows, 25 yards long. The rows should be 30 inches apart, and the pieces should be set in the row 12 inches apart. Each potato should be cut for seed so that each piece shall have at least two eyes. The end containing the large number of eyes should be divided in the middle. Each piece should be as large as possible. Nothing is gained by planting whole potatoes unless they are very small.

2. Potatoes should be planted on the ground, not in the ground. They should then be covered with three inches of loose material. The following plan is recommended: Make a compost of three parts of fine bog peat, one part of fish refuse, and one part of sea grass well rotted together. Of this, 25 cart loads may be used for one sixteenth of an acre. Earth may then be heaped up from between the rows as the plants grow, to form a drill and keep the new potatoes from being exposed to the sun or washed out by the rain. Persons who are unable to obtain peat bog may use fine earth for the compost.

3. The work in preparing the soil for the first year will be considerable, but the same land can be used for many years if a little compost is added each year. Two loads of well rotted stable manure may be used after the first year, instead of the compost.

4. The soil should be a light sandy loam and on a slope, to ensure drainage. If the water lies on the ground, potatoes will not grow. If the soil is naturally hard, the compost will greatly improve it. If the soil is light the compost will improve it still more.

5. The ground should be kept loose all summer. This will require at least six cultivations.

6. When the stalks begin to grow dark, the potatoes should be dug. If left in the ground they will rot. They should be allowed to dry on the ground for a day, and then stored in a cool, dry, dark cellar.

7. Success in growing potatoes depends upon keeping the soil loose. They will not grow in hard earth. If properly managed, the seed in this box should yield 24 bushels.

8. To obtain seed for the following year, the strongest and greenest tops should be selected and the potatoes they will yield should be set aside.

Kidney Suffering

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated form of this disease. There is a reason for this. Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and there by effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system. Mr. S. J. Argue, Kara, Carleton, Co. Ont., writes:—“I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit. I wish to state, however, that I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a splendid medicine as they have proven of very great value to me.” Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. ## SUNLIGHT SOAP should be selected, and the potatoes they yield should not be set aside.

Make your House-cleaning easy by using Sunlight Soap. Pots, pans and milk-cans, brass and tiles, doors and floors, all things that Soap can be used upon, Sunlight Soap will clean and brighten. There is no Soap like Sunlight.

If artificial manure is used, the yield will be still greater. For one sixteenth of an acre,— 24 lbs. of basic slag or superphosphate, at 1 cent a pound.

12 lbs. sulphate of potash, at 3 cents a pound.

12 lbs. nitrate of soda, at 3 cents a pound.

Sow in drills at the time of planting. Scab.—To prevent scab, dissolve ¼ oz. corrosive sublimate in one gallon of hot water. Dilute to 4 or 5 gallons with cold water, soak potatoes in the solution for two hours. Then spread out in the sun to dry. When dry, cut and plant.

Bugs.—Destroy bugs, if any, by the use of Paris Green, applied dry from the can. About ¼ lb. should be sufficient for one sixteenth of an acre in the worst seasons. Watch carefully for the first young bugs. To delay for one or two days may mean the destruction of the crop.

Blight.—To prevent the late blight or rot, spray the vines with Bordeaux mixture, four times, beginning late in July and continuing till the potatoes are ripe. For small quantities, the mixture may be applied with a watering-can. This treatment will double the crop.

Bordeau Mixture:
3 lbs. bluestone, at 6 cents a pound
2 lbs. unslaked lime.

Dissolve bluestone in 20 gallons water in a barrel. Dissolve lime in 20 gallons water in a separate barrel. Keep these barrels covered. When wanted, mix equal parts of these solutions just before applying. This quantity is enough for four applications to one sixteenth of an acre.

Most useful information is contained in Bulletin No. 49, "The potato and its Culture," by W. T. Macoun, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Get Competent Judges

In connection with the exhibition of draft horses and rigs at the coming exhibition, the truckmen of the city are anxious that good competent judges be appointed to decide the winners for the best display in their line. They think, with all due respect to the opinions of those in charge of the exhibition, that judges should be selected from amongst those who own teams in the city, and who fully understand the requirements.

Live Wire Down.

At 8.45 last night, as two young men were passing down McBride's Hill, they saw light sparkling on the top stones of the wall on the south side of the thoroughfare, facing the Bank of Montreal. Carefully investigating, they found that a live wire had fallen. Running to Water Street they reported the matter to Const. Fagan, and he going to the place looked after it while the men went to the lockup and told the Guard, who telephoned the sub-station. The current was turned off and the wire was later coiled up.

Police Use Auto.

Saturday afternoon for the first time in the history of the force, the police used an automobile to take a prisoner to the station. Constable Frampton arrested a drunk on King's Road and was viciously attacked by the man who butted and kicked him. While the officer with the aid of a citizen was handcuffing the man Mr. Parsons drove by in his auto it was impressed into the service, and before the prisoner could realize it he was at the door of the lock up and soon behind the bars. What's the matter with getting an auto to be used as a patrol wagon; such a conveyance is very necessary.

Died at Toronto.

A cablegram was received last evening from Toronto by the relatives of Mr. Thomas Green informing them of his death, which occurred at 8.15 yesterday morning. Deceased had been suffering from spinal trouble for some time and about a year ago entered one of the hospitals for treatment. He gradually grew worse, and although his death was expected, still it came as a shock to his relatives. Mr. Green was a stonecutter by trade and while in this city worked with the firms of J. McIntyre and C. F. Muir. He also occupied a responsible position in the erection of the new Court House. Later he went to Boston, where he was employed erecting soda fountains and was transferred by the firm to Toronto, where he died. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn their sad loss; also three brothers—William, of St. John's; John and Arch, of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. William Austin of this city, to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

Sailors Cause Trouble.

Saturday night two sailors came down Water Street and tried to take charge of that thoroughfare, but Officers Lee and Power interposed their authority. Each arrested a man, and Power's prisoner gave much trouble. He was handcuffed with the aid of a blue jacket of the Brilliant and a citizen, and was then driven in a cab to the station. The other man ambled along quietly with Lee until he came to the foot of Market House Hill when he kicked like a steer. He was soon overpowered and placed in the cells.

Caribou Hunters Back.

Mr. W. D. Reid, J. A. Paddon, Sir Thomas Esmonde, Hon. W. C. Job and G. Williams returned from a deer stalking trip by a special train yesterday. They report that caribou are scarce and few have gone south yet. They secured three fine heads, and all enjoyed the trip.

LIGHTS WENT OUT.—Owing to an accident between the Petty Harbor power house and the sub-station the lights went out Saturday night in several of the halls of the city about 8.30 and the current was not restored until about 9.30. The nickel theatres were as a result plunged in darkness, but lamps were quickly procured and used until the electric lights were again got going.

The local arrived at 10.15 Saturday night bringing Mr. Cramm, Jno. Kennedy and wife, Miss Macnamara, K. Dowe, Mr. Whiteway, Mr. Fitzgerald and 50 others.
