La MARQUISE de FONTENOY

The Feud of the Macdonald Clan—The Duchess and Her Fat Prince Husband—A Story of Fortune

(Copyright, 1911, by the Brentwood Company.)

Thousands of Macdonalds making their homes on this side of the Atlantic will be deeply interested to learn that the bitter quarrel, which dates to the year 1499, regarding the ownership of their historic clan, has at length, after all these 399 years of feud, been satisfactorily settled.

There have always been three candidates for the chieftainship, each showing an equally unbroken line of pedigree, namely, the Macdonald of Clanranald, Macdonald of Sleat, and Macdonald of Gleanery. It has been found impossible to settle the dispute by the election of one of the three as chieftain, because to do so would have necessitated the obtaining of the votes of the entire clan, which is scattered far and wide over civilized and uncivilized countries.

So Macdonald of Gleanery has agreed with Macdonald of Clanranald, with the concurrence of Macdonald of Sleat, to elect to have three heads, like the giant that Jack killed. If any two of the heads should happen to meet, or the three and the question of precedence arises, a settlement is to be effected by the spinning of a coin.

Many will fail to recognize under the name of "Princess Joseph Lubomirski," whose death has just been announced at the Chateau de la Grave, in the department of the Gironde, the widow of that Duc Decezes who for a number of years has ministered to the needs of the poor and the sick in foreign affairs in France, during all of which time, as also during his tenure of the post of ambassador in London, he did the honors for him in a particularly gracious and brilliant manner.

She was a Viennese by birth, daughter of old General von Lowenthal of the Russian army, and inherited from her mother, who was famous as one of the shrewdest political intrigues of Europe, considerable intuition and tact in connection with the duties of her position.

The princess leaves two children, both by her first marriage, namely, a daughter, who is married to a nobleman of the court, and a son, who is now in the army. Her only sister is the wife of that Marquis de Beauvoir who spent a considerable time in New York in connection with certain mining concessions granted to her by the Emperor of Austria.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"I KNOW a man who was insanely in love with a beautiful and superior woman. He simply worshipped her on his knees. Now they are married and he secretly treats her decently. And yet I'm sure that if she hadn't married him she'd have gone on worshipping him forever. Isn't that enough to make a woman cynical about marriage—at least, not this woman."

No, that's not enough to make a woman cynical about marriage—at least, not this woman. Superior beings are not always the easiest people in the world to live with. I'd really like to know the husband's side of this case.

Perhaps he doesn't treat her unkindly at all. I have a feeling, somehow, that whole trouble is that he has gotten off his knees and she feels aggrieved at that change of attitude.

I think that is one of the commonest causes of matrimonial discord in the first year of married life. The lover, having become the husband, gets off his knees, and the sweetheart, having become the wife, resents his doing so.

And what would you have? Can a man with the livelihood to earn for himself and another remain perpetually on his knees? Of course he can't. He's got to stand up on his two feet and hustle.

And when he does that, he's doing it for her, as well as for himself. And yet, lives there a woman that doesn't feel at least a little bit aggrieved, when she sees her husband brush the dust off his trousers—so to speak—and arise erect to kneel no more?

The woman with common sense soon calls that common sense to her rescue and becomes resigned to the inevitable state of affairs.

But the freer, the freer—the freer the freer, she not only feels, but acts much aggrieved. She puts on an injured air which probably vastly mystifies her husband. She often says: "You never need to do so-and-so." Whereupon the husband, who knows that he is doing what is logical and right, and who loves his wife as much as, if not more than his sweetheart, and who is totally incapable of understanding the feminine mind, naturally feels indignant, and, after patiently enduring the unpleasant atmosphere which she creates, finally rebels and gives her real reason to feel aggrieved.

Don't act absurd because he has risen from his knees. Be glad that it is a kind, strong man who stands erect on his two feet before you, ready to take your hand in his and walk with you and guide you and make a pathway for you to the journey's end.

SIR ROBERT PERKS IN ADDRESS OF INTEREST ON METHODIST CHURCH WORK

Feature of Ecumenical Conference in Toronto on Sunday—Speaks on Methodist Brotherhood

Toronto, Oct. 15—The feature of the Ecumenical Methodist conference in this city was the address tonight by Sir Robert Perks, of London, England, on "Methodist Brotherhood."

Referring to the appointment of an international Methodist committee, sanctioned by the conference last week, Sir Robert said: "I consider this the most important and far-reaching step for world good, taken by Methodism, since the days of Wesley. This committee of 100 should be the central work of the brotherhood in the world. Through its systematized plans the great Methodist churches henceforth should work in unison."

What the International Methodist committee would attempt to do from the top, the Methodist brotherhood should attempt to do from the bottom, Sir Robert said. "The Methodist brotherhood," he continued, "must seek to unite in one vast religious free masonry, for mutual help to the people of Methodism in every city, town and hamlet of the world. Methodism, following Wesley's example, should use its collective influence, energy and wealth for the temporary as well as the spiritual uplifting and well being of its members."

The organization of the brotherhood should be on a voluntary basis, with as little officialism and formalism as possible. A first work of the brotherhood is to compile a register of Methodist men and women in every city who are going to lend a helping hand in the cause, especially in the assistance of strangers of the denomination, in aiding emigrants, and in securing the cooperation of employers of labor to provide work for those seeking it.

THE CHURCH'S WORK.
As to the urgent need of the brotherhood, Sir Robert felt that there could be no doubt. "There must be mobilization of the churches of Christ to solve the social and economic problems of the world. Throughout the world there is industrial discontent. Social revolution is boldly proclaimed. In some lands the guardians of the law appear panic stricken. There is an increasing worship of brute force. The Sabbath is being trampled upon. The price winners in the different contests were as follows: Ladies' bean board, Miss Edna McCormick; gent's bean board, Mr. Compton, Fall River; boy's bean board, J. Gallagher. St. Mary's Band will be in attendance this evening and the Artillery Band on Tuesday evening. A concert in which some of the leading local talent will take part is being arranged for Wednesday evening.

CAPITAL CITY GIVES HEARTY WELCOME TO GOVERNOR GENERAL

Ottawa, Oct. 14—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught arrived in Ottawa this afternoon and were greeted by a patriotic throng which in practically the whole city participated.

Thousands lined the profusely decorated streets, it is estimated over 50,000 people participated in the welcome. From the moment the palatial special pulled into the Union Station until their royal highnesses were escorted to Government House the streets were packed. A crowd estimated the way from 20,000 to 30,000 jammed the spacious lawns in front of the parliament buildings.

The government's welcome was tendered at the station by Premier Borden, and at the Marlborough Hotel, where the duke and duchess were presented. The first of these was from the city of Ottawa, presented by Mayor Hopewell; the others were from the St. George's Society, the St. Andrew's Society, St. Patrick's Literary Society and the St. Jean Baptiste Society.

PORTLAND METHODIST CHURCH ANNIVERSARY
The 85th anniversary of the Portland street Methodist church was celebrated yesterday by special services in the church. The Sunday morning class was held at 10 a. m. and special prayers were made asking for God's blessing on the work. The pastor, Rev. H. D. Marr, H. A., preached a special sermon at the 11 o'clock service and a very large congregation was present.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST CONVENTION ENDED
The annual convention of the Church of Disciples of Christ of the Maritime Provinces was closed last evening with a very helpful Missal service in which many delegates testified to the inspiration received during the four days' conference at the Douglas Avenue Christian church.

THE MAN SOLEMN.
The man whose daughter had just been united to the husband of her choice looked a little sad. "I tell you, 'quire," he said to some of the wedding guests, a man of his own age, and himself the father of a number of unmarried girls, "I tell you it is a solemn thing for us when our daughter gets married and goes away. The 'quire as sent, not altogether heartily. 'I suppose," he concluded, "but I can tell you it is a solemn when they don't."

SURE PROOF.
"Is your new song going to be a success?" "I suppose that accounts for the fact that so many girls are getting," added the Simple Person—Stray Stories.

TURKISH PARLIAMENT OPENS; WILL RESIST DEMANDS OF TURKEY

Constantinople, Oct. 14—The Turkish parliament was opened this afternoon. The sultan's speech from the throne was read, according to custom, by the grand vizier, in the presence of the sultan, the oldest Turkish prince, the foreign diplomats and the heads of the foreign banks.

Profound silence marked the reading by Said Pasha of the speech, at the conclusion of which applause broke out. Sultan Mohamed V. appeared to be deeply affected. The speech from the throne dealt mostly with the action of Italy in declaring war over Tripoli and with the steps taken by the powers looking to mediation. "In the meanwhile," the grand vizier read, "the Turkish government continues to have recourse to measures to defend its rights and legitimate interests."

The speech declared that Italy's ultimatum was presented while the Turkish government was engaged in developing the country industrially and repairing the errors of the past regime. It accused "Italy of opening hostilities before the expiration of 24 hours after the ultimatum was given, and with firing upon torpedo boats in the Adriatic when they were saluting, ignorant that hostilities had broken out."

"My greatest desire," said the sultan, "is to see all Ottoman work towards the great development and prosperity of the nation. It will continue the policy of avoiding hostilities before the expiration of 24 hours after the ultimatum was given, and with firing upon torpedo boats in the Adriatic when they were saluting, ignorant that hostilities had broken out."

The chamber re-elected Ahmed Riza Bey, president, by 35 votes to 25 for Akhal Bey, representing the independent opposition. Ahmed Riza urged that the young Turks' committee keep its legs in the coming elections. The chamber then adjourned until Monday. Certain young Turks will control the chamber, making the position of the cabinet stronger. This will result in a continuance of the resistance to the Italian demands.

CITY CORNET BAND FAIR
The City Cornet Band Around the World Fair was attended by another large crowd Saturday night. The fair, which is to be continued for five more days, is proving to be a big attraction and the management feel highly satisfied with the results. Several new features are to be added to the already varied list of attractions and record breaking attendances are expected during the week. Those who were in attendance at the fair during last week voted "Vote of the Whims" a very amusing attraction. The music on Saturday evening was furnished by the City Cornet Band.

The prize winners in the different contests were as follows: Ladies' bean board, Miss Edna McCormick; gent's bean board, Mr. Compton, Fall River; boy's bean board, J. Gallagher. St. Mary's Band will be in attendance this evening and the Artillery Band on Tuesday evening. A concert in which some of the leading local talent will take part is being arranged for Wednesday evening.

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., OCTOBER 16, 1911. The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act.

THE PUBLIC WORKS

Hon. William Pugsley, in an interview which appears in today's Times, takes up several subjects in which St. John is keenly interested. Among these subjects are the proposed harbor works in Courtenay Bay and the extension of harbor facilities on the West Side. Dr. Pugsley points out that the Norton Griffiths Co., Ltd., was the lowest tenderer for the Courtenay Bay works, and that as Minister of Public Works he recommended to the cabinet council that the contract be awarded to this firm.

by no means extraordinary, but it was only the curtain raiser. The fight is to come.

While the aldermen are investigating the board of works they might well devote a little attention to a new delay in doing street work, which delay is causing too long interruption of the street car service.

TELEPHONING UNDER WATER PASSES THE EXPERIMENTAL STAGE

English Inventor Gives a Demonstration Talk at Ramsgate

Conversation Carried on With Shore From Half-Mile Out to Sea—Advantage Over Wireless For Use on Warships—Outfit in a Small Box

Ramsgate, Eng., Oct. 15.—For the new science of telephony at sea, A. W. Sharman, the inventor of a new system, asserts that his system is now really no longer in its experimental stage, and that the tests made have proved conclusively the absolute practicality of wireless telephony at sea.

Metal rods—a matter of fact disused stair rods—were placed 100 feet apart in the sand of the bay here. Then Mr. Webb, who is also working here with Mr. Sharman, went out in a motor launch with his apparatus on board. The apparatus is quite small and easily portable. From the boat, signals were sent to the shore by means of the system with which the world has become familiar.

Mr. Webb says that the experiments were very successful. The apparatus can be used with equal facility for both telegraph and telephone. A Morse "tapper" forms part of the outfit.

"It is a safe figure to say that each instrument will cost about $50," Mr. Sharman said. For $100 therefore, a complete outfit can be purchased. Mr. Sharman was carrying one of the instruments in his hand, enclosed in a mahogany case. "Its extreme portability is all in its favor," he added. At once one saw the advantage gained over wireless. The box is about a foot long, rather more than a foot high, and nine inches deep.

It is believed that by means of Mr. Sharman's invention, it will be possible for liners or warships to communicate with one another readily and rapidly. The vessels can also communicate just as easily with the shore, and from the shore messages can be carried inland by means of the existing system.

Mr. Sharman said that a very small amount of electricity is required. "Five or six dry cells are all that are needed. As a matter of fact, I carried the whole apparatus along with me in the experiment. I had the whole 'station' in my hand," he said.

ADmits DOUBLE MURDER

Slayer Smiles About it For "They Cannot Hang Me Now"

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 15.—Jesse Dygart has confessed willingly to one of the most brutal double murders ever committed in the state. He smiled because he said he knew "they cannot hang me now."

Dygart admits shooting Mrs. Walter Boston as she sat churning butter in her farm house in Anoka county and to throwing the body head first into the cellar. He says he went to the field where her cousin Frank Rhodes was at work, hit him on the head with an axe and shot him three times. He says he had no motive for the crime, but "simply had a feeling come over me that I must kill the two of them," he said. A mandolin and a $2 bill were all that was missed from the house. Dygart buried the man's body in the field.

HOW SWEET. Arthur.—When we are married how sweet it will be to sit in the garden at evening, with the summer sun setting and— Mabel.—Yes, darling, and I will bring out my work while you water the garden, and roll the lawn, and pull up weeds. And you will chop the wood, and bring up coal, and lay the fire for the next day. All before bedtime. Won't it be lovely, dearest? Arthur.—Yes, dear.

THE BRUTE. She—I don't see why you should hesitate to marry on $1200 a year. Papa says my gowns never cost more than that. He—But we must have something to eat. She—Let that just like a man? At ways thinking of his stomach!

BILL KNEW. Joe—Homer, Homer, who was he? Do you know, Bill? Bill—I expect he was the first man what trained pigeons.

STUNG. Professor.—To the geologist a thousand years or so are not counted as any time at all. Man in the audience.—Great Scott! And to think I made a temporary loan of ten dollars to man who has such views.

JUST HIS STYLE. Lawyer.—Are you truthful? Boy.—Yes, sir, but I ain't so blamed truthful as ter interfere with yer business.

It was Saturday night at the fashionable resort. "Do you hear the sea waves moaning?" asked the sentimental. "I do not," answered the practical one. "I hear the people who have just received their bills."

CLOSING THE CAMPAIGN IN LANCASTER

(Continued from page 1.) Continuing, the speaker referred to the kind of spirit which had achieved the great reforms of the past. The men who had delivered people from burdens and the curses under which the race once labored were men of aggressive, self-sacrificing spirit who held positive convictions and acted consistently with them.

Mr. Ross took his subject from the Bible statement about Joseph of Arimathea who had thought in his generation as the fathers had done in theirs.

Mr. Ross took his subject from the Bible statement about Joseph of Arimathea who had thought in his generation as the fathers had done in theirs.

Public Meeting. The Parvillie Methodist church was packed to the doors on Sunday evening at the final public meeting of the local option campaign in Lancaster. The meeting was addressed by the Rev. W. R. Robinson, Rev. F. Gaetz and also by Mr. McFavish, president of the New Brunswick Temperance Federation.

Mr. Robinson said that the local option campaign in Lancaster was the most effective message of the campaign. Upon the platform beside the speakers were Messrs. W. M. Townsend, H. R. Boyer and G. A. Ross. The latter occupied the chair.

Mr. McFavish was the first speaker. He accused the interest of his hearers by outlining the history of temperance reform in this country and in the United States, saying that great results had grown out of small beginnings. He said that this effort to achieve reform was a part of a movement which was not only confined here but world wide and that every gain meant something beyond its meaning for the special locality in which it became operative. He said that the N. B. Temperance Federation was ready to support the movement in Lancaster by every means which were in his power.

Rev. W. R. Robinson dealt fully with the economic aspect of the liquor traffic, in which he said that of all arguments favoring the retention of the licensed saloon the one that it would lessen taxation was the most contemptible. Admitting that the licensed saloon did reduce taxes a few cents per capita, would any father or man worthy of the name place the life, soul and possibilities of his boy over against the few cents on his tax, and in the last analysis this was what it meant.

That the licensed saloon reduced taxation was absurd and the speaker, to prove his point, gave facts and figures. He disputed the contention that the liquor interest was either a trade or a business. From a commercial standpoint to be classed as such the transaction must be to the mutual advantage of each. This certainly could not be said of the licensed saloon, it was simply a traffic or a gamble.

the saloon just as in self-defence she hung the murderer. Dr. Gaetz also spoke against the argument that the saloon was simply supplying a public demand and that it would cease its work if the demand ceased. The saloon created demand for itself, aroused appetite for its product and if the saloon were closed the demand for it would end in keeping with the law that any acquired appetite would die if that which gratified it were withdrawn.

THE ST. JOHN LIBRARY; ITS PATRONS AND SOME FACTS ABOUT IT

Here Are 26,000 Volumes There Now Available For City Readers—Reading Room, Reference Room and Canadian Room Features—The North End Institution

THE ST. JOHN FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY

After several months' leave of absence, Miss Martin, city librarian, has returned to her position and is being congratulated that she has been enabled to resume her duties in her characteristically enthusiastic manner.

Interviewed by a Times reporter, Miss Martin gave out some interesting facts regarding the library. It was very fittingly said that the public library of the Loyalist city should be founded as a part of the celebration of the anniversary of the centennial of the landing of the Loyalists. On May 18, 1884, without ceremony the Free Public Library was opened. The loyalist memorial fund, intended for the building of a monument, was diverted to the more worthy object of the founding of the library. Hon. Isaac Burpee and Mr. Sears, an uncle of Postmaster Edward Sears were warm supporters of the project. The painted likeness of the latter was loaned by the Loyalist Society to the library board and as exhibited in the present building. J. R. Rod was the first president of the board and Miss Martin was from the first the librarian.

Two rooms were supplied by the city free, in the Market Building. In three years the library had outgrown its quarters and was moved to rented rooms in the Masonic Building. This building was centrally located and was very convenient for the patrons throughout the city. A reading room was added and a large number of books were collected by donations and purchase.

To escape from the danger of fire and the evils of overcrowding, the board decided that the library should have a home of its own and the site for a building was under consideration for some time. When Dr. J. W. Daniel was mayor of the city, a reading room was added and a large number of books were collected by donations and purchase.

Teachers can use books on supplemental reading. The books are now distributed by parcel post to many parts of the world, but a unique distinction has been won by the recent appointment of the Right Rev. Frederick Ridgeway to be Bishop of Salisbury, for that makes the second bishop in the family at the same time and a record in ecclesiastical annals. His brother, Charles John, is Bishop of Chichester. Moreover the third brother, also a record of sorts, has been a prominent diplomat and at one time was governor of Ceylon.

Salisbury's gain will be London's loss, for the new bishop has been a well known and popular ecclesiastical figure in the metropolis for over twenty years. He is vicar of a large parish in the West of London for ten years, and was then appointed Suffragan (i. e. assistant) Bishop of Kensington.

The Bishop of London, though his territory is not large in acres has more that he can attend to in that busy crowded area and his suffragans take some of it off his shoulders.

With the suffragan bishopric, Dr. Ridgeway was made at the same time rector of Botolph Claydon, a village which is one of those old churches right in the heart of the business district of London, now with practically no resident population. This Sunday congregation and with its attached church might provide a maintenance for his bishopric.

The new rector quickly got himself into his water with lots of people by putting the ancient city rectory up for sale. Of course it is an interesting thing in degree on account of its age, but it had no particular architectural beauty, and as a residence it was in every way inconvenient and insanitary. It lay so far from his Kensington bishopric that he said he spent three hours a day in the underground railway traveling from east to west in pursuit of his work. In the end the bishopric was sold.

Ardent Temperance Advocate He is an ardent temperance advocate and came much into public notice during the debate on the licensing bill three years ago. In one of his speeches he said that all barmaids should be over the age of thirty, and he made a practice of spending God Friday with the prisoners at Woodmoor Scrubs, one of London's largest prisons. While in view of his need to visit every cell and also conduct a service. He is an emotional preacher, with a gift for convincing words.

He is, unlike many persons, businesslike and methodical, and as a natural consequence he is a very successful man. On one occasion, however, he was unavoidably detained and arrived late at an induction and so missed the usual accomplishment of a person—he is a brilliant billiard player.

His Brother The finger of Providence—according to how you look at it—combined with ability, helped to hoist his brother, Charles, now Bishop of Chichester, up the ladder. While vicar of St. Paul's, Edinburgh, it happened that Gladstone visited the church one Sunday and heard him preach. He was so struck with his eloquence that soon after he appointed him to Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, the richest living in London, and here his parishioners became so fond of him that they built him a new vicarage.

He was on the London school board for three years, and took a leading part in the violent controversy which raged throughout England for some time on religious education. He has published several books on education and other matters. He was appointed Bishop of Chichester in 1907.

Just before he went to college, where he was a small chap, he was offered a commission in the army, but he preferred holy orders. While at college he was fond of rowing, a recreation which he still follows sometimes even now. He is a splendid host, and invitations for his social functions are much sought after in his diocese.

There is a Third The third of this clever trio of brothers, Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, has gained distinction in quite a different way. He entered the army and first saw active service in the Afghan war. He was appointed British commander for the fixing of the frontier between Afghanistan and Russia, and after this, entered the diplomatic service. He became governor and commander-in-chief of Ceylon, in 1886, and gained some rather unpleasant notoriety on one occasion.

When coming to England on leave, he wished to bring home a favorite dog, but it was found that the dog was not on the list of animals expected to travel, refused to allow him to have it on board. So, the dog was put in a cage and he himself, dressed in a foreign line. Much dust was kicked up by the dog and the people in England, who spent their time splitting hairs and writing letters to the newspapers, at the idea of a British official traveling on a foreign ship without a dog.

These three clever brothers are the sons of the late Rev. Joseph Ridgeway, just a country clergyman.

Bustle and noise are alike the signs of incapacity, and whose feverish movements are the most evident is usually the man who has least to do. The capable man cultivates system more than a grain of truth in the old saying that if we want something done for us the busy man is the one to whom to apply. Those who have most to do can usually find time to do just a little more.

TWO BISHOPS IN ONE FAMILY

This Honor Has Been Gained By Ridgeway Family In England

THREE CLEVER BROTHERS

One is Bishop of Chichester, Another Has Just Been Appointed Bishop of Salisbury, Third a Distinguished Diplomat—Breaking Through Bound Traditions

(Times Special Correspondence)

London, Oct. 7.—Whole families of soldiers, footballers and common or garden parsons are to be found in many parts of the world, but a unique distinction has been won by the recent appointment of the Right Rev. Frederick Ridgeway to be Bishop of Salisbury, for that makes the second bishop in the family at the same time and a record in ecclesiastical annals.

A TALK WITH HON. MR. PUGSLEY ON MATTERS CONCERNING ST. JOHN

Ex-Minister Says People Must Know Where Government Stands on Navy Question—Courtenay Bay and West Side—Speaks of Some Reports

(From The Daily Telegraph)

Hon. William Pugsley, late minister of public works, was interviewed by a Telegraph reporter at his home here on Saturday evening and told something of his plans for the immediate future, also discussing political matters of interest to the constituency which he will represent in the Dominion parliament.

When asked regarding his own plans, he replied: "My intention is to make my home in St. John, but I do not intend to resume the practice of my profession for a short time at least, until I have had some rest which I feel I require, and to which I am fairly entitled after many years of very hard work. I am associated with the court proceedings in Queen's Square, but I count it more as his friend than as his lawyer. I leave for Montreal tomorrow, but I may return to Fredericton to take part in the next session of the recent on Thursday. My parliamentary duties necessarily will be suspended during the coming winter, and next spring I will settle down to professional work."

Hon. Dr. Pugsley was asked if, in the event of Dr. Daniel retiring as the representative of the city and county to give the new minister of marine and fisheries a seat, Mr. Hazen was likely to be opposed.

"As to that, I cannot tell," he said, "because that is a matter which must necessarily be left to the Liberal party, and I am not in a position to say anything on the subject. Personally, under ordinary circumstances I should be disposed to recommend that there should be no opposition. I have not forgotten that the Conservatives did not oppose me when I was taken into the cabinet in 1907, but I do not intend to be returned without an election, feeling, no doubt, that such a course would strengthen my hands at Ottawa and enable me better to advance the interests of the city."

People Must Know. "In the case of the minister of marine and fisheries, however, I find that there are many people of the same opinion as myself, that it is most unfortunate that the prime minister should have appointed a complete stranger to the Nationalist party of Quebec led by Mr. Bourassa, whose principles and teachings are so utterly opposed to the views of the great majority of the people of the Loyalist city of St. John as well as to those of the vast majority of the people of all Canada. The inclusion in his cabinet of Messrs. Nantel, Monk and Pellerin has come as a great shock to Conservatives as well as Liberals. During the recent campaign I said emphatically that all signs indicated that there was an alliance between Mr. Borden and Mr. Bourassa, but my suggestion was indignantly repudiated by many Conservatives in St. John. I am sure these men would not have supported the Conservative candidates if they had believed for a moment that to do so was supporting a party whose leader would be in his cabinet men who are committed to the repeal of the naval bill, and especially that part of it which provides that in case of war the Canadian government shall have the power to place the vessels of the Canadian navy under the control of the United States."

"It seems to me that before the people of St. John can properly be asked to determine whether or not they should allow the minister of marine and fisheries to be elected by the railway company, they are entitled to have a distinct pronouncement as to the policy of the government on the naval question."

The Courtenay Bay Work. Asked if he thought it likely that the proposed harbor work in Courtenay Bay and on the west side would be carried out by the new government, Hon. Dr. Pugsley said: "That, of course, is quite impossible for me to say. It is fitting, perhaps, that I should point out to the people of St. John the situation with respect to the proposed improvements as it existed when the Liberal government retired from office. The plans for the development of Courtenay Bay were prepared after very careful consideration and tenders were called for the dredging of a channel 500 feet wide, extending from the main channel entrance into Courtenay Bay to give a depth of 22 feet at low tide, also dredging out a basin in Courtenay Bay to the same depth, extending from the proposed ship's berth on the western side to the site of the proposed dry dock and ship repairing plant on the east side. The tenders also called for the building of a very substantial breakwater, 3,800 feet in length, and the dredging of wharves to provide accommodation for four ocean steamers.

"In order to secure the construction of a dry dock of the first class, and providing an up-to-date ship repairing plant, it was deemed advisable also to require the building of a dry dock and ship repairing plant under the terms of the Dry Docks' Subsidies Act of 1907."

"The great firm of Norton Griffiths Co. Ltd. was the lowest tenderer and agreed to perform the work for $7,250,000, and also to build a dry dock of the first class, being 100 feet in length and 100 feet wide, also to provide a thorough ship repairing plant at an estimated cost of something over $4,000,000."

"The tenders were received on Aug. 12 and were opened on Aug. 12, but no meeting of the government was held from that date until the first of the elections, when I submitted to my report based on certificates of engineers of my department recommending that the contract be awarded to Norton Griffiths Co. Ltd. The opinion of the council, however, was that in view of the magnitude of the work it would be proper that the matter should be left to our successors to deal with, the council having a memorandum to this effect."

Mr. Borden's Promise. "Whether or not the present government," continued Dr. Pugsley, "will take the same action as we would have taken had we not been defeated, and enter into the contract at once, I am unable to say, but if nothing is done I shall feel it my duty to call the attention of parliament to a distinct pledge which the present prime minister made to the people of St. John in the form of a special message, published in the St. John Standard on Sept. 20, 1907."

"On the 5th April 1904, I moved a resolution in parliament declaring that the public interest demanded a thorough and efficient equipment of our national ports. At that time I said that since the policy of the Liberal-Conservative party had been so declared on repeated occasions, the thorough and efficient equipment of St. John harbor is part of our policy. I pledged myself to the people of St. John on the 5th of September, namely, that the defeat of the Laurier government will not retard, hinder or prevent in any way the construction of terminal facilities at St. John, or the equipment and development of that port as one of the Atlantic national ports of the Dominion."

"This pledge of Mr. Borden's," said Dr. Pugsley, "was made with a full knowledge that the Liberal-Conservative government commits the government to proceed with the work of development there without delay."

Mr. Wharves. "I have also left in my department, for the information of my successor, a draft agreement prepared by solicitors of the Pacific Railway Company and to be entered into between the company, the city and the government, under which the railway company agrees to lease the wharves as they are constructed upon the same terms and at the same rental as the wharves on the Courtenay Bay side of the city. The city of St. John has done its best to secure a conveyance to the crown of the foreshore rights on the western side of Courtenay Bay so that the work is absolutely clear for the government to let the contract and proceed with the work. Last session I submitted to parliament a sum of $500,000, especially for the commencement of the Courtenay Bay work. Parliament committed itself to the item by voting five-twelfths of the amount at the same time when other votes were passed in lump sums and in view of the national importance of the work, there was no doubt, whatever, that parliament will cheerfully vote the necessary sums required to pay the contractors as the work proceeds."

West Side Improvements. "As to the proposed improvements on the west side," Dr. Pugsley continued, "the agreement for the transfer of the foreshore to be the site of the additional wharves and railway terminals was approved by the council almost immediately after it was received from the city, and a few days before we retired from office, was daily executed by the officials of my department. Tenders were called for what construction for a sea wall as agreed upon, but it was thought best to leave them together with the Courtenay Bay contract to be dealt with by our successors."

Post Office Site. Dr. Pugsley was also asked with reference to the post office site, and replied: "The requisite order-in-council for the expropriation of the land required was passed some time ago and the necessary papers have now been filed in the registry office. The property taken consists of the Bayard property, commencing at the Bank of Nova Scotia running 50 feet in Prince William street and extending through to Canterbury street, a distance of 100 feet, also the Prince William street end of the adjoining property owned by J. A. Pugsley & Co., having a fronting of 55 feet in Prince William street and extending back to the rear of the garage, also the property formerly owned by Emerson & Fisher, having a fronting of 55 feet in Prince William street and extending through to Canterbury street, 100 feet, which gives in all an area of upwards of 2,400 square feet, having a fronting of 160 feet in Prince William street and ample space for rear entrances in Canterbury street."

"This site is an ideal one, as the citizens of St. John are generally aware, and when it is borne in mind that the cost of the whole property, including the Bayard building, will only be about $40,000, it will be recognized that the government has got a great bargain. While a valuation of the properties was made by an expert of the public works department, owing to the fact that my successor, Mr. Fisher, having been appointed, I thought it best to proceed by expropriation and it is now entirely open to my successor to close with the owners at the price fixed by the expert, or to have their value fixed by the judgment of the exchequer court. I know myself, and I speak after four years' experience in acquiring sites for public buildings throughout Canada, that there is no city with the same population as St. John where a property so centrally located and of an equal area could be secured for any less than double the price for which the government can obtain these properties."

Untruthful Reports. Hon. Dr. Pugsley was considerably annoyed when shown a despatch from Ottawa in Saturday's Standard headed "Monk will Put Stop to Any Grant," and stating in effect that the new minister of public works would hold up certain contracts. The late minister pointed out the discrepancy in the article, it being said in the first paragraph that contracts "in the drying hours of the late government will be held up by the orders of F. D. Monk," while in the second paragraph the statement was made "these jobs about thirty in number and including the Courtenay Bay work, were put through, but not finally awarded, owing to Earl Grey's disapproval of the course."

"I fail to understand," said Dr. Pugsley, "how a contract can be let and yet not finally awarded. The public cannot complain of the new minister making a thorough investigation as to any contract whether or not it was actually let by the late government or was left to the consideration of the new government. The people will complain, however, if the minister taking up his proposed investigation should simply make a general order holding up all the public works for which parliament has voted money, and which the late government dealt with in the regular way by granting the contract as was done almost invariably, to the lowest tenderer."

TWO UNUSUAL DIVORCE CASES

Husband Who Would Sell Wife for Twelve Hens—The Other a Matrimonial Mix-up

Burlington, Iowa, Oct. 14.—Judge Smythe in the district court here this week heard two unusual divorce cases. Mrs. Lucinda Wetzel wished separation from her husband, Robert Wetzel, who, she said, had attempted to sell her to a neighbor for twelve chickens, or for a dog, which he proposed afterward to kill. The court refused the divorce.

The other was that of Mrs. Elizabeth Snyce, who asked for separation from her husband, who she had not seen since the civil war. The wife, supposing he had secured a divorce, married again. Her second husband, Charles Smith, a veteran of the war with whom she lived in Burlington for more than twenty years, died two years ago. When the widow applied for a pension on her second husband's account, she discovered that she was still the wife of Snyce, who was married again and was living happily in Louisiana county, Iowa. The divorce from Snyce was granted.

Fashion and Food

LET fashion dictate what you shall wear, but don't let it dictate what you shall eat.

Changing the style of your hat does not affect your health, but changing the style of your breakfast food is a different matter.

Some folks have taken a fancy to predigested foods. They are simply robbing their digestive apparatus of the exercise necessary to keep it in good working order.

Then there is the other great point—the purpose of eating. Is it merely to please the palate or to furnish fuel for the body? Why not eat foods that do both?

The body requires two kinds of fuel: that which gives energy and that which gives tissue.

The perfect food, according to scientists, should give 5/8 parts of energy to one part of tissue, because that is just the ratio in which the normal man or child uses up his energy and tissue.

Tilson's Rolled Oats are one of the few practically perfect foods. They furnish the body 5/8 parts of energy to one part of tissue.

Tilson's Rolled Oats when cooked for only 15 minutes are in a perfect state for the normal digestion.

No amount of science and no amount of judgment can produce a more perfectly adapted breakfast food for father and son, and mother and daughter, than Tilson's Oats. We leave it to you to find out at your breakfast table tomorrow morning whether you can find a more tasty, delicious and appetizing dish.

Hint: Try milk and a sprinkle of salt on your porridge. That's much better for your digestion than rich cream and a lot of sugar.

EXPECTED CHANGE BUT ARE LIKELY TO BE DISAPPOINTED

Outlook in Russia Under the New Premier—An Able Man Who Has Had Much Experience

St. Petersburg, Oct. 15.—The non-Russian and unorthodox elements, including the Finns, the Poles, and the Jews, together with the organs of the opposition press, are at one in expecting a change of policy under Premier Kokoffoff's guidance in the sense of less pressure in the direction of Russification, but it is more than probable that they will be bitterly disappointed.

by the promoters of the local section of the new nationalist union, in which, among much tubercle exaggeration, occurs the following passage, addressed to His Majesty: "The Russian nation involuntarily asks itself, how long will Russia tolerate the yoke of a race hated by all the world, who are bringing ruin on the state and spreading destruction among its various stages of the service in the ministry of justice, distinguished himself in the department of prison administration, held office in the Ministry of the Interior, and as minister of finance covered himself with glory by the extremely able way in which he found the money to carry on the war with Japan without shattering the finances of the country. He is an eloquent speaker, and will make a better orator in the Duma than his predecessor, M. Stolypin."

On the other hand, it is reported that at a meeting of the Octobrists and members of the Nationalist fraction at Kieff it was resolved to unite the action of both parties in the new Duma in order to form the strong centre which M. Stolypin declared was so necessary for the satisfactory working of Russia's new parliament.

Harvester Company Reported to be Husting British Manufacturers From Valuable Territory. Nikolai, Russia, Oct. 16.—During the few years that have elapsed since the consolidation of the five American agricultural machine manufacturing firms into the trust now known as the International Harvester Company, the operations of the concern have proved a veritable industrial invasion of this country, and the British firms which formerly held something like a monopoly in agricultural machinery are being practically squeezed out of the Russian market.

THEY FEAR CHOLERA MORE THAN TURKS

Rome via Frontier, Oct. 14.—The landing of the Italian expeditionary force in Tripoli was more eventful than at first known. Owing to the difficulties caused by rough sea and a hard shore, the Italian commanders found themselves confronted by a serious problem. The great fleet of coral boats from the islands of Lampedusa, Lambrone, Liposa and others in the Mediterranean came to the rescue of the transports and helped in the speedy landing of the troops. The gravity of the situation is indicated by the fact that the torpedo boat Preciosa was wrecked on the rocks, although the crew was saved.

CONSERVATIVE EULOGY OF SIR WILFRID

(Victoria Columnist) The passing of Sir Wilfrid Laurier from power is a notable event, not only in Canadian history but in Empire politics. His career for the past fifteen years has been synonymous with the development of the Dominion. In that time he has been the commanding figure in the affairs of this country and in the Imperial council has won the first place among the representatives of the Overseas dominions. Many elements have contributed to the position which he occupied and the great esteem in which he was held by the people of this country. Through French he has been the ideal of the French-Canadian, and, if there is one thing above all others by which he will be remembered, it will be the part he played in bringing into harmony the two races which constitute the population of this country. Through French he attained power and by the increase in the English speaking population and the raising of a great national issue, fraught with danger to the loyalty to the Motherland, but if there is one thing above all others by which he will be remembered, it will be the part he played in bringing into harmony the two races which constitute the population of this country.

SPORT NEWS OF A DAY; HOME AND ABROAD

McGraw and His Smile

It was back in 1905 that John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, ad known to the baseball world as Mugger and the Little Napoleon, smiled the Cleveland news. There was just cause for Mugger's smiling that year. His Giants won the National League pennant and then cleaned up on the Athletics in the world's series four games to one.

Again in 1908 John J. gave expression to about one-half of the 1905 brand of his landless smile. That was when it appeared as if the Giants had won the National League pennant. Then Umpire Hank 'Day, Frank Chance and some more pertinently active parties butted in and spoiled the well-laid plans of the Little Napoleon. The Cubs were declared the National League winners. Instead of the Giants. Subsequently they won the world's title.

Mugger McGraw's half smile disappeared that memorable October day and it failed to make its reappearance until a day or two ago, when it seemed a dead certainty the Giants and not the Cubs would win the National League pennant.

You wouldn't have pulled a smile on Mugger's face when the Giants were one or two games in front. The dire results of 1908 were ever before the Giants' leader. But when the Giants pulled away to a lead, then a six, and finally a seven-game lead, the smile reappeared.

Oldtime adherents of the Giants have been pulling for the 1905 smile for a long time, and as each succeeding day passes into baseball history the grin on the face of Mugger McGraw grows broader.

HAS $21,000 TO BET

Pittsburg, Oct. 15.—Thayer Torreyson, a former noted professional baseball player, left Pittsburg yesterday for New York to attend the world's series. He took with him $21,000. He will wager this amount that the Philadelphia Athletics will defeat the New York Giants for the world's championship. Before leaving Pittsburg today Torreyson placed a bet of $1,000 that he will accept all the bets he can find. He will even convert his $2,000 worth of diamonds into cash to get more money, if his present roll runs out by any means.

Torreyson is one of the greatest authorities on baseball in the United States. In Pittsburg bets on the Athletics were scarce until he began placing his money on them. Then the betting tide changed. Torreyson says he will run the risk of betting his clothes and walking home from New York so sure is he that the Athletics will win.

President vs. Vice-President Match

The annual fall golf match between sides chosen by the President and Vice-President of the Golf Club took place over the St. John links on Saturday in ideal weather, and after a most exciting contest resulted in a tie, each side scoring seventeen points. The Nassau system of scoring was adopted, one point being allowed for the winning of each nine holes and an extra point for the winning of the match.

The greater number of these golf parties in the club house in the evening and after the usual loyal toast, the President and Vice-President were drunk with enthusiasm.

The exciting result of the day's enjoyable play makes it probable that the President and Vice-President will again marshal their forces on Saturday next.

Following are the results of the individual matches:

NEW YORK GIANTS WIN FIRST GAME; MATHEWSON REPORTS IT FOR THE TIMES

Big Stars of the New York Giants—the Five Big M's—Meyers (batting), Mathewson, Marquard, Merkle, McGraw. Meyers on October 3 had a batting average of .313, Mathewson and Marquard are New York's two strongest pitchers; Merkle is leading base stealer and McGraw is manager. (Copyright by Underwood.)

Big Stars of the Philadelphia Athletics Baker—(batting) Bender, Collins, Coombs, Connie Mack. Baker is the leading run getter, Collins the principal base stealer while Bender and Coombs are the star pitchers. Connie Mack is manager. (Copyright by Underwood.)

They thought that they had our signals, and perhaps they had. In the third, they attempted to employ their information thus obtained and found themselves wrong, that they had been crossed. It was at this point they stopped winning, and we began.

The Athletics are the best team on the offensive that I have ever faced. They are more clever than any club in the National League at getting signals, considered fair by all the shrewd of baseball.

The second inning of the game they scored a run because Davis, the batter in the hit which brought me in, pitched to him. It was a curved ball. He made a clean hit to left field and that was all that was needed to win the game.

Fooled the Athletics.

At this point the Athletics thought that they had our signals and believed it would be only a question of time before they would get a run to clinch the game. But McGraw knew as soon as "Conny" Mack that they were going to be fooled.

See how the worked out in the third inning. Olding doubled over third base and Collins walked. Frank Baker, one of the hardest hitters on the club, came to the bat with one hit already to his credit. Olding on second base was getting what he had been warned would be our sign.

A legitimate practice. But he was a poor interpreter.

The first-time that Baker glimpsed across the plate and swung at the ball expecting one on the outside, evidently, it was up close and near bearing him. He fanned out on three bad balls, one getting what he had been warned would be our sign. He was getting them from Meyers. A legitimate practice. But he was a poor interpreter.

The turning point in the game. From then on their latters stopped trying to get our signals.

After the third inning, I saw Barry and Collins and Baker with their heads together, and I knew that they were talking about the key that was wrong and would not fit. It was quick work on the part of McGraw, as no team in the National League, as I have said, is clever enough on the offense to try to detect battery signals or to even try to get them.

I think that is the big "inside" secret of the game, the real truth about how the attack was discovered and met on the field. I discovered that the decisive way in which Davis stepped into the ball that he drove to left field was coming, and McGraw frustrated it.

"He knew what it was going to be chief," I said to Meyers. McGraw immediately ordered the chief to change his signs and we had them in the air after that. They did not try to get our signals after the third inning.

The Hardest Inning.

The hardest inning of the game was the fifth for me. The score was tied at that time and any slip might mean the game with Bender going the way he was. With one out, the Indian had singled solidly to center field and had been forced at second by Lord. Olding clipped a double over about the key that went wrong and would not fit. I discovered that the decisive way in which Davis stepped into the ball that he drove to left field was coming, and McGraw frustrated it.

ST. JOHN INTERESTED. There is a good deal of St. John interest in the championship baseball series between the Giants and the Athletics. The general opinion here is that the Giants will win the series but that they will have to fight hard for it. Quite a few dollars were lost on Saturday's game as it was thought that Mac's men would hit Mathewson hard and win. All the big bets here have been at even money. Several St. John people are attending the games, including Daniel Connolly, John Frodsham, Harry Ervin and Thomas Reynolds. Joe Page will go through to New York today to attend.

SOCIETY BOWLING LEAGUE The members of the teams in the Inter-Society Bowling League are looking forward with interest to the season of bowling to open this evening on the St. Peter's C. M. B. A. alleys. Two strong teams, the C. M. B. A. 154 and the A. O. H. will be first to meet. The schedule for the entire league has not as yet been drawn up, but will be in a few days. The reason for arranging only a part of it for the present is that more teams than now in may enter. In this event a rearrangement would have to be made and rather than this, as it will be definitely known this week, only one week's games have been arranged for. See the sporting page.

THE LOST SCOWS. The chain belonging to the four scows of the wrecked dredge New Brunswick which are stranded on the Nova Scotia shore, was brought here this morning by Captain Anderson of the little schooner "Lloyd." Captain Anderson reports to the public works department here that one of the scows is badly smashed and will be a total loss. The others, he thinks, will be all right though they are high and dry at the present time and it will be necessary to await the high tides before removing them. Captain McMurray, mechanical superintendent of dredging, went across the bay this morning to look at the scows.

SAW HER BROTHER FOR FIRST TIME IN TWENTY-TWO YEARS Mrs. D. L. Guilfof, of Main street, north end, returned to New Bedford after an interesting visit to New Bedford, Mass., where she was a welcome guest at the home of her brother, D. F. He had frequently sent invitations to his sister to go to visit him, but until this year she had not done so. She was heartily welcomed by her brother, and spent a pleasant time. Mrs. Guilfof was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Grace, and after a month's visit to the states they returned on the S. S. Calvin Austin on Saturday.

WILSON WILL BE MEMBER OF GOVERNMENT

St. John M. P. P. to be Taken Into Cabinet Before Close of Next Session. It can be said with authority today that John E. Wilson will be a member of the provincial government before the close of the next session of the New Brunswick legislature. It is learned that Hon. K. Flemming, Hon. Robert Maxwell and Mr. Wilson had an interesting conference in St. John a few days ago and that the matter of Mr. Wilson's position was the subject discussed. Mr. Wilson positively announced to Mr. Flemming that only on one condition would he again be found as a candidate for the city of St. John, and that condition was that he would become a member of the government. He said definitely that no other arrangement with him was possible.

THE LOCAL OPTION BATTLE TOMORROW A committee meeting of the party against license will be held tonight in the Temperance Hall, Main street, Parville, to complete the organization for the fight in the Parish of Lancaster tomorrow. Rev. H. R. Boyer said this morning that the party was leaving no stone unturned and organization was very thorough. Polling for district No. 1 will be at or near James Masson's, and for District No. 2 in the public hall. The voting will be in separate booths from those where the balloting for the municipal election goes on, as four special booths are provided by law for local option. The ballot is printed and contains the words "For License" and "Against License." The voter marks the ballot with a cross after the words which are in accord with his inclinations. Each side is permitted to have two representatives at a booth, and it is generally understood that both sides will have the full number of agents. A majority vote will defeat license, but the workers are attempting to roll up a large majority so that the Scott Act could be well enforced.

Mr. McDonald has been living in the states for some years, but expects to remain in St. John to act as manager for an Upper Canadian company intending to open a branch in this city.
