The Flour of The Family

For unflinching success in baking—for health—for economy—for every day satisfaction—"BEAVER" FLOUR is the pride of the pantry. It is a blend of the finest wheat—combines the food properties of one, with the bread-making qualities of the other. It is the only flour blended especially for home baking. This blending of two kinds of wheat into one flour, enables the housewife to get the best results. With for all your baking, the bread and biscuits will always be white and light—the cake and pastry will always be delicious and inviting.

"Beaver" Flour is always the same—always the best flour that money can buy. And the best costs no more than the next best.

Your grocer will get it for you if you specify "BEAVER" FLOUR whenever you order.

MUST STAND TRIAL FOR CHILD'S MURDER.

Hope Young and King Melanson Sent Up.

Elmer Young Tells the Story of His Evil Life—No Motive for the Crime is Shown.

With them here how happy I would be, for I am so lonesome. I cannot live without them. Oh Heavenly Father, wish that I only knew who it was that came and took my dear little ones away. They never would take another dear child.

On the wall appears the following: May Hope Young is not guilty of the crime that they charge her with. This is the truth and nothing but the truth. I am here on a criminal charge preferred against me by false witnesses. I hope God that the ones who stole my children and entered my home will be found out. Mary Hope Young is not guilty.

There also appears a very good sketch of a three-masted schooner with all sail set and near by a sketch of a man walking ahead of a woman, between which appears the words "Ain't this a sight."

DIQBY, N. S., June 27.—May Hope Young and Kingsley Melanson were taken to court for trial on the charge of murdering Mary Ward. The preliminary examination was got through with in one day, although the evidence of some twenty witnesses was taken. Nothing new was brought out in regard to the commission of the crime, but Marie Ward, Elmer E. Young and Hattie Hatfield gave their evidence.

Marie Ward said that in 1898, after keeping company a while, Young had told her they were married, and showed her a certificate stating that fact, and she did not know to the contrary till after the birth of May Ward, the murdered child, and another child which died in infancy. After learning she had been deceived, they had a disagreement and parted, and for some time the child was in the hands of first one and then another. Finally Hope Young disappeared, taking both children.

WINNIPEG, June 28.—Railway crop reports for the week ending June 28th are distinctly favorable. In a great majority of places, growing grain is doing well, while in some districts the growth is retarded by the heavy rainfall of the past ten days.

OTTAWA LETTER.

OTTAWA, June 28.—The interim report of the commissioners of the transcontinental railway, forwarded by the minister of the Interior, is a book of 152 pages and contains some things of interest and others that are mere padding. Some say some will arise capable of getting out a departmental statement that will tell in a nutshell all that the public wants to know.

Driving down between letters of instruction, audits of books, vouchers, proof and survey plans and that sort of thing, there are to be found some matters of local significance to New Brunswick with respect to the alleged Grand Trunk line from Quebec to Montreal. The report says: The first matter considered by the commission was as to what work should be undertaken during the then approaching autumn and winter. It was decided that as the Grand Trunk Railway Co. had been authorized to survey from Winnipeg east to a point somewhere north of North Bay, and as it might prove desirable to purchase the route from the Grand Trunk, it would be well for the line to be first directed its attention to placing in the field parties along the line from Montreal to Lake Abitibi.

With regard to the route across the province of New Brunswick, there was a great diversity of opinion as to whether a line across the centre of the province was obtainable at all, it was decided to run preliminary surveys from Montreal to Grand Falls by alternative routes, the one via Chipman, Fredericton and the valley of the St. John river to Grand Falls, and the other via the Abitibi, direct across the country to Grand Falls.

As there was also a diversity of opinion as to whether the line further west should be located by the St. Lawrence river and north of the Abitibi, or by the Mountain river and south of Lake Abitibi, it was decided to explore both of these lines.

It was also decided to ascertain if a location could be secured on the Clear down the River du Pointe to St. Michael and on to Joliette. Acting upon this determination, that portion of the eastern division of the transcontinental railway from Montreal to west of Lake Abitibi was divided into four districts, namely, A, B, C, and D.

District A, comprising that portion of the line between Montreal and the provincial boundary between the provinces of New Brunswick and Quebec, District B, extending between the said provincial boundary line to Clear Lake, the exception of a portion in the vicinity of the Quebec bridge, hereinafter referred to. District C, extending from Clear Lake to or near the provincial boundary line between the provinces of Quebec and Ontario (east of Lake Abitibi). District D, from the western boundary of district C, to near longitude 84 degrees west.

It was deemed desirable that, out of district E, a separate section should be formed, including that portion of the line on the south side of the St. Lawrence river between the southerly end of the proposed Quebec bridge and the junction of the line with the Intercolonial, and from the northerly end of said bridge westward to the boundary line between the counties of Quebec and Portneuf.

With regard to the "line secured through N. B. and Eastern Quebec," the report says: A vegetable medicine, and only requires touching the tongue with it occasionally. Price 32.

The commission feels that it should make special reference to the work which has been accomplished in connection with the surveys from Montreal to Chaudiere. It has been ascertained and believed for many years that a line could not be secured across the centre of New Brunswick, with grades equal to the Intercolonial Railway, or any other line of the same length.

Address or consult Dr. McTaggart, 75 Yonge street, Toronto, Canada.

It was also asserted that it would be necessary to use one per cent or heavier grades the remainder of the way to Chaudiere. On the other hand, it was claimed that these difficulties did not exist; that the surveys which had apparently established them had not followed the right direction, or had not exhausted the possibilities of the territory traversed.

In taking up this part of the work, the commissioners decided to have an exhaustive and minute examination made of the country, and to acquire and present such information as would definitely settle and determine these conflicting contentions. We deemed it best to ascertain beyond doubt what was right and which was wrong in order that the public mind would be set at rest. To this end we directed our engineers to make the most exhaustive and careful explorations and surveys, so that having written or said they would be able to make complete and decisive statements.

The first of the surveying parties were placed in the field on the 27th day of September last and continued at work through the whole winter (the most rigorous and with the heaviest snow fall in that part of the country within the memory of living man), and as a result we are in a position to state that we have secured a line from Montreal to Chaudiere, with a maximum grade of four per cent to east-bound freight and six opposed to west-bound freight, and with a maximum estimate of $38,000,000.

OTTAWA, June 27.—The house made exceptional progress with business yesterday, although the afternoon session was mostly taken up on Mr. Foster's initiative in discussing the notes of the late of an officer of the Intercolonial, Alberta, as a land agent, caretaker of the immigration building there and quite often as a land agent. The department of the Interior under the management of Hon. Clifford Sifton and Deputy Minister Smart was pretty well peppered with escapades by subordinate officials who were rewarded for their party work by being suspended or dismissed, and almost instantly thereafter reappointed to their old jobs or given better positions, in each case with increased remuneration. Mr. Foster did not depend for his information respecting the Nixon case on outside information, but based his statements largely on the official report made by a government officer, who put the defaulting of the Nixon case in the hands of the minister. The report appears to be at all-ours with the Thesalon post office job. In the one instance the responsible offender put the blame on his little daughter; in the other the minister was the scapegoat sent into the wilderness. When the government agent who headed the Macleod inquiry looked for the little girl and could not find him, he reported that the little whereabouts were unknown, yet all this time the youngster was not over 40 miles away, and has since then been residing in Macleod, presumably beneath his father's roof. Mr. Foster held up the minister of the Interior and the government with the following emphatic statement:

"It will be found out if this boy was not of age, it will be found out if an investigation is held, that Mr. Nixon has been stealing for years, and knows it, and that the people who live in Macleod know it, and have been. Now then, what is the minister going to do about it? Is he going to adopt this principle and carry it out, and if gentlemen, I did not appear in Macleod, I would be carrying it and attempting to throw the guilt up on his little boy, that such a man is going unpunished? Is the minister going to establish this code of ethics? This is a class of people of whom you are going to get your employees for the Dominion government? That is the whole question which is before this house. It is the same as the Jackson case, to people out and magnified in another. There you took a man who was a public criminal, and you made him your $3,000 agent to represent Canada in the old country, to keep him there yet so he had a case when the Hon. G. W. Ross was attacked for it in the late elections in the province of Ontario, his only answer was that he was a gentleman, I did not appear in Macleod, I would be carrying it and attempting to throw the guilt up on his little boy, that such a man is going unpunished? Ross was attacked for it in the late elections in the province of Ontario, his only answer was that he was a gentleman, I did not appear in Macleod, I would be carrying it and attempting to throw the guilt up on his little boy, that such a man is going unpunished? Is the minister going to establish this code of ethics? This is a class of people of whom you are going to get your employees for the Dominion government? That is the whole question which is before this house. It is the same as the Jackson case, to people out and magnified in another. SERMON.

The Unseen Friend;

By DR. WILLIAM R. HUNTINGTON.

The Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington preached at Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. He took for his text the words of Peter 1:8: "Whom having not seen ye love." He said:

In all the Bible there are few, if any, more winning words than these; they go straight to the heart. Their power lies in the combination which they exhibit of down-right simplicity of speech with profound mystery of meaning. Deep waters are not always clear, but here is an instance when through an absolutely pellucid medium we look down into cavernous depths hopelessly fathomless to man. Yes, further the eye penetrates the more the mind, back of the eye, is persuaded that there are soundings deeper still. "Whom having not seen, ye love."

Look, first, at the simplicity of the suggestion. Notice how St. Peter resolves the whole of the matter of the Christian religion, we may almost say, into an affair of personal loyalty. What worth work it makes of the cobwebs of controversial divinity! How it seems to say to all the current philosophies of religion on the shelf! The gospel thus read seems to be a significant announcement that if we will only believe it man has a heavenly friend upon whom he can count, in whom he can confide on whom he can lean. As a child Simon Peter had been taught that God was greatly to be feared; as a man he had learned that God was also greatly to be loved; and the medium through which this new knowledge had come to him had been Jesus, the Christ, Peter, moreover, when he discovered friendship, knew what he was about. His feelings were of the deepest fervor. Underneath the rugged exterior there abode the heart of a very man. He knew what loyalty meant, and all the better for having once at a memorable crisis lagged into captivity. Had he not been large hearted he could not have held the premier position among the twelve, as he did. Men follow leaders because they love them; they follow because they love their love will they not follow? Therefore, quite in line with Peter's temperament that he should resolve all religion into loyalty and make the test of being a good Christian hinge on the measure of his personal love for Christ, it was on that basis that the little company of followers, which afterward grew into that mighty organization, the Christian Church, was wisely brought together. They felt the attraction and personal charm of Jesus so intensely that they were not only willing, but glad to give up everything if only to be in His society. There were, of course, gradations of discipleship, but all were under the power of the individual disciple, but all the while the standard of measure was love. Those stood nearest to the king who best loved the king. Affection, not knowledge, was the test.

How far we are from this conception of what the Christian religion in its essence really is, unless we take the greatest care. There are so many things that tempt us to slip into some analysis than with the life to which the word contributes. And yet all the while it is the truth that the life is more than the word and the body more than the soul. The heart of worship, for example, they are of the very greatest importance in connection with religion, but how to draw near to God is the question of real moment. Those who are content with lofty discourses are almost sure, first or last, to lapse into irreverence. Worship is, so to say, part of the manners of religion, and we know that people who affect a certain manner, who recognize no distinction between good and bad manners, are themselves the losers by their carelessness. Yet at the same time we also know that to devote one's whole attention to the study of manners, to make one's self the slave of etiquette means the dwarfing of manhood, the deforming of womanhood and the degrading of childhood. Manners are but the flowering of the plant, and if we would help the plant we must help it, not through the flowers, but through the roots. Even so, if we let the practice of religion pass to the study of ceremonial, let worship become centered in rubric rather than in the radiant heart, and that simply means confusing the question of how to do with the more urgent question, how best to pray. So again in discipline, the making of laws and codes and statutes the main duty of the church. For the main duty of the Christian church is to bring individual souls into right relations with God. If this can be accomplished and men can be persuaded to love the heavenly Friend, as they should do, what need of devising rules and regulations; what need of canons of discipline and ecclesiastical codes? Yet, again, no serious mind can fail to see the value of creeds and formulas of faith. A religion which professes to have no need of articles of faith, which scorns all defenses of statement, and would fling away everything that resembles dogma into the melting pot, if it could, is not a religion that will wear. It does not follow that we are to treat the Gospel of Christ mainly as a collection of statements, and to be setting forth of certain truth about God and the soul. It is that, but it is more than that; it is a friendship.

"Whom having not seen ye love." These various instrumentalities which religion employs, and of which I have been speaking, have their uses and value. The worship provides the life to the form of utterance of expression; the law teaches by the greatest good of the greatest number may be believed; the creed reminds us of the grounds on which the life rests, for the soul must have before it the picture of the loved one; the sacraments will fuse out and be forgotten. The very best essence of the Apostles' Creed is that it is the portrait of the Christ. But

Where Men Get Hurt

ALBERT COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT OPENED YESTERDAY.

HOPEWELL HILL, June 28.—The June session of the Albert circuit court opened at the shiretown at 4 p. m. today, his honor, Chief Justice Tuck, presiding. There was little business, and a small attendance. There was no criminal matter and the only cause on the docket was that of Albert J. Gray v. Stillman Ayres, non-jury case. This was an action of trespass, involving titles of land, and was undefended, resulting in a verdict for the plaintiff $100. W. B. Chandler appeared for the plaintiff.

In his honor's address to the grand jury, his honor commented on the absence of crime, and also referred to the somewhat unfortunate condition of affairs by which the members of the grand jury were compelled to journey from the most remote portions of the county, often in inclement weather, without remuneration of any kind.

MISPEC MILL MATTER AGAIN.

The water and sewerage board were engaged yesterday for a considerable time in hearing the proposed agreement between the city and Stetson, Cutler & Co. relative to the terms of the lease of the Mispec mill property. The records read over a considerable number of clauses. A discussion took place on the question of insurance and the retention in the mill of the present machinery. It was finally decided that a committee consisting of the mayor, the engineer, director, Mr. Macrae and Frink should meet in the mayor's office on Friday morning at 11 o'clock and the committee should report to the board.

Mr. Hunter, engineer of the water works, was called upon to report on the proposed plan to make use of a borrow pit on the Desmond property. This will facilitate work, he said. Mr. Hunter said he needed an inspector and would take Mr. Frink to the house in need for Mr. Lee, engineer.

The matter was left to a committee, composed of the director, engineer and Ald. Macrae.

Charles Hanneberry, upon vote, was chosen an inspector of the wood stove pipe at three dollars per day.

Ald. Goldrick handed in a bill of $30 for water at the Mount Pleasant avenue convent. The alderman said the place was not in use, and they feel that the bill is excessive. This was the first bill sent them.

It was remarked that the Deaf and Dumb institution was not exempted, and the same rule applied here.

Ald. Pickett moved that a committee be appointed to look into all those houses in Mt. Pleasant in a similar condition.—Carried.

FREDERICTON NEWS.

FREDERICTON, June 28.—Today's Royal Gazette contains notice of application for incorporation by Howard D. Troop, John D. Troop, and Charles Troop, Chas. McL. Troop and Lizzie C. McLoughlin, all of St. John, as Troop & Son, Limited. The object of the company is to take over and run the business now carried on by Troop & Son. The principal place of business is to be at Rothesay. Capital $50,000, divided into 500 shares.

Notice is published of the assignment of Dominique L. Goguen of Cocagne, N. B.

A special sitting of the supreme court in equity will be held at Ansover July 13 next.

The annual meeting of the Caraguet Railway Company is called for July 18 at Bathurst.

The case of the crown against Riggs has occupied the circuit court all day. On adjournment this evening Judge Landry was delivering his charge to the jury. He will finish in the morning. The witnesses who gave testimony in the preliminary examination all gave evidence today. The prisoner was the only witness for the defense. He denied absolutely having ever written threatening letters. He is conducting his own case, and his address to the jury was unique.

When Seven Men Die

You know at least one of them had consumption. At first it was only a cough—but it was neglected. When 'catarrh' cures so quickly it's foolish to suffer—it's a shame to keep on sniffing and hawking. Catarrh ozone goes direct to the cause of the disease—that's why it's so dead certain to cure. It stops the cough, prevents that disgusting discharge, clears phlegm out of the throat in five minutes. Very pleasant, and safe too; get Catarrh ozone from your druggist today.

NOTHING NEW AT WOOD INQUEST.

CAMPBELLTON, N. B., June 28.—Your correspondent was informed by Coroner Donnelly this evening that although a number of witnesses were examined today in the Wood inquest, no new developments were brought out. The hope entertained at the close of yesterday's enquiry that something might be added today that would clear up the mystery has not been realized, but the coroner still feels sanguine of the ultimate result. The statement made by Arthur Corbett about his room mate on the night of the explosion was today examined and found to be somewhat misleading. The man himself testified that he carried a stick because he was lame, and gave a satisfactory account of himself during the night. It is expected the investigation will be concluded on Friday.

EARTHQUAKE WAS TERRIBLE.

Reports from India Say the Effect Was Far Worse Than Was at First Reported.

CALCUTTA, June 28.—Reports from Gurkhas, Dharmasala, are to the effect that the earthquake in that section of India is far worse than at first imagined. For instance the report of Major Arthur Hatch says:—"Early in the morning we were startled by a violent rocking, followed by stones falling and dust and showers of cement. We got out of the bedroom window, which fell outward into the verandah, but not seeing me rushed in. This saved her life, for the verandah fell flat the instant after. It was pinned down by the debris, and the stones on the edge of the bed calling me, sat on falling all the time. What saved me was the iron rails of the roof of the bedroom; these fell in one side and formed a pent house, through the corner of which we escaped, our servants, good fellows, rushing in, and pulling us out. The house is a ruin, tumbled down by the debris, and every house in the station flat as a pancake. The tale of death is terrible. That afternoon I read the burial service over eleven Europeans put into graves, these being the only ones in bedclothes—two colonel's wife and two daughters, the wife of Holderness, a subaltern just come out, and a lady and her daughter, some children from the civil list. Captain Clay of the Gurkhas, and my dear old friend, Captain Muscroft, who had only come up the night before. We have lost 75 men in the 2nd battalion 1st Gurkhas, and the 13th some 250. The whole valley is a scene of devastation and death. We have been digging out corpses for days and can go on no more."

Thank God, however, we escaped, and for those who escaped like us. We are engaged in the work of reconstruction. I think we feel shocked every hour. We and some of the officers are camped on my lawn, and my Gurkhas are digging out our property, some of which is being recovered, but the hotel is utterly gone. We have had telegrams of sympathy from everywhere."

A lady who was at Dharmasala writes:—"Our baby had a most miraculous escape; not a scratch, though she was nearly suffocated, and I thought would die in my arms; her face and mouth were smothered with dust and grit. I was in the train, and I tried to protect her from the falling masonry, which poured down on my back and head. I was dazing at about 6.10 a. m. when the house suddenly began to rattle in its foundations. I picked up the baby and thought I must fly to the nursery and get the children out of the house, and then I was on the floor by the side of the bed, with masonry pouring down on my back and head. I never expected to come out alive, and I could only pray that the end might not be too prolonged, and I felt that another five minutes and I should be suffocated. A miracle saved my life, as it fell forward and was struck by some beams which formed a pent roof over me. I shouted for help. My servants behaved splendidly, but at first did not hear my calling."

REV. MR. BAMFORD INDUCTED.

A large congregation gathered in the Carleton Baptist church last evening to attend the induction services of the new pastor, Rev. F. S. Bamford. The address of welcome was read by the clerk, Mr. Strange. It extended a hearty greeting to the new pastor, and Mr. Bamford replied in a few words, thanking the congregation for their kindness.

Rev. D. Hutchinson then delivered the charge to the church. He said that the congregation were to be congratulated in having such a man as with great ability and high character to do a large trade with Canada. He impressed on his hearers that Canada's manufacturing interests were greater than those of agriculture and kindred industries. His allusions to Fielding's "Tom Jones" and Milton's "Lycidas" proposal were received with enthusiasm. Different parties of the manufacturers visited various factories and tonight they will be officially received by the lord mayor.

The pastor then made an eloquent and scholarly address in reply and the service closed with the benediction.

DISEASE IN G. T. P. SURVEY CAMP.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 28.—Scoury has broken out seriously among crews in Quebec province employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific surveys. Three men are now in the hospital and over thirty others are affected. The trouble is due to the inferior and unwholesome food served in the camps, and it is said the chief contractor for supplies threw up the job on the ground that the men could not live on the rations he had to furnish.

J. O. Smith, commissioner of immigration, and E. F. Stephenson, crown timber inspector, of Winnipeg, today on behalf of the interior department officials of Western Canada, presented Hon. Clifford Sifton with three costly silver salvers as tokens of their esteem. There were 206 contributors. Sifton thanked the donors and said no person could have more loyal and efficient staff than that which supported him from 1896 to 1905.

Logan of Cumberland, is rapidly improving. He has left the hospital and is now at his home, where Arthur enjoys pure air and cheerful surroundings.

N. S. GOVERNMENT REORGANIZED.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 27.—Hon. T. W. Phips has been appointed to the portfolio of commissioner of works and mines of Nova Scotia, and Hon. Arthur Drysdale, who held the position of commissioner of works and mines, has been appointed attorney general of Nova Scotia in place of J. W. Longley, who received a judgeship.

FEAR ESCAPE OF GAYNOR AND GREENE.

MONTREAL, June 28.—Now that it appears that the escape of Gaynor and Greene will be compelled to return to the United States and stand trial, it is apparently feared that they will make an attempt to bribe some of the keepers of the Montreal jail where they are now confined, and attempt to make their escape. That is the only explanation of the orders received by Jailer Valle from the attorney general this morning, which is cautioned to see that his prisoners do not escape. He is even instructed that if he has not men enough at his disposal to engage the extra assistance required, Jailer Valle does not think there is any danger of Gaynor and Greene making their escape, but he is not ignoring any precautions and notices having been posted throughout the prison ordering guards to report any suspicious signs they may see.

DETECTIVE POWER WORKING ON PLYMPTON TRAGEDY.

Elmer Young Refused Permission to Take Baby Elma—Hattie Hatfield Won't Go With Him.

DIGBY, N. S., June 28.—Detective Power, of Halifax, who has a reputation through Nova Scotia for unravelling mysteries in connection with criminal cases, arrived here this afternoon, and will enter the authorities in the Plympton murder affair.

Hattie Hatfield is still in town, but Marie Ward left for Boston today. The former said that since she has learned the character of the man she would not again travel with such a man.

This morning Elmer Young attempted to get possession of baby Elma, but the authorities intend to keep it at the almshouse until after the September trial. Young spent part of last evening in the law office of Nichols & Nichols, with an legal business man on some point of international law.

Young left Digby this afternoon on the express for Yarmouth. He said he did not intend to go direct to Boston, but would stop off at Yarmouth. As Young's extension of his train before she pulled out of the station a crowd of people walked up and down the platform trying to get a glimpse of the notorious American.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS WELCOMED.

SHEFFIELD, England, June 28.—Sheffield's reception to the Canadian manufacturers fully equalled those they have received in other places. A magnificent luncheon was prepared in Cutlers' Hall, where Mr. Ballantyne, replying to the toast of the C. M. A., pointed out that Sheffield's trade with Canada on account of preference had realized the last seven years. He expressed the opinion that Sheffield ought to put it to still greater advantage. The United States, though at 50 per cent. disadvantage compared with Great Britain, still manages to do a large trade with Canada. He impressed on his hearers that Canada's manufacturing interests were greater than those of agriculture and kindred industries. His allusions to Fielding's "Tom Jones" and Milton's "Lycidas" proposal were received with enthusiasm. Different parties of the manufacturers visited various factories and tonight they will be officially received by the lord mayor.
