Look for Lloyd George in the States Early in November

Washington, Sept. 17.—Unofficial reports received here from Washington are to effect that Premier Lloyd George will arrive in the United States during the first week in November to attend the conference on the limitation of armaments, which will assemble here on Nov. 11.

IS MORE HOPEFUL, SAYS THE TIMES

London Comment on De Valera's Telegram.

Message Sent Yesterday to Lloyd George—Belief That Conference Over the Irish Situation Will Become a Fact.

London, Sept. 17.—Sinn Fein acceptance of membership in the British Commonwealth as the basis of negotiations with Premier Lloyd George is seen as the only way out of the present Irish situation and deadlock by London newspapers, although the prospects regarding the conference are considered improved by Eamon De Valera's latest note to the premier.

The Daily Chronicle today said that such action by the Irish Republicans would mean that peace was in sight, the newspaper adding that "until the Sinn Fein does accept peace is unattainable."

"There is satisfactory evidence in both English and Irish newspapers," declared the Daily News, "that the ridiculous dispute which brought about a temporary abandonment of the Inverness conference is not likely to have any very serious or permanent effects."

The Daily Express asserted that "juggling with a phony peace is a game that there was little doubt that, since receiving Mr. De Valera's latest letter, the premier will find means to accommodate Mr. De Valera and his friends. Public opinion in Ireland," the newspaper added, "made this step on the part of the Sinn Fein leader inevitable."

The Irish situation assumes a more hopeful appearance since Mr. De Valera in his telegram yesterday seemed to take a different construction on his own words, in the opinion of the London Times. This newspaper said patience and good-will should solve the immediate problem, and it is believed Lloyd George might accept Mr. De Valera's contention for a conference without conditions and name the earliest possible day for it.

The telegram of Mr. De Valera was as follows: "I received your telegram last night and am surprised that you do not see that if we on our side accept a conference on the basis of your letter of Sept. 7 without making our position quite clear Ireland's representatives would enter the conference with their position misunderstood and the cause of Ireland's right irreparably prejudiced. Throughout the correspondence that has taken place you have defined your government's position. We have defined ours."

"If the positions were not so definitely opposed there would indeed be no problem to be discussed. It should be obvious that in a case like ours if there is to be any real negotiation, the negotiators must meet without prejudice and untrammelled by any conditions whatsoever except those imposed by the facts as they know them."

"The old days of individualism in journalism may have passed away," he said, "but the demand for it on the part of the public still remains. The press stands open for a man of ability to seize upon some journal, whether secular or religious, express the feelings of his conscience and sound the courage of his soul."

In discussing the great need of a revival of the spiritual life of the world, Dr. Wareing said: "Denominationalism has reached a stage of arrested development; it must be changed and go forward or perish."

DOOR EVER OPEN IN JOURNALISM

Demand Still Strong for the Man of Conviction, World's Methodists are Told.

London, Sept. 17.—Conviction, conscience and courage are the three things demanded by the world of the leadership of the religious journalist, Dr. E. C. Wareing, president of the Editorial Council of the Protestant Press of America, told the delegates to the ecumenical congress here.

OBTAIN MILLION VOLTS ELECTRICITY

After 30 Years Record is Achieved—Confirms Feasibility of Projected Scheme.

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 16.—At the Pittsfield plant of the General Electric Company for the first time in history the tremendous high voltage of 1,000,000 volts was obtained, generated and transmitted by engineers of the company working under the direction of chief engineers of the plant. This dramatic advance in electrical development, the result of more than thirty-years of work, was achieved on Tuesday afternoon, according to an official report. Officials said that much valuable data was gathered, indicating its commercial possibilities.

The official statement said: "The pressure of 1,000,000 volts and over was generated by transformer equipment designed along standard lines with a current at ordinary household frequency of sixty cycles per second. The physical laws applying to the behavior of high voltages were found to hold good at this enormous pressure."

TWO HUNDRED DIE OF HUNGER IN FORTNIGHT

Many Succumb to Cholera in Russia, Where Conditions are Reported Terrible.

Tsaritsyn, Russia, Sept. 17.—(By Courier to Moscow)—Hunger is tightening its grip on the lower valley of the Volga. Officials of the Near East relief, who reached this city today after making a survey of ten provinces in sun scorched Southeastern Russia, said conditions indicated wholesale starvation by January if outside help on a large scale did not arrive immediately.

There are in normal times 100,000 workmen employed in the province of Saratov, but only 4,000 are now engaged in the factories. During the last three months there have been 6,000 cases of cholera in this city and forty per cent. of them have been fatal. During the same period, 1,200 cases of this disease have been reported from Saratov province.

Two hundred deaths from starvation have been reported in the last fortnight. Black bread, made largely from acorns, is selling at the equivalent of one cent an ounce.

London, Sept. 17.—Twenty United States relief administration workers, doctors, transportation experts and warehouse keepers who arrived in England from the U. S. on last Saturday on board the liner Olympic, have left for Riga. From that city they will go to Moscow, where definite assignments will be given them.

SELLS CIRCUS CASH IN ROBBERS' HANDS

Thieves Hold Up Treasurer in West and Steal $28,000 of $30,000.

Portland, Ogn., Sept. 17.—Three unmasked robbers held up the Seattle circus treasurer late last night at Vancouver, Washington, and obtained between $28,000 and $30,000 in cash and drafts, according to a report to the Vancouver, Washington, police.

The robbers were said to have knocked down Grant Hamilton, 60, and her son, who objected to the search of her mother.

The money was being transferred from the circus grounds to a safe in the treasury car in the railroad yards. The transfer was being made in a motor truck.

Edwin Hamilton of Brydon street, to whose absence from home, reference was made recently in the press, in connection with a story about his family being destitute, called at the Times office yesterday to explain that he had gone to Newcastle, thence to Montreal and to Portland, Maine, in search of work and had failed in every case and is now home again, still without a job. He added that he is both ready and able to work and indicates the extent of long-distance transmission beyond limits heretofore believed possible.

As Hiram Sees It

"No," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to the Times reporter, "I ain't lookin' fer no senatorship an' I don't even want to be made hog-reed. I'd shet up that there senate an' save the money. We need the money—we ain't never been able to figger out that we need a political hotspite up there in Ottaway."

Some folks thought the end o' the world was comin' when the cry was raised that the old Testament an' the new Testament an' the salvation o' the country aint struck me as bein' nothin' but bunk. This country aint so rich that it kin afford to waste money an' never will be. It 'ud be a lot cheaper to board them old fellers out in the Settlement an' let 'em think like the Kaiser that they was still the one show. When my government comes in we'll tend to them fast things—yes, sir."

CROWDS GATHER AT COURT FOR ARBUCKLE CASE

Arrestment on Manslaughter Indictment Formality Pending Action on Murder Charge.

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—Comedian Roscoe Arbuckle was cast today for a new court scene in the tragedy of Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, who died, according to accusers of Arbuckle, following a drinking orgy in the actor's apartment in a San Francisco hotel and as a result of mistreatment by her host.

Today Arbuckle was to be arraigned in superior court, upon an indictment charging manslaughter, returned by the county grand jury. But this arraignment is mere formality, it was said, and District Attorney Brady was scheduled to ask a continuance of the manslaughter case until action has been taken on the charges of first degree murder pending against Arbuckle in connection with Miss Rappe's death.

The district attorney had announced that the murder charge will be decided and it will be left to a jury to decide whether Arbuckle shall be convicted of first degree murder, second degree murder, manslaughter or turned free by acquittal.

There was also one other alternative which was that if the police court at the preliminary examination of Arbuckle failed to hold the comedian to answer to the superior court on charge of murder, the state then would be forced to go to trial with the manslaughter indictment. Acquittal or conviction on the murder charge would mean automatic dismissal of the manslaughter charge, for the law holds a man may not be twice placed in jeopardy for one cause.

Crowds long before the court opened today attempted to gain places of vantage about the court room of Superior Judge H. Louderback, where Arbuckle was to be arraigned, that they might view the film star. Arbuckle in all his court appearances since his arrest has shown disinclination to face these curious folk.

Scores of letters and telegrams continue to arrive at the jail for Arbuckle in such number that he cannot answer them.

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—The body of Miss Rappe, according to announcement will be sent to Hollywood, Calif. Hollywood, a suburb of Los Angeles, is the city of motion picture people.

Witnesses in the Arbuckle case are being watched and guarded by police to prevent their possible intimidation. Police officials stated this step was taken, in some cases, at the request of witnesses themselves.

Shocker Strikes Out "Babe" Ruth Thrice After Homer

New York, Sept. 17.—Babe Ruth's fifth home run of the season, made off Pitcher Urban Shocker in the fourth inning of the New York-St. Louis game was the seventh he had knocked off Shocker's delivery this season. The Browns' twirler had his revenge before the game was over by striking out Ruth three times. Shocker scored his twenty-fifth victory of the year, equalling the mark made by Carl Mays to date.

THE INDIANS AND GIANTS LEAD

Shocker Helps to Pull Down His Old Team.

New York, Sept. 17.—A former member of the New York Americans—Pitcher Shocker—helped to pull that team from first place in the American League yesterday. Shocker, now with the St. Louis Browns, pitched against his old team-mates and won 10 to 8.

The Indians continued their winning streak, defeating Washington and today were leading the American League by two points ahead of the New York team. The New York Giants increased their lead to three and a half games in the National League by winning the first game of a series of three from the Pittsburgh Pirates, their nearest rivals. It was the Giants' ninth straight victory and also the ninth straight over Pittsburgh.

New York has eleven more games to play and by winning five out of six of them, would finish the season with a percentage of .610. Pittsburgh to equal this, must win ten of fourteen remaining games.

The St. Louis Nationals kept pace with their fellow citizens. St. Louis Americans, by winning their seventh victory over Philadelphia. The St. Louis teams occupy third place in their respective leagues.

What most batters dream and hope to do, hit a home run with the bases full, was accomplished yesterday by George Sisler, the Browns' star first baseman. His homer in the game against the Yankees came in the ninth inning.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Ty Cobb was the only member of the quartette, which last week went into the stretch fighting for the batting honors of the American League, who made a grin break his record. Cobb added four points to his average, giving him a mark of .394, for the runner-up honors. Harry Heilmann, Detroit's star slugger, struck a slump in his hitting and dropped to .388, just four points in front of his boss, Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, the third member of the slugging quartette traveled along on about a fifty-fifty basis, dropping one point. He is third with .382.

George Sisler, of St. Louis, who was on a crowd on the heels of the leaders, did not do so well with the willow and has dropped to .374, a loss of seven points. Ruth broke his home run record of 54 circuit drives established in 1920, scoring his 55th on Friday, increasing his lead over runner getter, having registered 102 times.

LOYD GEORGE IS IMPROVING

Very Much Better Today—De Valera Telegram May Mean Change in Irish Situation.

Gairloch, Scotland, Sept. 17.—Lloyd George passed a good night at his vacation home here and was very much better this morning, the dentist called to Gairloch having lance the abscess which caused his indisposition.

The date of his return to London, however, has not yet been fixed and the next meeting of the cabinet, whether it meets in London or Inverness depends upon the rate of his progress.

The receipt by Premier Lloyd George of Eamon De Valera's telegram of yesterday in which the Sinn Fein leader expressed the view that the peace negotiators should meet untrammelled by any conditions, "except those imposed by the facts as they know them," is considered to have brought about a change in the situation. It has opened up the possibility that the premier may reply to the communication before consulting his cabinet colleagues as he has announced his intention of doing before taking any further steps in connection with Irish affairs.

HAS PLAYED 99 GAMES WITHOUT MAKING ERROR

Poston, Sept. 17.—A hundred games without an error will be the fielding record of "Stuffy" McInnis, first baseman of the Red Sox, if he completes the first game of today's double header against Chicago without a misplay.

In the ninety-nine games he has played since May 30, when his previous run of thirty-two errorless games was broken, McInnis has accepted 1,030 chances, 990 of which were put outs and sixty-six assists.

His fielding percentage of 99.9 is two points better than the highest record for a season, that of Gandil, first baseman of the White Sox, in 1919.

The big Frenchman has been hitting .352 while Hornsby dropped five points but continued to top the batters with a mark of .401.

Hornsby increased his lead as a run getter, having scored 122 runs for his club. As a pitcher, the St. Louis star is giving great promise of overtaking George Kelly, of the Giants, who is out in front with 22 circuit smashes.

Frish A. Knococks of the Giants is leading in stolen bases with 47.

Other leading batters—Cuthash, Pittsburgh, .350; Roidis, Cincinnati, .348; McHenry, St. Louis, .346; Cruise, Boston, .341; Mauer, New York, .335; Smith, New York, .333; Frisch, New York, .332; Mann, St. Louis, .331.

BRUSSELS UNFITTED. Not Sited for World's Literature Depository.

London, Sept. 17.—The claims of Brussels Institute to be the repository of the world's literature were discussed at the Library Association Conference in Manchester, and divergent views were expressed. Stanley East, of Manchester, declared the Brussels Institute failed to overcome the fundamental difficulty of being a comparatively provincial capital, and that a world library would never approximately achieve its purpose unless housed in a great capital.

ORPHANAGE FAIR DAILY NEWS-LETTER NO. 2.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 17.

To the Protestants of N. B.—Greetings: Many people will quite naturally want to know the why and wherefore. The object or objective of this orphanage fair. How we purpose carrying on, as possibly as to why it is that so many factors or organizations have found it desirable to unite in one common cause, or why we should go so far afield with our appeal. To answer all of these questions satisfactorily would necessitate much more space than at our disposal in any one issue, in order to learn the details you will need to follow us from day to day.

As stated in our letter of yesterday, there are a large percentage of the children in our local institutions who come from points outside of the city, hence we feel justified in inviting the co-operation of every Protestant who feels disposed to assist in this worthy movement.

If there is any one question more than another which should be of interest to the Protestant people of New Brunswick it is that of caring for the homeless or parentless Protestant children of the province. This is a field of Christian endeavor which has been sadly neglected. While we have a number of small institutions, there are at all times a large waiting list of needy cases seeking admission, but for which there is no accommodation. One not conversant with this work might well say, why not increase the facilities? There are, I may say, very tangible reasons why this has not been done long before this, the chief of which is the apparent lack of action on the part of our people. We do not suggest that this is altogether due to lack of interest. In fact, we feel confident that there is a very decided interest burning in the hearts of many. All that is required is an opportunity to get together. Something to co-ordinate this latent force into action.

In this fraternal fair movement, we seek to create some such organization, an auxiliary force by which we can all get behind those engaged in carrying on this work, assisting them not only in paying off present indebtedness, but also to provide for the additional facilities which are so badly needed, but not possible under the present indifferent voluntary system of financing this work. We seek your co-operation in this.

See Monday's issue.—Editor Advertising Committee. 9-17

DALLAS JITNEYS RULED OUT.

The anti-jitney ordinance enacted by the city of Dallas, Texas, designed to stop jitney operation, has been upheld by the court of civic appeals. This ordinance eliminated the jitney from the business district of Dallas by prohibiting them within a prescribed zone, and since passengers were gathered and discharged mainly in the business district, the new ordinance effectively put them out of business. As to the claim of the jitneys that the ordinance was discriminatory in favor of the railway, the court denied such discrimination. It held that the railway was compelled to take measures to ensure the safety of passengers and pedestrians, that the railway could be held liable for any damage done, but that the jitney could not be so held as it had no financial backing.—Adv.

CHOOSE STRONG MEN

The people of Canada are going about the very serious business of choosing a new parliament. Looked at in its broadest aspect the aim should be to choose men of vision, of ability and the highest patriotic motives. The country is still young. It is vast in extent and its growth has been phenomenal. It stretches from coast to coast and its resources are boundless. It is a member of two leagues of nations, the one British and the other international. Its bark has been launched upon the sea of international as well as of national affairs, and the whole outlook has been changed as a result. Not so many years ago a number of scattered communities independent of each other concerned themselves with local affairs and local differences. Later they united, added to their boundaries and became a Dominion. Still the chief business was local in its aspect, although with an enlarged outlook came larger responsibilities. Then came the war, the new alignment of nations, the re-making of national boundaries in Europe, and the new relationship of Canada to the rest of the world.

Canada has entered upon a new era. The old things have indeed passed away, and the men who are to serve this country in a representative capacity at the national capital should be chosen from the ablest and the best of her sons. It is not a mere passing sensation, but an event of momentous importance when a democratic country chooses those to whom are to be delegated the administration of its affairs. It is not merely a question of high or low tariff or whether Tom Smith or Bill Jones will get the most votes in a particular constituency. There are grave matters to be dealt with in a large way. We have come out of the war with an immense debt. The Canadian people are not all of one race or creed, and there are elements of discord under any but the wisest leadership. To meet its heavy financial liabilities Canada must find markets and develop its resources for export trade. It has a railway problem of extreme and pressing importance. There is need of an influx of immigrants of the right sort to bring wealth into the country and to increase the business of its railways. There are pressing problems in education and public health. Economy in administration is never so necessary, and yet it must be combined with a bold policy of development of natural resources. There is something larger at stake than the mere success of a group or party. Groups and parties there will be, but the aim of them all should be to send to Ottawa their very best, confident that the assembled wisdom will not go far wrong in shaping policies and taking advantage of opportunities to advance the welfare of the nation. This is the first choice since the first parliament was held, and the next parliament will be good for had, as the people themselves in their several localities may choose. The house of commons is no place for a man who has no vision and no grasp of the larger issues at stake.

When we turn to the maritime provinces the need of choosing the best men is more obvious than in any other general election since confederation. The growth of the west has radically changed the relations of these provinces to the rest of Canada. Our representation at Ottawa is dwindling, theirs is growing. Into the west are pouring immigrants who know nothing and care nothing about the early history of the Dominion and the pledges of confederation. We are even told that the question of giving the natural resources to the western provinces is none of our business. Under such conditions these lower provinces should send their ablest and most fearless men to the capital to declare and maintain our rights.

There is also the question of transportation. Ontario and part of Quebec are very keen for the development of manufactures. Their manufacturers want a high tariff that would protect them from competition from abroad, and they uphold a railway freight rate policy that would prevent any competition from these provinces. Unless we can get the treatment in regard to freight rates that was promised at confederation, there can be no industrial development here, and this is another reason for urging that strong men be sent to parliament, who will not remain silent and see the interests of their own people sacrificed. Indeed, there should be when the new parliament is summoned a caucus of maritime province members regardless of party, in order that they might outline a policy in regard to matters particularly affecting these provinces, and present a solid front when these matters are under discussion.

This is no time for petty differences or personal ambitions. All party conventions should choose able men, so that whoever wins we may be sure that when maritime province interests are threatened there will be men on the floors of parliament with the ability and courage to present our case in the strongest possible manner.

The situation in Ireland has again taken on a more peaceful aspect. Negotiations may continue, and that is in the highest degree desirable.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The decision to hold in November in the city of Fredericton a convention of the school trustees of the province is one to be highly commended. The question of education becomes yearly of greater importance. Much progress has been made in regard to the character of school buildings, although there are still too many antiquated structures in country districts. The vision of higher taxes has a deterrent effect upon community zeal for better schools, and there are always some taxpayers who think almost anything is good enough so long as the children may be housed for the school period of the day. Nor has there been that measure of conference and co-operation between districts which would lead to uniformly better results. The convention in Fredericton, if the districts will see to it that delegates are sent, will undoubtedly give a needed stimulus to public interest in the schools, and the exchange of views and discussion of problems will be of lasting benefit. Many a trustee will go back to his district with a clearer vision of the relation of the local school to the community life, and a desire to make it function more effectively. They have such functions more in the west, and these have proved their usefulness. The task of a school board is not complete when it has engaged a teacher, and every teacher remembers with gratitude the member of the board who shows an active and continuous interest and sympathy with the work in the school room. In those localities where parent and teacher associations are formed the best results are obtained. Let us hope the convention in November will be taken advantage of by great number of the school districts from all the counties.

BACK IN THE FOLD.

The Standard has been purchased by a Conservative syndicate for a single purpose, and that is to provide the Meighen government with an organ in St. John. There is an end to all uncertainty. The pleasurable excitement of guessing what the Standard will say tomorrow, which has prevailed for some time past, has been brought to an abrupt end. Everybody now knows in advance what the Standard will say tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow—until the elections are over. It began this morning with a very mournful picture of the dreadful condition in which Canada finds herself (under the Meighen government), and adjures all patriots to rally to the standard of the re-vamped Meighen government and save the country from the leaderless Liberals, the "free traders" farmers, and all and sundry who do not see in Mr. Meighen and his colleagues the supermen of Canada. An Ottawa despatch to the Standard describes them as "some of the best parliamentary, administrative and business capacity of the country," "ministers of major capacity"—and so on. We are to be told next Tuesday who they are. This window-dressing is of course interesting and is what would be expected from a new and exceedingly zealous organ of the government. The reading public will nevertheless be disposed to ask themselves what the government has been doing to lift Canada out of the sad condition in which the Standard depicts her to be at present involved, and whether it is better to be guided by knowledge of past performances than by pre-election assurances of better conduct in the future. The guilty man on trial invariably renounces his sins and is frantically eager to give a demonstration, but he does not usually get the job back. A term in opposition might do wonders for Mr. Meighen and his followers. The experiment is too well worth trying to be ignored by the people.

BUMPING MR. WIGMORE

The St. Croix Courier says: "Recent despatches from Ottawa intimate that Hon. J. B. M. Baxter has accepted an invitation from Premier Meighen to become the representative of New Brunswick in his cabinet and that the invitation has been accepted. The announcement is the cause of general felicitation throughout the province among friends of the Meighen government." But what will the Courier say if Hon. Mr. Wigmore remains in the cabinet? He is receiving at the hands of his party friends much food for solemn reflection these autumn days.

The Courier also has a candidate for the provincial leadership in the event of Mr. Baxter's retirement. It says: "The name of one of the Charlotte county members, a resident of St. Stephen, comes readily to the front."

A boy of twelve has confessed that he caused the destructive fire in Annapolis because he wanted to see the hose turned on. Fire prevention should be a feature of the teaching in the schools, so that even the youngest may be impressed with the sense of personal responsibility and of the danger that lurks in the flames.

THE TOY BAND.

Dreary lay the long road, dreary lay the town,
Lights out and never a glint of moon.
Weary lay the stragglers, half a thousand and down,
Sad sighed the weary big dragon:
Ah! if I'd a drum here to make them
take the road again,
Oh! if I'd a fife to wheedle come,
boys, forget the road!
You that mean to fight it out, wake and
take your load again,
Fall in! Fall in! Follow the fife and drum!

Hey! but here's a toy-shop, here's a drum for me,
Penny whistles too to play the tune Half a thousand dead men soon shall hear and see
"We're a band!" said the weary big dragon.

"Rubadub! Rubadub! Wake and take
the road again,
Wheedle-deedle-deedle-dee. Come boys,
come!
You that mean to fight it out, wake and
take your load again,
Fall in! Fall in! Follow the fife and
drum!

As long as there's an Englishman to ask a tale of me,
As long as I can tell the tale aright,
Well not forget the penny whistles wheedle-deedle-dee.
And the big dragon a-beating down
the road again,
Rubadub! Rubadub! Wake and take
the road again,
Wheedle-deedle-deedle-dee. Come boys,
come.
You that mean to fight it out, wake and
take your load again,
Fall in! Fall in! Follow the fife and
drum!

LIGHTS VEIN.

No Silence.
Young 'un—I'm taking political economy at college.
Old 'un—That's a useless course. Why learn to monopolize in politics? It's not

With a Pointed Retort.
"Miss Tiddles, will you marry me? I would gladly die for you," offered the wealthy but aged suitor.
"Well, not just," quipped that practical twentieth-century maid.—Berkley Gar-ette.

No Heart.

"Have you no heart?" he asked.
The woman's eyes dimmed as if tears were on the horizon of her hopes. She had smiled perceptibly and the man read the message in her liquid orbs.
"I have no heart."
The appeal left him cold and the man shrugged his shoulders, nonchalantly.
With a grim look he shook his head slightly.
At the negative moment the woman's eyes stared hopelessly into space and something akin to a sigh escaped her dainty lips.
No heart! And she had foolishly believed that he possessed one. She felt crushed.
With a despairing gesture she watched the others take the trick. What is an absorbing game!

could supply the United States for 144 years.
Prices of more than half the automo-

Price reductions have ranged from 5 to 35 per cent.
Ohio has a registry of 667,000 motor vehicles.
A light automobile has been invented in France that can be made to jump over obstacles not more than three feet in Graphite is usually used in combination with oils and greases, although excellent substance for this purpose, but must be used with caution. Some manufacturers advise against its use on their cars as they claim it tends to clog up the small holes through which the oil must flow. Naturally their advice must be followed in such cases.

DANTE WAS GREAT STATESMAN ALSO

Completed His Divine Drama
After Retiring from Eventful Life—Regarded Almost as Saint in Italy.

(Toronto Mail and Empire)
Six hundred years ago, on September 13, Dante, perhaps the greatest of Italians, passed away. For some time it was believed that the event had taken place on the following day since it was only then that the news spread. And when it spread it cast a gloom over all the land. It cannot be said that Dante was neglected in his lifetime, but his lifetime was not wholly devoted to poetry.
He was a man of action as well as a man of reflection, and it was after his activities had ended that he retired from the great world to Ravenna where he completed his Divine Comedy and wrote some of the noblest passages in any literature. In Ravenna, too, he was buried, and not in Florence, his birthplace, a matter which has caused the finger of accusing it of neglecting its greatest son, but if there was neglect it has long since been atoned for, and as the centuries have passed, greater and greater has grown the estimate of Dante's position.
Inspiration of Statesmen.

His name is revered in Italy not only as a great poet but as a great statesman who long ago foresaw that some day Italy would be a united nation and not a congeries of contending cities. In his works Italian statesmen down to our own days found inspiration, for six hundred years ago politics and poetry were not divorced as they are today. This is probably because so much of the great poetry was inspired by religion and set forth rules of conduct and principles of government. Because of the towering nobility of Dante's poetic vision he was regarded in Italy almost as a saint, and for him were bestowed some of the honors that are bestowed only upon saints.

Holy Ground.
For example, on one occasion thieves tried to secrete themselves in Dante's tomb and thus escape the capital punishment which otherwise would have befallen them. They were seized, but pleaded that having once been in this consecrated spot they could not be punished. In those days the civil courts had judgment given was that "the resting place of the poet Dante's ashes is surely a sacred place and therefore can grant immunity to all who take refuge, but as the thieves have since then been carried away to an ordinary town jail they have lost all immunity and are subject, therefore, to penal punishment." From this it would appear that the sanctuary was only a temporary one and that as soon as the malefactors had left it for any reason they were subject to arrest.

A Profligate's Tributes.

There is another story told to illustrate the place that Dante holds in the hearts of his countrymen: A dirty, profligate youth, having gambled all night and lost all he possessed, not in the least of humor, wandered into the Church of St. Francis, and snatching one of the lighted tapers which burned before the crucifix, proceeded with it to Dante's tomb, and fastening it there, exclaimed,
"Keep this for yourself; you deserve it more than the other ones." Though he committed a sacrilege, public opinion condoned the offence since it so well expressed the attitude of the nation to the father of Italian language and literature.
Boccaccio, the father of the novel, was the first commentator of Dante, and a tremendous admirer of his genius, though condemned the admission that one saw little trace of the Divine Comedy in the Decamerone.

Buried in Ravenna.

When death came to Dante he was surrounded by his children who had accompanied him to Ravenna five years before. During his lifetime he had declared all honors which had not come to him from his beloved city, but with his death came honors from far and near.
His funeral was held with great pomp,
and the body was borne to the cemetery where it still remains. The tomb was renewed by the Venetian dominion, and the Venetian dominion, and it remains as a monument to the great poet of his time, who designed for the poet's tomb the floral relief and literature which adorn it at the present day.
A little later a chapel was added, and so the tomb remains, a shrine each year for hundreds of thousands of Italians as well as many thousands of others who recognize in Dante one of the great spirits of the world, whose fame continues to grow with the years.

zos, former premier of Greece, and Miss Helena Schilizzi, daughter of a Greek business man in London, were married at the registry office here on Wednesday. Mr. Venizelos is fifty-seven years of age, and his bride is ten years his junior.
The religious ceremony will take place at Highgate. After a fortnight's honeymoon in Brittany, the couple will start

"REALTOR" IS NEW WORD IN BUSINESS VOCABULARY

Canadians have now a new word to add to their vocabulary. It is "realtor," and has just been officially registered at the proper government department at Ottawa. It signifies a real estate agent, though all real estate agents are not realtors. Before anyone can use the name he must be a member of the Toronto Real Estate Board, or one of the other real estate organizations across the border.
R. B. Rice, president of the Toronto board, announced the registration of the term at a banquet held by Toronto realtors at the King Edward Hotel last night. "This board now holds it for the whole of Canada," he told the members,
"but we will issue it to other boards.
Any outside these boards, who infringe by using the term "will be proceeded against."

RECENT WEDDINGS

Graham-Boyle
A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Brendan's church, Dipper Harbor, Wednesday morning at 9.30, when Rev. W. J. Holland, with nuptial mass, united in marriage Gertrude, daughter of Mrs. Lucy and the late James Boyle, of Dipper Harbor, and Harry J., son of John Graham, of Musquash. The bride, who wore a tailored suit of navy blue with a hat to match and carried a bouquet of bridal roses, was attended by her sister, Kathleen, while Andrew Graham, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen.
The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome seal scarf, to the bride a cameo pendant, and to the groomsmen a pair of cuff-links.
The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, after which the happy couple left for a short trip. One their return they will make their home at Dipper Harbor. Many useful presents were received, including silver, cut glass and linen.
Ask for Minard's and take no other.

HELIGOLAND WOULD BELONG TO ENGLAND

Island/Seethes With Hatred of Germany, While British Demolition of Her Fortifications Ruins the Bathing Beach Business.

(By Allen Wilson Porterfield in New York Evening Post.)

Heligoland is the most remarkable pile of red and white sandstone and blue limestone in the world. It lies in the North Sea, twenty-eight miles from the mainland, and though inhabited by only three thousand people, it at present the scene of a popular uprising which, from the point of view of the political oasison, makes the Emerald Isle seem like a nursery of peace.

more than a stray boulder in the sea and a host of people that it involved. Though a small place, Heligoland has a big history. Its greatest length is just a mile, its greatest breadth less than a third of a mile, its average height 200 feet. Yet is on this rock sticking out of the sea that the pagan King Radbod once lived. Here Hertha, the most accomplished lady of Norse mythology, is said to have had her temple. And it was here that Willibrord first preached Christianity to such sea rovers as docked at the lower end of this little Gibraltar when the storms became too violent even for them.

Hence it is called "Heligoland," or "Holy Land," though reputable philologists today claim that its original name was Hallaglan, or "land of banks." Just how it is on a way to become known as "holigian land," for the spirit of discontent stalks abroad up there, where the Kaiser once poured 200,000 tons of concrete merely to have safe moorings for his heaviest guns.

Recent History of the Rock.

From 1807 to 1890 Heligoland belonged to England. In 1890 it was ceded to Germany in return for the African province of Witul. At the time no one knew whether Germany had traded a whole suit for a button or not.

Today it is a question on which every one can express an opinion. In 1892 it became a part of Schleswig-Holstein. Then it was that the Kaiser began to mix cement. Heligoland became in time the most renowned fortress in the world. Diesel motors drove fresh air into the subterranean gun beds and electricity did the rest.

An electric car carried island passengers from one end to the other, the other elevators took officers who came direct from the chief of staff's office in Berlin up and down through the three stories, while off at the lower end was the spacious hotel in which the summer visitors lived, to the number of about twenty thousand a season, who came to enjoy one of Europe's best bathing beaches.

Then came August 1, 1914. Without a moment's notice the natives, who speak a Frisian dialect that only they can understand, were packed up and shipped to Hamburg, where they were obliged to stay for nearly five years. The island became what Capri and Hohenlohe had known it would some day become—the most advanced and most powerful of German forts. What it cost the Allies during the war no man can tell. Suffice to say England would possibly have been willing, in 1914 or the following years, to pay all her African possessions, with a special bonus attached to Witul, for having that little rock again.

November 11, 1918, the Heligolandians were shipped back from Hamburg to their ruined homes in the sea. The trouble began then and there. The property owners sent in their claims against the Prussian government and have thus far received, on their own accounts, nothing but notes that are not legal tender. Moreover, they have been obliged to pay taxes, a diversion in which they had not indulged, since Heligoland belonged to mythological peoples.

"Disarmament" Enrages Them.

And worst of all is the task of disarmament. Marshal Foch handed the Germans a brief out in the Compiègne Forest on November 9 which informed the sovereigns of Heligoland that their pet rock must be rendered innocuous. The Treaty of Versailles told how this was to be done. The English admiralty undertook the job. We have the impression—indeed, newspapers have told us—that Heligoland is already completely dismantled. The English, who are doing the work, however, claim—and they should know—that it cannot possibly be completed before 1923. It has to be done as carefully as a dentist prepares a tooth for a filling. If a great mine could be exploded in the interior that would blow the guns out into the sea it would all be quite simple; you would not even have to pick up loose pieces of scrap iron. But do this and the whole island will be split. And (we might as well be frank about it) that is not desirable even in this age of disarmament, for in naval warfare Heligoland is a tough nut to crack. Then there are the Danes, who have protested against the wholesale destruction of Heligoland, for their fishermen must have a port to tie up to when the gale comes.

The natives, who now claim that they never suspected they were living on the top of such instruments of destruction, are piqued at this long drawn out work of disarmament. The noise, dirt and

TENDER CARE FOR SICK CHILDREN

One Hundred Spent Happy Summer—Now Back in Hospital.

(Toronto Telegram.)

The good ship "John Hanlan" brought in a precious load to Bay street wharf this morning. One hundred little folks were returning to the Hospital for Sick Children after a summer spent at the Lakeside Home at the Island. They presented a decided improved appearance to the little white faced patients who left the city a few months ago. Checks were sun-tanned and had a hint of rose-color, and some of them were so well that they fairly skipped ashore. Each one had a top or book. One little chap was eager to try his crutches up the gang plank alone, but he was willing to be helped by Lawrence Solman, who was on hand to see that all went well for the little ones while in care of the Ferry Co.

blankets, and strapped to stretchers. They would smile up trustfully to the men who lifted them into the cars, and who were so careful that no jar should increase their pain. Miss Potts, superintendent, saw to it that a nurse or a doctor went in every car.

George Howard was the most favored of the little ones, for he had his own daddy to carry him ashore, and mother was there, too, with the new baby that George hadn't seen before. The doctor stretched and its precious burden was just a little heavy for a man who had been hurt in the war.

Clarence was quite the pet of the party. He looked adorable in his pink rompers, and he could salute both in a military and in a naval fashion. Simon was taking eagerly to the boys on either side of him, and nurse whispered that two years ago Simon couldn't speak a word of English, and now he talks just like any other little Canadian boy. He is an Indian and came to hospital from a Hudson's Bay post away up in Northern Ontario.

Unemployment—Freight Rates — and the Railways

THE indicator of true prosperity is employment. The presence of unemployed men, unemployed machinery, unemployed railway equipment and unemployed capital in Canada is reason enough therefore for every large Canadian business interest to study its relation to the general problem—to see whether anything in its power remains to be done to advance the general prosperity of the country.

IN this connection the railway companies have been specially interested. Freight rates touch everyone and because they touch everyone, are always close to the public consciousness and more conveniently attacked than the true causes of depression which are less easily discerned and more difficult, if not indeed impossible to control.

Freight Rates and Unemployment

With a large part of the world's population idle, or only partially efficient owing to wars or disturbed political conditions—with inventors in many parts of the world almost afraid to expose their inventions, organizers afraid to organize, capital hesitating to invest—a corresponding portion of world production is missing. The total of goods available for the world is less than normal. Those who do not produce—speaking generally—cannot buy. Few purchasers—few sales; few sales do little employment. This is the great world-wide fundamental of the unemployment situation.

This condition is international, not local to Canada. If Canadian railway rates were a determining factor in making the sale prices of our export goods, in other words if Canadian prices were higher in international markets than the goods of our competitors, then railway rates would be contributing to unemployment in Canada by depressing our sales abroad, lowering the number of our customers and the orders coming to our producers.

But in the first place the real effect of freight rates on price-making is a debatable point. This is proven:

- (1) By the fact that prices fell last fall after the rates were increased instead of rising as the retail firms had prophesied.
- (2) By the fact that a 10 per cent. reduction on western coal rates, offered in order to stimulate coal movement in the summer months, was followed by a drop in the coal tonnage offering instead of an increase.

In the second place, assuming for the purposes of argument they did have serious effect, Canadian export rates are lower and not higher than the rates in countries with which Canada may be compared. Mile for mile the haul from western Canadian point to the end of navigation is cheaper than in the United States. The export rate on grain is lower than it was last August.

In other words, in international competition on her chief items of export Canada is helped by her railway rates. So far as international trade is concerned, they are alleviating unemployment rather than aggravating it.

Inside Canada the same is true, although it is a very difficult point to prove or disprove, the railways of Canada are sincere in claiming that, by and large, goods are carried more cheaply in Canada than in the United States. Canada had one blanket reduction of 5 per cent. last January, whereas there is still no decrease, nor immediate prospect of a blanket decrease in the United States.

The Trend of Freight

With the exception of war and post-war conditions—the whole tendency of freight rates in this country, as in any other progressive country of its kind, is downward. As Canada's population rises, as our industries multiply and the density of traffic becomes more nearly like that of older countries, some of the principal costs of railway service can be subdivided among number of shippers and travelers, levying on each, therefore, a smaller fraction of these costs than before. For twenty years prior to the war, traffic was on the increase. For twenty years, therefore, the railways have been adjusting rates downward—quite apart from special decreases put in effect by the board of railway commissioners. These revisions have been skillfully applied by experienced, practical economists—that is, by the freight traffic experts of the railways, whose business it is to know all branches of industry intimately, so that the benefit of these voluntary rate adjustments would go to "Key commodities," thus stimulating further growth of the country, increase in traffic, and in the end further reductions of rates. The difference between giving a reduction to a "Key industry" rather than spreading over all kinds of goods is illustrated in the case of a certain small railway which by concentrating rate reductions on Lumber enabled the mills of that region to remain open and the people to remain at work, whereas if the effect of the reductions had been scattered over all the goods carried by that road each family would have been able to save a small handful of silver in a year,—(provided the decreased rates had been passed on as decreased prices by storekeepers)—but there would have been almost no employment.

So much for the day to day reductions arranged on thousands of articles by the traffic departments of the roads. In 1907 a substantial reduction in eastern rates was made. In 1914 a very material cut was applied in the west. So that the transcontinental lines entered the war period with a depressed earning power.

See the desirability for low freight rates, there are certain limits beyond which no one urges reductions. Of course there are theorists such as Mr. Bernard Shaw, who believed that all railway service should be free. But leaving aside views so far in advance, as yet of public opinion it is assumed by most people that a railway will give best service at least cost—because, of course, even free railways must be paid for by the tax payer—when their managements are allowed to show their mettle by meeting the obligations of their properties out of their earnings. It is usefully recognized that these obligations fall in to two groups.

Group one—To pay their employees; to pay for current supplies of materials such as coal, etc.; to pay for repairs and replacement.

Group two—To pay such a wage or hire for the use of the capital which built these railways as will make Canadian Railway securities always desirable, and easily marketed whether as bonds or stocks. This involves more than the mere payment of the established rate of dividend in the case of privately owned roads. It involves the earning also of some surplus—a safety margin of income over expenditure, which will assure investors of complete safety. This principle of a surplus was definitely established by the judgement of the board of railway commissioners in 1914 under the chairmanship of Sir Henry Drayton—and upheld by its judgement of 1920, when the matter was again considered exhaustively. On this principle rests Canada's ability to enter the money markets wherever she may need and feel confident of bringing back funds for extending her railways as she may require in the future.

War conditions, following the western and eastern rate adjustments brought the railway managements sharply up against these fundamental problems. Comparing the government's figures for 1907 against 1919—the last year for which the railway blue book is available—the wage bill of the railways rose 306 per cent.; coal, 345 per cent.; ties, 320 per cent. But neither the volume of traffic or the scale of freight rates increased in comparable degree during that period. The actual revenue per ton per mile (which is the real proof or disproof of the matter) advanced only 20 per cent. over 1907. The year 1920 enlarged the discrepancy, although an increase of 35 per cent. on western lines and 40 per cent. in the east was supposed to yield enough additional revenue to meet the increased wages. The increased wages were effective from May 1—the increased rates not until September 1. The effectiveness of that increase depended on the volume of traffic remaining at a fairly high level. It did so for a time, then began to drop. Today it is very low, nevertheless a 5 per cent. decrease was applied in January.

FURTHERMORE, the railways while joining with everyone else in the general agitation for deflation of prices and wages—found themselves recently in the seemingly anomalous position of demurring when it was proposed to lower railway rates. They were made to appear as though they were endeavoring with one hand to put wages down and with the other hand to keep rates up, thereby securing for their own treasuries instead of passing on to the Canadian public, any saving effected on the wage rolls. They were placed in the equivocal position of having urged blanket increases of rates when wages went up—and of opposing blanket decreases when wages were seemingly decreased.

THE following statement is offered, therefore, with a view to expediting what the railways believe to be the true relation of railway freight rates to the question of unemployment, outlining the history of Canadian rates, explaining something of the ground-work of ratemaking and clearing up the seeming anomalies, so that none may remain as possible causes for future weakening of confidence between the public and the carriers.

For the first six months of 1921 as compared to the first six months of 1920 the volume of traffic on the most fortunately situated Canadian road fell 26.72 per cent. And its revenue on this business, in spite of the higher rates, fell 11.14 per cent.

The net result of these changes has been a state of emergency in the offices of even the most fortunately situated of all Canadian roads. Wages could be paid on bills met on time. Even the usual dividend was paid and a very slight surplus—one of the factors in maintaining the reputation of Canadian railways securities, was earned, but this was only done by refusing work that must long be continued without eating too far into the broad safety margin which the Canadian roads maintain. Nothing but slackened speed of trains and reduced Canadian industrial efficiency can result if these savings have to be long continued. Falling traffic still further aggravates the conditions. Maintenance cannot continue to be sacrificed to protect the credit of our railway securities. Neither can be neglected.

In May the managements approached the task of reducing their wage bills. For the first time in many years it was managements and not the men who were taking the initiative. They had been forced to adopt the war-time increases granted in the United States—where 92 per cent. of the membership of the railway unions lie. Therefore when the reverse movement was undertaken in that country the Canadian roads at once gave due notice and a provisional and conditional decrease of roughly 10 per cent.—corresponding to the same movement in the United States—was put in effect, tentatively, as from July 15. This reduction has not been accepted by the United States membership of the unions, where a vote is being taken on the question—nor by the Canadian membership, who have applied for a board of conciliation. Every resource of the managements will be used to sustain this imperatively necessary and only too moderate reduction of their wage bills—which account for 60 per cent. cost of operation—they are compelled to regard the matter as still unsettled and therefore not to be considered as a basis for the reduction of railway rates—a view which a majority of the board of railway commissioners has just expressed in its judgement.

In Conclusion

The railway managements welcome deflation of railway rates and are working steadily toward that end. On two grounds, however, they asked that any general decrease be deferred.

First—Because the so-called wage decreases are not yet assured and cannot be until the parallel decreases in the United States where 92 per cent. of the union membership lies (and where no general freight rate reductions have been ordered) are settled.

Second—Because the volume of traffic in the immediate future is problematical and any serious decline, if coupled with a decrease in rates, would have very grave effect on even the most favorably situated managements.

The railways have spoken against blanket decreases on the grounds that it would be in the interests of the country as a whole to concentrate any beneficial effect to be expected on "key commodities" rather than distribute them over all classes of goods, thereby benefiting only the distributors.

They have been actuated throughout by the desire to assist in the process of deflation—objecting only when that process might seem to threaten their solvency and injure them—and through them—the ultimate interests of the Canadian public.

THE PARACHUTE IS THE THING TODAY
City Boys Find 'tween Season Pleasure in Imitating Thriller of the Exhibition.
It does not take the juvenile mind long to seize hold of some new diversion and convert it into a source of amusement and sometimes of unconscious but nevertheless profitable education. The latest development by the young idea is the parachute. With back lot baseball games put on ice through the opening of the school term and the hour of daylight sliced off the tail end of the day by the reversion to standard time, the youth of the city cast its eye about for some means of filling in the brief spaces which sandwiched between school hours, supper, lessons and sleep. Literally it came "out of the blue."
With the exhibition came Bonnette, the intrepid balloonist, and the sight of the man dropping gently to earth from a great height, eased down as it were by a very simple parachute arrangement. Click! The idea registered. Then started the fuss. Many a mother's work bag was besieged for that odd piece of cotton, pieces of string, weights and all sorts of odds and ends found resting places in those store-rooms of odd assortments—boys' pockets, scissors were piled and knives were tied; back yards, wood sheds, front door steps and corner lots were veritable hives of industry.
And today, go where you will, you will find a section from father's discarded summer shirt, or maybe the fag end of the material that went into little sister's new school dress or even baby's rompers, drifting gracefully to the street or tangled in some of those object-less trees, wires, or poles which thoughtless people will erect in the streets to hamper "us boys" in our play.
If the grown-up public cannot appreciate the equipment which young lads will take of the casual things that drift across their horizon, they can at least recognize the readiness with which their receptive minds will absorb an idea and imitate it. And this recognition should at least spur the big generation to demonstrate to the coming generation only those things which will be to their advantage in later years.

SUSSEX WEDDING OF MUCH INTEREST
Miss Kathleen K. Kirk Becomes Bride of B. M. MacAlary of Van Buren.
Sussex, N. B., Sept. 17.—An interesting event will take place at three o'clock today in Trinity church, when Rev. Canon Shewen will unite in marriage Miss Kathleen Kilgour, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Kirk, and Burton Marten MacAlary of Van Buren, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. MacAlary of Andover. The chancel of the sacred edifice is beautifully decorated with plants and cut flowers by the girl friends of the bride. Miss Jean E. Allison will preside at the organ and a full choir will present and sing appropriate nuptial music.
The bride, who will be given away by her father, will wear a lovely gown of white satin embroidered with pearls, a court train of satin falling from the shoulders, and a tulle bridal veil caught to the coiffure with orange blossoms enveloping the figure of the bride. A bouquet of sweet heart roses will be carried.
Miss Grace Kirk, sister of the bride, will be bridesmaid and she will be gowned in white silk, veiled with net and over blouse of rose silk. She will wear a smart hat of white satin and carry a bouquet of sweet peas.
A. K. Shivers of Campbellton will perform the duties of best man. The ushers will be A. J. Perkins and Eldon Robinson. While the bridal party are signing the register the choir will sing "O Perfect Love." After the ceremony at the church a reception will be held at the family residence in Main street, to which only immediate relatives and intimate friends of the bride have been invited. Later Mr. and Mrs. MacAlary will leave by motor for Crawford Lake where they will spend their honeymoon, after which they will go to Van Buren where they will reside.
Both young people are very popular. The bride, who is a clever young lady, is a graduate of the U. N. B. and has been an efficient teacher on the staff of the Campbellton High School for the last few years. The groom was at one time connected with the Sussex Mercantile Co. and has many friends here who wish him and his charming bride many years of happiness.
The out of town guests here for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. H. MacAlary of Andover, A. K. Shivers of Campbellton, Miss Marguerite Adams of Hampton, George P. Kirk of Moncton, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Kirk of Bath, N. B.

NEED NEW SET OF INSTRUMENTS AFTER 33 YEARS
City Cornet Band Also Plans for New Uniforms— A Pleasing Incident of 1889 Recalled.
On Christmas eve of this year it will be thirty-three years since the City Cornet band received the fine set of instruments with the music from which it has been delighting the citizens on so many public occasions. The instruments have fine yeoman service, exceeding their guarantee by thirteen years, but the band now feels that the time has come when they must be replaced if the organization is to keep up the high standard it has attained. That will be the main object of the annual fall fair of the band and round the world prize drawing announcement of which will be forthcoming before long.
The present set of instruments, triple silver plated and, as they proved of excellent tone, were landed in St. John on Christmas eve in the year 1888. They came from a celebrated firm of makers, F. Beason & Co. of London, England, and were made expressly to the band's order and it was the contention of the firm that they were the finest set of instruments in existence in the world at that time. They replaced a set which had been purchased in 1878 from Joseph Higham of Manchester, England.
The band desired to have the new Besson set on exhibition for Christmas Day and with some difficulty they were got out of the cargo of the ship and were placed on display in the windows of I. J. D. Landry & Co. in King street, where they were admired by all who saw them.
January 22 of the following year was made the occasion of a grand concert and a presentation of the instruments to the band on behalf of the subscribers to the fund raised for their purchase. The concert was held in the principal public hall of the day and which was burned down some few years ago. A large number of people assembled for that evening and enjoyed an excellent programme given by prominent entertainers of the day. The formal presentation of the new set was made by His Worship Mayor H. J. Thorne, in a very pleasing address, in which he highly complimented the band on what they had already done and wished them good fortune for the future.
The band used the new set at this concert and among the selections they played were the Processional March, Silver Trumpets and Gems from The Bohemian Girl and Mariana. Everybody was delighted with the new band instruments. Among others who took part in the programme were the Orpheus quartette; Mrs. I. J. D. Landry, who sang "What Would I Do Love"; Miss L. McCarron and J. V. Lantaulu, who sang a duet, "Life's Dream is Over"; Andrew T. Moore, whose solo in the "Margarita"; Mrs. Perley, who delighted all with "The Irish Emigrant"; P. Walter Lantaulu, whose deep basso filled the hall in "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep"; the Misses McCarron, who sang a duet, "O Restless Sea"; Miss Clara Quinton, another popular singer of the day, whose number was "Surely"; and H. G. Mills who sang "Ballyhood." There were also cornet solos by Prof. C. H. Williams and violin numbers by Prof. J. M. White.
There were twenty-two members active in the band at that time—C. H. Williams was bandmaster; D. J. Galvan, B. MacGowan, J. Sullivan, C. Hazel, J. McMahon, J. Coholan, M. Madigan, Frank X. MacHill, W. J. Higgins, Patrick Higgins, P. MacGourty, Michael Higgins, R. Maddigan, F. J. McDevitt, F. O. Leary, James Connolly, J. Murphy, Robert McCarthy, William J. Connolly, P. Quinn and W. J. McManus.
It was with these instruments that the band went to Chicago to the world's fair and made such a marked impression. It is also the band's hope to get new uniforms and if all goes well, as is desired, next summer should see the popular musical organization practically new except in personnel and playing ability.

NOVELTY SHOWER.
A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Storey 352 Britain street last night where a novelty shower was tendered. Miss Blanche M. Warren. Many gifts were received including silver ware, cut glass, and many other useful articles. The remainder of the evening was spent in honor of a happy event which took place a year ago. During the evening dinner napkins were presented by Mrs. C. N. Northrop, an honorary member, on behalf of the class, with many good wishes for the years to come. Other friends called during the evening, and a very beautiful bouquet was sent by Mrs. E. McManus. Refreshments were served by the young hostess, assisted by Miss Stella McManus and Sylvia Hamm.

MALABAR RIOTS FOLLOW CUSTOM

Revolt of Moplahs is Intermittent—Land a Part of the East of Tradition and Dreams.

"Malabar, scene of rioting, is an India of human frictions, but otherwise an India of quiet backwaters, of luxuriant vegetation, of crocodiles, tigers, leopards, and wild elephants—the east of traditions and dreams," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society of the region where British forces are trying to restore order.

"The Moplahs of Malabar number about 1,000,000. Most of them are descendants of Arab traders who landed on the west coast in the ninth century, although some are descended from converts of Hinduism and other indigenous Mohammedan groups.

This small region, shut in between the towering mountains and the blue sea, perfumed with spices and rich with food, is the last place that one would look for rebellion or organized revolt. But the Moplahs, who sell their lives dearly and are type which delight the reader of adventure and harass the police and soldiery, are once more rallied beneath the green flag, which the followers of the Prophet once carried to Spain and to the gates of Vienna. Time and again they have revolted against the Hindus, and so fierce is their fanaticism, that native bayonets have been useless against them. In 1890, two years after the arrival of Vasco de Gama, on his famous voyage which established a new trade route to the East, a Portuguese factory was destroyed by the Moplahs, or Mopilas, and the inmates murdered. This led to a bombardment of Calicut by Portuguese men-of-war. (Calicut is not to be confused with Calcutta.)

Have Long Riot Record.

"For nearly a century, the peace of Malabar has been periodically disturbed by these fanatical Moslems. Since 1851, a detachment of British infantry has been stationed at Malayapuram, and attacks made against this group were repulsed some days ago. In 1873, the Moplahs started a serious outbreak at Calicut, the French settlement of Mabe and Cannanore, on its way to the south Kanara district.

from which they were routed by the use of dynamite. In 1894 a gang of thirty-five Moplahs at Mannamkatt were dispersed by howitzer fire, and in 1896 a hundred men were shot in Manjeri, a village of 4,000 in Ernadtaluk, which had been the scene of an earlier Moplah outrage in 1849.

"Malabar is a narrow coastal plain 150 miles in length from north to south, fronting on the Arabian Sea on the European side of India and backed by the western Ghats, 3,000 to 9,000 feet high and from twenty to sixty miles from the coast. The only break in the mountain wall is at Palghat Gap, sixteen miles wide, through which the railway enters the otherwise segregated region. The railway line divides at Shoranur, near the Pennani River, one fork turning south to Cochin and the other north to Mangalore, passing through Calicut, the French settlement of Mabe and Cannanore, on its way to the south Kanara district.

"Just now Malabar is being swept by the southwest monsoon which discharges heavy rains along the coast and turns the short rivers that cut the seaward face of the western Ghats into rushing torrents.

Everglades Cut by Canals.

"Along the coast there is a narrow everglade region made up of backwaters and lagoons, many of which are connected by canals which are an important feature in the communications of the region. Here the flora is varied and luxuriant, but malaria is common. Game animals are numerous among the foothills. The uplands are heavily wooded in most parts. They consist of precipitous peaks with dark green ravines in which silver streams descend in numerous waterfalls, all uniting to form scenes of unrivalled beauty. Malabar is the most beautiful, the richest and most fertile district of Madras Presidency.

"One hundred and fifty miles of the mainland, but included in the Malabar political district, are the hundred thousand islands of the Laccadives.

"Malabar has never known famine, and floods are rare. Trade once distinguished the region and was carried on with the Phoenicians, with the Jews under Solomon, the Seleucid Syrians, the Ptolemaic Egyptians, the traders of Imperial Rome, the Arabs, and the Italians, whose argosies, representing Venice, Florence, and Genoa, once anchored within the shifting mudbanks which provided calm roadsteads as Calicut, Quilandi, and Cochin. Later came the Portuguese, the Dutch, and the French. Then the English, who secured a monopoly of the trade in spices and sandalwood for which the coast was famed. The Maratha pirates, who infested the coast, were vanquished by the English a score of years before the Declaration of Independence turned their attention from the eastern to the western world."

Humanitarian Work Retarded by Superstitions of the Populace—Dr. Mackellar's Views.

(Montreal Gazette.)

Reminiscences of thirty years of missionary endeavor in India on behalf of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society of Canada, together with intimate pictures of Indian social, religious and political life, formed the outstanding theme of a lecture given in Chalmers' Presbyterian church, Verdun, by Dr. Margaret Mackellar, previous to sailing for Bombay to undertake her fifth term of service in spreading the Christian Gospel in Central India.

In opening her address, Mr. Mackellar held of the progress made during the last thirty years re-establishing missions in Central India. She outlined in detail the encouraging increase in the number of churches, hospitals, dispensaries, schools and colleges, under the aegis of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society. The speaker drew a picture of the progress made at Neenuch, in Central India, where she has been stationed, describing the growth of a small settlement into a large mission, which includes a church, a hospital, a dispensary and a school capable of accommodating two hundred children. Dr. Mackellar devoted particular attention to the building of the present Presbyterian church in Neenuch, which was erected entirely at the expense of Indian converts, who showed the sincerity of their devotion to their new faith by contributing no less than one-tenth of all they earned. Eleven such churches now exist in the district, as well as six hospitals—all the work of the mission. Converts to the Christian religion are in addition being trained to spread the faith among their brethren in their own theological colleges, while further missionary work is being carried on in the villages through Sunday schools, sewing circles, and organizations of boy scouts and girl guides.

Humanitarian Work.
Dr. Mackellar told of the humanitarian work being accomplished by the hospitals and dispensaries in Central India in the treatment of the innumerable sufferers from almost every known disease, the country being afflicted with all the maladies of western Europe and numerous Oriental ones besides. The lecturer drew a vivid sketch of the appalling misery of the hundreds of thousands of sufferers throughout the country, who die from curable diseases, partly from refusal to take treatment which would violate their religious tenets, and partly on account of the great dearth of medical attendance, despite the best efforts of the authorities and foreign missions.

The speaker appealed to those with medical experience to volunteer for missionary work in India. She declared that whereas in the Province of Ontario there was one doctor for every 700 people, in Central India there were only eight doctors for 3,000,000 souls.

Present Conditions.
Speaking of the present-day conditions in India, the lecturer said that the mass of the people in the villages and hills were not disaffected as the result of the anti-British propaganda spread by agitators. Those who had responded to the efforts of extremists were students and townsmen. Some of the agitators wanted great autonomy in the management of Indian affairs, with an eye to the incumbency of responsible and remunerative administrative posts. Progress had been made toward allowing the Indians a greater measure of home rule, said Dr. Mackellar, especially in the departments of education and sanitation—although this course might bring undesirable results.

Dr. Mackellar concluded with an appeal for the support of missionary work in India, which, she said, would never break the bonds of superstition and backwardness until the Gospel of Christ had been propagated among the country's millions.

Dr. Mackellar is a graduate in medicine of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. She is the holder of the Indian decoration "Kaiser I Hind," conferred at the great Durbar at Delhi, which she was commanded to attend by His Majesty King George V.

BUSINESS RALLY IS ON THE WAY

Retailers Throughout Ontario Stocking Up Months Before Orders Had Been Expected.

(Toronto Telegram.)

That the end of the economic depression from which this country has suffered for two years is closer at hand by several months than has all summer been anticipated, is the sober opinion of Exhibition officials, who expect a return to normal merchandising conditions throughout the province has not been expected until next spring. Now it is expected early this fall.

According to the statements of exhibitors who, throughout the two weeks of the fair, were in the closest possible personal touch with retailers from all over Ontario, these retailers are commencing now to replenish stocks that have been in a state of depletion or partial depletion for a year or more. "The retailer is buying!" is the good word. "And when the retailer buys the manufacturer resumes production."

1921 Slogan is Justified.
This is true in practically all departments of the industrial and commercial sections of the fair, said Manager J. G. Kent this morning. The fair slogan, "Business is Good," has been more than justified.

L. L. Taylor, superintendent of exhibits, this morning was in the most cheerful mood possible when reviewing the trade prospects as revealed by his department.

"We have what is known as the Manufacturers' Sales Privilege, which is extended to exhibitors for a $100 fee in addition to their rentals," he said.

"There were 80 per cent more of the selling-on-the-grounds privileges sold this year than last; and the wholesalers who exhibit here and take orders as well, report that they have done more business in the past few weeks than in their history as exhibitors. The stores of the province are low on stock. Right now merchants are beginning to remedy that condition, which is a matter of fact, old exhibitors, who never before took out the sales privilege, did so this year."

Orders Rushed by Wire
Confirmation of this was obtained at first hand from Mr. Fullerton, of the Fullerton Publishing Co., who was close in touch with the musical instrument displays at the exhibition. He said: "All the exhibitors in this branch noted at the opening that things seemed to break the rush began and we finished with more business done than in any former year. Customers displayed the greatest cheerfulness and optimism. And what is most significant of all is the fact that since the end of the fair wholesale dealers in musical instruments in Toronto are being deluged by dealers over Ontario with telegraphed orders for stock. They are not waiting to write. They want stock now."

All Along the Line
Mr. Taylor says that auto dealers reported to him many sales and the best year they have had. This is particularly true in electrical devices state that last year was the best up till then and that this year is much better still. The host of miscellaneous exhibitors under the grand stand report the best year in their history, and already there are more applications for space there for next year than can be filled.

Dealers in household furnishings also report a banner year. Furnishings of all sorts are in demand over Ontario and it was remarked that Toronto householders were keen after coal burning stoves to attach to gas ranges.

The machinery hall, which does not usually make a strong appeal to the general public, was patronized by more visitors this year than usual.

Quebec Manufacturers
In this connection Mr. Taylor pointed out that Quebec manufacturers, especially of farm implements and machinery, have taken a greater interest in the fair this year than formerly, and a larger proportion of exhibits from the lower provinces has been the result. Two manufacturers of threshing machines, who never exhibited before, had exhibits this year.

Interest in Cattle Breeding
"Business is good," was the emphatic declaration of Exhibition President Robert Fleming. "It is particularly noticeable that more of the prize-winning cattle have been sold than is usual. This indicates that owners of small thoroughbred herds are building them up to larger proportions and that non-breeders of yesterday are getting into the game. Therefore, business must be good. Reports that have come to me from all sources have all been to the same effect."

Going to Vancouver.
In this connection The cottage hospital, owned by Dr. J. U. Burnett, has been sold to Alex. Jamieson, Clover Hill. Mr. Jamieson will reside in Sussex. It is Dr. Burnett's intention to remove to Vancouver.

Your Boy's Future

What are his chances for a good start in life? Of course you have plans for him. It is easy, however, to think of what you intend to do for your boy, but what if your plans should fail? Do not overlook the fact that ordinary plans are dependent upon you being here to carry them out.

You can make sure of your boy's future—you can put your entire plan for him into immediate effect.

The Canada Life offers a simple and convenient way by means of a small yearly deposit, through the

"Vocational Endowment"

which is arranged to mature when you think it will be most needed by your boy. In this way $1,500, $2,000, $5,000, or more, is sure to be ready for his first serious step in life, whether you are here or not. This plan, of course, applies equally well to your Daughter's future.

Our New Plan

1st—The Vocational Endowment Fund is guaranteed in cash at the time selected by you.

2nd—In the event of your death, no further deposits are required and the fund will be paid at the time selected.

3rd—All deposits will be returned with 3½ per cent. compound interest if the child should die, providing such a sum does not exceed the amount of the endowment, or, if desired, the benefits of the policy may be transferred to another child.

There are many other valuable features which will be explained in full on request.

Do Your Part Without Delay

The uncertainties of life call for immediate action. A yearly deposit which is very small in proportion to the Fund guaranteed enables you to make sure, absolutely, whether you live or die, that your Boy's future is assured.

COSTS PROHIBIT COMPETITION BY U. S. VESSELS

Standards of Living Higher—Large Crews and Greater Wages are Necessary While Expenses Increase.

(New York Post)

One of the subordinate points in the problem of building up an American merchant marine, but one of which the shipping man has to give very practical consideration, is the question of where the crews are to be found to man the ships.

Ordinarily his general remarks about the greater cost of operating American ships, as compared with foreign vessels. He speaks of the American standards of living as one of the reasons for high costs and leaves the impression that the shipping man who goes a little deeper in the subject and then the problem becomes more acute.

Another operator says: "If half of the Shipping Board's fleet were disposed of in some way, so that the ships were no longer any concern of this country, we might manage by pooling all the crews of the entire fleet to get competent men to man half the ships we had left."

Then one comes to a ship owner, a man whose various lines represent an investment of many millions of dollars. "Shipping," he says, "is an international business. It is not a business that can be confined within the limits of one country and flourish on lines laid down by that country and according to the standards of that country. It is a business that has to go out and meet the competition of the world and according to the standards of its competitors."

"American shipping can't meet international competition because our costs are too high. And our costs are higher than those of our competitors because our laws compel us to carry a larger personnel on our ships than other countries have to and because our standards of living are higher. Our people of every class, beginning with the laborer, live a little better, and the people in the class in any other country in the world. The distinction is especially marked in the laboring class, and it is there that the ship's crews come from. Consequently we have to pay better wages to our sailors."

"But there is another way in which our standards of living operate against our shipping business and effect it more severely than the rate of wages. We can't get the crews. We couldn't get competent American crews if we had the Shipping Board fleet even if we could afford to pay the wages in competition with other countries."

"There is no inducement for an American boy to go to sea. He can't see anything ahead of him by going to sea. Ambition is part of the American standard of living. An American boy is not content to be a shoemaker because his father and his grandfather before him were shoemakers. Trades don't run in families for generation after generation in this country. The American boy wants to get out and start something and get somewhere."

"Perhaps the American boy's father was a sailor. But the boy himself sees that his father worked for wages all his life, while the money was made by the man who stayed on shore and owned and operated the ships. The boy may want to go into the shipping business, but he doesn't want to go into it as a sailor. He wants to be the owner and operator of a ship."

"And that is the big handicap that our American standards are to our shipping business. Ambition is planted in every American boy's heart, and he can see a thousand opportunities on shore for one at sea. We've got to pay a lot of money in wages to overcome that handicap."

"The only place we've been able to make our shipping business pay for many years has been in the coasting trade, and that is because our coasting trade is thoroughly protected. Foreigners can't get in on it to compete with us."

"If we could get the same protection in our overseas trade, we might make it pay. But we can't get it. The farmer is against us. There is no use in the shipping man going to Washington and saying to Congress, 'A hundred years ago, when our shipping was pro-

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA
Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON
New Rockland, P. Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered during it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me."

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a few days the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about 'Fruit-a-tives' for I know how they must suffer."

"Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

Mother Why Don't You Take Nuxated Iron
And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable All The Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?—The Doctor Gave Some to Susie Smith's Mother and She Was Over Of Than You are and Now She Looks Just Fine.

NUXATED IRON WILL INCREASE THE STRENGTH AND ENDURANCE OF WEAK, NERVOUS, CAREWORN, HAGGARD LOOKING WOMEN IN TWO WEEKS' TIME IN MANY INSTANCES.

THE CHILD'S APPEAL
said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. You are not strong or well because you owe it to yourself to make the most of the iron that is in your blood.

You can tell the women with plenty of iron in their blood—beautiful healthy rosy checked women full of life, vim and vitality following text: See how long you can walk or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything. Don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate, or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. The iron demanded by Mother Nature for the red coloring matter in the blood of her children, is also that kind of iron. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete and prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in the blood; while many another has gone down in ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, says that Physicians should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their patients—Anemia—iron deficiency is the greatest cause to the health, strength, vitality and beauty of the modern American Women—Sounds warning against use of metallic iron, which may injure the teeth, corrode the stomach, and in many cases do more harm than good; advises use of only Nuxated Iron.

MIXED QUARTETTE AT OPERA HOUSE

"Gypsy Songsters" Famous Quartette Delight Large Audiences—Four Other Sterling Acts.

Seldom has a St. John audience the privilege of hearing such a musical treat as was given at the Opera House yesterday by the "Gypsy Songsters." The quartette presented a singing novelty that today is the talk of the town, and will no doubt draw capacity houses today and Monday. Another big feature on the bill was Ward Brothers, two excellent comedians. The characters they assume are the "silly ass" type. An abundance of good-natured, clean fun is derived from their stupidity and this fun was interrupted by much vocal diversion. Other features that were received heartily included Al and Mrs. Joyce in a comedy skit "Bare Facts." Russell and Hayes in "Let's Sing," which proved to be one of the big surprises on the bill. Gertrude Morgan, a charming little miss, appeared in "A comedy song cycle" that was accorded hearty applause. The picture programme consisted of the popular Vitagraph serial "Purple Riders," Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon, and an interesting scenic subject. This programme will be continued tonight and Monday.

RUINED BY WILHELM.

Ex-Kaiser's Swiss Publishers Have Gone Bankrupt.

Berne, Sept. 17.—The ex-Kaiser's publisher in Switzerland, the leading Bernese publishing firm, has gone bankrupt. During the war this firm printed and distributed all propaganda publications for the German government and the ex-Kaiser. The cause of bankruptcy is said to be the large sums still owing the firm by Berlin and the ex-Emperor. The comment of certain Swiss newspapers on this failure is that dealings with William Hohenzollern have never boded any one any good.

VILLAGES SLIDING.

Swiss Mountain is Sinking—Inhabitants Moving.

Langan, Switzerland, Sept. 17.—A mountain slope in the Valle D'Annunzio, off the well-known and beautiful Val Maggia, which runs down to the Swiss side of Lake Maggiore, is gradually sinking downwards towards the valley so that two villages built on this slope respectively are threatening to collapse in the valley below. The inhabitants are leaving their homes for safety. Part of one village, Campo, has already been carried away by a landslide about fifty years ago, since which time this part of the mountain slope has been slowly but surely sinking, and lately has sunk on faster because the promontory on which this village is built has been seriously undermined by torrential rains. The valley and all the surrounding districts are wild, rocky and beautiful. Below the village there is a yawning gorge and it is feared that the whole mountainside with both villages will one day slide into the gorge.

SEVEN ARRESTS MADE FOR ERZBERGER CRIME

Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 17.—Seven men, all former active or reserve officers in the army or navy, have been arrested in connection with the murder of former Finance Minister Erzberger. They are: Manfred von Killinger, Erhard Kauter, Alois Hoffman, Herman Mueller, Fritz Henrichs, Carl Scheuder and John Leue. Sensational developments would seem to confirm the despatch of August 20 that Erzberger was condemned to die by a secret tribunal of fanatical nationalists.

OTHER TOWNS ENVY OUR PLAYGROUNDS

Exhibition Visitors Interested on Demonstration of Methods and Talked of Adopting Similar Plans When They Returned.

The summer playgrounds season was reviewed with much satisfaction, and plans were made for the winter activities at the meeting of the Playgrounds Association held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building, with the president, W. K. Haley, in the chair. Mr. Haley reported that no interview with the commissioner of public works regarding Rockwood playground had been arranged as yet, but that he believed the foundation of the track was now complete there.

A. M. Belding reported that the East End boys' club building had been used for demonstrating playgrounds work during the exhibition, as the Exhibition Association had disapproved of any motion picture entertainment being held in it to raise funds for the playgrounds.

Miss Heffer gave her report as supervisor of playgrounds. The average daily attendance at the playgrounds was 913, divided as follows:—Carleton, 272; Aberdeen, 173; Allison, 116; Alexandra, 105; Centennial, 93; and King George, 54.

King George playgrounds was due to parents being afraid to send their children to that neighborhood. No complaints of any kind were received from the Centennial grounds this summer.

At the exhibition, the children had given daily programmes and had shown and sold their handicraft work, netting $58.80 by the sale of handicraft and candy. Miss Heffer said she believed the activities of the playgrounds during the last two years had been a revelation to the public and inquiries had been received during the exhibition from residents of Fredericton, Woodstock and Amherst regarding steps to be taken in establishing playgrounds in those localities. For the first time, diplomas for their work had been awarded the playgrounds in St. John and each had received one diploma.

Miss Heffer suggested that the children should give a performance in the Imperial Theatre, demonstrating playgrounds work, and this met with the entire approval of the meeting. Contentment of the work of the East End-Boys' Club, Miss Heffer said it was difficult to do effective work there when boys and girls were not in the room and that room was very poorly heated. A smaller room, where meetings could be held and dramatics arranged, would be a valuable addition.

High tributes were paid Miss Heffer for her splendid manner of conducting the playgrounds and the Boys' Club. Among those who spoke in her praise were Mr. Belding, Mrs. W. C. Good, Mrs. George Disher, G. Fred Fisher and Mr. Haley. A committee was appointed to confer with Miss Heffer regarding the programme for the winter activities, and those named were Mr. Fisher suggested that it would be wise to have the estimates for the coming year prepared early in order that they might be submitted to the city council in January, if it was desired to ask those responsible for each of the playgrounds to look into the needs of the grounds under their care and to make a report at the next meeting. The care of equipment during the winter was spoken of, and arrangements made according to the needs.

These regulations are waived in favor of farm laborers and house servants and in favor of persons traveling to join their families. Entry of persons not in possession of a valid passport issued by the governments of their respective countries is prohibited. These passports must be presented within one year of their issue, and if not British passports must be viced by a British diplomatic or consular officer. FARMER, FEARING L.A.W. IS SEVERELY BEATEN

Gang Wanted His Permission to Store Liquor on His Farm. Windsor, Sept. 16—Fear for the law cost Hieman Kingham, a farmer, living on Reaume road, Sandwich West, a severe beating according to the story he told the Windsor police. He said he was attacked by several men, when he refused to allow them to store a load of liquor on his farm.

Kingham appeared at the station badly battered. Both eyes were nearly closed, and his scalp was cut with blows from a heavy instrument with which he was struck from behind.

He said the men appeared and tried to bargain with him for a place to store a quantity of liquor. Knowing the severity of the law in those caught in such business, he refused their offers of money. They then became angry and assaulted him, he said. He could not tell the exact number of men in the gang, but thought he knew where one of them lived.

LUMBERING WILL BE LIGHT THIS WINTER

Prospects for Employment in Woods are Not Bright, Says Sussex Paper—Some Concerns Will Carry On if Possible. (Sussex Record)

One of the things that has done much to insure unemployment in New Brunswick during the coming winter is the lack of demand for lumber. The lumber market took a bad slump about a year ago and since that time the call for lumber has been a very distant one. Many things have tended to kill the demand for lumber, but possibly the greatest drawback has been the excessive cost of building and the lack of ready money. Wages are still high at many points and it is impossible to construct a building with any hope of getting a remunerative return on the investment. Consequently persons who might entertain thoughts of building whether for themselves or for the purpose of investment are loath to engage in any enterprises of that character. Right here in Sussex there is a big scarcity of houses and a constant demand for suitable residences. However, there is not apt to be any great rush in building until such time as the building costs are somewhere near where a man investing his money can get interest on it. Of course, this is not only true of Sussex but it is true of other places. Gradually this condition is changing and sooner or later there will be a revival of activities in the building line and then lumber will move more rapidly.

However, the present conditions are what concern the public and hundreds of millions of feet of lumber are stored in the province which cannot be sold at the present moment. This lumber was all manufactured on the peak of the market when wages were at the highest and when the cost of selling lumber at present prices in view of the high cost of production is a mighty unprofitable transaction and the lumber concerns will have to make dollars in getting rid of their stocks.

Many of the largest lumber concerns are tied up for the want of working capital having borrowed all their money and these financial institutions care to lend in view of the declining prices on forest products. It is, therefore, a difficult matter for any lumber concern to finance operation during the coming winter and the outlook is that the largest lumber operations in the province will do very little at the lumber game.

The small individual operator who makes a cut of a few hundred thousand feet will also be off the market because in such a small cut the year disposal of all the lumber will result in a great deal of unemployment will result from this lack of activity. During the past few seasons there were many small cuts of pulp wood and these mills were operated for employment, in the aggregate, to a very large number of men. However, with little of the pulp wood cut last year disposed of in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and Quebec, the likelihood of any extensive pulp operations this winter is extremely remote.

There has been some lumber moved of late but the extent of that business is not sufficient to create optimism. It would seem that the bulk of the business to be done this year would be by lumber concerns who will have to do enough to keep their mills running. Every big lumber concern has a certain number of tenants and men which must be employed year after year to have them remain idle would be a direct loss. At the same time if they are employed it will be necessary to engage other hands as well and in that way it is possible and quite probable that there will be more or less business done in a quiet way. Some of the concerns are in a quiet way along this line but at the present moment they are not prepared to definitely state just what they will do. There are some lumber concerns who may let contracts on the understanding that the contractor will stake himself. In past years it has been the policy of the big lumber companies to issue supplies and carry the contractor. During 1921 and 1922 the situation will probably be reversed and the contractor will be asked to look after himself until such time as the lumber can be marketed, taking a lean on the logs he cuts. If this plan is adopted it might result in considerable more business being done. Many of the contractors have their outfit which cost them considerable money and to have it idle during the winter would be a great loss to them. It is, therefore, quite likely that some such arrangement will be made whereby contracts worked out it should open up an outlet for labor which at the present time is not definitely fixed. In addition to the operations of the lumber companies it is understood that at least some lumbering will be done where the sale of logs is assured. Of course these minor operations will be done practically within the owner's own forces and will represent but a small portion of the cut of the province. Within the next few weeks some more definite announcement may be made in regard to the outlook. It is to be hoped that wherever possible lumber operations will be carried on in order to relieve the unemployment which must be in evidence this winter. All the work possible will be needed in order to tide over the period between now and the spring.

BATHURST PULP MILL TO OPERATE AGAIN

The big pulp mill at Bathurst will re-open on October 1. This will give employment to about 400 men as twenty-four hour shifts will be resumed. The same company is constructing line kilns at the plant and will manufacture lime before Christmas. The kilns will have a capacity of forty tons a day. The re-opening of the pulp mill is due to the improved demand for Canadian pulp in the United States.

tional relations today by which a vast majority of the nations of the world bound together in an undertaking whose plan came largely from America—for certainly the League as it exists as part of the Treaty of Versailles, is the result of American participation in the Peace Conference—find their efforts to make this plan work almost hopelessly paralyzed by the fact that America will have nothing to do with it.

Where in history is there a parallel for such a state of affairs? It is all very well for American states-

European diplomats the coming Washington conference when someone mentioned the possibility of open sessions because that was the kind of diplomacy Americans like.

"What good jokers the Americans are," said a certain statesman. "Here is such talk coming from Washington a week after Washington has finished negotiating a treaty with Berlin in a secrecy none of us has ever excelled. Talk about open diplomacy and publicity for your disarmament conference does not fool anyone." And he added: "We are getting your number."

Now this able diplomat may have been all wrong, but his ideas represented the ideas of a vast majority of the European statesmen of today. They believe America now wants to play "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" politics, and if that is true then it is important to know that America's international friendships are not so numerous as they were. Perhaps, as Mr. Borah sees it, from Idaho, it does not make any difference. It is to help American readers to form their own conclusions that I have set down these impressions, those of a writer who has been in fairly close touch with the attitude of other nations towards America from the day the Fifth Marines marched up Chateau Thierry road down to the end of the first week of the second assembly of the League of Nations.

Robbed of Gratitude.

America is the greatest nation in the world from a material standpoint. From a moral standpoint she does not occupy the position she did at the end of the war. She is seen today in a different light. She is viewed with the respect due a nation of such power, but the idea helped along by the supposed spokesman for the present administration that after all America went into the war for her own selfish purposes, has served to rob her of the feeling of gratitude which used to exist. America as a source of high international political ideals has vanished for the present. Just an instant—less than three years ago—she was regarded as an exponent of open diplomacy, a criterion of a new regime in international affairs. Just the other day I was discussing with a group of

Most Disliked Nation. Such are the impressions that are being scattered all over the world and which in their reflection may help bring home to the United States the fact, unpleasant enough, that today it occupies a very disagreeable position in international relations. The conduct of America's foreign policy has, to put it bluntly, had the effect that whereas three years ago America was the most loved nation on earth, it is today perhaps the most disliked nation. Where are America's international political allies today? She has but two diplomatic friends, France and China. Germany's diplomatic support is in the market and she may be able to get that, but as matters stand today China, who sees in America an ally against Japan, and France, who would be a friend of the United States in any showdown, are our best bet.

England is an ally of Japan, our greatest international opponent. Italy still smarts from what she regards as unfair treatment from the American delegates at the Peace Conference. The Scandinavian countries included, see America as a nation trying to dictate to the whole world. On top of all Washington must count on the feeling of jealousy that several large South American countries hold towards the United States. The new nations of Central Europe look upon America somewhat as a stepfather who has abandoned them, and all the countries of the league are being told that America is killing the league because she wants her own league. Altogether the United States has a sorry international reputation.

There is more than one way to look at this truth. One is that America is a great and large country and self-sufficient; Europe owes her billions, she has most of the available gold supply of the world, and, to put it in slang, "we should worry." There is another way to set it. In addition to the fact that United States trade is suffering from the unstable conditions in Europe for which Europe likes to blame America's isolation, President Harding has called an international conference in Washington. Although called a disarmament conference it would be a great surprise to the majority of those diplomats who will attend it, if it does not turn into an occasion of international bargaining in which America will seek to better her position vis-a-vis Japan. That being so, America may need the diplomatic support of other nations. America holds the trump card of the Allied debts, but the very report that that card would be played arouses a resentment which may well measure the stability of any diplomatic edifice Secre-
