McLaren and Companions to Abandon World Flight.

THE BANQUET TO ITALIAN SOVEREIGNS.
LONDON, May 27. The George and Queen Mary gave a banquet at Buckingham palace tonight in honor of the King and Queen of Italy and two children, who are making a State visit to London. There were 150 guests in addition to the two Royal Families, Crown Prince, Prince of Wales, Duke of York, Viscount Haldane, Premier MacDonald and Miss Isobel, the Cabinet Ministers and their wives, Lloyd George, Stanley Baldwin, and other important personages. King George visited the monarchs' bonds of friendship between Italy and Great Britain which has become a tradition and inspiration.

CLAREN MAY PERFORCE ABANDON FLIGHT.
LONDON, May 27. Herbert McLaren and his companions may be forced to abandon their flight in consequence of the accident to their plane at Akya, notwithstanding the presence of a spare engine at Tokyo and the American assistance. It is believed they will be unable to start before twelve o'clock or a fortnight by which time the season would probably make it impossible for several weeks each day's delay adds to the danger of crossing the Northern Pacific, and the likelihood of fogs and storms.

HERBERTS CHANCELLOR HUNT.
BERLIN, May 27. President Ebert in pursuance of his constitutional task of finding a Chancellor capable of forming a cabinet, respecting the respect of the Reichstag in succession to the Marxmann cabinet which resigned tonight, today received Dr. Herst, Nationalist leader, and after him, the order of party strength in the Reichstag, with the exception of the Nationalists and the extreme Nationalists. The government's resignation followed from a breakdown of the long attempt to construct a bourgeois coalition which worked with the Reichstag as a basis of the recent cabinet.

DEATHS IN NEWARK FIRE.
NEWARK, N.J., May 27. Five men were known to have been killed in a fire which broke out this morning in Windsor Men's Club here, the fire spread quickly, burning the building, and attacking other buildings nearby. Several were injured and the death list was probably greater.

DEATH OF MUSICIAN.
NEW YORK, May 27. Victor Herbert, composer and orchestra leader, died suddenly yesterday while entering the presence of his physician to consult him regarding a respiratory ailment.

STORMS IN MISSISSIPPI REGION.
ATLANTA, Georgia, May 27. A series of storms sweeping across Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi took a known toll of 25 and injured seventy, with great property damage, according to advices received here today.

Economy and Retrenchment

(From Monroe's Manifesto.)
The condition of public finances is very bad. I fear that it is worse than is generally known. Public expenditure must be drastically reduced. The Customs Tariff requires rearrangement, with a view especially to encourage the production of the fisheries. The cost of the public service must be reduced, and efficiently increased. It would be worse than useless—it would be deceptive—for me to enter into details in this connection; for only a Government in office, filled with a reforming zeal and energy, could wisely deal with the directions in which reform should be undertaken. I promise that, if given power, I shall cause a careful investigation to be made into the means in which improvement can best be attained in the financial methods of the country, and I shall enforce a policy of wise economy and retrenchment.
The trappings of Government are too costly. There are too many unearned salaries. Sessions of the Legislature are held too late in the year, and are unnecessarily long, while the pay of the members is greater than their work deserves, or the Colony can afford. In all these matters a great reduction in cost, and an increase in the quality and quantity of the work done, should be made.
"Rigid retrenchment and the utmost economy" is promised for the Government by the Advocate on the authority of the great spendthrifts ever in office. The unbridled waste of public money since 1919 was chiefly due to Sir William Coaker and his satellites in power. The mere mention of road-building or bitprop cutting, of fish-buying and salt scalding, will serve to remind the public that the wicked waste of past years is not chiefly due to the men upon whom, by insinuation, the Government now seeks to cast the blame; but in the main upon the hypocrites now in office, who rifled the public treasury when in office, and seek a longer lease of power to complete the career of looting.

Other Industries

(From Coaker's Manifesto.)
The Pulp and Mining industries are capable of expansion. The former does not seem to need stimulation, only consideration and encouragement; but Mining is not giving the employment the mineral resources justify. Enquiry should be made by our officials persons how best to encourage the development of mineral resources, and I promise the appointment of a committee of qualified men to enquire and report upon this matter. In this connection I cannot but remark upon the disquieting reports that come from the Humber enterprise as to the non-employment of Newfoundlanders upon work which they can do as well as others, and to which they are entitled. If these reports be true, or if, in any sense of degree, injustice is being done to our people, a remedy should be at once applied. All labour necessary to the development of the resources of this Colony should be given to its people. They should be well-paid and well-housed. The profitable employment of our workmen shall be with me a prime object, and I will not tolerate anything less than a fair deal to all.

WELL DONE CONCEPTION BAY!

The Popular Desire for a Monroe Government is Felt just as strongly There as in St. John's.

From all parts of Conception Bay the welcome tidings are announced that the people are practically unanimous in favour of a Monroe Government.
In the more largely populated portions, as well as in the smaller ones, the popular desire is the same. The magic in the name Monroe, along with the knowledge that the new leader is worthy of the people's confidence, has developed a wonderful outburst of popular sentiment in favour of him, consequently the election of the name Monroe candidates, consisting of two in Bay de Verde, one in Cap Bonmar, three in Harbor Grace, one in Port de Grave and two in Harbor Main are conceded now as being beyond a doubt by supporters and opponents alike.
The inevitable landslide against Coakerism (and the most pronounced display of popular endorsement ever given to a political party as that now quite clear in evidence on behalf of the Monroe candidates. Harbor Grace district is gone clear away from Hickman, Cape will go under in Bay de Verde, Hawco in Harbor Main, whilst all of their underlings will meet the same fate, the tail end of the poll at the finish of the count.
They recognize, and Coaker has made it plain that a vote for Hickman is a vote for Coaker, consequently it is no use for any candidate opposed to Monroe to pretend Coaker has nothing to do with this election. No red herrings will distract them from

Prohibition Act

(From Monroe's Manifesto.)
Open, gross and continuous violation of the Prohibition Act have prevailed for years. As administered, the Act is profitable only to law-breakers of various kinds and degrees; it is the cause of smuggling, boot-legging and other forms of law-breaking. Considered all in all, the conditions it has created are worse than those it was intended to suppress. Speaking about this matter for the Government, the "Advocate" says:—"As the law is, so must it be enforced. The only alternative is the alteration of an unpopular law, when the people demand it. That is the position of the Coaker-Hickman party." But the men on whose authority this thing is said have had power for many years, during all of which time they have conspired at the violation of the Act, and the evil results which are mourned to-day are chiefly due to their misconduct or neglect. Now, declaring that the Act is unpopular, they would throw upon the people at large the burden of demanding its repeal; at a referendum of course. But why should the great expense of such a vote be incurred for a mandate to repeal a law admittedly unpopular and ineffective, the enforcement of which has long been openly abandoned? How could the people intelligently and prudently vote to repeal a measure in ignorance of the alternative measure which might replace it? No such cowardly and expensive expedient shall be resorted to by any Government I may lead. If empowered by your votes at this election to act in this matter, a measure embodying the repeal of the Prohibition Act, and the principles of an alternative measure, shall be introduced into the

"Name of a Name!"
The "rum hound" of the Advocate has become quite incoherent over the mysterious person who sold the rum at overproof prices to the Liquor Controller.
Because we have asserted that the seller is a Hickman man, the Advocate says: "that shows the Telegram knows the contents of the auditors' report."
We do know the contents sufficiently to say with certainty that the person alluded to is a Hickman supporter. But we shall not name him, as the Advocate suggests, because we did not commence the unseemly publication of half facts which has marked this matter. The subject is too serious for the actors concerned for any newspaper to name names, before evidence has been given on oath. The Advocate has been guilty of that impropriety, and is now in the quandary that it neither dares to name the chief actor nor continue this discussion without doing so. Again we say, the demon rum-seller is a Hickman supporter, and the Advocate dare not publish his name.

Open Letter to Jos. Fitzgibbon, The Coaker-Collishaw Candidate for St. John's West.

Why Did You Advertise "Tenders for Plumbing" and Award the Contracts to Halfyard and Clouter's Relative, the Highest Bidders?

Sir—You have again appeared before the people of St. John's West as a candidate on behalf of Coakerism notwithstanding you came in at the foot of the poll a year ago. Since then you became a member of the Board of Works and assisted in depriving the taxpayers of nearly $3,000 of their money in order to hand it over to the present nominal leader of Coakerism, A. E. Hickman. That money was partly contributed to the Treasury by the people of St. John's West, and you wrongfully voted to give this money to A. E. Hickman whilst many families in St. John's West the past winter had to do without food and fuel to keep themselves alive.

Now you want these same families to give you the power to prolong such wrongdoings, for if upon an order for 6,000 tons of coal you voted away nearly $3,000 of the people's taxes over and above what should have been voted, it stands to reason you will have no hesitation in taking from the working classes of St. John's West in a proportionate degree the surplus extortion that the supplying with coal to our railway and coastal service. It is estimated these requirements would amount to 100,000 tons per year, so that you now want to be firmly placed in a position where you could have the same power to give away nearly $50,000 more. Is that just to the men of St. John's West who have to pay a share of that money taken from them in the shape of taxes on everything they eat and wear? Is it just to the women of St. John's to be deprived by Hickman, Collishaw and others of money which their husbands earn and which these women could use in many ways to provide them with comforts they are now denied? Is it right that you should be given power to unjustly take in the form of taxes money that would help many a poor child to get boots for his feet, clothes to cover his body and nourishing food to eat? Do you think families in St. John's West are willing to live all their lives in a state of misery and suffering just for the sake of making you a member of the House to vote away their money in this way, and to scatter more of it into the laps of Collishaw and other tools of Coakerism. You know too that there are other Board of Works transactions that you were a party to which show you up as merely a pawn of Coakerism and merely a farce actor on Hickman's economy platform. Did you not turn down contractors for work in connection with the Lunatic Asylum that offered to perform same for $400 less than one Halfyard, a nephew of the Colonial Secretary received for it, with $1,000 dollars or thereabouts thrown in for so-called extras! What some men offered to do for $4,500 or less you were a party to paying $2,900 with $1,000 as extras! And what was your answer to this when confronted with it some time ago? Did you not say to your accuser go ahead and do what you like about it or words to that effect?

Am I right or am I wrong in making this assertion? In other words, did you offer to turn down one man's offer to do the Plumbing work on the Normal School for $42,000 and accept another which is costing $52,000? You have certainly great presumption in offering yourself as a pliable tool for Collishaw and Coaker in St. John's West; but the men, women and children of St. John's West will take mighty good care that no money of theirs will ever again be placed at your disposal for such purposes as you have been a party to, unless of course Coakerism will rule the roost again, which thank goodness will not be the case for the whole country is aroused against such rule and will elect a Monroe Government to power. Yours truly,
WEST END VOTER.

Race Track Superstitions

Those who follow the ponies are often quite superstitious and strange "hunches" have often cost bookmakers their boards. At the recent grand national in England a sheep escaped from an adjacent cattle truck and ran amongst the excursion specials. Thousands who saw the incident or heard of it backed a horse far from being a favorite, called The Lamb, which, strange to say, unexpectedly romped home an easy first. In 1897 a horse named Manifesto won. Although known to be a good horse, it was not greatly fancied at first, but when, a few days before the race, the Czar of Russia published his famous manifesto on a general peace, public imaginations saw an omen in the coincidence, and Manifesto sprang into popular favor. It proved a wise choice, and its victory emptied the pockets of the bookmakers.

W. M. S.

AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The ninth annual meeting of the Newfoundland Branch of the W. M. S. was opened yesterday at 8.15 at George St. Church, where, in the address of welcome by Mrs. Fairbairn, we were told the first Auxiliary was formed making George Street Auxiliary the mother of the W.M.S. in Newfoundland. Following the Devotional Exercises a touching reference was made by the President of the passing to-day of Miss Gertrude Parsons, so long identified with the young people's work of the W.M.S.

Reports of the Treasurer and Corresponding Secretary were then read, the latter being of exceptional interest. We regret not being able to give them in detail.

Mrs. Leonard Mews' recitation of James Russell Lowell's, "The Holy Grail," was particularly fine and very much enjoyed, as was also Miss Bradbury's paper on the three C's.

Miss Hart, a returned Missionary from Japan, on furlough, was then introduced by Mrs. Lindsay. Miss Hart is from a family having a strong Missionary record—her father being one of Newfoundland's pioneer missionaries, sixty years ago.

Out-coming Missionary, Miss Laura Darby, briefly and touchingly referred to the pleasures she felt as a Newfoundland, going out from this Branch to work on the foreign field. A solo by Miss Winnie Pike, and duet by Mrs. Leelle Curtis, and Miss Moore, were very much enjoyed. The delegates and those present were then entertained by the George St. Auxiliary, making a delightful social hour. The outstanding feature of the evening session were the addresses of Rev. Mr. Nichol of the Congregational Church, on "The Mission of the Church," and that of Miss Hart, "The Church carrying her Mission into practice." Both were inspiring and instructive. The musical items were solos by Mrs. Gordon Christian and Miss Glendinning beautifully rendered bringing the first day's session to a close.

"The Dangerous Paradise" at the Majestic

A new Selznick picture, "The Dangerous Paradise," with lovely Louise Huff in the starring role, is announced as the feature attraction at the Majestic Theatre.

In "The Dangerous Paradise," Miss Huff is given a splendid opportunity to interpret the role of a young society girl in a story that is interesting throughout.

Miss Huff, according to an announcement of the story, plays the role of Iris Vanoster, an eighteen year old society girl who believes that only married women have freedom. While Iris seeks freedom, she resents the imposition of a bald-headed old gentleman whom her aunt forces upon her. She wants Norman Kent, a society man, but the youth fights shy of her flirtation. In desperation, Iris, who at this time inherits a handsome Newport home, pretends to be married to Horatio Worthington, a fine old chap who agrees to be her husband in name only.

Of course, Norman, upon learning of her marriage, is rather hurt and finds that he really is very much in love with Iris. Now that Iris is married she attempts to flirt freely with the youth. But he, in order to protect her honor, refrains from giving vent to his heart's desire. As a consequence, Iris finds herself up against a tough predicament. Norman would not flirt with her when she was single, nor will he flirt with her while she is apparently married. About this time Norman discovers her deception, and what follows is said to reveal a delightfully pleasing comedy drama.

Misses McShane and Habel, the Keith stars, are giving a splendid violin and singing act of fine numbers. Last night they were enthusiastically encored. To-night this programme will be repeated, also at the matinee this afternoon.

Have you ever tasted fresh codfish fried in Crisco? It is a real treat.—adv.

Obituary

GERTRUDE ISABELLA PARSONS.

It is with feelings of sincere regret that the Telegram has to chronicle to-day the passing of an esteemed and well known lady in the person of Miss Gertrude Isabella Parsons, the only daughter of Alexander A. Parsons, Governor of His Majesty's Penitentiary, and Maria R. Parsons.

About a year ago the deceased lady was stricken with a severe illness, and acting on the advice of her physician underwent an operation at the Hospital, which was apparently quite successful. Shortly after her health gradually improved until six weeks ago, when she was again confined to her bed suffering from an internal trouble; but the malady had taken a great hold on her system, and despite the best attendance and several consultations held by the doctors a second operation was deemed inadvisable as the patient was beyond all human aid. During the remaining days of sickness she bore her sufferings well, and calmly awaited the end.

The late Miss Parsons received her early education with the Misses Barnes, and was one of their most brilliant pupils, while she also inherited a wide knowledge of literary talent from her father. Being possessed with a love for portrait painting and landscape work, she later proceeded to England and studied under Professor Lane of Liverpool, also Mrs. Hall Neve, of London. Miss Parsons by her training became a skilful artist, and upon returning to St. John's opened up a portrait studio and conducted a class of her own. Many of her paintings, portraits and other-wise are left behind, and they will be left standing as a fitting tribute to her memory.

The deceased, like her father, was also gifted with the pen. Many will remember her first book entitled "Broken Links," published by Messrs. Stookwell & Company, London, England. The book met with a ready sale and many were the comments of the beautiful reading matter therein. The most sorrowful part of her literary attainments is that a second book, a story of Newfoundland, was left unfinished. The book, which would have been about twice the size of "Broken Links," was completed with the exception of the two remaining chapters.

The deceased lady was well and favourably known. Her many associates and acquaintances grew to love her for her many deeds of kindness and cheerful disposition. Her sustained interest in all good work, particularly Missionary work amongst the various denominations, and her genius for friendship, will surround her memory for many years to come. Many of the scholars of the city Sunday schools will recall her efforts when she addressed them with messages of good cheer and for the betterment of God's Kingdom. Hers was a life full of usefulness and never relaxing interest in the affairs of the church, and in this connection alone her passing will be greatly regretted. To the sorrowing father, mother and brothers the sympathy of the entire community goes out in their time of affliction, and in this expression of condolence The Evening Telegram joins.

The funeral takes place from her father's residence, Forest Road, tomorrow, Thursday, at 2.30 p.m. to the General Protestant Cemetery.

Great Power of Water

Unstable fluid as it is, water yet displays remarkable power under pressure, either natural or mechanical. In fact, it would astonish almost any one not possessed of the facts what water can, under certain conditions, accomplish.

When a man goes in swimming and slips the water forcibly with his hand, he realizes that the unstable fluid offers very little resistance. Yet a stream from a fireman's hose will knock a man down, and the jet from a nozzle used in placer mining cuts away a great hill in a day, toys with great boulders as if they were pebbles, and could shoot a man over the country as if he were a projectile from a cannon.

There is a power plant near Durango, in Colorado. A cavalryman, who was visiting it one day though it would be an easy thing to pass his sabre through a two-inch stream of water. He made the attempt, but his sabre was shivered in two and his wrist broken. A thinner jet of water, descending one thousand feet to a factory in Grenoble, France, and travelling at the rate of one hundred yards a second, fractures the best blades of Toledo.

Some persons will, of course, not believe such stories without seeing the things themselves. Nevertheless, many travellers have seen a brakeman get a small hydraulic jack under one end of a car and lift twenty tons or so by means of a few leisurely strokes of the pump handle, and the experience of riding every day in a hydraulic elevator will remove any doubts concerning the magic power of water.

Pearl Fishing in Australia

The pearling industry of Australia is to be placed under Government control with a view to starting factories for the manufacture of articles made from valuable mother-of-pearl shell.

Most people associate pearl-fishing with the gathering of pearls. While it is true that pearls are sought and found, the efforts of the modern pearl-gatherer are rather directed to collecting a goodly quantity of pearl shell, which is used to-day for a variety of purposes—the making of combs, fans, buttons, cutlery handles, trays, and a host of other articles. The finest shells are obtained from the warm waters of Northern and Western Australia. Over 400 boats and 3,000 men are engaged in the industry, and from 2,500 to 3,000 tons of pearl shells, worth from $400 to $1,250 per ton, are obtained annually.

The scientific name of this shell is "Metastroma maritima." It is a species of sea oyster and weighs from five to seven pounds. Although it is sought because of its high yield of mother-of-pearl, the gatherer hopes that within its fleshy mantle will be found a prized pearl. A couple of hundred shells will be opened and nothing found in them, and then, perhaps a gem will be located worth thousands of pounds.

When an oyster opens its shell on the seabed, and takes into its system some seawater and other favorite forms of sustenance, it occasionally discovers that it has taken in a lodger unawares. A parasite looking for a home announces itself within the pearly walls of the oyster or perhaps a promising larva has floated in and found a dwelling-place.

Different Origin

The oyster resolves to do all its power to transform the ugly intruder into a thing of beauty. Layer after layer of nacre—mother-of-pearl—secreted by the oyster, is thrown around the parasite, or larva, which is presently encased in a beautiful pearly shell that gleams a wonderful greyish white or an exquisite iridescent pink. In reality the foreign substance has been embalmed and converted into a costly pearl.

The more valuable pearls, however, have a somewhat different origin. When the oyster spawns it, often happens that one of the ova is lifeless and not being thrown out with the rest gradually increases in size because, though infertile, it is still supplied with blood-vessels from the parent body. As it hardens it becomes a source of irritation to the dweller in the shell, which then proceeds to cover it with nacre, or, in other words to make a pearl of it. This kind of pearl is of the globular or pear-shaped type.

Diving in Australian waters is done on a more scientific scale. The luggers, as the ships are called, are all steam-driven craft. They possess the latest diving outfits, and from a single boat two or more divers can be secured at the same time. The depth of water in which they work varies from 60 ft. to 144 ft. As the diver is supplied with artificial air he can remain below a considerable time, though the average stay is just over an hour. When the bag is full he attaches it to a rope, gives the signal, and it is hauled to the surface, emptied, and sent down again.

The shells are opened in the presence of the skipper, who is often the only European aboard. The oyster is removed, and though edible is tossed overboard. The shell is examined for pearls, and if any are found the skipper takes charge of them.

In 1914 the amount of pearls recovered from Australian waters totalled $420,000, but in the following year the pearls found in them were valued at less than $60,000.

Garlic Injures Fox Hunting

Fox hunting in portions of the south of England is being made more difficult through the spread of wild garlic, which is trampled upon by the fox and results in destroying the scent. The plant is commonly known as "ramsons" in those countries, such as the Duke of Beaufort's, and Berkeley, where it most abounds. Its leaves and flowers are lily-like, not so its smell when bruised by the feet of hound or horse; and many a vixen owes her escape in the beginning of the summer season to this fact. Country folk often rub their salad-bowls with a leaf of the plant, so that the subtle flavor of garlic may "animate the whole."

Thrills and Excitement in "Remittance Woman"

WHICH CLOSERS RUN AT THE CRESCENT TO-NIGHT.

Lovers of healthy excitement—which description fits just about all movie fans—will have their last chance to-night to see Ethel Clayton in "The Remittance Woman" at the Crescent Theatre. This thrilling picture of Achmed Abdullah's absorbing "Everybody's Magazine" story is a striking example of just how entertaining good melodrama can be.

Clayton acted an colorfully produced, "The Remittance Woman" brings to the screen a swift-moving tale of adventure in society and in the Orient. Miss Clayton at home in a role just a bit different from anything she has done before, is seen as a headstrong society girl who is sent to China on a remittance by her father.

At a Music Hall in Burma

While travelling in Burma, Lesley Smith visited a music hall, and this is how he describes the performance: The performance has begun. A low throbb like the beat of a giant's pulse vibrates through the air, soft yet persistent, and all the world moves slowly in the direction of the sound—a Burmese world, fluttering lightly down the street in vivid colors.

There is no lit of music, no provocative invitation, but the appeal of the low-toned drums inevitably draws us into the laughing stream of theatres, and without a backward glance, we leave the shadowed stillness of a palm grove whose slopes lean to the far-widely for the hot glare of a lamp-lit shed.

On the stage a group of dancers pirouette slowly in harmony with the music and there is an exotic rhythm in their movements that makes a drum seem the only possible accompaniment.

Looking like mermaids, in their little wired-out jackets and the swathed skirts that swirl into a pool of silk at the ankle, they twist themselves into three right angles and turn and turn on one foot with an even swing. The same old story held the stage for immemorial years. A king and queen, a prince and princess, whose true loves take any time from twenty-four hours to a week to conquer all difficulties, a pair of comedians, and a group of dancers are the central figures in a drama that varies to suit the premiere danseuse or the well-paid comedians, whose jokes are always carefully localised.

And the audience? To European eyes, perhaps, the most interesting part of the performance. Squatting on the mud floor in groups, the shrouded figures have all the mystery and aloofness of monks. Black and white, orange and bronze, the sharp contrasts move and change like a kaleidoscopic view.

The women draw their scarfs about their heads, the men wrap themselves on cow-like hoods, and the children run from group to group, thread their way among the musicians, and stand in rows at the feet of the stage, their little black heads silhouetted against the footlights.

A friendly nonchalance characterises the arrangements; the audience lives in the theatre while the performance lasts, sleeping through the dull turns, eating, smoking and moving about.

The actors who are not performing walk backwards and forwards across the stage or sit in a corner and eat unconcernedly, and in front of the audience the musicians are scattered about, beating with individual zeal and persistence their muffled drums.

A Silken Fire-Escape

Silk is the material used in making the latest fire-escape, which is constructed in the shape of a tube. It is very light, and folds up into comparatively small compass.

In case of fire it is lowered from an upper window, those below take hold of the end and stretch it so that it slants out, and the people in the upper room slide down the tube one after another.

Silk is, of course, very strong, and so the tube can be made fairly thin, and, being elastic, it stretches as required to allow a person to pass, but does not open quickly enough to let him down with a great rush. The speed of the descent can also be regulated by pulling the tube taut or letting it become loose.

Household Notes.

Cold frankfurters are nice, split and grilled.
 Thinly sliced broiled steak is nice served on toast.
 A little elbow macaroni is nice in mushroom soup.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

U. S. IMMIGRATION BILL DRAWS PROTEST FROM JAPAN.
TOKIO, May 28.
The cabinet today approved the text of the protest against the provisions of the United States Immigration Bill excluding Japanese from that country, the protest will be sent immediately to Ambassador Hanthorn whose return to Japan when the protest has been dealt with also was approved by the cabinet. The protest is learned is based on an alleged violation of Japan's treaty rights under the first article of the treaty of Commerce and Navigation between the United States and Japan.
MANY OFFERS FOR "DEATH RATS."
LONDON, May 28.
Reports of American interest in British "Death Rats" are current here. The National Academy of Science in Washington is stated to have called over asking details, while another rumor is that the United States Navy Dept. has communicated with H. Geyndell Matthews the inventor of "Diabolical Ray" and a Paris despatch goes so far as to say that the Navy Department offered to purchase the secret but that Matthews has refused.
19 PERSONS KILLED IN TORNADO.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA., May 28.
Nineteen persons were killed and 23 injured by a tornado which struck Alabama at an early hour yesterday. All the victims were white persons. A number of homes were demolished near Empire, timber was laid to waste and much damage done to property. All those killed were buried to-day after joint funeral.

Useless Tactics

The lying tactics of the Advocate have only done it more harm than good, and instead of being a help to the Coaker party it is now a daily drag.
For a long time we have known that the reports and meetings as published in the Advocate were false, especially those of the St. John's East and West candidates. The residents of Bell Island, Portage Cove, Outer Cove, Logy Bay, Middle Cove, Flatrock, Pouch Cove and Baseline are highly indignant at the way in which the Advocate is publishing these false reports.
To put it plainly in the exact words used by a resident of Torbay: "Emerson, Ryan and Carl won't know what struck them on polling day they will be beaten so bad they won't know their way home."

Sparks From the Political Anvil

'Tis a Monroe Government, sure.
The Coaker-Hickman outfit is smashed to pieces.
You hear the welcome news from everywhere around the Island—a Monroe Government without a doubt.
It will be one of the greatest victories ever known in Newfoundland's political history.
Mondell will go down to political oblivion despised for ever by all broadminded Newfoundlanders.
Gibbs will never again try his hand at rigging up "Independent" tickets.
Hawco has had his last look in at the P.M.G.'s armchair.
Brown's $,000 dollar fancy job in a new Government bureau will never materialize.
Fitzgibbon will never again vote away the people's taxes wrongfully from the Board of Works office.
Dowden and Ryan will get such a trimming that never again will the taxpayers of the city place any confidence in them.
Dr. Barnes will never be permitted to squander public funds on costly white elephants.
Cave with despair will rave when he finds he is out of his job for ever.
Coakerism is in its last agony of defeat and will be powerless now to ruin the country's trade.
Hickman's vision of the Hundred Thousand Dollar West Indian Contract will vanish in another few days.
Monroe and his colleagues will win Bonavista by a splendid majority.
Trinity Bay is showing up splendidly also, and the Coaker-Hickman gang are despairing over their prospects there.
Even Twillingate has a doubtful aspect in their favor.
Will the Collishaw-Mondell-Coaker conglomeration get a man at all? It is doubtful, very doubtful indeed.
Not a "red" will they bet on the general result at this outlook, has withered up their hopes.
Conception Bay is a regular landslide all in favor of a Monroe Government.
Well done Monroe, the magic of your name and the record of your fame is rising with popular acclaim all over the island.
Bennett in Mr. Grace District will be the conquering hero this time and his two colleagues will have a rattling victory also.
On the 2nd June, the electors of Newfoundland will march at one man to vote for the Monroe candidates.
The news is surprisingly great from everywhere. No district in the doubtful column now.
The Monroe Trio in St. John's East will each poll over 3,000 votes.
The Monroe Trio in St. John's East will more than double the Collishaw-Coaker vote.
The Southwest Coast will all be a solid unit in favor of Monroe.
Ferryland will give another roaring majority for the Monroe candidates.
Magistrate's Court.
A resident of Water Street West arrested yesterday at the instance of his wife, was arraigned before court this morning charged with (1) drunk in his home; (2) attempting to set on fire his residence; (3) attempting to commit suicide in his cell. He pleaded not guilty to the first two charges, but admitted to the third. His wife who appeared against him stated that he was released from the Lunatic Asylum only on Sunday last, and yesterday came home under the influence of liquor and made things very unpleasant in the home, while he also threatened her life. Fearful bodily injury, she ran for the police and during her absence he attempted to set fire to the place. The police took the unfortunate man to the lockup and placed him in a cell. Later the guard heard a noise and on investigating found the man had suspended himself from an iron bar on the cell window, having torn up his shirt to make a rope. Had the guard not been vigilant, there is no doubt but that the prisoner would have carried out his design. Dr. Anderson, meanwhile, was called in and examined the man. In his evidence he stated the prisoner was very erratic in his conversation and very excitable in his movements. He lacked self control in all his actions, while at present it would not be certified as to whether he was insane. Over indulgence in alcohol had produced this effect. His flight through the best courses to take was to sentence him to six months imprisonment, so that he could get the alcohol out of his system.

The defendant in a assault case was fined $5.00.
Here and There.
S.S. Digby leaves Liverpool on May 29th for this port.
PRONOUNCED INSANE.—A man named Ash, belonging to Mr. Grace, but until recently employed at Harbor Deep, was examined by Dr. Anderson at the Police Station this morning and pronounced insane. He was removed to the Lunatic Asylum.

DIED.
Yesterday forenoon, Gertrude Isabella, only daughter of Alex. A. and Maria R. Parsons, funeral to-morrow (Thursday) at 2:30 p.m. from her late residence, Forest Road. Friends will please accept this as the only intimation.
This morning, after long and painful illness, Patience, aged 63 years, beloved wife of Wm. French, leaving a husband, 4 sons, 4 daughters and 2 brothers to mourn their loss, funeral on Friday at 2:30 p.m. from her late residence, 37 Mermymont Road. Boston papers please copy.
IN LOVING MEMORY
of my dear husband, James Boone, who died from an accident which happened at Flatrock May 28th, 1923.
R.I.P.
Days of sadness will come over us... Tears in silence often flow... For memory keeps you ever near us... Though you died one year ago... Time will pass and years roll on... Whatever be our lot... As long as life and memory last... You will never be forgotten... Inserted by his wife and children.
NOTE OF THANKS.—Capt. and Mrs. John Goobie wish to thank the kind friends for flowers and notes of sympathy in their sad bereavement. For Flowers: Mr. and Mrs. A. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. For Notes of Sympathy: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bartlett, Mrs. Wm. Horwood, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gooby, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ed. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ellis, Miss Gertrude Winsor, Wesley, Ladies' Aid; also Rev. J. G. Joyce and Dr. T. Anderson for their kind attention during their daughter's illness.

YOUR GIRL
Will take a real interest and make a success of the fine art of cooking if you provide her with the necessary equipment at home. Just because her grandmother used an old-fashioned coal stove is no reason why the young generation should be burdened down with it. If your kitchen is equipped with a "SMOOTHTOP" VULCAN GAS RANGE, fitted with a Modern Heat Regulator, perfect results are certain.
Try this recipe for NUT BREAD: 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon-salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup English walnuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add the chopped nuts. Put in two buttered pans and let stand 20 minutes. Set your oven heat regulator at 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes.

THE NEED.
It were a happy fate, I think
To have enough of meat and drink
And never a dreary task to do,
Long life to live, and that with you.
You and I and the children small,
A sheltering roof when the rain should fall,
With enough to eat and enough to wear
And never a day with a touch of care.
"Suppose it were so," said she to me,
"With never a post where you had to be,
And never a task for your hands to do,
But only to idle long days through."
"Suppose we had just enough to live,
With never an ounce of bread to give
To the hungry stranger who finds our door,
Would you be contented or want for more?"
"Could you sit at your ease and hear me say,
Turning a hungry man away,
"I'm sorry I haven't a bite to give,
We have just enough for ourselves to live?"
"No," said I, "as you uttered that,
I should rise and go for my coat and hat
And give myself to the task of day,
And work for something to give away."

Last Chance to See "Stormswept" at the Nickel

The big double feature bill which has been running at the Nickel Theatre since Monday has been attracting large houses. The musical film entitled "Close Harmony" is the first of its kind to be shown in St. John's, and last night all seemed to have fallen in with the idea, and we have no hesitation in saying that it is going to be a popular feature with local movie fans.

Towering dramatic situations abound in this thrilling tale of the sea now on view at the Nickel Theatre. It is aptly called "Stormswept," a title of itself pregnant with big drama and big adventure.

Among those in the cast are such noted players as Wallace and Noah Beery, Arline Prety and Virginia Brown Faire, not to mention a number of other prominent figures of the stage and screen.

Mr. Linsgar's speech ended amidst hearty cheering. Mr. Brown, like Mr. Linsgar, recalled a splendid reception. He dwelt on the menace of Coakerism, and showed up the many scandals in which Coaker had been connected. He showed up the bribery and corruption for which Mr. Hilgeman had been unseated and this gentleman's coal contracts, which the Advocate said nothing about. The mysterious Mr. Collier, the Humber, the Gander, the Agricultural Department and other matters were also discussed by the speaker, who was heartily applauded at the close of his address.

Sir John Crosbie was the last speaker, and in a very forceful speech he first explained the formation of the Opposition under the leadership of Mr. Monroe, after the present administration had taken office. He referred to the objections of opponents to C.L.B., the initial letters of the three candidates and saw no reason for any such objection as the letters stand for Capital, Labor and Bread.

Mr. Brown, like Mr. Linsgar, recalled a splendid reception. He dwelt on the menace of Coakerism, and showed up the many scandals in which Coaker had been connected.

Meeting at the Goulds

WEST END CANDIDATES GET SPLENDID RECEPTION.

The Monroe Candidates, Crosbie, Linsgar and Brown, held a most enthusiastic meeting last night at the Goulds. The meeting hall was crowded to the doors and when the candidates entered they were given a great ovation.

Mr. Linsgar was the first speaker. He dealt with the misdoings of the Government and showed their inability to properly manage the affairs of the country. Coakerism has been a menace to the country he said. Sir Richard Squires could not control Coaker, and Mr. Hickman would not.

Mr. Linsgar's speech ended amidst hearty cheering. Mr. Brown, like Mr. Linsgar, recalled a splendid reception. He dwelt on the menace of Coakerism, and showed up the many scandals in which Coaker had been connected.

Britain's Great Temple of Art

One hundred years ago Great Britain's National Gallery was created, when the Government was persuaded to purchase, for $285,000, thirty-eight pictures from the collection of Dr. John Julius Angerstein, a wealthy London merchant.

To-day its canvases number nearly four thousand, and probably a cheque for $15,000,000 would not represent their value. Once the collection was started, valuable pictures began to pour in. Sir George Beaumont contributed fifteen Old Masters; the Rev. William Holwell Carr added thirty; Lord Pembroke, fifteen; and so on, through successive gifts and bequests, crowned by Turner's great legacy of a hundred of his magnificent oil paintings and 19,000 sketches and water-colors for which he had refused offers amounting to $750,000.

For a few of its early years the Gallery had no better home than a small, dingy, ill-lighted house on the south side of Pall Mall, until in 1823 the walls of its present home began to rise on a site which had previously been occupied by the King's horses. Five years later the collection, now assuming large proportions, was installed in a wing of the new Temple of Art in Trafalgar Square, irreverently dubbed "The National Crystal Palace," from the "pepper-box" cupolas which crown it.

Such in outline is the early story of one of the finest collections of pictures the world can show, and which costs the country no more than $25,000 a year. There are pictures in the National Gallery of which you might cover every inch with $5 gold pieces, a dozen or more deep without reaching their value. There is one canvas, "The Peace of Munster," for which Sir Richard Wallace actually paid at the rate of $120 a square inch some fifty years ago. There is not a third of a square yard of it but it changed hands for $48,000 and to-day its value is probably twice as great.

Raphael's masterpiece, "Raphael's exquisite Ansidei Madonna" was purchased from the Duke of Marlborough for $350,000—at the rate of over $10,000 a square foot. And yet this enormous sum was $235,000 less than its estimated value at the time, and probably not half what it is worth to-day.

For three more of the national pictures Lord Radnor received the enormous sum of $276,000. They are a "Lady," Lord de Saurmarez's, and an impressive enough in subject. One represents two solid ambassadors standing in awkward attitudes but its painter was Holbein; another is the presentation of an Italian nobleman by Moroni; and the third is Velazquez's splendid portrait of Admiral Fullido Parets.

For Titian's portrait of Ariosto $150,000 was paid; Van Dyck's magnificent portrait of Charles I. which was sold in the seventeenth century for a few pounds, cost the nation $87,500 forty years ago. For two canvases by Rembrandt, vaguely labelled, "Portrait of a Man" and "Portrait of a Lady," Lord de Saurmarez paid $52,500—a small portion of which sum would have saved the artist from the bankruptcy, which was his fate.

For five of the pictures in the Gallery the price paid was $710,000, a sum which represents more than a ton of gold and a perpetual annual income, at five per cent. of more than $35,000.

Wedding Bells

RANDELL-WILLS.

April 28th, Old St. George's Church, Halifax, was the scene of the prettiest wedding of the long time it has been the bride being Hattie Bridgman, of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bridgman, of St. John's, Newfoundland, and the Canadian Importer, James I. Wills, of Vancouver, and the water trip all the way from the Columbia to Halifax, by the Panama Canal, in his ship, "The John." For the wedding, assisted by the church, Miss G. Manning, in attendance, giving the ceremony in a very satisfactory manner. The speeches were excellent in their forcefulness of argument and convincing declarations, and well merited the frequent applause. On conclusion, the candidates, the Monroe policy, and the new Government, were cheered loud and long.

Following the meeting at Quidi Vidi the candidates visited Major's Path, where a meeting was held in the school house. During the meeting, two well known gentlemen from Bell Island dropped in on their way to town and at the request of the chairman made short speeches. They were Mr. James Flynn of the Front, and Mr. John Hussey of Lance Cove, who, in happy confident words, told the gathering of the strengthened position of the Fighting Trio on Iron Isle, and that they would get fully an eighty-five per cent. vote this year. After a hearty vote of thanks had been moved and accorded the evening's chairman, Mr. Michael Butler, the National Anthem concluded the eleventh meeting held by the Liberal Conservative candidates in seven days' campaigning, every one of which were highly successful.

Inter-Club Billiard Tourney

B.L.S. PLAYERS TAKE BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLE HEADER.

The Inter-Club Billiard Tourney, between the B.L.S. and Masonic players, was continued last night after many postponements, and the result of the night's play ended in a victory for the Irishmen. The first game, Moakler vs. Angel, was too one-sided to be of interest. Moakler played to form and easily outdistanced his opponent, winning by a margin of 130 points. The breaks were: Moakler (B.L.S.)—50—14, 33, 13, 22, 20, 19, 17, 23, 14, 17, 17—213. Angel (Masonic)—230—10, 10, 13, 11, 25, 21—209.

The second game, Pearce vs. French, was keenly contested from beginning to end. At no time throughout play did either gain any material advantage. Both players were in excellent form, and many were the spectacular shots and breaks witnessed. French won out with 25 points to spare. The breaks were: French (B.L.S.)—350—39, 13, 17, 12, 35, 22, 11, 21, 19, 13, 32—353. Pearce (Masonic)—285—23, 17, 11, 33, 10, 25, 25, 24, 11, 10, 13—321.

The final game of the tournament takes place to-night. The players are: Freeman (Masonic) vs. Skinner (B.L.S.).

Royal History of Ancient Days

While excavating among the ruins of the ancient tower of Kish, near the site of Babylon, Professor Langhdon and Mr. McKay unearthed what is supposed to be a library.

The early historians of Babylon, who wrote their records on tablets of clay, said that Kish was founded soon after the Flood, and they put down the Flood as having happened about 5500 B.C. Of this most ancient town nothing but a heap of mounds remains, but, digging among them, the excavators have discovered the city bounds, and they tell us that Kish, enclosed by a wall, was about five miles long and two miles wide. The mounds inside the ancient city wall hide the secrets of the earliest known people of historic times.

These people were of a very warlike tribe; their chief god was the god of war; and most of the pictures scratched and chiselled on the fragments of walls unearthed deal with the old story of a bloodthirsty king and his conquests.

But now the excavators have come across the remains of a palace, with decorations on the walls and pillars; and a collection of written tablets— dictionaries and records—a royal library of ancient days.

One is supposed to think of a library as a collection of printed books, with perhaps a number of writers by hand before the art of printing was discovered. But long before man wrote on paper they wrote on parchment; and before that on papyrus, and before that on lumps of clay, and before that on lumps of stone. And so we get back to the very beginning of the world's history recorded by human beings.

Cuneiform Writing.

This library that has been discovered promises to supply information that archaeologists are always hunting for about the history and development of a certain kind of writing called cuneiform. This was largely used by the ancient Assyrians and Babylonians, and consisted of wedge-shaped characters.

In the earliest records the writing was pictographic—that is to say, the words were pictures, scratched on stone. When clay tablets began to be used the writing, done on the soft picture part of the characters slowly disappearing. This was called cuneiform writing, and was in use in the East almost till the time of Jesus Christ.

In the British Museum in London may be found many clay tablets. The earliest writing, the pictographic, is naturally rarer, as it belongs to a period of the world's history of which very few traces have been found. No one has yet found the beginning, the explanation of the picture alphabet, and its development.

But the past is being dug out of the earth in a most wonderful way, and some day there may be seen a picture of the first piece of writing ever made.

MORE DIN THAN RUNS AT CHELSEA.

The "English" baseball season opened with a match between two American teams at Stamford Bridge, London. They were the All Star Legionnaires, plus a thousand "fans" versus another thousand "fans," plus a team of Oxford Americans. Eighteen men took the field. They were padded and helmeted and wore soft cushions on their left hands.

The "fans" to whom the chief credit was announced that the All Stars drew came with lungs of leather and brazen larynxes.

Oxford won four runs to one, and it was announced that the All Stars "would play against Cambridge next Sabbath."

Then Lester, the captain of the Oxford team, gathered his clan together and grouped in the field they bowed heads, and solemnly yelled, "Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! American Legion."

PICNIC DAINTIES

Cream Cookies: Two eggs, one cup sweet cream, one cup sugar, three cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, nutmeg.

Beat eggs well with a Dover beater. Add sugar and continue beating. Add cream and beat well. Mix and sift cream and baking powder and flour.

Put into first mixture. Add nutmeg. Drop from a spoon onto a well-buttered and floured cookie sheet. Flatten with spoon to prevent cookies from being too thick when baked. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and drop a raisin in the center of each cookie. Bake twelve minutes in a moderately hot oven. As these cookies need no butter they are not expensive. If sour cream is used stir one-fourth teaspoon soda into cream. Use the same amount of baking powder as with sweet cream.

Hot Bread: Two cups sour cream, one teaspoon salt, three cups Graham flour, one teaspoon soda, one cup nut meats, two teaspoons baking powder. Let rise one hour, and bake.

Fried Pies: These are on the order of old-fashioned "turnovers" and are especially good to carry for an automobile lunch or picnic. The dough is made like that of baking powder biscuits, rolled to the thickness of one-eighth of an inch, and cut with a small round cutter. On half of each circle put old-fashioned apple sauce curdled with lemon juice. Roll up, and bake in the oven until dark red, and the edge and turn the other half over the apple, pinching the edge firmly together. Fry like doughnuts in deep hot fat. Drain carefully on paper.

Prune Peanut Butter Sandwiches: Wash prunes well. Four boiling water over prunes and let stand 10 minutes. Dip in cold water and dry on a clean, soft cloth. Cut from stones and put through food chopper. To one-half cup chopped prunes add four tablespoons peanut butter. Work smooth and put between thin slices of bread and butter.

Nut and Cheese Sandwiches: Four tablespoons cream, one-half cup cottage cheese, two cups finely chopped nuts, one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon paprika. Whip cream. Beat in cheese and nuts. Add salt and paprika and spread on brown bread and butter.

Chocolate Cake with Sour Milk: One cupful of sour milk, one cupful of sugar, four tablespoons of butter, one and two-thirds cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one egg and two squares of chocolate. Heat the chocolate, stirring it in with the butter, half a cup of sugar and the milk until the chocolate is melted. Add the egg (well beaten), flour, soda and the remainder of the sugar. Mix well.

Eat more fish is a good suggestion, but be sure that your fish is fried in delicious Crisco.

A Diver's Lucky Find

The dangers to which divers are exposed are certainly many and varied, but there are sometimes compensating advantages.

One such case is mentioned by Mr. R. H. Davis, writing in the "Divine Manual." A diver employed on the salvage job on the Galway coast used to pass his evenings at an inn frequented by fishermen, one of whom repeating a tradition which had long existed in the district, told the diver that one of the vessels of the Spanish Armada had been wrecked nearby.

The diver, having finished the job upon which he was engaged, made terms with the fisherman and they were both out for many weeks dragging the spot indicated.

They were at last rewarded by coming upon obstructions with their trawls. The diver brought out his diving apparatus, descended to what proved to be the remains of an old Spanish vessel, and on making search came across a large number of dollars. With his share of the proceeds the diver built himself a row of houses, which he called "Dollar Row."

DIRECTIONS FOR THE GUIDANCE OF ELECTORS IN VOTING.

Each elector, on entering the room where the Poll is to be held, shall declare his name, surname and addition. After so doing he shall receive a Ballot Paper in the above form.

Each elector if required by the Deputy Returning Officer, the Poll Clerk, one of the Candidates, or one of their agents shall before receiving his Ballot Paper, take an oath of qualification.

The voter is to vote only for three Candidates.

After receiving his Ballot Paper the voter shall go into one of the compartments and, with a pencil there provided, place a cross in the division containing the name or names of the Candidate or Candidates for whom he intends to vote, thus X.

The voter will then fold the Ballot Paper, so as to show a portion of the back only, with the initials of the Deputy Returning Officer and shall hand it so folded up to the Deputy Returning Officer and the Deputy Returning Officer shall, without unfolding it, ascertain that it is the Ballot Paper which he furnished to the elector and then immediately place it in the Ballot Box. The voter shall forthwith leave the Polling Station.

If a voter inadvertently spoils a Ballot Paper he may return it to the Deputy Returning Officer, who shall give him another.

If a voter votes for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for, or places any mark on the Ballot Paper by which he can afterwards be identified, his vote will be void and will not be counted.

If a voter takes a Ballot or Ballot Paper out of the Polling Station, or fraudulently puts any other into the Ballot Box then the Paper given him by the Deputy Returning Officer, he will be subject to punishment by a fine of Five Hundred Dollars, or by imprisonment for a time not exceeding Six Months with or without hard labour.

After receiving his Ballot Paper the voter shall go into one of the compartments and, with a pencil there provided, place a cross in the division containing the name or names of the Candidate or Candidates for whom he intends to vote, thus X.

The voter will then fold the Ballot Paper, so as to show a portion of the back only, with the initials of the Deputy Returning Officer, and shall hand it so folded up to the Deputy Returning Officer, who shall, without unfolding it, ascertain that it is the Ballot Paper which he furnished to the elector, and then immediately place it in the Ballot Box. The voter shall forthwith leave the Polling Station.

If a voter inadvertently spoils a Ballot Paper he may return it to the Deputy Returning Officer, who will give him another.

If a voter votes for more candidates than he is entitled to vote for, or places any mark on the Ballot Paper by which he can afterwards be identified, his vote will be void and will not be counted.

If a voter takes a Ballot or Ballot Paper out of the Polling Station, or fraudulently puts any other into the Ballot Box then the Paper given him by the Deputy Returning Officer, he will be subject to punishment by a fine of Five Hundred Dollars, or by imprisonment for a time not exceeding Six Months with or without hard labour.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THE PRESENT STYLE IN SONGS.

Say what you will of it, this is a spirited age, and there is no one thing by which it is indicated more than in the songs of the street.

The ballad of a generation ago was more often than not a lachrymose affair. It had to do with "tears that veil my longing eyes," and "hearts that ache as one," and messages sent home by dying but repentant sinners; with stern fathers who turned their daughter's picture to the wall; with partings, "never to meet again"; with worn out mothers, who as they drew their last sad breath, "these words then said to me."

"Don't Strike Your Mother."

I remember a few years ago reading the words of a caricatured song which gave evidence of the reaction from these lugubrious themes. In it two husky sons are pictured as coming home to find no supper ready, and being both hungry and uncouth, they began registering "vexation" with mother by throwing the furniture at her. They were abruptly brought to their finer senses, however, by the protests of their little sister, and the songster tells us that their "strong frames shook with sobs," as she sang to them the soft refrain:

"Don't hit your mother, boys, just 'cause she old. Don't bounce the lamp off her head. Angela are watching you up in the sky. Don't strike your mother, it's mean." The transition from pathos to burlesque is of course rather raw, but it showed that the new generation would have nothing to do with tragedy and grief and despair, when it came to song writing at any rate. L'Allegro and not il Penseroso should furnish the motif and as a result we have any number of popular songs to-day which acclaim the worth of the smile.

The Plucky War Songs.

First, there came the pluckiest of war songs: "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile." That was a spunky song and a brave one. Then there was the song called "Smiles" that is still popular, and the perennial favorite, "The Sunshine of your smile."

And then came the philosophical smile songs. "Have A Smile For Every One You Meet," was one of the first, then the pretty waltz refrain from a successful musical comedy, "Learn to smile," which everyone was humming and whistling for a while. And now we have one of the catchiest of them all, "A smile will go a long, long way."

Instructed To Smile.

I saw this exemplified not long ago in an attractive restaurant in the big city near my home. The waitresses were so uniformly friendly and smiling that I'm sure the manager had instructed them to be so. Each one of the trimly dressed, cheery girls who waited on the patrons appeared to take as much interest in having the food to one's liking as if she were serving guests in her own home. And always she smiled. "That's one thing that makes this place so pleasant," said the friend with whom I was lunching. "It is particularly nice or blue I like to come here for lunch because I always feel that bright, cheery atmosphere, as if it was a party and the hostesses had set out to see that everyone was happy." And, as if in cheery affirmation, the orchestra began to play "A smile will go a long, long way."

SPRING DAYS.

The spring is with us once again, the wintertime is over; the folk songs of the clucking hen is heard amid the clover; the colts are loping in the glen, pursued by playful Rover. I push my head outside the door to watch these happy trippers, to see the hired man do his chores with harrows, plows and disks; no blizzard sways me any more, no snow is in my whiskers. The flying clouds convey no threat of bitter cold or sleeting; "The springtime is the one best bet," I hear myself repeating; "I should be easy could I forget the days of carpet beating." The women sniff the scented air, that has so fine a meaning, with flowers blooming everywhere, from wall and trellis leaning; "this aback," they say, to my despair, "demands a thorough cleaning." Oh, why can't women close their eyes to cobwebs on the ceiling, when spring arrives with azure skies, new lines of joy revealing? Why must they, mops in hand arise, with their hose cleaning spilling? I saw old Winter to his tomb, I watched his form retreating; my heart with triumph was ablaze, to see the old man feeble; but now I look ahead with gloom, to days of carpet beating. The women looked upon the grass that was so young and tender, they watched the fleecy cloud-lets pass in ridescent splendor, and reached for mops and brooms, alas, their orgy to engender.

The fake stories of the Advocate to bolster up a looting cause came too late.

The manufactured yarn that Sir John Crosbie was going to depose Mr. Russell is only one of the many the Advocate people will let loose between now and polling day to fool a certain section of the people.

Coaker and the Advocate can no longer fool the people with such piffling.

There day is done there on the run.

A staunch supporter of Hickman's party had a cablegram from one of his travelers Saturday stating that his Monroe all through the places he visited. He predicts that Monroe will have at least 26 seats.

Creable Linear Brown, The Cant Loose Boys.

Scammell was advised by the residents of Port au Choix not to hold a meeting there. Scammell was wise. He didn't hold the meeting but left for other sections in less than an hour.

Lukins meeting at St. Brion was a job. It ended with rigging shows for Monroe candidates and Clean Government.

The voters of Grand Bank have telephoned the Advocate and Journal denying the fake message published in these papers concerning the Coaker candidates meeting there which was a colossal failure.

Before it ended a Monroe supporter called for cheers for Monroe, Sir Robert Bond Lake and Long and Clean Government.

The Advocate or the Journal did not publish this report or denial but rigged another story to bluff the people in other districts.

Everyone in St. John's district is singing the latest popular ballad.

HAWCO'S DAY IS DONE. He made his market suspending clerks and taking 'em on again. And writing of his mail reform yet fooling Mr. Main. His greatest care was Mat's welfare. For that he takes the bun. Oh hold your prate, it is too late. Mat Howco's day is done.

Mr. Main is going to be well represented in the Monroe Government.

Woodford and Cahill is the districts answer to the Hawco's duplicity.

The crowd in the East End are having all kinds of fun at the expense of the Coaker candidates.

Speaking of James Mr. Cull said every workman should have jam for his breakfast every day.

A local wit replied "What a pity we cannot preserve Mike, he's a rare bird."

Sure Mike! Jam is good anytime, he'll be jammed so far at the bottom of the poll on Monday next that his friends will need a vacuum cleaner to pick him up.

A few days ago he told a longshoreman that he was standing for Hickman in the East End and asked him for his support.

The L.S.P.U. man smiled sure you got just as much a right to stand as that bunch that are out against the Monroe men. There are alka.

"In quite serious," said Mr. Cull. "So an I," replied the L.S.P.U. man.

A few smart ones can you improve on 'em.

You will note the Hickman candidate in the East End will read as follows:—
Cull —Coaker's
Emerson —Executive
Ryan —Bates.

On the Monroe ticket:
Fox —For
Miggins —Honest
Vincombe—Value.

The White Wilderness

NFLD'S FIRST GREAT SEALING NOVEL
(By GEO. ALLAN ENGLAND.)
Into this stirring and convincing story the author weaves his experiences aboard a Newfoundland sealing vessel.
The tale concerns the romance of Spencer Harrod and Blanche Cameron who, struggling from a "Plane" crash off Bonaville, are enveloped in the ice-world until rescued by the sealer Vigilant, on board which they encounter many hardships.
The story is an epic of the sealers' toil, from the pen of an author who has won fame by his powerful stories set in Nature's Wilds.
Cloth: $1.50. By Mail, $1.55.
